
AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2022 with funding from Kahle/Austin Foundation

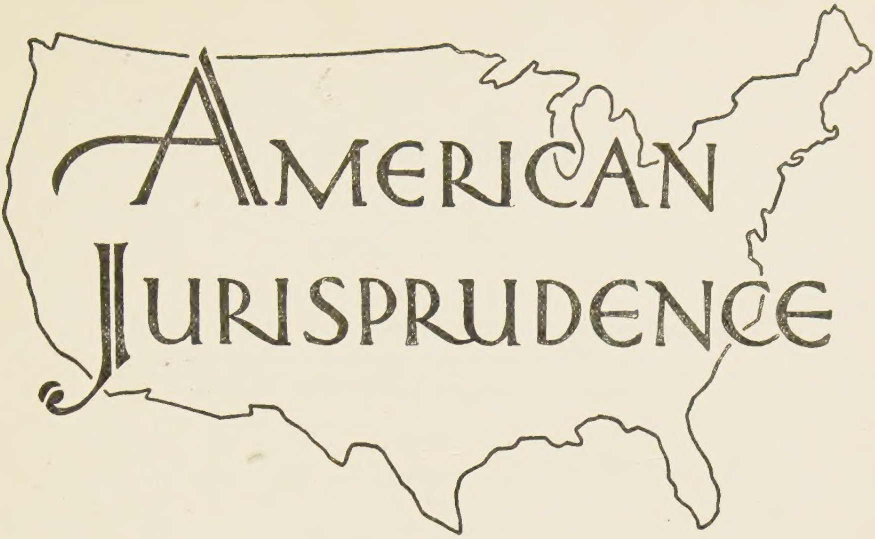
https://archive.org/details/americanjurispru0005edit

AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE

CITE BY TITLE AND SECTION

e. g., 5 Am. Jur., Attachment and Garnishment, § ______



AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE

A COMPREHENSIVE TEXT STATEMENT OF AMERICAN CASE LAW, AS DEVELOPED IN THE CASES AND ANNOTATIONS IN THE ANNOTATED REPORTS SYSTEM, BEING A REWRITING OF Ruling Case Law TO REFLECT THE MODERN DEVELOPMENTS OF THE LAW

By the Editorial Staff of the Publishers

Volume 5

ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT, §§ 655 TO END
TO AUTOMOBILES

BANCROFT-WHITNEY COMPANY · SAN FRANCISCO · CALIFORNIA
THE LAWYERS CO-OPERATIVE PUBLISHING COMPANY
ROCHESTER · NEW YORK

Copyright 1936

JURISPRUDENCE PUBLISHERS, INC.

aw /Cons — Law /Cons

Editorial Board

Editor in Chief

WILLIS A. ESTRICH,
Editor in Chief of The Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company
Editor of Ohio Jurisprudence, Carmody's New York
Practice, and Standard Pennsylvania Practice

Managing Editor

GEORGE S. GULICK,
Managing Editor of The Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company
Managing Editor of Ohio Jurisprudence, Carmody's New York Practice, and Standard Pennsylvania Practice.

Consulting Editors

WILLIAM M. McKINNEY,
Editor in Chief of Bancroft-Whitney Company
Editor of Ruling Case Law, Federal Statutes Annotated, McKinney's
New York Consolidated Laws, California Jurisprudence, Texas Jurisprudence, McKinney's California Digest.

GEORGE H. PARMELE,
Editor in Chief of The Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company
Editor American Law Reports, Lawyers' Reports Annotated, Parmele's Wharton on Conflict of Laws.

Assisted by the Permanent Editorial Staff of the Publishers

TABLE OF ABBREVIATIONS

See Vol. 1, Page xi

TABLE OF PARALLEL REFERENCES

This table shows where the subject-matter of the various sections in RULING CASE LAW is treated in AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE. Transfers to other articles are so indicated.

The reader should consult the indexes to AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE for detail and for new matter not appearing in RULING CASE LAW.

ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT

2 R.C.L. §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
1	1, 3, 6
2	18, 19, 20
3	20, 21
4	9–12
5	40–87
6	22–26
7	14–17
8	124
9	125, 126
10	127
11	334, 336, 450
12	130, 338, 349
13	127
14	90, 111
15	89, 111
16	112, 113
17	96, 101
18	106–110
19	103
20	122
21	423
22	424, 425
23	426–431
24	432–444
25	445, 447
26	446
27	448
28	461, 462
29	464, 465, 466
30	467–472
31	449–454
32	475
33	86
34	85
35	41–44
36	474, 482, 483
37	485–501
38	501
39	490
40	495
41	499
42	500
43	497
44	494
45	487, 488, 489
46	484
47	901–930
48	504
49	512–515
50	510
51	516–526
52	516–526
53	517, 518, 519
54	590–593
55	594–602
56	603–607
57	608–615
58	941
59	942, 943
60	58, 944, 945, 946
61	49, 947
62	949, 950, 951
63	952
64	953
65	954–959
66	APPEAL AND ERROR
67	815, 825–828
68	820–824
69	839–842
70	840
71	829–838
72	843, 844
73	845–863
74	880–891
75	843–863
76	873
77	892
78	973–983
79	824
80	623, 624
81	622–631
82	628
83	625
84	643–654
85	647
86	632–642
87	637
88	633
89	616–621
90	646–654
91	635, 639, 653
92	651, 652
93	APPEAL AND ERROR
94	970
95	971
96	975
97	975, 976
98	975, 976
99	980
100	973, 974, 978–983
101	899
102	911, 993, 994
103	898, 993, 994
104	913–919, 995, 1003
105	914, 915, 995
106	920–926, 996
107	926–930, 1019–1040
108	928, 1031
109	929, 1032–1037
110	912, 1005–1018
111	984, 985
112	986, 987
113	998, 999
114	993–996
115	1005–1018
116	988–992
117	1024–1029
118	997–1004
119	1019–1031
120	1030, 1031
121	1033
122	1009–1013
123	1006, 1007

12 R.C.L. GARNISHMENT §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
1	1
2	4
3	4
4	5
5	9–13
6	88–122
7	123–126
8	133, 134, 155, 156, 820–823
9	190–193
10	163
11	246, 247
12	232, 233
13	248–251
14	345, 346
15	234–241
16	360–385
17	360–385
18	222–230
19	351, 352
20	259–277
21	278–283
22	187, 342, 410
23	196
24	197–204
25	198, 199
26	206–209
27	333–337
28	164, 188
29	187, 197
30	205
31	316–326
32	327–332
33	293–315
34	293–315
35	254–258
36	341
37	212–214
38	210
39	386
40	396–399
41	387–395
42	400–403
43	407, 408
44	409
45	410–422
46	404
47	40, 41, 42
48	44
49	48, 71, 803
50	63–75
51	63–67
52	704, 705
53	722–726
54	896–900
55	707
56	711
57	709, 722–731
58	732
59	733–737
60	712–721
61	712–721
62	753
63	754–761
64	759, 760
65	770–778
66	777
67	783, 784
68	786, 787, 788
69	778
70	780
71	780, 880, 881
72	772–785
73	762, 763
74	765–769
75	789–812
76	813
77	814
78	APPEAL AND ERROR
79	138, 139, 140
80	141–149
81	143
82	144, 145
83	146
84	407
85	150, 151
86	152
87	154
88	135

ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT—

12 R.C.L. Garnishment §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
89	817–828
90	829–895
91	841
92	659–679
93	659–679
94	161, 162, 672a
95	162, 673, 686
96	659–679
97	678, 679
98	801, 817, 820, 984–1040
99	800, 802
100	680–686, 696–701, 783, 784, 800, 804–811
101	702, 812
102	970
103	970, 975
104	752, 964
105	964
106	738
107	747–751
108	901–930
109	738–751
110	741
111	993–996
112	901–930

17 R.C.L. Levy and Seizure §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
1	527
2	56, 536
3	167
4	171, 172
5	173
6	169
7	215, 217, 218
8	216
9	170
10	174, 175, 176
11	177
12	167, 178
13	163
14	163

17 R.C.L. Levy and Seizure §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
15	163–166
16	184, 185, 186
17	180, 181
18	360
19	362, 363
20	364, 365
21	372
22	384, 385
23	369–382
24	187
25	260, 262, 265, 266, 284–288
26	351, 352, 353
27	354
28	210 214
29	240
30	241
31	234, 235
32	236–239
33	238
34	239
35	231, 234, 235, 240, 241
36	232, 233
37	386–395
38	389, 390
39	392
40	393
41	215, 343
42	338 349
43	355–359
44	357, 358
45	344
46	345, 346, 347
47	348
48	349
49	165, 168
50	187
51	289, 246–251
52	220, 221
53	223
54	224
55	225
56	245
57	245
58	226

17 R.C.L. Levy and Seizure §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
59	227
60	165, 227
61	228
62	219
63	410, 411, 412
64	412–421
65	412–421
66	242
67	164
68	182
69	179
70	166; Homesteads
71	578, 579, 580
72	528
73	529
74	532
75	87, 531
76	558
77	536–566
78	537–540
79	540
80	551, 552
81	553, 554
82	555
83	593
84	556
85	538
86	557
87	559
88	559
89	566
90	559
91	172, 559
92	351, 352, 564
93	563
94	567–577
95	571, 587, 597
96	572, 573
97	574–577
98	85, 86, 581–586
99	568
100	579, 580
101	Execution
102	Execution

17 R.C.L. Levy and Seizure §§	4 and 5 Am.Jur. §§
103	560
104	578
105	580
106	581–586
107	581–586
108	587, 591
109	588
110	589
111	541–550
112	815, 825
113	816
114	545
115	85, 86, 828, 957
116	622–645
117	542–548, 624
118	590, 591, 594–607
119	592
120	591; Sheriffs
121	594–607
122	597
123	602
124	595
125	607
126	594–607; Sheriffs
127	603–607
128	608–615
129	615
130	Sheriffs
131	542
132	543
133	931
134	932
135	933–937
136	901–930
137	901–930
138	913
139	908, 920–925, 934–937
140	925, 936
141	905–910
142	911
143	911
144	913–919

ATTORNEY-GENERAL

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
1	2
2	3
3	4
4	5

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
5	6, 8, 13, 15
6	7
7	9
8	10, 11

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
9	14
10	12, 13
11	Injunction
12	17

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
13	16
14	18
15	19, 20
16	21

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
1	1
2	10
3	5
4	6, 7
5	14, 16
6	15
7	19
8	20, 21
9	21
10	23
11	24
12	22
13	25

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
14	27
15	27
16	28
17	12
18	12
19	13
20	12
21	12, 13
22	11
23	Process
24	11
25	29
26	31, 32

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
27	30
28	33
29	34, 35, 36
30	39, 40
31	37, 38
32	41
33	42
34	43
35	44
36	44
37	44
38	74
39	75, 76

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
40	76, 77
41	78
42	48, 49, 52
43	49
44	Fraudulent Conveyances
45	51
46	53
47	58, 59, 62
48	60, 62
49	59, 61
50	63
51	64

ATTORNEYS AT LAW—continued

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
52	65
53	66
54	67, 68, 70
55	71
56	72, 73
57	79
58	80
59	80, 82
60	81
61	83
62	84
63	85
64	86
65	87, 88
66	89
67	95
68	91, 92
69	93, 94
70	100
71	101
72	97
73	69
74	88
75	98
76	Compromise and Settlement
77	98
78	99
79	96
80	116, 117, 118
81	119, 246
82	102
83	103
84	104
85	105
86	106
87	107, 110, 111
88	108
89	112
90	109
91	115
92	113
93	111
94	114
95	120, 121, 124–127
96	122
97	126
98	128
99	130
100	129
101	131
102	133
103	137
104	135, 136
105	138, 139
106	140
107	142
108	143, 144
109	145
110	146
111	147
112	148
113	Costs
114	153
115	154, 155
116	158
117	157
118	Husband and Wife; Infants; Insane and Other Incompetent Persons
119	Corporations; Public Officers
120	160, 161, 162
121	163–167
122	55, 176
123	56, 176
124	57, 176
125	54, 166
126	54, 116, 173
127	152, 177
128	178
129	195, 196, 197
130	198
131	171–174, 200–203
132	171
133	175, 201
134	173, 203, 204
135	180
136	155
137	206
138	207; Also Partnership
139	181, 182
140	181
141	187
142	188
143	188, 189
144	188
145	190
146	191
147	192
148	168
149	169, 170
150	208, 209
151	210
152	211
153	212
154	213
155	214
156	215
157	216, 217
158	218
159	219, 220
160	221
161	222
162	223
163	224
164	225, 226
165	227, 228, 229
166	230–233
167	234
168	238, 241
169	239, 240
170	236, 237
171	232
172	229
173	228
174	242
175	247
176	243
177	244, 245
178	248
179	249, 251, 253
180	249
181	257
182	259
183	262, 263
184	264, 265, 266
185	265, 266
186	267
187	268-271
188	269, 270, 271
189	270
190	272–275
191	285
192	276–278
193	279, 280
194	281, 282, 283
195	284
196	286, 289, 291
197	287
198	290
199	286, 288
200	291, 292
201	296, 297, 298
202	299
203	254, 255, 256
204	300, 301
205	301

AUCTIONS

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
1	1
2	2
3	8–10, 12, 20, 33
4	3–6
5	8, 30, 31, 32
6	11, 30, 31
7	14
8	15
9	16
10	18, 20
11	17, 19
12	21
13	22
14	25
15	23, 24
16	26
17	27
18	17
19	28, 29
20	35, 36
21	30–33
22	34
23	38, 39
24	40
25	41
26	42
27	43
28	44
29	45
30	46
31	47, 48, 49
32	50
33	52, 53
34	54
35	55
36	56
37	57, 58, 59
38	60

AUDITA QUERELA

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
1	1
2	2
3	3
4	4
5	5

AUTOMOBILES

2 R.C.L. §§	5 Am.Jur. §§
1	2
2	10–14
3	3–9
4	Highways, Streets and Sidewalks
5	Highways, Streets and Sidewalks
6	Bridges
7	16, 22, 23
8	17, 18
9	19
10	20, 68–88
11	90–150
12	37–45
13	63, 65
14	48–57
15	148, 149, 150, 153–156
16	66
17	67
17a	8, 50, 60, 61, 79, 98; Motor Transportation

AUTOMOBILES—continued

2 R.C.L.	5 Am.Jur.	2 R.C.L.	5 Am.Jur.	2 R.C.L.	5 Am.Jur.	2 R.C.L.	5 Am.Jur.
§§	§§	§§	§§	§§	§§	§§	§§
18	165–186	29	286–342	36	605–664	44a	586, 595
19	168, 202	30	334–340	37	630, 651, 652	45	GARAGES, PARKING STATIONS AND LIVERIES
20	169	31	171–176	37a	643, 644
21	187 228	32	259 260	38
22	184	32a	252–255	39	350	46	GARAGES, PARKING STATIONS AND LIVERIES
22a	265	32b	273–279	39a	349
22b	183	32c	181	40	HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND SIDEWALKS
22c	343	32d	178, 179, 180			47	755–834
23	266	33	353–406			47a	766–776, 814
24	11, 12	33a	365–372	41	321; RAILROADS	48	787–797, 815
25	164	34	360, 361	42	420–438	48a	763, 764, 765–812
26	205, 259 263	35	356, 357, 358	42a	311–320
27	204, 253	35a	391, 392	43	494, 502	48b	809
28	267	35b	229–243	44	139 149

TITLES IN THIS VOLUME

(Italics indicate cross-reference titles)

PAGE
ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT (§§ 655 to end) 1
Attempts 230
Attestation 230
ATTORNEY GENERAL 231
Attorney in Fact 254
ATTORNEYS AT LAW 255
Attornment 444
Attractive Nuisances 444
AUCTIONS 445
AUDITA QUERELA 491
Auditors 494
Automobile Filling Station 494
Automobile Insurance 494
AUTOMOBILES 495

AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE

VOLUME 5

ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT

(Continued)

I. INTRODUCTORY (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

II. JURISDICTION IN ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT PROCEEDINGS (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

III. CLAIMS AND ACTIONS ENFORCEABLE BY ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

IV. PERSONS WHO MAY INVOKE REMEDY (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

V. PERSONS AGAINST WHOM REMEDY MAY BE INVOKED (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

VI. PERSONS CHARGEABLE AS GARNISHEES OR IN WHOSE POSSESSION PROPERTY MAY BE ATTACHED OR GARNISHED (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

VII. PROPERTY LIABLE TO ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

VIII. GROUNDS FOR ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

IX. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE IN ATTACHMENT (Detailed outline, Vol. 4).

X. THE GARNISHMENT PROPER (Detailed outline, p. 3).
  A. Introductory.
  B. Rights, Duties, and Liabilities of Garnishee.
    1. In General.
    2. Right and Duty to Hold Garnished Property and Measure of Liability.
    3. Duty of Garnishee to Defendant.
    4. Duty of Garnishee to Third Persons.
    5. Rights, Duties, and Liabilities of Garnishee on Negotiable Paper.
  C. Garnishment as a Defense to Other Proceedings on the Garnished Claim.
    1. As Defense to Proceedings by Defendant.
    2. As Defense to Proceedings by Third Persons.

X.—continued.

- D. Practice and Procedure.
  - 1. Introductory.
  - 2. Petition and Affidavit.
  - 3. Process and Notice.
  - 4. Appearance and Waiver of Defects and Irregularities in Garnishment.
  - 5. Dissolution, Vacation, Discharge, and Abandonment of Garnishment.
  - 6. Discovery and Disclosure.
  - 7. Traversing Disclosure; Exceptions by Defendant; and Garnishee's Reply.
  - 8. Trial and Evidence.
  - 9. Defenses of Garnishee.
  - 10. Judgment and Execution.
  - 11. Costs.

XI. EFFECT, LIEN, AND PRIORITY (Detailed outline, p. 7).

- A. Effect and Lien.
  - 1. In General.
  - 2. Effect as Assignment and Extent of Lien.
  - 3. Commencement and Duration of Lien.
- B. Priority.
  - 1. In General.
  - 2. Priority among Rival Attachments and Garnishments.
  - 3. Priority as to Deeds, Mortgages, Conveyances, Pledges, and Bailments.
  - 4. Priority as to Assignment for Benefit of Creditors.
  - 5. Priority as to Receivership.
  - 6. Questions of Priority Arising out of Attachment or Garnishment of Decedents' Estates and Interests Therein.
  - 7. Priority between Attaching Creditors of Partner and Partnership.

XII. BONDS, RECEIPTS, AND THEIR ENFORCEMENT (Detailed outline, p. 9).

- A. The Attachment or Garnishment Bond.
  - 1. In General.
  - 2. Validity, Efficacy, and Amendments.
- B. Dissolution and Release Bonds.
  - 1. In General.
  - 2. Validity, Efficacy, and Waiver of Defects.
  - 3. Accrual and Measure of Liability.
  - 4. Discharge and Estoppel.
  - 5. Enforcement; Practice and Procedure.
- C. Receipting for Release of Attached or Garnished Property.

XIII. THE MAIN ACTION (Detailed outline, p. 10).

- A. In General.
- B. Process, Service, and Notice.
- C. Appearance by Defendant.
- D. Pleadings.
- E. Evidence and Trial.
- F. Judgment and Execution.
  - 1. In General.
  - 2. Operation and Effect.
  - 3. Execution.
  - 4. Right to, and Form of, Special Judgment against Bankrupt.

XIV. CLAIM, INTERVENTION, AND INTERPLEADER (Detailed outline, p. 10).

- A. Remedies of Garnishee for Protection against Adverse Claimants.
- B. Remedies of Attaching Creditor.
- C. Remedies of Adverse Claimants.
- D. Practice and Procedure on Intervention.

XV. WRONGFUL OR MALICIOUS ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT (Detailed outline, p. 11).
- A. THE CAUSE OF ACTION.
  - 1. IN GENERAL.
  - 2. LIABILITY ON BOND.
  - 3. DEFENSES.
- B. DAMAGES.
  - 1. IN GENERAL.
  - 2. ELEMENTS.
- C. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.
  - 1. IN GENERAL.
  - 2. PARTIES.
  - 3. PLEADING.
  - 4. EVIDENCE.
  - 5. TRIAL.
  - 6. JUDGMENTS.
  - 7. COSTS.

X. THE GARNISHMENT PROPER.

A. INTRODUCTORY.
- § 655. Generally.
- § 656. Constitutionality of Garnishment Statutes.
- § 657. Test of What Constitutes Garnishment Proceedings.
- § 658. Garnished Property as Impounded.

B. RIGHTS, DUTIES, AND LIABILITIES OF GARNISHEE.

1. IN GENERAL.
- § 659. Generally.
- § 660. Status as Custodian of the Property.
- § 661. Duty of Agent or Trustee Who Is Garnished.

2. RIGHT AND DUTY TO HOLD GARNISHED PROPERTY AND MEASURE OF LIABILITY.

a. RIGHT AND DUTY TO HOLD PROPERTY.
- § 662. Generally.
- § 663. Duty of Garnishee to Stop Check Given for Indebtedness.
- § 664. Effect of Defects and Irregularities in the Garnishment Proceedings.
- § 665. Right to Discharge Prior Liens.
- § 666. Right to Make Loan to Defendant.
- § 667. Duty to Hold Exempt Property or Funds.
- § 668. Obligation of Bailee Who Is Garnished.

b. MEASURE OF LIABILITY FOR FAILURE.
- § 669. Where No Property or Credits of Defendant Held at Time of Garnishment.
- § 670. Where Property or Credits of Defendant Held at Time of Garnishment.
- § 671. Liability as Limited by Plaintiff's Claim against Defendant.
- § 672. Liability as Limited by Writ.
- § 672a. Liability as to Property or Credits Coming into His Possession after Garnishment.
- § 673. Liability for Interest.
- § 674. Liability for Damages and Depreciation.
- § 675. Liability as Limited by Ignorance of Service of Garnishment.
- § 676. Liability as Limited by Ignorance of Identity of Defendant.
- § 677. Liability as Limited by Ignorance of Goods and Effects of Defendant in Garnishee's Hands.
- § 678. Liability as Limited by Surrender or Payment under Legal Compulsion.
- § 679. Liability as to Lost Property or Funds.

3. DUTY OF GARNISHEE TO DEFENDANT.
- § 680. Generally.

X. B, 3—continued.

§ 681. Duty to Claim Exemption.
§ 682. Duty to Make Defense or to Notify Defendant.
§ 683. —In Garnishment of Salary or Wage Cases.
§ 684. Duty to Require Execution of Attachment Bonds.
§ 685. Duty Where Defendant Succeeds in Suit, and as to Surplus.
§ 686. Liability for Interest.
4. DUTY OF GARNISHEE TO THIRD PERSONS.
§ 687. Generally.
§ 688. Duty to Notify Adverse Claimants.
§ 689. Duty to Disclose Adverse Claims.
§ 690. Duty to Disclose Assignments.
§ 691. Duty to Disclose Assignments of Judgments.
§ 692. Duty to Require Execution of Attachment Bonds.
§ 693. Duty to Appeal.
5. RIGHTS, DUTIES, AND LIABILITIES OF GARNISHEE ON NEGOTIABLE PAPER.
§ 694. Generally.
§ 695. Duty to Disclose Transfer.
C. GARNISHMENT AS A DEFENSE TO OTHER PROCEEDINGS ON GARNISHED CLAIM.
1. AS DEFENSE TO PROCEEDINGS BY DEFENDANT.
§ 696. Generally.
§ 697. Where Suit Was Instituted Prior to Garnishment Proceedings.
§ 698. Garnishment Proceeding in Another State.
§ 699. —Where Danger of Double Liability Has Ceased.
§ 700. —Garnishment of Salary or Wages.
§ 701. —Garnishment of Insurance and Other Claims Exempt from Garnishment Where Other Proceedings Are Brought.
2. AS DEFENSE TO PROCEEDINGS BY THIRD PERSONS.
§ 702. Generally.
D. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.
1. INTRODUCTORY.
a. IN GENERAL.
§ 703. Generally.
§ 704. Parties.
§ 705. —Joinder.
§ 706. Pleadings, Motions, and Rules.
§ 707. Successive Garnishments.
§ 708. Garnishment as Suit.
b. COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS.
§ 709. Generally.
c. ORDER OF PROCEEDINGS AS BETWEEN MAIN ACTION AND GARNISHMENT.
§ 710. With Respect to Commencement of Suit and Garnishment.
§ 711. With Respect to Judgment in Main Action and in Garnishment.
d. MISCELLANEOUS PROCEEDINGS IN AID OF OR AGAINST GARNISHMENT.
§ 712. Generally.
§ 713. Equitable Relief to Preserve Garnishment Lien.
§ 714. Proceedings to Protect Equity of Adverse Claimants.
§ 715. Proceedings to Protect Equities of Garnishees.
§ 716. Equitable Remedies against Garnishment of Negotiable Instruments.
§ 717. Injunctive Relief against Abusive Successive Garnishments.
§ 718. Accounting and Distribution of Assets in Equity Proceedings in Aid of, or for Relief from, Garnishment.
§ 719. Surrender or Payment of Garnished Property of Debtor to Officer or into Court.
§ 720. Investiture of Garnished Property in Receiver or Trustee.
§ 721. Relief against Garnishment Suits in Foreign Jurisdictions to Defeat Exemption, Insolvency, and Other Laws of Forum.
2. PETITION AND AFFIDAVIT.
§ 722. Generally.
§ 723. Form, Contents, Sufficiency, and Amendment.

X. D, 2—continued.
§ 724. —Setting Forth Claim against Defendant.
§ 725. —Averment of Property of, or Debts Owing to, Defendant.
§ 726. —Setting Forth Grounds for Garnishment.

3. PROCESS AND NOTICE.

a. IN GENERAL.
§ 727. Service on Garnishee.
§ 728. Form, Contents, and Sufficiency of Writ or Summons.
§ 729. Service on Officer of Garnishee Corporation.
§ 730. Service on Member of Garnishee Firm.
§ 731. Return.

b. NOTICE TO DEFENDANT.
§ 732. Generally.

4. APPEARANCE AND WAIVER OF DEFECTS AND IRREGULARITIES IN GARNISHMENT.
§ 733. Generally.
§ 734. Waiver of Defects.
§ 735. —Defective Service.
§ 736. —Defects and Irregularities in Petition or Affidavit for Garnishment.
§ 737. —By Appearance.

5. DISSOLUTION, VACATION, DISCHARGE, AND ABANDONMENT OF GARNISHMENT.
§ 738. Generally.
§ 739. Judgment and Termination of Suit.
§ 740. Effect of Appeal.
§ 741. Abandonment, Withdrawal, and Release.
§ 742. Death of Defendant.
§ 743. Dissolution of Defendant Corporation.
§ 744. Insolvency and Bankruptcy.
§ 745. Dissolution or Vacation on Motion.
§ 746. —Who May Make Motion.
§ 747. Grounds of Motion.
§ 748. —Lack of Jurisdiction.
§ 749. —Defects and Irregularities in Proceedings.
§ 750. —Nonliability of Property to Garnishment.
§ 751. —Nonliability of Garnishee to Process.

6. DISCOVERY AND DISCLOSURE.

a. IN GENERAL.
§ 752. Generally.

b. INTERROGATORIES.
§ 753. Generally.

c. ANSWER OR DISCLOSURE OF GARNISHEE.
§ 754. Generally.
§ 755. Verification.
§ 756. Duty of Garnishee to Answer Interrogatories.
§ 757. Disclosure of Assets of Defendant.
§ 758. Disclosure of Defense to Garnishment.

d. COMPELLING, AND WAIVER OF RIGHT TO HAVE, DISCLOSURE.
§ 759. Compelling Garnishee to Answer.
§ 760. Waiver of Right to Have Disclosure.

e. DISCLOSURE AS EVIDENCE, AND CONCLUSIVENESS.
§ 761. Generally.

7. TRAVERSING DISCLOSURE; EXCEPTIONS BY DEFENDANT; AND GARNISHEE'S REPLY.
§ 762. Generally.
§ 763. Effect of Failure to Take Issue to Disclosure.
§ 764. Exceptions by Defendant.

8. TRIAL AND EVIDENCE.
§ 765. Generally.
§ 766. Issues Triable to Court or Jury.

X. D, 8—continued.
§ 767. —In Absence of Statutory Provision.
§ 768. —Under Statutory Provision.
§ 769. Evidence.
9. DEFENSES OF GARNISHEE.
a. IN GENERAL.
§ 770. Generally.
§ 771. Estoppel against Garnishee to Make Defenses.
b. PARTICULAR DEFENSES.
§ 772. Generally.
§ 773. Merits of Plaintiff's Claim against Defendant.
§ 774. General Denial of Indebtedness to, or Possession of Effects of, Defendant.
§ 775. Immaturity of Debt to Defendant.
§ 776. Previous Payment of Debt.
§ 777. Defects and Irregularities in Proceedings.
§ 778. Exemptions of Defendant.
§ 779. Adverse Claim to Garnished Property Generally.
§ 780. Assignment by Defendant.
§ 781. Protection of Garnishee against Double Liability Generally.
§ 782. Defenses to Garnishment of Negotiable Instrument.
§ 783. Pendency of Other Proceedings on Garnished Claim.
§ 784. Previous Judgment on Garnished Claim.
§ 785. Anticipated Refusal of Foreign Court to Give Garnishment Full Faith and Credit.
c. SET-OFF OR COUNTERCLAIM.
§ 786. Generally.
§ 787. Availability of Set-off or Counterclaim with Respect to Time of Maturity or Time of Acquisition of Claim.
§ 788. Necessity of Pleading Set-off or Counterclaim Specially.
10. JUDGMENT AND EXECUTION; VOLUNTARY PAYMENT.
a. IN GENERAL.
§ 789. Generally.
§ 790. Amount of Judgment.
§ 791. Judgment or Favorable Outcome for Garnishee.
b. FORM OF JUDGMENT.
§ 792. Conditional Judgment.
§ 793. Personal Judgment or Judgment in Rem.
§ 794. —Right of Plaintiff to Elect.
§ 795. Order on Garnishee in Lieu of Judgment.
§ 796. Judgment on Default of Garnishee—With Respect to Specific Property Garnished.
§ 797. —With Respect to Property Not Specifically Attached.
§ 798. Judgment on Disclosure.
§ 799. Judgment on Trial.
c. OPERATION AND EFFECT.
(1) IN GENERAL.
§ 800. Generally.
§ 801. Judgment and Satisfaction in Garnishment as Satisfaction of Plaintiff's Claim.
§ 802. Conclusiveness Generally.
§ 803. Full Faith and Credit.
(2) JUDGMENT AND SATISFACTION AND VOLUNTARY PAYMENT IN GARNISHMENT AS DEFENSE TO ACTION BY DEFENDANT AGAINST GARNISHEE.
§ 804. Generally.
§ 805. Where Judgment or Garnishment Void.
§ 806. Where Judgment or Garnishment Erroneous and Irregular Merely.
§ 807. Where Judgment Reversed.
§ 808. Where Garnishment Abandoned.

X. D, 10, c, (2)—continued.
§ 809. Where Garnishee Makes Payment before Judgment or Defaults.
§ 810. Where Garnishment Was in Foreign Court.
§ 811. —In Wage or Insurance Cases.
(3) JUDGMENT AND SATISFACTION IN GARNISHMENT AS DEFENSE TO CLAIM BY THIRD PERSONS.
§ 812. Generally.
d. ENFORCEMENT.
§ 813. Generally.
11. COSTS.
§ 814. Generally.

XI. EFFECT, LIEN, AND PRIORITY.
A. EFFECT AND LIEN.
1. IN GENERAL.
§ 815. Attachment Lien.
§ 816. Attachment as Satisfaction of Plaintiff's Claim.
§ 817. Garnishment Lien.
§ 818. View that Garnishment Constitutes No Lien until Judgment.
§ 819. Binding Effect on Garnishee Personally.
2. EFFECT AS ASSIGNMENT AND EXTENT OF LIEN.
§ 820. Generally.
§ 821. Effect as Subrogation.
§ 822. Where Plaintiff Acquires Greater or Less Interest or Rights than Defendant.
§ 823. —In Case of Fraudulent Transfers.
§ 824. Effect on Title.
3. COMMENCEMENT AND DURATION OF LIEN.
§ 825. Commencement.
§ 826. Duration.
§ 827. Contingent and Inchoate Character of Lien.
§ 828. Effect of Defects and Irregularities.
B. PRIORITY.
1. IN GENERAL.
§ 829. Generally.
§ 830. As to Right to Reformation of Contract.
§ 831. As to Possessory Interest.
§ 832. As to Right of Stoppage in Transitu.
§ 833. As to Lien of Warehouseman or Bailee of Attached Property.
§ 834. Priority between Attaching Creditor-Stockholder and Other Corporate Creditors.
§ 835. As to Landlord's Lien.
§ 836. Priority of Attachment of Fixtures.
§ 837. Effect of Defects and Irregularities.
§ 838. Effect of Dissolution of Attachment or Garnishment.
2. PRIORITY AMONG RIVAL ATTACHMENTS AND GARNISHMENTS.
§ 839. Generally.
§ 840. Effect of Irregularities in, or Insufficiency of, First Attachment.
§ 841. Priority among Rival Garnishments.
§ 842. Under Prorating Attachment and Garnishment Statutes.
3. PRIORITY AS TO DEEDS, MORTGAGES, CONVEYANCES, PLEDGES, AND BAILMENTS.
a. IN GENERAL.
§ 843. Generally.
§ 844. —Conveyance of Real Property.
§ 845. Validity of Conveyance, Pledge or Bailment of Personal Property.
§ 846. Effect of Retention of Possession.
§ 847. Effect of Filing or Recording Laws Relating to Personalty.
§ 848. —Effect of Change of Possession.

XI. B, 3, a—continued.
§ 849. —Effect of Failure to Comply with Filing or Recording Laws.
§ 850. —Effect of Notice of Unrecorded Instrument.
§ 851. —Under Statutes Giving No Protection to Attaching Creditors.
§ 852. Effect of Filing or Recording Laws Relating to Realty.
§ 853. —Unrecorded Instruments under Statutes Not Protecting Attaching or Garnishing Creditors.
§ 854. —Unrecorded Instruments under Statutes Giving Protection to Attaching or Garnishing Creditors.
§ 855. —Effect of Knowledge or Notice of Unrecorded Conveyance.
§ 856. —Effect of Possession by Grantee or Mortgagee.
§ 857. —Effect of Conveyance as Security for Future Advances.
§ 858. —Effect of Title in Another.
§ 859. Priority as to Subsequent Assignment or Assignment between First or Second Attachments.
§ 860. Priority between Attachment or Garnishment and Fraudulent Conveyance; Effect of Participation of Purchaser in Fraud.
§ 861. Priority as to Equitable Assignment.
§ 862. Priority as to Negotiable Document of Title Such as Warehouse Receipt.
§ 863. Priority as to Option to Purchase.
b. PRIORITY AS TO ASSIGNMENT OF INTANGIBLES AND CHOSES IN ACTION.
§ 864. Generally.
§ 865. Wages.
§ 866. Judgments.
§ 867. Funds on Deposit.
§ 868. Negotiable Paper.
§ 869. —Necessity of Notice of Transfer to Garnishee to Protect Holder against Garnishment.
§ 870. —Statutes Requiring Notice.
§ 871. Mature and Non-negotiable Paper.
§ 872. —Necessity of Notice to Maker to Protect Indorsee against Garnishment.
§ 873. Corporate Stock.
c. PRIORITY AS AFFECTED BY LACK OF NOTICE TO DEBTOR OF ASSIGNMENT.
§ 874. Generally.
§ 875. Necessity of Notice.
§ 876. —At Time of Garnishment.
§ 877. —In Time for Garnishee to Disclose Assignment in Answer.
§ 878. —Before Judgment.
§ 879. —After Judgment, but before Execution.
4. PRIORITY AS TO ASSIGNMENT FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.
§ 880. Generally.
§ 881. Assignment for Benefit of Creditors in Another State.
5. PRIORITY AS TO RECEIVERSHIP.
a. IN GENERAL.
§ 882. Generally.
§ 883. With Respect to Federal and State Courts.
§ 884. Priority as to Bankruptcy Proceedings.
b. WITH RESPECT TO FOREIGN RECEIVERSHIP.
§ 885. Where Receivership Is Subsequent to Attachment or Garnishment.
§ 886. Where Attachment or Garnishment Is Subsequent to Receivership.
§ 887. Receivership or Liquidation with Title under Statute, Decree, or Assignment.
§ 888. Assignees with Title.
§ 889. Effect of Relationships and Circumstances.
§ 890. —Effect of Residence or Domicil of Creditor.
§ 891. —Rule as Affected by Possession of Receiver Acquired before Attachment.

XI. B—continued.
6. QUESTIONS OF PRIORITY ARISING OUT OF ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT OF DECEDENTS' ESTATES AND INTERESTS THEREIN.
§ 892. Attachment or Garnishment and Claims of Widow and Others on Decedent's Estate.
§ 893. Attachment or Garnishment and Right of Retainer.
7. PRIORITY BETWEEN ATTACHING CREDITORS OF PARTNER AND PARTNERSHIP.
§ 894. As to Property of Partner.
§ 895. As to Partnership Property.

XII. BONDS, RECEIPTS, AND THEIR ENFORCEMENT.
A. THE ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT BOND.
1. IN GENERAL.
§ 896. Generally.
§ 897. Discretion of Court to Permit Filing of Bond for Amount Smaller than that Required by Statute.
§ 898. Construction of Bonds in Attachment Proceedings.
2. VALIDITY, EFFICACY, AND AMENDMENTS.
§ 899. Validity and Efficacy as Obligation.
§ 900. Sufficiency to Procure or Sustain Attachment or Garnishment; Amendments and Additional Bonds.
B. DISSOLUTION AND RELEASE BONDS.
1. IN GENERAL.
§ 901. Generally.
§ 902. Duty to Give Bond and Procure Return of Property to Mitigate Damages.
§ 903. Requirement of Bail or Security as Condition of Right to Appear and Defend.
§ 904. Right of Sureties to Reimbursement, Subrogation, Contribution, Possession, and Injunctive Relief.
2. VALIDITY, EFFICACY, AND WAIVER OF DEFECTS.
§ 905. Generally.
§ 906. Waiver of Defects and Irregularities.
§ 907. Formal Approval.
§ 908. Obligation Valid as Common-law Recognizance despite Defectiveness as Statutory Bond.
§ 909. Bond Void where Attachment Void.
§ 910. Attacking the Bond.
3. ACCRUAL AND MEASURE OF LIABILITY.
§ 911. Accrual of Liability.
§ 912. Measure of Liability.
4. DISCHARGE AND ESTOPPEL.
a. WHAT OPERATES TO DISCHARGE LIABILITY.
§ 913. Generally.
§ 914. Amendments—New Cause of Action as Test.
§ 915. —Prejudice Caused Surety as Test.
§ 916. Judgment or Favorable Outcome for Defendant.
§ 917. Death of Defendant.
§ 918. Bankruptcy of Defendant.
§ 919. Insolvency of Defendant.
b. DEFENSES AND ESTOPPEL.
§ 920. Generally.
§ 921. Defects and Irregularities.
§ 922. —Defective Levy, Return, Inventory, and Appraisement.
§ 923. —Defective Grounds for Attachment.
§ 924. —Property Not Liable to Attachment or Garnishment.
§ 925. —Defendant's Lack of Title, or Title in Surety.
5. ENFORCEMENT; PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.
§ 926. Generally.
§ 927. Parties.
§ 928. Pleadings and Defenses.

XII. B, 5—continued.
§ 929. Evidence.
§ 930. Trial.

C. Receipting for Release of Attached or Garnished Property.
§ 931. Generally.
§ 932. Interest of Receiptor in Property Receipted for; Permitting Owner Custody Thereof.
§ 933. Nature of Receiptor's Liability to Redeliver.
§ 934. Defenses and Estoppels.
§ 935. —Lack of Title in Defendant or Title in Receiptor.
§ 936. —Property Not Liable.
§ 937. —Defects and Irregularities in Attachment.

XIII. THE MAIN ACTION.

A. In General.
§ 938. Generally.
§ 939. Continuance, Discontinuance, Abatement, and Revival.
§ 940. Parties.

B. Process, Service, and Notice.
§ 941. Process.
§ 942. Service of Process and Notice.
§ 943. —Leaving a Copy of Process at Usual Place of Abode.
§ 944. —Publication.
§ 945. —Order and Time for Publication.
§ 946. —Failure of, and Defective, Publication; Amendments.

C. Appearance by Defendant.
§ 947. Generally.
§ 948. Entering Security to Dissolve or Release Attachment or Garnishment as Constituting Appearance.

D. Pleadings.
§ 949. Generally.
§ 950. Relation between Complaint and Attachment Affidavit.
§ 951. Effect of Variance between Complaint and Attachment or Garnishment Affidavit.
§ 952. Amendments.

E. Evidence and Trial.
§ 953. Generally.

F. Judgment and Execution.

1. In General.
§ 954. Generally.
§ 955. Amount of Judgment.

2. Operation and Effect.
§ 956. Generally.
§ 957. Conclusiveness and Collateral Attack.
§ 958. —As to Persons Not Parties to Proceedings.
§ 959. Full Faith and Credit.

3. Execution.
§ 960. Of Judgment in Personam.
§ 961. Of Judgment in Rem.

4. Right to, and Form of, Special Judgment against Bankrupt.
§ 962. Right to Judgment.
§ 963. Form of Judgment.

XIV. CLAIM, INTERVENTION, AND INTERPLEADER.

A. Remedies of Garnishee for Protection against Adverse Claimants.
§ 964. Disclosing, Interpleading, and Citing or Notifying Adverse Claimant to Defend.
§ 965. Election between Interpleader and Delivering of Garnished Property into Court.

B. Remedies of Attaching Creditor.
§ 966. Generally.

XIV.—continued.

C. Remedies of Adverse Claimants.

§ 967. Relief in Equity.
§ 968. Notice of Claim.
§ 969. Statement of Amount Due Claimant.
§ 970. Intervention Generally.
§ 971. Election between Intervention and Other Remedies Generally.
§ 972. Right of Indorsee to Recover Amount Collected by Garnishment of Note.

D. Practice and Procedure on Intervention.

§ 973. Generally.
§ 974. Necessity of Bond and Affidavit of Just Claim to Intervene.
§ 975. Who May Intervene.
§ 976. —Junior Attaching Creditor.
§ 977. Time for Intervention.
§ 978. Pleadings.
§ 979. Service, Process, and Notice.
§ 980. Issues and Defenses.
§ 981. Evidence and Trial.
§ 982. Judgment and Right to Proceeds after Sale.
§ 983. Right of Intervener to Recover Counsel Fees.

XV. WRONGFUL OR MALICIOUS ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT.

A. The Cause of Action.

1. In General.

§ 984. Generally.
§ 985. Statutory Modifications.
§ 986. Malice and Probable Cause.
§ 987. —Under Wrongful Attachment or Garnishment Statutes.
§ 988. When Cause of Action Arises.
§ 989. Necessity of Actual Levy and Interference.
§ 990. Successive Attachments and Garnishments.
§ 991. Attachment and Garnishment of Property Not Liable to Process.
§ 992. Cause of Action of Third Persons.

2. Liability on Bond.

§ 993. Generally.
§ 994. Liability of Surety.
§ 995. Discharge of Surety.
§ 996. Estoppel.

3. Defenses.

§ 997. Generally.
§ 998. Lack of Malice and Advice of Counsel.
§ 999. Probable Cause.
§ 1000. Merits of Claim or Grounds for Attachment or Garnishment.
§ 1001. Defenses in Mitigation of Damages.
§ 1002. Defenses of Attaching Officer.
§ 1003. Defenses in Action on Bond.
§ 1004. Running of Statute of Limitations.

B. Damages.

1. In General.

§ 1005. Generally.
§ 1006. Exemplary Damages.
§ 1007. —In Action on Bond.
§ 1008. Duty to Minimize Damages.

2. Elements.

a. In General.

§ 1009. Generally.
§ 1010. Loss of Use of, or Injury to, Property.
§ 1011. Injury to Business, Credit, Loss of Profits, etc.

XV. B, 2, a—continued.
- § 1012. Injury to Character, Mental Suffering, Sickness, Humiliation, etc.
- § 1013. Interest.

b. Costs and Attorneys' Fees as Elements of Recovery.
- § 1014. For Defending Attachment or Garnishment.
- § 1015. For Defending Main Action on Its Merits.
- § 1016. —Where Defense of Main Action Necessary to Defeat Attachment.
- § 1017. —Where Property Is Attached or Garnished on Ground of Nonresidence.
- § 1018. Apportionment of Fees Where Same Counsel Serves in Attachment and Main Proceedings.

C. Practice and Procedure.

1. In General.
- § 1019. Generally.
- § 1020. —Set-off, Counterclaim, Reconvention, Cross Complaint, Recoupment, Plea in Abatement, etc.
- § 1021. Technical Form of Action.
- § 1022. Remedies of Third Persons.
- § 1023. Contribution among Attaching or Garnishing Creditors as to Liability for Wrongful Attachment.

2. Parties.
- § 1024. Generally.
- § 1025. Principal or Agent as Defendant.
- § 1026. Corporation Defendant.
- § 1027. Joint Defendants.
- § 1028. In Action on Bond.
- § 1029. —Defendants.

3. Pleading.
- § 1030. Generally.
- § 1031. In Action on Bond.

4. Evidence.
- § 1032. Generally.
- § 1033. Presumptions and Burden of Proof.
- § 1034. Admissibility.
- § 1035. —Writ and Record.
- § 1036. —Admissions and Declarations.
- § 1037. Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence.

5. Trial.
- § 1038. Generally.

6. Judgments.
- § 1039. Generally.

7. Costs.
- § 1040. Generally.

X. THE GARNISHMENT PROPER

A. INTRODUCTORY

§ 655. Generally.—This division deals with the matter of the garnishment proper, as distinguished from the main action,[12] which is discussed in a subsequent division of this article.[13] The effect and priority of garnishment,[14] claim, intervention, and interpleader in garnishment,[15] bonds in garnishment proceedings and their enforcement,[16] and actions for wrongful or malicious garnishment[17] are, however, reserved for treatment in subsequent divisions of this article.

---

[12] As to distinction between the main action and the garnishment proper, see Vol. 4, p. 556, §§ 9 et seq.

[13] See infra, §§ 938 et seq.

[14] See infra, §§ 815 et seq.

[15] See infra, §§ 964 et seq.

[16] See infra, §§ 896 et seq.

§ 656. Constitutionality of Garnishment Statutes.—Statutes authorizing the attachment or garnishment of assets of a defendant in the hands of a third party do not of themselves operate to deprive the defendant of his property. There must be an adjudication of the rights of the parties before the property can be subjected to the plaintiff's claim. Therefore, such a statutory provision is not violative of the "due process" provisions of the Federal and State Constitutions.[18]

§ 657. Test of What Constitutes Garnishment Proceedings.—As stated in an early section of this article,[19] the distinguishing characteristic of American garnishment or trustee process is the attachment, garnishment, or sequestration of property of, or indebtedness owing to, the defendant in the hands of a garnishee or trustee, who is summoned to answer the claim of the plaintiff against the defendant to the extent of such property of the defendant in his possession in so far as it does not exceed such claim. Such attachment, garnishment, or sequestration constitutes an execution dependent upon a subsequent judgment.[20] Hence, this division constitutes a study of the garnishment proper, viz., the ancillary proceeding against one holding property of, or indebted to, the defendant, as a mode of execution on original or mesne process in an action. Consequently, this article treats as garnishment all execution proceedings on original or mesne process answering the above test, regardless of the nomenclature of local law and practice.[1]

§ 658. Garnished Property as Impounded.—The majority rule is that a garnishment operates like an attachment to impound the garnished property in the custody of the law and to secure it to satisfy a judgment for the plaintiff, but there is authority to the effect that it is no more, and has no other effect, than a proceeding in personam against a debtor of the defendant.[2] However, in the absence of a statute to the contrary, the garnishment binds only sufficient property or credits of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee to satisfy the plaintiff's claim against the defendant.[3] Under the local law and practice in some jurisdictions, a garnishment binds all the property and effects of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee.[4]

B. Rights, Duties, and Liabilities of Garnishee

1. In General

§ 659. Generally.—A garnishee is regarded as an innocent person owing money to, or having in his possession property of, another, without fault or blame, and he is supposed to stand indifferent as to who shall have the money or property.[5] His only concern is to whom he shall lawfully pay his debt.[6]

---

[17] See infra, §§ 984 et seq.

[18] Byrd v. Rector, 112 W. Va. 192, 163 S. E. 845, 81 A.L.R. 1213.

[19] See Vol. 4, p. 553, § 4.

[20] See Vol. 4, p. 552, §§ 3, 4.

[1] Generally, as to scope and method of treatment of this article, see Vol. 4, p. 552, § 2.

[2] Generally, as to effect and priority of garnishment, see infra, §§ 815 et seq.

[3] Davis v. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. 73 Ark. 120, 83 S. W. 318, 3 Ann. Cas. 658.

See also infra, § 790.

[4] See infra, § 817.

[5] Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

The garnishee is regarded by the law somewhat in the light of a trustee, and, as such, is bound to protect, by legal and appropriate steps, the rights of all parties

In the eyes of the law, he is a mere stakeholder, a custodian of property or estate attached in his hands, and he has no right to do any voluntary act to the prejudice of either the plaintiff or the defendant in the action. He must let the law take its course, except that he may protect himself from jeopardy or injury by unauthorized acts and proceedings.[7]

A garnishee is not permitted unnecessarily to prolong the proceedings or hold on to the property at the expense of the one taking out and serving the writ of garnishment.[8]

These rules apply to the garnishment of rights under negotiable instruments.[9]

It is the duty of the courts and their officers, at all times and under all circumstances, to protect the rights of garnishees and those who may have business relations with them.[10]

§ 660. Status as Custodian of the Property.—The garnishee, or one in whose hands property is attached or garnished, is universally regarded as charged with its legal custody pending the outcome of the attachment or garnishment,[11] unless, by local statute and practice, he is permitted to surrender or pay the garnished property or funds into court, to the attaching officer, or to a receiver or trustee appointed to receive them.[12]

A court may appoint a proper person custodian of property or funds abandoned by a garnishee.[13]

§ 661. Duty of Agent or Trustee Who Is Garnished.—It frequently happens that a garnishee is under duty to the defendant in the garnishment or to adverse claimants of the garnished property not only as garnishee, but in some fiduciary capacity, such as that of a trustee or an agent with respect to the garnished property. In such case his duties as agent or trustee are not diminished by the garnishment except that they must be exercised without prejudice to his legal duties as garnishee.[14] A bank receiving a draft for collection, with instructions to remit the proceeds or protest it if not paid on presentment, is liable to the owner for the proceeds in case it neglects to remit them for several days, until they are attached by a creditor of the drawer, and fails promptly to notify the owner of the attachment, or comply with his request to secure counsel to protect the owner's interest, or notify the court of the

---

to the goods or credits attached in his hands. Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

[6] Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

[7] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; White v. Bird, 20 La. Ann. 188, 96 Am. Dec. 393; Brondum v. Rosenblum, 151 Miss. 91, 117 So. 363, citing R. C. L.; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 756.

A garnishee who refuses to avail himself of the method pointed out by statute for his protection acts at his own risk and expense. Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[8] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

As to liability for interest as damages for unnecessarily prolonging the proceeding, see infra, § 673.

[9] White v. Bird, 20 La. Ann. 188, 96 Am. Dec. 393.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 731.

See also Vol. 4, p. 728, §§ 267 et seq.

[10] West Cache Sugar Co. v. Hendrickson, 56 Utah, 327, 190 P. 946, 11 A.L.R. 216.

Generally, as to danger of double liability as defense to garnishee, see infra, §§ 751 et seq.

[11] International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; State use of Arnold v. Linaweaver, 3 Head (Tenn.) 51, 75 Am. Dec. 757; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

[12] See infra, § 719.

[13] Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

[14] Kutz v. Nolan, 224 Pa. 262, 73 A. 555, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1124; First Wisconsin Nat. Bank v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736.

Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 742.

owner's claim, so that the proceeds are returned to the drawee in the attachment proceedings and lost to the owner, although its delay was to give the parties a chance to settle their differences without legal proceedings.[15] Likewise, a bank garnished for the proceeds of a draft which it has collected for a nonresident owner, and which are claimed by the attaching creditor as the property of the drawer, is bound to comply with the request of its correspondent, who claims the proceeds as a bona fide holder, to employ counsel at his expense to protect his rights.[16]

2. Right and Duty to Hold Garnished Property and Measure of Liability

a. Right and Duty to Hold Property

§ 662. Generally.—The general rule is that a garnishee is under obligation of law to exercise reasonable care to preserve property attached or garnished in his possession pending the outcome of the garnishment proceedings. Accordingly, he may not, except at his peril, during that time, transfer such property, and if he does so, he is in no wise relieved from liability to the creditor by the fact that he was mistaken as to the effect of the writ.[17] Indeed, while the garnishee has a right to surrender garnished property to its true owner, the general rule is that he surrenders it at his peril to an adverse claimant without a proper order of court.[18] Thus, a bank is bound to respect the process attaching or garnishing a deposit therein, and the courts do not permit it to apply the fund attached to the payment of any debt due from the depositor to anyone.[19] Nevertheless, it has been held that the garnishee is under duty to surrender it to an assignee of the defendant, where he knew of the assignment before the garnishment.[1]

---

[15] First Wisconsin Nat. Bank v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736.

An extended discussion of the duty of a collecting bank upon an attachment or garnishment of the funds appears in First Wisconsin Nat. Bank v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736. It will be observed that the court in this case holds that relation of principal and agent existed between the plaintiff and defendant banks. This is in accord with the rule that one who undertakes the collection of commercial paper for another becomes the agent of such other (see Bills and Notes [Also Banks, 3 R. C. L. p. 610]). This being the relation, the court further says that the defendant bank was under "a high duty" to protect and respect the rights of defendant as the holder of the draft in question. It will be observed that this distinguishes the case from those where there was a mere relationship of debtor and creditor between the garnishee and the claimant. Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 742.

[16] First Wisconsin Nat. Bank v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736.

[17] Miller v. United States (Page v. United States) 11 Wall. (U. S.) 268, 20 L. ed. 135; Kennedy v. Brent, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 187, 3 L. ed. 194; Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172; Alexander v. Birmingham Trust & Sav. Co. 206 Ala. 50, 89 So. 66, 16 A.L.R. 1079; Skipper v. Foster, 29 Ala. 330, 65 Am. Dec. 405; Great Western Finance Co. v. Hamilton Nat. Bank, 76 Colo. 48, 230 P. 115, 41 A.L.R. 997; Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; Smith v. Picket, 7 Ga. 104, 50 Am. Dec. 385; United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971; White v. Bird, 20 La. Ann. 188, 96 Am. Dec. 393; Koontz v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. 220 Mass. 285, 107 N. E. 973, L.R.A.1915D, 838; Van Camp Hardware & Iron Co. v. Plimpton, 174 Mass. 208, 54 N. E. 538, 75 Am. St. Rep. 296; Cook v. Coleman, 167 Mass. 414, 45 N. E. 913, 57 Am. St. Rep. 465; McCann v. Randall, 147 Mass. 81, 17 N. E. 75, 9 Am. St. Rep. 666; International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960; Sykes v. City Sav. Bank, 115 Mich. 321, 73 N. W. 369, 69 Am. St. Rep. 562; Ferry v. Home Sav. Bank, 114 Mich. 321, 72 N. W. 181, 68 Am. St. Rep. 487; Cooley v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co. 53 Minn. 327, 55 N. W. 141, 39 Am. St. Rep. 609; Wileman v. King, 120 Miss. 392, 82 So. 265, 5 A.L.R. 584; Farmers' & M. Nat. Bank v. King, 57 Pa. 202, 98 Am. Dec. 215; Pure Oil Co. v. Walsh-Woldert Motor Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 36 S. W. (2d) 802, citing R. C. L.; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637; Dow v. Taylor, 71 Vt. 337, 45 A. 220, 76 Am. St. Rep. 775; Great Western Theatre Equipment v. First Nat. Bank, 170 Wash. 241, 16 P. (2d) 459 (affirmed on rehearing in 173 Wash. 700, 22 P. (2d) 1120), citing R. C. L.; Maury v. Toledo Logging Co. 163 Wash. 563, 1 P. (2d) 896, citing R. C. L.; Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966. See also Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

Annotation: 49 A.L.R. 1411; 89 A.L.R. 975; L.R.A.1917F, 396.

The service of a subpœna, in case of a chancery attachment in Virginia, will make the garnishee liable if he pays away the money after notice of the subpœna. Kennedy v. Brent, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 187, 3 L. ed. 194.

[18] Stiles v. Davis, 1 Black (U. S.) 101, 17 L. ed. 33; Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172;

The garnishee may not, pending the garnishment, without the order of the court, surrender the garnished property or pay the garnished debt to the defendant.[2] Indeed, notwithstanding the property or debts sought to be garnished are in fact not garnishable under the statute, a reasonable misapprehension on the point will justify the garnishee in refusing to deliver or pay the same to the defendant, and will not constitute an act of conversion.[3] The garnishee in a suit which is not prosecuted to judgment during the term in which the writ is made returnable has no right to assume that the suit is abandoned against him and settle his debt. If he does, equity will grant no relief against a judgment afterwards obtained against him in the garnishment suit.[4] However, payment to the debtor before the commencement of garnishment proceedings is proper, even though the future garnishee knew, when he made the payment, that the creditor was preparing to institute proceedings.[5]

The fact that the garnishee is bound to hold the property does not mean that a garnishment has the effect of destroying or interrupting contractual rela-

---

Alexander v. Birmingham Trust & Sav. Co. 206 Ala. 50, 89 So. 66, 16 A.L.R. 1079; McCann v. Randall, 147 Mass. 81, 17 N. E. 75, 9 Am. St. Rep. 666; Cooley v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co. 53 Minn. 327, 55 N. W. 141, 39 Am. St. Rep. 609.

[19] Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172; Alexander v. Birmingham Trust & Sav. Co. 206 Ala. 50, 89 So. 66, 16 A.L.R. 1079; Wileman v. King, 120 Miss. 392, 82 So. 265, 5 A.L.R. 584.

Accordingly, failure of a creditor to present a check tendered in payment of the debt without any agreement that it shall be accepted as payment, whether good or bad, for ten days on account of illness, does not satisfy the indebtedness if, when the check is presented for payment, the maker's account has been garnished by another creditor. Wileman v. King, 120 Miss. 392, 82 So. 265, 5 A.L.R. 584.

A bank to which a draft against a bill of lading is sent for collection, which forwards the proceeds after being served with a writ of garnishment in a suit against the drawer, cannot escape liability on the ground that it did not know that the proceeds belonged to the drawer, because the draft was drawn to the order of its correspondent bank, where the draft showed on its face that it was by one in the business of handling the goods against which it was drawn, and was not payable until the goods arrived at destination, while the direction as to collection showed that he retained control over the collection. Alexander v. Birmingham Trust & Sav. Co. 206 Ala. 50, 89 So. 66, 16 L.R.A. 1079.

Where one in whose hands a draft on a subtreasury of the United States is garnished permits or procures it to be thereafter indorsed and paid in contempt of the authority of the court under whose process it was garnished in his hands, he becomes answerable to the plaintiff for the amount thereof. McCann v. Randall, 147 Mass. 81, 17 N. E. 75, 9 Am. St. Rep. 666.

[1] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268.

[2] Stiles v. Davis, 1 Black (U. S.) 101, 17 L. ed. 33; Kennedy v. Brent, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 187, 3 L. ed. 194; Skipper v. Foster, 29 Ala. 330, 65 Am. Dec. 405; Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; Stroup v. Sullivan, 2 Ga. 275, 46 Am. Dec. 389; Cooley v. Minnesota Transfer Co. 53 Minn. 327, 55 N. W. 141, 39 Am. St. Rep. 609.

See also Landa v. Holck, 129 Mo. 663, 31 S. W. 900, 50 Am. St. Rep. 459; Fletcher v. Fletcher, 7 N. H. 452, 28 Am. Dec. 359.

That an insurer has been garnished for a claim against the insured, and for that reason refuses to pay the policy to the insured, does not amount to a waiver of the time limited in the policy for bringing the action. Gilbert v. Globe & R. F. Ins. Co. 91 Or. 59, 174 P. 1161, 178 P. 358, 3 A.L.R. 205.

It has been held that a garnishee may not pay the garnished debt to the defendant even by reason of an execution directed against him, where it is possible for him to obtain a stay of execution in the action brought by the defendant. Skipper v. Foster, 29 Ala. 330, 65 Am. Dec. 405.

[3] Fletcher v. Fletcher, 7 N. H. 452, 28 Am. Dec. 359.

A garnishee has been held justified in retaining against the defendant garnished promissory notes, where he held the same for collection, a circumstance rendering them not garnishable in his possession. Ibid.

[4] Stroup v. Sullivan, 2 Ga. 275, 46 Am. Dec. 389.

[5] Simpson v. Dall, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 460, 18 L. ed. 265.

tions between the defendant and the garnishee; the rule is that it has no such effect.[6]

A court may order a suitable person to take custody of garnished property upon its abandonment by a garnishee.[7]

§ 663. Duty of Garnishee to Stop Check Given for Indebtedness.—The drawer of a check is under no duty or obligation to stop payment, when garnished, for the benefit of the garnishing plaintiff.[8] However, it has been ruled that where the check is still within the control of the drawer at the time of the service of the writ upon him, it is his duty to exercise reasonable diligence to stop delivery. And where the check has not been delivered at the time of the service of the summons upon the drawer, it is revocable, and the debt is still owing and subject to garnishment. This is true even though the check has been deposited in the postoffice, if, under the regulation of such office, the sender has a right to withdraw it from the mail, unless the payee agreed to accept a check in payment of the debt, or directed that a check be mailed.[9]

§ 664. Effect of Defects and Irregularities in the Garnishment Proceedings.—Defects and irregularities in a garnishment proceeding which clearly void it prevent the garnishment from having any binding effect on the garnishee, and he is as free as he would be otherwise to transfer the property of the defendant or surrender it to him.[10] Furthermore, the rights of a garnishing creditor against the garnishee are to be determined as of the time of the filing of a supplemental affidavit to cure a jurisdictional defect in the petition, unless the rights of an assignee under an intervening assignment by the debtor of the debt in the hands of the garnishee were not acquired in good faith.[11] However, from a review of the cases dealing with the liability of the garnishee to the garnishor where the garnishee pays the debt or releases the property pending defective or irregular garnishment proceedings, it would seem that the rights of the garnishor in such a case depend upon a number of variable factors. Among these are the jurisdictional character of the defect or irregularity, the extent to which the garnishee has acted in good faith, the abandonment or nonabandonment of the garnishment proceedings, and the character of the acts of the garnishee in paying the debt or releasing the property as having been done voluntarily on his own initiative, or under the compulsion of legal process.[12] Generally, however, it may be said that a garnishee is not bound by a garnishment that is jurisdictionally defective.

---

[6] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Schuler v. Israel, 120 U. S. 506, 30 L. ed. 707, 7 S. Ct. 648; Clyne v. Easton, 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253; Southern Flour & Grain Co. v. Northern P. R. Co. 127 Ga. 626, 56 S. E. 742, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 853, 119 Am. St. Rep. 356, 9 Ann. Cas. 437; Baugh v. Kirkpatrick, 54 Pa. 84, 93 Am. Dec. 675; Bingham v. Lamping, 26 Pa. 340, 67 Am. Dec. 418; Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948.

[7] Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

[8] American Agri. Chemical Co. v. Scrimger, 130 Md. 389, L.R.A.1917F, 394, 100 A. 774.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 394; 94 A.L.R. 1393.

[9] Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 396; 94 A.L.R. 1393.

A debtor may stop payment on his check when he is served with garnishment, and the debt for which it was given is then bound by the process. See Vol. 4, p. 677, § 194.

[10] Generally, as to payment under void order in garnishment proceedings as protection to garnishee, see infra, § 805.

[11] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[12] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 975.

United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971, holding that a garnishee, who had paid over the garnished money pending defective garnishment proceedings to one to whom the debt had been assigned as security after the service of the writ but before the correction of the defect, was not liable under the writ, seems to turn upon the point that, as between the assignee and the garnisher, the assignee had the prior right to the fund, and that, therefore, the garnisher

§ 665. Right to Discharge Prior Liens.—The general rule is that a garnishee may discharge prior liens on the garnished property, especially where it is necessary to protect himself.[13] Accordingly, the liability of a garnishee who, pending the proceeding, lets go the fund or property in his possession to the defendant or a third person does not attach where he discharges a lien on it superior or prior to the attachment lien.[14] An owner of a building under construction can pay off mechanics' liens when he is garnished with respect to money due under the construction contract, at least where there is a provision in the contract that the owner may retain sufficient funds to discharge such liens.[15]

§ 666. Right to Make Loan to Defendant.—A garnishee from whom nothing is due may make advances or loans to the defendant, after service of the garnishment process, without rendering himself liable to the defendant's creditor.[16]

§ 667. Duty to Hold Exempt Property or Funds.—The general rule is that a garnishee is not bound to withhold exempt property or funds from the defendant.[17]

§ 668. Obligation of Bailee Who Is Garnished.—The garnishment of property in the possession of a common carrier or other bailee excuses the failure to deliver according to the contract of bailment, unless the garnishment is for some reason void or of no force and effect.[18] But a bailee cannot lightly shake off his obligation to defend his possession against a garnishment.[19] Under the Uniform Sales Act,[20] Bills of Lading Act,[1] and Warehouse Receipts Act,[2] a bailee is not bound by an attachment or garnishment of the property under bailment if he has issued a negotiable bill of lading, warehouse receipt, or other document of title for the same, unless such negotiable document is surrendered to him or its negotiation enjoined. Furthermore, a carrier must respond in damages for any loss or diminution in the value of the property caused by unreasonable delay in its transportation by reason of the service of a garnishment in a suit between the consignor and a third person.[3] was in no position to complain of the payment.

---

See Cook v. Coleman, 167 Mass. 414, 45 N. E. 913, 57 Am. St. Rep. 465, in which a bank paying out money to a partnership having a deposit therein, despite the service upon it of a writ charging it in the body thereof as trustee for the members of such partnership, the excuse given for such payment being that the president of the bank had not examined the body of the writ, but had relied on the indorsements on the back of the writ, from which it appeared that there was but one defendant, was held liable under the writ.

[13] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971; Drake v. Harrison, 69 Wis. 99, 33 N. W. 81, 2 Am. St. Rep. 717.

[14] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[15] Drake v. Harrison, 69 Wis. 99, 33 N. W. 81, 2 Am. St. Rep. 717.

[16] Smith v. Davis, 1 Wis. 447, 60 Am. Dec. 390.

[17] Black Hills Teleg. & Teleph. Co. v. Mitchell, 11 S. D. 615, 79 N. W. 999, 74 Am. St. Rep. 830.

[18] Stiles v. Davis, 1 Black (U. S.) 101, 17 L. ed. 33; Cooley v. Minnesota Transfer R. Co. 53 Minn. 327, 55 N. W. 141, 39 Am. St. Rep. 609; Landa v. Holck, 129 Mo. 663, 31 S. W. 900, 50 Am. St. Rep. 459.

Annotation: 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 689.

The view has been taken that a common carrier cannot escape being charged by trustee process for a case of merchandise in its possession for carriage on the theory that it does not know, of its own knowledge, that the contents of the box are property subject to such process and has no right to open it to find out, it being sufficient that it has been informed as to the contents and that they are goods of value. Rosenbush v. Bernheimer, 211 Mass. 146, 97 N. E. 984, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1317.

[19] Annotation: 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 689.

[20] See Vol. 4, p. 569, § 29.

[1] See Vol. 4, p. 570, § 32.

[2] See Vol. 4, p. 571, § 33.

[3] Baldwin v. Great Northern R. Co. 81 Minn. 247, 83 N. W. 986, 51 L.R.A. 640, 83 Am. St. Rep. 370.

b. Measure of Liability

§ 669. Where No Property or Credits of Defendant Held at Time of Garnishment.[4]—It may be stated broadly that there is no liability from the garnishee to the plaintiff where, at the time of service of the writ or warrant of garnishment on the garnishee, he has no property of the defendant in his possession and is not indebted to him. In such a case, the general rule is that the property of the defendant coming into the possession of the garnishee subsequently to such service, or indebtedness of the garnishee arising subsequent thereto, is not bound by the service of the writ.[5]

§ 670. Where Property or Credits of Defendant Held at Time of Garnishment.—It follows from the general rule that except in cases of fraud and collusion between the defendant and the garnishee, an attaching or garnishing creditor can acquire no greater interest in the attached or garnished property than that of the defendant,[6] that under no other circumstances can the garnishee, by the operation of proceedings against him, be placed in any worse condition than he would be if the defendant's claim against him were enforced by the defendant himself.[7] Consequently, the liability, legal and equitable, of the garnishee to the principal debtor, or, in other words, the property of the debtor in his possession, is a measure of his liability to the attaching creditor.[8] Under some statutes, however, it seems that under certain circumstances the plaintiff may proceed against the garnishee even though the defendant has not made a demand upon the garnishee or performed other conditions precedent to his right to proceed against the garnishee.[9]

---

[4] As to amount of judgment against garnishee, see infra, § 790.

[5] See supra, Vol. 4, p. 650, §§ 156, 161.

[6] See infra, §§ 820 et seq.

[7] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Schuler v. Israel, 120 U. S. 506, 30 L. ed. 707, 7 S. Ct. 648; McLaughlin v. Swann, 18 How. (U. S.) 217, 15 L. ed. 357; Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216; Beach v. Viles, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 675, 7 L. ed. 559; Allen v. Ætna L. Ins. Co. (C. C. A. 3d) 145 F. 881, 7 L.R.A.(N.S.) 958; Skewes v. Tennessee Coal, I. & R. Co. 124 Ala. 629, 27 So. 435, 82 Am. St. Rep. 214; Home Land & Loan Co. v. Routh, 123 Ark. 360, 185 S. W. 467, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1142; Roesch v. W. B. Worthen Co. 95 Ark. 482, 130 S. W. 551, 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 374; Walker v. Doak, 210 Cal. 30, 290 P. 290, citing R. C. L.; Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A. 1030, 125 Am. St. Rep. 131; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; Malone v. Moore, 204 Iowa, 625, 215 N. W. 625, 55 A.L.R. 356; Hoyt v. Clemans, 167 Iowa, 330, 149 N. W. 442, L.R.A.1915C, 166; J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184; Meek v. Briggs, 87 Iowa, 610, 54 N. W. 456, 43 Am. St. Rep. 410; Metcalf v. Kincaid, 87 Iowa, 443, 54 N. W. 867, 43 Am. St. Rep. 391; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Lewis v. Barnett, 139 Kan. 821, 33 P. (2d) 331, 93 A.L.R. 1082; Madden v. Union P. R. Co. 89 Kan. 282, 131 P. 552, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 78; Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huntington Nat. Bank, 229 Ky. 674, 17 S. W. (2d) 726, 71 A.L.R. 70; Metropolitan L. Ins. Co. v. Hightower, 211 Ky. 36, 276 S. W. 1063, 44 A.L.R. 1158; Cummins v. Christie, 179 Mass. 74, 60 N. E. 396, 88 Am. St. Rep. 357; Van Camp Hardware & Iron Co. v. Plimpton, 174 Mass. 208, 54 N. E. 538, 75 Am. St. Rep. 296; Whipple v. Robbins, 97 Mass. 107, 93 Am. Dec. 64; Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 471, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212; Melton Hardware Co. v. Heidelberg, 91 Miss. 598, 44 So. 857, 15 Ann. Cas. 704; Shuler v. Murphy, 91 Miss. 518, 44 So. 810, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 333, 124 Am. St. Rep. 708; Weil v. Tyler, 38 Mo. 545, 90 Am. Dec. 441; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A. (N.S.) 742; Goodwin v. Claytor, 137 N. C. 224, 49 S. E. 173, 67 L.R.A. 209, 107 Am. St. Rep. 479; Graf v. Wilson, 62 Or. 476, 125 P. 1005, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 462; Baugh v. Kirkpatrick, 54 Pa. 84, 93 Am. Dec. 675; Johnson v. Union P. R. Co. 29 R. I. 80, 69 A. 298, 132 Am. St. Rep. 799; Bank of Centerville v. Gelhaus, 60 S. D. 31, 242 N. W. 642, 83 A.L.R. 1380; Home Nat. Bank v. Barnes-Piazzek Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 278 S. W. 299, citing R. C. L.; Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881; Rollo v. Andes Ins. Co. 23 Gratt. (Va.) 509, 14 Am. Rep. 147; Beaston v. Portland Trust & Sav. Bank, 89 Wash. 627, 55 P. 162, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 488; McAlmond v. Bevington, 23 Wash. 315, 63 P. 251, 53 L.R.A. 597; Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473, 37 P. 675, 43 Am. St. Rep. 849; Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948.

[8] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; East Tennessee, V. & G. R. Co. v. Kennedy, 83 Ala. 462, 3 So. 852, 3 Am. St. Rep. 755; Southern Flour & Grain Co. v. Northern P. R. Co. 127 Ga. 626, 56 S. E. 742, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 853, 119 Am. St. Rep. 356, 9 Ann. Cas. 437; Salyers Auto Co. v. De Vore, 116 Neb. 317, 217 N.

§ 671. Liability as Limited by Plaintiff's Claim against Defendant.—It is clear that a plaintiff's claim against a garnishee is limited by his claim against the defendant; he can recover no more from the garnishee than is necessary to satisfy what the defendant owes him, making full allowance for all satisfaction of such claim previously received.[10]

§ 672. Liability as Limited by Writ.[11]—The general rule is that the terms of the writ limit the liability of the garnishee and that he is not liable for an amount greater than that named in the writ.[12] However, a garnishment of all property of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee under a statute providing for that practice binds all the property of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee.[13] Nevertheless, it has been held that a garnishment of credits and effects does not bind debts owing to the defendant.[14]

§ 672a. Liability as to Property or Credits Coming into His Possession after Garnishment.—The binding effect of the process upon property coming into the hands of a garnishee subsequent to the service of the garnishment upon him has been previously discussed.[15] As there shown, the courts are not uniform in their holdings. Where the attachment or garnishment is not binding on property of, or debts owing to, the defendant coming into the garnishee's possession after service upon him, the general rule is that the garnishee's liability is to be determined as of the date of the service of the attachment or garnishment on the garnishee,[16] or at the time of its issuance when, under local practice, it takes effect at that time,[17] and that such garnishee's liability is limited to the property of the principal defendant in his possession or under his control, and owing by him to the defendant at that time.[18] But in jurisdictions where the garnishment binds property or

---

W. 94, 56 A.L.R. 594; Arrington v. Screws, 31 N. C. (9 Ired. L.) 42, 49 Am. Dec. 408; Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881.

In Cottingham v. Greely Barnham Grocery Co. 129 Ala. 200, 30 So. 560, 87 Am. St. Rep. 58, where notes, mortgages, accounts, and choses in action sold by the debtor to the defendant were the subject of the garnishment proceeding, it being claimed that the sale was fraudulent as to creditors, it was held that in the determination of the value of the property received by the garnishee under the fraudulent conveyance, the criterion was the value at the time of the conveyance, and not the amount of money collected by the garnishee upon such notes, etc.

[9] As to the right of the plaintiff to make proof of loss where the defendant does not, and to proceed against the insurance company as garnishee, see Vol. 4, p. 747, § 297.

As to the right of the plaintiff to proceed against defendant's fraudulent vendee as garnishee, see infra, § 823.

As to miscellaneous exceptions to the rule that an attaching or garnishing creditor stands in the shoes of the garnishee, see infra, §§ 822, 823.

[10] Davis Bros. v. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. 73 Ark. 120, 83 S. W. 318, 3 Ann. Cas. 658; Scott v. Hill, 3 Mo. 88, 22 Am. Dec. 462; Drew v. Towle, 27 N. H. 412, 59 Am. Dec. 380.

Annotation: 3 Ann. Cas. 660.

[11] As to the necessity and sufficiency of statements in the writ relating to the plaintiff's demand, see infra, § 728.

[12] Clyne v. Easton, E. & Co. 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253.

[13] See supra, § 670.

[14] Clyne v. Easton, E. & Co. 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253.

[15] See Vol. 4, p. 652, § 161.

[16] Salyers Auto Co. v. De Vore, 116 Neb. 317, 217 N. W. 94, 56 A.L.R. 594; Arrington v. Screws, 31 N. C. (9 Ired. L.) 42, 49 Am. Dec. 408.

[17] Wattles v. Wayne County Circuit Judge, 117 Mich. 662, 76 N. W. 115, 72 Am. St. Rep. 590.

[18] Burlington & M. River R. Co. v. Thompson, 31 Kan. 180, 1 P. 622, 47 Am. Rep. 497; Humphrey v. Midkiff, 122 La. 939, 48 So. 331, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 912; Williams v. Androscoggin & K. R. Co. 36 Me. 201, 58 Am. Dec. 742; McLean v. Sworts, 69 Minn. 128, 71 N. W. 925, 65 Am. St. Rep. 556; Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881; Davis v. Pawlette, 3 Wis. 300, 62 Am. Dec. 690.

credits of the defendant coming into the possession of the garnishee after the garnishment, the liability of the garnishee to the plaintiff may be measured by his liability to the defendant at the time of his disclosure in the garnishment, at the time of trial, or at the time of final judgment.[19]

§ 673. Liability for Interest.[1]—It is clear that interest and income owing from the garnishee to the defendant at the time of the service of a writ of garnishment is thereby bound to the same extent as other property or credits of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee at that time. However, there is no liability of the garnishee to the plaintiff for interest prior to the garnishment when there is no such liability from the garnishee to the defendant.[2] With respect to interest or income accruing after the garnishment, a garnishee is liable to the plaintiff for interest on the garnished property or funds where he would be liable to the debtor for the same as an incident of contract relating to the garnished property,[3] where he actually receives interest belonging to the defendant,[4] where he uses the garnished property for his own profit pending the outcome of the garnishment proceedings,[5] or where his conduct, rather than the orderly progress of the garnishment, is at fault for the detention of the garnished property and the consequent delay of satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim,[6] at least in jurisdictions where a garnishment is binding on property or funds of the defendant coming into the hands of the garnishee subsequent to garnishment and some time prior to disclosure, trial, judgment, or final execution in the garnishment.[7] Accordingly, if the garnishee wrongfully uses such funds as his own and thus is guilty of a breach of trust, he is bound to account for interest.[8] Similarly, garnishees have been held liable to pay interest on the amount in their hands for which they are charged from and after the day on which the demand of payment was made upon them.[9] In the absence of such circumstances as those just related, however, the general rule is that the garnishee is not liable for interest on the garnished property or funds pending the garnishment;[10] and the courts presume, unless the contrary appears, that the garnished property was not used by the garnishee for his own profit, but kept safely to answer the judgment of the court.[11] Nevertheless, where a garnishee retains money, not as a stakeholder pending litigation, but in order to litigate for his own benefit the title of the owner as assignee of the debt, he is entitled to no presumption that he has not used the money for his own benefit so as to render him not liable for interest.[12]

---

[19] See Vol. 4, p. 652, § 161.

[1] As to liability of garnishee to defendant for interest, see infra, § 686.

[2] Thompson v. Stewart, 3 Conn. 171, 8 Am. Dec. 168.

[3] Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172.

If a garnished deposit in a savings bank produces earnings during the period of attachment, those earnings are an incident of the attached fund and subject to the lien. It makes no difference by what name the earnings may be called, whether interest or dividends. Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172.

[4] Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172.

[5] Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845; Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; Moore v. Lowrey, 25 Iowa, 336, 95 Am. Dec. 790.

[6] Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845; Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172; Williams v. Androscoggin & K. R. Co. 36 Me. 201, 58 Am. Dec. 742; Sickman v. Lapsley, 13 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 224, 15 Am. Dec. 596.

Annotation: 100 Am. Dec. 511.

A withholding by a garnishee—e. g., a savings bank—of the attached fund pending the determination of the rights of a claimant thereto cannot be regarded as an unlawful withholding so as to subject the garnishee to a penal liability to pay interest thereon. Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360, 37 S. Ct. 172.

[7] Generally as to the binding effect of garnishment on the interest on, and earnings of, garnished property, see Vol. 4, p. 654, § 162.

[8] Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845.

[9] Williams v. Androscoggin & K. R. Co. 36 Me. 201, 58 Am. Dec. 742.

[10] Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845.

§ 674. Liability for Damages and Depreciation.—The general rule is that a garnishee is liable to the garnishing creditor only for loss or damage to the garnished property for which he is at fault, and that the plaintiff must bear the loss of natural deterioration and depreciation in value of the garnished property.[13] Thus, where shares of stock sought to be seized by garnishment process become worthless after service of such process and during the pendency of litigation between the seizing creditor and the garnishee as to the ownership of such stock and as to the liability of such stock to seizure for a debt of the record owner of same, the garnishee, who, having assumed obligations as depository of the certificate, contests the garnishment in good faith, is not liable for the loss.[14]

§ 675. Liability as Limited by Ignorance of Service of Garnishment.—The general rule is that ignorance of a garnishment, where there is no good reason to know of it, releases the garnishee from any liability to the plaintiff for surrender or payment in good faith of the garnished property or funds to the defendant or another.[15] However, since branch banks, though having no control over one another, are agencies of the principal bank, it has been held that it is the duty of the manager of a branch bank, when served with process of garnishment, to make this fact known, within the shortest time reasonably practicable, to the principal office of the bank and to a branch at another place in which the branch manager knows that the debtor has an account.[16] Consequently, a bank is liable to an attaching or garnishing creditor where the attachment or garnishment is served upon one of its branches and where the attachment debtor subsequently withdraws his deposit from another branch.[17]

§ 676. Liability as Limited by Ignorance of Identity of Defendant.—Under proper circumstances, ignorance of the identity of the defendant may relieve a garnishee from liability for failure to hold the garnished property or debt pending the garnishment.[18] However, the liability of the garnishee is not thus limited where he made payment in reliance upon an incorrect name of the defendant on the back of the writ where the correct name of the defendant was contained in the body of the writ.[19]

---

[11] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; Moore v. Lowrey, 25 Iowa, 336, 95 Am. Dec. 790.

[12] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268.

[13] Hearne v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 155 La. 488, 99 So. 413, 32 A.L.R. 570. See also Cottingham v. Greely Barnham Grocery Co. 129 Ala. 200, 38 So. 560, 87 Am. St. Rep. 58.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 572.

[14] Hearne v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 155 La. 488, 99 So. 413, 32 A.L.R. 570.

[15] Bates v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 60 Wis. 296, 19 N. W. 72, 50 Am. Rep. 369.

Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1354.

Where garnishment process is served upon one agent of a corporation while the property is in the actual possession of another agent, if the latter delivers the property to one authorized to receive it before the officer served can with reasonable diligence notify the other, the corporation is not liable. Bates v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 60 Wis. 296, 19 N. W. 72, 50 Am. Rep. 369.

[16] Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1354.

[17] Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1354.

[18] "It is required that the garnishment writ give accurate description of the principal defendant by correctly giving his name, and, failing in this respect, the garnishee can claim to be relieved of responsibility to the plaintiff in case the plaintiff does not show that the garnishee otherwise had knowledge of the identity of the defendant." Pure Oil Co. v. Walsh-Woldert Motor Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 36 S. W. (2d) 802, citing R. C. L.

§ 677. Liability as Limited by Ignorance of Goods and Effects of Defendant in Garnishee's Hands.—Ignorance of property or funds of the defendant in his hands may, under certain circumstances justifying his ignorance, release a garnishee from liability for not preserving the same pending the garnishment.[20] Accordingly, a deposit by the defendant in the name of another excuses the bank, when garnished, for failure to reserve the deposit, unless it had good reason to know that the deposit was meant to be garnished.[1] Similarly, notice of garnishment of credits and effects has been held not a sufficient garnishment of a debt.[2] However, a garnishee's liability will not be limited in this respect where he knew or had good reason to know that property or funds in his hand belonged to the defendant.[3]

§ 678. Liability as Limited by Surrender or Payment under Legal Compulsion.—The general rule is that surrender or payment of garnished property or funds under compulsion of law, as by process, releases the garnishee from liability to the plaintiff.[4]

§ 679. Liability as to Lost Property or Funds.—A garnishee is liable for the loss of the garnished property or funds through his fault,[5] but the loss of property or funds paid to a sheriff under garnishment proceedings, resulting from the subsequent absconding of that officer, must be borne by the plaintiff.[6]

3. Duty of Garnishee to Defendant

§ 680. Generally.[7]—The general rule is that a garnishee, being a mere stakeholder between the plaintiff and the defendant in the attachment,[8] is not bound in duty to the defendant to go further than to look to the jurisdiction, to act fairly, and to make a full disclosure in the garnishment proceedings.[9]

---

[19] Cook v. Coleman, 167 Mass. 414, 45 N. E. 913, 57 Am. St. Rep. 465.

[20] Clyne v. Easton, 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253; Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Cox, 36 Ind. App. 291, 73 N. E. 120, 114 Am. St. Rep. 377; First Nat. Bank v. Jaggers, 31 Md. 38, 100 Am. Dec. 53; Bingham v. Lamping, 26 Pa. 340, 67 Am. Dec. 418.

[1] First Nat. Bank v. Jaggers, 31 Md. 38, 100 Am. Dec. 53.

[2] Clyne v. Easton, 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253.

[3] Sykes v. City Sav. Bank, 115 Mich. 321, 73 N. W. 369, 69 Am. St. Rep. 562.

In Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966, a bank which at the time of the service of a garnishment upon it had notice of a fraudulent assignment of a note and mortgage from the defendant to his wife who had deposited it in the bank for collection, but, nevertheless, paid the proceeds to the wife, was held liable as a garnishee.

[4] Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; Goddard v. Hapgood, 25 Vt. 351, 60 Am. Dec. 272 (where plaintiff took garnished property on premature and void execution in same suit against defendant); Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. v. New York Carousal Mfg. Co. 95 Va. 515, 28 S. E. 888, 40 L.R.A. 237.

Contra: Despatch Line of Packets v. Ballamy Mfg. Co. 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203 (as to junior attachment or execution).

In Goddard v. Hapgood, 25 Vt. 351, 60 Am. Dec. 272, the court said: "We are satisfied the trustee should not be held liable for property taken out of his hands under these circumstances. If the execution was irregular, or void, the party will still have his redress, for the actual damages. But he cannot be thus held liable for property which this same creditor has already taken from him, upon the ground that he may recover its value. This would be to encourage circuity of action, which courts will not do."

[5] See supra, §§ 669 et seq.

[6] Re Dawson, 110 N. Y. 114, 17 N. E. 668, 6 Am. St. Rep. 346.

Annotation: 6 Am. St. Rep. 348.

[7] See also Vol. 4, p. 888, § 548.

[8] See supra, § 660.

[9] Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396.

Where a railroad company which had been garnished by a creditor of its em-

§ 681. Duty to Claim Exemption.—The duty of one summoned as garnishee to set up or disclose the principal defendant's exemptions has been declared broadly in a number of cases, although the decision in some of these cases is limited by the fact or assumption that the garnishment proceeding was ex parte and the principal defendant was without actual knowledge thereof.[10] Nevertheless, it has been held that it is the duty of the garnishee to make such disclosure, although the defendant has been formally cited to appear and has not voluntarily appeared for the purpose of maintaining his right.[11] It has been said that although the statute does not in terms require a garnishee to answer that the property garnished is exempt, it is in the interests of justice that such an exemption be stated.[12] Likewise, a garnishee paying into court the amount due the principal defendant in advance of an adjudication, as allowed by a statute, which expressly excepts a certain sum due to a householder for personal labor, does so at his peril, unless the principal defendant is estopped by circumstances from asserting his claim for this exemption, since the garnishee may always protect himself by his disclosure, by stating at least that he does not know whether the principal defendant is or is not a householder.[13] However, there are decisions to the effect that the garnishee is under no obligation to set up the exemption of the debt, such a plea being a personal privilege of the principal debtor, and that the garnishee may plead only that which tends to discharge him from the debt, at least when the debtor has actual knowledge of the proceedings.[14] Undoubtedly, if the garnishee sets up in his answer the exemption rights of the principal debtor, and the decision of the court is adverse thereto and he is compelled to pay the debt into court, he will have performed his full duty to the principal debtor, and will not be required to prosecute the claim of exemption further.[15]

§ 682. Duty to Make Defense or to Notify Defendant.—The view has been taken that in an action against a nonresident defendant who is served with notice of the same constructively only, as by publication, it is the duty of a garnishee to notify such principal defendant of such garnishment proceedings, if he is able to do so, and also to interpose in behalf of such principal defendant any defense thereto of which he is cognizant and which he is able to make.[16] Some cases hold that the garnishee, after disclosing the ployee in the courts of another state caused the employee to be notified personally of the pendency of the garnishment suit, aside from the judicial notice that he received, and disclosed to the foreign courts the nature of the demand, and sought to claim the exemption of the employee under the laws of Indiana, the company could not be held liable by the employee in a subsequent action by him. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396.

---

The garnishee is regarded by the law somewhat in the light of a trustee. Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

[10] Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 105, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Sharitt, 43 Kan. 375, 23 P. 430, 8 L.R.A. 385, 19 Am. St. Rep. 143; Crisp v. Ft. Wayne & E. R. Co. 98 Mich. 648, 57 N. W. 1050, 22 L.R.A. 732; Wright v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. 19 Neb. 175, 27 N. W. 90, 56 Am. Rep. 747; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734; Clark v. Averill, 31 Vt. 512, 76 Am. Dec. 131.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

[11] Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734.

Annotation: 19 Am. St. Rep. 737.

[12] Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734.

[13] Crisp v. Ft. Wayne & E. R. Co. 98 Mich. 648, 57 N. W. 1050, 22 L.R.A. 732.

[14] Carson' v. Memphis & C. R. Co. 88 Tenn. 646, 13 S. W. 588, 8 L.R.A. 412, 17 Am. St. Rep. 921.

[15] Annotation: 5 Ann. Cas. 170.

[16] Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084; Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 103, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168; Stroup v. Sullivan, 2 Ga. 275, 46 Am. Dec. 389; Czesna v. Lietuva Loan & Sav. Asso. 252 Ill. App. 612, citing R. C. L.; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918C, exemption in his answer, should notify the principal defendant of the garnishment.[17] A distinction has been drawn between the case where the defendant was personally served within the jurisdiction in which the garnishment proceeding was had and a case where he was served constructively only,[18] and the view has been taken that the conclusion of garnishment proceedings will protect the garnishee as against further liability on the garnishor's claim, although he did not notify the defendant of the proceedings, if the defendant had actual notice or was personally served with process.[19] Indeed, it has even been held that constructive service on the defendant is sufficient to relieve the garnishee of such duty.[20] The view has been taken that the garnishee's failure either to set up a claim for exemptions or to notify the defendant would not in any event deprive him of the protection of the judgment in garnishment where the claim would have been futile, whether made by the garnishee or the principal defendant.[1] Accordingly, the consent of a garnishee to a judgment impounding his debt to the princi-823; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637; Stewart v. Northern Assur. Co. 45 W. Va. 734, 32 S. E. 218, 44 L.R.A. 101. See also First Wisconsin Nat. Bank, v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736.

---

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

It is the duty of the garnishee to give notice to his own creditor, if he would protect himself, so that the creditor may have the opportunity to defend himself against the claim of the person suing out the attachment, and the failure on the part of the garnishee to give this proper notice of the levying of the attachment is generally such a neglect of duty on his part as will prevent his availing himself of the judgment in the attachment suit as a bar to the suit of the creditor against him. Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084.

The duty of the garnishee to give notice of the garnishment proceedings to the principal debtor is discharged by pleading the judgment therein in bar to an action on the debt while there then remained nearly a year in which the principal debtor might litigate the question of his liability in the court which rendered the judgment. Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084.

If a void contract is sued on by a foreign attachment, the garnishee must make defense to the action, or notify, if practicable, his absent creditor of the pendency of the attachment proceedings, so that such creditor may make such defense; otherwise, a judgment rendered by default will not protect the garnishee when sued by his creditor. Stewart v. Northern Assur. Co. 45 W. Va. 734, 32 S. E. 218, 44 L.R.A. 101.

[17] Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 103, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734.

A company which owed wages and was summoned as garnishee of one of its day laborers, knowing that such wages were exempt from garnishment, had the duty of disclosing the "exemption to the court when it made its answer to the summons of garnishment, and then to insist upon the same as a legal ground for a refusal to pay the money into court," or, "at least, it should have disclosed in its answer the grounds upon which the sum due Fulford [principal defendant] was exempt from the process of garnishment, and should have notified him of the fact that it had been garnished." Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 103, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168.

In Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734, the court said: "It would be a proper practice for a garnishee, after disclosing the fact which would show the exemption, to have the defendant cited, to the end that he should make his own defense."

[18] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

[19] Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084; Carson v. Memphis & C. R. Co. 88 Tenn. 646, 13 S. W. 588, 8 L.R.A. 412, 17 Am. St. Rep. 921; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 635 (as to mere bailee for hire).

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

In Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084, where the principal defendant, a nonresident, was served constructively in the garnishment proceeding, the court said that generally the failure of the garnishee to give proper notice to his creditor of the attaching suit would be such a neglect of duty on his part which he owed his creditor as would prevent his availing himself of the judgment in the attachment suit as a bar to the subsequent suit by his creditor, but where, as in the case at bar, the latter, under the statute, had an opportunity for a year and a day after the entry of the judgment to litigate the question of his liability in the garnishment proceeding, but took no proceedings to that end, although he knew of the judgment within a few days after its rendition, he could not complain that, by the failure of the garnishee to give him notice, he had been deprived of defense on the merits.

See also infra, § 964.

[20] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

[1] Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

pal debtor does not make the payment under the judgment voluntary, where he was absolutely without defense, so as to prevent him from pleading such payment in bar to an action on the debt.[2]

§ 683. —In Garnishment of Salary or Wage Cases. —The weight of opinion is that good faith and fair dealing require that a garnishee, in making his answer of a disclosure, state every fact which may aid the court in determining whether the garnishee should be required to pay the money into court for the use of the plaintiff, and in accordance with this principle, where an employer is garnished in a suit against its nonresident employee, it should set up his exemption, and if it does not, judgment and payment in the garnishment proceedings will constitute no defense to an action by the employee on his claim.[3] Accordingly, failure of a garnishee to state in his answer the facts which show an exemption of the principal defendant, under a statute providing that "no current wages for personal services shall be subject to garnishment," will deprive him of the protection of a judgment against him as against the principal defendant, if the latter has not appeared or been formally cited to appear in the garnishment proceedings, although he made default in the principal suit.[4] Likewise, it has been held that where an action against a nonresident defendant who is served with notice thereof only by publication is upon a claim or debt assigned to the plaintiff in violation of a statute of another state inhibiting such an assignment for the purpose of attachment, garnishment, or other process, outside of such other state, when the creditor, the debtor (being a citizen of such other state), and the person or corporation owing the money intended to be reached by the proceedings in attachment or garnishment are all within the jurisdiction of such other state, so that the res may be seized as well in that state if not exempt by law, the violation of such statute of that state is a defense to the garnishment proceedings and should be interposed by the garnishee.[5] However, the view has been taken that where the employee has actual notice of the garnishment proceedings, but fails to make any defense thereto, the judgment therein will be conclusive on him and a protection to the garnishee, although the garnishee fails to set up the employee's statutory exemption.[6]

---

[2] Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084.

[3] Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 103, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 823; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

In Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 103, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168, it was held that one who owes wages which are exempt from garnishment, upon being garnished, must set up the facts of the garnishment in his answer, and, if he fails to do so and permits judgment to be rendered against himself, and, upon the issuance of a fi. fa., pays the money into court, he does so at his peril and will be liable in a suit by the laborer, notwithstanding that the latter was a party to the original action, but did not contest the same, and a judgment was rendered against him therein.

[4] Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. E. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734.

[5] St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 823.

Generally, as to remedies against violation of exemption laws of forum by attachment or garnishment suit in foreign jurisdiction, see Vol. 4, p. 847, § 481, infra, § 721.

Generally, as to full faith and credit due judgment on garnishment of claim in foreign jurisdiction where claim arose in the state of the forum and is there exempt from garnishment, see infra, §§ 810, 811.

[6] Carson v. Memphis & C. R. Co. 88 Tenn. 648, 13 S. W. 588, 8 L.R.A. 412, 17 Am. St. Rep. 921.

In Carson v. Memphis & C. R. Co. 88 Tenn. 646, 13 S. W. 588, 8 L.R.A. 412, 17 Am. St. Rep. 921, where a railroad was garnished in the courts of another state for wages due an employee for services performed, and the employee had actual notice of the proceedings and failed to make any defense, it was held that the railroad company did not have the obligation or duty to set up the exemption law given by the law of Tennessee, the court saying: "The contention of Carson would make the obligation greatly more burdensome by throwing upon the company the additional responsibility and expense of knowing, at its peril, that there was an

§ 684. Duty to Require Execution of Attachment Bonds.—The general rule is that it is the duty of the garnishee to require the execution of bonds essential to the validity of the garnishment proceedings before rendering the plaintiff any satisfaction in such proceedings.[7]

§ 685. Duty where Defendant Succeeds in Suit, and as to Surplus.—It is obvious that a garnishee may not retain property against the defendant where the garnishment has terminated in the defendant's favor. Likewise, he cannot retain against the defendant an excess over the amount necessary to discharge the garnishment, at least after judgment and satisfaction in the garnishment.[8] Furthermore, the general rule is that a pending garnishment does not justify the garnishee in holding against the defendant property or funds of the defendant upon which the garnishment is not binding, and constitutes no danger of liability of the garnishee to the plaintiff. Accordingly, where the writ of garnishment states a certain amount as the demand of the plaintiff, the garnishee has no right to retain a greater amount against the defendant, for under such a circumstance the garnishment is not binding on the surplus. However, the garnishee need yield no property or funds to the defendant, where the effect of the garnishment is to bind all property and funds of the defendant in his possession pending the garnishment.[9]

§ 686. Liability for Interest.—Liability of the garnishee to the defendant for interest is limited in the same manner as is his liability to the defendant generally. There is no liability for interest as damages for the detention of the property in so far as such detention is consequent upon the garnishment.[10] But interest actually earned by the property and received by the garnishee is owing to the defendant in the same manner and to the same extent as are his property and funds generally. Accordingly, a garnishee who has paid a judgment rendered against him may be held liable to his creditor for interest on the remainder of the debt from the date of the judgment in garnishment,[11] though not prior thereto.[12] Generally, the garnishee is liable to the defendant for retaining property or funds of the defendant for his own benefit,[13] as, for example, when it is not bound by the garnishment [14] or not appropriated to the satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand.[15] The garnishee is liable for interest where he has fraudulently participated in the institution of the garnishment proceedings or in acts delaying their termination.[16] Similarly, where a garnishee retains money, not as a stakeholder pending the litigation, but that he may litigate for his own benefit the title of the owner of it, he is entitled to no presumption, rendering him not liable for interest, that he exemption law in his favor, and of claiming the benefit of it for him. Such a requirement would be unjust and unreasonable." The court gave as an additional reason that exemption laws had no extraterritorial effect, and, even though the same had been pleaded, would have availed the employee nothing.

---

[7] Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

[8] Sickman v. Lapsley, 13 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 224, 15 Am. Dec. 596; Berry Bros. v. Davis, 77 Tex. 191, 13 S. W. 978, 19 Am. St. Rep. 748.

[9] See supra, § 672.

[10] Moore v. Lowrey, 25 Iowa, 336, 95 Am. Dec. 790; Fitzgerald v. Caldwell, 2 Dall. (Pa.) 215, 1 L. ed. 354; Berry Bros. v. Davis, 77 Tex. 191, 13 S. W. 978, 13 Am. St. Rep. 748; Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966.

[11] Berry Bros. v. Davis, 77 Tex. 191, 13 S. W. 978, 19 Am. St. Rep. 748.

[12] Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966.

[13] Moore v. Lowrey, 25 Iowa, 336, 95 Am. Dec. 790; Sickman v. Lapsley, 13 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 224, 15 Am. Dec. 596.

[14] Sickman v. Lapsley, 13 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 224, 15 Am. Dec. 596.

[15] Rice v. Jones, 103 N. C. 226, 9 S. E. 571, 14 Am. St. Rep. 801.

[16] Fitzgerald v. Caldwell, 2 Dall. (Pa.) 215, 1 L. ed. 354.

has not used the money for his own benefit.[17] Generally liability to the defendant for interest on garnished property or funds may be avoided by the garnishee by surrendering or paying the same into court.[18] The same general rules govern the liability of the garnishee to the defendant's assignee for interest on the garnished property or funds.[19] However, it may be added to what already has been said, that it has been held that a garnishee is liable for interest to an assignee of the defendant where he has been notified of the assignment previous to the garnishment but, nevertheless, refuses to surrender the property or funds to the assignee.[20]

4. Duty of Garnishee to Third Persons

§ 687. Generally.—The garnishee, in making his disclosure, must be strictly impartial, and must not make an unqualified admission of indebtedness to the principal defendant, without disclosing real facts which leave it in doubt whether the property or debt belongs or is owing to the principal defendant or to a third person.[1] Nevertheless, it is said that a garnishee is not bound at its peril to ask that all claimants be made parties to the proceeding or to defend the rights of claimants to be fully protected by the judgment.[2]

§ 688. Duty to Notify Adverse Claimants.—To protect himself against liability to adverse claimants of the garnished property, of whose claims he has notice, the garnishee must, under certain circumstances, notify them of the garnishment,[3] or at least disclose their claims in his disclosure in the garnishment.[4] But the view is taken that actual knowledge by the claimant of the garnishment will relieve the garnishee of the duty of notifying him and making a defense on his claim in the garnishment.[5]

---

[17] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268 (where owner was assignee of defendant).

[18] Stephens v. Pennsylvania Casualty Co. 135 Mich. 189, 97 N. W. 686, 3 Ann. Cas. 478.

See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[19] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; Moore v. Lowrey, 25 Iowa, 336, 95 Am. Dec. 790; Fitzgerald v. Caldwell, 2 Dall. (Pa.) 215, 1 L. ed. 354.

[20] Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268.

[1] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

[2] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[3] See Hambley & Co. v. H. W. White & Co. 192 N. C. 31, 133 S. E. 399, citing R. C. L.; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 237, 45 A.L.R. 637; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

Where the vendee of property was garnished in an attachment suit by one claiming that title to it was in the principal defendant in that suit, and the vendee did not apprise the vendor that the title acquired by the purchase from him had been called in question, or give him notice of the garnishee process served upon him, or invite or request him to defend the title, the garnishee cannot plead the garnishee judgment in bar to a subsequent action by the vendor against him for the purchase price of the property, he having been bound not only to notify the vendor of the pendency of the proceeding, but also to tender to him the conduct of the defense or request him to defend. Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

However, where one intervenes in a garnishment proceeding, and claims the funds in the possession of the garnishee, and later withdraws his petition of intervention and fails to prosecute his claim to the funds garnished, the garnishee is under no obligation to such claimant to serve notice upon him of the garnishment, or to interpose any defense in behalf of such claimant, but has a right to presume that such claimant, by his act, has abandoned his claim to the ownership of the funds garnished, and the compliance by the garnishee with the judgment of the garnishment court, requiring him to pay the funds in his hands to the satisfaction of the judgment in favor of the garnishee plaintiff, is binding upon such claimant. Schenbeck v. First Nat. Bank, 69 Okla. 21, 169 P. 619, L.R.A.1918B, 1066.

[4] See infra, § 689.

[5] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

A garnishee owes no duty to one who has intervened in the garnishment proceeding and claimed the funds in the garnishee's possession, after such intervener has withdrawn his petition of intervention and failed to prosecute his claim for the funds garnisheed, to serve notice upon him of the garnishment proceeding, or interpose any defense in such intervener's behalf; he has a right to presume that such intervener has abandoned his claim to the ownership of the funds garnisheed. Schenbeck v. First Nat. Bank, 69 Okla. 21, 169 P. 619, L.R.A.1918B, 1066.

§ 689. Duty to Disclose Adverse Claims.—A garnishee must disclose adverse claims to the debt or property garnished in order to protect himself against subsequent demands by the adverse claimants,[6] at least where he has not notified such adverse claimants of the garnishment.[7] It is the duty of a garnishee to make disclosure. He is obligated fully and fairly to state all that he knows concerning his indebtedness to the defendant.[8]

§ 690. Duty to Disclose Assignments.—Where one summoned in garnishment proceedings against his creditor knows or acquires knowledge before his answer that the debt had been assigned prior to the institution of the proceedings, he is bound to disclose such fact in his answer and bring it to the attention of the court in order that the assignee's claim may be heard and determined; otherwise, he may be held liable in a subsequent suit by the assignee.[9] However, it seems clear that ordinarily, after the garnishee has in good faith, and without knowledge of the assignment, paid the debt, pursuant to judgment or execution against him as the debtor of the assignor, the assignee cannot enforce a second payment from the garnishee. The fault is that of the assignee in failing to give notice to the garnishee.[10] But it seems, also, that there may be instances where the garnishee is at fault in failing to require production of the written evidence of the indebtedness, and so is liable to the assignee, notwithstanding lack of notice of the assignment.[11] The view has been taken that the garnishee may be protected in making payment pursuant to judgment in the garnishment proceedings, although he has notice of the assignment at the time he makes the payment, if the notice is not given until after such judgment is rendered, and is therefore, for this reason, insufficient.[12] On the other hand, it has been held that where the garnishee at the time of the judgment against him has notice that a third party is claiming an assignment of the debt, it is his duty to plead the assignment in defense of the garnishment proceedings, and that if he does not do so, he cannot resist the assignee's claim against him by showing the judgment in the garnishment proceedings.[13] At least, it seems that where by statute the garnishee, up to the time of satisfaction of the judgment in garnishment, still has the opportunity to be heard against its enforcement, as where, for example, he is entitled to show cause against the issuance of an execution, it is his duty to set up the prior assignment as a cause against the issuing of execution on the judgment in the garnishment.[14] This division of authority as to the liability of the garnishee to the assignee of a chose in action who has notified the garnishee of the assignment subsequently to judgment in the garnishment proceedings, after which the garnishee has satisfied such judgment, is in accordance with the division of authority with respect to priority between the garnishment and a previous assignment where the garnishment reaches final judgment without any notice from the assignee to the garnishee—viz., the debtor—of such assignment.[15]

---

[6] Bessemer Sav. Bank v. Anderson, 134 Ala. 343, 32 So. 716, 92 Am. St. Rep. 38; Herndon v. Swearingen, 1 Port. (Ala.) 192, 26 Am. Dec. 359; Whipple v. Robbins, 97 Mass. 107, 93 Am. Dec. 64; First Wisconsin Nat. Bank v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646; L.R.A.1918C, 731.

In Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637, however, it was held that where one had deposited stock with another under an agreement that the latter would hold the property for the use and benefit of certain corporations, and later garnishment proceedings were commenced against the bailee by creditors of one of the corporations, the bailee was not required to file a supplemental answer when one of the claimants assigned his claim to another three years after the garnishment proceedings had been instituted, and after the garnishee had made a full answer to the writ and the court had acquired jurisdiction of the parties and the property.

However, see discussion of Schenbeck v. First Nat. Bank, 69 Okla. 21, 169 P. 619, L.R.A.1918B, 1068, supra, note 5, § 688.

A bank garnished for the proceeds of a draft which it has collected for a nonresident owner as the property of the drawer is bound to make a frank statement to the court of the facts with respect to its correspondent's claim to ownership of the funds as a bona fide holder of the draft for value. First Wisconsin Nat. Bank v. People's Nat. Bank, 136 Va. 276, 118 S. E. 82, 36 A.L.R. 736.

[7] See supra, § 688.

[8] Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

As to disclosure, see infra, §§ 754 et seq.

[9] Bessemer Sav. Bank v. Anderson, 134 Ala. 343, 32 So. 716, 92 Am. St. Rep. 38; Cox v. Cronan, 82 Conn. 175, 72 A. 927, 135 Am. St. Rep. 268; Walter v. Whitlock, 9 Fla. 86, 76 Am. Dec. 607; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Black v. Brisbin, 3 Minn. 360, Gil. 253, 74 Am. Dec. 762; Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, Gil. 205, 66 Am. Dec. 541; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690; Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 655; 52 A.L.R. 116; L.R.A.1918C, 731.

A garnishee notified of the assignment to a third party, before regular garnishment, of his indebtedness to the principal defendant must protect himself by presenting the facts in the garnishment proceedings; otherwise, he will be estopped from setting up the garnishment judgment in defense of an action by the assignee against him. Black v. Brisbin, 3 Minn. 360, Gil. 253, 74 Am. Dec. 762.

Where an insurance company has received notice of the assignment of an insurance policy before the commencement of the garnishment, in time to enable it to show such fact in its answer or before judgment against it, and neglects to show such defense, it cannot resist a subsequent claim by the assignee; but if the insurer was not notified of such assignment prior to judgment, it cannot be held liable in a subsequent suit by the assignee, even though at the time of the latter suit the garnishee judgment had not been paid. Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451. Wright, Ch. J., dissented, saying that if the garnishee had notice of the assignment before payment or execution, it was sufficient and the assignee should recover.

[10] Houtz v. Daniels, 36 Idaho, 544, 211 P. 1088, 32 A.L.R. 1016; Richards v. Griggs, 16 Mo. 416, 57 Am. Dec. 240.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1025; 52 A.L.R. 120.

The view has been taken that it is the duty of the assignee to intervene and protect his own interest when he has notice of the garnishment, and that his failure to do so relieves the garnishee from all liability to him.[16] Thus, it has been said that a mere bailee for hire who becomes garnishee in a proceeding to reach the property bailed is protected from claims of a subsequent assignee of the property, who has knowledge from any reliable source that the proceedings are pending and fails to assert his claim, although he is not made a party to the proceeding.[17]

§ 691. Duty to Disclose Assignments of Judgments.—Some of the cases take the view that an assignment of a judgment, though without notice to the judgment debtor, leaves him no longer indebted to the judgment creditor, and they hold, therefore, that there is nothing of the judgment creditor's in his hands subject to garnishment, so that if he pays the garnishor he will not be protected against the assignee.[18] Other cases, however, take the view that the question depends upon notice and hold that an assignment of a judgment without notice to the judgment debtor leaves him free to deal with the garnishor as if the assignor had never assigned the judgment.[19] With respect to when notice of an assignment of a judgment debt must be given to the judgment debtor in order to render the debtor liable if he pays the debt to the garnishing creditor, there are cases which hold that such notice is sufficient for that purpose if it is given before the garnishment,[1] before the judgment debtor answers the garnishment,[2] or before judgment in the garnishment.[3] This division of authority as to when such notice must be given is also found with respect to the matter of the effect of such notice on priority between the garnishment and the assignment of a judgment.[4]

---

[11] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 120.

[12] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 120.

[13] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 657.

[14] McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 117.

[15] See infra, §§ 874 et seq.

[16] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[17] Ibid.

[18] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1024.

See also Brown v. Ayres, 33 Cal. 525, 91 Am. Dec. 655.

[19] Buckeye Ref. Co. v. Kelly, 163 Cal. 9, 124 P. 536, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 840; Houtz v. Daniels, 36 Idaho, 544, 211 P. 1088, 32 A.L.R. 1016. See also Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, Gil. 205, 66 Am. Dec. 541.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1025.

In Buckeye Ref. Co. v. Kelly, 163 Cal. 8, 124 P. 536, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 840, where the judgment debtor paid a judgment which had been partially assigned, and which was levied on in execution of a judgment against the judgment creditor, the court held that the judgment debtor, in the first place, was not obliged to take notice of the partial assignment, but that, in the second place, even if there had been a valid legal assignment, the judgment debtor was protected, as without notice of the assignment he had paid the judgment.

§ 692. Duty to Require Execution of Attachment Bonds.—It is the duty of a garnishee to require the garnishing creditor to give security, as required by statute, for the protection of persons whose property is garnished in his possession.[5] Thus, it is the duty of a garnishee to see that a plaintiff in attachment executes a bond for refund, required by statute to be made after judgment in execution and before payment; and where the attaching creditor does not execute the bond, the garnishee is not bound to pay, and if he does so, it is a voluntary payment and constitutes no defense to an action by an assignee of the note.[6]

§ 693. Duty to Appeal.—Under some circumstances, it is the duty of a garnishee to appeal from judgment in order to protect the interests of third persons.[7]

5. Rights, Duties, and Liabilities of Garnishee on Negotiable Paper

§ 694. Generally.—A garnishee upon negotiable paper has the same rights and duties as a garnishee generally. The note, or liability upon it, whichever is garnished,[8] is impounded in his possession in the custody of the law, and he is regarded as an innocent stakeholder of the same and owes a duty of impartiality to each party. He is bound by the general rule that a garnishee who refuses to avail himself of available methods for his protection acts at his risk and peril.[9] Consequently, if a garnishee indebted upon negotiable commercial paper omits in due season to claim the benefit of a statute enacted to afford him protection against duplicate liability, he must bear the consequent loss.[10] However, a garnishee upon such paper, because of its negotiable character, acquires certain peculiar rights and is under certain duties in addition to the usual rights and duties of an ordinary garnishee. The garnishee must withhold all payment upon it from a garnishing creditor until it matures and he is satisfied that the defendant was the holder of it at maturity, or until it is surrendered to him.[11]

A judgment debtor who in good faith, in answer to garnishment process issued by a judgment creditor of his creditor, pays the amount of the judgment to the sheriff and takes his receipt therefor, without notice of an assignment of the judgment, will not be compelled to pay the amount of the judgment to the assignee. Houtz v. Daniels, 36 Idaho, 544, 211 P. 1088, 32 A.L.R. 1016. Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1026.

[1] Clodfelter v. Cox, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 330, 60 Am. Dec. 157 (not necessary to result).

[2] Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450.

[3] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1027.

[4] See infra, § 866.

[5] Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.
Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 654.

[6] Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

[7] Hardy v. Hunt, 11 Cal. 343, 70 Am. Dec. 787.
Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 659.

[8] See Vol. 4, p. 723, § 262.
Under a statute requiring a garnishee to deliver choses in action to the constable, failure to deliver a check will render the garnishee liable to the attaching creditor for its amount in case the proceeds are lost to him through the act of the garnishee. Great Western Finance Co. v. Hamilton Nat. Bank, 76 Colo. 48, 230 P. 115, 41 A.L.R. 997.

[9] Smoot v. Eslava, 23 Ala. 659, 58 Am. Dec. 310; Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 41 Am. Dec. 626.
Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646; L.R.A.1918C, 759.

[10] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 758.

[11] Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504.

Good faith in the maker of negotiable commercial paper is just as essential to safeguard him in case of garnishment as it is to protect the indorsee. The law, it has been declared, does not shield the maker of a negotiable promissory note from a judgment in garnishment where he colluded with the payee to defeat the garnishor's right.[12] Not all the courts, however, are in full harmony upon this matter. It has been held, for example, that the fact that the maker of a negotiable promissory note knew when he made and delivered it that by its means the payee purposed to defraud his creditors—a purpose the maker meant to facilitate—does not make him liable to be charged as garnishee while the paper is outstanding and unmatured.[13]

§ 695. Duty to Disclose Transfer.—Where the maker of a note is garnished by creditors of the payee, and, before final judgment, he receives notice of an assignment of the note, transferred before service of a writ of garnishment upon him, he is bound to bring such fact to the attention of the court, and, for his failure to do so, he may be held liable in a subsequent suit by the holder.[14] Some cases hold that the garnishee has the duty of disclosing knowledge of an assignment or transfer of the note made before the commencement of the garnishment proceedings when notice has been given before answer has been filed.[15] The view has been taken that where the garnishee is notified of an assignment of the note garnished only after execution has been awarded against him, he should not render satisfaction of the judgment, but should protect himself by a bill of interpleader.[16] But a maker of an overdue promissory note who has disclosed an indebtedness thereon to the defendant in garnishment and, without waiting for judgment, has paid the debt to the plaintiff is fully protected thereby against the claim of an indorsee after maturity of the paper if he had no notice of his transfer, and a judgment in the garnishment proceedings against the garnishee affords him a good defense in a later action upon his note by a holder who did not acquire it until after it was past due.[17]

C. GARNISHMENT AS A DEFENSE TO OTHER PROCEEDINGS ON GARNISHED CLAIM

1. AS DEFENSE TO PROCEEDINGS BY DEFENDANT

§ 696. Generally.[18]—The courts are not entirely agreed as to the effect of a pending garnishment proceeding upon a subsequent action against the garnishee by the principal defendant. It is clear, however, that the pending garnishment proceeding does not constitute a defense in bar.[19] In some jurisdictions the pendency of garnishment proceedings may be pleaded in abatement of a subsequent action begun against the garnishee by the principal defendant to recover the claim garnished. The majority rule, however, is that the pendency of garnishment proceedings will not abate the subsequent action by the principal defendant,[20] although it is uniformly recognized that

---

See Vol. 4, p. 728, §§ 267 et seq.
Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 731.

[12] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 748.

[13] Willis v. Heath, 75 Tex. 124, 12 S. W. 971, 16 Am. St. Rep. 876.

[14] Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 41 Am. Dec. 626.
Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 652; L.R.A.1918C, 759.

[15] Smoot v. Eslava, 23 Ala. 659, 58 Am. Dec. 310.
Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 652; L.R.A.1918C, 759.

[16] Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

[17] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 763.

[18] As to effect of judgment or satisfaction thereof in garnishment as defense to action by defendant against garnishee, see infra, §§ 804 et seq.

[19] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 961; 9 Ann. Cas. 478; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 365.

[20] See ABATEMENT, SURVIVAL, AND REVIVAL, Vol. 1, p. 40, § 35.

the garnishee should be protected from double liability.[1] The pendency of the garnishment proceeding will furnish sufficient cause for a continuance of the subsequent action begun by the principal defendant on the garnished claim, or for a stay of proceedings therein, until final determination has been made in the garnishment proceedings.[2] In other cases, the courts have allowed the subsequent action begun by the principal defendant upon the garnished claim to proceed to final determination, but have allowed the judgment debtor summoned as garnishee, upon proper application, to secure an order staying the enforcement of the judgment to abide the result of the garnishment proceedings.[3]

If the garnishment proceedings are void, they do not affect the subsequent action begun by the principal defendant against the garnishee,[4] although a mere lack of merits in a pending garnishment does not prevent it from operating as a defense to a subsequent action on the garnished claim.[5]

§ 697. Where Suit Was Instituted Prior to Garnishment Proceedings.—A defendant in an action who is, subsequent to the institution of the suit against him, garnished by creditors of the plaintiff cannot set up the garnishment in complete bar of the action against him.[6] Moreover, it is clear that when the action for the recovery of the debt is commenced before the garnishment of the defendant therein, he cannot plead the subsequent garnishment proceedings in abatement,[7] for in any case, priority of suit determines the right of abatement by reason of the pendency of another action.[8] The defendant is entitled, however, to protection from the imposition of a double liability by reason of the subsequent garnishment proceedings;[9] but there is a difference of opinion as to the proper course to be pursued,[10] which would seem to be to raise in the garnishment action the objection of the pendency of the prior action to recover the debt, particularly where the two proceedings are in different states.[11] In some cases, however, where both the action and the garnishment are in the same state, the defendant has been permitted to set up the subsequent garnishment proceedings by a plea puis darrein continuance.[12] This has been done, however, only where it is recognized that a debt in suit or a judgment upon it is garnishable;[13] the subsequent garnishment clearly constitutes no defense otherwise. Other courts, however, have taken the position that garnishment or trustee process instituted in one state subsequent to the commencement of the action in another to recover the debt cannot be pleaded puis darrein continuance or otherwise made available in the latter action.[14] In such cases, the maxim "qui prior est tempore, portior est jure" is applicable.[15]

---

[1] See infra, § 781.

[2] Crawford v. Slade, 9 Ala. 887, 44 Am. Dec. 463 (explaining Crawford v. Clute, 7 Ala. 157, 41 Am. Dec. 92); McKeon v. McDermott, 22 Cal. 667, 83 Am. Dec. 86; Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504; American Hardwood Lumber Co. v. Joannin-Hansen Co. 99 Minn. 305, 109 N. W. 403, 9 Ann. Cas. 477; Harvey v. Great Northern R. Co. 50 Minn. 405, 52 N. W. 905, 17 L.R.A. 84.

[3] Early v. Rogers, 16 How. (U. S.) 599, 14 L. ed. 1074; Crawford v. Slade, 9 Ala. 887, 44 Am. Dec. 463; McKeon v. McDermott, 22 Cal. 667, 83 Am. Dec. 86; Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. South Florida Farms Co. 91 Fla. 593, 109 So. 212, 48 A.L.R. 957; Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 960; 19 Am. St. Rep. 145; 9 Ann. Cas. 479; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 365.

[4] Missouri P. R. Co. v. Sharitt, 43 Kan. 375, 23 P. 430, 8 L.R.A. 385, 19 Am. St. Rep. 143; Douglass v. Phenix Ins. Co. 138 N. Y. 209, 33 N. E. 938, 20 L.R.A. 118, 34 Am. St. Rep. 448; Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co. 6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166.

[5] American Hardwood Lumber Co. v. Joannin-Hansen Co. 99 Minn. 305, 109 N. W. 403, 9 Ann. Cas. 477.

[6] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 962.

As to pendency of other proceedings on garnished claim as defense to garnishment, see infra, § 783.

[7] Wabash R. Co. v. Tourville, 179 U. S. 322, 45 L. ed. 210, 21 S. Ct. 113, affirming 148 Mo. 614, 50 S. W. 300, 71 Am. St. Rep. 650; Wallace v. McConnell, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 136, 10 L. ed. 95; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Bradshaw, 37 Okla. 317, 132 P. 327, L.R.A. 1917F, 1013.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 959; L.R.A.1917F, 1019.

To sustain the validity of a plea of garnishment, the garnishment must have preceded the commencement of the suit in which the plea is made. Wabash R. Co. v. Tourville, 179 U. S. 322, 45 L. ed. 210, 21 S. Ct. 113.

[8] See Abatement, Survival, and Revival, Vol. 1, p. 31, § 21.

[9] See infra, § 781.

[10] See discussion in Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. v. New York Carousal Mfg. Co. 95 Va. 515, 28 S. E. 888, 40 L.R.A. 237.

[11] Whipple v. Robbins, 97 Mass. 107, 93 Am. Dec. 64; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Bradshaw, 37 Okla. 317, 132 P. 327, L.R.A. 1917F, 1013.

See infra, § 783.

§ 698. Garnishment Proceeding in Another State.—It may fairly be conceded that the pendency of garnishment proceedings in one state does not constitute a ground for a plea in bar to proceedings in another state by the original creditor upon the debt.[16] The mere service of a garnishment writ does not give the court exclusive jurisdiction as against garnishment proceedings begun in another state.[17] It must be conceded, however, that the garnishee should be protected from having to pay the same debt twice. And the courts are generally agreed as to the necessity and equity under such circumstances of affording protection to the garnishee[18] by allowing him to set up such proceedings by way of defense to the action against him,[19] although they differ as to the mode and method by which such protection must be afforded.[20] The rule is fully applicable to an action wherein the defendant is garnishee with respect to the cause of action in a garnishment proceeding in another state and the plaintiff is an assignee of the defendant in the garnishment proceedings, where the assignment was subsequent to the garnishment proceedings.[1]

In a number of cases the courts have abated the action on the debt when attachment or garnishment proceedings were pending in another state to reach the same debt,[2] apparently leaving the plaintiff to his remedy of later instituting a new action if the debt has not been subjected to the claim of the garnishor. Other cases, however, either disapprove of or entirely repudiate the rule that such a pending garnishment proceeding abates the action on the debt.[3] Some courts merely continue or suspend the action until the determination of the pending proceedings in the other state.[4] Others afford protection to the garnishee by suspending the execution of the judgment recovered in the action on the debt until the determination of attachment or garnishment proceedings in the other state.[5]

---

[12] Harvey v. Great Northern R. Co. 50 Minn. 405, 52 N. W. 905, 17 L.R.A. 84; Smith v. Carroll, 17 R. I. 125, 21 A. 343, 12 L.R.A. 301.

[13] See Vol. 4, p. 687, §§ 210 et seq.

[14] Whipple v. Robbins, 97 Mass. 107, 93 Am. Dec. 64.

Where an action by a creditor against his debtor is brought in a court of one state, wherein jurisdiction of the defendant is acquired, and subsequently, an action is commenced in a court of a sister state, in which the plaintiff in the first action is there made defendant, and the defendant in said action is there served with garnishment process, the subject-matter being the same, the latter action can be pleaded neither in bar nor in abatement of the former. Missouri R. Co. v. Bradshaw, 37 Okla. 317, 132 P. 327, L.R.A.1917F, 1013.

In Wallace v. McConnell, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 136, 10 L. ed. 95, where garnishment proceedings were instituted in a state court, after the commencement of suit in the District Court of the United States, by the principal defendant in garnishment to recover the debt, it was held that the right of the plaintiff to prosecute his suit in that court could not be arrested or taken away by the subsequent proceedings in the state court.

A foreign judgment may, however, be garnished in a minority of jurisdictions. See Vol. 4, p. 689, § 214.

[15] Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Bradshaw, 37 Okla. 317, 32 P. 327, L.R.A.1917F, 1013.

[16] Becker v. Illinois C. R. Co. 250 Ill. 40, 95 N. E. 42, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1154; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 959.

Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co. 6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166, which is on its face contrary to the rule stated, involved the question primarily where the court of the other state had jurisdiction in the garnishment proceeding.

[17] Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275.

[18] Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. v. New York Carousal Mfg. Co. 95 Va. 515, 28 S. E. 888, 40 L.R.A. 237.

[19] Harvey v. Great Northern R. Co. 50 Minn. 405, 52 N. W. 905, 17 L.R.A. 84.

[20] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 964; L.R.A. 1917F, 1016.

[1] Harvey v. Great Northern R. Co. 50 Minn. 405, 52 N. W. 905, 17 L.R.A. 84.

[2] Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845; German Bank v. American F. Ins. Co. 83 Iowa, 491, 50 N. W. 53, 32 Am. St. Rep. 316; Scott v. Coleman, 5 Litt. (Ky.) 348, 15 Am. Dec. 71; Harvey v. Great Northern R. Co. 50 Minn. 405, 52 N. W. 905, 17 L.R.A. 84.

The question is affected by the fact that the garnishment proceedings were instituted before or after the commencement of the action on the debt in the other state. There is no necessity for abating or continuing the action on the debt or suspending execution therein when there is no danger of imposing a double liability on the defendant.[6] Nor will an action be abated or continued or execution therein be suspended because the defendant has been garnished with respect to the claim in suit in an action in a foreign jurisdiction against the plaintiff if it appears that such foreign garnishment proceedings were instituted through the bad faith of the garnishee.[7]

It may be noted that many of the cases involving the effect of pending garnishment procedings in another state on a subsequent suit by the defendant on the garnished debt turn upon the view taken by the court with respect to the jurisdiction of the foreign court in the garnishment proceedings.[8]

§ 699. —Where Danger of Double Liability Has Ceased.—There is no necessity for abating or continuing an action or for suspending execution therein because of the pendency in another jurisdiction of proceedings to garnish the claim upon which the action is based, if there is in fact no danger of double liability, or if such danger has ceased.[9]

§ 700. —Garnishment of Salary or Wages.—The question of the effect of the pendency of garnishment proceedings in one state, designed to reach

---

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 964; L.R.A.1917F, 1016.

[3] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 964.

[4] Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 965.

In Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396, the court, in passing upon the effect of a judgment obtained in garnishment proceedings in Kentucky upon a prior judgment obtained in a suit to recover the debt, which suit was not instituted until after the commencement of the garnishment proceedings, observed that the effect of the pendency of the garnishment proceedings in Kentucky was merely to confer upon the defendant in the Indiana suit the privilege of seeking a stay of the proceedings.

[5] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 961.

[6] See infra, § 699.

[7] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 969.

[8] In Douglass v. Phenix Ins. Co. 138 N. Y. 209, 33 N. E. 938, 20 L.R.A. 118, 34 Am. St. Rep. 448, the holding that the answer of the defendant, pleading in abatement the pendency of garnishment proceedings in a court of another state commenced prior to the institution of the instant action, was insufficient in law to stay the further prosecution of the action was based on the ground that the court of the other state had no jurisdiction to garnish the debt, where both the garnishee and the principal defendant in garnishment were nonresidents, the principal defendant was not personally served in that state, and the situs of the debt was in the state of the forum.

In Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co. 6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166, where the defense that a levy of garnishment process in another state prior to the time of the assignment was a bar to the action was sustained, the decision, however, turned on whether the court of the other state had jurisdiction in the garnishment proceedings.

In German Bank v. American F. Ins. Co. 83 Iowa, 491, 50 N. W. 53, 32 Am. St. Rep. 316, the court, upon an objection to the plea of the pendency of garnishment proceedings in another state in abatement to the suit in Iowa based upon the ground that the court of the other state had no jurisdiction over the garnishee, decided that such court had jurisdiction over the defendant, the garnishee.

[9] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 970.

wages due from an employer, on the right of the employee to maintain an action commenced subsequently in another state to recover the wages is complicated by the existence of statutes exempting wages from garnishment process, although the rule now is that a pending garnishment or attachment of wages in another state is a good defense to a subsequent action for their recovery, providing the foreign court had jurisdiction, irrespective of whether or not the wages are exempt from attachment or execution in the state where they were earned, where the wage earner resides, or where he brings his suit for their recovery. How such a pending garnishment or attachment may be availed of in defense of such an action, whether in abatement or bar, or as a ground for a continuance or a suspension of execution, varies.[10] According to some of the earlier cases, however, when wages are exempt from garnishment in the state in which action is brought for their recovery, the pendency of garnishment proceedings in another jurisdiction to reach such wages will not furnish a ground for abating or continuing the action begun in the forum, even though, as a result of such a rule, the employer may be subjected to a double liability.[11] But this doctrine apparently has been repudiated by the United States Supreme Court, which holds that garnishment of a debt may be had by obtaining jurisdiction of the debtor,[12] and that such garnishment proceedings, at least after judgment, are entitled to the protection of the full faith and credit clause of the Federal Constitution.[13] There is a difference of opinion, however, as to whether the full faith and credit clause protects a prior garnishment against a subsequent suit in another state on the garnished claim where judgment is rendered in that suit before judgment in the garnishment. This matter is discussed elsewhere in this article.[14]

---

[10] Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Allen, 58 W. Va. 388, 52 S. E. 465, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 608, 112 Am. St. Rep. 975. See also Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855.

Annotation: 27 A.L.R. 1396.

In Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797, approved in King v. Cross, 175 U. S. 396, 44 L. ed. 211, 20 S. Ct. 131; Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084; and in Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950 (rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855), it was held that garnishment proceedings pending in Iowa against a claim for wages due by the railway to a resident of Kansas, and there exempt from execution, constituted a good defense when the wage earner subsequently sued the railway in Kansas. The case approved the doctrine that debts accompany the debtor and may be attached wherever he can be sued by his creditor.

[11] Missouri P. R. Co. v. Sharitt, 43 Kan. 375, 23 P. 430, 8 L.R.A. 385, 19 Am. St. Rep. 143; Illinois C. R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Miss. 344, 12 So. 461, 19 L.R.A. 577, 35 Am. St. Rep. 651, overruled in Southern P. R. Co. v. A. J. Lyon & Co. 99 Miss. 186, 54 So. 728, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 234, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 800, suggestion of error overruled in (Miss.) 54 So. 784, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 237.

The exemption of wages by the law of the state in which is the residence of both debtor and creditor and the place where the wages are payable cannot be defeated by garnishment pending in another state, although the debtor is a railroad corporation which has a residence also in such other state. Illinois C. R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Miss. 344, 12 So. 461, 19 L.R.A. 577, 35 Am. St. Rep. 651, overruled in Southern P. R. Co. v. A. J. Lyon & Co. 99 Miss. 186, 54 So. 728, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 234, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 800, suggestion of error overruled in (Miss.) 54 So. 784, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 237.

[12] See Vol. 4, p. 589, §§ 66, 67.

[13] Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797. See also Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855.

In Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797, prior to the institution of a suit in a Kansas court for wages, a creditor of the wage earner had obtained a judgment in garnishment proceedings instituted to subject the wage claim to the payment of his debt, but an appeal had been taken therefrom and was pending at the time of the institution of the Kansas action; the Kansas court refused to continue the action until the determination of the proceedings in the Iowa court, it appearing that the wages were exempt from garnishment under the Kansas law. The United States Supreme Court, after reviewing the question of the situs of the debt for the purpose of garnishment and sustaining the validity of the garnishment proceedings, concluded that the Kansas court did not give full faith and credit to the garnishment proceedings, and disapproved the decision in Missouri P. R. Co. v. Sharitt, 43 Kan. 375, 23 P. 430, 8 L.R.A. 385, 19 Am. St. Rep. 143.

It should be observed, in connection with the discussion above, that in some states statutes have been enacted which permit residents of the forum to secure injunctive relief against the institution, by another resident of the forum, of a suit in a foreign jurisdiction to evade the exemption laws of the state where such relief is sought; under other statutes a debtor is given a cause of action against a creditor who resorts to the courts of another state in order to defeat the exemption laws of the state of his residence.[15]

§ 701. —Garnishment of Insurance and Other Claims Exempt from Garnishment where Other Proceedings Are Brought.—The rule stated in the foregoing section, that an attachment or garnishment of wages in another state of the Union is entitled to full faith and credit, at least after judgment, as a defense to an action for their recovery although they are exempt from attachment or garnishment in the state where they were earned, where the wage earner resides, or where the suit is brought for their recovery, applies also to an attachment or garnishment of a debt due on an insurance policy or any other debt generally, irrespective of the exemption laws of the state where the debt arises, where suit is brought for its recovery, or where the creditor, viz., the defendant in the attachment, resides.[16]

2. As Defense to Proceedings by Third Persons

§ 702. Generally.—The general rule is that a garnishment is no defense to an action against the garnishee by adverse claimants for the recovery of the garnished property[17] unless such adverse claimants are interpleaded in the garnishment proceedings, under which circumstance the garnishment has the same effect upon an action by them against the garnishee as it has upon such an action by the defendant.[18] Nevertheless, a pending garnishment justifies the garnishee in refusing to deliver the garnished property to an adverse claimant, and such a refusal constitutes no act of conversion.[19]

D. Practice and Procedure

1. Introductory

a. In General

§ 703. Generally.—Practice and procedure in the garnishment is to be distinguished from practice and procedure in the main action between the plaintiff and the defendant.[20] Sometimes, however, there is, in form, but a single action against the defendant and the garnishee.

---

[14] See infra, § 784.

[15] See infra, § 721.

[16] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855.

However, in Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855, an insurance company which was garnished in Illinois by a creditor of one of its policyholders whose claim under the policy was exempt from execution under the Texas law caused the policyholder and the garnisher to interplead in a Federal court in Texas as to the fund deposited by the company in that court, and sought to enjoin the garnishor from further prosecuting the pending garnishment proceedings in Illinois. It was held that although the garnishment proceedings in Illinois had not yet been consummated by a judgment, still, thereunder, the garnishor acquired a lien on the fund as against the principal debtor, which the statute of Texas could not divest, and the Federal court in Texas could not, in the interpleader proceedings before it, enjoin the further prosecution of the garnishment proceedings in Illinois to final conclusion, and thereby deny thereto the credit and effect accorded them in Illinois.

[17] Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504.

[18] German Bank v. American F. Ins. Co. 83 Iowa, 491, 50 N. W. 53, 32 Am. St. Rep. 316.

Generally, as to interpleader in garnishment, see infra, § 964.

[19] See supra, §§ 662 et seq.

§ 704. Parties.—The parties to a garnishment proceeding are the plaintiff, the garnishee, and, usually, though not always, the principal debtor.[1] Whether or not the garnishee is a party to the main action between the plaintiff and the defendant depends upon local statutes and practice, and is discussed in a subsequent section.[2] However, to subject a debt due from the garnishee to the defendant to the claim of the plaintiff against the defendant, it is essential that the garnishee be made a party to a proceeding to determine the fact of such indebtedness, and the same rule applies to the seizure of property of the defendant in the possession of the garnishee to satisfy the plaintiff's claim against the defendant.[3]

§ 705. —Joinder.[4]—The general rule is that two or more joint debtors may, and must, be joined as garnishees.[5] Consequently, where it is sought to garnish a debt owing from a partnership to the defendant, it is ordinarily not sufficient to summon as garnishee only one member of the partnership.[6] The same rule has been applied to the garnishment of joint and several liabilities.[7] But one of two or more joint and several debtors may be charged as such trustee without joining the others in the action, if it appears that he may not remain liable to pay the debt the second time, either to the payee or to any of the other joint and several debtors, or be otherwise prejudiced if he is thus charged.[8] Under statute in some jurisdictions any number of persons may be joined as garnishees whether or not they are joint or several debtors of the defendant.[9]

---

[20] Generally, as to main action, see infra, §§ 938 et seq.

[1] New York L. Ins. Co. v. Dunlevy, 241 U. S. 518, 60 L. ed. 1140, 36 S. Ct. 613; Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488; Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363; Warthen v. Melton, 132 Ga. 113, 63 S. E. 832, 131 Am. St. Rep. 184; Dugas v. Mathews, 9 Ga. 510, 54 Am. Dec. 361; Pitzl v. Winter, 96 Minn. 499, 105 N. W. 673, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1009; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734; Bragg v. Gaynor, 85 Wis. 468, 55 N. W. 919, 21 L.R.A. 161.

Where notice of the pendency of a garnishment proceeding was given by registered mail to the main creditor of a foreign debtor and to the latter's assignee in bankruptcy, and the assignee, representing all the creditors, appeared specially in the action and pleaded to the jurisdiction of the court and appealed from an adverse judgment, it cannot be said that there has been a deficiency of notice to parties in interest so as to render unavailing a plea of double liability interposed by the garnishee, based on a payment made by it in the foreign jurisdiction. Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599.

As a general rule, a judgment debtor is not a party to a garnishment proceeding to condemn a claim due him from a third person, and is not bound by a judgment discharging the garnishee. New York L. Ins. Co. v. Dunlevy, 241 U. S. 518, 60 L. ed. 1140, 36 S. Ct. 613.

The debtor is not a party to garnishment proceedings, nor is he required to be served with notice of either the issuing or the service of the writ of garnishment. Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734.

The adverse claimant to a debt which is the subject of garnishment may be made a party defendant to the proceedings. Bragg v. Gaynor, 85 Wis. 468, 55 N. W. 919, 21 L.R.A. 161.

As to duty to disclose adverse claims of which the garnishee has notice, see supra, § 689.

As to citation, joinder, and interpleader of adverse claimants as parties, see infra, § 964.

[2] See infra, § 940.

[3] Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488; Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363.

However, that a garnishee was not made a party to the principal action, and no relief was demanded against him therein, does not prevent the court from rendering judgment against him where the writ of garnishment was served on him, if by statute it is not necessary to commence an action against the garnishee in order to authorize the court to render judgment against him. Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488.

[4] As to garnishment of debt due jointly to defendant and another, see Vol. 4, p. 671, § 188.

[5] Lyon v. Ballentine, 63 Mich. 97, 29 N. W. 837, 6 Am. St. Rep. 284; Ladd v. Baker, 26 N. H. 76, 57 Am. Dec. 355.

[6] Lyon v. Ballentine, 63 Mich. 97, 29 N. W. 837, 6 Am. St. Rep. 284.

However, service may generally be made upon one member of a firm. See infra, § 730.

[7] Ladd v. Baker, 26 N. H. 76, 57 Am. Dec. 355.

§ 706. Pleadings, Motions, and Rules.—As a general rule the pleadings in garnishment consist of the plaintiff's petition or affidavit for the garnishment,[10] his interrogatories or examination of the garnishee,[11] the garnishee's answer or disclosure to the garnishment,[12] the plaintiff's traverse of the garnishee's answer,[13] and, in some jurisdictions, the garnishee's reply to the plaintiff's traverse of his answer.[14] These pleadings may frame an issue for trial,[15] or they may establish a basis for judgment without trial.[16] Generally they are supplemented in local practice by various rules and motions directed to facilitating the progress of the proceedings to a final conclusion, such as a rule upon the garnishee to answer,[17] a motion for a judgment on the answers of the garnishee,[18] and a rule upon the garnishee to plead.[19] It is also generally recognized that the principal debtor, as a party to the proceeding, may take exception to the disclosure of the garnishee and show cause why his property, debts, or contracts should not suffer interference.[20] In some jurisdictions formal pleadings are dispensed with by statute in garnishment proceedings, the proceeding being regarded as a mode of determining an issue already formed, namely, whether the garnishee owes the debtor anything or has in his possession any property belonging to him.[21]

§ 707. Successive Garnishment.—Successive garnishments may not be employed to defeat exemption laws. Accordingly, they are not valid against the aggregate sum of each debt garnished where each debt is within the statutory exemption although the aggregate sum exceeds it.[1] Successive garnishments, particularly of exempt property, may, under certain circumstances, give rise to a cause of action for abuse of process[2] or for injunctive relief.[3] But a garnishment lien is not, as a matter of law, waived by the institution of a second garnishment proceeding by the same party against the same garnishee in a suit on the judgment recovered in the first suit in which the first garnishment was had.[4]

---

[8] Ibid.

[9] A number of complainants whose rights are entirely several and distinct may, by joining as plaintiffs in a single proceeding, subject, by garnishment, the same fund of the debtor to their claims, particularly when the uniting in the single suit produces no confusion or complexity in the defense and prevents a multiplicity of suits. Comstock v. Rayford, 1 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 423, 40 Am. Dec. 102.

A Wisconsin statute is noted which provides that any number of garnishees may be embraced in the same affidavit and summons (Stat. 1898, § 275). Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966.

[10] Generally, as to petition or affidavit for garnishment, see infra, §§ 722 et seq.

[11] Generally, as to interrogatories or examination, see infra, § 753.

[12] Generally, as to garnishee's disclosure, see infra, §§ 754 et seq.

[13] Generally, as to traverse of garnishee's answer, see infra, § 762.

[14] See infra, § 762.

[15] Holker v. Hennessey, 141 Mo. 527, 42 S. W. 1090, 39 L.R.A. 165, 64 Am. St. Rep. 524; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

As to trial, see infra, §§ 765 et seq.

[16] Generally, as to judgment against garnishee on disclosure, see infra, § 798; on failure to answer, see infra, §§ 796, 797.

[17] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[18] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[19] This practice is followed in some jurisdictions to bring the garnishment on for trial. See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[20] See infra, § 764.

[21] Lutz v. Williams, 79 W. Va. 609, 91 S. E. 460, L.R.A.1918A, 76.

[1] Howard Coal Co. v. Savage, 116 Me. 115, 100 A. 369, L.R.A.1917D, 898 (wage case); Rustad v. Bishop, 80 Minn. 497, 83 N. W. 449, 50 L.R.A. 168, 81 Am. St. Rep. 262 (wage case).

Annotation: L.R.A.1917D, 899.

[2] See infra, § 717.

[3] See infra, § 717.

[4] Lawrence v. Security Co. 56 Conn. 423, 15 A. 406, 1 L.R.A. 342.

§ 708. Garnishment as Suit.—A garnishment is the institution of a suit by a creditor against the debtor of his debtor and is governed by the general rules applicable to other suits adapted to the relative situation of the parties.[5]

b. Commencement of Proceedings

§ 709. Generally.—Garnishment proceedings are generally initiated by the filing of a petition or affidavit[6] and a garnishment bond. It is generally provided by statute that an order of garnishment shall not issue until an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff has been executed by one or more sureties, in a sum not exceeding double the amount of the plaintiff's claim, to the effect that the plaintiff shall pay to the defendant all damages which he may sustain by reason of such garnishment if the order is wrongfully obtained, though such undertakings are not always required where the parties defendant are nonresidents.[7] Such bonds, if required, are essential to the validity of the proceedings.[8] The garnishee is bound to see that the bond, when required, is given by the creditor, and unless it is given, payment by him of the judgment is at his own risk.[9]

c. Order of Proceedings as between Main Action and Garnishment

§ 710. With Respect to Commencement of Suit and Garnishment.—It has been observed in an early section of this article that garnishment proceedings are always ancillary to a main suit between the garnishing creditor and his debtor.[10] Consequently, a garnishment, as distinguished from a garnishment execution,[11] must necessarily constitute the original process, or issue on mesne process, in the main suit.[12] In other words, the main action may be commenced by a writ of garnishment or by a writ of attachment summoning a garnishee, and this practice is generally followed in the case of foreign attachment or garnishment, where the attachment or garnishment issues on the ground of nonresidence of the defendant and for the purpose of compelling his appearance in the action; or the garnishment may issue in an action already commenced by a writ of summons. Accordingly, all that can be said generally with respect to the order of commencement between the garnishment and the main action is that a garnishment can never precede, although it may constitute the commencement of, the main action, but generally it may, even in the case of garnishment on the ground of nonresidence of the defendant, issue in an action already commenced. A statutory requirement that execution must be issued and returned nulla bona before process of garnishment can be sued out[13] in effect constitutes the garnishment a garnishment execution, and will be treated in this work as such.[14]

---

[5] Roman v. Montgomery Iron Works, 156 Ala. 604, 47 So. 136, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604, 130 Am. St. Rep. 106.

A garnishment proceeding is ancillary to a main proceeding against the defendant. See Vol. 4, p. 555, § 6.

Generally, as to effect of garnishment as subrogation, see infra, § 821.

[6] See infra, §§ 722 et seq.

[7] Benedict v. Bray, 2 Cal. 251, 56 Am. Dec. 332; United States v. Murdock, 18 La. Ann. 305, 89 Am. Dec. 651; Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635; Byrd v. Rector, 112 W. Va. 192, 163 S. E. 845, 81 A.L.R. 1213.

[8] Erwin v. Commercial & R. Bank, 3 La. Ann. 186, 48 Am. Dec. 447; Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Pollard (Tex. Civ. App.) 31 S. W. (2d) 508, citing R. C. L.

[9] Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.

[10] See Vol. 4, p. 555, § 6.

[11] See Vol. 4, p. 553, § 4.
See Executions [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 1211].

[12] See Vol. 4, p. 552, § 4.

[13] Wyatt v. Rambo, 29 Ala. 510, 68 Am. Dec. 89; Gunn v. Howell, 27 Ala. 663, 62 Am. Dec. 785.

[14] See Executions [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 1211].

§ 711. With Respect to Judgment in Main Action and in Garnishment.—The general rule is that a valid judgment against the principal defendant, in force and effect, is essential to authorize a judgment against the garnishee,[15] and that where there is no valid judgment against the principal defendant, there is no jurisdiction to render any judgment against a garnishee.[16] Where, by expiration of time or other cause, a judgment against the defendant in the main action has ceased to be of force and effect, the garnishment proceedings lose their vitality, and a judgment therein against the garnishee is as completely without force and effect as the judgment against the defendant.[17] Consequently, the termination of an action in favor of the defendant, or the expiration of a judgment for the plaintiff, discharges a garnishment.[18]

d. Miscellaneous Proceedings in Aid of or against Garnishment

§ 712. Generally.—Equity in general, as well as local statutes and practice, permits miscellaneous remedies in aid of, and against, garnishment.[19]

§ 713. Equitable Relief to Preserve Garnishment Lien.—Equity may interfere, where grounds for jurisdiction in equity exist, to protect a lien created by garnishment[20] or to preserve the garnished property or funds.[1]

---

[15] James E. Colliflower & Co. v. McCallum-Sauber Co. 61 App. D. C. 390, 63 F. (2d) 366, citing R. C. L.; Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488; Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78; Grace v. Pierce, 127 Miss. 831, 90 So. 590, 21 A.L.R. 1035; Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567; Atwood v. Tucker (Atwood v. Roan) 26 N. D. 622, 145 N. W. 587, 51 L.R.A. (N.S.) 597; Von Seggern Bros. & Ludden v. Antelope County State Bank, 57 S. D. 415, 232 N. W. 913, 71 A.L.R. 577; Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356; Byrd v. Rector, 112 W. Va. 192, 163 S. E. 845, 81 A.L.R. 1213; Oelbermann v. Ide, 93 Wis. 669, 68 N. W. 393, 57 Am. St. Rep. 947; Frisk v. Reigelman, 75 Wis. 499, 43 N. W. 1117, 44 N. W. 766, 17 Am. St. Rep. 198.

No valid judgment can be rendered against the garnishee defendant upon a default judgment against the principal debtor, based upon attempted service by publication under a void affidavit, where, under the statute, the garnishee proceedings are ancillary to the suit against the principal defendant, and judgment against him is a prerequisite to judgment against the garnishee defendant. Atwood v. Tucker (Atwod v. Roan), 26 N. D. 622, 145 N. W. 587, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597.

As to conditional judgment against garnishee pending entry of final judgment against defendant, see infra, § 792.

[16] Von Seggern Bros. & Ludden v. Antelope County State Bank, 57 S. D. 415, 232 N. W. 913, 71 A.L.R. 577.

Where, because of the expiration of time, a judgment has ceased to be of force and effect, a garnishment proceeding by the judgment creditor fails, though it was instituted and a contingent judgment against the garnishee entered while the judgment was still subsisting. Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

[17] Grace v. Pierce, 127 Miss. 831, 90 So. 590, 21 A.L.R. 1035; Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

In Grace v. Pierce, 127 Miss. 831, 90 So. 590, 21 A.L.R. 1035, it was held that a valid judgment is essential to the validity of a garnishment proceeding, and when a judgment upon which a writ of garnishment is founded is extinguished by the bar of the statute of limitation, the garnishment proceedings likewise fail.

[18] Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

[19] When a garnishee has appeared and answered, disclosing that he has in his possession a sealed parcel or a locked safe-deposit box, the contents of which are unknown to him, the person making the affidavit on behalf of the garnishee may be summoned as a witness, and in connection with the examination, the court has power, at least under statutory provision, to direct a witness to break the seal of the parcel, or to open the safe-deposit box, and disclose the contents to the court, in order that it may determine the garnishee's liability. Tillinghast v. Johnson, 34 R. I. 136, 82 A. 788, 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 764, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 960.

[20] Montana Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 19 Mont. 586, 49 P. 149, 61 Am. St Rep. 532.

[1] Bank of Monroe v. Ouachita Valley Bank, 124 La. 798, 50 So. 718, 134 Am. St. Rep. 518; Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224; Looney v. Stryker, 31 N. M. 557, 249 P. 112, 50 A.L.R. 1404.

A receiver may be appointed in aid of garnishment proceedings. Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

State officials cannot be restrained from paying out moneys alleged to be due a defendant until the plaintiff can obtain judgment against the defendant where the effect of such injunction would be to enlarge the consent of the state to suit. Looney v. Stryker, 31 N. M. 557, 249 P. 112, 50 A.L.R. 1404.

§ 714. Proceedings to Protect Equity of Adverse Claimants. Equities of adverse claimants to attached or garnished property may under proper circumstances be protected by a proceeding in equity.[2] Thus, if, previous to a garnishment, a portion of the garnished debt or property has been assigned, a court of equity will, where proper, grant equitable relief against the garnishment of the entire amount.[3] Improper garnishment proceedings against a receiver can be enjoined.[4]

§ 715. Proceedings to Protect Equities of Garnishees.—Under proper circumstances for the exercise of equitable jurisdiction, the equities of a garnishee against the defendant in the garnishment will be protected against the garnishing creditor in a proceeding in equity.[5] For example, while a judgment against the garnishee in the garnishment proceedings is, in general, binding on the garnishee and not open to collateral attack,[6] equities may vest in the garnishee subsequently to such judgment which he is entitled to exercise against the defendant in the garnishment, with respect to the property of, or debt owing to, the defendant, garnished in his possession and subject to the judgment in the garnishment, and such equities may be enforced against the plaintiff in the garnishment, as well as against the defendant, for the general rule is that the garnishing creditor can acquire no greater interest in the garnished property than his debtor, and does not take as by a bona fide assignment for value.[7] Consequently, under proper circumstances, viz., where there is no adequate remedy at law, a court of equity will grant relief against the enforcement of the judgment against the garnishee to the extent of protecting such equities of the garnishee.[8] Thus, a garnishee has been granted injunctive relief against the enforcement of the judgment against him where the debt garnished in his possession was the purchase price owing for chattels purchased from the defendant in the garnishment, and where, subsequent to the judgment in the garnishment, the title to the chattels failed, entitling the garnishee to equitable relief against the payment of the purchase price, at least without indemnity for his damages.[9] Likewise, it has been held that a garnishee, after a judgment at law subjecting his indebtedness to the principal debtor to the payment of the creditor, can restrain, in equity, the creditor from enforcing such payment, until the unliquidated damages due the garnishee from such debtor for the breach of a contract existing before the garnishment proceedings can be ascertained and set off against such indebtedness, where such debtor is insolvent and a nonresident.[10]

§ 716. Equitable Remedies against Garnishment of Negotiable Instruments.—The right of the garnishee of a debt due upon negotiable promissory notes, known to be held under a claim of ownership by another than the defendant in the garnishment, to go into chancery and file a bill of interpleader against the garnishor and the claimant has been recognized and upheld.[11] But it has been held that after the maker of a promissory note has suffered judgment to go against him as a garnishee indebted thereon to the payee, when he well knew that the defendant had transferred the paper to a third person, it is too late for him to get relief by a bill in equity to interplead the judgment creditor with the holder of the note.[12] There are decisions that the maker of a negotiable promissory note who has been charged upon it as garnishee of the payee when he has been sued upon it by one who claims ownership of the paper as an indorsee before maturity is entitled to have the garnishment creditor brought into the action to litigate the question whether he or the plaintiff is entitled to the proceeds of the note, and to enjoin the collection until that question shall be determined; and legislation has been enacted making provision, in case of attachment of debts due by commercial negotiable paper, for bringing into the trustee proceeding persons who claim to own and hold the paper by transfers from the defendants.[13]

---

[2] National Exch. Bank v. McLoon, 73 Me. 498, 40 Am. Rep. 388.

[3] Ibid.

[4] Annotation: 71 Am. St. Rep. 372.

[5] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216; Cottrell v. Varnum, 5 Ala. 229, 39 Am. Dec. 323.

[6] See infra, § 1067.

[7] See infra, § 820.

[8] Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 384, 15 L. ed. 216; Cottrell v. Varnum, 5 Ala. 229, 39 Am. Dec. 323.

[9] Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216.

[10] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710.

[11] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 758.

§ 717. Injunctive Relief against Abusive Successive Garnishments.—In case of abuse of process by successive attachments or garnishments, particularly of exempt property, the remedy of the debtor is generally not in equity, but by an action at law for damages.[14] However, it has been held elsewhere that injunctions may be granted against repeated garnishment suits which have been successfully defended.[15]

§ 718. Accounting and Distribution of Assets in Equity Proceedings in Aid of, or for Relief from, Garnishment.—A court of equity, exercising jurisdiction in aid of, or for relief from, garnishment proceedings, may enforce an accounting or distribution of assets, according to principles of equity.[16] For example, a court of equity exercising jurisdiction to preserve a lien created by garnishment may enforce an equitable distribution of assets where the garnishee is insolvent,[17] as well as determine the rights of the garnishing creditor as against other creditors of the same defendant who have levied on property in the hands of the garnishee.[18] It is said, however, that a garnishment proceeding cannot be converted into an equitable proceeding to reach a fund in contest, at least without making the debtor a party to the proceedings.[19]

§ 719. Surrender or Payment of Garnished Property of Debtor to Officer or into Court.—A practice in some jurisdictions is to allow or require the garnishee to surrender or pay the garnished property or debt to the attaching officer, or into court, such surrender protecting the garnishee against all further liability to the plaintiff, defendant, or adverse claimant with respect to the property or debt thus surrendered or paid.[20] A judgment debtor who in good faith, in answer to garnishment process issued by a judgment creditor of his creditor, pays the amount of the judgment to the sheriff and takes his receipt therefor, without notice of an assignment of the judgment, will not be compelled to pay the amount of the judgment to the assignee, and the court on motion should quash the execution and direct the judgment satisfied.[1]

---

[12] Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 41 Am. Dec. 626.

[13] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 758.

[14] See infra, § 990.

[15] Seiver v. Union P. R. Co. 68 Neb. 91, 93 N. W. 943, 61 L.R.A. 319, 110 Am. St. Rep. 393.
Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 983.

[16] Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216; Montana Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 19 Mont. 586, 49 P. 149, 61 Am. St. Rep. 532; Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

[17] Montana Nat. Bank v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 19 Mont. 586, 49 P. 149, 61 Am. St. Rep. 532.

[18] Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

[19] Curtis v. Ford, 78 Tex. 262, 14 S. W. 614, 10 L.R.A. 529.

[20] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; Great Western Finance Co. v. Hamilton Nat. Bank, 76 Colo. 48, 230 P. 115, 41 A.L.R. 997 (statute requiring garnishee to deliver choses in action to attaching official); Houtz v. Daniels, 36 Idaho, 544, 211 P. 1088, 32 A.L.R. 1016; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637; Hillman v.

§ 720. Investiture of Garnished Property in Receiver or Trustee.—A phase of attachment and garnishment practice in some jurisdictions is the appointment of receivers or trustees who are invested with the possession, custody, and administration of the attached or garnished property pending the garnishment proceedings, with its distribution, upon the outcome of the attachment or garnishment, subject to the order and control of the court, and, finally, with the duty of reporting and accounting to the court upon the discharge of their functions. Generally it is the right and duty of garnishees to surrender the property and effects of the defendant, attached or garnished in their possession, to such trustees or receivers. This practice may be followed in all cases or only in cases where the circumstances demand it and when ordered by the court in its discretion, depending upon local statutes and practice. The practice is followed particularly where the purpose of the attachment is an equitable distribution of assets among creditors rather than a preferment of the attaching creditor, or where a distribution among creditors is warranted by the facts of a particular case.[2] For example, where the garnishee abandons the property or declines to retain the same in his hands, a receiver may be appointed.[3] There may be cases where, with the consent of the parties, the garnishee himself may be appointed receiver of the property in question.[4]

§ 721. Relief against Garnishment Suits in Foreign Jurisdictions to Defeat Exemption, Insolvency, and Other Laws of Forum.—Injunctive relief may be invoked in one state to restrain residents of that state from bringing attachment or garnishment proceedings in another state to evade the laws of the state of their residence, i. e., the insolvency or exemption laws. The granting of such relief is not a violation of the full faith and credit clause of the Federal Constitution.[5] Generally, however, such relief is available only where

---

Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

A garnishee who has paid into the registry of the court the amount of a judgment recovered against him by the principal debtor cannot, because of his failure to appeal from a judgment denying his motion to quash and set aside a judgment against him in the garnishment proceeding contingent upon the establishment of his liability to the principal debtor, be held liable by the garnishing creditor, who has, as against other claimants of the fund, been held not entitled to any part of the amount so paid in. Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

[1] Houtz v. Daniels, 36 Idaho, 544, 211 P. 1088, 32 A.L.R. 1016.

[2] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363; Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. Lewellyn, 158 La. 303, 103 So. 823, 39 A.L.R. 1502 (appointment of a curator ad hoc); Baldwin v. Hosmer, 101 Mich. 119, 59 N. W. 432, 25 L.R.A. 739; Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

In Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363, the court said: "In our opinion there must, at some stage of the proceedings, be a seizure in this state of the property of the nonresident, and the court may appoint a receiver to hold the res for the court, and the garnishee must be made a party in the proceedings."

[3] Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

[4] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346.

[5] Cole v. Cunningham, 133 U. S. 107, 33 L. ed. 538, 10 S. Ct. 269; O'Connor v. Walter, 37 Neb. 267, 55 N. W. 867, 23 L.R.A. 650, 40 Am. St. Rep. 486; Anderson v. Canaday, 37 Okla. 171, 131 P. 697, L.R.A.1915A, 1186, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 714.

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 75.

Full faith and credit are not denied to both creditor and debtor are residents of the state in which the action is brought.[6]

The same rules prevail with reference to proceedings to reach any exempt property.[7] One method of preventing domestic creditors from evading the exemption laws of a state is to give their debtors a cause of action for the amount recovered by the creditor or his assignee by an attachment or garnishment suit brought in a foreign jurisdiction to defeat the exemption laws of the forum, to make the bringing of such suit or assignment for that purpose unlawful, and to penalize the same.[8]

2. Petition and Affidavit

§ 722. Generally.—Local statutes and practice generally require a petition or affidavit to procure and sustain the issuance of a writ, warrant, or order of garnishment. It is generally required that such a petition or affidavit be filed with the clerk of court either before the issuance of the garnishment,[9] or at some other time before final judgment.[10] Where required by statute, it is generally held that the filing of such affidavit is essential to give jurisdiction to the court.[11] The proceedings are a nullity without such affidavit,[12] or even with an affidavit which is insufficient.[13]

§ 723. Form, Contents, Sufficiency, and Amendment.—Local statutes and practice requiring a petition or affidavit for garnishment determine the form, contents, and sufficiency of such petition or affidavit.[14] The same is true of the judgment of another state upon garnishment proceedings, requiring the garnishee to pay the wages of the debtor to his creditor, by allowing the defendant, where no personal service was obtained on him, to recover damages from his creditor for seizing his exempt wages. Anderson v. Canaday, 37 Okla. 171, 131 P. 697, L.R.A. 1915A, 1186, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 714.

---

[6] Cole v. Cunninghama, 133 U. S. 107, 33 L. ed. 538, 10 S. Ct. 269; Keyser v. Rice, 47 Md. 203, 28 Am. Rep. 448; Seiver v. Union P. R. Co. 68 Neb. 91, 93 N. W. 943, 61 L.R.A. 319, 110 Am. St. Rep. 393; Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 75.

Where an employer is made a party to a suit to enjoin a multiplicity of garnishment proceedings to reach exempt wages, and the suit has been properly brought against him in any county, and service of summons therein has been made on him, a summons issued to the sheriff of another county, where the judgment creditor resides, which is properly served on him, gives the court jurisdiction of all the parties to the action and full power to grant the proper relief therein. Seiver v. Union P. R. Co. 68 Neb. 91, 93 N. W. 943, 61 L.R.A. 319.

[7] Keyser v. Rice, 47 Md. 203, 28 Am. Rep. 448; Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 75.

[8] Singer Mfg. Co. v. Fleming, 39 Neb. 679, 58 N. W. 226, 23 L.R.A. 210, 42 Am. St. Rep. 613; O'Connor v. Walter, 37 Neb. 267, 55 N. W. 867, 23 L.R.A. 650, 40 Am. St. Rep. 486; Anderson v. Canaday, 37 Okla. 171, 131 P. 697, L.R.A.1915A, 1186, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 714. See Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396.

It has been held that where there were due a resident of Nebraska, from a railroad company operating a line of railroad through Iowa and Nebraska, wages, which, in Nebraska, were exempt from execution and attachment process, but which, nevertheless, by means of an assignment of the claim against the party entitled to such exemption to a resident of Iowa, were procured, by the garnishment of said railroad company in Iowa, to be applied to the payment of said claim, the assignor of such claim is liable to such debtor for the amount so appropriated without his consent. O'Connor v. Walter, 37 Neb. 267, 55 N. W. 867, 23 L.R.A. 650.

[9] Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1081; Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 469, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419; Erwin v. Commercial & R. Bank, 3 La. Ann. 186, 48 Am. Dec. 447; People's Wayne County Bank v. Stott, 246 Mich. 540, 224 N. W. 352, 64 A.L.R. 427; Black v. Brisbin, 3 Minn. 360, Gil. 253, 74 Am. Dec. 762; Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722; Wells v. American Exp. Co. 55 Wis. 23, 11 N. W. 537, 12 N. W. 441, 42 Am. Rep. 695.

[10] Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

[11] Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 469, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419; People's Wayne County Bank v. Stott, 246 Mich. 540, 224 N. W. 352, 64 A.L.R. 427; Black v. Brisbin, 3 Minn. 360, Gil. 253, 74 Am. Dec. 762.

[12] Erwin v. Commercial & R. Bank, 3 La. Ann. 186, 48 Am. Dec. 447.

[13] Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 419, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419.

[14] Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1081; Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 419, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419; Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

amendments of the petition or affidavit. Generally, however, the statement of the material facts in the affidavit must be certain and definite in legal point of view, so as to inform those entitled to defend the action what particular facts they must repel.[15] The courts are not agreed upon what defects and irregularities in attachment or garnishment proceedings are jurisdictional and what are not. Some courts require a substantial adherence to the provisions of the attachment or garnishment statute as essential to the foundation of jurisdiction in the attachment or garnishment, and others take the view that such jurisdiction is founded once the res is attached or garnished without the aid of fraudulent or unlawful trick, within the territorial jurisdiction of the court. Accordingly, it has been said, on the one hand, that a failure of the petition to state that the plaintiff's claim is just is fatal to the jurisdiction of the court.[16] But it has also been held that a variance between the affidavit and the evidence as to a minor matter which could not have misled the garnishee may be disregarded.[17] In this connection it may be stated that the discussion in earlier sections of this article [18] of amendments to attachment affidavits, as well as the statutory provisions and rules and principles governing amendments of pleadings and judicial records generally, apply generally to the amendment of petitions and affidavits to procure or sustain a garnishment.[19] Thus, it is generally agreed that defects and irregularities which do not void the garnishment may be supplied or corrected by amendment,[20] and do not deprive the court of jurisdiction, at least against collateral attack.[1] Accordingly, it has been held that the court may, in a garnishment proceeding, order or allow amendments to the petition which may be necessary to perfect service or bring in necessary parties.[2] But, in a contest involving the plaintiff in garnishment, the garnishee, and the intervener, the plaintiff cannot, by an amendment, even if he is entitled to such remedy, in any case change the proceeding from a legal to an equitable action, without making the original defendant a party.[3] On the other hand, defects and irregularities voiding the garnishment generally cannot be supplied or corrected by amendment,[4] and it has been held that where an affidavit for garnishment has been found insufficient, no subsequent proceedings, based on such affidavit, are valid until a new and sufficient affidavit is filed.[5]

The common statutory provision is that an affidavit for a garnishment may be made by the plaintiff, his attorney or agent.[6]

§ 724. —Setting Forth Claim against Defendant.—A general requirement of a petition or affidavit for a garnishment is that it state the amount of the plaintiff's claim against the defendant, and that it is owing and just,[7] and the view has been taken that failure of a petition upon which garnishment was issued to state that the plaintiff's claim is just is a jurisdictional defect.[8]

---

[15] Roberts v. Burns, 48 W. Va. 92, 35 S. E. 922, 86 Am. St. Rep. 17.

[16] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[17] Nordstrom v. Corona City Water Co. 155 Cal. 206, 100 P. 242, 132 Am. St. Rep. 81; Turner v. Williams, 114 Kan. 769, 221 P. 267, citing R. C. L.

[18] See Vol. 4, p. 850, §§ 487 et seq.

[19] Wattles v. Wayne County Circuit Judge, 117 Mich. 662, 76 N. W. 115, 72 Am. St. Rep. 590; Curtis v. Ford, 78 Tex. 262, 14 S. W. 614, 10 L.R.A. 529.

Annotation: 72 Am. St. Rep. 593.

See Pleading [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 572, §§ 127 et seq.].

[20] Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363.

[1] Turner v. Williams, 114 Kan. 769, 221 P. 267; Den. ex dem. Skinner v. Moore, 19 N. C. (2 Dev. & B. L.) 138, 30 Am. Dec. 155; Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673.

[2] Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363.

[3] Curtis v. Ford, 78 Tex. 262, 14 S. W. 614, 10 L.R.A. 529.

[4] Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 469, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419; Curtis v. Ford, 78 Tex. 262, 14 S. W. 614, 10 L.R.A. 529.

[5] Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 469, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419.

[6] Dugas v. Mathews, 9 Ga. 510, 54 Am. Dec. 361; Teutonia Loan & Bldg. Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. App. 469, 49 N. E. 852, 65 Am. St. Rep. 419; Frisk v. Reigelman, 75 Wis. 499, 43 N. W. 1117, 44 N. W. 766, 17 Am. St. Rep. 198.

See also Vol. 4, p. 853, § 491, as to affiants on attachment affidavit.

§ 725. —Averment of Property of, or Debts Owing to, Defendant.—A general requirement of a petition or affidavit for a garnishment is that it contain an averment that the plaintiff verily believes that the garnishee is indebted to, or has property in his possession or under his control belonging to, the defendant, and that such indebtedness or property is, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the affiant, not by law exempt from the garnishment.[9] As a general rule, an affidavit containing a statement, substantially in the language of the statute, that the garnishee has property of the judgment debtor is sufficient to show that the garnishee has such property. Such statement is not a mere conclusion of law.[10] However, allegations in the affidavit ordinarily need not follow the precise language of the statute.[11]

§ 726. —Setting Forth Grounds for Garnishment.—The general rule is that a petition or affidavit for a garnishment must set forth grounds upon which it can issue by force of local statutes and practice.[12] It has been held that although a creditor may invoke the benefit of the bulk sales law by a direct action against one who has purchased goods without the requirements of that statute having been complied with, yet if he elects to proceed by garnishment, in an action on his claim against the seller, allegations regarding the sale have no office to perform in the petition.[13]

3. PROCESS AND NOTICE

a. IN GENERAL

§ 727. Service on Garnishee.[14]—Upon the filing of the petition or affidavit in garnishment, it is generally required, by statute, that there be issued to the garnishee, and served upon him, a summons or notice to the effect that he has been summoned as garnishee of the debtor defendant, and that he is required, on or before a certain day, to answer whether he, the said garnishee, is indebted to, or has in his possession or under his control any property belonging to, the defendant. The usual rules in regard to caption and attestation are applied to such summons or notice.[15] In some states a judgment debtor may be garnished by delivering to him a copy of the writ, with a notice in writing stating that all his right, title, and interest in such judgment, and all moneys, goods, credits, and effects due or owing by him to the creditor, are levied upon.[16] A nonresident garnishee, if properly served, must appear and answer. If he fails to appear, judgment by default will be entered against him. If he appears and shows that he had not at the time of the service of the process any property of the principal defendant within the state and was not bound to him upon any debt or contract to be paid or discharged within the state, he will not be charged as garnishee.[17] The defendant in the principal action is not a proper person upon whom service of the writ of summons to the garnishee may be made as an agent of the garnishee, for the garnishment necessarily presupposes the indebtedness of the garnishee to the defendant, and the general rule is that where an agent is interested hostilely to the principal, communications or notice to the agent of the facts is not notice to his principal.[18] The general rule is that the service of the writ of garnishment on the garnishee impounds the property or funds of the defendant in his hands in the custody of the law, and constitutes a lien upon the same, pending the garnishment.[19]

---

[7] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971; Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

[8] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[9] Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

[10] Coffee v. Haynes, 124 Cal. 561, 57 P. 482, 71 Am. St. Rep. 99.

[11] Société Foncière v. Milliken, 135 U. S. 304, 34 L. ed. 208, 10 S. Ct. 823; Dugas v. Mathews, 9 Ga. 510, 54 Am. Dec. 361.

See also Vol. 4, p. 587, § 496.

[12] Moton v. Hull, 77 Tex. 80, 13 S. W. 849, 8 L.R.A. 722.

Generally as to grounds for attachment and garnishment, see Vol. 4, p. 815, §§ 423 et seq.

[13] Linn County Bank v. Davis, 103 Kan. 672, 175 P. 972, 9 A.L.R. 468.

Generally, as to enforcement of claims under bulk sales legislation by attachment or garnishment, see Vol. 4, p. 618, § 100.

[14] See PROCESS [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 1262, §§ 3 et seq.].

[15] Brashear v. West, 7 Pet. (U. S.) 608, 8 L. ed. 801; Kennedy v. Brent, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 187, 3 L. ed. 194; Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1081; Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488; International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960; Starkey v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 114 Minn. 27, 130 N. W. 540, L.R.A.1915F, 880; Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1; Southern P. R. Co. v. A. J. Lyon & Co. 99 Miss. 186, 54 So. 728, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 234, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 800, suggestion of error overruled in (Miss.) 54 So. 784, 34 L.R.A. (N.S.) 237; Ireland v. Adair, 12 N. D. 29,

§ 728. Form, Contents, and Sufficiency of Writ or Summons.—As a general rule, a writ, summons, or notice of garnishment must comply with the requirements of the statute to give the proceedings validity and to invest the court with jurisdiction.[20] Statutes have sometimes been enacted which allow any number of garnishees to be embraced in the same summons.[1] In the absence of a statute expressly prescribing the method of serving a writ of garnishment, it has been held that the service thereof was not void where the original writ was in proper form and bore the seal of the court, but the copy thereof left with the garnishee was not dated and was not signed by the clerk who issued it.[2] Likewise, it has been held that a slight error in reciting the name of the garnishee may be disregarded,[3] but, on the other hand, it has been

---

94 N. W. 766, 102 Am. St. Rep. 561; Wiener v. American Ins. Co. 224 Pa. 292, 73 A. 443, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 593; Pure Oil Co. v. Walsh-Woldert Motor Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 36 S. W. (2d) 802, citing R. C. L.; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

The usual practice where there is a garnishee is merely to serve a copy of the writ of attachment on the garnishee with notice annexed by the officer that, by virtue of the original writ, he attaches all and singular the goods and chattels of the defendant in his hands or possession, and summons him as garnishee, and the return of the officer is in the same general terms, leaving the existence, nature, extent, and liability of the property to be developed in the subsequent proceedings. Brashear v. West, 7 Pet. (U. S.) 608, 8 L. ed. 801.

Under the Utah statutes credits may be reached in two ways: First, by leaving with the debtor a copy of the attachment writ, with notice of attachment, which method only prevents the debtor from disposing of the property, and second, by having the writ of garnishment issued and served upon the debtor, which method requires the garnishee to answer and places the debt in the custody of the law. Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

A judgment debt may be garnished by a notification of the garnishment given by the sheriff to the judgment debtor. Hanna v. Bry, 5 La. Ann. 651, 52 Am. Dec. 606.

[16] Dore v. Dougherty, 72 Cal. 232, 13 P. 621, 1 Am. St. Rep. 48.

[17] Lawrence v. Smith, 45 N. H. 533, 86 Am. Dec. 183.

[18] Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1.

[19] As to garnished property as impounded, see supra, § 658.

As to status of garnishee as custodian of property, see supra, § 660.

[20] People's Wayne County Bank v. Stott, 246 Mich. 540, 224 N. W. 352, 64 A.L.R. 427; Ireland v. Adair, 12 N. D. 29, 94 N. W. 766, 102 Am. St. Rep. 561; Pure Oil Co. v. Walsh-Woldert Motor Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 36 S. W. (2d) 802, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 102 Am. St. Rep. 564.

[1] Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966.

[2] Lyon v. Baldwin, 194 Mich. 118, 160 N. W. 428, L.R.A.1917C, 148.

[3] Donohoe-Kelly Bkg. Co. v. Southern P. Co. 138 Cal. 183, 71 P. 93, 94 Am. St. Rep. 28; Pure Oil Co. v. Walsh-Woldert Motor Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 36 S. W. (2d) 802, citing R. C. L.

However, a failure to state the identity of the defendant with reasonable certainty said that a notice of garnishment of credits and effects is not a sufficient garnishment of a debt.[4]

§ 729. Service on Officer of Garnishee Corporation.—According to the prevailing rule and practice, the service of a writ of garnishment on a corporation by service upon one of its officers is proper.[5] The common practice in the service of such process on a foreign corporation follows the practice in the service upon such a corporation as a defendant in suits generally, that is, service is made upon an officer of the corporation designated by statute.[6] However, local statutes sometimes provide a different procedure to be followed in summoning such a corporation as garnishee from that to be followed in serving process upon it as the principal defendant in an action; nevertheless, such process must be jurisdictionally adequate to obtain jurisdiction over the garnishee.[7]

§ 730. Service on Member of Garnishee Firm.—Service of notice of garnishment on one partner is notice to the members of the firm,[8] but it has been said that notice to a resident partner of a nonresident firm, where the debt is not due from a resident of the state, does not create any liability against the nonresident members of the firm.[9]

§ 731. Return.—The general rules as to returns to writs [10] and the amendment of such returns [11] apply to the return of a writ of summons to a garnishee. Accordingly, it has been said that the return in the garnishment proceedings should be indorsed upon the writ or annexed thereto and should show that all has been done which the statute requires in the service of the writ, and that the proceedings are vitiated unless they show due service upon the garnishee.[12] limits the liability of the garnishee where, in ignorance of the identity of the defendant, he fails to preserve the garnished property. See supra, § 676.

---

[4] Clyne v. Easton, E. & Co. 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253.

Generally, as to limitation of garnishee's liability from failure sufficiently to identify garnished property, see supra, § 677.

[5] National Bank v. Furtick, 2 Marv. (Del.) 35, 42 A. 479, 44 L.R.A. 115, 69 Am. St. Rep. 99; Burnett v. Central of Georgia R. Co. 117 Ga. 521, 43 S. E. 854, 97 Am. St. Rep. 175; Bank of Monroe v. Ouachita Valley Bank, 124 La. 798, 50 So. 718, 134 Am. St. Rep. 518.

[6] Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; Hannibal & St. J. R. Co. v. Crane, 102 Ill. 249, 40 Am. Rep. 581; Metropolitan L. Ins. Co. v. Hightower, 211 Ky. 36, 276 S. W. 1063, 44 A.L.R. 1158; Boyle v. Musser-Sauntry Land, Logging & Mfg. Co. 88 Minn. 456, 93 N. W. 520, 97 Am. St. Rep. 538; Steer v. Dow, 75 N. H. 95, 71 A. 217, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 263; Douglass v. Phenix Ins. Co. 138 N. Y. 209, 33 N. E. 938, 20 L.R.A. 118, 34 Am. St. Rep. 448; Bingenheimer Mercantile Co. v. Weber, 49 N. D. 312, 191 N. W. 620, 27 A.L.R. 1392; Johnson v. Union P. R. Co. 29 R. I. 80, 69 A. 298, 132 Am. St. Rep. 799; Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co. 6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Allen, 58 W. Va. 388, 52 S. E. 465, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 608, 112 Am. St. Rep. 975; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178; Morawetz v. Sun Ins. Office, 96 Wis. 175, 71 N. W. 109, 65 Am. St. Rep. 43.

Annotation: 23 L.R.A. 500.

[7] National Bank v. Furtick, 2 Marv. (Del.) 35, 42 A. 479, 44 L.R.A. 115, 69 Am. St. Rep. 99.

[8] Marx v. Hart, 166 Mo. 503, 66 S. W. 260, 89 Am. St. Rep. 715; State use of Arnold v. Linaweaver, 3 Head (Tenn.) 51, 75 Am. Dec. 757.

As to levy of attachment on interest in partnership by service on member of firm, see Vol. 4, p. 898, § 565.

[9] National Broadway Bank v. Sampson, 179 N. Y. 213, 71 N. E. 766, 66 L.R.A. 606, 103 Am. St. Rep. 851.

[10] Albright-Pryor Co. v. Pacific Selling Co. 126 Ga. 498, 55 S. E. 251, 115 Am. St. Rep. 108; Boyd v. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. 17 Md. 195, 79 Am. Dec. 646; People's Wayne County Bank v. Stott, 246 Mich. 540, 224 N. W. 352, 64 A.L.R. 427 (holding compliance with statute jurisdictional); Marx v. Hart, 166 Mo. 503, 66 S. W. 260, 89 Am. St. Rep. 715; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

As to return of writ of attachment, see Vol. 4, p. 911, §§ 590 et seq.

See PROCESS [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 1315, §§ 62 et seq.].

[11] Fairfield v. Paine, 23 Me. 498, 41 Am. Dec. 357; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

[12] Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

Furthermore, it is said that there is no presumption that the officer serving a writ of garnishment has done his duty, and consequently, that the return must affirmatively show that the writ was served as required by statute.[13] Nevertheless, it is held that failure of the return in garnishment proceedings to show that the writ was served upon the garnishee by delivering a copy to him is a defect which may be cured by amendment upon application to the trial court, and while the granting of such application rests somewhat in its sound discretion, the amendment should ordinarily be allowed if no intervening rights would be affected.[14] However, the view has been taken that omission to show, in the return of service of an order of attachment upon a foreign corporation as garnishee, that the agent upon whom the service was made resides in the county in which he was served, renders the service invalid, and in such case the court obtains no jurisdiction of the res for want of service on the garnishee.[15]

b. Notice to Defendant

§ 732. Generally.—Statutes frequently require notice to the defendant of garnishment proceedings,[16] but where there is no such statutory provision, notice of the garnishment to the defendant has been held not necessary.[17]

4. Appearance and Waiver of Defects and Irregularities in Garnishment

§ 733. Generally.—A garnishee may enter a general appearance to answer the garnishment, or he may enter a special appearance for the purpose of pursuing a proper proceeding to attack it and seek its dissolution.[18]

§ 734. Waiver of Defects.—According to the general rule, a garnishee may waive defects in service or in the form of the writ in garnishment proceedings only as it affects him personally, and may not waive defects affecting the principal defendant, either as to his personal rights or as to the res.[19]

However, the defendant may himself waive his right to object to defects and irregularities in the garnishment.[20] In any event, a general appearance by a garnishee does not confer jurisdiction upon the court to render a judgment against him, where no jurisdiction is thereby, or otherwise, acquired of the defendant and no valid judgment can be rendered against him.[1]

---

[13] Ibid.

[14] Ibid.

[15] Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

[16] J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184; Union P. R. Co. v. Smersh, 22 Neb. 751, 36 N. W. 139, 3 Am. St. Rep. 290 (although statute does not require notice); Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567; Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673.

Annotation: 92 A.L.R. 570.

Statutory requirements as to notice to defendant must be strictly and literally observed. Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567.

However, in McAllister v. Brooks, 22 Me. 80, 38 Am. Dec. 282, the court said that when the statute speaks of notifying the parties, it may well be doubted if it was in contemplation that the defendant should be notified.

[17] Endicott-Johnson Corp. v. Smith, 266 U. S. 291, 69 L. ed. 293, 45 S. Ct. 63; Endicott-Johnson Corp. v. Encyclopedia Press, 266 U. S. 285, 69 L. ed. 288, 45 S. Ct. 61; McAllister v. Brooks, 22 Me. 80, 38 Am. Dec. 282. But see Union P. R. Co. v. Smersh, 22 Neb. 751, 36 N. W. 139, 3 Am. St. Rep. 290.

[18] Stone v. Magrader, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177.

[19] Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Wells, 265 U. S. 101, 68 L. ed. 928, 44 S. Ct. 469; Cromwell v. Royal Canadian Ins. Co. 49 Md. 366, 33 Am. Rep. 258; People's Wayne County Bank v. Stott, 246 Mich. 540, 224 N. W. 352, 64 A.L.R. 427; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125; Dorr v. Rohr, 82 Va. 359, 3 Am. St. Rep. 106; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

Annotation: 64 A.L.R. 430.

Admissions, in the disclosure of the garnishee, of due service of the writ are insufficient to give the court jurisdiction to proceed with the garnishment suit. People's Wayne County Bank v. Stott, 246 Mich. 540, 224 N. W. 352, 64 A.L.R. 427.

[20] Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; Schneitman v. Noble, 75 Iowa, 120, 39 N. W. 224, 9 Am. St. Rep. 467; Hanna v. Lauring, 10 Mart. (La.) 568, 13 Am. Dec. 339.

Annotation: 100 Am. Dec. 511.

§ 735. —Defective Service.—The general rule is that a garnishee may waive his objections to defects and irregularities in the service of process on himself as garnishee,[2] but that he cannot waive jurisdictionally defective service on the defendant.[3] Some courts, however, take the view that such defects and irregularities cannot be waived by the garnishee, at least where they are jurisdictional.[4] Thus, where the jurisdiction of the res has been obtained by service of garnishment process on a member of a partnership having property belonging to the principal defendant in his possession, it is entirely competent for other partners to waive, by general appearance, service of process and thereby give the court personal jurisdiction over the partners not served.[5]

§ 736. —Defects and Irregularities in Petition or Affidavit for Garnishment.—The view has been taken that a garnishee may waive his objections to defects in the petition or affidavit for the garnishment.[6] On the other hand, it has been held by some courts that such a defect is jurisdictional and cannot be waived.[7]

§ 737. —By Appearance.—The general rule is that a garnishee waives objections to defects and irregularities in the garnishment proceedings by a general appearance to answer the garnishment.[8] Likewise, a defendant waives his right to object to defects and irregularities in the garnishment where he enters a general appearance.[9] Some courts hold that by entering a general appearance, a garnishee waives the objection that he is a nonresident of the county wherein the principal suit is pending, and that his nonresidence does not thereafter affect the validity of the proceedings, while others permit the garnishee to allege want of jurisdiction even after a general appearance.[10]

---

[1] Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 1129.

As to necessity of valid judgment against defendant to sustain judgment against garnishee, see supra, § 711.

[2] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971 (holding, however, that garnishee could not waive defects in the garnishment petition or affidavit); Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

Since a garnishee can by his general appearance waive any defect in the service so far as it affects him personally, it is immaterial, after appearance, whether the garnishee's officer who was served was an agent on whom service could be legally made. Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

And see authorities cited in § 734, supra.

[3] Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567.

[4] Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 1130.

A garnishee cannot give jurisdiction of a debt due from him by his voluntary appearance, when he was not previously served with the order of attachment, or when the attempted service was invalid. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

[5] Marx v. Hart, 166 Mo. 503, 66 S. W. 260, 89 Am. St. Rep. 715.

[6] Turner v. Williams, 114 Kan. 769, 221 P. 267, citing R. C. L.

[7] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971 (holding, however, that defects in process or service can be waived).

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 1131.

[8] Coffee v. Haynes, 124 Cal. 561, 57 P. 482, 71 Am. St. Rep. 99; Turner v. Williams, 114 Kan. 769, 221 P. 267, citing R. C. L.; Cromwell v. Royal Canadian Ins. Co. 49 Md. 366, 33 Am. Rep. 258; Bristol v. Brent, 36 Utah, 108, 103 P. 1076, 140 Am. St. Rep. 804, 21 Ann. Cas. 1125.

It would seem that by entering a general appearance a garnishee waives the objection that the process was served upon him on a privileged occasion. Peters v. League, 13 Md. 58, 71 Am. Dec. 622.

[9] Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; Schnetman v. Noble, 75 Iowa, 120, 39 N. W. 224, 9 Am. St. Rep. 467; Hanna v. Lauring, 10 Mart. (La.) 568, 13 Am. Dec. 339.

The appearance of the defendant in the main action cannot give the court jurisdiction over a garnishee who has not been served personally with process and who has entered no appearance in the action. Morawitz v. Sun Ins. Office, 96 Wis. 175, 71 N. W. 109, 65 Am. St. Rep. 43.

[10] Cromwell v. Royal Canadian Ins. Co. 49 Md. 366, 33 Am. Rep. 258.

A special appearance by the garnishee to pursue a proper proceeding to attack a garnishment, such as to move for its dissolution, confers no jurisdiction over the garnishee and does not operate as a waiver of any defects or irregularities in the garnishment.[11] Thus, a garnishee defendant who appears specially and moves to set aside the writ and its service because, by the return of service, jurisdiction does not appear, may raise the point, after judgment, upon a writ of error.[12] Likewise, a special appearance by the defendant waives no defects or irregularities in the garnishment.[13]

5. Dissolution, Vacation, Discharge, and Abandonment of Garnishment

§ 738. Generally.—A garnishment, as an attachment,[14] may be vacated or discharged by the direction of the plaintiff, or by the court, for cause shown before final judgment.

§ 739. Judgment and Termination of Suit.—The general rule is that the termination of the main action by judgment and satisfaction or by judgment for the defendant terminates the garnishment.[15] Thus, a garnishee who has paid into the registry of the court the amount of a judgment recovered against him by the principal debtor cannot, because of his failure to appeal from a judgment denying his motion to quash and set aside a judgment against him in the garnishment proceeding contingent upon the establishment of his liability to the principal debtor, be held liable by the garnishing creditor, who has, as against other claimants of the fund, been held not entitled to any part of the amount so paid in.[16] The rule is well settled that if the judgment on which garnishment proceedings are based is in any way effaced or obliterated, the garnishment is thereby dissolved. Inasmuch as the garnishment proceeding is auxiliary to, and dependent upon, the judgment in the principal action, the vacation or satisfaction of the judgment defeats the garnishment proceeding as an incident thereof. Thus, when the judgment in the principal action has been satisfied, a judgment in a garnishment proceeding, which is ancillary thereto, thereby becomes extinguished. On an appeal by a garnishee from a judgment against him, the appellate court will reverse the judgment and discharge the garnishee if its records show that it has previously reversed a judgment against the defendant, in the principal action, upon which the garnishment is based.[17] It has been held that if the judgment against the principal debtor is reversed, a judgment against the garnishee will be set aside, even though, prior to a ruling on the motion therefor, another judgment in favor of the plaintiff has been rendered on a retrial of the principal case.[18] However, taking personal judgment against the principal debtor and the garnishee does not waive the lien of the attachment, where the statute contemplates personal judgment against the garnishee, and the personal judgment against the principal debtor is void for lack of jurisdiction over his person, for the court may, nevertheless, issue judgment against his property.[19] A judgment against the garnishee will not be set aside on the ground that since its rendition an item embraced therein has, without fraud, been recovered in a suit in another state.[20] The dismissal of the main action operates generally to dissolve a garnishment.[1] Accordingly, the dismissal of a proceeding in which a bank deposit had been garnished renders the deposit subject to check, although the bank has been notified of an intention to appeal, if no appeal has actually been taken or supersedeas bond given.[2]

---

[11] Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177.

Such an appearance confers no jurisdiction on the court. See Vol. 4, p. 580, § 50.

[12] Lyon v. Baldwin, 194 Mich. 118, 160 N. W. 428, L.R.A.1917C, 148.

[13] Davis v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 217 U. S. 157, 54 L. ed. 708, 30 S. Ct. 463, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 823, 18 Ann. Cas. 907. See Vol. 4, p. 924, § 618.

[14] See Vol. 4, p. 925, §§ 622 et seq.

[15] Decatur v. Simpson, 119 Iowa, 488, 93 N. W. 496, 97 Am. St. Rep. 328; Grace v. Pierce, 127 Miss. 831, 90 So. 590, 21 A.L.R. 1035; Moody & Williams v. Dye, 125 Miss. 770, 88 So. 332, citing R. C. L.; Chicago Herald Co. v. Bryan, 195 Mo. 590, 92 S. W. 906, 6 Ann. Cas. 751; McNaughton v. Lewis, 126 Okla. 21, 258 P. 266, citing R. C. L.; Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

Annotation: 96 Am. St. Rep. 132; 6 Ann. Cas. 752.

[16] Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

[17] Chicago Herald Co. v. Bryan, 195 Mo. 590, 92 S. W. 906, 6 Ann. Cas. 751; McNaughton v. Lewis, 126 Okla. 21, 258 P 266, citing R. C. L.

[18] Decatur v. Simpson, 119 Iowa, 488, 93 N. W. 496, 97 Am. St. Rep. 328; Moody & Williams v. Dye, 125 Miss. 770, 88 So. 332, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 96 Am. St. Rep. 132.

§ 740. Effect of Appeal.—The general rule is that a garnishee is under duty to hold the garnished property or not to pay the garnished debt pending an appeal, at least where a supersedeas bond is filed.[3] However, there is a decided conflict among the authorities in those jurisdictions wherein the question as to the length of time, if any, during which property which has been garnished or attached must be held after dismissal of the writ for the purpose of allowing the plaintiff to perfect an appeal has been considered, some of the courts holding that the officer or garnishee, in the absence of direction by the court or controlling statutory provision, is not bound to retain the property, or, in other words, that the lien is not preserved unless an appeal from the order of dissolution is taken instanter or the court directs that the property be held until an appeal can be perfected.[4] But under statutes which are silent as to the possession and control of money which has been garnished after dismissal of the garnishment, it has been held that the dismissal of a proceeding in which a bank account had been garnished renders the deposit subject to the order of the depositor although the garnishee bank has been notified by the plaintiff of an intention to appeal, no appeal having actually been taken or supersedeas bond issued before the presentation of the order to the bank.[5] Other courts hold that the property must be held for a reasonable time, which is such a time as is sufficient to enable the plaintiff to take a prompt appeal; and one court, at least, holds that the appeal may be taken at any time during which an appeal in an ordinary case could be taken, which means that the property must be held until the expiration of the period prescribed by general statutory provisions relating to appeals, unless a delivery is ordered sooner by the court.[6] Where however, the plaintiff is negligent in prosecuting his appeal or writ of error, he will not be restored to his rights under the attachment.[7]

§ 741. Abandonment, Withdrawal, and Release.—A garnishment may be abandoned, withdrawn, or released.[8] The plaintiff may be regarded as having abandoned garnishment proceedings by failing to prosecute the same with requisite diligence. In such cases the garnishee is entitled to a discharge from liability.[9] However, it has been said that entry of default of one summoned as trustee without the entry of judgment against the principal defendant is not such a final judgment against him that failure of the plaintiff to make demand on him within thirty days thereafter will operate, under the provisions of a statute, to dissolve the attachment.[10]

---

[19] Goodwin v. Claytor, 137 N. C. 224, 49 S. E. 173, 67 L.R.A. 209, 107 Am. St. Rep. 479.

Generally, as to jurisdiction to enter judgment in personam and in rem against defendant in attachment of whom no personal jurisdiction is obtained, see Vol. 4, p. 579, § 47; infra, § 954.

[20] Hogle v. Mott, 62 Vt. 255, 20 A. 276, 22 Am. St. Rep. 106.

[1] American Nat. Bank v. Douglas, 126 Ark. 7, 189 S. W. 161, L.R.A.1917B, 588.

[2] American Nat. Bank v. Douglas, 126 Ark. 7, 189 S. W. 161, L.R.A.1917B, 588.

[3] Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926.

[4] Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 591.

[5] American Nat. Bank v. Douglas, 126 Ark. 7, 189 S. W. 161, L.R.A.1917B, 588.

[6] Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 591.

[7] Annotation: 39 Am. Dec. 609.

[8] Young v. Clarendon Twp. 132 U. S. 340, 33 L. ed. 356, 10 S. Ct. 107; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Housley, 43 Okla. 794, 144 P. 610, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 363; Neufelder v. North British & M. Ins. Co. 10 Wash. 393, 39 P. 110, 45 Am. St. Rep. 793.

[9] Young v. Clarendon Twp. 132 U. S.

A garnishment lien is not, as a matter of law, waived by the institution of a second garnishment proceeding by the same party against the same garnishee in a suit on the judgment recovered against the principal defendant in the suit in which the first garnishment was had.[11]

§ 742. Death of Defendant.[12]—In the majority of jurisdictions, where there is no specific statute providing for the survival or the dissolution of garnishment by death, it is held that the death of the principal defendant at any stage of the proceedings after the levy does not affect the garnishment.[13] At least, the death of the defendant after judgment against him does not affect the garnishment.[14] However, in some jurisdictions, where there is no specific statute providing for the survival or the dissolution of garnishment, the rule obtains that where the principal defendant dies after the levy, but prior to the final judgment, the garnishment is dissolved.[15] Elsewhere it is the rule that the death of the principal defendant in a garnishment proceeding does not dissolve the garnishment unless the estate is insolvent.[16]

Some statutes expressly provide for the survival of garnishment.[17]

§ 743. Dissolution of Defendant Corporation.—A garnishment is, according to the general rule, dissolved by the dissolution [18] or civil death [19] of the defendant corporation, although there is a conflict of opinion on this point.[20]

§ 744. Insolvency and Bankruptcy.[1]—The general rule is that an insolven-

---

340, 33 L. ed. 356, 10 S. Ct. 107; Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248; Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Housley, 43 Okla. 794, 144 P. 610, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 363; Neufelder v. North British & M. Ins. Co. 10 Wash. 393, 39 P. 110, 45 Am. St. Rep. 793.

Thus, the failure of the creditor of a nonresident debtor to proceed in garnishment proceedings in accordance with the applicable statute to obtain service by publication upon the debtor amounts to an abandonment of the cause of action, and it therefore neither bars nor abates an action by the debtor in the state of his residence against the garnishee. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Housley, 43 Okla. 794, 144 P. 610, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 363.

A creditor of a railroad company who endeavors, by suit in equity, to reach and subject to the payment of his debt the alleged equitable debt of a town to the company by reason of the nondelivery of bonds to the company and their return to the town may be defeated by the laches of the company in the pursuit of its rights against the town. Young v. Clarendon Twp. 132 U. S. 340, 33 L. ed. 356, 10 S. Ct. 107.

[10] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

[11] Lawrence v. Security Co. 56 Conn. 423, 15 A. 406, 1 L.R.A. 342.

Generally as to successive garnishments, see supra, § 707.

[12] See also ABATEMENT, SURVIVAL, AND REVIVAL, Vol. 1, pp. 59 et seq.

See also Vol. 4, p. 928, §§ 625, 626, as to the effect of the death of the defendant on attachment proceedings.

[13] Coleman v. McAnulty, 16 Mo. 173, 57 Am. Dec. 229; Hawley v. Isaacson, 117 Wash. 197, 200 P. 1109, 21 A.L.R. 268.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 272.

The death of the principal defendant before judgment does not defeat a garnishment proceeding where the garnishee has admitted indebtedness. Hawley v. Isaacson, 117 Wash. 197, 200 P. 1109, 21 A.L.R. 268.

[14] Lawrence v. Security Co. 56 Conn. 423, 15 A. 406, 1 L.R.A. 342.

[15] McIlroy v. McIlroy, 208 Mass. 458, 94 N. E. 696, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 934; Foreman Bros. Bkg. Co. v. Handy, 229 Mich. 635, 201 N. W. 951, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 272.

[16] Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 272.

[17] Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 273.

The local statute should be consulted.

[18] Annotation: 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 450.

[19] Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank v. Little, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 207, 42 Am. Dec. 293.

In Farmers' & Mechanics' Bank v. Little, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 207, 42 Am. Dec. 293, a foreign attachment was held to be dissolved by the forfeiture of the charter of the defendant corporation. In later Pennsylvania cases, however, it was held that the dissolution of a corporation, unlike its civil death by forfeiture of its charter, did not have that effect. See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[20] Annotation: 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 450.

See also Vol. 4, p. 929, § 627.

[1] See also Vol. 4, p. 930, § 628, as to effect

cy proceeding under the state laws will not dissolve a prior garnishment.[2] Nor is a garnishment lien dissolved by a proceeding in bankruptcy unless begun by or against the defendant within four months after the creation of such lien.[3] While a judgment in an action upon a claim to which a discharge in bankruptcy is a bar cannot be enforced against a discharged bankrupt, a special judgment may be entered against him for the purpose of perfecting a right of action against one secondarily liable,[4] charging a garnishee,[5] or of establishing the right to levy on attachable property of the bankrupt the title to which may not have passed to the trustee in bankruptcy.[6]

§ 745. Dissolution or Vacation on Motion.—Garnishment proceedings may be attacked generally on a motion to dissolve or vacate the garnishment or to discharge the garnishee, the particular practice to be pursued depending upon local jurisprudence.[7]

§ 746. —Who May Make Motion.—The general rule is that either the garnishee [8] or the defendant [9] may move for the vacation, dissolution, or discharge of a garnishment. However, the view has been taken that only the garnishee, and not the defendant, may move for the dissolution of a garnishment on the ground that he is not liable to process as garnishee.[10]

§ 747. Grounds of Motion.—Garnishment proceedings, like other civil actions, may be dismissed or dissolved for an infinite variety of causes.[11] Not of insolvency and bankruptcy on attachment proceedings.

---

[2] As to priority between garnishment and an assignment for the benefit of creditors, see infra, § 880.

As to priority between garnishment and a receivership, see infra, §§ 882 et seq.

[3] Franklin Bank v. Bachelder, 23 Me. 60, 39 Am. Dec. 601; Marx v. Hart, 166 Mo. 503, 66 S. W. 260, 89 Am. St. Rep. 715.

Generally as to priority between garnishment and rights arising in bankruptcy proceedings, see infra, § 884.

[4] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 81.

As to effect of bankruptcy of defendant on liability of surety to dissolve or release attachment, see infra, § 918.

[5] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

[6] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

The fact that the principal defendant has received a discharge in bankruptcy does not preclude the enforcement of a lien acquired by trustee process where no trustee in bankruptcy has claimed the bankrupt's property in the hands of the defendant trustee. Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

As to form of such special judgment, see infra, § 963.

[7] Davis v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 217 U. S. 157, 54 L. ed. 708, 30 S. Ct. 463, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 823, 18 Ann. Cas. 907; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Webb Furniture Co. 214 Ala. 654, 108 So. 765, 46 A.L.R. 928; Porter & B. Hardware Co. v. Perdue, 105 Ala. 293, 16 So. 713, 53 Am. St. Rep. 124; Cowart v. W. E. Caldwell Co. 134 Ga. 544, 68 S. E. 500, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 720; Merwin v. Chicago, 45 Ill. 133, 92 Am. Dec. 204; Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177; Recor v. Commercial & Sav. Bank (Recor v. Recor) 142 Mich. 479, 106 N. W. 82, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 472, 7 Ann. Cas. 754; Krafve v. Roy, 98 Minn. 141, 107 N. W. 966, 116 Am. St. Rep. 346; Rustad v. Bishop, 80 Minn. 497, 83 N. W. 449, 50 L.R.A. 168, 81 Am. St. Rep. 282; Dollman v. Moore, 70 Miss. 267, 12 So. 23, 19 L.R.A. 222; Union P. R. Co. v. Smersh, 22 Neb. 751, 36 N. W. 139, 3 Am. St. Rep. 290; Brenizer v. Supreme Council, R. A. 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 235; Orlopp v. Schueller, 72 Ohio St. 41, 73 N. E. 1012, 106 Am. St. Rep. 583, 2 Ann. Cas. 919.

[8] Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Webb Furniture Co. 214 Ala. 654, 108 So. 765, 46 A.L.R. 928; Merwin v. Chicago, 45 Ill. 133, 92 Am. Dec. 204 (particularly where garnishment is void for want of jurisdiction); Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177.

[9] Davis v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 217 U. S. 157, 54 L. ed. 708, 30 S. Ct. 463, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 823, 18 Ann. Cas. 907; Krafve v. Roy, 98 Minn. 141, 107 N. W. 966, 116 Am. St. Rep. 346; Brenizer v. Supreme Council, R. A. 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835, 6 L.R.A. (N.S.) 235.

A mutual benefit society the funds of which are attached in the hands of its collector may, upon return to the notice, raise the question as to the liability of the funds to attachment; and it is not required to permit the collector to raise that question when it is sought to take the funds out of his possession under the judgment, where it asserts title to the funds and the duty to hold them under an express trust. Brenizer v. Supreme Council, R. A. 141 N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 235.

[10] Dollman v. Moore, 70 Miss. 267, 12 So. 23, 19 L.R.A. 222.

[11] As to grounds for the dissolution of attachment, see Vol. 4, p. 932, §§ 632 et seq.

only may garnishment proceedings be dissolved, but the garnishee may also procure a perpetual injunction against the plaintiff's judgment against him upon the occurrence, subsequent to his examination, of anything which would furnish a legal defense to an action against him by the defendant.[12] The view has been taken that dissolution of an attachment for failure, after traverse, to sustain the grounds of attachment set up in the affidavit is not sufficient grounds for dissolving a garnishment by the same plaintiff directed to the custodian of the attached property after the court has ordered its return to the defendant.[13]

Abuse of process constitutes a good ground for the dissolution of a garnishment, and a court has inherent power summarily to determine the fact of such abuse.[14]

The general rule is that lack of merits of the claim of the plaintiff against the defendant or of the defendant against the garnishee constitutes no ground for the dissolution of the garnishment on motion.[15]

§ 748. —Lack of Jurisdiction.—Lack of jurisdiction is ground for a motion to dissolve or discharge a garnishment.[16] However, a demurrer to a plea to the jurisdiction in a garnishment proceeding denying assets within the jurisdiction does not admit absence of property if prior allegations in the plea show a claim against a resident insurance company for a loss under a policy held by the debtor.[17] A common carrier garnished for property in its possession for transportation, but which is not within the jurisdiction of the court, may show that the writ is void for lack of jurisdiction and thereby secure its discharge.[18]

§ 749. —Defects and Irregularities in Proceedings.—Defects and irregularities in the institution or course of garnishment proceedings constitute grounds for a motion to vacate, quash, or dissolve the garnishment,[19] although such a motion may be defeated by an amendment correcting or supplying the defects or irregularities unless they are of such character that they void the garnishment and cannot be corrected or supplied by amendment.[20] Thus, the garnishee may move to quash the proceedings on the ground of a defect in the service of summons or notice or in the form of the pleadings or allegations of the plaintiff.[1] The view has been taken that failure to give notice of a garnishment proceeding to the principal does not entitle the garnishee to a discharge or dismissal of the proceeding, under a statute providing that no judgment shall be entered against the garnishee until notice has been given to the principal defendant.[2]

---

[12] See supra, § 715.

[13] Mundil v. Hutson, 33 N. M. 388, 268 P. 566, 59 A.L.R. 522.

The dissolution of an attachment is generally deemed to take property out of the custody of the law, so that it can be attached or garnished in the possession of the officer holding it under the dissolved attachment. See Vol. 4, p. 798, §§ 390 et seq.

[14] Rustad v. Bishop, 80 Minn. 497, 83 N. W. 449, 50 L.R.A. 168, 81 Am. St. Rep. 282; Vienne v. M'Carty, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 154, 1 L. ed. 79.

[15] Recor v. Commercial & Sav. Bank (Recor v. Recor) 142 Mich. 479, 106 N. W. 82, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 472, 7 Ann. Cas. 754.

[16] Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Webb Furniture Co. 214 Ala. 654, 108 So. 765, 46 A.L.R. 928; Cowart v. W. E. Caldwell Co. 134 Ga. 544, 68 S. E. 500, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 720 (garnishment directed to, and served upon, trustee in bankruptcy); Merwin v. Chicago, 45 Ill. 133, 92 Am. Dec. 204.

[17] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424.

[18] Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Webb Furniture Co. 214 Ala. 654, 108 So. 765, 46 A.L.R. 928.

[19] Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Webb Furniture Co. 214 Ala. 654, 108 So. 765, 46 A.L.R. 928; Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 765.

[20] See Vol. 4, p. 607, §§ 85 et seq.; p. 843, § 475; supra, § 723.

[1] Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177.

§ 750. —Nonliability of Property to Garnishment.—The exemption from garnishment of the property or debt sought to be garnished constitutes good ground for the dissolution of the garnishment with respect to such property.[3]

§ 751. —Nonliability of Garnishee to Process.—A garnishment will be discharged on motion where it is directed against one not liable to the process, such as a municipal corporation.[4]

6. DISCOVERY AND DISCLOSURE

a. IN GENERAL

§ 752. Generally.—A universal phase of garnishment practice is some form of discovery of the assets of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee.[5] The common form of this practice involves interrogatories to the garnishee and his answers thereto.[6] In some jurisdictions the procedure is commenced by a writ of scire facias to the garnishee, but such a writ is generally not necessary where the garnishee has been summoned and has entered a general appearance in the main action or where specific property or land has been garnished, in either of which cases the plaintiff may proceed at once, without the issuance of a writ of scire facias, to exhibit interrogatories to the garnishee. The writ of scire facias is necessary only where the garnishee has entered no appearance and where the effects of the defendant garnished in his hands are not specific, as where he is summoned in the garnishment to answer as to all property and credits of the defendant in his possession.[7]

---

[2] J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184.

Generally as to form and sufficiency of notice to defendant where required, see supra, § 732; infra, §§ 942 et seq.

[3] Davis v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 217 U. S. 157, 54 L. ed. 708, 30 S. Ct. 463, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 823, 18 Ann. Cas. 907; Cowart v. W. E. Caldwell Co. 134 Ga. 544, 68 S. E. 500, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 720; Pugh v. Jones, 134 Iowa, 746, 112 N. W. 225, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 706, 120 Am. St. Rep. 451, 13 Ann. Cas. 499 (garnishment or assigned interest in a decedent's estate); Krafve v. Roy, 98 Minn. 141, 107 N. W. 966, 116 Am. St. Rep. 346 (property not in state).

[4] Porter & B. Hardware Co. v. Perdue, 105 Ala. 293, 16 So. 713, 53 Am. St. Rep. 124 (garnishment of municipal corporation); Merwin v. Chicago, 45 Ill. 133, 92 Am. Dec. 204; Pugh v. Jones, 134 Iowa, 746, 112 N. W. 225, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 706, 120 Am. St. Rep. 451, 13 Ann. Cas. 499; Orlopp v. Schueller, 72 Ohio St. 41, 73 N. E. 1012, 106 Am. St. Rep. 583, 2 Ann. Cas. 919.

[5] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El. Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424; Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. South Florida Farms Co. 91 Fla. 593, 109 So. 212, 48 A.L.R. 957; Sanders v. Herndon, 122 Ky. 760, 93 S. W. 14, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1072, 121 Am. St. Rep. 493; Humphrey v. Midkiff, 122 La. 939, 48 So. 331, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 912; White v. Bird, 20 La. Ann. 188, 96 Am. Dec. 393; Pitts v. Mower, 18 Me. 361, 36 Am. Dec. 727; Boyd v. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. 17 Md. 195, 79 Am. Dec. 646; Cockey v. Leister, 12 Md. 124, 71 Am. Dec. 588; Drake v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. 69 Mich. 168, 37 N. W. 70, 13 Am. St. Rep. 382; Pitzl v. Winter, 96 Minn. 499, 105 N. W. 673, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1009: Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, Gil. 205, 66 Am. Dec. 541; Webb v. Miller, 24 Miss. 638, 57 Am. Dec. 189; Anderson v. Wanzer, 5 How. (Miss.) 587, 37 Am. Dec. 170; Tillinghast v. Johnson, 34 R. I. 136, 82 A. 788, 41 L.R.A. (N.S.) 764, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 960; Black Hills Teleg. & Teleph. Co. v. Mitchell, 11 S. D. 615, 79 N. W. 999, 74 Am. St. Rep. 830; Keating v. J. Stone & Sons Livestock Co. 83 Tex. 467, 18 S. W. 797, 29 Am. St. Rep. 670; Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 75 Am. Dec. 257; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Gallahue, 12 Gratt. (Va.) 655, 65 Am. Dec. 254; Hallock v. National Bank (Hallock v. National Body & Mfg. Co.) 110 Wash. 737, 188 P. 479, 10 A.L.R. 737; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178; Rock v. Collins, 99 Wis. 630, 75 N. W. 426, 67 Am. St. Rep. 885.

In New York the Civil Practice Act provides for the bringing of actions to collect attached claims and to obtain possession of personal property and of actions in the nature of creditors' suits to discover assets of the debtor. It also provides that a third person may be compelled to give a certificate as to any debts he owes the defendant, or any property of the defendant which he has in his possession. 7 Carmody, N. Y. Prac. p. 545.

[6] See infra, § 753.

[7] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424.

The Pennsylvania practice is to commence the disclosure proceedings by such a writ, even in cases where its use is not

b. Interrogatories

§ 753. Generally.—Provision is generally made, by statute, whereby the plaintiff in garnishment proceedings is required to file written interrogatories which he desires to have answered by the garnishee, or it is required that copies of the same be delivered to the garnishee.[8] The practice in some jurisdictions is to incorporate the interrogatories in the writ or warrant.[9]

c. Answer or Disclosure of Garnishee

§ 754. Generally.—Statutory provisions with respect to the answer or disclosure by the garnishee vary greatly. In some jurisdictions the garnishee may be examined orally; in others, he is required to make his disclosure in writing, by means of an answer. Such answer is governed by the general rules of pleading,[10] and may be amended as in the case of other pleadings.[11] It is recognized that the answer of the garnishee may be supplemented by evidence touching his possession of property of, or his indebtedness to, the defendant,[12] and that he may introduce evidence other than his own for the purpose of corroborating and explaining facts additional to those disclosed by him.[13]

§ 755. Verification.—The general rule is that statutory requirements as to the verification of pleadings apply to the verification of the answer or disclosure of the garnishee in garnishment proceedings.[14]

§ 756. Duty of Garnishee to Answer Interrogatories.—It is the duty of a garnishee to answer truly the proper interrogatories of the garnishor, or at least to reply that he need not make the disclosure sought, stating reasons why he is not obligated so to do.[15] Thus, he may be excused from disclosure strictly necessary. See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

---

Upon scire facias to enforce a judgment in a garnishment proceeding, the question is open as to the existence of a debt subject to execution, and also the rights of other claimants to the fund, including those of an assignee in bankruptcy. Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424.

[8] Sanders v. Herndon, 122 Ky. 760, 93 S. W. 14, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1072, 121 Am. St. Rep. 493.

[9] In Texas the statute sets out the general interrogatories that are to be incorporated in the writ, and it seems that additional specific interrogatories may be added. See 20 Texas Jur. pp. 785, 786.

[10] Anderson v. Wanzer, 5 How. (Miss.) 587, 37 Am. Dec. 170; Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Gallahue, 12 Gratt. (Va.) 655, 65 Am. Dec. 254; Hallock v. National Bank (Hallock v. National Body & Mfg. Co.) 110 Wash. 385, 188 P. 479, 10 A.L.R. 737; Rock v. Collins, 99 Wis. 630, 75 N. W. 426, 67 Am. St. Rep. 885.

[11] Webb v. Miller, 24 Miss. 638, 57 Am. Dec. 189; Rock v. Collins, 99 Wis. 630, 75 N. W. 426, 67 Am. St. Rep. 885.

A garnishee who in his original answer denies all liability may, at the close of the testimony at the trial, be permitted to amend his answer so as to admit possession of certain property under a chattel mortgage, and that he holds a conveyance of other property as security for a debt. Rock v. Collins, 99 Wis. 630, 75 N. W. 426, 67 Am. St. Rep. 885.

[12] Drake v. Lake Shore & M. S. R. Co. 69 Mich. 168, 37 N. W. 70, 13 Am. St. Rep. 382.

[13] Pitzl v. Winter, 96 Minn. 499, 105 N. W. 673, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1009.

[14] Hallock v. National Bank (Hallock v. National Body & Mfg. Co.) 110 Wash. 385, 188 P. 479, 10 A.L.R. 737; Rock v. Collins, 99 Wis. 630, 75 N. W. 426, 67 Am. St. Rep. 885.

If an amended answer of a garnishee is not verified, its want of verification is waived by failing to object thereto. Rock v. Collins, 99 Wis. 630, 75 N. W. 426, 67 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Verification in the form usual for complaints and answers is sufficient to satisfy a statutory provision that an answer in garnishment proceedings must be under oath, in writing, and signed by the garnishee. Hallock v. National Bank (Hallock v. National Body & Mfg. Co.) 110 Wash. 385, 188 P. 479, 10 A.L.R. 737.

[15] Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. South Florida Farms Co. 91 Fla. 593, 109 So. 212, 48 A.L.R. 957; White v. Bird, 20 La. Ann. 188, 96 Am. Dec. 393; Humphrey v. Midkiff, 122 La. 939, 48 So. 331, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 912; Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, Gil. 205, 66 Am. Dec. 541; Keating v. J. Stone & Sons Live Stock Co. 83 Tex. 467, 18 S. W. 797, 29 Am. St. Rep. 670; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178.

A garnishee cannot be penalized for false

by declaring on oath that he cannot answer without disclosing matters which are privileged.[16] If he denies the existence of liability when in fact it does exist, and subjects himself to the danger of liability to the garnishing creditor on that issue, the garnishee cannot complain of the embarrassment produced by his own course of action. The situation affords no ground for relief in equity.[17] Since the garnishee is thus bound to answer as to property of, or debts owing to, the defendant named in the process, in his possession, such answer cannot be regarded as merely voluntary.[18]

§ 757. Disclosure of Assets of Defendant.—The garnishee must, in answer to the interrogatories of the plaintiff, disclose the assets of the defendant in his possession, describing them sufficiently to identify them.[19] For example, when corporate shares are garnished, the corporation, in its answer, should state the number of shares held by the garnishee.[20] Likewise, a garnishee is under obligation to disclose, so far as he is able, the contents of a safe-deposit box garnished in his possession.[1]

§ 758. Disclosure of Defenses to Garnishment.—A disclosure or answer of the garnishee in garnishment may contain any defense which the garnishee desires to plead, and may set up a defense which will serve as an excuse for not making full disclosure. For example, he may answer merely by showing that the fund in question is not subject to the control of the court.[2] Indeed, it is necessary for a garnishee thus to plead his defenses in his answer or disclosure in order to avail himself of the same and to execute his duty in protecting the interests of the defendant.[3] Thus, in order that a garnishee indebted upon a promissory note may avail himself of the defense that it is subject to be transferred before maturity to a bona fide holder for value, without notice, it must affirmatively be disclosed by his answer that the note was negotiable.[4] The defenses of a garnishee are discussed generally in the following sections.[5]

d. COMPELLING, AND WAIVER OF RIGHT TO HAVE, DISCLOSURE

§ 759. Compelling Garnishee to Answer.—In some states it is provided that if a garnishee fails to appear and answer, the plaintiff may proceed against him in an action in his own name. The only effect of the garnishee's default in such cases is to lay the foundation for an action wherein his rights must be answers made to interrogatories regarding the amount of salary paid, and the amount of his indebtedness to a judgment debtor, by the rendering of a judgment for a larger amount than that due at the date of service thereof, since unearned salary cannot be reached by anticipation through process of garnishment. Humphrey v. Midkiff, 122 La. 939, 48 So. 331, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 912.

---

[16] White v. Bird, 20 La. Ann. 188, 96 Am. Dec. 393.

[17] Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. South Florida Farms Co. 91 Fla. 593, 109 So. 212, 48 A.L.R. 957.

[18] Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, Gil. 205, 66 Am. Dec. 541.

[19] Keating v. J. Stone & Sons Live Stock Co. 83 Tex. 467, 18 S. W. 797, 29 Am. St. Rep. 670.

Generally, as to duty to disclose adverse claims to garnished property, see supra, § 689.

[20] Keating v. J. Stone & Sons Live Stock Co. 83 Tex. 467, 18 S. W. 797, 29 Am. St. Rep. 670.

[1] Annotation: 11 A.L.R. 225, s. 19 A.L.R. 863, and 39 A.L.R. 1215.

Generally, as to attachment or garnishment of the contents of safe-deposit boxes and measures to reach the same, see Vol. 4, p. 659, § 172.

[2] Cockey v. Leister, 12 Md. 124, 71 Am. Dec. 588.

[3] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 759.

As to duty of garnishee to defend garnishment and protect interests of defendant, see supra, §§ 682 et seq.

[4] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 759.

Generally, as to attachment of negotiable instruments, see Vol. 4, p. 721, §§ 259 et seq.

[5] See infra, §§ 770 et seq.

determined. The garnishee is not precluded from setting up any defense which he may have.[6]

§ 760. Waiver of Right to Have Disclosure.—The creditor may waive his right to have interrogatories filed by him answered by the garnishee.[7]

e. DISCLOSURE AS EVIDENCE, AND CONCLUSIVENESS

§ 761. Generally.—The answer of the garnishee is admissible in evidence, at least between those who are parties to the suit,[8] but it has been held not to be evidence against interveners in a contest between the latter and the garnishors.[9] Not only is the answer evidence between the parties, but admissions in such answer are binding on the garnishee.[10] The answer and admission of one partner upon process or garnishment, where both have been regularly served with process, will bind the other.[11] But the answer is not conclusive against the garnishor, and in most jurisdictions he may controvert its allegations,[12] though in some states the answer of the garnishee is taken as true[13] until it has been disproved or controverted.[14] A disclosure in the form of a pleading, filed by an insurance company in a garnishment proceeding to reach the proceeds of a policy held by an insured, cannot be considered on a plea to the jurisdiction of the court, where the statute absolves a garnishee from the necessity of an appearance if it admits or denies assets, and provides for examination by the court in other cases as to the existence of assets.[15]

7. TRAVERSING DISCLOSURE; EXCEPTIONS BY DEFENDANT; AND GARNISHEE'S REPLY

§ 762. Generally.—It is recognized that the plaintiff or garnishor may contest the answer of the garnishee, specifying in what particulars he believes it to be untrue.[16] If the answer of the garnishee in the disclosure or the traverse thereof is regarded as the original pleading in the garnishment rather than the petition or affidavit, the traverse of the plaintiff should also state the grounds upon which a recovery is claimed, and the garnishee's reply to such denial should complete the issue.[17] A rule upon the garnishee to plead, and his plea in answer thereto, take the place of this procedure in some jurisdictions.[18] In many jurisdictions the denial of the plaintiff takes the form of an affidavit.[19] The right of a debtor to refuse to recognize an assignment of a part of the debt is personal to him [20] and cannot be claimed by one attaching or garnishing such debt in traversing the disclosure in the garnishment.[1] It has been held that if the plaintiff asserts that an assignment of the attached or garnished property set up as a defense to his garnishment is fraudulent as to him, the court may determine the issue.[2]

---

[6] Tillinghast v. Johnson, 34 R. I. 136, 82 A. 788, 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 764, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 960; Black Hills Teleg. & Teleph. Co. v. Mitchell, 11 S. D. 615, 79 N. W. 999, 74 Am. St. Rep. 830.

If a garnishee refuses or neglects to render an account of the property in his possession belonging to the defendant, he should be charged, not by reason of his possession of such property, but because of such refusal or neglect. Tillinghast v. Johnson, 34 R. I. 136, 82 A. 788, 41 L.R.A. (N.S.) 764, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 960.

See also infra, § 813, as to compelling disclosure after judgment against the garnishee, in aid of execution of such judgment.

[7] Boyd v. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. 17 Md. 195, 79 Am. Dec. 646.

[8] Pitts v. Mower, 18 Me. 361, 36 Am. Dec. 727; Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

The answer is to be looked to by the court in determining the extent of the garnishee's liability, the natural import of the entire answer being taken. It is admissible in evidence as between the plaintiff and the garnishee where the original action and the garnishment proceedings are tried at the same time. The answer is evidence against the garnishee, and, where controverted by the plaintiff, is evidence against him until overcome by competent evidence. Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

[9] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

[10] Mann v. Buford, 3 Ala. 312, 37 Am. Dec. 691.

[11] Anderson v. Wanzer, 5 How. (Miss.) 587, 37 Am. Dec. 170.

[12] Serviss v. Washtenaw Circuit Judge, 116 Mich. 101, 74 N. W. 310, 72 Am. St. Rep. 507; Adlum v. Yard, 1 Rawle (Pa.) 163, 18 Am. Dec. 608.

Generally, as to traversing disclosure, see infra, § 762.

[13] Annotation: 100 Am. Dec. 511.

[14] Pierce v. Carleton, 12 Ill. 358, 54 Am. Dec. 405; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451.

[15] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424.

[16] Pierce v. Carleton, 12 Ill. 358, 54 Am. Dec. 405; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Serviss v. Washtenaw Circuit Judge, 116 Mich. 101, 74 N. W. 310, 72 Am. St. Rep. 507; Adlum v. Yard, 1 Rawle (Pa.) 163, 18 Am. Dec. 608; Phenix Ins. Co. v. Willis, 70 Tex. 12, 6 S. W. 825, 8 Am. St. Rep. 566; McDaniels v. J. J. Connelly Shoe Co. 30 Wash. 549, 71 P. 37, 60 L.R.A. 947, 94 Am. St. Rep. 889.

§ 763. Effect of Failure to Take Issue to Disclosure.—If issue is not taken on the statements of the garnishee, such statements must be taken as admitted,[3] and the answer of the garnishee is then the sole test of his indebtedness or liability.[4] However, the appointment of a garnishee as receiver, with the consent of all parties then in the case, before the expiration of the time for taking issue on his answer, precludes the necessity of traversing the statements in his answer, which allege his individual right to the possession of the property.[5]

§ 764. Exceptions by Defendant.—It is generally recognized that the principal debtor, whose interest is affected by garnishment proceeding, may take exception to the disclosure of the garnishee and show any good cause why his debts and contracts should not suffer interference.[6]

8. Trial and Evidence

§ 765. Generally.—It has already been noted how the pleadings in garnishment frame an issue for trial.[7] In general, a trial in garnishment is governed by the rules and principles governing trials generally in the particular jurisdiction.[8] Thus, the general provisions with regard to waiver of trial by jury,[9] setting the cause for trial, continuances, and the like apply to such a trial.[10] So also, the verdict of the jury is regarded as binding,[11] or as open to objection as in other civil actions.[12]

---

[17] Holker v. Hennessey, 141 Mo. 527, 42 S. W. 1090, 39 L.R.A. 165, 64 Am. St. Rep. 524.

[18] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[19] Cottingham v. Greely Barnham Grocery Co. 129 Ala. 200, 30 So. 560, 87 Am. St. Rep. 58; McDaniels v. J. J. Connelly Shoe Co. 30 Wash. 549, 71 P. 37, 60 L.R.A. 947, 94 Am. St. Rep. 889.

Affidavits controverting a denial by the garnishee of possession of goods of the debtor, under a statute permitting such affidavits, stating reasons for the belief that the answer is incorrect, and the particulars wherein it is so, are sufficient to raise an issue, where they state that the plaintiff believes with good reason that the answer is incorrect, because the garnishee took into his possession the debtor's stock of goods and attempted to acquire title thereto without complying with the terms of the statute requiring the purchaser of a stock of goods to ascertain the creditors of the seller and have the purchase price applied to their claims. McDaniels v. J. J. Connelly Shoe Co 30 Wash. 549, 71 P. 37, 60 L.R.A. 947, 94 Am. St. Rep. 889.

[20] See Assignments, Vol. 4, p. 279, § 65.

[1] Burditt v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 471.

[2] People's Bank v. Smith, 75 Miss. 753, 23 So. 428, 65 Am. St. Rep. 618.

See infra, §§ 766 et seq. as to issues triable to court or jury.

[3] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; Davis v. Pawlette, 3 Wis. 300, 62 Am. Dec. 690.

The failure to traverse the answer of a garnishee, which, by statute, makes it conclusive of the truth of the facts therein stated, does not make it conclusive as to statements made by an interplea, wholly independent and distinct from the garnishment, setting up his individual right to the possession of the property. Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346.

[4] Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; McLean v. Sworts, 69 Minn. 128, 71 N. W. 925, 65 Am. St. Rep. 556.

[5] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346.

[6] Hurlburt v. Hicks, 17 Vt. 193, 44 Am. Dec. 329.

[7] Generally, as to pleadings, see supra, § 706; as to the traverse of the garnishment disclosure and the reply of the garnishee thereto, see supra, § 762.

[8] Ruble v. Saretzke, 63 N. D. 631, 249 N. W. 716, 88 A.L.R. 1148.

See Trial [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[9] Brenizer v. Supreme Council, R. A. 141

§ 766. Issues Triable to Court or Jury.—Since garnishment is very generally regulated by statute, the governing statute should always be consulted in determining whether an issue is triable to a court or to a jury. Even where the statute does not expressly provide for the manner of trying an issue, its provisions as a whole may bear on the determination of the proper procedure.[13] However, the general rule is that questions of law are determinable by the court and questions of fact are triable by jury.[14]

§ 767. —In Absence of Statutory Provision.—Where the statute does not throw any light on the question of what garnishment issues are triable by jury, the proceeding has been considered in a number of cases to be a common-law proceeding in which the parties are entitled to a jury trial on questions of fact. In some cases, however, the right to a jury on issues in garnishment cases is denied, the garnishment proceedings being viewed as equitable proceedings in the nature of a creditors' bill, and hence involving no constitutional right to trial by jury on issues of fact arising in such proceedings.[15]

§ 768. —Under Statutory Provision.—Statutory provisions in the different jurisdictions vary widely in their provisions on this question. Some provide that garnishment issues shall be tried as ordinary issues between plaintiff and defendant,[16] while others either expressly make issues of fact determinable by the jury, or are construed as mandatory in that regard.[17] Some statutes leave it to the option of the parties to demand a jury trial of garnishment issues.[18]

N. C. 409, 53 S. E. 835, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 235. See Jury [Also 16 R. C. L. p. 176].

[10] Cluett v. Rosenthal, 100 Mich. 193, 58 N. W. 1009, 43 Am. St. Rep. 446. See Continuances [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 542]; Trial [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[11] Marx v. Hart, 166 Mo. 503, 66 S. W. 260, 89 Am. St. Rep. 715.

[12] Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Gallahue, 12 Gratt. (Va.) 655, 65 Am. Dec. 254. See Trial [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[13] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1151.

As to right to jury trial to assess allowance to garnishee for expenses, see infra, § 814.

[14] Wildner v. Ferguson, 42 Minn. 112, 43 N. W. 794, 6 L.R.A. 338, 18 Am. St. Rep. 495.

[15] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1153.

Generally, as to conflict of opinion upon legal or equitable character of garnishment, see Vol. 4, p. 554, § 5.

[16] Ruble v. Saretzke, 63 N. D. 631, 249 N. W. 716, 88 A.L.R. 1148; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1151.

A statute of this type providing that in the event of an answer of a garnishee being controverted, an issue may be joined which shall be tried in the usual manner, has been construed to entitle either party in such a case to a jury trial. Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1151.

In several cases under statutes of this type, the question has arisen in connection with the determination of whether or not the findings of the trial court on issues arising in garnishment are triable de novo on appeal. It has been held that where the garnishment statute provides that all provisions of law relating to proceedings in civil actions shall govern such proceedings, an issue which is triable to a jury in a civil action is also triable to a jury in a garnishment action, and under this view the findings of the trial court had the status of findings of a jury, and were not triable anew on appeal. Ruble v. Saretzke, 63 N. D. 631, 249 N. W. 716, 88 A.L.R. 1148. In Staton v. Vernon, 209 Iowa, 1123, 229 N. W. 763, 67 A.L.R. 1200, it was held, under a statute providing that issues in garnishment are to be tried in the usual manner, that the findings of the trial court upon questions of fact in garnishment proceedings will be given the same weight as the findings of the jury, and therefore are not triable de novo on appeal.

[17] Under such a statute the issue upon which demand for jury trial has been made must be a proper issue, that is, an issue of fact. It has been held that such a provision for a jury trial, however, does not apply in a scire facias proceeding to determine the amount which shall be paid by the trustee in an action begun by trustee process. Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1152.

[18] Under a statute of this type it was held that where the garnishees, after answering denying indebtedness, failed to appear and support the truth of their answer, the court proceeded properly in trying the issue of indebtedness vel non before the jury. Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1152.

and still others provide that upon disclosure the creditor may move the court that the question whether such person is trustee or not be tried by the jury.[19] Some statutes provide that if the garnishee makes any legal or equitable claim to the amount in his hands, the controversy must be determined by action, so that the constitutional right of jury trial can be availed of, and under some garnishment statutes the court is held to have no authority to try an issue in garnishment, but may authorize the judgment creditor to institute an independent proceeding and forbid a transfer of interest until such action shall be commenced and prosecuted to judgment.[20]

§ 769. Evidence.[1]—The general rules and principles governing the admissibility of evidence apply to garnishment proceedings.[2] Generally the garnishee's answer is evidence against him, and is presumptively conclusive. It is conclusive respecting the indebtedness when no statute provides otherwise, and, until overweighed by competent testimony, is evidence against the plaintiff.[3]

The general rule is that elements of proof by which the defense of double liability is established need not be alleged in the plea itself.[4] Thus, the view has been taken that a garnishee may introduce evidence that he has paid the debt sought to be garnished, although he did not specially plead such payment as a defense.[5] After the overruling of a demurrer to the defense of double liability, plaintiff's admission concerning the danger of such double liability is relevant and admissible.[6]

9. DEFENSES OF GARNISHEE

a. IN GENERAL

§ 770. Generally.—A garnishee must be allowed the rights of any other

---

Despite a statutory provision for optional jury trial, it is error to submit to the jury the issue of the garnishee's indebtedness, without testimony of a substantial character upon which the jury might predicate a finding that the garnishee owed the principal defendant at the date of the service of the writ. Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1152.

[19] Such a provision has been held to apply to a proceeding which had been appealed from a justice's court to the court of common pleas. Likewise, under this provision a motion for stay of proceedings has been held to effectuate such an election. Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1152.

[20] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1153.

[1] As to the admissibility and conclusiveness of the return of the writ of garnishment at the trial of the garnishment issue, see supra, § 731.

[2] See EVIDENCE [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 847]. In Putnam, Aldrich & Putnam v. McCormick, 159 Iowa, 702, 140 N. W. 886, L.R.A.1918B, 433, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 31, the evidence was held to justify a finding that a third person was not the purchaser of personalty in the possession of a garnishee answering that he had in his possession property of the defendant.

One garnished, in an action for damages for procuring the acceptance of drafts by fraud, for the proceeds of such drafts as indorsee of the defendant, and claiming title to them as a bona fide holder, cannot read in evidence statements in the defendant's answer tending to show his bona fides. J. E. Latham Co. v. Rogers, 170 N. C. 239, 87 S. E. 34, 1 A.L.R. 11.

In J. E. Latham Co. v. Rogers, 170 N. C. 239, 87 S. E. 34, 1 A.L.R. 11, an action for damages for fraud in procuring the acceptance of certain drafts, a bank to which the defendant had indorsed the drafts was made a garnishee, and became an intervener in the action. The issue of fraud was found against the defendant, and the garnishee contended that it had paid him full value for the drafts and was without knowledge of the fraud. In support of the contention the court allowed the garnishee to introduce in evidence certain paragraphs of the defendant's answer, although the whole contest in respect to such issue was between the plaintiff and the garnishee. On appeal it was held that there had been error in admitting such evidence. and a new trial was ordered.

That the principal defendants are the consignees named in the bill of lading issued by the trustee, a carrier, is some evidence that title to the goods is in the defendants so as to charge the carrier with knowledge of their ownership. Rosenbush v. Bernheimer, 211 Mass. 146, 97 N. E. 984, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1317.

[3] Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

[4] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599; Robertson v. Robertson, 37 Or. 339, 62 P. 377, 82 Am. St. Rep. 756.

[5] Robertson v. Robertson, 37 Or. 339, 62 P. 377, 82 Am. St. Rep. 756.

[6] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 59 A.L.R. 599.

party in court to make such defense as the law allows him against the party seeking to charge him with a liability.[7] When a garnishment suit is brought against a party, it is his duty promptly to defend it, if he has any defense to make, at the proper time, and if he fails to do so and judgment is rendered against him in consequence of his negligence, a court of equity has no power to relieve him, although it might be of the opinion that the original judgment was erroneous.[8] The garnishee occupies the same position as if sued by the principal debtor, and if the defense would not be open in a suit by the latter, it is not a defense in the garnishment proceedings.[9] A garnishee, as well as a defendant, may, by plea in abatement, take advantage of a plaintiff's incapacity to sue.[10]

§ 771. Estoppel against Garnishee to Make Defenses.—The general rules of estoppel against parties to a suit apply to estoppel against a garnishor.[11] Nevertheless, it has been held that although the plaintiff was induced by the garnishee therein to begin the action and to garnish him, solely on the faith of representations made by the latter that he was indebted to the defendant in the action, and that he held funds of the defendant liable to garnishment, thus leading the plaintiff to incur expense and trouble, yet the garnishee is not thereby estopped from denying his indebtedness to the defendant, and he is at most liable to the plaintiff for the actual expenses incurred by him in reliance upon the representations.[12] To allow full recovery in such a case would produce a greater injury than it was intended to prevent.[13]

b. Particular Defenses

§ 772. Generally.—As a rule, the garnishee may avail himself of every defense which he might urge in an action brought against him by the defendant debtor,[14] including the defense that the claim against him is barred by the statute of limitations.[15]

§ 773. Merits of Plaintiff's Claim against Defendant.—The garnishee cannot, in the garnishment proceeding proper, set up a lack of merits in the main action.[16] Accordingly, it has been held that a garnishee cannot set up usury in the indebtedness for which the judgment was rendered against the principal defendants, or otherwise impeach the consideration of such judgment.[17]

---

[7] Milwaukee & N. R. Co. v. Brooks Locomotive Works, 121 U. S. 430, 30 L. ed. 995, 7 S. Ct. 1094; Webb v. Miller, 24 Miss. 638, 57 Am. Dec. 189.

[8] Stroup v. Sullivan, 2 Ga. 275, 46 Am. Dec. 389.

As to duty of garnishee to defendant, see supra, §§ 680 et seq.

[9] Nordstrom v. Corona City Water Co. 155 Cal. 206, 100 P. 242, 132 Am. St. Rep. 81.

[10] Shivers v. Wilson, 5 Harr. & J. (Md.) 130, 9 Am. Dec. 497.

[11] See ESTOPPEL [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 669].

[12] Lewis v. Prenatt, 24 Ind. 98, 87 Am. Dec. 321; Henderson v. McMahill, 75 Iowa, 217, 39 N. W. 276, 9 Am. St. Rep. 472; Phillipsburg Bank v. Fulmer, 31 N. J. L. 52, 86 Am. Dec. 193.

[13] Phillipsburg Bank v. Fulmer, 31 N. J. L. 52, 86 Am. Dec. 193.

[14] Milwaukee & N. R. Co. v. Brooks Locomotive Works, 121 U. S. 430, 30 L. ed. 995, 7 S. Ct. 1094; Schuler v. Israel, 120 U. S. 506, 30 L. ed. 707, 7 S. Ct. 648; McLaughlin v. Swann, 18 How. (U. S.) 217, 15 L. ed. 357; Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216; Mathis v. Clark, 9 S. C. L. (2 Mill, Const.) 456, 12 Am. Dec. 688.

Annotation: 13 Am. Dec. 341.

A creditor attaching a debt by garnishment takes it subject to all equitable defenses. Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216.

A garnishee has a right to set up any defense against attachment process which he could have set up against the debtor in the principal action, and if the debtor is insolvent and owes the garnishee on a note not due, for which he has not sufficient security, he is not bound to risk the loss of his debt in answer to the garnishee process. Schuler v. Israel, 120 U. S. 560, 30 L. ed. 707, 7 S. Ct. 648.

[15] Wilson v. Koontz, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 202, 3 L. ed. 315; Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488; Clyne v. Easton, 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253.

[16] Sutherland Bros. v. Stanley, 250 Ky. 417, 63 S. W. (2d) 487, citing R. C. L.

§ 774. General Denial of Indebtedness to, or Possession of Effects of, Defendant.—A general denial of the garnishor's claim that the garnishee is indebted to the defendant or that he has in his possession, or had at the date of the garnishment, effects of the defendant may, of course, be pleaded as a defense to a garnishment; it is the main issue in the garnishment,[18] and under the rule that a garnishment is not binding unless at the time of the service of the writ on the garnishee he had in his possession some property of, or was indebted to, the defendant,[19] it is sufficient for the garnishee to answer that at the time of such service he had no property of, and was not indebted to, the defendant.[20] The view has been taken that if the goods in question have been taken from the garnishee by a wrongdoer, he has no defense on this ground, though he has good reason for asking for a delay in the proceedings until damages for the taking can be recovered.[21] A trustee carrier cannot assert its right to possess the attached goods for the purpose of earning freight, as a ground of discharge, where the only ground alleged in the answer for not being charged as trustee is that the property is not chargeable because a subject of interstate commerce.[1]

§ 775. Immaturity of Debt to Defendant.—The matter of whether or not the immaturity of the obligation of the garnishee to the defendant is a good defense to the garnishment depends upon whether the particular obligation in question is, under local statutes and practice, attachable or garnishable, the general rule being, however, that it is garnishable where it is certain of maturity at a future time, and that it is not attachable or garnishable where its maturity in the future is speculative and uncertain.[2] However, it has been held broadly that it is a defense to a garnishment that the account is open between the defendant and the garnishee, at least with respect to a trustee's account.[3]

---

[17] Wabash R. Co. v. Dougan, 142 Ill. 248, 31 N. E. 594, 34 Am. St. Rep. 74.

[18] Simpson v. Dall, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 460, 18 L. ed. 265; Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; Robertson v. Robertson, 37 Or. 339, 62 P. 377, 82 Am. St. Rep. 756; National Park Bank v. Levy Bros. 17 R. I. 746, 24 A. 777, 19 L.R.A. 475; Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881; Larsen v. Allan Line S. S. Co. 45 Wash. 406, 88 P. 753, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1258, 122 Am. St. Rep. 926.

Since a bank, although having many branches and places of business, is, nevertheless, only a single institution, and the bank is the only debtor of a depositor in any of the branches, it has been held, in garnishment proceedings to require payment by a branch bank of money which the debtor was alleged to have there on deposit, that it was a defense that, the debtor having failed to obey a decree for the payment of money, a writ of sequestration was issued, notice of which had been given by the sequestrators to the bank at its head office, and that thereupon, at the request of such principal office, the money on deposit in the branch bank was remitted to the principal office and paid over to the sequestrators, after which the garnishment order in question was served upon the branch bank. Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1354.

[19] See Vol. 4, p. 649, § 156.

[20] Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881.

A judgment against a garnishee cannot be supported by answers to the effect that the principal debtor has placed in the hands of the garnishee certain accounts for collection and has agreed to place certain personal property under his control, followed by a supplemental answer showing that after the date of the garnishment, certain of the accounts had been collected. Ibid.

Such a denial of possession of property or indebtedness to the defendant raises an issue upon which the garnishor and the garnishee may proceed to a trial according to the mode established by local statutes and practice.

[21] Despatch Line v. Bellamy Mfg. Co. 12 N. H. 205, 37 Am. Dec. 203.

[1] Rosenbush v. Bernheimer, 211 Mass. 146, 97 N. E. 984, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1317.

[2] See Vol. 4, § 192.

[3] The rule that garnishment will not lie to affect funds in the hands of a trustee, before the settlement of his accounts, rests altogether on jurisdictional considerations sufficient for the defense of a trustee as

§ 776. Previous Payment of Debt.—Obviously the garnishee may plead that he has paid the debt due to the principal debtor.[4] Thus, a person garnished in respect of a liability to the defendant on negotiable paper may show that he has paid the amount thereof to the defendant or to a holder who acquired the paper before maturity, but payment to one who did not acquire it until after maturity has been held to be no defense, nor can the garnishee escape liability under the garnishee process by showing that he made payment after service of such process on him.[5] Whether a debt is subject to attachment, garnishment, or trustee process after the debtor has given his creditor a check or has given or accepted some other negotiable instrument for the amount of the debt depends upon whether such act constitutes payment, a question which is beyond the scope of the discussion in this article. Even though a check is given to defeat garnishment, it seems that the defense is complete if the giving of the check constitutes payment.[6]

The view has been taken that under a general denial of indebtedness to the defendant, the garnishee can prove payment of the garnished indebtedness without pleading payment specially.[7] On the other hand, it has been held that payment in garnishment proceedings cannot be shown under a general denial of indebtedness and a plea of payment in an action by the debtor against the garnishee, and that such a defense must be specially pleaded,[8] though at common law it was held that the general issue in assumpsit would let in proof of a previous garnishment and payment thereunder.[9]

§ 777. Defects and Irregularities in Proceedings.—The garnishee cannot urge, as a defense, defects and irregularities which the defendant has waived, at least in so far as only the rights of the defendant are involved, for if the defendant has seen proper to waive them, there is no reason why the garnishee should be allowed to question that in which the defendant has acquiesced.[10] Thus, as a general rule, the garnishee cannot object to mere errors in the garnishee, as well as for the protection of the fund in his hands, but it is evident that these are purely matters of defense, of which the trustee should avail himself by motion, pleadings, or proof at some stage of the proceedings, before the final judgment. The trustee is not required to plead these facts specifically, but they should be disclosed to the court by some party to the proceeding before the matter is concluded by a judgment. Groome v. Lewis, 23 Md. 137, 87 Am. Dec. 563.

---

[4] Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; American Agri. Chemical Co. v. Scrimger, 130 Md. 389, 100 A. 774, L.R.A. 1917F, 394; National Park Bank v. Levy Bros. 17 R. I. 746, 24 A. 777, 19 L.R.A. 475; Larsen v. Allen Line S. S. Co. 45 Wash. 406, 88 P. 753, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1258, 122 Am. St. Rep. 926.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 396; L.R.A. 1918C, 761.

A statute is noted in 20 Texas Jur. p. 885, providing: "It shall be a sufficient answer to any claim of the defendant against the garnishee founded on any indebtedness of such garnishee, or on the possession by him of any effects, or where the garnishee is an incorporated or joint stock company in which the defendant was the owner of shares of stock or other interest therein, for the garnishee to show that such indebtedness was paid, or such effects were delivered, or such shares of stock or other interest in such company were sold under the judgment of the court in accordance with the provisions of this title."

Generally, as to rule that paid indebtedness is not attachable or garnishable, see Vol. 4, p. 673, § 190, p. 676, § 194.

[5] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 761.

[6] Larsen v. Allan S. S. Co. 45 Wash. 406, 88 P. 753, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1258, 122 Am. St. Rep. 926.

Annotation: 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1258.

[7] Robertson v. Robertson, 37 Or. 339, 62 P. 377, 82 Am. St. Rep. 756.

[8] Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451.

[9] Cook v. Field, 3 Ala. 53, 36 Am. Dec. 436; Drew v. Towle, 27 N. H. 412, 59 Am. Dec. 380.

[10] Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; Warthen v. Melton, 132 Ga. 113, 63 S. E. 832, 131 Am. St. Rep. 184; Schneitman v. Noble, 75 Iowa, 120, 39 N. W. 224, 9 Am. St. Rep. 467; Hanna v. Lauring, 10 Mart. (La.) 568, 13 Am. Dec. 339; Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567; Citizens' Bank & T. Co. v. McCoin, 206 N. C. 272, 173 S. E. 345, citing R. C. L.; Murchison Oil Co. v. Hampton (Tex. Civ. App.) 21 S. W. (2d) 59, citing R. C. L.; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

Annotation: 100 Am. Dec. 511.

proceedings antecedent to judgment against the defendant unless such errors involve his own rights, which is not usually the case, or are jurisdictional in character.[11] For example, the judgment debtor alone can question the validity of the judgment against him on the ground that the summons in the action in which it was rendered was served by a special officer who had been appointed to make the service without a proper affidavit first having been made.[12] Likewise, it has been said, mere fraud in obtaining the judgment against the debtor is not a defense on the part of the garnishee.[13] However, if the defect is of so serious a character as to make the proceedings void, the garnishee may raise objection on this ground.[14] Indeed, it is said that the garnishee not only may, but must, avail himself of the void character of the judgment as a defense.[15] In accordance with the principles stated in the preceding discussion, a bailee who is garnished for property of a judgment debtor cannot complain of mere irregularities in proceedings leading to an order of sale of the property, as the principal parties or claimants might do; his right of complaint is limited to the court exceeding its jurisdiction or failing to protect him against future attacks by those claiming an interest in, or title to, the property garnished.[16]

§ 778. Exemptions of Defendant.—The general rule is that a garnishee may plead as a defense to the garnishment the exemptions of the defendant from the process.[17] In fact, the duty of one summoned as garnishee to set up or disclose the principal defendant's exemptions has been declared broadly in a number of cases, although the decision in some of these cases is limited by the fact or assumption that the garnishment proceeding was ex parte and the principal defendant was without actual knowledge thereof.[18]

---

[11] Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; Schneitman v. Noble, 75 Iowa, 120, 39 N. W. 224, 9 Am. St. Rep. 467; Hanna v. Lauring, 10 Mart. (La.) 568, 13 Am. Dec. 339; Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567; Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673; Murchison Oil Co. v. Hampton (Tex. Civ. App.) 21 S. W. (2d) 59, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 100 Am. Dec. 511.

A garnishee has no right to complain of errors in the proceedings of the court disposing of the controversy between the plaintiff and the principal defendant which do not go to the jurisdiction of the court to render judgment. Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567.

[12] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673; Murchison Oil Co. v. Hampton (Tex. Civ. App.) 21 S. W. (2d) 59, citing R. C. L.

[13] Warthen v. Melton, 132 Ga. 113, 63 S. E. 832, 131 Am. St. Rep. 184.

[14] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971; Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177; Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567; Atwood v. Tucker (Atwood v. Roan) 26 N. D. 622, 145 N. W. 587, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597; Murchison Oil Co. v. Hampton (Tex. Civ. App.) 21 S. W. (2d) 59; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597; 13 Am. Dec. 341.

A garnishee has the right to raise the question of the validity of the proceeding. United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[15] Annotation: 13 Am. Dec. 341.

[16] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[17] Southern R. Co. v. Fulford, 125 Ga. 103, 54 S. E. 68, 5 Ann. Cas. 168; Czesna v. Lietuva Loan & Sav. Asso. 252 Ill. App. 612, citing R. C. L.; H. & M. Tire Serv. Co. v. Combs, 140 Kan. 35, 34 P. (2d) 943, citing R. C. L.; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Sharitt, 43 Kan. 375, 23 P. 430, 8 L.R.A. 385, 19 Am. St. Rep. 143; Wright v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. 19 Neb. 175, 27 N. W. 90, 56 Am. Rep. 747; Oklahoma Nat. Bank v. Lingo, 131 Okla. 209, 268 P. 257, citing R. C. L.; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 823 (violation of exemption law of other state); Black Hills Teleg. & Teleph. Co. v. Mitchell, 11 S. D. 615, 79 N. W. 999, 74 Am. St. Rep. 830; Clark v. Averill, 31 Vt. 512, 76 Am. Dec. 131.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 652.

In Blake v. Alswager, 55 N. D. 776, 215 N. W. 549, 55 A.L.R. 298, it appears that a debtor was adjudicated a bankrupt, and that his entire assets were set aside to him as exempt property. A few days later one of the creditors, the plaintiff in this case, commenced an action against the debtor on her claim, but at that time no attachment was issued. The debtor then filed a petition praying for his discharge in bankruptcy, after which the trial court issued an order staying the proceedings against the debtor. Shortly thereafter the debtor received his discharge in bankruptcy, which he set up as an answer to the action against him. The creditor then caused a warrant of attachment to be issued, and the sheriff levied on the property which had been set aside to the bankrupt as exempt. It was held, the decision of the trial court being reversed, that the plaintiff had no right to seize the defendant's exempt property by warrant of attachment after the defendant's discharge in bankruptcy. Annotation: 55 A.L.R. 303.

It has been held that the failure of the garnishee to answer the garnishment summons does not preclude him from setting up the principal defendant's right of exemption to money garnished, and if he paid it to the defendant after garnishment, he may justify such payment on the ground that the defendant claimed the money to be exempt, where such claim was, in fact, timely made.[19] What property is exempt, and what is the law governing the right to exemptions, are questions outside the scope of this article.[20]

§ 779. Adverse Claim to Garnished Property Generally.—A garnishee may disclose and prove adverse claims to the garnished property,[1] indeed, it is his duty to do so, at least where the adverse claimant is not notified to appear and defend.[2] However, it has been held that if the property sought to be reached has been mortgaged, the garnishee has no defense on this ground; the mortgagee must assert his rights.[3]

§ 780. Assignment by Defendant.[4]—The general rule is that the fact that the principal debtor has, previously to the garnishment, assigned his claim against the garnishee so that the garnishee is liable to the assignee of the debtor defeats garnishment proceedings,[5] providing the garnishee is notified of the assignment at some time during the garnishment, the cases not agreeing, however, upon the exact time during the garnishment that such notice must reach the garnishee. There is authority, however, to the effect that such notice need not be given at any time to preserve the priority of the assignment over the attachment.[6] Thus, after an assignment of a non-negotiable note, for value, by the payee, and notice thereof to the maker, if the maker is summoned as garnishee of the original payee, a disclosure of the assignment and of notice given to him before service of process will discharge him, and he need not show that the assignment was bona fide.[7] The garnishee may, in his own defense, set up the rights of the assignee to whom he is liable;[8] in fact, the general rule is that he must do so to protect himself against subsequent demands of the assignee, at least where he has knowledge of the assignment. However, if the garnishee, while ignorant of the assignment, pays the creditor, he will be protected, but if he pays after notice of the assignee's rights, without disclosing them, he will remain liable to the assignee.[9] If, in garnishment proceedings, an indebtedness is disclosed by the garnishee, but he also discloses the fact of a claim thereto by a third person as assignee, it is error for the court to order judgment against the garnishee until the claimant is duly cited and made a party, and unless this is done, the rights of such claimant cannot be barred or affected by the judgment.[10] If an assignment is only partial, a court of equity will, under proper circumstances, grant equitable relief against the garnishment of the entire amount.[11] An incomplete assignment does not constitute a good defense to a garnishment,[12] for such incompleteness prevents it from having priority over the garnishment.[13]

---

[18] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 646.

[19] Black Hills Teleg. & Teleph. Co. v. Mitchell, 11 S. D. 615, 79 N. W. 999, 74 Am. St. Rep. 830.

[20] See Exemptions [Also 11 R. C. L. p. 487].

[1] Milwaukee & N. R. Co. v. Brooks Locomotive Works, 121 U. S. 430, 30 L. ed. 995, 7 S. Ct. 1094; Rosenbush v. Bernheimer, 211 Mass. 146, 97 N. E. 984, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1317; Hambley & Co. v. White & Co. 192 N. C. 31, 133 S. E. 399, citing R. C. L. (holding garnishee should set up as a defense a prior attachment).

The fact of ownership of goods attached by trustee process is to be determined by the trustee's answer or, if not shown by it, by other evidence. Rosenbush v. Bernheimer, 211 Mass. 146, 97 N. E. 984, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1317.

It is competent for garnishees to represent in their own defense the rights of a third party to whom they are in law liable. Milwaukee & N. R. Co. v. Brooks Locomotive Works, 121 U. S. 430, 30 L. ed. 995, 7 S. Ct. 1094.

[2] See supra, § 688.

[3] Boyd v. Chesapeake & O. Canal Co. 17 Md. 195, 79 Am. Dec. 646.

[4] Priority between assignments and garnishments is discussed in a subsequent division of this article. See infra, §§ 842 et seq.

[5] Fenton v. Edwards, 126 Cal. 43, 58 P. 320, 46 L.R.A. 832, 77 Am. St. Rep. 141; Walton v. Horkan, 112 Ga. 814, 38 S. E. 105, 81 Am. St. Rep. 77; Weire v. Davenport, 11 Iowa, 49, 77 Am. Dec. 132; Harlow v. Bartlett, 96 Me. 294, 52 A. 638, 90 Am. St. Rep. 346; Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450; Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 47 L.R.A. 737, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586; Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260; Hawley v. Hurd, 72 Vt. 122, 47 A. 401, 52 L.R.A. 195, 82 Am. St. Rep. 922.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 655.

[6] See infra, §§ 874 et seq.

[7] Newell v. Adams, 1 D. Chip. (Vt.) 346, 12 Am. Dec. 690.

[8] Milwaukee & N. R. Co. v. Brooks Locomotive Works, 121 U. S. 430, 30 L. ed. 996, 7 S. Ct. 1094; Black v. Paul, 10 Mo. 103, 45 Am. Dec. 353; Noble v. Thompson Oil Co. 79 Pa. 354, 21 Am. Rep. 66; Day v. Zimmerman, 68 Pa. 72, 8 Am. Rep. 157; Hawley v. Hurd, 72 Vt. 122, 47 A. 401, 52

§ 781. Protection of Garnishee against Double Liability Generally.—The courts are anxious to protect garnishees against double liability as a consequence of garnishment proceeding.[14] Although in the abstract the courts generally profess to regard a garnishee as a mere disinterested stakeholder who should be spared risk and loss and be inconvenienced as little as possible through the garnishment, practically his path to protection is beset with difficulties to avoid which he is required to be both wary and vigilant.[15]

§ 782. Defenses to Garnishment of Negotiable Instrument.—Danger of double liability is, of course, a good defense to the garnishment of a negotiable instrument.[16] Accordingly, a garnishment has been held to have been rightly discharged where the debt of the garnishee was evidenced by negotiable promissory notes not yet due, not surrendered, and held by unknown persons, and where no indemnity was given or tendered to the garnishee to protect him against liability to the holder. Likewise, an answer averring that the note was indorsed before maturity by the defendant and afterwards by two other persons and was then held for collection by a named bank,[17] or that the garnishee has been notified of its negotiation to a third person,[18] or

---

L.R.A. 195, 82 Am. St. Rep. 922; Putney v. Farnham, 27 Wis. 187, 9 Am. Rep. 459.

[9] See supra, § 689.

[10] Levy v. Miller, 38 Minn. 526, 38 N. W. 700, 8 Am. St. Rep. 691.

[11] National Exch. Bank v. McLoon, 73 Me. 498, 40 Am. Rep. 388.

An attaching or garnishing plaintiff cannot claim priority over a previous assignee of a portion of the debt garnished on the ground that the debt could not be divided against the debtor, for the right to refuse to recognize such an assignment is personal to the debtor. Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763. Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 472.

However, as to attachability or garnishability of joint interests generally, see Vol. 4, p. 655, § 164, p. 664, § 178; as to levy on joint interest or commingled goods, see Vol. 4, p. 895, § 560.

[12] Baer v. English, 84 Ga. 403, 11 S. E. 453, 20 Am. St. Rep. 372.

[13] See infra, §§ 859 et seq.

[14] Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599; Crouse v. Phœnix Ins. Co. 56 Conn. 176, 14 A. 82, 7 Am. St. Rep. 298; Mims v. West, 38 Ga. 18, 95 Am. Dec. 379; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; Willis v. Heath, 75 Tex. 124, 12 S. W. 971, 16 Am. St. Rep. 876; Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. v. New York Carousal Mfg. Co. 95 Va. 515, 28 S. E. 888, 40 L.R.A. 237; Carson v. Allen, 2 Pinney (Wis.) 457, 2 Chand. 123, 54 Am. Dec. 148.

Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 609; 91 A.L.R. 959; L.R.A.1917F, 1016; L.R.A.1918C, 731; 9 Ann. Cas. 478; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 365.

[15] Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 41 Am. Dec. 626.

[16] Willis v. Heath, 75 Tex. 124, 12 S. W. 971, 16 Am. St. Rep. 876; Carson v. Allen, 2 Pinney (Wis.) 457, 2 Chand. 123, 54 Am. Dec. 148.

[17] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 759.

[18] Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 41 Am. Dec. 626.

that that he does not know by whom his notes are held,[19] presents a good defense.

But an answer by a garnishee indebted upon an overdue promissory note, pleading ignorance as to whether or not the defendant still held and owned it when the process was served, is not conclusive so as to shut out further inquiry.[20] Moreover, an answer by the maker of a negotiable promissory note as garnishee upon process in favor of an execution creditor of the payee, setting up that his note had been transferred to another holder before its maturity, may be traversed and proof may be received to show that the transfer was made without consideration and to hinder, delay, and defraud the defendant's creditors.[21]

An admission by a garnishee that he made and delivered to the defendant a negotiable promissory note which is outstanding and not yet due is not an admission of indebtedness upon it to the defendant.[1]

§ 783. Pendency of Other Proceedings on Garnished Claim.[2]—Garnishment proceedings may be instituted by a creditor notwithstanding an action is pending in favor of the debtor against the garnishee to recover the same debt.[3] The view has been taken, however, that this rule applies only when both suits are within the same court or at least within the same jurisdiction, and that while a subsequent garnishment is no answer to a prior action in another jurisdiction, a prior action commenced against the garnishee in one state must be considered a defense to garnishment proceedings begun subsequently in another state.[4]

§ 784. Previous Judgment on Garnished Claim.—A previous judgment on the garnished debt in the same state constitutes no defense to the garnishment in a jurisdiction where the particular debt is liable to the process while it is in suit or where the judgment upon it is bound by the process.[5]

---

[19] Sheets v. Culver, 14 La. 449, 33 Am. Dec. 593, wherein the court supported its decision by reasoning thus: "As to notes indorsed in blank which circulate and pass from hand to hand by mere delivery, it has never been, nor can it be pretended, that any notice of transfer is necessary. . . . If, then, no such notice is ever given, how is a garnishee, who has issued his promissory note, indorsed in blank, to know in whose hands it happens to be at the precise moment when he is called upon to answer interrogatories? And if, perchance, he were to know that his note was still the property of the defendant, and were so to declare it, could such a proceeding restrain its negotiability? Could it affect the rights of a bona fide holder? Surely not. The ownership of negotiable paper is incessantly varying, before its maturity, and the obligation of the maker of such instruments is not to pay any particular person, but to the holder, at maturity, whoever he may be. Thus, it is obvious that the garnishee in this case could give no other answer than that which he has made, and it is equally obvious that by pursuing this course, the plaintiffs have attached no property out of which their judgment can be satisfied."

[20] Serviss v. Washtenaw Circuit Judge, 116 Mich. 101, 74 N. W. 310, 72 Am. St. Rep. 507.

[21] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 760.

[1] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 759.

[2] Generally as to attachability or garnishability of claim in suit, see Vol. 4, p. 687, § 210.

As to subsequent garnishment as defense to previous action by defendant against garnishee on garnished debt, see supra, § 697.

[3] Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; M'Carty v. Emlen, 2 Dall. (Pa.) 277, 1 L. ed. 380; Smith v. Carroll, 17 R. I. 125, 20 A. 227, 21 A. 343, 12 L.R.A. 301.

[4] Whipple v. Robbins, 97 Mass. 107, 93 Am. Dec. 64; Smith v. Carroll, 17 R. I. 125, 20 A. 227, 21 A. 343, 12 L.R.A. 301; Burke v. Hance, 76 Tex. 76, 13 S. W. 163, 18 Am. St. Rep. 28.

A garnishee will be compelled to defend, although a suit brought by the original debtor is pending against him, provided the suit is in the same court. The reason for this is that where the two suits are pending in the same court, the interests of the defendant and garnishee can be readily protected. But the garnishee is not required to defend in the garnishment action where the pending suit by his creditor is brought in another court. Burke v. Hance, 76 Tex. 76, 13 S. W. 163, 18 Am. St. Rep. 28. Annotation: 93 Am. Dec. 67.

See also supra, § 697.

[5] Skipper v. Foster, 29 Ala. 330, 65 Am. Dec. 405.

As to liability of debt in suit to garnish-

The general rule is that a previous judgment in another state on a garnished claim, rendered without fraud or collusion, is entitled to full faith and credit and constitutes a defense to the garnishment, irrespective of the propriety of the judgment, particularly when the garnishee has satisfied the judgment against him.[6] However, there is some doubt as to whether such judgment has that effect where the action in which it was rendered was commenced subsequent to the garnishment. There is specific authority that in such a case it has that effect,[7] but there is also specific authority to the contrary,[8] and the opinions of the United States Supreme Court apparently support the latter view.[9]

§ 785. Anticipated Refusal of Foreign Court to Give Garnishment Full Faith and Credit.—Presupposing that from the point of view of the court of the forum of garnishment the court would have jurisdiction to render a judgment garnishing the indebtedness, the question arises whether the court should decline to exercise jurisdiction over, or render judgment in, garnishment proceedings because of the danger of subjecting the garnishee to a double liability in consequence of the anticipated refusal of a court of another jurisdiction, in an action by the creditor (principal defendant in garnishment or his representative) against the debtor (garnishee), to recognize or give effect to such judgment if rendered. The doctrine finally adopted by the United States Supreme Court upholding the jurisdiction to garnish a debt due from a resident or a foreign corporation doing business within the state to a nonresident served constructively only, and declaring such a judgment to be entitled to recognition and effect in other states under the full faith and credit provision of the Federal Constitution,[10] leaves but little, if any, scope for this question.[11] Nevertheless, the question may still arise with respect to a foreign jurisdiction to which this clause is not applicable.[12] It ment, see Vol. 4, p. 687, § 210; of judgment, see Vol. 4, p. 688, §§ 212 et seq.

---

As to judgment in garnishment as defense to suit on garnished claim, see infra, §§ 804 et seq.

[6] Scott v. Coleman, 5 Litt. (Ky.) 349, 15 Am. Dec. 71; Baxley v. Linah, 16 Pa. 241, 55 Am. Dec. 494; Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. v. New York Carousal Mfg. Co. 95 Va. 515, 28 S. E. 888, 40 L.R.A. 237.

One garnished for a debt due a nonresident creditor may, irrespective of the propriety of the foreign judgment under the circumstances, prevent a judgment against him in the garnishment proceedings by showing that without his collusion, and notwithstanding his plea of the pendency of the garnishment proceedings, a court at the creditor's domicil, having jurisdiction, rendered a judgment against him on the debt in favor of the creditor, which, having property in that jurisdiction, he was compelled to pay. Virginia F. & M. Ins. Co. v. New York Carousal Mfg. Co. 95 Va. 515, 28 S. E. 888, 40 L.R.A. 237.

[7] Becker v. Illinois C. R. Co. 250 Ill. 40, 95 N. E. 42, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1154; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275.

The recovery of a judgment for wages exempt from garnishment before the entry of judgment in a garnishment proceeding in a foreign state, where the wages were not exempt, deprives the employer of the benefit of the foreign judgment as a defense to his liability, although the garnishment proceeding was instituted before the local action; and it is immaterial that an appeal was taken from the local judgment, upon which a decision was not reached until after the judgment was entered in the garnishment proceeding. Becker v. Illinois C. R. Co. 250 Ill. 40, 95 N. E. 42, 35 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1154. Annotation: 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1154.

[8] The effect of a foreign judgment against a garnishee to protect him from paying the claim a second time to the principal debtor will not be defeated by the fact that after the foreign proceedings were instituted, the principal debtor brought suit upon the claim against the garnishee within the state, which he pressed to judgment before the foreign judgment was entered. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396.

[9] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855; Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084; King v. Cross, 175 U. S. 396, 44 L. ed. 211, 20 S. Ct. 131; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 959.

[10] See Vol. 4, p. 589, §§ 66, 67.

[11] Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 609.

[12] See Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599.

Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 609.

It will be observed that in Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 has been contended: (1) That to refuse to exercise jurisdiction or give judgment against the garnishor in such cases is tantamount to giving comity to the laws of a country which itself does not give comity to judgments of the forum, and that such a policy should not be adopted, even at the cost of double liability to the garnishee; (2) that such a rule is bad law, for the reason that it enables the garnishee, having avoided the payment of the obligation in the residence of his creditor, to avoid it also in the forum, or vice versa.[13] Whatever may be the theoretical merits of these contentions, practical considerations, focusing around the prevention of an obvious and unavoidable injustice to the garnishee, have led the courts to the adoption of the view that wherever the garnishee under such circumstances will be placed in a position where it may be reasonably assumed that he will incur a double liability, they will withhold the judgment in garnishment or refuse to exercise jurisdiction.[14]

c. Set-off or Counterclaim

§ 786. Generally.—The garnishee may set off in garnishment proceedings whatever demand he might be able to set off against the principal debtor's claim against him.[15] For example, one who, after selling chattels to an insol-

---

Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599, it appeared as a fact, and was admitted that the court of Haiti, where the creditor or his representative was domiciled and where the insurance company (debtor and garnishee) would be subject to suit, would not recognize a judgment in garnishment rendered in Connecticut; and the refusal of the court of Haiti to recognize the Connecticut judgment would, of course, not be a violation of the full faith and credit provision of the Federal Constitution, or subject to correction by the Federal Supreme Court. Consequently, in that case the danger of double liability was a fact, and not merely a possibility, and there was no remedy available to the garnishee to avoid it.

[13] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599.

[14] Ibid.

Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 609.

In Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599, it does not appear where the debt was payable. It was contended by the counsel for the plaintiffs that it was payable in Connecticut, the residence of the garnishee, and that the doctrine of Swiss Bank Corp. Case [1923] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 673—C. A., should apply. But the court apparently disregarded this contention.

[15] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Schuler v. Israel, 120 U. S. 506, 30 L. ed. 707, 7 S. Ct. 648; Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216; United States v. Robertson, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 641, 8 L. ed. 257; J. H. Mulrein Plumbing Supply Co. v. Walsh, 26 Ariz. 152, 222 P. 1046, citing R. C. L.; Hoyt v. Clemans, 167 Iowa, 330, 149 N. W. 442, L.R.A.1915C, 166; J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184; Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huntington Nat. Bank, 229 Ky. 674, 17 S. W. (2d) 726, 71 A.L.R. 70; Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212; Goodwin v. Claytor, 137 N. C. 224, 49 S. E. 173, 67 L.R.A. 209, 107 Am. St. Rep. 479; Farmers' State Bank v. Van Houten, 52 S. D. 528, 219 N. W. 206, citing R. C. L.; McAlmond v. Bevington, 23 Wash. 315, 63 P. 251, 53 L.R.A. 597; Bowling v. Bluefield-Graham Fair Asso. 84 W. Va. 41, 99 S. E. 184, citing R. C. L.; Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948.

Annotation: 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1185.

A garnishee, being an indifferent party to the litigation, may interpose all of the equities or defenses to the same extent that he could in an action brought against him by the defendant. Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212.

Whatever rights the garnishee may have under existing contracts with the principal debtor, he is entitled to have the benefit as against the attaching creditor. North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710.

One who, after selling chattels to an insolvent, seizes and sells them to another may, upon being garnished for their value by a judgment creditor of the buyer, set off against the claim his account against the buyer for the unpaid purchase price. J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184.

A bank summoned as garnishee in an action against one of its insolvent depositors may set off against the depositor's general account unmatured notes held by it at the time of the service of the garnishment summons, irrespective of whether the bank knew of the insolvency at the time of such service, and notwithstanding the depositor had not at such time been formally adjudged an insolvent. Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212.

vent, seizes and sells them to another may, upon being garnished for their value by a judgment creditor of the first buyer, set off against the claim his account against the buyer for the unpaid purchase price.[16] It would seem that an equitable set-off is allowable in an action in equity against liability in the garnishment proceedings upon the usual grounds for the granting of such relief; and in the garnishment proceeding itself, an equitable set-off is sometimes allowed, and sometimes not, upon the ground that garnishment is purely a legal remedy.[17] The garnishee cannot, as a rule, set off any claim which he could not avail himself of in a suit brought against him by the principal debtor.[18] The view has been taken that the garnishee can set off against the claim of the plaintiff not only his claims against the defendant, but, also, his claims against the plaintiff himself existing at the time of the service of the garnishment.[19]

§ 787. Availability of Set-off or Counterclaim with Respect to Time of Maturity or Time of Acquisition of Claim.—The general rule is that a claim acquired by the garnishee against the principal debtor after the service of the garnishment proceedings cannot be made available as a set-off. The reasons usually assigned for this rule are that if such claims were allowed to be set off, the right of priority of the garnishing creditor would be impaired, and also, that the door would be thrown open to fraudulent assignments to the garnishee for the purpose of defeating the garnishing creditor's rights.[20] The view has been taken that the garnishee may set off against the amount due the principal debtor a debt maturing after the service of the garnishment process, where the debt arises out of a contract with the principal debtor which is in existence at the time the garnishment process is served.[1] However, it has been held that to be available as a set-off, a claim in favor of a garnishee against the principal debtor must be due and enforceable at the time the garnishment process is served, since the garnishment proceedings operate as a transfer of the funds of the principal debtor in the hands of the garnishee. According to this view no set-off is allowed, even though the claim matures before disclosure or final adjudication of the garnishment proceedings.[2]

A bank summoned as garnishee in an action against one of its depositors may set off against the depositor's general account unmatured notes held by

---

A garnishee acquires no claim against the debtor in a garnishment proceeding in which no answer is made and no issues joined, no judgment entered, and no execution issued by acquiring an assignment of a judgment against the debtor rendered in another action. Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006.

[16] Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184.

Annotation: 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1185.

[17] Annotation: 59 L.R.A. 353.

[18] Annotation: 100 Am. Dec. 512.

[19] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[20] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Nordstrom v. Corona City Water Co. 155 Cal. 206, 100 P. 242, 132 Am. St. Rep. 81; Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huntington Nat. Bank, 229 Ky. 674, 17 S. W. (2d) 726, 71 A.L.R. 70.

The rule that a garnishee may not defeat the right of the attaching creditor to collect the attached debt by acquiring an offset thereto after being served with the attachment does not apply in the case of an insurer of partnership property who was garnished by a creditor of an individual partner, and who, being sued by the owners of the insured property and a mortgagee thereof claiming a right to the insurance, settled the suit by paying the mortgagee the amount claimed by him and took a transfer of the note secured. Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huntington Nat. Bank, 229 Ky. 674, 17 S. W. (2d) 726, 71 A.L.R. 70. See also Boston Type & Stereotype Foundry Co. v. Mortimer, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 166, 19 Am. Dec. 266. Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 215.

[1] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Boston Type & Stereotype Foundry Co. v. Mortimer, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 166, 19 Am. Dec. 266.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 214.

[2] Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 215.

it at the time of the service of the garnishee summons when it appears that the depositor is insolvent.[3]

§ 788. Necessity of Pleading Set-off or Counterclaim Specially.—As to the necessity of a special plea of the defense of set-off by the garnishee, a conflict of opinion exists. On the one hand, it has been held that the technical rules of set-off are not applicable to a statutory garnishment proceeding, the sole purpose of which is to ascertain what the garnishee may owe the defendant, and that it is not necessary for the garnishee specially to plead the defense of set-off in order to avail himself of that defense. However, in other decisions it has been held that the defense of set-off must be specially pleaded or claimed by the garnishee, such defense not being available under a general denial of indebtedness. Even if it is necessary for a garnishee to plead set-off, the right to take advantage of his failure to plead such defense is waived by a failure to object to evidence of set-off.[4]

10. Judgment and Execution; Voluntary Payment

a. In General

§ 789. Generally.—Judgments in garnishment proceedings and their enforcement constitute a matter of diverse local practice in the various jurisdictions. Such practice tends to differ with respect to the time of entry, the form and contents, and the mode of execution of such judgments. However, it may be said generally: (1) That garnishment statutes and practice contemplate that no final judgment may be entered and enforced against the garnishee except as a form of execution of a final judgment against the defendant, and that consequently, final judgment against the garnishee must always follow final judgment against the defendant;[5] (2) that final judgment may not be entered against the garnishee unless it appears affirmatively that at the time of the garnishment the defendant had a cause of action against the garnishee for the recovery of a legal debt, due or to become due, and that such judgment would be available to the garnishee as a defense against any action afterwards brought against him on the debt in respect of which he is charged.[6]

The view has been taken that judgment may be rendered against the garnishee even though he has not been made a party to the action, in the technical sense, if by statute it is not necessary that he be made a party.[7] The death of the plaintiff before judgment against the garnishee is rendered does not render such judgment null and void. At most, it is merely voidable.[8]

§ 790. Amount of Judgment.[9]—The general rule is that a judgment can charge the garnishee at the most only for the amount of the plaintiff's claim, with interest and costs, against the defendant named in the writ or order of garnishment.[10] Furthermore, the garnishee cannot, ordinarily, be charged by such a judgment with a greater liability than the value of property of, and amount of debts owing to, the defendant which have been attached or garnished in his possession.[11]

---

[3] Schuler v. Israel, 120 U. S. 506, 30 L. ed. 707, 7 S. Ct. 648; Boston Type & Stereotype Foundry Co. v. Mortimer, 7 Pick. (Mass.) 166, 19 Am. Dec. 266; Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212.

Annotation: 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 813.

Generally as to rule that validity of garnishment is determined by facts existing at time of service on garnishee and that garnishment is of no force and effect where at that time the garnishee has no property of the defendant in his possession and is not indebted to defendant, see Vol. 4, p. 648, §§ 155, 156.

[4] Melton Hardware Co. v. Heidelberg, 91 Miss. 598, 44 So. 857, 15 Ann. Cas. 704.

[5] Generally as to order of entry between final judgment against defendant and against garnishee, see supra, § 711.

[6] Mims v. West, 38 Ga. 18, 95 Am. Dec. 379; J. Cueva Co. v. R. Lancaster Williams & Co. 145 Md. 526, 125 A. 849, citing R. C. L.

[7] Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A. (N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488.

[8] Coleman v. McAnulty, 16 Mo. 173, 57 Am. Dec. 229.

As to the effect of the death of the defendant in garnishment, see supra, § 742.

[9] As to the liability of the garnishee where he fails to retain the garnished

In some jurisdictions, however, judgment may be rendered against a garnishee for an amount exceeding that of the plaintiff's judgment against the defendant,[12] and whatever surplus remains after paying the plaintiff belongs to the principal debtor.[13]

If a garnishee has permitted the attached property to leave his possession, a judgment in personam may be entered against him for its value.[14]

§ 791. Judgment or Favorable Outcome for Garnishee.—A judgment or order discharging the garnishee may be entered.[15]

b. Form of Judgment

§ 792. Conditional Judgment.—Sometimes under local statutes and practice a conditional judgment may be entered against the garnishee upon entry of judgment against the defendant, such judgment not to become absolute until it is established that the garnishee has in his possession property of, or debts owing to, the defendant, not exempt from execution.[16] This practice is frequently followed upon a default of the garnishee, where he has failed to appear at the time and place named in his summons,[17] for example, where he is summoned to appear in the main action and fails to do so.[18] The purpose of such a conditional judgment may be merely to give a garnishee, who has defaulted, additional time to answer the garnishment.[19] In such case a writ of scire facias frequently may issue against the garnishee with the conditional judgment. A conditional judgment rendered against a garnishee, without appearance by, or service of written notice upon, him, is void where the stat-property pending garnishment, see supra, §§ 669 et seq.

---

[10] Davis Bros. v. Choctaw, O. & G. R. Co. 73 Ark. 120, 83 S. W. 318, 3 Ann. Cas. 658; Scott v. Hill, 3 Mo. 88, 22 Am. Dec. 462; Drew v. Towle, 27 N. H. 412, 59 Am. Dec. 380.

Annotation: 3 Ann. Cas. 660.

[11] Strand v. Halverson, — Iowa, —, 264 N. W. 266, 103 A.L.R. 835; Scott v. Hill, 3 Mo. 88, 22 Am. Dec. 462.

Generally as to extent of lien of garnishment, see infra, §§ 820 et seq.

[12] Scott v. Hill, 3 Mo. 88, 22 Am. Dec. 462.

[13] Siegel, C. & Co. v. Schueck, 167 Ill. 522, 47 N. E. 855, 59 Am. St. Rep. 309.

[14] International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902 40 A.L.R. 960.

[15] Roman v. Montgomery Iron Works, 156 Ala. 604, 47 So. 136, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604, 130 Am. St. Rep. 106; Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926.

Annotation: 46 Am. Dec. 341.

As to operation and effect of judgment for garnishee, see infra, §§ 800 et seq.

[16] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673; Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356.

In Hillman v. Gray, 163 Wash. 406, 1 P. (2d) 318, 75 A.L.R. 1356, the plaintiff had obtained a judgment against the defendant and, some years later, in an action by the defendant against the garnishee, caused a garnishment to be issued and served, and a conditional judgment to be entered against the garnishee, to become absolute on final judgment for the defendant against the garnishee. However, the conditional judgment was subsequently held to be of no force and effect because the plaintiff's judgment against the defendant had expired.

Entry of default of one summoned as trustee without the entry of judgment against the principal defendant is not such a final judgment against him that failure of the plaintiff to make demand on him within thirty days thereafter will operate, under the provisions of a statute, to dissolve the attachment. Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

[17] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673 (where judgment, however, was void for want of notice to the defendant).

[18] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[19] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673 (where judgment, however, was void for want of notice to the defendant).

ute requires such notice, and the subsequent issuance and service of a scire facias will not cure that defect, but the final judgment will also be void, although the garnishee failed to defend the scire facias.[20]

§ 793. Personal Judgment or Judgment in Rem.—Since the judgment generally binds only the res, it is commonly in rem.[21] However, a personal judgment may, under certain circumstances, be taken against the garnishee if jurisdiction of his person has been obtained and if the statute contemplates the entry of such a judgment.[1] However, in most jurisdictions such a judgment is limited by the amount of the judgment against the defendant.[2] The general rule is that a garnishee is bound personally, and a personal judgment can be entered against him for the value of the goods and effects of the defendant garnished in his hands, limited, of course, by the amount of judgment against the defendant, where, through the fault of the garnishee, such property is not forthcoming to satisfy the plaintiff's claim and judgment against the defendant.[3] Accordingly, if a garnishee has permitted the attached property to leave his possession, a judgment in personam may be entered against him for its value.[4]

§ 794. —Right of Plaintiff to Elect.—Under certain circumstances a plaintiff may elect between a judgment in rem against property of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee and one in personam for the amount of the plaintiff's claim as limited by the garnishee's liability to the defendant.[5] However, where a plaintiff in a suit of garnishment, in which process has been served on the garnishee, having the right to prevent the garnishee from disposing of the property for which he may be liable, elects to consider the garnishee his debtor and to take personal judgment against him, he will be held to his election, and cannot follow the property or its proceeds.[6]

§ 795. Order on Garnishee in Lieu of Judgment.—In some jurisdictions a judgment is not entered against the garnishee. All that the creditor can do is to obtain an order against the garnishee to appear and answer, and upon such appearance, if the debt is admitted, an order may be made for its payment into court, and if the debt is denied, an order may be entered authorizing the judgment creditor to institute an action to recover the alleged debt.[7]

[20] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673.

[21] Strand v. Halverson, — Iowa, —, 264 N. W. 266, 103 A.L.R. 835.

[1] International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960; Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926.

A statute is noted in Goodwin v. Claytor, 137 N. C. 224, 49 S. E. 173, 67 L.R.A. 209, 107 Am. St. Rep. 479, which provides: "When an attachment shall be served on any garnishee in manner aforesaid, it shall be lawful upon his appearance and examination to enter up judgment and award execution for the plaintiff against such garnishee for all sums of money due to the defendant from him, and for effects and estates of any kind belonging to the defendant, in his possession or custody, for the use of the plaintiff, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy the debt and costs and all charges incident to levying the same; and all goods and effects whatsoever in the hands of the garnishee belonging to the defendant shall be liable to satisfy the plaintiff's judgment, and shall be delivered to the sheriff or other officer serving the attachment."

[2] Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926.

[3] International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960.

[4] International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960.

As to duty of garnishee to retain garnished property pending garnishment, see supra, §§ 662 et seq.; as to liability for failure to discharge this duty, see supra, §§ 669 et seq.

[5] Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926.

[6] Ibid.

[7] Atlantic & P. R. Co. v. Hopkins, 94 U. S. 11, 24 L. ed. 48; Herrlich v. Kaufmann, 99 Cal. 271, 33 P. 857, 37 Am. St. Rep. 50.

§ 796. Judgment on Default of Garnishee—With Respect to Specific Property Garnished.—Judgment, conditional or absolute, may be entered by default against the garnishee, where he fails to appear at the time and place mentioned in the summons served upon him.[8] The general rule is that a conclusive judgment may be entered against a garnishee with respect to specific property of the defendant attached or garnished in his possession where the garnishee fails to enter an appearance at the time and place named in his summons, for example, where he is summoned and fails to appear in the main action. Local practice, however, may require that such a judgment be conditional only, or at least not subject to final execution until the expiration of a certain period of time.[9] Such a practice will be followed usually where the judgment against the defendant was by default and therefore, under the local practice, conditional only, the defendant having the right, for a certain period after the entry of such judgment, to come into court and disprove the plaintiff's claim.[10] Of course, if judgment against the defendant is conditional only, any judgment against the garnishee must be likewise, for, as has been frequently observed in this article, it is a general rule that final judgment cannot be entered against the garnishee until after the entry of a final judgment against the defendant.[11]

§ 797. —With Respect to Property Not Specifically Attached.—Although a conclusive default judgment is entered against a garnishee, nevertheless, if the attachment or garnishment of the property of, or debts owing to, the defendant has been general, as, for example, where the garnishee has been summoned to answer the process as to all the goods and effects of the defendant in his possession, it is clear that the law must either regard the default as determining conclusively that he is in possession of property of the defendant to the extent of the plaintiff's claim against the defendant, and permit the issuance of an execution against him generally to recover that amount, in which event it can reasonably be said that the judgment is binding upon him personally, or the law must regard the judgment as conclusive only upon the goods and effects of the defendant in his possession and provide a mode of discovery and identification of the same in order that execution may be had thereon. However, the law may regard the default judgment as conditional merely, allowing the garnishee further time in which to make disclosure.[12] Nevertheless, it may be said that although the law contemplates a first default of the garnishee as a basis for a conditional judgment merely, or as a basis for a conclusive judgment upon the goods and effects of the defendant which must, nevertheless, still be discovered and identified in order that they may be subjected to execution, the law is fatally defective if it does not provide in the end some form of final execution against the property of the garnishee to the extent of the plaintiff's claim against the defendant, where the garnishee continually defaults and defeats all endeavor of the law to discover and identify the property of the defendant in his possession.[13]

An order in a proceeding in aid of execution, under the Civil Code of Kansas, § 490, directing a garnishee to pay to the judgment creditor money which he owed to the judgment debtor, is not an adjudication between the parties. Atlantic & P. R. Co. v. Hopkins, 94 U. S. 11, 24 L. ed. 48.

[8] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673 (where judgment, however, was void for want of notice to defendant); Sherman v. Shobe, 94 Tex. 126, 58 S. W. 949, 86 Am. St. Rep. 825.

Annotation: 46 Am. Dec. 341.

[9] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673.

[10] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[11] See supra, § 711.

[12] Illinois C. R. Co. v. Brooks, 90 Tenn. 161, 16 S. W. 77, 25 Am. St. Rep. 673.

[13] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

§ 798. Judgment on Disclosure.—The general rule is that judgment against the garnishee can be entered upon his disclosure of his indebtedness to, or possession of property of, the defendant.[14] However, a judgment against a garnishee cannot be supported by answers to the effect that the principal debtor has placed in the hands of the garnishee certain accounts for collection and has agreed to place certain personal property under his control, followed by a supplemental answer showing that after the date of the garnishment, certain of the accounts had been collected.[15] An answer of a garnishee acknowledging an indebtedness to the defendant at the time of the service of the garnishment upon an unpaid, overdue, negotiable security which had not been transferred makes him liable to the attaching creditor. On the other hand, it has been held that although a garnishee indebted upon a negotiable promissory note may have answered the garnishment and admitted an indebtedness to the defendant, nevertheless, if, in fact, such note had been previously negotiated to a bona fide holder, a payment to him will protect the garnishee against the garnishment plaintiff. But such a garnishee is held bound to diligence in applying for relief. If he delays his application until after the term has expired at which the judgment was taken against him on his admission of indebtedness in his answer, he is considered to be too late; he is held then not to be entitled to have the judgment vacated upon proof that when he answered he was ignorant of the fact that his note had been negotiated and no longer belonged to the defendant.[16]

§ 799. Judgment on Trial.—When judgment for the plaintiff has been obtained in the main action, judgment in a garnishment proceeding will be entered upon the outcome of the trial of the garnishment issue,[17] at least the garnishee will be ordered to pay the garnished debt or surrender the garnished property into court.[18]

c. Operation and Effect

(1) In General

§ 800. Generally.—In jurisdictions where the garnishment constitutes a lien on the garnished property even before judgment, the general rule is that judgment against the garnishee does not dissolve or vacate the garnishment lien, but that the lien continues to exist as security for the plaintiff's claim against the defendant.[19] In some jurisdictions a garnishment constitutes no lien on property or funds of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee until judgment, but in these jurisdictions the legal effect of the judgment is to sequester or set aside the property or money of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee to the payment of the plaintiff's judgment.[1] The effect of a judgment in garnishment does not make the plaintiff, any more than he was previously, a bona fide purchaser; he may become a bona fide purchaser only by virtue of a sale in pursuance of law.[2] Undoubtedly, however, regardless of the original effect of the garnishment as an assignment, such a judgment does work an assignment so far as the relations of the plaintiff and defendant are concerned, of the debt of the garnishee to the defendant or of specific property of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee.[3]

---

[14] Wildner v. Ferguson, 42 Minn. 112, 43 N. W. 794, 6 L.R.A. 338, 18 Am. St. Rep. 495; Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257; Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410; Davis v. Pawlette, 3 Wis. 300, 62 Am. Dec. 690.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 731.

See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

A failure, without good excuse timely interposed, to answer each of the statutory inquiries contained in the writ or the filing of an answer which is so evasive that it is no answer at all, may be disregarded and default judgment rendered. Sherman v. Shobe, 94 Tex. 126, 58 S. W. 949, 86 Am. St. Rep. 825.

Where a garnishee proceeding is to be determined on the disclosure alone, no supplemental complaint being filed and no claim made by a third person, no findings of fact are necessary. Wildner v. Ferguson, 42 Minn. 112, 43 N. W. 794, 6 L.R.A. 338, 18 Am. St. Rep. 495.

[15] Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881.

[16] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 761.

An attaching creditor has been held entitled to a judgment against a garnishee upon his answer which averred that he had made and delivered to the defendant his bill single, and did not allege that it had been negotiated to another, but merely alleged that the defendant had sued him upon it, and that the action was pending. Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 761.

[17] Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A. (N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488.

See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

Under the Arkansas statute it is unnecessary to commence a separate action against the garnishee in order to authorize the court to render a final judgment against him on rendering judgment against the principal debtor, and hence, where in a principal action a writ of garnishment is issued and the garnishee answers and denies liability on the allegations contained in the writ, final judgment may be entered against him though he is not a party to the principal action, and no relief is asked against him and no judgment is prayed. Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488.

[18] See supra, § 795.

It has been held that the judgment against the garnishee gives to the plaintiff a lien upon the lands of the garnishee within the jurisdiction of the court.[4]

A garnishee who has satisfied a judgment against him cannot recover the satisfaction where the main judgment is subsequently reversed because of mere irregularity, at least under the rule that if an irregular judgment has been obtained, and the money recovered, for a debt justly due, proof that the debt was due affords a good defense in an action of assumpsit brought to recover back the money.[5]

If the garnishee answers denying his indebtedness to the defendant, and the plaintiff, failing to file a contest to the answer, permits a judgment of discharge of the garnishee to be entered, this is a judgment on the merits and conclusive between the plaintiff and the garnishee that the latter was not indebted to the defendant.[6]

§ 801. Judgment and Satisfaction in Garnishment as Satisfaction of Plaintiff's Claim.—The obvious rule is that judgment and satisfaction in garnishment constitute satisfaction pro tanto of the plaintiff's claim against the defendant.[7] However, the weight of authority is to the effect that a judgment

---

[19] See infra, §§ 817, 825.

[1] Montgomery v. Whitehead, 40 Colo. 320, 90 P. 509, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 230; Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539; Hartzell v. Vigen, 6 N. D. 117, 69 N. W. 203, 35 L.R.A. 451, 66 Am. St. Rep. 589.

See also supra, §§ 817, 825.

[2] Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792.

See JUDICIAL SALES [Also 16 R. C. L. p. 1].

[3] Liddell v. Jones, 76 Ark. 344, 88 S. W. 961, 113 Am. St. Rep. 99; Montgomery v. Whitehead, 40 Colo. 320, 90 P. 509, 11 L.R.A. (N.S.) 230; Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539.

Generally, as to effect of garnishment as subrogation of plaintiff to rights of defendant, see infra, § 821.

[4] Johnson v. Samuelson, 82 Neb. 201, 117 N. W. 470, 130 Am. St. Rep. 666.

[5] Duncan v. Ware, 5 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 119, 24 Am. Dec. 772.

[6] Roman v. Montgomery Iron Works, 156 Ala. 604, 47 So. 136, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604, 130 Am. St. Rep. 106.

A judgment discharging a subscriber to the stock of a corporation as garnishee for its debt upon failure of the plaintiff to contest his answer denying indebtedness is res judicata of the question of indebtedness in a subsequent direct proceeding by the creditor against him to apply his individual stock subscription to the payment of the corporate indebtedness. Roman v. Montgomery Iron Works, 156 Ala. 604, 47 So. 136, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604, 130 Am. St. Rep. 106.

[7] Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539; Doughty v. Meek, 105 Iowa, 16, 74 N. W. 744, 67 Am. St. Rep. 282.

Annotation: 103 A.L.R. 840; 47 L.R.A. 131; 77 Am. St. Rep. 542.

In no event will a judgment in rem, binding as it does only the property or the fund in the hands of the garnishee, conclude the right of the garnishor to proceed against a principal defendant, not served personally in the garnishment action, for the balance remaining due after the against the garnishee will not, before its payment by the garnishee, operate as a bar pro tanto to the right of the garnishor against the principal defendant in the garnishment. Of course, the plaintiff may show, if he can, that the garnishee is not responsible, or that he obtained no valuable right by the garnishment, or that he released the judgment against the garnishee with the defendant's consent. But this rule as to release does not apply if the attempted abandonment of the proceedings was without the defendant's consent or if there was no necessity for the abandonment.[8] Furthermore, judgment against the garnishee without satisfaction constitutes satisfaction of the principal debt where the plaintiff is at fault for failure of satisfaction from the garnishee.[9] Indeed, the admission of indebtedness to the defendant by the garnishee has been held to constitute such satisfaction where it appeared that after such admission no case was ever docketed or judgment rendered against the garnishee, and that he never paid such indebtedness to the plaintiff.[10]

The loss of money paid to a sheriff under garnishment proceedings resulting from the subsequent absconding of that officer must be borne by the plaintiff.[11]

§ 802. Conclusiveness Generally.—The general rule is that a judgment in garnishment is conclusive upon the plaintiff, the defendant, and the garnishee, so far as the garnishment issue is concerned, that is, that the garnishee has in his possession property of, or debts owing to, the defendant.[12] However, such a judgment is open to collateral attack for lack of jurisdiction or for fraud in securing it.[13] Such a judgment is effective against the rights of third persons, not parties to the proceedings, only in so far as judgments in other cases are effective against third persons.[14] For example, judgment against the garnishee, adjudging property in his hands to belong to the defendant in the proceedings, does not conclude a third person, not a party to the proceedings, who claims title to the same property.[15] However, it may be said generally that judgment against the garnishee, and satisfaction thereof, constitute a prima facie bar to an action either by the principal defendant or by any third person claiming a recovery upon the debt or property thus amount of the judgment in garnishment has been deducted from the entire amount of the garnishor's claim. Strand v. Halverson, — Iowa, —, 264 N. W. 266, 103 A.L.R. 835. Annotation: 103 A.L.R. 842.

---

[8] Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539.

Annotation: 103 A.L.R. 839.

As to effect of abandonment by plaintiff on right of garnishee to plead garnishment in defense to action by defendant on garnished claim, see infra, § 808.

[9] Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539.

Annotation: 103 A.L.R. 841.

A judgment debtor, for a part of whose debt judgment has also been taken against a solvent garnishee, cannot be required to accept a tender of the latter judgment which the plaintiff has failed, without excuse, to collect, in lieu of having the amount thereof credited on his own judgment. Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539.

[10] Doughty v. Meek, 105 Iowa, 16, 74 N. W. 744, 67 Am. St. Rep. 282.

[11] Re Dawson, 110 N. Y. 114, 17 N. E. 668, 6 Am. St. Rep. 346.

Annotation: 6 Am. St. Rep. 348.

See also Vol. 4, p. 888, § 548.

[12] Hall v. Henderson, 134 Ala. 455, 32 So. 840, 63 L.R.A. 673.

A judgment in favor of subscribers to the stock of a corporation in garnishment proceedings on behalf of corporate creditors to compel payment of the subscriptions is a bar to a suit in equity for the same purpose, notwithstanding infirmities in it, if they are not such as will avail on collateral attack. Hall v. Henderson, 134 Ala. 455, 32 So. 840, 63 L.R.A. 673.

[13] See infra, § 957.

[14] Groveland Bkg. Co. v. City Nat. Bank, 144 Tenn. 520, 234 S. W. 643, citing R. C. L.; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

[15] Groveland Bkg. Co. v. City Nat. Bank, 144 Tenn. 520, 234 S. W. 643, citing R. C. L.; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

As to conclusiveness of judgment in main action as against third parties, see infra, § 958.

paid or surrendered to the garnishing creditor.[16] Nevertheless, the judgment is not binding on the garnishee where the judgment in the main action against the defendant is void for want of jurisdiction,[17] for the validity of the garnishment depends upon the validity of the judgment against the defendant.[18] Thus, the garnishee, by defaulting in his answer, is not concluded from raising the question of jurisdiction over the principal defendant by motion to vacate the judgment against such defendant and himself for want of jurisdiction. In some jurisdictions it has been held proper for the garnishee to attack the proceedings on the ground of lack of jurisdiction in rendering the judgment against the defendant, after the garnishee has pleaded non assumpsit and nulla bona, by a motion in arrest of judgment, upon a trial de novo on appeal, on a scire facias upon a judgment against the garnishee, or for the first time on appeal, or by an independent suit.[19]

§ 803. Full Faith and Credit.—Attachment and garnishment proceedings are entitled to the protection of the full faith and credit provision of the United States Constitution. Thus, a valid judgment in a garnishment suit, like any other judgment, is entitled to full faith and credit in any other state.[20]

(2) Judgment and Satisfaction and Voluntary Payment in Garnishment as Defense to Action by Defendant against Garnishee

§ 804. Generally.[1]—The general rule is that a garnishee can plead judgment and satisfaction in the garnishment proceedings as a bar pro tanto to any subsequent recovery by the defendant or his assignee on the garnished debt, at least where he has fully performed his duty in the garnishment proceedings as to disclosure and protection of the rights of the defendant. However, where he has failed to protect by legal and appropriate steps the rights of the defendant, such judgment and satisfaction constitute no defense, even though such satisfaction has been compelled by execution directed against him.[2] A carrier who yields to a valid process of garnishment has a complete defense for failure to deliver the goods to the consignee.[3] However, in entering such a defense, the garnishee should also allege and prove that he discharged his duty to the creditor with respect to giving him notice of the garnishment proceedings and making any defenses thereto in the debtor's behalf of which he is cognizant and which he is able to make.[4] The view has been taken that a judgment against the garnishee in the garnishment proceedings is a defense to an action brought against him by the debtor, without proof of satisfaction,[5] though other courts declare that such a judgment is not a defense unless it has been satisfied.[6]

---

[16] Sessions v. Stevens, 1 Fla. 269, 46 Am. Dec. 339.

[17] Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504; Atwood v. Tucker (Atwood v. Roan) 26 N. D. 622, 145 N. W. 857, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597.

[18] See supra, § 711.

[19] Atwood v. Tucker (Atwood v. Roan) 26 N. D. 622, 145 N. W. 587, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597.

[20] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855; Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084; King v. Cross, 175 U. S. 396, 44 L. ed. 211, 20 S. Ct. 131; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Citizens' Bank, 166 Ark. 551, 266 S. W. 675, 39 A.L.R. 1458; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Moore, 31 Neb. 629, 48 N. W. 475, 28 Am. St. Rep. 534.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 959; 28 Am. St. Rep. 538.

A judgment rendered in one state in favor of the plaintiff in a garnishment proceeding against an insurance company doing business there, to reach the proceeds of a policy issued to a resident of another state upon property located at his residence, which, with the assent of the insurer, had been assigned, after loss, to another resident of the state where the property is located, is entitled to full faith and credit in the courts of the latter state where the assignee was interpleaded and duly notified of the proceeding and his rights were fully disclosed by the garnishee. Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Citizens' Bank, 166 Ark. 551, 266 S. W. 675, 39 A.L.R. 1458.

[1] As to pending proceedings as a defense, see supra, §§ 696 et seq.

[2] Wallace v. M'Connell, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 136, 10 L. ed. 95; Kennedy v. Brent, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 187, 3 L. ed. 194; Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman & McNeill, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Cottingham v. Greely Barnham Grocery Co. 129 Ala. 200, 30 So. 560, 87 Am. St. Rep. 58; Gunn v. Howell, 27 Ala. 663, 62 Am. Dec. 785; Smoot v. Eslava, 23 Ala. 659, 58 Am. Dec. 310; Cook v. Field, 3 Ala. 53, 36 Am. Dec. 436; Duncan v. Ware, 5 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 119, 24 Am. Dec. 772; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396; Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L.

§ 805. Where Judgment or Garnishment Void.—The courts are agreed that if the judgment in a garnishment proceeding is void, as, for example, where there is no jurisdiction acquired by the court, payment by the garnishee is no protection to him against a subsequent action by his creditor, or the creditor's assignee, to recover the debt.[7] Nor is it a defense to a valid garnishment pro-

---

R. Co. v. Cox, 36 Ind. App. 291, 73 N. E. 120, 114 Am. St. Rep. 377; Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539; McAllister v. Brooks, 22 Md. 80, 38 Am. Dec. 282; Perkins v. Grobben, 116 Mich. 172, 74 N. W. 469, 39 L.R.A. 815, 72 Am. St. Rep. 512; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Moore, 31 Neb. 629, 48 N. W. 475, 28 Am. St. Rep. 534; Holmes v. Remsen, 20 Johns. (N. Y.) 229, 11 Am. Dec. 269; Peterson v. Johnson, 22 Wis. 21, 94 Am. Dec. 581.

Annotation: 46 A.L.R. 449; 91 A.L.R. 959; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 829.

[3] Stiles v. Davis, 1 Black (U. S.) 101, 17 L. ed. 33; Missouri P. R. Co. v. Whipsker, 77 Tex. 14, 13 S. W. 639, 8 L.R.A. 321, 19 Am. St. Rep. 734; Wells v. American Exp. Co. 55 Wis. 23, 11 N. W. 537, 12 N. W. 441, 42 Am. Rep. 695.

Generally, as to duties of garnishee as to protection of defendant, see supra, §§ 680 et seq.

[4] St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 823.

[5] McAllister v. Brooks, 22 Me. 80, 38 Am. Dec. 282.

[6] Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216; Cook v. Field, 3 Ala. 53, 36 Am. Dec. 436.

Annotation: 46 Am. Dec. 345.

The claim of an attaching creditor against his debtor is extinguished only by a satisfaction of his demand by the garnishee. Wanzer v. Truly, 17 How. (U. S.) 584, 15 L. ed. 216.

[7] Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Nash, 118 Ala. 477, 23 So. 825, 41 L.R.A. 331, 72 Am. St. Rep. 181; Southern R. Co. v. Newton, 106 Ga. 566, 32 S. E. 658, 71 Am. St. Rep. 279; Pierce v. Carleton, 12 Ill. 358, 54 Am. Dec. 405; Egnatik v. Riverview State Bank, 114 Kan. 105, 216 P. 1100, 49 A.L.R. 1409; Ludvickson v. Severy State Bank, 105 Kan. 225, 182 P. 396, citing R. C. L.; United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971; Tourville v. Wabash R. Co. 148 Mo. 614, 50 S. W. 300, 71 Am. St. Rep. 650, affirmed in 179 U. S. 322, 45 L. ed. 210, 21 S. Ct. 113; Balk v. Harris, 122 N. C. 64, 30 S. E. 318, 45 L.R.A. 257, on rehearing in 124 N. C. 467, 32 S. E. 799, 45 L.R.A. 260, 70 Am. St. Rep. 606; Pennhoma Oil Co. v. Jens Marie Oil Co. 98 Okla. 211, 224 P. 720, citing R. C. L.; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 823; Stewart v. Northern Assur. Co. 45 W. Va. 734, 32 S. E. 218, 44 L.R.A. 101; Wells v. American Exp. Co. 55 Wis. 23, 11 N. W. 537, 12 N. W. 441, 42 Am. Rep. 695.

Annotation: 49 A.L.R. 1411; 71 Am. St. Rep. 281, 655.

A void judgment in garnishment proceedings is no protection to the garnishee in a subsequent action by his creditor or the creditor's assignee to recover the debt. United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

A judgment against a garnishee in a court that did not acquire jurisdiction of the person of the principal defendant, which does not recite that such garnishee disclosed any defensive matter or any fact other than an admission of his indebtedness to the principal defendant, is not, as against such principal defendant and in favor of such garnishee, an adjudication of any issue as to whether such garnishee discharged his duty to such principal defendant in such garnishment proceedings with respect to notice and defenses. Such judgment would not be accorded faith or credit as such adjudication in the state in which it is rendered, or in any other state. A refusal of a court of a state other than the one in which it was rendered to give such judgment effect as an adjudication of such issue between the garnishee and the principal defendant is not a denial to the same of the full faith and credit to which it is entitled. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Crews, 51 Okla. 144, 151 P. 879, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 823.

A judgment against a garnishee of a nonresident debtor, who does not appear and is served by constructive service only, when the action is based on a contract which is utterly void in the state where the principal debtor resides, will not protect the garnishee when he is sued by the latter. Stewart v. Northern Assur. Co. 45 W. Va. 734, 32 S. E. 218, 44 L.R.A. 101.

A bank which received checks upon itself in payment of a draft with bill of lading attached sent it for collection cannot avoid liability to the owner of the draft on the ground that the checks were attached as the property of the consignor in the bill of lading, for the checks themselves, as soon as they were accepted by the collecting bank, were paid and canceled, and ceased to exist as commercial ceeding by another creditor of the garnishee's creditor to reach the debt.[8]

§ 806. Where Judgment or Garnishment Erroneous and Irregular Merely.—Where the judgment against the garnishee in the garnishment proceeding is erroneous or irregular, but not void, payment by the garnishee in pursuance of the judgment protects him against the subsequent claim of the principal defendant provided he has acted in good faith and has fully discharged his legal duties in protecting the interest of the defendant.[9]

§ 807. Where Judgment Reversed.—Even though the judgment against the debtor is afterwards reversed, payment of the judgment against the garnishee protects the latter, if the money paid was actually due from the debtor.[10]

§ 808. Where Garnishment Abandoned.—A garnishment proceeding cannot be set up as a defense in an action on a claim, where such proceeding was abandoned before any answer or plea by the garnishee, and where there has been no judgment or satisfaction therein.[11]

§ 809. Where Garnishee Makes Payment before Judgment or Defaults.—The general rule is that a voluntary payment by a garnishee cannot protect him against the claim of his creditor.[12] Thus, generally the garnishee should wait until after judgment before making payment,[13] and if the judgment was obtained through his wilful default, its payment will not protect him,[14] although it has been said that the consent of a garnishee to a judgment impounding his debt to the principal debtor does not make the payment under the judgment voluntary, where he was absolutely without defense, so as to prevent him from pleading such payment in bar to an action on the debt.[15]

§ 810. Where Garnishment Was in Foreign Court.—A judgment in a garnishment proceeding, rendered, without fraud or collusion, by a court in another state of the Union having jurisdiction to render it, is entitled to the protection of the full faith and credit clause of the United States Constitution. Consequently, such a judgment, at least after satisfaction of the same, can be

---

paper. Jersey Shore Trust Co. v. Owosso Sav. Bank, 223 Mich. 513, 194 N. W. 588, 32 A.L.R. 714. Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 721.

[8] Southern R. Co. v. Ward, 123 Ala. 400, 26 So. 234, 82 Am. St. Rep. 129.

[9] Annotation: 49 A.L.R. 1411.

[10] Duncan v. Ware, 5 Stew. & P. (Ala.) 119, 24 Am. Dec. 772.

[11] Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Housely, 43 Okla. 794, 144 P. 610, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 363.

In Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 104 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006, it was held that where a garnishment proceeding has been commenced by filing a petition, giving bond, and service of summons, but the garnishee makes no answer and issues are not joined, no judgment is entered, and no execution is issued, the garnishee acquires no claim against the debtor in such abortive garnishment proceeding by acquiring an assignment of a judgment against the debtor rendered in another action.

Where garnishment proceedings in a foreign state are held, in another state, to have been abandoned because of failure to obtain service on the nonresident debtor in accordance with the laws of such foreign state, they neither bar nor abate a cause of action in the latter state by the principal debtor against the garnishee. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Housley, 43 Okla. 794, 144 P. 610, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 363.

[12] Balk v. Harris, 122 N. C. 64, 30 S. E. 318, 45 L.R.A. 257, rehearings in 124 N. C. 467, 32 S. E. 799, 45 L.R.A. 260, 70 Am. St. Rep. 606, 130 N. C. 381, 41 S. E. 940, 132 N. C. 10, 43 S. E. 477, reversed on other grounds in 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084.

A debtor garnished in a suit against his creditor when out of the state of his residence is not protected from a suit in favor of such creditor by paying the debt to a representative of the foreign plaintiff after returning to his domicil and after the entry of a judgment against him, where he had given no obligation to secure the payment, and he shows nothing which would have made the payment compulsory. Ibid.

[13] Bessemer Sav. Bank v. Anderson, 134 Ala. 343, 32 So. 716, 92 Am. St. Rep. 38.

[14] Whipple v. Robbins, 97 Mass. 107, 93 Am. Dec. 64.

[15] Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084.

pleaded pro tanto in bar of any subsequent recovery on the garnished debt by the defendant or his assignees.[16]

§ 811. —In Wage or Insurance Cases.—An employer may plead, in bar of an action for wages, that they were garnished by a creditor of the employee in another state and that he performed his duty in disclosing and protecting the interest of the employee in such garnishment, but that a judgment was entered against him in such proceedings, and all the wages owing to the employee were taken in satisfaction of such judgment. The judgment in such a proceeding is entitled to the protection of the full faith and credit clause of the United States Constitution.[17] Violation of a state statute in sending a claim out of the state for the purpose of garnishment of wages will not deprive the garnishee of the protection of the foreign judgment, under which he pays the claim, from liability to pay the debt a second time to his creditor within the state, if he has disclosed all defenses within his knowledge to the foreign court, and has notified the debtor of the proceedings, and, in spite of this, the foreign court, which has jurisdiction over the parties and the res, compelled him to pay the claim.[18] The above rules and principles apply fully to the garnishment in another state of money due on an insurance policy, and entitle such garnishment proceedings to full faith and credit in the forum.[19]

(3) Judgment and Satisfaction in Garnishment as Defense to Claim by Third Persons

§ 812. Generally.—The general rule is that judgment and satisfaction in garnishment proceedings protect the garnishee from the demands of adverse claimants to the property or debts garnished in his possession, at least where the garnishee has fully discharged his legal obligations with respect to the protection of such claimants' interests,[20] and where the claimant has had notice of the garnishment proceedings and has failed to intervene.[1]

---

[16] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman & McNeill, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Corbetts, 165 Ill. 592, 46 N. E. 631, 36 L.R.A. 640, 56 Am. St. Rep. 275; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396; Holmes v. Remsen, 20 Johns. (N. Y.) 229, 11 Am. Dec. 269.

Annotation: 46 A.L.R. 449; 91 A.L.R. 959.

Where payment has been made by a garnishee under regular legal process of a foreign court at the instance of the assignees of the bankrupt there, it is a bar to an action here for the debt by trustees of the creditors of the bankrupt under an attachment. Holmes v. Remsen, 20 Johns. (N. Y.) 229, 11 Am. Dec. 269.

[17] Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396; Steltzer v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 156 Iowa, 1, 134 N. W. 573, L.R.A.1915E, 1017; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Moore, 31 Neb. 629, 48 N. W. 475, 28 Am. St. Rep. 534. See also Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855; Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084, and King v. Cross, 175 U. S. 396, 44 L. ed. 211, 20 S. Ct. 131.

A railroad company which is garnished in one state for wages due an employee will be protected by the courts of another state against a second payment to an assignee of the wages, residing there, if, upon receiving due notice of the garnishment, he neglects to appear and protect his claim, so that judgment was rendered in favor of the original creditor and paid. Steltzer v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 156 Iowa, 1, 134 N. W. 573, L.R.A.1915E, 1017.

As to pendency of garnishment of wages in a foreign jurisdiction as defense to action for their recovery, see supra, § 700.

[18] Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Adams, 159 Ind. 688, 66 N. E. 43, 60 L.R.A. 396.

[19] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855.

See also Vol. 4, p. 603, § 79.

[20] As to duty of garnishee to protect interests of third persons, see supra, §§ 687 et seq.

[1] Molyneux v. Seymour, 30 Ga. 440, 76 Am. Dec. 662; Steltzer v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 156 Iowa, 1, 134 N. W. 573,

d. Enforcement

§ 813. Generally.—The general practice is to enforce a judgment in garnishment against the garnishee by an execution as in other cases.[2] If specific property has been attached and is held by the garnishee as a bailee of the attaching officer, the property may be sold in course of law, as in other cases, to satisfy the judgment.[3] If no specific property has been attached in the hands of the garnishee, and the judgment is binding, nevertheless, only on property of the defendant in the possession of the garnishee, and not against the garnishee generally,[4] the execution must involve some mode of discovery of, identification of, levy on, and seizure of, the defendant's property in the possession of the garnishee. This is accomplished in some jurisdictions by scire facias proceedings.[5] The practice in some jurisdictions is to proceed by scire facias proceedings in all cases of execution against garnishees, though generally the necessity of scire facias proceedings is limited to cases where the garnishee defaults, and where there has been no specific property garnished, so that it is necessary to discover and identify the property of the defendant in the possession of the garnishee.[6] Since the effect of a garnishment judgment is to sequester or set aside, to the payment of the plaintiff's judgment, property of, or debts owing to, the defendant in the hands of the garnishee,[7] the view has been taken that the court is authorized to make the customary orders to enable the creditor to realize from the interest of the debtor in the property.[8] In some states, where the rule is established that judgment may be rendered against a garnishee for an indebtedness admitted to be due at a future day,[9] execution will be stayed until the maturity of the debt,[10] though an order staying execution is not always required.[11]

L.R.A.1915E, 1017; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

As to judgment and satisfaction in garnishment as a defense to an action by the defendant against the garnishee, see supra, §§ 804 et seq.

Despite the general rule stated above, the view has been taken that where a judgment creditor assigns his judgment, and the judgment debtor, without notice of the assignment, afterwards pays the amount thereof voluntarily to the sheriff upon being served with garnishment process, the rights of the assignee are not affected, and he may still enforce the judgment, though the garnishee paid in ignorance of the assignment (Brown v. Ayres, 33 Cal. 525, 91 Am. Dec. 655).

A mere bailee for hire who becomes garnishee in a proceeding to reach the property bailed is protected from claims of a subsequent assignee of the property who has knowledge from any reliable source that the proceedings are pending, and fails to assert his claim, even though he is not made a party to the proceeding. Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

A judgment against a garnishee in one state is a protection against an action against him in another state by an assignee of the debt who, although he received due notice of the garnishment, failed to appear and protect his interest. Steltzer v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 156 Iowa, 1, 134 N. W. 573, L.R.A.1915E, 1017.

[2] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424; Adams v. Rowe, 11 Me. 89, 25 Am. Dec. 266.

[3] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[4] See supra, §§ 789, 793.

[5] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424; Adams v. Rowe, 11 Me. 89, 25 Am. Dec. 266.

See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[6] Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424; Adams v. Rowe, 11 Me. 89, 25 Am. Dec. 266.

See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

On scire facias to enforce a judgment in a garnishment proceeding, the question is open as to the existence of a debt subject to execution, and also the rights of other claimants to the fund, including those of an assignee in bankruptcy. Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424.

[7] See supra, § 658.

[8] Hartzell v. Vigen, 6 N. D. 117, 69 N. W. 203, 35 L.R.A. 451, 66 Am. St. Rep. 589.

Annotation: 66 Am. St. Rep. 601.

[9] See Vol. 4, p. 675, § 192.

[10] Cottrell v. Varnum, 5 Ala. 229, 39 Am. Dec. 323; Malone v. Moore, 204 Iowa, 625, 215 N. W. 625, 55 A.L.R. 356.

[11] Anderson v. Wanzer, 5 How. (Miss.) 587, 37 Am. Dec. 170.

11. Costs

§ 814. Generally.—The garnishee's liability is limited to the payment of his debt; he is not liable for the costs of the garnishment proceeding.[12] On the contrary, as a rule, the court may, in its discretion, allow to the garnishee his costs in the garnishment proceedings,[13] and in some jurisdictions the court may allow him compensation to meet his expenses,[14] including a reasonable attorney's fee.[15] But if the garnishee denies all liability, and judgment is subsequently entered against him, he may be held liable for the costs.[16] So also, if the garnishee permits costs to accumulate upon the judgment against him, he cannot charge the principal debtor with such costs.[17] The execution creditor is liable for the costs of a garnishment successfully prosecuted against the person summoned, if the funds in the latter's hands are not sufficient to pay the debt and costs and he has not resisted the proceeding or appealed from the judgment against him.[18]

It has been held that under a statute providing that the court shall make the garnishee a reasonable allowance for his trouble and expense in answering the plaintiff in the principal action, the garnishee is not entitled to a jury trial to assess an allowance.[19]

XI. EFFECT, LIEN, AND PRIORITY

A. Effect and Lien

1. In General

§ 815. Attachment Lien.—The usual and practical theory is that an attachment creates a lien on the property attached.[20] At least it is unquestionably a security for the debt, places the attached property in custodia legis,[1] and gives the attaching officer a special property interest in the same.[2] It is a direct appropriation by authority of law of specific property of the debtor, for the purpose of satisfying the demand, and the lien thereby created is substantial and enduring, as much so as a mortgage or a pledge.[3]

---

[12] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 756.

[13] Lewis v. Ross, 37 Me. 230, 59 Am. Dec. 49; Drew v. Towle, 27 N. H. 412, 59 Am. Dec. 380; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[14] Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845; Moody v. Carroll, 71 Tex. 143, 8 S. W. 510, 10 Am. St. Rep. 734.

A garnishee in accounting is entitled to a credit for his own expenses and services. Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845.

A statute is noted in 20 Texas Jur. p. 874, providing: "Where the garnishee is discharged upon his answer, the costs of the proceeding, including a reasonable compensation to the garnishee, shall be taxed against the plaintiff; where the answer of the garnishee has not been controverted and the garnishee is held thereon, such costs shall be taxed against the defendant and included in the execution provided for in this chapter; where the answer is contested, the costs shall abide the issue of such contest."

A garnishee, required by the court to open a sealed parcel or locked safe-deposit box, would be entitled to reimbursement for expenses incurred in complying with the court's order. Tillinghast v. Johnson, 34 R. I. 136, 82 A. 788, 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 764, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 960.

[15] Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635; Willis v. Heath, 75 Tex. 124, 12 S. W. 971, 16 Am. St. Rep. 876; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

It is within the power and discretion of the trial court to determine in the first instance what the allowance shall be to a garnishee for expenses and attorneys' fees. Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[16] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637; Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966.

[17] Berry v. Davis, 77 Tex. 191, 13 S. W. 978, 19 Am. St. Rep. 748.

[18] State v. Linaweaver, 3 Head (Tenn.) 51, 75 Am. Dec. 757.

[19] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 1151.

[20] In American law there are several kinds of liens: viz., the common-law lien, which is merely the right to retain the possession of the property of another until some claim or charge on it is satisfied; the equitable lien, which may exist apart from the actual possession of the property, such as a vendor's lien; and certain statutory liens, such as those given by express legislative enactment to mechanics, materialmen, etc. (Ward v. McKenzie, 33 Tex. 297, 7 Am. Rep. 261. See Liens [Also 17 R. C. L. p. 594]; Mechanics' Liens [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 868]; Vendor and Purchaser [Also 27 R. C. L. p. 297]). Applying this test, it may be observed that while the remedial operation of the process of attachment or garnishment is usually designated and treated as a lien by courts and text-writers alike, yet in a proper sense of the word an attachment or garnishment does not create a lien, but merely places in the custody of the law property which has been seized under it (Peck v. Jenness, 7 How. (U. S.)

The view has been taken that the levy of an attachment on real estate does not give the court whence the process issued either actual or constructive possession of the property.[4] But there is specific authority that an attachment constitutes a lien on realty.[5] As distinguished from a lien of a judgment on land, an attachment, properly levied, creates a specific, and not a general, lien.[6]

The lien of attachment exists only under the attachment law and process, and is not a contractual lien.[7]

§ 816. Attachment as Satisfaction of Plaintiff's Claim.—The authorities are not in agreement upon the effect of an attachment as a satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim. One view is that a levy of an attachment on sufficient personalty is not necessarily a satisfaction of the judgment when afterwards obtained, but that in order to have this effect it must be shown that the property levied on was actually applied in satisfaction.[8] Another view is that an attachment of sufficient property to satisfy the attachment debt is, like an execution levied, a satisfaction of the debt, and may be so pleaded.[9] It has been held that a levy on personal property can constitute a satisfaction be-612, 12 L. ed. 841; Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381; Rent-A-Car Co. v. Belford, 163 Tenn. 590, 45 S. W. (2d) 49, citing R. C. L.; Keller v. Federal Bob Brannon Truck Co. 151 Tenn. 427, 269 S. W. 914, citing R. C. L.; Ward v. McKenzie, 33 Tex. 297, 7 Am. Rep. 261; Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948).

---

While the statutes in many states never in terms have given the attaching creditor a lien upon the res by virtue of the attachment, yet in substance they have treated the attachment as a lien. Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248. Annotation: 15 Am. Dec. 253.

It has been held that where, at the time for making a conveyance, the land is subject to attachments against the vendor to an amount exceeding its apparent value, the purchaser will not be compelled to accept the conveyance. Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 32.

[1] Mitchell v. St. Maxent, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 237, 18 L. ed. 326; Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248; Owen v. Roberts, 81 Me. 439, 17 A. 403, 4 L.R.A. 229; First Nat. Bank v. Corporation Commission, 161 Md. 508, 157 A. 748, 86 A.L.R. 1407; Roehl Storage Co. v. Wilson, 268 Mich. 691, 256 N. W. 598, 95 A.L.R. 1525; Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Pitkin v. Burnham, 62 Neb. 385, 87 N. W. 160, 55 L.R.A. 280, 89 Am. St. Rep. 763; Rent-A-Car Co. v. Belford, 163 Tenn. 590, 45 S. W. (2d) 49, citing R. C. L.; Keller v. Federal Bob Brannon Truck Co. 151 Tenn. 427, 269 S. W. 914, citing R. C. L.; Herman Bros. L. & Co. v. Katz Bros. 101 Tenn. 118, 47 S. W. 86, 41 L.R.A. 700.

[2] See Vol. 4, p. 886, § 545.

[3] Martinovich v. Marsicano, 150 Cal. 597, 89 P. 333, 119 Am. St. Rep. 254; Thoms v. Southard, 2 Dana (Ky.) 475, 26 Am. Dec. 467; Locke v. Coleman, 2 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 12, 15 Am. Dec. 118; Hinds v. Scott, 11 Pa. 19, 51 Am. Dec. 506; Humphrey v. Hitt, 6 Gratt. (Va.) 509, 52 Am. Dec. 133.

[4] Kilgo v. Castleberry, 38 Ga. 512, 95 Am. Dec. 406; Leigh v. Green, 62 Neb. 344, 86 N. W. 1093, 89 Am. St. Rep. 751.

[5] Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333.

However, no valid lien is acquired by an attachment on real estate by a creditor of a fraudulent grantee to whom the legal title has been conveyed in fraud of the rights of the creditors of the fraudulent grantor, and who has no actual interest therein, and who restores and reconveys the real estate to the fraudulent grantor, who voluntarily encumbers the same for the benefit of his creditors, as against such creditors of the grantor under their liens thus acquired. Ibid.

[6] Carter v. Champion, 8 Conn. 549, 21 Am. Dec. 695; Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Katz v. Obenchain, 48 Or. 352, 85 P. 617, 120 Am. St. Rep. 821.

[7] Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948.

[8] Maxwell v. Stewart, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 77, 22 L. ed. 564.

See 27 Tex. Jur. p. 502.

As to judgment against garnishee and satisfaction of same as satisfaction of plaintiff's claim against defendant, see supra, § 801.

[9] Annotation: 91 Am. Dec. 314.

See EXECUTIONS [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 1369, § 157].

cause the defendant is deprived of the possession of his property, whereas this is not so in the case of a levy on realty, and that therefore a levy on realty is not a satisfaction of the claim.[10] It would seem that since an attachment constitutes a seizure on execution in advance of judgment,[11] and since the plaintiff must bear the loss of the attached property, as to the defendant, while it is in the custody of the law,[12] the attachment should constitute a satisfaction of his claim, to the extent, at least, that he must bear such loss.[13]

§ 817. Garnishment Lien.—With respect to the binding effect of garnishment on the property garnished, the weight of opinion is that such process operates as an attachment and fastens upon the property or debt a lien by which it is brought under the jurisdiction of the court. According to this view, then, a garnishment has the same effect as an attachment in bringing the property or debt garnished into custodia legis, although the garnished property is left in the hands of the garnishee or a receiptor, whose office with respect to the garnished property is said to be that of a bailee of the attaching or garnishing officer which, in many jurisdictions, he is expressly called.[14] The service of process in garnishment proceedings may thus be said to operate as an equitable levy upon property belonging to the principal defendant in the hands of the garnishee, which levy may be enforced against such property in the hands of any other than an innocent purchaser for value, unless such right of enforcement is waived.[15] The lien of garnishment may be regarded as vesting the plaintiff with security, within the meaning of the bankruptcy act.[16]

§ 818. View that Garnishment Constitutes No Lien until Judgment. — According to some authorities, the plaintiff does not acquire a lien upon specific chattels in the hands of the garnishee by service upon him[17] or upon any of the property of the debtor in the garnishee's hands, capable of manual delivery,[18] but merely a subrogation of the plaintiff's right to proceed against the defendant,[19] and it has been held that no lien on a fund represented only by a negotiable instrument is obtained by an attempted garnishment.[20] There is likewise authority to the effect that the service of garnishment on the assignee of a corporation without the levy of an attachment on its property does not transfer such property to the officer or give him any right to control it, and that the creditor acquires no lien.[21] However, a judgment in the garnishment undoubtedly effects an assignment of the defendant's interest to the plaintiff in property and credits in the hands or control of the garnishee,[22] and constitutes a lien upon the same.[23]

---

[10] Trapnall v. Richardson, 13 Ark. 543, 58 Am. Dec. 338; Scott v. Aultman Co. 211 Ill. 612, 71 N. E. 1112, 103 Am. St. Rep 215.
Annotation: 58 Am. Dec. 360 et seq.; 91 Am. Dec. 314.

[11] See Vol. 4, p. 552, § 3.

[12] See Vol. 4, p. 888, § 548.

[13] Annotation: 91 Am. Dec. 314.

A levy under an attachment does not as a general rule discharge the debt, although if a debt levied on by the sheriff is paid to him, and he has misappropriated the money, the plaintiff must bear the loss. 7 Carmody, N. Y. Prac. pp. 541, 542.

[14] Miller v. United States (Page v. United States) 11 Wall. (U. S.) 268, 20 L. ed. 135; Mattingly v. Boyd, 20 How. (U. S.) 128, 15 L. ed. 845; Brashear v. West, 7 Pet. (U. S.) 608, 8 L. ed. 801; Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 52 W. Va. 450, 44 S. E. 300, 62 L.R.A. 178; Bragg v. Gaynor, 85 Wis. 468, 55 N. W. 919, 21 L.R.A. 161.

A writ of garnishment or attachment, or other form of service on a party holding a fund which becomes the subject of litigation, brings that fund under the jurisdiction of the court, even though the money may remain in the actual custody of one not an officer of the court. Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. 308, 19 L. ed. 931.

The service of an attachment binds debt or stock in the hands of the garnishee from the time of service. Miller v. United States (Page v. United States) 11 Wall. (U. S.) 268, 20 L. ed. 135.

Although an attaching creditor cannot, under the Pennsylvania statute, take the property out of the hands of the garnishee, where the latter furnishes the delivery bond provided for by the statute, yet the property is in the custody of the law. Brashear v. West, 7 Pet. (U. S.) 608, 8 L. ed. 801.

In the case of the garnishment of a debt, the lien of garnishment requires the court to preserve, so far as lies in its power, the right of the garnishor against a subsequent creditor who invokes its process in hostility to the right of the garnishee. Montana Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 19 Mont. 586, 49 P. 149, 61 Am. St. Rep. 532.

[15] Griswold v. Szwanek, 82 Neb. 761, 118 N. W. 1073, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 222; Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926; Wyman, P. & Co. v. Tierney, 42 Wyo. 321, 294 P. 781, 75 A.L.R. 667.

Garnishment gives the garnishing creditor a prior right over general creditors to subject the indebtedness garnished to the payment of his claim. Wyman, P. & Co. v. Tierney, 42 Wyo. 321, 294 P. 781, 75 A.L.R. 667.

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 624.
See BANKRUPTCY [Also 3 R. C. L. p. 293].

§ 819. Binding Effect on Garnishee Personally.—The general rule is that the service of a writ of attachment or garnishment on one in possession of property of the defendant, or indebted to him, binds him personally with respect to attachable or garnishable property or credits of the defendant in his possession or control.[24] Consequently, after a levy on real property in the possession of a debtor, he cannot, with a view to defeating the creditor, transfer the possession, even to the real owner, who must pursue his title by intervention in the attachment[25] or by an action in ejectment against the purchaser at the sheriff's sale.[26]

2. Effect as Assignment and Extent of Lien

§ 820. Generally.—The general rule is that an attachment or garnishment is binding upon the attached or garnished property to the extent of the defendant's interest in the same, but not to any greater extent.[1] Consequently, it does not generally have the full effect of a bona fide assignment for value. An attaching or garnishing creditor does not stand in the position of a bona

---

[17] Bowen v. Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. 109 Iowa, 255, 80 N. W. 345, 47 L.R.A. 131, 77 Am. St. Rep. 539; Riddle v. Dow, 98 Iowa, 7, 66 N. W. 1066, 32 L.R.A. 811; Irwin v. McKechnie, 58 Minn. 145, 59 N. W. 987, 26 L.R.A. 218, 49 Am. St. Rep. 495; McGarry v. Lewis Coal Co. 93 Mo. 237, 6 S. W. 81, 3 Am. St. Rep. 522; Hulley v. Chedic, 22 Nev. 127, 36 P. 783, 58 Am. St. Rep. 729; Corning v. Records, 69 N. H. 390, 46 A. 462, 76 Am. St. Rep. 178.

No lien is obtained by the process of garnishment, but only a right to proceed against the garnishee personally. Riddle v. Dow, 98 Iowa, 7, 66 N. W. 1066, 32 L.R.A. 811.

While garnishment of a debt is often called a mode of attachment, it does not effect a specific lien on any property of the garnishee, such as is acquired by the actual seizure of property. Irwin v. McKechnie, 58 Minn. 145, 59 N. W. 987, 26 L.R.A. 218, 49 Am. St. Rep. 495.

[18] Johnson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 195, 65 Am. Dec. 501.

[19] See infra, § 821.

[20] Disconto Gesellschaft v. Umbreit, 127 Wis. 651, 106 N. W. 821, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045, 115 Am. St. Rep. 1063, affirmed in 208 U. S. 570, 52 L. ed. 625, 28 S. Ct. 337.

[21] Calumet Paper Co. v. Haskell Show Printing Co. 144 Mo. 331, 45 S. W. 1115, 66 Am. St. Rep. 425.

[22] See supra, § 800.

[23] See supra, § 800.

[24] Miller v. United States (Page v. United States) 11 Wall. (U. S.) 268, 20 L. ed. 135; Kennedy v. Brent, 6 Cranch (U. S.) 187, 3 L. ed. 194; International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960; Rickman v. Rickman, 180 Mich. 224, 146 N. W. 609, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 1237; Montana Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 19 Mont. 586, 49 P. 149, 61 Am. St. Rep. 532.

[25] Generally, as to claim and intervention, see infra, §§ 964 et seq.

[26] Feigenspan v. Driesigacker, 195 Pa. 17, 45 A. 481, 78 Am. St. Rep. 799.

[1] North Chicago Rolling Mill Co. v. St. Louis Ore & Steel Co. 152 U. S. 596, 38 L. ed. 565, 14 S. Ct. 710; Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109; McLaughlin v. Swann, 18 How. (U. S.) 217, 15 L. ed. 357; United States v. Robertson, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 641, 8 L. ed. 257; Beach v. Viles, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 675, 7 L. ed. 559; Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1081; Walker v. Doak, 210 Cal. 30, 290 P. 290, citing R. C. L.; National Bank v. Western P. R. Co. 157 Cal. 573, 108 P. 676, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 987, 21 Ann. Cas. 1391; Clyne v. Easton, E. & Co. 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253; Parker, Peebles & Knox v. El Saieh, 107 Conn. 545, 141 A. 884, 59 A.L.R. 1424; Hall v. Page, 4 Ga. 428, 48 Am. Dec. 235; Cunningham v. Bank of Nampa, 13 Idaho, 167, 88 P. 975, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 706, 121 Am. St. Rep. 257; Wilson v. Kruse, 270 Ill. 298, 110 N. E. 359, citing R. C. L.; Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381; Malone v. Moore, 204 Iowa, 625, 215 N. W. 625, 55 A.L.R. 356; Hoyt v. Clemans, 167 Iowa, 330, 149 N. W. 442, L.R.A.1915C, 166; J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184; Rogers v. Highland, 69 Iowa, 504, 29 N. W. 429, 58 Am. Rep. 230; H. & M. Tire Serv. Co. v. Combs, 140 Kan. 35, 34 P. (2d) 943, citing R. C. L.; Lewis v. Barnett, 139 Kan. 821, 33 P. (2d) 331, 93 A.L.R. 1082; Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605; Day v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 232 Ky. 662, 24 S. W. (2d) 576, citing R. C. L.; Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huntington Nat. Bank, 229 Ky. 674, 17 S. W. (2d) 726, 71 A.L.R. 70; Grooms v. National Bank, 218 Ky. 846, 292 S. W. 513, citing R. C. L.; Metropolitan L. Ins. Co. v. Hightower, 211 Ky. 36, 276 S. W. 1063, 44 A.L.R. 1158; Kentucky Lumber & Mill Work Co. v. Kentucky Title Sav. Bank & T. Co. 184 Ky. 244, 211 S. W. 765, 5 A.L.R. 391; Hepp v. Glover, 15 La. 461, 35 Am. Dec. 206; Boyle v. Clukey, 126 Me. 443, 139 A. 461, citing R. C. L.; O'Gasapian v. Danielson, 284 Mass. 27, 187 N. E. 107, 89 A.L.R. 1159; Isaac Van Dyke Co. v. Moll, 241 Mich. 255, 217 N. W. 29, 57 A.L.R. 692; Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792; Nall v. Granger, 8 Mich. 450, 77 Am. Dec. 462; Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W.. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212; Lyman v. Gaar, S. & Co. 75 Minn. 207, 77 N. W. 828, 74 Am. St. Rep. 452; Shuler v. Murphy, 91 Miss. 518, 44 So. 810, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 333, 124 Am. St. Rep. 708; Hope v. Blair, 105 Mo. 85, 16 S. W. 595, 24 Am. St. Rep. 366; Friedlander v. Ryder (Friedlander v. Hewitt) 30 Neb. 783, 47 N. W. 83, 9 L.R.A. 700; Goodwin v. Claytor, 137 N. C. 224, 49 S. E. 173, 67 L.R.A. 209, 107 Am. St. Rep. 479; Baird v. Meyer, 55 N. D. 930, 215 N. W. 542, 56 A.L.R. 175; Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A.1916E, 79; Graf v. Wilson, 62 Or. 476, 125 P. 1005, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 462; Speise v. M'Coy, 6 Watts & S. (Pa.) 485, 40 Am. Dec. 579: Johnson v. Union P. R. Co. 29 R. I. 80, 69 A. 298, 132 Am. St. Rep. 799; H. J. Baker & Bro. v. Doe, 88 S. C. 69, 70 S. E. 431, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 510; Bank of Centerville v. Gelhaus, 60 S. D. 31, 242 N. W. 642, 83 A.L.R. 1380; Braddock v. Gambill (Tex. Civ. App.) 291 S. W. 306, citing R. C. L.; Home Nat. Bank v. Barnes-Piazzek Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 278 S. W. 299, citing R. C. L.; Acheson-Harder Co. v. Western Wholesale Notions Co. 72 Utah, 323, 269 P. 1032, 60 A.L.R. 881; Armington v. Houston, 38 Vt. 448, 91 Am. Dec. 366; Sanborn v. Kittredge, 20 Vt. 632, 50 Am. Dec. 58; Beaston v. Portland Trust & Sav. Bank, 89 Wash. 627, 155 P. 162, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 488; McAlmond v. Bevington, 23 Wash. 315, 63 P. 251, 53 L.R.A. 597; Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co. 6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166; Lipscomb v. Condon, 56 W. Va. 416, 49 S. E. 392, 67 L.R.A. 670, 107 Am. St. Rep. 938; Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948; Commercial Invest. Trust v. William Frankfurth Hardware Co. 179 Wis. 21, 190 N. W. 1004, citing R. C. L.; Drake v. Harrison, 69 Wis. 99, 33 N. W. 81, 2 Am. St. Rep 717.

An attaching creditor stands in the light of a purchaser and as such will be protected. Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109.

The Act of 1818, concerning the garnishment of debts due to corporations sued by the United States, operates as a transfer, from the corporations sued to the United States, of those debts which might be due from the persons who should be summoned as garnishees. They become, by the service of the summons, the debtors of the United States, and cease to be the debtors of the corporation. But they owe to the United States precisely what they owed to the corporation, and no more, and any offset against the corporation must be deducted. United States v. Robertson, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 641, 8 L. ed. 257.

An attachment invests the plaintiff with the same right of action with respect to the property attached that belonged to the defendant, and is subject to the same defenses. A legal defense to an action for money had and received, if brought by the defendant, is also a defense to the attachment, but if the property pursued consists in outstanding equities that a court of law cannot notice, the remedy is by bill in equity or interpleader by the trustee. McLaughlin v. Swann, 18 How. (U. S.) 217, 15 L. ed. 357.

A plaintiff in garnishment proceedings can never obtain a garnishment lien upon more in the hands of the garnishee than the defendant owns; and, where the property or fund is exempt from judicial process, he cannot obtain a lien upon even that much. H. & M. Tire Serv. Co. v. Combs, 140 Kan. 35, 34 P. (2d) 943, citing R. C. L.

Garnishment is in effect a formal judicial assignment of property, money, and credits capable of being voluntarily assigned. Lewis v. Barnett, 139 Kan. 821, 33 P. (2d) 331, 93 A.L.R. 1082.

The right of the creditor against the garnishee cannot, by garnishment, rise higher than the right of the debtor against the garnishee. If the right of the debtor is subject to a right of the garnishee, the right of the creditor is subject to the same right. Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948.

Service of a writ of garnishment upon a bank in which the debtor has a deposit has been held to create no such lien or equity having the effect of a lien on the assets of the bank as will entitle the garnishing creditor to a preference upon the bank's becoming insolvent before the rendition of the judgment in the garnishment proceeding. Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1081. Annotation: 83 A.L.R. 1085.

When a garnishee has reserved to himself by contract the right to discharge the obligation in two or more different ways, fide purchaser for value,[2] and the attachment lien does not displace prior equities or rights,[3] but is subject to all equities to which the property was liable in the debtor's hands,[4] and therefore, if a debtor has done any act or entered into any agreement which precludes him from asserting an equity that he once had, his creditor will likewise be precluded.[5] It is the duty of the courts to protect every equity belonging to other persons.[6]

§ 821. Effect as Subrogation.—Garnishment is in effect an action by the defendant in the plaintiff's name against the garnishee, the purpose and the result of which are to subrogate the plaintiff to the right of the defendant against the garnishee.[7]

---

he may elect, at any time before the date of payment has passed, in which way he will discharge it, and when he has a peculiar interest in discharging the obligation in a certain manner, he cannot be deprived of his right to do so, either by the act of his creditor without his consent, or by garnishment in a suit against the creditor. Drake v. Harrison, 69 Wis. 99, 33 N. W. 81, 2 Am. St. Rep. 717. Annotation: 59 L.R.A. 374.

A contract liability is not changed or converted by garnishment into another kind of liability; the sole effect of the garnishment is to work a contingent transfer of the alleged indebtedness from the creditor to the garnishor, without any change in the nature of the liability. Clyne v. Easton, E. & Co. 148 Cal. 287, 83 P. 36, 113 Am. St. Rep. 253.

[2] Jones v. Chenault, 124 Ala. 610, 27 So. 515, 82 Am. St. Rep. 211; Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605; Burke v. Johnson, 37 Kan. 337, 15 P. 204, 1 Am. St. Rep. 252; Dinsmore v. Maag-Wahmann Co. 122 Md. 177, 89 A. 399, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 1270; Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792; Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212; Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333; Cleveland Mach. Works v. Lang, 67 N. H. 348, 31 A. 20, 68 Am. St. Rep. 675; Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A.1916E, 79.

Garnishment, like other proceedings in invitum, only affects the actual property, money, credits, and effects of the debtor in the hands of the garnishee, and the rule relating to bona fide holders or purchasers without notice has no application. Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605.

A lien acquired by garnishment is, in the absence of some special and superior right in the plaintiff, subject to all the equities existing between the garnishee and the defendant. Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212.

An attachment creditor perfecting his lien after the lis pendens stands on the same footing as a judgment creditor and is governed by the rule applicable to a purchaser pendente lite. Whitney v. Higgins, 10 Cal. 547, 70 Am. Dec. 748. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1918C, 66.

[3] Wilson v. Kruse, 270 Ill. 289, 110 N. E. 359, citing R. C. L.; Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381; Day v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 232 Ky. 662, 24 S. W. (2d) 576, citing R. C. L.; People's Bank v. West, 67 Miss. 729, 7 So. 513, 8 L.R.A. 727.

[4] Day v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 232 Ky. 662, 24 S. W. (2d) 576, citing R. C. L.; Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333; Mott v. Holbrook, 28 N. D. 251, 148 N. W. 1061, citing R. C. L.; Watts v. Kinney, 3 Leigh (Va.) 272, 23 Am. Dec. 266.

An attachment lien on land, the legal title to which is in the attachment debtor, is subject to every equity which exists against the debtor at the time of the levy of the attachment, and courts of equity will limit the lien to the actual interest of the attachment debtor in such real estate. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333.

[5] Day v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 232 Ky. 662, 24 S. W. (2d) 576, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 42 Am. Dec. 432.

[6] Good v. Williams, 81 Kan. 388, 105 P. 433, 135 Am. St. Rep. 392.

[7] Hoyt v. Clemans, 167 Iowa, 330, 149 N. W. 442, L.R.A.1915C, 166; J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184; Metropolitan L. Ins. Co. v. Hightower, 211 Ky. 36, 276 S. W. 1063, 44 A.L.R. 1158; Isaac Van Dyke Co. v. Moll, 241 Mich. 255, 217 N. W. 29, 57 A.L.R. 692; Wunderlich v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 109 Minn. 468, 124 N. W. 223, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 811, 134 Am. St. Rep. 788, 18 Ann. Cas. 212; Goodwin v. Claytor, 137 N. C. 224, 49 S. E. 173, 67 L.R.A. 209, 107 Am. St. Rep. 479; Graf v. Wilson, 62 Or. 476, 125 P. 1005, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 462; Braddock v. Gambill (Tex. Civ. App.) 291 S. W. 306, citing R. C. L.; McAlmond v. Bevington, 23 Wash. 315, 63 P. 251, 53 L.R.A. 597; Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co. 6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166; Wall v. Norfolk & W. R. Co. 52 W. Va. 485, 44 S. E. 294, 64 L.R.A. 501, 94 Am. St. Rep. 948; Commercial Invest. Trust v. William Frankfurth Hardware Co. 179 Wis. 21, 190 N. W. 1004, citing R. C. L.

One who obtains judgment against a ward and garnishes his guardian becomes subrogated to the claims of the ward against the guardian to the amount of such judgment. Hazelton v. Douglas, 97 Wis. 214, 72 N. W. 637, 65 Am. St. Rep. 122.

§ 822. Where Plaintiff Acquires Greater or Less Interest or Rights than Defendant.—It is sometimes said that the attaching or garnishing creditor stands in the shoes of the defendant.[8] However, it is not entirely correct to say that in all instances an attaching creditor acquires all the rights and interests of the debtor in the attached property, for the reason that certain rights and interests in attached property are sometimes incapable of being owned or exercised by anyone other than the defendant.[9] The view has been taken that an attaching or garnishing creditor cannot compel the performance of merely personal services, not constituting property, due his debtor.[10] For example, the right of a debtor to refuse to recognize an assignment of a portion of a debt is personal to him and cannot be claimed by one attaching or garnishing such debt.[11] Likewise, it has been held that a debt or note payable in specific articles, rather than in money, cannot be attached or garnished, at least under statutory provision.[12] Undoubtedly a creditor cannot compel his debtor to change his contract or make a new and different one in order that he may reach and subject it to the payment of his debt.[13]

§ 823. —In Case of Fraudulent Transfers.—There is at least one exception to the rule that the garnishing creditor can avail himself only of the legal rights of his debtor against the garnishee. When the garnishee has possession of property of the debtor under a fraudulent transfer, though such transfer is valid against the debtor, the creditor may assert its invalidity and in many instances reach the property by garnishment. This exception is, of course, founded upon the theory that as the law makes the transfer void as to the creditor, there is, as to him, no transfer at all, and the title to the property, for his benefit, remains in the debtor, notwithstanding a previous legal transfer good as against all others.[14]

§ 824. Effect on Title.—An attachment or garnishment does not in any way affect the general title of the owner of the property: at most, it creates only a lien on it.[15] Accordingly, an attachment or garnishment does not prevent the defendant from assigning or transferring the attached property subject to the attachment or garnishment, and this the plaintiff cannot do, although, of course, the attached property may be sold under order of court, where it is perishable, or on execution after final judgment.[16]

---

[8] J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184.

The general rule as to garnishment is that the plaintiff in garnishment stands in the shoes of the original defendant and can have no greater rights than the judgment defendant, and the garnishee is not to be placed in any worse condition than if the defendant himself were enforcing his claim. J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184.

[9] Skewes v. Tennessee Coal, I. & R. Co. 124 Ala. 629, 27 So. 435, 82 Am. St. Rep. 214; Holt v. Lucas, 77 Kan. 710, 96 P. 30, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 203, 127 Am. St. Rep. 459; Baltimore v. Root, 8 Md. 95, 63 Am. Dec. 692; Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763; Boisseau v. Bass (Boisseau v. Penn) 100 Va. 207, 40 S. E. 647, 57 L.R.A. 380, 93 Am. St. Rep. 956.

An attaching creditor may acquire greater and better rights to mortgaged personal property belonging to his debtor than the debtor himself could claim at the time the attachment is levied. Holt v. Lucas, 77 Kan. 710, 96 P. 30, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 203, 127 Am. St. Rep. 459.

[10] See Vol. 4, p. 691, § 217.

[11] Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763.

[12] See Vol. 4, p. 685, § 205.

[13] Boisseau v. Bass (Boisseau v. Penn) 100 Va. 207, 40 S. E. 647, 57 L.R.A. 380, 93 Am. St. Rep. 956.

[14] Cottingham v. Greely Barnham Grocery Co. 129 Ala. 200, 30 So. 560, 87 Am. St. Rep. 58; Nicrosi v. Irvine, 102 Ala. 648, 15 So. 429, 48 Am. St. Rep. 92; National Bank v. Western P. R. Co. 157 Cal. 573, 108 P. 676, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 987, 21 Ann. Cas. 1391; Shelton v. Wolthausen, 80 Conn. 599, 69 A. 1030, 125 Am. St. Rep. 131; Boyle v. Clukey, 126 Me. 443, 139 A. 460, citing R. C. L.; Holker v. Hennessey, 143 Mo. 80, 44 S. W. 794, 65 Am. St. Rep. 642; Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333; Baird v. Meyer, 55 N. D. 930, 215 N. W. 542, 56 A.L.R. 175; Mott v. Holbrook, 28 N. D. 251, 148 N. W. 1061, citing R. C. L.

Generally, as to attachability or garnishability of property fraudulently conveyed, see Vol. 4, p. 694, § 222; p. 700, § 230; infra, § 860.

[15] J. H. Mulrein Plumbing Supply Co. v. Walsh, 26 Ariz. 152, 222 P. 1046, citing R. C. L.; Tetzloff v. May, 151 Iowa, 441, 131 N. W. 647, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 341; Fettyplace v.

3. Commencement and Duration of Lien

§ 825. Commencement.—The general rule, frequently established by statute, is that an attachment operates as a lien from the time of levy[17] or from the time that the officer executing the writ has complied with the law governing attachments,[18] and does not become effective when the attachment is issued.[19] Thus, it has been held that a lien of attachment upon real estate takes effect immediately upon levy thereof and the deposit of a copy, with a description of the land attached, with the county recorder.[20] According to some authorities it is not requisite to the validity of a levy of attachment on real estate that the officer should go upon the land, or into its vicinity, in making the levy, but that the lien acquired upon property attached dates from the time the officer indorses the levy on the writ,[1] though it has been held by others that the lien does not become effective until the officer goes on to the land and declares the levy of the writ.[2]

Dutch, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 388, 23 Am. Dec. 688; Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792; Herman Bros. L. & Co. v. Katz Bros. 101 Tenn. 118, 47 S. W. 86, 41 L.R.A. 700.

A mere lien under an attachment of land does not constitute property or interest in the land itself. Tetzloff v. May, 151 Iowa, 441, 131 N. W. 647, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 341.

The mere levy of an execution or attachment on insured property without an actual change of possession is not such a change in the interest, title, or possession as will avoid a policy providing that such change will work a forfeiture. Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 803.

[16] Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858; J. H. Mulrein Plumbing Supply Co. v. Walsh, 26 Ariz. 152, 222 P. 1046, citing R. C. L.; Stillman v. Hamer, 70 Kan. 469, 78 P. 836, 109 Am. St. Rep. 465; Nichols v. Patten, 18 Me. 231, 35 Am. Dec. 713; Arnold v. Brown, 24 Pick. (Mass.) 89, 35 Am. Dec. 296; Allen v. Wells, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 450, 33 Am. Dec. 757; Whipple v. Thayer, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 25, 26 Am. Dec. 626; Fettyplace v. Dutch, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 388, 23 Am. Dec. 688; Denny v. Willard, 11 Pick. (Mass.) 519, 22 Am. Dec. 389; Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792; Duxbury v. Dahle, 78 Minn. 427, 81 N. W. 198, 79 Am. St. Rep. 408; Mussey v. Perkins, 36 Vt. 690, 86 Am. Dec. 688.

Yates v. Terry [1902] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 527, 5 B. R. C. 446—C. A.

Annotation: 5 B. R. C. 450.

[17] Doe ex dem. Vaillant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549; Mitchell v. St. Maxent, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 237, 18 L. ed. 326; Pratt v. Law, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 456, 3 L. ed. 791; Taffts v. Manlove, 14 Cal. 47, 73 Am. Dec. 610; Johnson v. Gorham, 6 Cal. 195, 65 Am. Dec. 501; Reeves v. Sebern, 16 Iowa, 234, 85 Am. Dec. 513; Burke v. Johnson, 37 Kan. 337, 15 P. 204, 1 Am. St. Rep. 252; Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792; Verry v. Barnes, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Martin v. McBryde, 182 N. C. 175, 108 S. E. 739, 21 A.L.R. 12; Dickinson v. First Nat. Bank, 64 N. D. 273, 252 N. W. 54, 93 A.L.R. 739; Jackman v. Hallock, 1 Ohio, 318, 13 Am. Dec. 627.

The lien of an attachment levied on land fraudulently alienated becomes effective and enforceable after the real estate is reconveyed and restored to the fraudulent grantor, the same as though the conveyance in the first instance had not been made. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333.

An attachment levied on real estate fraudulently alienated by the attachment debtor and grantor for the purpose of hindering, delaying, and defrauding creditors, even though the legal title of record is in another, gives the attachment creditor a lien upon the interest of the debtor in the land attached, which he may enforce by appropriate proceedings after recovery of judgment. Ibid.

The lien sought to be created by an attachment proceeding is dependent on seizure and possession. Crisman v. Dorsey, 12 Colo. 567, 21 P. 920, 4 L.R.A. 664.

[18] Zimmerman v. Boynton, 59 N. D. 112, 229 N. W. 3, citing R. C. L.

[19] Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Schwarzschild & S. Co. 58 Kan. 90, 48 P. 591, 62 Am. St. Rep. 604.

At common law the rule was that an execution was a lien on personal property from the time of its issuance although there was no levy. Lawson v. Jordan, 19 Ark. 297, 70 Am. Dec. 596; Lean v. Givens, 146 Cal. 739, 81 P. 128, 106 Am. St. Rep. 79; Johnson v. McLane, 7 Blackf. (Ind.) 501, 43 Am. Dec. 102; Brewster v. Vail, 20 N. J. L. 56, 38 Am. Dec. 547; Giles v. Grover, 1 Clark & F. 72, 6 Eng. Reprint, 843, 9 Bing. 128, 131 Eng. Reprint, 563, 2 Moore & S. 197, 11 Eng. Rul. Cas. 550.

[20] Ritter v. Scannell, 11 Cal. 238, 70 Am. Dec. 775; Zimmerman v. Boynton, 59 N. D. 112, 229 N. W. 3, citing R. C. L.

[1] Riordan v. Britton, 69 Tex. 198, 7 S. W. 50, 5 Am. St. Rep. 37.

[2] People's Bank v. West, 67 Miss. 729, 7 So. 513, 8 L.R.A. 727.

In reference to the time of the commencement of a garnishment lien, it has been held that service of notice upon the garnishee creates a lien on the goods of the debtor in his hands, and such goods are not subject to levy and sale upon process thereafter levied during the continuance of such lien.[3]

In some instances the plaintiff is required by statute to perfect his lien within a specified time, as in the case of other liens.[4]

§ 826. Duration.[5]—The general rule is that an attachment or garnishment lien continues as security for any judgment the plaintiff may have obtained unless the attachment or garnishment is abandoned, withdrawn, dissolved, or discharged.[6]

A writ of garnishment issued within the statutory period of limitation will not serve to extend the lien of the judgment upon which it is founded, as the judgment lien can only be extended by the filing of another suit before the expiration of seven years from the date of the rendition thereof.[7]

The issuance of a negotiable warehouse receipt after the property has been attached cannot affect the lien of the attachment.[8]

§ 827. Contingent and Inchoate Character of Lien.—An attachment or garnishment lien is said to be contingent[9] or inchoate,[10] at least until final judgment against the defendant and the garnishee.[11] Accordingly, it has been held that it may be impaired, displaced, or destroyed by legislative enactments, in the absence of any prohibition of retroactive or retrospective laws.[12] However, on the entry of judgment a vested right accrues in favor of the attachment or garnishment creditor, which cannot be impaired by subsequent legislation, especially where the lien of an attachment after judgment is of as high an order as that of an execution.[13] Thereafter, in the absence of some affirmative act of surrender or abandonment, the attachment lien will ordinarily endure as long as the judgment itself,[14] and it will expire with the expiration of the judgment.[15] Nevertheless, a judgment by default against the debtor in an attachment suit does not establish the lien against the claim of an intervening mortgage creditor so as to prevent a subsequent statute validating mortgages from operating to defeat the attachment lien.[16]

---

[3] Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Cottrell v. Varnum, 5 Ala. 229, 39 Am. Dec. 323; Rickman v. Rickman, 180 Mich. 224, 146 N. W. 609, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 1237; Pitkin v. Burnham, 62 Neb. 385, 87 N. W. 160, 55 L.R.A. 280, 89 Am. St. Rep. 763; Northfield Knife Co. v. Shapleigh, 24 Neb. 635, 39 N. W. 788, 8 Am. St. Rep. 224.

[4] Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248.

[5] As to bond, see infra, §§ 901 et seq.

[6] Bagley v. Ward, 37 Cal. 121, 99 Am. Dec. 256; Shuck v. Quackenbush, 75 Colo. 592, 227 P. 1041, 38 A.L.R. 259; Hogue v. Corbit, 156 Ill. 540, 41 N. E. 219, 47 Am. St. Rep. 232; Stillman v. Hamer, 70 Kan. 469, 78 P. 836, 109 Am. St. Rep. 465; Andersen v. Land, 5 Wash. 493, 32 P. 107, 34 Am. St. Rep. 875.

It has been held that the lien acquired by the seizure of and levy on the lands of a debtor under an attachment is not divested by the subsequent occupation of the land for homestead purposes, but that the lands may be sold to satisfy the claim of the attaching creditor, under execution issued on a judgment founded on the attachment, notwithstanding the fact that after the levying of the attachment, but before the issuance of the execution or the entering of the judgment in the attachment proceedings, the debtor occupies the property for homestead purposes. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1149.

Generally, as to dissolution or discharge of attachment, see Vol. 4, p. 925, §§ 622 et seq.; as to dissolution or discharge of garnishment, see supra, §§ 738 et seq.

[7] Grace v. Pierce, 127 Miss. 831, 90 So. 590, 21 A.L.R. 1035.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 1052.

[8] International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960.

[9] Stillman v. Hamer, 70 Kan. 469, 78 P. 836, 109 Am. St. Rep. 465.

[10] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855; Pratt v. Law, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 456, 3 L. ed. 791; Evans-Snider-Buel Co. v. McFadden (C. C. A. 8th) 105 F. 293, 58 L.R.A. 900, affirmed in 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. ed. 1012, 22 S. Ct. 758; Montana Nat. Bank v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 19 Mont. 586, 49 P. 149, 61 Am. St. Rep. 532.

A legislative body like the Congress of the United States, which is not prohibited from passing retrospective or retroactive laws, has an undoubted power to divest or impair an attachment lien, at least until there has been an adjudication that adequate grounds for the attachment exist and that the lien of the attachment be enforced. Evans-Snider-Buel Co. v. McFadden (C. C. A. 8th) 105 F. 293, 58 L.R.A. 900, affirmed in 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. ed. 1012, 22 S. Ct. 758.

A judgment by default against the debtor in an attachment suit does not establish the lien against the claim of an intervening mortgage creditor so as to prevent a subsequent statute validating mortgages from operating to defeat the attachment lien. Evans-Snider-Buel Co. v. McFadden (C. C. A. 8th) 105 F. 293, 58 L.R.A. 900, affirmed in 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. ed. 1012, 22 S. Ct. 758.

[11] In Pratt v. Law, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 456, 3 L. ed. 791, the court holds that levying an attachment has the double effect of creating a lien and instituting an action. But the lien is only inchoate; it awaits the judgment of the court for its consummation, and must fall with the suit. To decide otherwise would be to permit the defendant, by collusion or his own act, to nullify the lien of the subsequent attachment.

§ 828. Effect of Defects and Irregularities.—The effect of defects and irregularities in an attachment or garnishment upon the commencement or duration of the attachment or garnishment lien depends upon the jurisdictional effect of the same. It has been noted herein that the courts are in fundamental disagreement as to when, and what, defects and irregularities have the effect of preventing the court from acquiring or continuing to have jurisdiction of such proceedings.[17] Undoubtedly, however, an attachment or garnishment lien cannot be instituted by a void proceeding, and will be vacated or discharged by a subsequent loss of jurisdiction.[18] Consequently, the rights of a garnishing creditor against the garnishee are generally to be determined as of the time of the filing of a supplemental affidavit to cure a jurisdictional defect in the petition for the garnishment, at least in so far as an intervening assignment by the defendant to an assignee in good faith is concerned.[19] The general rule is that where there is no statute to the contrary, the failure of an officer to make a return on or before the return day will not affect the lien of an attachment that was duly levied,[20] and it has been said that the validity or continuation of an attachment lien is not dependent upon the entry of the judgment in the judgment lien docket.[1]

B. PRIORITY

1. IN GENERAL

§ 829. Generally.—Priority between attachment or garnishment liens and other liens or claims upon the same property is generally determined by priority of time. The right first acquired is, as a rule, superior.[2] The rule is applicable to priority between an attachment or garnishment and the claim of a general creditor,[3] a judgment lien,[4] or an execution.[5] An attorney's lien on a judgment he has secured for his client is superior to the claim of a creditor of the client who levies on the judgment before the giving of notice of the claim for the lien. The rule holds good, although the lien was asserted by two attorneys, one of whom was not a resident of the state and not licensed to practice in its courts.[6] The right of subrogation which arises upon payment by sureties of a judgment against the principal debtor takes priority over a lien acquired by garnishment entered after the judgment.[7] The right of a surety on a contractor's bond, who is entitled under the contract to complete the work upon the contractor's default, and be subrogated to all rights and properties of the principal arising out of the contract, is, in case he takes possession and completes the contract, superior to that of attaching creditors of the contractor to the percentage of the contract price retained by the owner, as the work progressed, to secure compliance with the contract.[8]

---

[12] Evans-Snider-Buel Co. v. McFadden (C. C. A. 8th) 105 F. 293, 58 L.R.A. 900, affirmed in 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. ed. 1012, 22 S. Ct. 758.

[13] McFadden v. Blocker, 2 Ind. Terr. 260, 48 S. W. 1043, 58 L.R.A. 878.

[14] Bagley v. Ward, 37 Cal. 121, 99 Am. Dec. 256; Stillman v. Hamer, 70 Kan. 469, 78 P. 836, 109 Am. St. Rep. 465.

[15] See JUDGMENTS [Also 15 R. C. L. pp. 554 et seq.].

[16] Evans-Snider-Buel Co. v. McFadden (C. C. A. 8th) 105 F. 293, 58 L.R.A. 900, affirmed in 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. ed. 1012, 22 S. Ct. 758.

[17] See Vol. 4, p. 607, §§ 85, 86.

[18] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[19] Ibid.

[20] Hogue v. Corbit, 156 Ill. 540, 41 N. E. 219, 47 Am. St. Rep. 232; Mott v. Holbrook, 28 N. D. 251, 148 N. W. 1061, citing R. C. L.

[1] Mott v. Holbrook, 28 N. D. 251, 148 N. W. 1061, citing R. C. L.; Katz v. Obenchain, 48 Or. 352, 85 P. 617, 120 Am. St. Rep. 821.

[2] Handley v. Pfister, 39 Cal. 283, 2 Am. Rep. 449; Bowker v. Smith, 48 N. H. 111, 2 Am. Rep. 189; Hatcher v. Plumley, 38 N. D. 147, 164 N. W. 698, citing R. C. L.; Payne v. Finley (Tex. Civ. App.) 291 S. W. 944; First Nat. Bank v. Harkness, 42 W. Va. 156, 24 S. E. 548, 32 L.R.A. 408.

§ 830. As to Right to Reformation of Contract.—It has been held that attaching creditors of a mortgagor or grantor cannot successfully object to the reformation of a mortgage or deed which, by mutual mistake of the parties, does not embrace all of the lands intended to be included, or give the security intended, as their lien is only upon the lands and tenements of the mortgagor, and not upon lands that do not in fact belong to him.[9] However, there is a conflict of authority on this point, and it has been held that notwithstanding that equity will correct written instruments as against general judgment creditors, the equity to have a mortgage rectified so as to express the intention of the parties is not superior to the lien of an attachment judgment recovered before the attachment creditor had notice of the mistake.[10]

§ 831. As to Possessory Interest.[11]—The general rule is that an attachment or garnishment cannot interfere with an existing possessory interest which the defendant has no right himself to disturb. Generally, however, the possessory interest of another in property will not prevent its attachment or garnishment where the attaching officer performs the condition, i. e., payment of purchase price, upon which the defendant becomes entitled to the property free from such possessory interest.[12] Thus, the right of a domestic railroad company to the use of a car which it has received from a railroad company in another state under a contract that it will carry it loaded to its destination, and then reload and return it to the owner, paying for its use in the meantime, is superior, in a court of law, to that of an attaching creditor who, without any other lien, seeks to subject the car to attachment by service of a summons of attachment upon the domestic railroad company.[13]

---

[3] Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1080; Wyman, P. & Co. v. Tierney, 42 Wyo. 321, 294 P. 781, 75 A.L.R. 667.

[4] Slattery v. Jones, 96 Mo. 216, 8 S. W. 554, 9 Am. St. Rep. 344.

The lien of an attachment has priority over the lien of an ordinary judgment that has been obtained upon a suit filed after the levy of the attachment. Georgia Code 1933, § 8 905. See Kilgo v. Castleberry, 38 Ga. 512, 95 Am. Dec. 406.

See JUDGMENTS [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 814, §§ 280 et seq.].

[5] Commerce Vault Co. v. Barrett, 222 Ill. 169, 78 N. E. 47, 113 Am. St. Rep. 382, 6 Ann. Cas. 652.

The surplus arising on a foreclosure sale may be garnished, and the lien acquired thereby takes precedence over an execution on a judgment rendered after the sale. Ibid.

An execution creditor who consents to the postponement of the sale from time to time, for the mere purpose of giving the debtor an opportunity to negotiate with his creditors, so as to secure from them some compromise or other advantage, loses his priority of lien as against a junior execution coming into the hands of the sheriff during the pendency of such postponement, although his motive is that of kindness or leniency to the debtor, with no actual intention to hinder or defraud creditors, and the postponements do not in fact hinder, delay, or defraud other creditors. Sweetser v. Matson, 153 Ill. 568, 30 N. E. 1086, 27 L.R.A. 374, 46 Am. St. Rep. 911.

[6] Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

[7] Watts v. Kinney, 3 Leigh (Va.) 272, 23 Am. Dec. 266.

[8] Illinois Surety Co. v. Mitchell, 177 Ky. 367, 197 S. W. 844, L.R.A.1918A, 931.

[9] Annotation: 44 A.L.R. 110.

[10] Yarnell v. Brown, 170 Ill. 362, 48 N. E. 909, 62 Am. St. Rep. 380.

Annotation: 44 A.L.R. 109.

But the assignee of such judgment will prevail over the equity of the mortgagee to have a mortgage reformed only to the extent of the consideration given by him for the assignment before he acquired notice of the mortgagee's equity of reformation; and so, where the assignment is a security for services performed and for future services, a mortgagee is entitled to priority over any claim of the assignee for services and expenses subsequent to his acquiring notice of the mortgagee's equity, since after such notice the assignee is not bound to perform the services or incur the expenses upon the faith of the security. Yarnell v. Brown, 170 Ill. 362, 48 N. E. 909, 62 Am. St. Rep. 380. Annotation: 44 A.L.R. 109.

[11] As to attachment or garnishment, of

§ 832. As to Right of Stoppage in Transitu.—A vendor's right of stoppage in transitu is paramount to attachment liens of other creditors of the vendee, and the goods, if seized under attachment at the instance of a creditor prior to the termination of their transit, are held subject to the superior lien of the vendor.[14] This has also been held to be the rule where the attachment is levied at an intermediate point while the goods are in the hands of an agent of the vendee to be forwarded. But in a few instances the courts have seemingly regarded a seizure upon execution as upon a different footing than an attachment or garnishment, and have held that goods while in transit may be seized on execution so as to terminate the vendor's right of stoppage in transitu, and it has been held that where the vendor of goods himself attaches them as the property of the vendee while they are in transit, such attachment destroys the right of the vendor subsequently to stop them in mortgaged, bailed, pledged, leased, etc., property, see Vol. 4, p. 693, §§ 220 et seq.

---

As to priority with respect to deeds, mortgages, conveyances, pledges, and bailments, see infra, §§ 842 et seq.

[12] Wood v. Weimar, 104 U. S. 786, 26 L. ed. 779; Southern Flour & Grain Co. v. Northern P. R. Co. 127 Ga. 626, 36 S. E. 742, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 853, 119 Am. St. Rep. 356, 9 Ann. Cas. 437; Hall v. Page, 4 Ga. 428, 48 Am. Dec. 235; Baker v. Doe, 88 S. C. 69, 70 S. E. 431, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 510; First Nat. Bank v. Harkness, 42 W. Va. 156, 24 S. E. 548, 32 L.R.A. 408.

Where property mortgaged remained in the possession of the mortgagor, it was held that although the property could be taken in attachment, the officer would have to surrender it to the mortgagee on demand, unless the attaching creditors disputed the validity of the mortgage; and to compel such surrender of the mortgaged goods, an action in replevin would lie at the suit of the mortgagee. Wood v. Weimar, 104 U. S. 786, 26 L. ed. 779.

The rights of a creditor in possession are paramount to the rights of an attaching creditor. Baker v. Doe, 88 S. C. 69, 70 S. E. 431, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 510.

An attachment levied upon pledged property as that of pledgeor is subject to the lien of the pledge. First Nat. Bank v. Harkness, 42 W. Va. 156, 24 S. E. 548, 32 L.R.A. 408.

The liability of equitable interests to attachment will not authorize the attaching creditor to take the property out of the hands of the legal owner before the latter's claims on it are satisfied. Gibson v. Stevens, 8 How. (U. S.) 384, 12 L. ed. 1123.

[13] Southern Flour & Grain Co. v. Northern P. R. Co. 127 Ga. 626, 56 S. E. 742, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 853, 119 Am. St. Rep. 356, 9 Ann. Cas. 437.

[14] Bayonne Knife Co. v. Umbenhauer, 107 Ala. 496, 18 So. 175, 54 Am. St. Rep. 114; Rucker v. Donovan, 13 Kan. 251, 19 Am. Rep. 84 (writ of execution); Hause v. Judson, 4 Dana (Ky.) 7, 29 Am. Dec. 377; Wood v. Yeatman, 15 B. Mon. (Ky.) 270; Blum v. Marks, 21 La. Ann. 268, 99 Am. Dec. 725; Hepp v. Glover, 15 La. 461, 35 Am. Dec. 206; O'Brien v. Norris, 16 Md. 122, 77 Am. Dec. 284; Naylor v. Dennie, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 198, 19 Am. Dec. 319; Langstaff v. Stix, 64 Miss. 171, 1 So. 97, 60 Am. Rep. 49; Fenkhausen v. Fellows, 20 Nev. 312, 21 P. 886, 4 L.R.A. 732; Farrell v. Richmond & D. R. Co. 102 N. C. 390, 9 S. E. 302, 3 L.R.A. 647, 11 Am. St. Rep. 760; Calahan v. Babcock, 21 Ohio St. 281, 8 Am. Rep. 63; Chandler v. Fulton, 10 Tex. 2, 60 Am. Dec. 188; Harris v. Tenney, 85 Tex. 254, 20 S. W. 82, 34 Am. St. Rep. 796.

Annotation: 7 A.L.R. 1408.

The Uniform Sales Act, § 59, provides: "When notice of stoppage in transitu is given by the seller to the carrier, or other bailee in possession of the goods, he must redeliver the goods to, or according to the direction of, the seller. The expenses of such delivery must be borne by the seller. If, however, a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee, he shall not be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancelation."

transit, at least unless the vendor, in the belief that he still has a right of stoppage in transitu, promptly dismisses the writ and seeks to stop the transit. Furthermore, it has been held that after the goods have reached the point of destination, they may be taken on attachment sued out by the creditors of the vendee, so as to work a delivery and terminate the right of stoppage in transitu.[15]

§ 833. As to Lien of Warehouseman or Bailee of Attached Property. — While the authorities are not clear as to the nature or extent of the lien that a warehouseman has upon property stored by an officer who has seized it under a writ of attachment, there are cases in which the warehouseman's lien has been recognized. Thus, it has been held that where the officer stores goods seized under an attachment which is subsequently released by payment of the judgment and costs taxed in the attachment suit, the warehouseman has a common-law lien for reasonable storage charges, and need not surrender the possession of the property on the demand of the owner, although the property is no longer in custodia legis. The cases denying a lien as to property stored by an officer under an attachment may be reconciled with those permitting it, on the ground that it appears that the attachment plaintiff was successful in the cases upholding the lien, while in the cases denying the lien, the attachment was either held invalid or dismissed before final judgment.[16]

§ 834. Priority between Attaching Creditor-Stockholder and Other Corporate Creditors.—The statutory liability of a stockholder will not defeat his rights as an attaching creditor of the corporation, which will be superior to those of subsequent attaching creditors,[17] even though he is an officer of the corporation.[18] But in a proceeding to wind up the affairs of a corporation, where both the corporation and a creditor-stockholder are insolvent, and the latter is liable upon his subscription for stock in the company in an amount greatly in excess of his claims against the corporation, he cannot enforce against the corporation, to the exclusion of other creditors, an attachment proceeding, and such proceeding and the lien obtained thereby will be postponed to that of subsequent attaching creditors, where necessary to their payment, and where, without such postponement, they would lose their demands and the entire assets of the corporation, which would go to satisfy the individual debt of the stockholder.[19]

§ 835. As to Landlord's Lien.[20]—Priority between an attachment or garnishment and a landlord's statutory lien generally depends upon priority in time,[1] but is sometimes affected by the fact of notice [2] or the effect of recording statutes.[3] Generally, however, a landlord's lien for rent has priority over an attachment or execution of the tenant's goods only to the extent of rent accrued,[4] but this does not prevent the lien from covering rent payable in advance.[5] However, a different practice has been adopted in some states, and the landlord has been permitted to claim his rent to the time of levy, though under the terms of the lease it was not yet due, and though the courts have recognized that the wording of the statute did not authorize this, the practice has been continued and upheld by the courts on the principle of stare decisis.[6] The rule of common law was that property taken on execution against a tenant could not, so long as it was in the actual or constructive possession of the sheriff, though it remained on the demised premises, be taken on distress. The statute of 3 Anne, chap. 14, § 1, relating to distress, which has been in effect re-enacted or adopted in some jurisdictions in this country, provides that no goods or chattels upon any demised premises shall be liable to be taken by virtue of an execution, unless the party at whose suit the execution is issued shall, before the removal of such goods, pay the rent due, not exceeding a year's rent.[7] By analogy to this statute, the claim of an attaching creditor must yield precedence to the rent in arrear for a similar period.[8] However, goods seized by an officer under a writ of execution or attachment, in good faith and for the purpose of its enforcement, are not subject to distraint for rent in arrear, though left on the premises in the possession of the debtor as agent of the officer making the seizure.[9] Under such a statute as this statute of Anne, though the authorities are not in entire accord, it is generally held that notice to the sheriff of the rent due previous to the removal of the goods is not necessary, that since the statute in terms does not require it, to give a construction to it requiring such notice previous to a removal would in most cases defeat the very object and intent of the statute, and that therefore notice, even after a sale, provided it is before money is paid over to the plaintiff in the execution, is good.[10] If, however, the statute requires that notice be given to the sheriff before the chattels are removed, effect must be given to such requirement.[11] Where a lease containing a security clause for the rent reserved has not been filed, as required by law, when levies of attachment are made, the attachment is superior to the right of the landlord.[12] Title to the hay, oats, and straw is not reserved to the owner of a farm as against attaching creditors of a tenant, under a lease by which the tenant agrees to raise enough stuff to feed the stock of the place, or, if he fails to do so, to buy what may be necessary.[13]

---

[15] Annotation: 7 A.L.R. 1408.

[16] Annotation: 95 A.L.R. 1530.

Where an attachment suit was dismissed for want of prosecution, a warehouseman with whom the attached property had been stored by a constable, under an agreement that the sheriff would not be responsible for the cost, had no lien, either of an equitable nature or under a statute which required the consent of the owner of stored property as a prerequisite to a warehouseman's lien. Roehl Storage Co. v. Wilson, 268 Mich. 691, 256 N. W. 598, 95 A.L.R. 1525.

[17] Annotation: 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 987.

[18] Rollins v. Shaver Wagon & Carriage Co. 80 Iowa, 380, 45 N. W. 1037, 20 Am. St. Rep. 427.

[19] Annotation: 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 987.

[20] See Landlord and Tenant [Also 16 R. C. L. p. 988, § 504, p. 1013, §§ 531, 532].

[1] First Nat. Bank v. Corporation Commission, 161 Md. 508, 157 A. 748, 86 A.L.R. 1407.

Annotation: 12 L.R.A. 848.

[2] Annotation: 12 L.R.A. 849.

[3] Annotation: 12 L.R.A. 849.

§ 836. Priority of Attachment of Fixtures.—As a general rule, the creditor who attaches removable fixtures as such must remove them from the premises while the tenant's right to do so exists. In other words, the creditor acquires no greater rights in this respect than the tenant under whom he claims. Therefore, if, pending the attachment, the rights of the tenant in and to the fixtures cease, then, as a general rule, the rights of those claiming under him also cease. Hence, an attachment of fixtures by the creditor of a tenant is defeated when the lease is terminated by lawful re-entry before a sale in the attachment suit or removal of the property, unless there is a special agreement, or special circumstances entitle the tenant to remove the fixtures after his term has expired.[14]

---

[4] First Nat. Bank v. Corporation Commission, 161 Md. 508, 157 A. 748, 86 A.L.R. 1407.
Annotation: 119 Am. St. Rep. 129.

[5] Platt v. Johnson, 168 Pa. 47, 31 A. 935, 47 Am. St. Rep. 877.

[6] Lichtenthaler v. Thompson, 13 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 157, 15 Am. Dec. 581.
Annotation: 15 Am. Dec. 588.

[7] See LANDLORD AND TENANT [Also 16 R. C. L. p. 1013, §§ 531, 532].

[8] First Nat. Bank v. Corporation Commission, 161 Md. 508, 157 A. 748, 86 A.L.R. 1407.

[9] Ibid.

[10] Beekman v. Lansing, 3 Wend. (N. Y.) 446, 20 Am. Dec. 707.

[11] Annotation. 20 Am. Dec. 711.

[12] Annotation: 12 L.R.A. 848.

[13] Colville v. Miles, 127 N. Y. 159, 27 N. E. 809, 12 L.R.A. 848, 24 Am. St. Rep. 433.
Annotation: 12 L.R.A. 848.

§ 837. Effect of Defects and Irregularities.—Attachment or garnishment proceedings, jurisdictionally defective, constitute no lien on the property of the defendant or debts owing to him and no basis for any claim of priority over other claims or liens on such property; nor will a subsequent amendment validating the proceedings,[15] or a subsequent valid attachment or garnishment, have priority over intervening rights and interests in the defendant's property.[16] Thus, an attachment or garnishment issued on a jurisdictionally defective affidavit is, until the affidavit is corrected, ineffectual as to bona fide liens subsequently acquired on the property.[17] Likewise, it has been held that a return on a writ of attachment that it was levied upon lands described, and executed personally upon the defendant by giving him a copy, without stating that the officer went upon the lands, or to the house of the person in whose possession they were, and then and there declared the levy of the writ,[18] as required by statute in case of a levy on occupied premises, is insufficient to sustain the validity of the attachment, even after judgment, as against the intervening rights of other persons.[19] Nor will the judgment in an action in which a jurisdictionally defective attachment or garnishment has issued operate retroactively to validate the attachment or garnishment and to cut out intervening rights of others.[20] Similarly, the ratification of the act of an attorney in bringing an unauthorized attachment suit will not relate back to the time of the commencement of the suit so as to give the attachment lien priority over the liens of third parties which have been acquired in good faith during the interval between the bringing of the suit and the ratification.[1] However, the view has been taken that amendments of mere irregularities in attachment proceedings relate back to the beginning thereof so as to preserve the priority of the attachment over other liens taking effect before amendment and after the original attachment.[2] It has been ruled that where the fact of making the levy of an attachment upon land is indorsed on the writ of attachment, but notice thereof is not given to the defendant until a reasonable time thereafter, the lien of the attachment accrues at the date of the indorsement and is superior to the lien of a mortgage upon the same land given by the defendant subsequent to the attachment, but before notice thereof is given.[3]

§ 838. Effect of Dissolution of Attachment or Garnishment.—The lien of an attachment is ended when the attachment is dissolved, and after such dissolution the owner of the property attached can dispose of it as he sees fit, whether it has been actually turned over to him by the officer or not.[4] Hence, the rights of one to whom property has been transferred by a bona fide bill of sale, after an attachment thereon has been dissolved, are superior to those acquired by a second writ of attachment under which a levy is made after the sale.[5]

---

[14] Morey v. Hoyt, 62 Conn. 542, 26 A. 127, 19 L.R.A. 611.

[15] Jurisdictional defects and irregularities in attachment and garnishment proceedings cannot be supplied by amendment. See Vol. 4, p. 607, §§ 84 et seq.; p. 843, § 475.

[16] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971; People's Bank v. West, 67 Miss. 729, 7 So. 513, 8 L.R.A. 727.

[17] United Collieries v. Martin, 248 Ky. 808, 60 S. W. (2d) 125, 89 A.L.R. 971.

[18] Generally, as to sufficiency of levy on realty, see supra, §§ 567 et seq.

[19] People's Bank v. West, 67 Miss. 729, 7 So. 513, 8 L.R.A. 727.

[20] Ibid.

[1] Caruth-Byrnes Hardware Co. v. Deere, M. & Co. 53 Ark. 140, 13 S. W. 517, 7 L.R.A. 405.

[2] Goodman Bros. & Co. v. Henry, 42 W. Va. 526, 26 S. E. 528, 35 L.R.A. 847.

[3] Schoonover v. Osborne, 111 Iowa, 140, 82 N. W. 505, 82 Am. St. Rep. 496.

2. Priority among Rival Attachments and Garnishments

§ 839. Generally.[6]—Where several writs of attachment are placed in the hands of a sheriff, they are entitled to priority in the order in which they are received,[7] and this priority is not affected by the order in which the officer serves the writs, nor does the fact that he levies the writs on different items of property restrict the right of the holder of the senior writ to the property actually levied on under it, but under such circumstances the court may require the officer's return to be corrected, and may give the benefit to the creditor whose order of attachment was first delivered to the sheriff.[8]

Where writs of attachment are placed in the hands of different officers to be levied, the one first levied upon the defendant's personalty acquires priority.[9] The rule is applicable to attachments levied respectively by Federal and by state officers.[10]

It has been ruled that simultaneous attachments regularly levied constitute the attachment creditors tenants in common in equal proportions.[11]

The fact that an attachment is levied on personalty in an action to recover the purchase price thereof does not create a lien superior to that created by a prior levy of a general attachment on the same property.[12]

---

[4] Anderson v. Land, 5 Wash. 493, 32 P. 107, 34 Am. St. Rep. 875.

[5] Ibid.

[6] As to rights of parties to proceeds on sale under junior attachment or execution, see Judicial Sales [Also 16 R. C. L. p. 1].

[7] Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Schwarzschild & S. Co. 58 Kan. 90, 48 P. 591, 62 Am. St. Rep. 604; Kennon v. Ficklin, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 414, 44 Am. Dec. 776.

Annotation: 82 Am. St. Rep. 301.

A previous attachment of property as the right of another cannot divest the interest of the actual owner of the property in the same so as to prevent the sheriff attaching it under a writ of attachment issued for a debt of the same actual owner. Livingston v. Smith, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 90, 8 L. ed. 57.

[8] Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Schwarzschild & S. Co. 58 Kan. 90, 48 P. 591, 62 Am. St. Rep. 604.

The view has been taken that a junior attaching creditor who has been given leave to defend the debtor against a prior attachment may plead the statute of limitations. Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 1021.

[9] Dooley v. Hadden, 179 U. S. 646, 45 L. ed. 357, 21 S. Ct. 259; Beaston v. Farmers' Bank, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 102, 9 L. ed. 1017; Pratt v. Law, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 456, 3 L. ed. 791; Prince v. Bartlett, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 431, 3 L. ed. 614; Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. McNutt, 68 Ark. 417, 59 S. W. 761, 82 Am. St. Rep. 299; Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248; Hollingsworth v. Hamelin, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 151, 1 L. ed. 77.

Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 474.

Every attachment takes precedence over any subsequent attachment or assignment of the attached property and is perfected by a timely issue and levy of execution on the property attached. Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248.

In Beaston v. Farmers' Bank, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 102, 9 L. ed. 1017, the court held that money attached before the issuing of an attachment in behalf of the United States was bound for the debt for which it was legally attached by a writ in the nature of an execution, and that the right of a private creditor, thus acquired, could not be defeated by the process subsequently issued on the part of the United States. See also Prince v. Bartlett, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 431, 3 L. ed. 146.

The state is not entitled to a preference for duties for which bond had been given by an absconding debtor, to the collector, who was not so named in the bond, where a domestic attachment was issued, notice to creditors given, and a dividend made among the creditors who filed their claims. Hollingsworth v. Hamelin, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 151, 1 L. ed. 77.

Where a subsequent attachment has been first levied by the sheriff or his deputies, and the fund attached is under the control of the court, and the parties are all before the court, the chancellor should distribute the fund among the attaching creditors in the order in which the attachments came into the sheriff's office. Kennon v. Ficklin, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 414, 44 Am. Dec. 776. Annotation: 62 Am. St. Rep. 606.

Where property is sold under an attachment fraudulently issued, the money realized therefrom is subject to a garnishment issued subsequent to the attachment. Stern v. Butler, 123 Ala. 606, 26 So. 359, 82 Am. St. Rep. 146.

[10] Pulliam v. Osborne, 17 How. (U. S.) 471, 15 L. ed. 154; Brown v. Clarke, 4 How. (U. S.) 4, 11 L. ed. 850; Prince v. Bartlett, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 431, 3 L. ed. 614.

[11] Sigourney v. Eaton, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 414, 25 Am. Dec. 414.

While a second affidavit and attachment on a different ground may be had in the same suit, the second attachment does not, as a rule, relate to the first attachment, and is a lien only from its levy as to personalty, or its date as to land, and is not therefore prior to an attachment levied after the first attachment but before the second.[13] Likewise, the union in the same parties of the lien of an attachment not prosecuted to judgment, and the interest attached, does not defeat the lien of an intermediate attachment.[14]

Where an attaching creditor has good reason to believe that his debtor is about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors, and attaches on that ground, the fact that the debtor afterwards changes his mind and absconds does not invalidate the attachment or give priority to another creditor subsequently attaching on the ground that the debtor had left the state.[15]

In reference to the satisfaction of attachment, the rule is that the first attaching creditor is entitled to a full satisfaction of his judgment and costs in preference to others whose attachments were of later date.[16]

Circumstances have been urged in some cases as changing the rules heretofore discussed. Each case must be decided on its own facts.[17]

§ 840. Effect of Irregularities in, or Insufficiency of, First Attachment. — The effect of irregularities in, or insufficiency of, the first attachment depends upon the nature thereof. If the first attachment or garnishment is so defective that it does not create a lien or impound the property, a subsequent attachment or garnishment takes priority.[18] If, on the other hand, the irregularities or deficiencies are not such as to prevent the creation of a lien or the impounding of the property, the subsequent attachment or garnishment does not take priority.[19]

An attachment in the hands of an officer who is prevented from levying on personal property through his inability to gain access thereto is not prior to an attachment, subsequently issued, under which a levy is actually made.[20] Where an attempted levy of an attachment is insufficient and inoperative, a notification to one having a prior contract to purchase the property attempted to be attached will not affect his rights.[1] Likewise, an attachment which is issued on an affidavit containing false allegations does not give priority of lien over a subsequent attachment validly issued and levied.[2] An unauthorized action brought in the name of a creditor may be ratified and adopted by him, but such ratification does not relate back so as to give the lien of an attachment theretofore sued out priority over the attachment liens of third persons which have been acquired in good faith during the interval between the bringing of the suit and the ratification,[3] and it is the rule that an attachment issued upon a debt not due may be avoided by a junior attaching creditor, and postponed to his attachment lien, where there is no statute authorizing the issuance of an attachment for a debt not due.[4] In some states there are statutes requiring that a copy of the return of a writ of attachment be filed for record, and the general rule is that failure to comply with such a requirement is fatal to the attachment as against a subsequent attaching creditor or purchaser in good faith.[5]

---

[12] Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. McNutt, 68 Ark. 417, 59 S. W. 761, 82 Am. St. Rep. 299.

[13] Miller v. White, 46 W. Va. 67, 33 S. E. 332, 76 Am. St. Rep. 791.

[14] Pratt v. Law, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 456, 3 L. ed. 791.

[15] Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 474.

[16] Hepp v. Glover, 15 La. 461, 35 Am. Dec. 206.

Annotation: 62 Am. St. Rep. 606; 82 Am. St. Rep. 301.

[17] Equity will not give priority to a subsequent attachment because the first attaching creditor falsely represented to the second that he had already levied his attachment, and thereby caused the second creditor to delay levying until the first had had time to make his levy. Bardwell v. Perry, 19 Vt. 292, 47 Am. Dec. 687.

One who has actual possession of the goods of a debtor under an unfounded claim of title is not precluded from obtaining a lien by attachment thereon, which shall have priority over an attachment subsequently levied by other creditors whose attachment was first issued, by the fact that he has put the goods in the nominal possession of his attorney in a place known only to himself, so as to prevent the levy of attachments by other parties until after he has perfected his own attachment. Dooley v. Hadden, 179 U. S. 646, 45 L. ed. 357, 21 S. Ct. 259.

[18] Meyer v. Missouri Glass Co. 65 Ark. 286, 45 S. W. 1062, 67 Am. St. Rep. 927; Caruth-Byrnes Hardware Co. v. Deere, 53 Ark. 140, 13 S. W. 517, 17 L.R.A. 405; Webster v. Haworth, 8 Cal. 21, 68 Am. Dec. 287; Crisman v. Dorsey, 12 Colo. 567, 21 P. 920, 4 L.R.A. 664; Henderson v. Thornton, 37 Miss. 448, 75 Am. Dec. 70.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 748; 35 L.R.A. 767.

A groundless attachment based on false allegations of the debtor's fraudulent intent to hinder and delay creditors is a constructive fraud on the part of the creditor which will postpone him to a junior attachment creditor. Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102.

[19] Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102.

A junior attaching creditor cannot take advantage of irregularities or informalities in the proceedings in a prior attachment, although they are such as to be good grounds for setting aside the attachment if motion therefor were made by the defendant. Ibid.

Subsequent attaching creditors may show defects in prior attachments and thereby get the prior liens out of their way. Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 767.

§ 841. Priority among Rival Garnishments.—Priority among rival garnishments of the same property is determined generally by their priority in time.[6] There is some difference of opinion, however, as to whether such priority is determined from the time when the writ is placed in the officer's hands for service or from the time of service on the garnishee.[7] The fact that the creditor who instituted the subsequent proceedings is the one who first prosecuted his proceedings to judgment will not alter the order of priority.[8] Accordingly, if two garnishments are directed against the same debt due from a garnishee, and a judgment is obtained against him on the second garnishment, which he satisfies, he cannot plead that fact in bar to the first, where he gave the prior creditor no notice of the second garnishment, and did not plead the first garnishment in bar of the second.[9]

§ 842. Under Prorating Attachment and Garnishment Statutes.—Prorating attachment and garnishment statutes are found, in some jurisdictions, under which all creditors filing claims in the attachment proceedings are placed on an equality, and the estate of the debtor distributed among them equally and impartially.[10] Prorating provisions are frequently found in statutes making the ground of the attachment the fraudulent absconding of the debtor or the fraudulent removal of his property.[11] However, the practice is sometimes followed of giving an attaching creditor a priority because of his superior diligence in pursuing the absconding debtor or his property.[12]

---

[20] Meyer v. Missouri Glass Co. 65 Ark. 286, 45 S. W. 1062, 67 Am. St. Rep. 927.

[1] Crisman v. Dorsey, 12 Colo. 567, 21 P. 920, 4 L.R.A. 664.

[2] Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102.

[3] Caruth-Byrnes Hardware Co. v. Deere, 53 Ark. 140, 13 S. W. 517, 7 L.R.A. 405.

[4] Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102; Henderson v. Thornton, 37 Miss. 448, 75 Am. Dec. 70.

[5] Webster v. Haworth, 8 Cal. 21, 68 Am. Dec. 287.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 748.

[6] Beaston v. Farmers' Bank, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 102, 9 L. ed. 1017, affirming 7 Gill & J. (Md.) 421, 28 Am. Dec. 226; Prince v. Bartlett, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 431, 3 L. ed. 614; Williams v. Androscoggin & K. R. Co. 36 Me. 201, 58 Am. Dec. 742; Oklahoma Tool & Supply Co. v. Drumright State Bank, 97 Okla. 165, 222 P. 975, citing R. C. L.; McCord-Brady Co. v. Mills, 8 Wyo. 258, 56 P. 1003, 46 L.R.A. 737.

An attachment of funds at the suit of a private person is not defeated by a subsequent attachment at the suit of the United States. Beaston v. Farmers' Bank, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 102, 9 L. ed. 1017, affirming 7 Gill & J. (Md.) 421, 28 Am. Dec. 226; Prince v. Bartlett, 8 Cranch (U. S.) 431, 3 L. ed. 614.

[7] See supra, § 825.

[8] Maier v. Freeman, 112 Cal. 8, 44 P. 357, 53 Am. St. Rep. 151.

See supra, § 784, as to priority between rival garnishments in different states where judgment is obtained in the subsequent garnishment before it is obtained in the prior garnishment.

[9] Farmers' Bank v. Beaston, 7 Gill & J. (Md.) 421, 28 Am. Dec. 226, affirmed in 12 Pet. (U. S.) 102, 9 L. ed. 1017.

3. Priority as to Deeds, Mortgages, Conveyances, Pledges, and Bailments

a. In General

§ 843. Generally.—Priority between an attachment or garnishment and an assignment, transfer, or conveyance depends in general upon priority in time.[13] Assuming that there has been a compliance with all governing statutes, priority in time generally determines priority between an attachment or garnishment and a mortgage,[14] pledge,[15] bailment,[16] or conditional sale.[17]

---

[10] Howard v. Grimes Pass Placer Min. Co. 21 Idaho, 12, 120 P. 170, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 284.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 285; 5 B. R. C. 450.

Under the Idaho statute no creditor is entitled to prorate in the proceeds of attached property unless he has procured his judgment within the sixty-day period prescribed by the statute. Howard v. Grimes Pass Placer Min. Co. 21 Idaho, 12, 120 P. 170, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 284.

[11] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 285.

See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[12] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 292.

[13] Jackson v. Lawrence, 117 U. S. 679, 29 L. ed. 1024, 6 S. Ct. 915; Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109; Van Ness v. Hyatt, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 294, 10 L. ed. 168; Canterbury v. Marengo Abstract Co. 166 Ala. 231, 52 So. 388, 139 Am. St. Rep. 30; Wheatley v. Strobe, 12 Cal. 92, 73 Am. Dec. 522; Hotchkiss v. Higgins, 52 Conn. 205, 52 Am. Rep. 582; Lewis v. McCabe, 49 Conn. 141, 44 Am. Rep. 217; Walton v. Horkan, 112 Ga. 814, 38 S. E. 105, 81 Am. St. Rep. 77; Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381; Sheehy v. Scott, 128 Iowa, 551, 104 N. W. 1139, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 365; Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A. 1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605; Burke v. Johnson, 37 Kan. 337, 15 P. 204, 1 Am. St. Rep. 252; Harlow v. Bartlett, 96 Me. 294, 52 A. 638, 90 Am. St. Rep. 346; Gardner v. Lane, 9 Allen (Mass.) 492, 83 Am. Dec. 779; Fettyplace v. Dutch, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 388, 23 Am. Dec. 688; Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792; Hope v. Blair, 105 Mo. 85, 16 S. W. 595, 24 Am. St. Rep. 366; Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586, 47 L.R.A. 737; Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333; Cleveland Mach. Works v. Lang, 67 N. H. 348, 31 A. 20, 68 Am. St. Rep. 675; Butler v. Maynard, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 548, 27 Am. Dec. 100; Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260; Fitzgerald v. Nickerson, 43 R. I. 396, 113 A. 290, 16 A.L.R. 373; Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763; Armington v. Houston, 38 Vt. 448, 91 Am. Dec. 366; Anderson v. Land, 5 Wash. 493, 32 P. 107, 34 Am. St. Rep. 875; Wiedenbeck-Dobelin Co. v. Anderson, 168 Wis. 212, 169 N. W. 615, 12 A.L.R. 500. Yates v. Terry [1902] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 527, 5 B. R. C. 446—C. A.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 109; 33 L.R.A. 309; L.R.A.1918A, 1089; 74 Am. St. Rep. 454; 5 B. R. C. 450.

Any transfer of property made after the filing of an attachment at law or equity affecting it is void as against the plaintiff in the attachment procedings. Doe ex dem. Valliant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549.

Any levy which in law is valid as against the defendant and will justify a sale will operate to defeat a subsequent purchase, though bona fide and for a valuable consideration. A bona fide purchaser for value after a levy of an attachment takes the title subject thereto. Butler v. Maynard, 11 Wend. (N. Y.) 548, 27 Am. Dec. 100.

One who has acquired a lien on real estate, pending litigation, after the levy of an attachment thereon, is charged with notice and takes subject to the rights of the plaintiff in the action wherein the attachment was levied and final judgment rendered. Westervelt v. Hagge, 61 Neb. 647, 85 N. W. 852, 54 L.R.A. 333.

Where the principal defendant has made a valid assignment of the garnishee's indebtedness, or conveyance of the property in his possession belonging to such defendant, before the service of the summons upon the garnishee, the latter cannot be charged on account of such debt or property. Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605.

The rule has been applied to a conveyance even though the sale was made with intent to prefer another creditor, in violation of the provisions of an insolvent law. Gardner v. Lane, 9 Allen (Mass.) 492, 85 Am. Dec. 779.

A garnishment, by creditors, of property taken from prisoners by police officials for use as evidence if needed will defeat a replevin suit by subsequent assignees of the prisoners. Fitzgerald v. Nickerson, 43 R. I. 396, 113 A. 290, 16 A.L.R. 373. Generally, as to attachability or garnishability of property taken from prisoner, see Vol. 4, p. 803, §§ 400 et seq.

As to jurisdiction to garnish debt previously assigned by nonresident defendant to nonresident assignee without notice to assignee, see Vol. 4, p. 596, § 75.

A creditor may waive his priority.[18]

An attaching or garnishing plaintiff cannot claim priority over a previous assignment of a portion of the debt attached or garnished, on the ground that the debt could not be divided against the debtor, for the right to refuse to recognize such an assignment is personal to the debtor.[19]

---

[14] Wood v. Weimar, 104 U. S. 786, 26 L. ed. 779; Smead v. Chandler, 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066, 65 L.R.A. 353; Ritter v. Scannell, 11 Cal. 238, 70 Am. Dec. 775 (realty); Tollerton & S. Co. v. Skelton, 118 Iowa, 543, 92 N. W. 651, 96 Am. St. Rep. 409; Riddle v. Dow, 98 Iowa, 7, 66 N. W. 1066, 32 L.R.A. 811; Allen v. McCalla, 25 Iowa, 464, 96 Am. Dec. 56; Hart v. Oliver Farm Equipment Sales Co. (Hart v. Thompson) 37 N. M. 267, 21 P. (2d) 96, 87 A.L.R. 962.

A mortgage on chattels duly recorded is entitled to priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment. Wood v. Weimar, 104 U. S. 786, 26 L. ed. 779.

A lessor's mortgage of his interest in crops raised by a tenant on leased land, and still in the possession of the tenant and undivided, gives the mortgagee a right paramount to that of the creditors of the mortgagor under garnishment proceedings subsequent to the mortgage. Riddle v. Dow, 98 Iowa, 7, 66 N. W. 1066, 32 L.R.A. 811.

However, a lien may be given to a second mortgagee and to a receiver of a corporation for money advanced to pay interest on the first mortgage and taxes, as against attachment creditors of the corporation. Dummer v. Smedley, 110 Mich. 466, 68 N. W. 260, 38 L.R.A. 490.

In Jackson v. Lawrence, 117 U. S. 679, 29 L. ed. 1024, 6 S. Ct. 915, where land was conveyed to a person as security for the payment of a promissory note, conditioned that upon default in payment the grantee had the right to sell the premises conveyed, the court held that the transaction was in the nature of a mortgage, and a purchaser of the land upon default of the mortgagor took the same free from the claims of an attaching creditor of the mortgagor, for the attachment was subject to the right of the grantee or mortgagee to sell in default of the payment of the note, as it would have been the latter's right to foreclose a mortgage given in the usual form.

As to priority between mortgage and subsequent attachment in another state to which mortgaged property has been removed, see CHATTEL MORTGAGES [Also 5 R. C. L. p. 399, § 21].

[15] First Nat. Bank v. Harkness, 42 W. Va. 156, 24 S. E. 548, 32 L.R.A. 408.

Where property has been pledged for the payment of a sum of money, an attachment subsequently issued is not entitled to priority over the pledge. First Nat. Bank v. Harkness, 42 W. Va. 156, 24 S. E. 548, 32 L.R.A. 408.

[16] Southern Flour & Grain Co. v. Northern P. R. Co. 127 Ga. 626, 56 S. E. 742, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 853, 9 Ann. Cas. 437.

[17] Lewis v. McCabe, 49 Conn. 141, 44 Am. Rep. 217; Cleveland Mach. Works v. Lang, 67 N. H. 348, 31 A. 20, 68 Am. St. Rep. 675; Armington v. Houston, 38 Vt. 448, 91 Am. Dec. 366; Wiedenbeck-Dobelin Co. v. Anderson, 168 Wis. 212, 169 N. W. 615, 12 A.L.R. 500.

A levy on property sold conditionally, under a judgment against the conditional vendee, is ineffectual against the vendor's assignee for value of the conditional sales contract, who took possession of the property before the rights of the creditor attached. Wiedenbeck-Dobelin Co. v. Anderson, 168 Wis. 212, 169 N. W. 615, 12 A.L.R. 500.

A contract for a conditional sale of chattels in one state, executed therein and valid by its laws, is valid as against the attaching creditors of the buyer in another state, to which the property has subsequently been removed. Cleveland Mach. Works v. Lang, 67 N. H. 348, 31 A. 20, 68 Am. St. Rep. 675.

However, the conditional vendor of an automobile has no right of possession thereto as against a sheriff who takes the same into his possession under an attachment issued in an action begun by a creditor of the vendee before the date upon which the first deferred payment specified in the contract becomes due. Nevada Motor Co. v. Bream, 51 Nev. 89, 269 P. 602, 61 A.L.R. 776.

A conditional sales contract is invalid as to attaching creditors where the property purported to be covered is described only as "one ten foot Oliver Gold Digger One Way Plow," and no other facts are contained in the body of the instrument from which the identity of the plow may be definitely ascertained, such as the name of the person in whose possession it is, or its location, save as it may be inferred that it is located in the filing district. Hart v. Oliver Farm Equipment Sales Co. (Hart v. Thompson) 37 N. M. 267, 21 P. (2d) 96, 87 A.L.R. 962.

Where goods are sold with an option to the purchaser to return them in whole or in part, there is an absolute sale, so that an attachment levied on them in an action against the purchaser prior to his exercising the right to return the goods is prior to any claims of the vendor arising after the exercise of the option by the buyer. Hotchkiss v. Higgins, 52 Conn. 205, 52 Am. Rep. 582.

[18] Although a chattel mortgage is prior to an attachment, the mortgagee may waive his priority and the attachment will not only be prior to that mortgage but also to mortgages subsequently issued. Hoyt v. Clemans, 167 Iowa, 330, 149 N. W. 442, L.R.A.1915C, 166; Tollerton & S. Co. v. Skelton, 118 Iowa, 543, 92 N. W. 651, 96 Am. St. Rep. 409. Annotation: L.R.A.1915C, 166.

It has been held that a chattel mortgagee, by consenting to a sale of the property by the mortgagor and the application of the proceeds to the latter's own use (the proceeds being deposited in a bank in the name of bondsmen of the mortgagor in a replevin action by a prior mortgagee of the property), waives his lien, so that the balance of the proceeds in the bank after satisfying the prior mortgage is subject to garnishment by a creditor of the mortgagor. Annotation: L.R.A.1915C, 169.

A transfer of the property subject to an attachment does not in any way affect the rights of the attachment creditor.[1]

§ 844. —Conveyance of Real Property.—At common law the owner of real property who conveys the same by a sufficient deed parts with his title absolutely, no record being necessary. The rule as to priority between claimants of the same title was found in the maxim, "prior in tempore, potior in jure." [2] In the absence, therefore, of a statute requiring a record, the holder of an unrecorded conveyance or mortgage has priority over a subsequent attaching creditor,[3] at least, a grantee who takes possession is so protected.[4]

§ 845. Validity of Conveyance, Pledge, or Bailment.—The rule that priority in time determines priority in right assumes that the mortgage, pledge, or bailment is valid; if the contract is invalid, as, for example, a chattel mortgage covering property which is not subject to mortgage, the attaching creditor acquires priority.[5] An incomplete assignment will not have priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment.[6]

If an unrecorded deed of real property is defective, the vendor still has an interest in the land capable of being attached, and if the land is attached and sold as his property, an innocent purchaser without notice takes a good title.[7] Likewise, where a deed is made with the intent to defraud creditors and is never passed to the pretended grantee, it has been held that it does not stand in the way of an attachment to be levied on the land by a creditor of the fraudulent vendor, and it is equally ineffectual to interfere with the title of a purchaser under a sale on the judgment rendered in the attachment action.[8] Similarly, a purchaser in foreclosure of a mortgage executed by the grantee under a deed, which is void as being to defraud creditors, takes the land subject to a prior attachment levied thereon by a creditor of the fraudulent grantor.[9]

§ 846. Effect of Retention of Possession of Personal Property.—At common law, an owner of personal property who retains possession of the property after he has sold and conveyed the same is, according to the general rule, held to have such indicia of title as enables him to pass title to a bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer. It is likewise subject to the claims of his creditors, and an attachment levied on such property while still in his possession has priority over the rights of his vendee.[10] The attaching creditor is considered as a purchaser for a valuable consideration, within the rule that of two purchasers of the same goods, he who first lawfully secures possession has the better title.[11]

---

[19] Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763.

Generally, as to rule that purely personal rights and obligations not constituting property are not attachable or garnishable, see Vol. 4, p. 690, §§ 215 et seq.

[1] Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858; Doe ex dem. Vaillant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549; Martinovich v. Marsicano, 150 Cal. 597, 89 P. 333, 119 Am. St. Rep. 254; Rollins v. Shaver Wagon & Carriage Co. 80 Iowa, 380, 45 N. W. 1037, 20 Am. St. Rep. 427; Goff v. McLain, 48 W. Va. 445, 37 S. E. 566, 86 Am. St. Rep. 64.

The transfer of his real estate by a debtor against whom an attachment has been issued, and before judgment or decree, whether by his own act or by operation of law, cannot impair or invalidate the title of a purchaser under such decree or judgment. Doe ex dem. Vaillant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549.

Purchasers of property after seizure under a writ of attachment and pending the suit in which it was issued take the title subject to the rights of the attaching creditor. Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858.

[2] Deeds were not required by the English law to be registered or recorded except with respect to the enrolment of deeds of bargain and sale.

[3] Russell v. Bohlin, 200 Ala. 525, 76 So. 851, citing R. C. L.

[4] Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381.

[5] Holt v. Lucas, 77 Kan. 710, 96 P. 30, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 203, 127 Am. St. Rep. 459.

[6] Baer v. English, 84 Ga. 403, 11 S. E. 453, 20 Am. St. Rep. 372.

Where the acceptance of a bill of exchange, to be binding, must be made in writing, it has been held that an oral promise to pay so much of it as may be found to be due, made by the drawee, will not act as an equitable assignment to the payee, so as to prevent other creditors of the drawer from securing the debt by garnishment against the drawee before the bill is accepted in writing or paid to the amount of the debt due. Baer v. English, 84 Ga. 403, 11 S. E. 453, 20 Am. St. Rep. 372.

[7] Paine v. Mooreland, 15 Ohio, 435, 45 Am Dec. 585.

[8] Thompson v. Baker, 141 U. S. 648, 35 L. ed. 889, 12 S. Ct. 89.

[9] Ibid.

§ 847. Effect of Filing or Recording Laws Relating to Personalty.—Statutes have now been generally enacted requiring either a change of possession or a record of the conveyance or encumbrance of personal property in order to make it valid against certain persons variously designated in the different statutes, as, for instance, subsequent purchasers, encumbrancers, creditors, etc. It is usually, although not invariably, a condition of such protection that the party attacking the unrecorded conveyance be without notice thereof. For an attaching or garnishing creditor to be protected against an unrecorded conveyance, it is essential, first, that he fall within the class enumerated by the statute, and second, that he meet the condition which is usually, although not invariably, contained in these statutes,—viz., that he be without notice.[12] Transfers not within the statute are not affected by it.[13]

§ 848. —Effect of Change of Possession.—A transfer of the possession of personal property to the transferee, mortgagee, etc., is generally held to obviate the necessity of filing or recording. The rights of the buyer of personal property or of the chattel mortgagee, to whom the property is thus transferred, are superior to those of a subsequent attaching creditor.[14] This is true, according to some authorities, even though the change of possession does not take place at the time of sale, if it does take place thereafter and before the levy of the attachment.[15] Some statutes have been construed to render absolutely void, as against creditors, any sale of goods and chattels, where a change in the possession was not substantially contemporaneous with the sale. In jurisdictions where such a rule prevails, a change in the possession sometime after the sale, although prior to the attachment of any liens upon the property in favor of the creditors of the seller, does not cure the invalidity, and hence the property is subject to the seller's creditors, although at the time it is in the hands of the buyer.[16]

---

[10] W. P. Chamberlain Co. v. Tuttle, 75 N. H. 171, 71 A. 865, 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604.

Annotation: 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604.

See Sales [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 50, § 313], where the majority and minority rules are discussed.

[11] Bridgham v. Hinds, 120 Me. 444, 115 A. 197, 21 A.L.R. 1024.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 1031.

In Lanfear v. Sumner, 17 Mass. 110, 9 Am. Dec. 119, it was said that the general rule is well established that the delivery of possession is necessary in a conveyance of chattels, as against everyone but the vendor, that when the same goods are sold to two different persons, by conveyances equally valid, he who first lawfully acquires the possession will hold them against the other, and that attaching creditors are to be considered as purchasers for a valuable consideration.

[12] There is no want of good faith in levying on property subject to a chattel mortgage as that of the mortgagor, if the mortgage is invalid as to the creditors. J. D. Best & Co. v. Wolf Co. 67 Colo. 42, 185 P. 371, 29 A.L.R. 899.

[13] Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605.

An assignment is not a chattel mortgage, requiring registration in order to be valid against the claim of another creditor subsequently proceeding by writ of attachment. Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605.

[14] Van Brunt v. Pike, 4 Gill (Md.) 270, 45 Am. Dec. 126.

A bona fide transfer of goods by a nonresident need not be recorded, as required by statute, to render it valid against subsequent attaching creditors, where there is actual or constructive delivery of the property. Van Brunt v. Pike, 4 Gill (Md.) 270, 45 Am. Dec. 126.

[15] Shumway v. Rutter, 8 Pick. (Mass.) 443, 19 Am. Dec. 340; Western Min. Supply Co. v. Quinn, 40 Mont. 156, 105 P. 732, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 214, 135 Am. St. Rep. 612, 20 Ann. Cas. 173.

Annotation: 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 214, 215; 20 Ann. Cas. 176.

See Chattel Mortgages [Also 5 R. C. L. p. 416, § 44].

§ 849. —Effect of Failure to Comply with Filing or Recording Laws. — Failure on the part of a chattel mortgagee, conditional seller, pledgee, or bailee to comply with any statute there may be as to filing or recording invalidates such instrument as against an attaching creditor where such creditor is within the meaning of the filing or recording law. The attachment creates a superior lien in such cases.[17] The attachment also creates a superior lien where the recording of the mortgage, conditional sale, pledge, or bailment is substantially defective.[18] Accordingly, the recording of an instrument having an insufficient description[19] or of one in the wrong place[20] is of no effect; it constitutes no record, and the attaching creditor acquires priority.

§ 850. —Effect of Notice of Unrecorded Instrument.—The protection of the recording laws is conditioned under some statutes upon the fact that the person seeking such protection is without notice of the unrecorded or unfiled instrument.[1] Under such a statute, an attaching creditor with notice does not acquire priority over the prior unrecorded instrument.[2] But if the protection of the statute is not conditioned on the attaching creditor being without notice, the fact that he has notice does not defeat his priority.[3]

§ 851. —Under Statutes Giving No Protection to Attaching Creditors.— If the attaching creditor is not within the protection of the recording laws—that is, does not belong to a class mentioned therein—he cannot obtain priority because of the failure to comply with such laws.[4] When at-

---

[16] Chenery v. Palmer, 6 Cal. 119, 65 Am. Dec. 493.

Annotation: 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 215; 20 Ann Cas. 176.

As to effect of recording chattel mortgage in giving priority over subsequent attachment in another state, see CHATTEL MORTGAGES [Also 5 R. C. L. p. 399, § 21].

[17] Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109 (construing the law of Illinois); Smead v. D. W. Chandler & Co. 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066, 65 L.R.A. 353; Vines v. Sparks, 148 Miss. 219, 114 So. 322, citing R. C. L.

[18] J. D. Best & Co. v. Wolf Co. 67 Colo. 42, 185 P. 371, 29 A.L.R. 899 (improperly acknowledged); Southern Iron & Equipment Co. v. Voyles, 138 Ga. 258, 75 S. E. 248, 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 375, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 369 (notary who took acknowledgment disqualified).

[19] Hart v. Oliver Farm Equipment Sales Co. (Hart v. Thompson) 37 N. M. 267, 21 P. (2d) 96, 87 A.L.R. 962.

[20] McFadden v. Blocker, 2 Ind. Terr. 260, 48 S. W. 1043, 58 L.R.A. 878.

[1] See RECORDS AND RECORDING LAWS [Also 23 R. C. L. p. 170, § 24].

[2] Allen v. McCalla, 25 Iowa, 464, 96 Am. Dec. 56.

Attaching creditors who had actual knowledge of the existence of a mortgage covering the property attached before suing out the attachment acquired no property rights therein by virtue of a default judgment in the attachment suit in their favor and against their judgment debtor, of which they were deprived without due process of law by the Act of February 3, 1897, validating mortgages recorded like the one in question, which enactment went into effect while the issue in such attachment suit between the attaching creditors and the mortgagees, who had intervened claiming the property, was still pending and undetermined. McFaddin v. Evans-Snider-Buel Co. 185 U. S. 505, 46 L. ed. 1012, 22 S. Ct. 758.

[3] Under a statute requiring the recording of a chattel mortgage for validity against the rights of a third person, unless the property is delivered to the mortgagee, it has been held that if the mortgage cannot be acknowledged in the manner required by the act, there is no way of making it effective except to deliver the property, and that even actual notice of the mortgage to the creditor, if it is not properly recorded, will not prevent him from attaching and holding the property. Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109.

[4] Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. Horace E. Frick Co. (Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. People's Nat. Bank) 221 N. Y. 1, 116 N. E. 369, L.R.A.1917F, 1123.

In Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. Horace E. Frick Co. (Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. People's Nat. Bank) 221 N. Y. 1, 116 N. E. 369, L.R.A.1917F, 1123, it was held that a provision of the Mechantaching creditors are within such protection depends upon the wording of the statute. A statute invalidating the unrecorded mortgage against the rights and interest of any third person or persons invalidates it as against an attaching creditor.[5]

§ 852. Effect of Filing or Recording Laws Relating to Realty.—Recording statutes vary in their provisions in the different states, but in general, they provide that an unrecorded deed of real property or mortgage of the same shall be effectual against certain classes of persons, usually subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers and, less generally, creditors, unless the deed or mortgage is recorded. It is quite a common condition of the protection of the classes designated in the statute that they be without notice of the prior conveyance or mortgage. Two questions arise under these statutes. The first is whether attaching creditors are of the class of persons protected against a prior unrecorded conveyance. This depends upon the terms of the statute. The next two succeeding sections discuss the construction of typical statutes. The second question, assuming that attaching creditors are within the protection of the statute, is, has the creditor in the particular case met the conditions imposed by the statute, usually that he be without notice of the unrecorded transfer, and sometimes that he be a person who has paid value for his right or interest.

§ 853. —Unrecorded Instruments under Statutes Not Protecting Attaching or Garnishing Creditors.—If the attaching creditor is not within the class designated by the statute for protection against the unrecorded conveyance, the unrecorded conveyance takes priority over the attachment.[6] Whether or not an attaching creditor is within the protection of the statute depends upon the wording thereof. Such creditor is generally held not to be within the protection of statutes avoiding the unrecorded conveyance in favor of subsequent purchasers, lessees, and mortgagees, or even judgment creditors.[7] It is also held that he is not within the protection of a statute making the unrecorded conveyance inferior against purchasers and creditors where, from the context, it is clear that creditors are not within its contemplation.[8] And it has been held that the unrecorded instrument will prevail over the subsequent attachment even under a statute declaring that the unrecorded instrument shall not be valid except between "the parties thereto and such as have actual notice thereof."[9]

An attaching creditor, though not entitled to protection as a "creditor," may, upon purchasing the property at a sale under his attachment proceeding, assume a new rôle—namely, that of purchaser. The right to protection as a purchaser depends upon the status at the time he becomes such. If before such purchase the unrecorded deed or mortgage has been recorded, he is bound to take notice thereof and his rights are inferior to those of the ic's Lien Law, that no assignment by a building contractor of funds due under the contract should be valid unless recorded, did not apply in favor of a subsequent attaching creditor of the contractor.

---

[5] J. D. Best & Co. v. Wolf Co. 67 Colo. 42, 185 P. 371, 29 A.L.R. 899; Southern Iron & Equipment Co. v. Voyles, 138 Ga. 258, 75 S. E. 248, 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 375, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 369.

[6] A. J. Minor Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 91 Neb. 93, 135 N. W. 429, L.R.A.1918A, 1088; Mahoney v. Salsburg, 83 Neb. 488, 120 N. W. 144, 131 Am. St. Rep. 647; Seeley v. Goodwin, 39 Nev. 315, 156 P. 934, citing R. C. L.

[7] Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1090.

[8] A. J. Minor Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 91 Neb. 93, 135 N. W. 429, L.R.A.1918A, 1088; Mahoney v. Salsburg, 83 Neb. 488, 120 N. W. 144, 13 Am. St. Rep. 647.
Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1091.

[9] Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1091.

grantee or mortgagee.[10] Moreover, the view has been taken that an attaching creditor whose claim is an antecedent debt and who becomes a purchaser on such consideration is not a bona fide purchaser within the meaning of the recording laws confining their protection to such purchasers.[11]

§ 854. —Unrecorded Instruments under Statutes Giving Protection to Attaching or Garnishing Creditors.—If an attaching creditor is of the class protected by the statute against an unrecorded conveyance, then he is protected. In other words, his attachment has priority over the unrecorded conveyance, provided he meets the other conditions of the statute, such as that he be without notice.[12] An attaching creditor has been held to be within the class protected by a statute declaring that deeds and other instruments shall take effect from and after the filing thereof for record in such office, and not before, "as to subsequent bona fide purchasers and encumbrancers by mortgage, judgment, or otherwise, not having notice thereof,"[13] or as to all creditors and subsequent purchasers without notice; and all such deeds and title papers shall be adjudged void until the same shall be filed for record.[14] The creditor is also protected under a statute providing that no conveyance or deed shall be effectual to hold lands against any other person but the grantor and his heirs unless recorded,[15] and also under a statute which does not invalidate the unrecorded deed as between the parties, but makes notice to subsequent purchasers and creditors the sole object of recording the conveyances.[16] Some statutes expressly mention attachment creditors as the subject of protection; and under such a statute, it is obvious that the creditor is protected against the unrecorded conveyance.[17]

§ 855. —Effect of Knowledge or Notice of Unrecorded Conveyance. — An attaching creditor who has notice of a prior unrecorded deed or conveyance by his debtor is not protected against the unrecorded conveyance, but takes subject thereto under statute, making it a condition of the protection afforded by the recording act that he be without notice.[18] Notice acquired after the levy of the attachment and the acquisition of a lien to buy does not defeat the priority.[19] While notice of an unrecorded deed may destroy the legal effect of an attachment levied on land as belonging to the grantor, knowledge of an intent to convey will not produce this result.[20]

---

[10] Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381; A. J. Minor Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 91 Neb. 93, 135 N. W. 429, L.R.A.1918A, 1088; Mahoney v. Salsburg, 83 Neb. 488, 120 N. W. 144, 13 Am. St. Rep. 647.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1091.

If, however, a mortgagee withholds a trust deed from record until after a deed based upon attachment proceedings has been recorded, his lien would, by the operation of the recording act, be postponed and subsequent to that of the purchaser at sheriff's sale. A. J. Minor Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 91 Neb. 93, 135 N. W. 429, L.R.A.1918A, 1088.

[11] Shirk v. Thomas, 121 Ind. 147, 22 N. E. 976, 16 Am. St. Rep. 381.

[12] Thomas v. Burnett, 128 Ill. 37, 21 N. E. 352, 4 L.R.A. 222; Haines v. Connell, 48 Or. 469, 87 P. 265, 88 P. 872, 120 Am. St. Rep. 835.

[13] Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1094.

[14] Thomas v. Burnett, 128 Ill. 37, 21 N. E. 352, 4 L.R.A. 222.

[15] Carter v. Champion, 8 Conn. 549, 21 Am. Dec. 695; Cushing v. Hurd, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 253, 16 Am. Dec. 335; Priest v. Rice, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 164, 11 Am. Dec. 156 (rule not applied, as creditor had notice); Davis v. Blunt, 6 Mass. 486, 4 Am. Dec. 168 (rule not applied, as creditor had notice); Farnsworth v. Childs, 4 Mass. 637, 3 Am. Dec. 249.

Where the statute provides: "No title or estate in fee simple . . . shall be defeated or encumbered by any bond or other deed, or instrument of defeasance, in the hands or possesion of any person but the original party to such bond, deed, or other instrument or his heirs, unless such bond, deed, or other instrument of defeasance, be recorded . . .," the attaching creditor is protected. McLaughlin v. Shepherd, 32 Me. 143, 52 Am. Dec. 646; Roberts v. Bourne, 23 Me. 165, 39 Am. Dec. 614.

As to effect of possession, however, see infra, § 856.

[16] Bigelow v. Topliff, 25 Vt. 273, 60 Am. Dec. 264 (rule not applied, as conveyance was sufficiently recorded).

[17] Lyman v. Gaar, S. & Co. 75 Minn. 207, 77 N. W. 828, 74 Am. St. Rep. 452 (rule not applied, as attachment defendant had no title of record); Jennings v. Lentz, 50 Or. 483, 93 P. 327, 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 584 (rule not applied, as deed to attachment debtor, as well as deed from him, was unrecorded); Haines v. Connell, 48 Or. 469, 87 P. 265, 88 P. 872, 120 Am. St. Rep. 835.

[18] Priest v. Rice, 1 Pick. (Mass.) 164, 11

§ 856. —Effect of Possession by Grantee or Mortgagee.—Possession by the grantee under an unrecorded deed is regarded as notice to the world of his interest, so that an attaching creditor of the grantor cannot thereafter acquire priority under statutes conditioning protection upon the lack of notice.[1] Possession by a tenant of the grantee is equivalent to possession by the grantee.[2]

§ 857. —Effect of Conveyance as Security for Future Advances.—It is well settled that a mortgage on land properly recorded is entitled to priority over a subsequent attachment on the same land; but where land subject to a mortgage given to secure future advances is attached, the attachment is entitled to priority over the lien of the mortgagee in respect of instalments paid after the levy.[3]

§ 858. —Effect of Title in Another.—A conveyance is void as against attaching and judgment creditors only when the attachment or judgment is against the person in whose name the title to the land appears of record. Hence, where a judgment creditor attaches land to which the judgment debtor never had any title of record, his only interest being under a contract of purchase which had been previously assigned, the judgment creditor acquires no interest as against the assignee of the contract of purchase.[4]

§ 859. Priority as to Subsequent Assignment or Assignment between First or Second Attachments.—An attachment or garnishment does not divest the defendant of title to his property, and he can sell it subject to the attachment or garnishment.[5] It has been held that if he can, without a trespass, make actual delivery of the attached property, a sale with such delivery takes precedence over a subsequent attachment.[6] Likewise, a debtor may assign an attached or garnished debt subject to the attachment or garnishment,[7] and such assignment will have priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment.[8] Nevertheless, a prorating attachment or garnishment statute[9]

Am. Dec. 156; Hope v. Blair, 105 Mo. 85, 16 S. W. 595, 24 Am. St. Rep. 366.

[19] Carter v. Champion, 8 Conn. 549, 21 Am. Dec. 695; Thomas v. Burnett, 128 Ill. 37, 21 N. E. 352, 4 L.R.A. 222.

[20] Cushing v. Hurd, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 253, 16 Am. Dec. 335.

[1] Thomas v. Burnett, 128 Ill. 37, 21 N. E. 352, 4 L.R.A. 222.
Annotation: 4 L.R.A. 222.

[2] Thomas v. Burnett, 128 Ill. 37, 21 N. E. 352, 4 L.R.A. 222.
It has been held that a grantor's attaching creditor has constructive notice of the grantee's rights under an unrecorded deed of land improved and fenced where the grantee has taken possession of the land by his agent, who has kept the place in repair and rented it as that of the grantee to tenants who raised a crop and retained possession until the end of the term, notwithstanding a short time before the attachment they had surrendered the premises and other tenants had not yet been found and placed in possession. Thomas v. Burnett, 128 Ill. 37, 21 N. E. 352, 4 L.R.A. 222.

[3] Dummer v. Smedley, 110 Mich. 466, 68 N. W. 260, 38 L.R.A. 490.
Attachments levied on the property of a mortgagor subsequently to the execution of the mortgage are properly given priority over money afterwards paid over on the security of the mortgage in accordance with the agreement under which it was executed. Dummer v. Smedley, 110 Mich. 466, 68 N. W. 260, 38 L.R.A. 490.

[4] Lyman v. Gaar, S. & Co. 75 Minn. 207, 77 N. W. 828, 74 Am. St. Rep. 452.
Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1089.

[5] See supra, § 824.

[6] Fettyplace v. Dutch, 13 Pick. (Mass.) 388, 23 Am. Dec. 688.

[7] See supra, § 824.

[8] Yates v. Terry [1902] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 527, 5 B. R. C. 446.
Annotation: 5 B. R. C. 450.

[9] See supra, § 842.

may give the creditor proceeding under the second garnishment a right to prorate under the first garnishment which will have priority over the intervening assignment. Notwithstanding such statute, if the first garnishing creditor fails in his action or dismisses his suit, subsequent attaching or garnishing creditors will lose the benefit of the right to prorate under the first attachment or garnishment and will take subject to the intervening lien.[10]

§ 860. Priority between Attachment or Garnishment and Fraudulent Conveyance; Effect of Participation of Purchaser in Fraud.—Generally, the right of a creditor to attach property fraudulently conveyed is recognized.[11] It has been held [12] and denied [13] that in order to establish a conveyance as fraudulent for the purpose of sustaining an attachment or garnishment, it must be shown that the purchaser participated in the fraud. Undoubtedly, the attachment or garnishment will be sustained where he did participate in the fraud.[14] Thus, a purchase of property under circumstances which must have suggested to the purchaser that the object of the vendor was to dispose of his property for value before it could be attached or seized under a judgment recently obtained is invalid as against the judgment debtor. For example, a bill of sale or deed is invalid as a fraud upon creditors when taken at a time when an attachment has been levied on the vendor's stock and his career as a merchant is practically closed, and the vendee knows that there are other creditors and the consideration consists of legal services, most of which has been earned in the litigation accruing out of the transaction.[15] So, a transfer of property easily separable from a much larger quantity than is necessary to pay the debt in payment of which it is given will support an attachment of the property transferred when the creditor was privy to the fraudulent design.[16] But a conveyance at a time when the writ of attachment against the property of the grantor was in the hands of the sheriff, of the issuing of which the grantee had no knowledge and which was never levied, is not rendered fraudulent by such attachment proceeding.[17] Likewise, an innocent purchaser for value from a fraudulent grantee who purchased subsequent to an attachment of all the original grantor's interest in real estate, which such original grantor had conveyed to the fraudulent grantee by deed recorded before the attachment, is not put upon notice and inquiry as to such previous transaction. Similarly, the mere knowledge of a purchaser of the fact that the sheriff was seeking to subject the property purchased to the satisfaction of execution in his hands would not of itself invalidate the purchase. But if he purchased with a view to defeat the remedy of creditors in relation to the goods purchased, it would be invalid, even though he gave a fair price.[18]

An assignment for the benefit of creditors, with fraudulent intent on the part of the assignor, but without such intent on the part of the trustee, constitutes ground for attachment of the assigned property.[19]

---

[10] Annotation: 5 B. R. C. 450.

[11] See Vol. 4, p. 694, §§ 222; p. 700, § 230.

[12] Ludlow Sav. Bank & T. Co. v. Knight, 92 Vt. 171, 102 A. 51, 2 A.L.R. 1433.

Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 465; 5 Ann. Cas. 618.

To make a conveyance for a valuable consideration fraudulent as against creditors, there must be a fraudulent intent on the part of both the grantor and grantee. Ludlow Sav. Bank & T. Co. v. Knight, 92 Vt. 171, 102 A. 51, 2 A.L.R. 1433.

[13] Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 465; 5 Ann. Cas. 618.

[14] Ludlow Sav. Bank & T. Co. v. Knight, 92 Vt. 171, 102 A. 51, 2 A.L.R. 1433.

Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 465; 5 Ann. Cas. 618.

[15] Annotation: 32 L.R.A. 61.

[16] Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 465.

[17] Lowry v. Howard, 35 Ind. 170, 9 Am. Rep. 676.

[18] Annotation: 32 L.R.A. 61.

§ 861. Priority as to Equitable Assignment.—An equitable assignment is as effective as a legal assignment in defeating a subsequent attachment or garnishment.[20] For example, it has been held that if the principal debtor gives an order to another for the money due, the assent of the garnishee is not necessary to the operation of such order as an equitable transfer of the fund and, consequently, as a defense in garnishment proceedings.[1] An order by a creditor upon his debtor, where it is for the full amount of the demand and for a valuable consideration, may constitute an equitable assignment sufficient to have priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment, although it is not available as a bill of exchange for want of a written acceptance.[2] And there is authority to the effect that an order given on a debtor for the payment to the person in whose favor the order is drawn of a debt then existing, or in potential existence, though not accepted, takes precedence over a subsequent garnishment of the same debt.[3]

§ 862. Priority as to Negotiable Document of Title Such as Warehouse Receipt.[4]—Priority between an attachment or garnishment of bailed property and a warehouse receipt or other negotiable document of title issued for the same depends upon whether or not the attachment or garnishment preceded the issuance of the negotiable document.[5]

§ 863. Priority as to Option to Purchase.—While it may be that for some purposes an equitable conversion effected by an election to exercise an option to buy will relate back to the date of the contract—a question, it may be observed, on which the authorities are in conflict—yet it cannot operate to dissolve an attachment levied on land prior to such election and while the grantor retains the ownership.[6] But the view has been taken that a contract granting an option to purchase, when duly recorded, is sufficient to put creditors of the grantor on inquiry, that they are bound to inquire whether the election has been made, and that upon giving notice of his election to purchase, the holder of the option has an equitable interest in the land which relates back to the date of the contract.[7]

---

[19] Annotation: 30 L.R.A. 465.

[20] Canterbury v. Marengo Abstract Co. 166 Ala. 231, 52 So. 388, 139 Am. St. Rep. 30; Wheatley v. Strobe, 12 Cal. 92, 73 Am. Dec. 522; Walton v. Horkan, 112 Ga. 814, 38 S. E. 105, 81 Am. St. Rep. 77; Harlow v. Bartlett, 96 Me. 294, 52 A. 638, 90 Am. St. Rep. 346; Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 47 L.R.A. 737, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586; Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260; Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763; Campbell v. Hutchinson Lumber Co. 106 W. Va. 142, 145 S. E. 160, citing R. C. L.; Dillman v. Carlin, 105 Wis. 14, 80 N. W. 932, 76 Am. St. Rep. 902.

Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1321; 76 Am. St. Rep. 904; 94 Am. St. Rep. 28.

Rights under garnishment are subordinate to a good, pre-existing equitable assignment, although the latter is not perfect at law. Canterbury v. Marengo Abstract Co. 166 Ala. 231, 52 So. 388, 139 Am. St. Rep. 30; Campbell v. Hutchinson Lumber Co. 106 W. Va. 142, 145 S. E. 160, citing R. C. L.

[1] Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 47 L.R.A. 737, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586.

Where one gives an order to his attorney to pay to a third party the amount of a claim placed in his hands for collection, such amount will not subsequently be liable to attachment for the debt of the drawer, even though the order is not accepted by the drawee, as an equitable assignment made on valuable, or even good, consideration will always be executed by a chancellor. Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260.

As to rule under Negotiable Instrument Act, see infra, § 867.

[2] Wheatley v. Strobe, 12 Cal. 92, 73 Am. Dec. 522.

[3] Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 47 L.R.A. 737, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586; Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. St. Rep. 763.

[4] Generally as to priority between rights on negotiable instruments and attachment or garnishment of same, see infra, § 868.

[5] In Union Trust Co. v. Wilson, 198 U. S. 530, 49 L. ed. 1154, 25 S. Ct. 766, the court held that the storing of goods with a warehouse company, whereby the bailor had full control of the property, with full and exclusive access to the place of its custody, constituted the bailee a public warehouse company, and that the indorsement of a receipt, issued by the warehouseman, to a third person as security for loans made to the bailor was a valid pledge of the property as good as against subsequent attachment creditors of the owner.

The issuance of a negotiable warehouse receipt after the property has been attached cannot affect the lien of the attachment. International Bedding Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co. 146 Md. 479, 126 A. 902, 40 A.L.R. 960.

b. Priority as to Assignment of Intangibles and Choses in Action

§ 864. Generally.—The general rule is that priority between an attachment or garnishment and an assignment of a chose in action depends upon priority in time.[8] Accordingly, a prior assignee in good faith and for value of an equity of redemption has priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment of the same.[9]

An assignee of property which has been garnished in the hands of a bailee is estopped after judgment to assert his claim against the garnishee, where he appeared and testified in the garnishment proceedings and had asked for more time to interplead, while the assignor was aware of the proceedings for three years before he made the assignment, although the assignee was not in fact made a party to it.[10]

§ 865. Wages.—The general rule, like that relating to the proceeds of general contracts, is that in the absence of a controlling statute to the contrary, an assignment of wages or salary earned or to be earned under an existing contract may be made, and that such an assignment, if for a valuable consideration, and with the assent of the employer, is valid as against, and entitled to priority over, a subsequent attachment or garnishment by a creditor of the assignor, the theory being that a creditor can be placed in no better position than the defendant by reason of garnishment proceedings, and that property validly assigned no longer belongs to the assignor, wherefore the garnishee can answer that he has nothing of the defendant's in his possession or, as it is sometimes stated, is not indebted to the defendant. The application of this theory will of itself preclude the garnishing of previously assigned wages, where such wages are, by the terms of the contract, payable in advance.[11]

---

[6] Sheehy v. Scott, 128 Iowa, 551, 104 N. W. 1139, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 365.

Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1321.

[7] Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 1321.

[8] Van Ness v. Hyatt, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 294, 10 L. ed. 168; Vanbuskirk v. Hartford F. Ins. Co. 14 Conn. 141, 36 Am. Dec. 473; Walter v. Whitlock, 9 Fla. 86, 76 Am. Dec. 607; Walton v. Horkan, 112 Ga. 814, 38 S. E. 105, 81 Am. St. Rep. 77; Woodward v. Brooks, 128 Ill. 222, 20 N. E. 685, 3 L.R.A. 702, 15 Am. St. Rep. 104; Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605; McAllister v. Brooks, 22 Me. 80, 38 Am. Dec. 282; McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Martin v. Potter, 11 Gray (Mass.) 37, 71 Am. Dec. 689; Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690; Muir v. Schenck, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 228, 38 Am. Dec. 633; Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A.1916E, 79; Phillips's Estate, 205 Pa. 525, 55 A. 216, 97 Am. St. Rep. 750; Noble v. Thompson Oil Co. 79 Pa. 354, 21 Am. Rep. 66; Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260; Dillingham v. Traders' Ins. Co. 120 Tenn. 302, 108 S. W. 1148, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 220; Clodfelter v. Cox, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 330, 60 Am. Dec. 157; Wolcott v. Mongeon, 88 Vt. 361, 92 A. 457; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 109; L.R.A.1916D, 367; L.R.A.1916E, 81.

[9] Van Ness v. Hyatt, 13 Pet. (U. S.) 294, 10 L. ed. 168.

[10] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

[11] Roesch v. W. B. Worthen Co. 95 Ark. 482, 130 S. W. 551, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 374.

Annotation: L.R.A.1916D, 367.

Failure of the holder of a note, to secure which the maker has assigned fees to be earned by him as a public officer, to credit the fees as they accrue will not prevent his holding them against a garnishee, if they are in the possession of the assignee. Roesch v. W. B. Worthen Co. 95 Ark. 482, 130 S. W. 551, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 374.

See also Vol. 4, p. 756, § 322.

§ 866. Judgments.—The assignment of a judgment is valid and effective to vest the title to it in the assignee so as to defeat a subsequent attachment or garnishment of the judgment debtor by a creditor of the assignor having no notice of the assignment before service of the garnishment.[12] Some cases take the extreme view that notice of an assignment of a judgment prior to an attachment or garnishment of the same is necessary to give the assignment priority in law over the attachment or garnishment.[13] Other cases take the opposite extreme view that an assignment has priority in law over a subsequent attachment or garnishment of the assigned judgment irrespective of any notice to the judgment debtor of the assignment.[14] However, the majority rule undoubtedly is that in order to preserve the priority of an assignment of a judgment over a subsequent garnishment of the same, notice of the assignment must be given to the judgment debtor either before or during the garnishment proceedings, the courts differing with respect to the time at which it must be given to have such effect.[15] Some cases hold that it is sufficient if given in time for the garnishee to disclose it in his answer in the garnishment proceedings.[16] Still others hold that it is in time if given before judgment or even before satisfaction, if the garnishee can still take steps to protect the interest of the assignee.[17]

§ 867. Funds on Deposit.—It is clear that an attachment or garnishment of funds on deposit has priority over a check or negotiable instrument subsequently given or accepted against the same.[18] Indeed, an assignment of a deposit in a savings bank made after the garnishment thereof gives the assignee no right to the dividends on such deposit accruing after service of the writ.[19] Whether or not an attachment or garnishment of a fund on deposit has priority over a check or negotiable instrument previously given or accepted against the same depends upon whether the giving or acceptance of the negotiable paper constitutes an assignment.[20] The weight of authority is to the effect that the garnishment of an ordinary deposit account after the giving of a check in the usual course of business, but before its presentation for payment, creates a lien upon the deposit superior to the rights of the payee of the check, under the rule that the giving of such a check does not amount to an equitable assignment of the funds drawn against.[21] This is the rule adopted by the

---

[12] Canterbury v. Marengo Abstract Co. 166 Ala. 231, 52 So. 388, 139 Am. St. Rep. 30; Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450; Scott v. Rohman, 43 Neb. 618, 62 N. W. 46, 47 Am. St. Rep. 767.

[13] Clodfelter v. Cox, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 330, 60 Am. Dec. 157 (not necessary to result).

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1027; 52 A.L.R. 122.

[14] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1024; 52 A.L.R. 109.

See also Brown v. Ayres, 33 Cal. 525, 91 Am. Dec. 655.

[15] Buckeye Ref. Co. v. Kelly, 163 Cal. 8, 124 P. 536, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 840; Houtz v. Daniels, 36 Idaho, 544, 211 P. 1088, 32 A.L.R. 1016.

See also Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, Gil. 205, 66 Am. Dec. 541; Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1025; 52 A.L.R. 110.

[16] Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1027; 52 A.L.R. 115.

In Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450, it was held that the assignment of a judgment was valid and effective to vest the title to it in the assignee, so as to defeat a garnishment of the judgment debtor by a judgment creditor of the assignor, where no notice was given to the garnishee of the assignment before service of the garnishment, but he had notice before he had answered in garnishment.

[17] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 117.

[18] Loewe v. Savings Bank (C. C. A. 2d) 236 F. 444, L.R.A.1917B, 938, affirmed in 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. ed. 360. 37 S. Ct. 172.

[19] Ibid.

[20] See Vol. 4, p. 720, § 258.

[21] Donohoe-Kelly Bkg. Co. v. Southern P. Co. 138 Cal. 183, 71 P. 93, 94 Am. St. Rep. 28; Kaesemeyer v. Smith, 22 Idaho, 1, 123 P. 943, 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 100; Love v. Ardmore Stock Exch. 5 Ind. Terr. 202, 82 S. W. 721, 67 L.R.A. 617, 5 Ann. Cas. 183; Clark

Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act.[1] But where the rule has been adopted that checks constitute assignments pro tanto of the funds drawn against, it is generally held that such checks and drafts are entitled to priority of payment as against the garnishing creditor, although neither accepted nor paid before the serving of the garnishment notice.[2]

§ 868. Negotiable Paper.—It is well settled that an attachment or garnishment is unavailing against a bona fide holder for value of negotiable paper, who obtains it before maturity and without notice.[3] The reason for this is the inapplicability of the doctrine of lis pendens to negotiable commercial paper before maturity.[4] The general rule that a negotiable bill or note is be-

---

v. Toronto Bank, 72 Kan. 1, 82 P. 582, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 83, 115 Am. St. Rep. 173; Bullard v. Randall, 1 Gray (Mass.) 605, 61 Am. Dec. 433; Wileman v. King, 120 Miss. 392, 82 So. 265, 5 A.L.R. 584; Commercial Bank v. Chilberg, 14 Wash. 247, 44 P. 264, 53 Am. St. Rep. 873.

Annotation: 5 A.L.R. 1668; 94 A.L.R. 1391; 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 101; 94 Am. St. Rep. 28; 5 Ann. Cas. 190.

Mere notice to the bank that a party holds a check, without presentment and demand, has been held not to work an assignment so as to give priority to the check as against a garnishment of the bank account. Bullard v. Randall, 1 Gray (Mass.) 605, 61 Am. Dec. 433.

An oral acceptance by an officer of the bank was held insufficient to work an assignment having priority over the attachment. Annotation: 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 101.

See also Vol. 4, p. 720, § 258.

[1] A check, of itself, does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder unless and until it accepts or certifies the check. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act, § 189.

[2] Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; Dillman v. Carlin, 105 Wis. 14, 80 N. W. 932, 76 Am. St. Rep. 902.

Annotation: 94 A.L.R. 1391; 43 L.R.A. (N.S.) 102; 76 Am. St. Rep. 904.

As to priority between an attachment and an order, where the order is regarded as an equitable assignment, although it is insufficient as a bill of exchange for want of acceptance, see supra, § 861.

[3] Generally, as to attachment or garnishment of negotiable paper, see Vol. 4, p. 721, §§ 259 et seq.

Questions of priority with respect to the attachment or garnishment of particular negotiable or commercial paper such as paper payable on demand or sight, certificates of deposit, drafts, bills of exchange, etc., have been discussed in connection with the sections of this article dealing with the attachment and garnishment of such paper generally. See Vol. 4, p. 735, §§ 284 et seq.

[4] Winston v. Westfeldt, 22 Ala. 760, 58 Am. Dec. 278; Mims v. West, 38 Ga. 18, 95 Am. Dec. 379; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690; Rice v. Jones, 103 N. C. 226, 9 S. E. 571, 14 Am. St. Rep. 801; Howe v. Hartness, 11 Ohio St. 449, 78 Am. Dec. 312; Day v. Zimmerman, 68 Pa. 72, 8 Am. Rep. 157; Ludlow v. Bingham, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 47, 1 L. ed. 736; Ayott v. Smith, 40 Vt. 532, 94 Am. Dec. 429.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 746; 14 Am. St. Rep. 809; 15 Ann. Cas. 980.

An attachment of the amount payable upon a negotiable promissory note indorsed in blank and in commercial form by service upon the maker while the defendant had possession, such note being afterwards transferred, before it matured, to a third person, without notice, for a full consideration, cannot stand. Ludlow v. Bingham, 4 Dall. (Pa.) 47, 1 L. ed. 736.

An attachment of a negotiable promissory note in the hands of the maker before its maturity, at the suit of a creditor of the payee, is worthless against a holder who acquired the paper in due course of business, in good faith, either before or after the attachment. Day v. Zimmerman, 68 Pa. 72, 8 Am. Rep. 157.

The general rule that the pendency of a litigation respecting real property is notice to all persons dealing with its subject, whether applicable or not to personal property in general, does not apply to transfers of negotiable paper before maturity. Winston v. Westfeldt, 22 Ala. 760, 58 Am. Dec. 278.

The Supreme Court of the United States has held that the rule requiring everyone to take notice of a pending litigation over the title to property he is about to buy from one of the litigants does not apply to commercial paper purchased before its maturity. Warren County v. Marcy, 97 U. S. 107, 24 L. ed. 981.

The reason for excepting negotiable paper from the operation of the lis pendens rule is to protect the commercial community by removing all obstacles to the free circulation of such paper, since if such paper, when regular upon its face, were to be subject to the possibility of a suit being pending between the original parties to it, its negotiability would be seriously affected, and innumerable commercial transactions would be checked. Warren County v. Marcy, 97 U. S. 107, 24 L. ed. 981.

It has never been questioned by any authority worthy of respect, where the law merchant prevails unaffected by legislation, that negotiable commercial paper, after it has passed, before maturity, from a defendant to another holder in good faith for value, cannot be subjected to attachment or garnishment. It has gone beyond the reach of these processes. Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 731.

However, under a statute providing for attachment of a negotiable promissory note, made and payable in the state, or the parties to which, at the time of making yond the reach of an attachment before it matures is subject to the exception that a voluntary transfer of it, or one fraudulently made intentionally to protect the payee from the claims of his creditors, leaves it open to attachment or garnishment while it is in the hands of the indorsee, because he is not a bona fide holder.[5] As a matter of procedure, it has been held that a transferee of a note, who receives notice of garnishment proceedings but fails to appear and assert his rights, is precluded from setting up his rights against the garnishee.[6] The lien of a pledgee of commercial paper pledged in good faith to secure an actual indebtedness takes precedence of the lien of a subsequent attachment; his right to the pledges and the money to be obtained by their means is paramount to the rights of other creditors of the pledgeor until the debt is paid, and is unaffected by garnishment.[7]

§ 869. —Necessity of Notice of Transfer to Garnishee to Protect Holder against Garnishment.—In the absence of a positive statute requiring it, no notice to the maker of a negotiable instrument of its transfer before its maturity is ever necessary to guard an indorsee against a later attachment of the paper as evidence of the maker's debt to a prior holder. One who acquires a negotiable promissory note in good faith, for value, and before maturity, is neither bound to anticipate subsequent attachment against a prior holder, nor required to give the maker any notice of the transfer to protect himself against a subsequent garnishment.[8] In other words, the rule that the assignee of a debt is entitled to its payment in preference to third persons who may have garnished the debtor only in case he has given previous notice to the debtor of the assignment of the debt[9] does not apply to debts due by negotiable commercial paper indorsed in blank and passing before maturity from holder to holder by mere delivery.[10]

§ 870. —Statutes Requiring Notice.—In the past there have been enacted statutes requiring indorsees of negotiable paper to give notice of their ownership to makers to protect themselves against attachments and garnishments of payees and indorsers. Such a statute has provided that all negotiable paper, whether unmatured or past due, may be attached by, and should be subject to, trustee process unless and until it is negotiated and notice of the negotiation is given to the maker or indorser before he is served with process.[11] the same, resided in the state, it was held that the purchaser before maturity of such a note took it subject to a previous attachment. Cox v. Severance, 70 N. H. 86, 46 A. 739, 85 Am. St. Rep. 602.

---

In determining what constitutes a transfer, in this connection, it has been held that a delivery of the instrument by the debtor to an agent for collection, with instructions to pay certain debts with the proceeds, does not pass the legal title to the note to the creditors whose debts are to be paid, so as to defeat garnishment proceedings against the debtor. Clark v. Cilley, 36 Ala. 652, 76 Am. Dec. 343.

[5] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 748.

An attaching creditor is entitled to have the question of the indorsee's good faith litigated. Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 748.

[6] Smoot v. Eslava, 23 Ala. 659, 58 Am. Dec. 310.

[7] Hall v. Page, 4 Ga. 428, 48 Am. Dec. 235.

As to rule that pledged commercial paper is not attachable or garnishable except as to surplus of proceeds over and above what is due on the pledge, see Vol. 4, p. 737, § 289.

[8] Sheets v. Culver, 14 La. 449, 33 Am. Dec. 593.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 743.

[9] See infra, §§ 874 et seq.

[10] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 746.

[11] Ayott v. Smith, 40 Vt. 532, 94 Am. Dec. 429; Emerson v. Patridge, 27 Vt. 8, 62 Am. Dec. 617.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 745; 62 Am. Dec. 617.

The Vermont statute subjected to the trustee process, as debts due the payees, all promissory notes, without exception, regardless of time or place of payment or convenience of the parties, until notice had been given to the makers that they had been transferred to other holders; it was held that under its operation, a bank which, in the usual course of business, had discounted a negotiable promissory note payable at its own banking house in the future, and had neglected to give notice to the maker of the change of ownership, held

Under such a statute a notice of transfer given to one of two makers of a joint and several negotiable promissory note has been held sufficient to give the indorsee a prior right to recover the sum due upon it over a creditor of the payee claiming under a subsequent attachment in virtue of trustee process served upon the other maker.[12]

§ 871. Mature and Non-negotiable Paper.—It has been decided that a bona fide indorsee for value of an overdue negotiable promissory note takes a good title to it and gains a right to recover the amount due upon it from the maker and indorser superior to an attachment or garnishment which was not served until after he had become the owner and holder of the paper.[13] Thus, the maker of a negotiable promissory note which has matured cannot be charged as garnishee of the payee unless it is shown affirmatively to have belonged to such payee when the writ was served.[14] This follows from the rule that a garnishment does not bind a garnishee who, at the time of the service of the writ upon him, is not indebted to the defendant.[15]

§ 872. —Necessity of Notice to Maker to Protect Indorsee against Garnishment.—With respect to the necessity for the holder of negotiable commercial paper, who acquires it after it has become payable and is dishonored, to notify the maker of its transfer in order to be protected against a subsequent attachment or garnishment, the courts are far from agreement. It is the general rule that negotiable commercial paper acquired after it is past due is subject to the same defenses as if it were not negotiable,[16] and it is certainly true that the maker of a promissory note payable to a defendant in attachment cannot be charged as trustee if it was transferred to another person before the service of the writ, and proper notice of such transfer was given to the maker, whether the note was or was not negotiable.[17] That it is necessary for the purchaser of commercial paper which has lost its negotiability in general by becoming overdue to notify the maker that he has acquired it in order to forestall an attachment or garnishment is a proposition that has been both denied and affirmed by the courts,[18] as it has been with respect to assignments of choses in action generally.[19]

§ 873. Corporate Stock.—It is generally held that in the absence of controlling statutes, a purchaser of shares of stock in a corporation for a valuable consideration is, in the absence of fraud, protected against a subsequent at-the paper subject to a trustee process served on the maker as the payee's debtor. Under that statute, too, it was held necessary that every transfer of a negotiable commercial instrument to a new holder should in turn be brought to the knowledge of the maker for the holder to be safe against attachments in actions against prior holders along the line. The statute afterwards was amended so as to exempt domestic banks which had discounted commercial paper from the necessity of notifying the makers in order to protect themselves from subsequent attachments by trustee processes, but the amendment was held not to extend to or cover negotiable promissory notes turned over to the banks as collateral securities for other discounts. Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 745.

---

Under this statute it has been held that negotiable paper transferred to a bank without the state may be garnished before notice of transfer, and such discrimination is not unconstitutional. Hawley v. Hurd, 72 Vt. 122, 47 A. 401, 52 L.R.A. 195, 82 Am. St. Rep. 922.

[12] Ayott v. Smith, 40 Vt. 532, 94 Am. Dec. 429.

[13] Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 743.

[14] Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

[15] See Vol. 4, p. 650, § 156; p. 652, § 161.

[16] See Bills and Notes [Also 3 R. C. L. p. 1045, §§ 250 et seq.]

[17] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 744.

[18] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 744.

[19] Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 464, 63 Am. Dec. 451 (holding notice must be given to garnishee in time for him to set it up in his answer).

Generally, as to when notice of assignment to debtor must be given to protect assignment against subsequent attachment or garnishment, see infra, §§ 876 et seq.

tachment or execution, issued against the vendor, although he has failed to have the transfer entered on the books of the corporation.[20] Thus, an attachment by a creditor of a stockholder of stock which has been pledged and transferred by indorsement and delivery as security for the payment of a debt, but the transfer of which was not entered on the books of the corporation, is valid only against the interest of the assignor therein after the debt had been paid.[1] Especially is this true where the attaching creditor has notice that the stock has been sold.[2] The trend of decisions is towards the view that notwithstanding statutes or by-laws requiring the registration of transfers of stock, an unregistered transferee acquires a good title as against an attaching or execution creditor of the transferrer.[3] However, in several states, under statutes which do not declare such transfers invalid between the parties, but merely declare that corporate stock is transferable only on the books of the corporation, it has been ruled that the mode must be followed in order to pass the title, and that a levy will prevail over a transfer not so made.[4] In a few instances it has been held to be a material question whether the attaching creditor has notice of the unregistered transfer.[5]

The courts are in substantial agreement in support of the holding that the true owner of stock placed in the name of another upon the books of the corporation has priority over the attachment or execution creditors of the latter, unless estopped to claim title by something more than the mere fact of permitting the shares to remain so registered. This, of course, assumes a statute as ordinarily worded. It is possible to legislate so as to change this rule.[6]

c. PRIORITY AS AFFECTED BY LACK OF NOTICE TO DEBTOR OF ASSIGNMENT

§ 874. Generally.—The effect of notice of assignment of a judgment or negotiable instrument on priority between the assignment and a subsequent attachment or garnishment has been noted in preceding sections.[7] Undoubtedly, where notice of a valid assignment is given the garnishee before a garnishment is served upon him, the assignment is complete and entitled to priority, and the garnishee admits indebtedness to the assignor at his peril.[8]

§ 875. Necessity of Notice.—A conflict of authority exists upon the necessity of notice to a debtor of an assignment of the debt in order to give the assignment priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment of the debt in an action against the assignor.[9] Some cases seem to take the broad general view that notice to the debtor is not essential for this purpose, or that the time of notice is immaterial.[10] According to this view, the function of notice would seem merely to be to protect the garnishee and to prevent him from paying the funds to those not entitled thereto.[11] The majority rule, however, is that such notice must be given to the debtor either before or during the garnishment proceedings, the cases differing as to the exact time that the notice must be given, in order to preserve the priority of the assignment over such a subsequent attachment or garnishment.[12] Of course, no notice to a maker or drawee of a negotiable instrument is necessary to protect an indorsee in good faith and for value against either a subsequent attachment or garnishment or a previous attachment or garnishment of which he has no notice.[13] However, mature and non-negotiable papers are generally treated in the same category as other choses in action in this respect.[14]

---

[20] National Bank v. Western P. R. Co. 157 Cal. 573, 108 P. 676, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 987, 21 Ann. Cas. 1391; Mapleton Bank v. Standrod, 8 Idaho, 740, 71 P. 119, 67 L.R.A. 656; Everitt v. Farmers & M. Bank, 82 Neb. 191, 117 N. W. 401, 118 N. W. 869, 20 L.R.A. (N.S.) 996.

Annotation: 67 L.R.A. 665; 21 Ann. Cas. 1395; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 428.

[1] Mapleton Bank v. Standrod, 8 Idaho, 740, 71 P. 119, 67 L.R.A. 656.

[2] Nicollet Nat. Bank v. City Bank, 38 Minn. 85, 35 N. W. 577, 8 Am. St. Rep. 643.

[3] Black v. Zacharie, 3 How. (U. S.) 483, 11 L. ed. 690; Bleakley v. Candler, 169 N. C. 16, 84 S. E. 1039, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 425.

Annotation: 67 L.R.A. 656; 21 Ann. Cas. 1395 (discussing statute and rule in different jurisdictions); Ann. Cas. 1917A, 428.

As to the rule that an attachment or garnishment has the effect of an assignment but not of a bona fide assignment for value, see supra, § 820.

[4] National Bank v. Western P. R. Co. 157 Cal. 573, 108 P. 676, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 987, 21 Ann. Cas. 1391; Young v. South Tredegar Iron Co. 85 Tenn. 189, 2 S. W. 202, 4 Am. St. Rep. 752.

[5] Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 1395.

[6] Gray v. Graham, 87 Conn. 601, 89 A. 262, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1159.

Annotation: 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1159.

One who places corporate stock in the name of another on the books of the corporation to qualify him as a director, retaining possession of the certificate himself, has priority over an attaching creditor of the latter who did not extend credit on the faith of the stock. Gray v. Graham, 87 Conn. 601, 89 A. 262, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1159.

One attaching stock which is placed in the name of a person on the books of the corporation to qualify him to act as a director, for the debt of the latter, cannot contest the title of the true owner to the stock, even where the statute requires directors to be bona fide stockholders, and the owner of the stock has aided in a violation of the statute. Gray v. Graham, 87 Conn. 601, 89 A. 262, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1159.

Annotation: 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1160.

[7] See supra, §§ 866, 869.

[8] Burditt Bros. v. Porter, 63 Vt. 296, 21 A. 955, 25 Am. Dec. 763.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 110; L.R.A.1916E, 82.

§ 876. —At Time of Garnishment.—The decisions adhering to the general doctrine that notice of an assignment of a chose in action must at some time be given to the debtor in order to preserve the priority of the assignment over a subsequent attachment or garnishment of the chose, are not readily classifiable as to the exact time before or during the garnishment proceedings that such notice must be given.[15] Unquestionably, notice to the garnishee of the assignment prior to the garnishment is sufficient to protect the assignment.[16] However, the general rule supported by the weight of authority is that such notice to the debtor prior to the service of process on him as garnishee is not essential to complete the assignment of the chose in action as regards priority between the assignee and a creditor of the assignor who subsequently attempts to garnish the debt, but that the assignee may be entitled to priority, notwithstanding at the time of the garnishment the debtor had no notice of the assignment.[17] Thus, where the assignee intervenes in the garnishment proceedings and claims under a prior assignment, it has been held that his claim is entitled to priority over the garnishment, although the garnishee had no notice of the assignment prior to, or at the time of, the levy of garnishment.[18] Moreover, where the statute expressly provides that a claimant by prior right may intervene in a garnishment proceeding, lack of notice to the garnishee will not defeat the priority of the assignment.[19] It has been said that the rule is founded upon the idea that the assignment of a chose in action gives to the assignee an equitable interest which a court of equity will protect.[20]

---

[9] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1024; 52 A.L.R. 109; L.R.A.1916E, 82.

See ASSIGNMENTS, Vol. 4, p. 225,

[10] Walton v. Horkan, 112 Ga. 814, 38 S. E. 105, 81 Am. St. Rep. 77 (holding generally, that even in the absence of notice, to the debtor of the assignment, the garnishing creditor will be postponed to the assignee, when the garnishment is served subsequent to the making of the assignment); Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450; Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A.1916E, 79 (holding that a plaintiff who causes a writ of attachment to be served upon the debtor of the defendant is not a purchaser for value, and therefore cannot take the debt as against a prior assignee thereof for value, who has not given notice to the debtor of his assignment).

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1024; 52 A.L.R. 109; L.R.A.1916E, 82.

A valid assignment unquestionably passes the title of the assignor without notice to the debtor; after the assignment the assignor has no interest to be reached by his creditor in any proceeding; as between rival claimants of what is in the hands of a garnishee, notice to the garnishee is not a matter for inquiry, their rights not depending on notice; and except as affected by the registry laws, a creditor can subject to legal process only the interest of his debtor, and his debtor has no interest in a chose in action which he has assigned before seizure by legal process. Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450; Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A.1916E, 79.

[11] Generally, as to necessity of notice of assignment to make garnishee liable to assignor, see supra, § 690.

[12] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1025; 52 A.L.R. 109; L.R.A.1916E, 82.

[13] See supra, § 869.

[14] See supra, § 872.

[15] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1025; 52 A.L.R. 109.

[16] See supra, § 874.

[17] Walters v. Whitlock, 9 Fla. 86, 76 Am. Dec. 607; Walton v. Horkan, 112 Ga. 814, 38 S. E. 105, 81 Am. St. Rep. 77; Woodward v. Brooks, 128 Ill. 222, 20 N. E. 685, 3 L.R.A. 702, 15 Am. St. Rep. 104; Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451 (dictum); Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605; McAllister v. Brooks, 22 Me. 80, 38 Am. Dec. 282; McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148

In a few states the courts apply what may be regarded as the minority rule —that is, that notice of an assignment prior to the service of a writ of garnishment by a bona fide creditor of the assignor is indispensable to the priority of the assignment over the garnishment.[1]

§ 877. —In Time for Garnishee to Disclose Assignment in Answer.—It seems well settled, according to the majority view, that where the garnishee receives notice of a prior assignment in time to set the same up in his answer or disclose it in the garnishment proceedings, the assignment is entitled to priority over the garnishment, even though notice of the assignment was not given until after the service of garnishment.[2] It has been said that if the right of the defendant has been transferred before the attachment issues, there is nothing for the plaintiff in the attachment to acquire; and if the garnishee has notice

---

Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Martin v. Potter, 11 Gray, 37, 71 Am. Dec. 689; Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450 (assignment of judgment); Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690; Muir v. Schenck, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 228, 38 Am. Dec. 633 (recognizing rule); Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A. 1916E, 79; Phillips's Estate, 205 Pa. 525, 55 A. 216, 97 Am. St. Rep. 750; Noble v. Thompson Oil Co. 79 Pa. 354, 21 Am. Rep. 66; Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 110.

[18] Market Nat. Bank v. Raspberry, 34 Okla. 243, 124 P. 758, L.R.A.1916E, 79; Nesmith v. Drum, 8 Watts & S. (Pa.) 9, 42 Am. Dec. 260.

[19] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 117.

[20] Schumann v. Bank of California, N. A. 114 Or. 336, 233 P. 860, 37 A.L.R. 1531.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 112.

[1] Vanbuskirk v. Hartford F. Ins. Co. 14 Conn. 141, 36 Am. Dec. 473 (notice not given until long after the attachment); Clodfelter v. Cox, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 330, 60 Am. Dec. 157 (holding, after admitting that the weight of American authority was to the contrary, that the one who first gave notice was entitled to priority, and therefore that an attachment by a creditor in the period intervening between the attachment and the notice thereof to the garnishee would have preference over the assignment); Dillingham v. Traders' Ins. Co. 120 Tenn. 302, 108 S. W. 1148, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 220 (same); Wolcott v. Mongeon, 88 Vt. 361, 92 A. 457; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 122.

The courts which apply the minority rule have in various instances done so on the theory that notice to the debtor is essential to the completion of the assignment, and that until such notice is given, he remains the debtor of the assignor, and therefore cannot be the debtor of the assignee, so as to entitle the latter to claim priority over a garnishing creditor who acquires the rights of the assignor; in other words, that until notice of the assignment is given to the debtor, he remains the debtor of the assignor, in consequence of which if garnishment is served prior to notice of the assignment, those rights still remain in the assignor which the garnishing creditor acquires by his proceeding, even though the assignment itself antedates the service of the garnishment. Dillingham v. Traders' Ins. Co. 120 Tenn. 302, 108 S. W. 1148, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 220; Clodfelter v. Cox, 1 Sneed (Tenn.) 330, 60 Am. Dec. 157. Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 122.

[2] Fenton v. Edwards, 126 Cal. 43, 58 P. 320, 46 L.R.A. 832, 77 Am. St. Rep. 141; Walter v. Whitlock, 9 Fla. 86, 76 Am. Dec. 607; Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605; Schoolfield v. Hirsh, 71 Miss. 55, 14 So. 528, 42 Am. St. Rep. 450; Muir v. Schenck, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 228, 38 Am. Dec. 633.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1024; 52 A.L.R. 115; L.R.A.1916E, 84.

The general rule is that a creditor of a contractor cannot garnishee any proceeds of the contractor in the hands of the contractee which the contractor has previously assigned in good faith, for a valuable consideration, and with notice to, or the assent of, the garnishee, to a third person. Hall v. Kansas City Terra Cotta Co. 97 Kan. 103, 154 P. 210, L.R.A.1916D, 361, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 605.

of the transfer before he makes his answer, the demand, by the garnishment of the debt, does not impair his obligation to pay it to the assignee.[3]

§ 878. —Before Judgment.—In a number of jurisdictions notice to the garnishee at any time before final judgment against him entitles the assignee to recover and will defeat the garnishee if set up as a defense, in consequence of which the garnishee fails to set up the assignment at his peril.[4] Also, it is provided by statute in some states that where it appears in a garnishment proceeding that a prior assignment has been made, the assignee should be notified to appear for the purpose of having his rights litigated; and it would seem to follow that notice at any time before final judgment, if brought to the attention of the court, would be sufficient under these statutes to entitle the prior assignment to priority.[5]

§ 879. —After Judgment, but before Execution.—On the question whether notice to the garnishee after judgment against him in the garnishment proceedings but before satisfaction of the judgment is sufficient to protect the assignor and entitle him to priority over the subsequent garnishing creditor, the authorities are divided. On the one hand, it has been held that notice is insufficient if not given to the garnishee until after final judgment in the garnishment proceedings has been obtained against him, and that under these circumstances, in the absence of a qualifying statute, the prior assignee, because of his own neglect, has no rights against the garnishee;[6] at least, where, by statute, the rights of the debtor (garnishee) against the assignor before notice of the assignment are preserved against the assignee, a judgment in garnishment obtained before notice to the garnishee of a prior assignment takes priority over such assignment and relieves the garnishee from liability to the assignee.[7] On the other hand, various cases sustain the sufficiency of the notice to the garnishee even after judgment has been rendered against him and uphold the prior rights of the assignee as against the subsequent garnishment where the judgment has not been satisfied before notice is received;[8] at least, it seems that where, by statute, the garnishee, up to the time of satisfaction of the judgment in garnishment, still has an opportunity to be heard against its enforcement—as where, for example, he is entitled to show cause against the issuance of an execution—notice of a prior assignment at any time during the period in which the garnishee has the privilege of being heard is sufficient to entitle the assignment to priority over a judgment in garnishment, it being the duty of the garnishee in such a case to set up the prior assignment as a cause against the issuing of execution on the judgment in garnishment.[9] Under a statutory provision that a garnishee shall not be made liable on a debt evidenced by negotiable or assignable paper unless such paper is delivered or the garnishee completely exonerated or indemnified from all liability thereon after he may have satisfied the judgment, it has been held that an assignment antedating a garnishment is entitled to priority, even though no notice of the assignment is given the garnishee prior to satisfaction by him of the judgment in garnishment, it being declared that he is bound to protect himself under the statute against his absolute liability to the prior assignee.[10] It has been held, also, that the rights of an assignee to payment are not affected by payment of the debt to a subsequent garnishing creditor, even though the garnishee had no notice of the prior assignment at the time he made the payment, where such payment is voluntary and the statute prescribes certain facts which must exist to entitle a person voluntarily to pay the debt of another to whom he is indebted, among which are a judgment and execution thereon and an instant indebtedness upon the part of the person making the payment to him against whom the judgment runs.[11]

---

[3] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 115.

[4] Woodward v. Brooks, 128 Ill. 222, 20 N. E. 685, 3 L.R.A. 702, 15 Am. St. Rep. 104; Smith v. Blatchford, 2 Ind. 184, 52 Am. Dec. 504; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451 (dictum).
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 114.

[5] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 115.

[6] McCoid v. Beatty, 12 Iowa, 299; Walters v. Washington Ins. Co. 1 Iowa, 404, 63 Am. Dec. 451; Richards v. Griggs, 16 Mo. 416, 57 Am. Dec. 240.

[7] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 118.

[8] McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 118.

An assignee who purchases a chose in action for value has a right superior to that of one who dealt with the assignor on the basis of his general credit and merely obtained judgment against his debtor in a garnishment proceeding before notice of the assignment was given, where the assignee and garnishee applied to have the judgment stricken out within the term at which it was entered. McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105.

[9] McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690.
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 118.

4. Priority as to Assignment for Benefit of Creditors

§ 880. Generally.—The general rule is that as against a valid assignment for the benefit of creditors, a subsequent attaching creditor cannot claim any priority.[12] Where an assignment is invalid when made, but is subsequently validated, the lien of an intervening attachment is superior to the rights of the assignee,[13] and it seems that in the case of an attachment and an assignment made on the same day, in the absence of proof of the exact time when each was made, the lien of the attachment will be prior.[14] If the attachment

---

McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105, sustains the superior right of a prior assignee as against a subsequent attaching creditor who had secured judgment against the garnishee before notice was given to the latter of the assignment, where no part of the judgment had been paid, or execution issued thereon, and the assignee and garnishee had applied within the term to have the judgment stricken out. It will be observed that while the court holds that under the particular circumstances, the equities of the case were with the assignee, the decision does not appear necessarily to be based on this ground, and that the court regarded the better rule as that favoring the prior assignee over the subsequent attaching creditor who had secured judgment in the garnishment proceedings, which judgment was unsatisfied, and took the view that the priority of the assignee's rights did not depend on the giving of notice to the debtor in time to permit him to disclose the assignment in his answer to the garnishee process.

On the theory that the garnishee is regarded as a trustee and as such must take appropriate legal steps to protect the rights of the parties, it has been held that notice of a prior assignment received after judgment, but before satisfaction thereof, entitles the assignee to priority, since in such a case the garnishee is bound to protect the assignee by filing a bill in interpleader. Oldham v. Ledbetter, 1 How. (Miss.) 43, 26 Am. Dec. 690, holding that where the garnishee satisfied a demand in garnishment after receiving notice of a prior assignment, he did so in his own wrong, and that the judgment constituted no defense as against the assignee.

[10] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 121.

[11] Brown v. Ayres, 33 Cal. 525, 91 Am. Dec. 655, wherein judgment was assigned and the amount thereof voluntarily paid to garnishing creditors before notice of the assignment.

Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1024; 52 A.L.R. 121.

[12] Crapo v. Kelly, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 610, 21 L. ed. 430; McGoon v. Scales, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 23, 19 L. ed. 545; Beach v. Viles, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 675, 7 L. ed. 559; Spring v. South Carolina Ins. Co. 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 268, 5 L. ed. 614; Smead v. Chandler, 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066, 65 L.R.A. 353; Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. v. Mercer, 84 Iowa, 537, 51 N. W. 415, 35 Am. St. Rep. 831; Gillespie v. Keating, 180 Pa. 150, 36 A. 641, 57 Am. St. Rep. 622.

Annotation: 17 L.R.A. 88; 26 L.R.A. 593.

As to the rule that property in the possession of an assignee for the benefit of creditors is in custodia legis and therefore not attachable, garnishable, or liable to execution generally, see Vol. 4, p. 806, § 405.

See also Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, Vol. 4, p. 335.

[13] Wood v. McCain, 7 Ala. 800, 42 Am. Dec. 612; Coleman v. Darling, 66 Wis. 155, 28 N. W. 367, 57 Am. Rep. 253.

[14] Boyer's Estate, 51 Pa. 432, 91 Am. Dec. 129.

or garnishment precedes the consummation of the assignment, it will take priority over the assignment.[15]

It has been held, however, that when an action is commenced by attachment, which is followed by an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and afterwards an amendment to the complaint is made, substituting an entirely different and distinct cause of action, the attachment thereby becomes subsequent to the assignment and is therefore discharged.[16] The general rule may be modified in its application by the effect of a recording statute.[17] A deed of trust in favor of certain creditors, but not of all of them, does not become operative without the consent of the latter and before they have knowledge of it so as to take priority over an attachment which is levied after the acceptance of the trust by the trustee and his taking possession of the property.[18]

§ 881. Assignment for Benefit of Creditors in Another State.—If the assignment for the benefit of creditors has occurred outside the state in which the garnishment proceedings are instituted, the extraterritorial force of such assignment determines the priority between it and the garnishment.[19] Generally, a voluntary or common-law assignment made in the state of the assignor's domicil will be respected in other states, except in so far as it comes in conflict with the laws or public policy of the state in which it is sought to be enforced; consequently, it will pass the title to real or personal property of the assignor situated in the latter state as against subsequent attaching creditors.[20] Accordingly, it has been held that notice to a debtor of an assignment for the benefit of creditors made in another state by his creditor need not be given him before an attachment of the chose in action in order to make the assignment binding upon him, if he receives the notice pendente lite in time to avail himself of it in discharge of the suit against him.[1]

5. Priority as to Receivership

a. In General

§ 882. Generally.—The general rule is that priority between a receivership or involuntary trusteeship and an attachment or garnishment depends upon their priority in time. It has already been noted in this article that ordinarily, the appointment of a receiver gives such right of possession that a levy of an attachment thereafter will not be permitted to interfere therewith, at least without the permission of the court appointing the receiver.[2] On the other hand, an attachment or garnishment generally has priority over a subsequent receivership or involuntary trusteeship.[3] Accordingly, an attachment of real estate will ordinarily have priority over subsequent receivership proceedings in another court.[4] The view has been taken that where a levy of a writ of attachment is made after a suit for a receiver is filed but before he is appointed, the receiver's possession is subordinate to the lien of the levy.[5] On the other hand, a receivership has been held to have priority over an attachment or garnishment after the suit for the receivership is filed but before the receiver is appointed[6] or before the receiver has qualified.[7] But an attachment creditor who sits back during the pendency of legal proceedings and allows the receiver of the estate to insure the attached property for the benefit of the estate, and who meanwhile maintains a hostile attitude toward the receiver and the assignment under which he holds, cannot, after money is collected by the receiver on an insurance policy, claim a trust in his favor on account of his attachment on the burned building which might have satisfied his execution had it not burned.[8] A court having possession of a fund in attachment proceedings against an insolvent foreign corporation should, upon prayer of the proper authority, provide for the payment of taxes due by the corporation.[9]

---

[15] Smead v. Chandler, 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066, 65 L.R.A. 353.

Where the act of assignment requires ratification, and garnishment occurs prior to such ratification, the garnishment will be given priority. Coleman v. Darling, 66 Wis. 155, 28 N. W. 367, 57 Am. Rep. 253.

[16] Heidel v. Benedict, 61 Minn. 170, 63 N. W. 490, 31 L.R.A. 422, 52 Am. St. Rep. 592.

[17] Smead v. Chandler, 71 Ark. 505, 76 S. W. 1066, 65 L.R.A. 353.

[18] Alliance Mill. Co. v. Eaton, 86 Tex. 401, 25 S. W. 614, 24 L.R.A. 369.

Generally as to attachment or garnishment of interests under deed of trust to secure debts, see Vol. 4, p. 791, § 377.

[19] Paine v. Lester, 44 Conn. 196, 26 Am. Rep. 442, refusing to give effect to assignment under foreign statute.

Annotation: 17 L.R.A. 88.

In Pierce v. O'Brien, 129 Mass. 314, 37 Am. Rep. 360, the court held an assignment invalid against a subsequent attachment by a creditor not assenting to the assignment. The ground of the decision was that independently of insolvent laws or assignments for the benefit of creditors authorized by statute, a voluntary assignment by a resident debtor in trust for the payment of debts and without adequate consideration is invalid against an attachment, except so far as assented to by creditors for whose benefit it is made. On grounds of public policy, and in the absence of any county requiring it to give force to a foreign law conflicting with its own, the court applied the same rule to an assignment by a nonresident debtor and an attachment by a creditor resident of the forum.

[20] See Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, Vol. 4, p. 335.

[1] Fenton v. Edwards, 126 Cal. 43, 58 P. 320, 46 L.R.A. 832, 77 Am. St. Rep. 141.

[2] See Vol. 4, p. 808, § 407.

Service of a writ of garnishment upon a bank in which the judgment debtor has a general deposit creates no such lien or equity having the effect of a lien on the assets of the bank as will entitle the garnishing creditor to a preference upon the bank's becoming insolvent before the rendition of the judgment in the garnishment proceeding.[10]

§ 883. With Respect to Federal and State Courts.—The general rule stated in the preceding section that priority between a receivership and an attachment or garnishment depends upon their priority in time is applicable generally to a receivership and attachment or garnishment where one is in a Federal court and the other in a state court.[11]

---

[3] Ward v. Connecticut Pipe Mfg. Co. 71 Conn. 345, 41 A. 1057, 42 L.R.A. 706, 71 Am. St. Rep. 207; Southern Bldg. & L. Asso. v. Price, 88 Md. 155, 41 A. 53, 42 L.R.A. 206; Farmers Bank v. Beaston, 7 Gill & J. (Md.) 421, 28 Am. Dec. 226, affirmed in 12 Pet. (U. S.) 102, 9 L. ed. 1017; Buswell v. Supreme Sitting, O. I. H. 161 Mass. 224, 36 N. E. 1065, 23 L.R.A. 846; Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Lacombe, 84 N. Y. 367, 38 Am. Rep. 518.
Annotation: 8 A.L.R. 459; 98 A.L.R. 351; 20 L.R.A. 392; 3 L.R.A.(N.S) 1073.

In Buswell v. Supreme Sitting, O. I. H. 161 Mass. 224, 36 N. E. 1065, 23 L.R.A. 846, it was held that the appointment of a receiver for an insolvent corporation did not affect attachment liens existing against the property of the corporation before the appointment.

The appointment of a receiver for a beneficiary association does not dissolve valid attachments of the property of the corporation levied before the filing of the bill of complaint under which the receiver was appointed, and where the funds attached have been paid over to the receiver upon order of the court, without prejudice to the rights of the attaching parties, the receiver takes the property subject to all valid attachments, and the claims of the attaching plaintiffs, when proved, are to be treated as preferred. Annotation: 8 A.L.R. 459.

Generally as to the effect of the appointment of a receiver on existing liens, see RECEIVERS [Also 23 R. C. L. p. 56, § 60].

[4] Beardslee v. Ingraham, 183 N. Y. 411, 76 N. E. 476, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1073.
Annotation: 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1073.

It has been held, however, that the attachment of real property will not preclude a receiver subsequently appointed by another court from taking possession, the grounds assigned for this holding being that since the possession of the occupant is not disturbed by the levy of the attachment, it is impossible for constructive possession to be in the officer making the levy. Annotation: 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1073, 1074.

[5] Annotation: 20 L.R.A. 392.

[6] Riesner v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. 89 Tex. 656, 36 S. W. 53, 33 L.R.A. 171, 59 Am. St. Rep. 84.

[7] Texas Trunk R. Co. v. Lewis, 81 Tex. 1, 16 S. W. 647, 26 Am. St. Rep. 776.

[8] McLaughlin v. Park City Bank, 22 Utah, 473, 63 P. 589, 54 L.R.A. 343.

[9] Taylor v. Sutherlin-Meade Tobacco Co. 107 Va. 787, 60 S. E. 132, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1135.

[10] Ellery v. Cumming, 40 Ariz. 512, 14 P. (2d) 709, 83 A.L.R. 1081.
Annotation: 83 A.L.R. 1085.

[11] Ke-Sun Oil Co. v. Hamilton (C. C. A. 9th) 61 F. (2d) 215, 85 A.L.R. 204; Irwin v.

§ 834. Priority as to Bankruptcy Proceedings.—The Federal Bankruptcy Act [12] invalidates liens obtained within four months prior to bankruptcy of the owner of property subjected to the lien. It further provides that nothing contained in the above-stated provision may have the effect of destroying or impairing the title obtained by levy, judgment, attachment, or other lien, of a bona fide purchaser for value who has acquired the same without notice or reasonable cause for inquiry.[13]

An attachment or garnishment lien acquired more than four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy is not invalidated by the subsequent bankruptcy proceedings and adjudication.[14] While an attachment or garnishment within the four-month period is ineffectual as a lien, gives the attaching or garnishing creditor no superior rights to other creditors,[15] and may properly be dismissed on the motion of the garnishee,[16] its effect is not obliterated so far as a surety on the attachment bond is concerned,[17] or so far as it is binding on property the title of which does not pass to the trustee in bankruptcy.[18] Of course, an attachment or garnishment subsequent to the petition in bankruptcy is of no effect and constitutes no lien that will prevail against the bankruptcy.[19] In the computation of the four-month period to determine whether an attachment lien is dissolved, the maxim that in law there is no fraction of a day does not apply.[20] Notwithstanding an attachment in an action against the debtor in a state court was levied within four months before the petition in bankruptcy was filed, a sale of the property as perishable, by order of the state court and as authorized by the state law, gives the purchaser a good title, where the court and the purchaser were ignorant of the institution or pendency of the bankruptcy proceedings and the trustee in bankruptcy has not intervened in the suit.[21]

b. WITH RESPECT TO FOREIGN RECEIVERSHIP

§ 885. Where Receivership Is Subsequent to Attachment or Garnishment.—The general rule that an attachment or garnishment has priority over subsequent receiverships or involuntary trusteeship proceedings [1] applies, of course, to an attachment or garnishment and a subsequent foreign receiver-

---

McKechnie, 58 Minn. 145, 59 N. W. 987, 26 L.R.A. 218, 49 Am. St. Rep. 495; Riesner v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. 89 Tex. 656, 36 S. W. 53, 33 L.R.A. 171, 59 Am. St. Rep. 84.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 211; 26 L.R.A. 218.

[12] § 67 f.

[13] See BANKRUPTCY [Also 3 R. C. L. pp. 290, 296, §§ 115, 121].

[14] Metcalf Bros. v. Barker, 187 U. S. 165, 47 L. ed. 122, 23 S. Ct. 67; Light v. Hunt, 17 Ga. App. 491, 87 S. E. 763, citing R. C. L.; Marx v. Hart, 166 Mo. 503, 66 S. W. 260, 89 Am. St. Rep. 715.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 382.

"In our opinion the conclusion to be drawn from this language [§ 67f] is that it is the lien created by a levy, or a judgment, or an attachment, or otherwise, that is invalidated, and that where the lien is obtained more than four months prior to the filing of the petition, it is not only not to be deemed to be null and void on adjudication, but its validity is recognized. When it is obtained within four months the property is discharged therefrom, but not otherwise." Metcalf Bros. v. Barker, 187 U. S. 165, 47 L. ed. 122, 23 S. Ct. 67.

[15] Hobbs v. Thompson, 160 Ala. 360, 49 So. 787, 18 Ann. Cas. 381; Hanson v. Shank, 159 Minn. 278, 198 N. W. 804, citing R. C. L.; Cavanaugh v. Fenley, 94 Minn. 505, 103 N. W. 711, 110 Am. St. Rep. 382.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 383.

[16] Hobbs v. Thompson, 160 Ala. 360, 49 So. 787, 18 Ann. Cas. 381. But see Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

[17] Andrews v. Jones, 46 R. I. 141, 125 A. 356, 36 A.L.R. 447.

Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 449.

Contra, by express provisions in the Bankruptcy Act of 1841: Franklin Bank v. Bachelder, 23 Me. 60, 39 Am. Dec. 601.

[18] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 85.

[19] Acme Harvester Co. v. Beekman Lumber Co. 222 U. S. 300, 56 L. ed. 208, 32 S. Ct. 96.

[20] Westbrook Mfg. Co. v. Grant, 60 Me. 88, 11 Am. Rep. 181.

[21] Jones v. Springer, 226 U. S. 148, 57 L. ed. 161, 33 S. Ct. 64, wherein the claim of the trustee in bankruptcy was transferred to the proceeds of the sale.

[1] See supra, § 882.

ship or involuntary trusteeship.[2] Accordingly, funds which have been garnished will not be directed to be turned over to an ancillary receiver until the rights of the plaintiffs in the garnishment proceedings have been disposed of.[3]

§ 886. Where Attachment or Garnishment Is Subsequent to Receivership.—On the theory either of the analogy between the receiver's position and that of an assignee under an involuntary assignment or of the limited character of the receiver's authority, rights, and powers, it has become a rule, quite generally established, subject to certain exceptions, as to ordinary chancery receivers, and, by considerable authority, as to receivers or liquidators with title, that the local property in a state of a foreign corporation for which such receiver or liquidator has been appointed in another state is subject to attachment or garnishment, or to sequestration by the appointment of a local receiver, by the creditors of the corporation, which, though levied subsequently to the institution of the receivership proceedings or the appointment of the receiver or liquidator in another state, will take precedence over the rights or title of the receiver or the liquidator.[4]

---

[2] Southern Bldg. & L. Asso. v. Price, 88 Md. 155, 41 A. 53, 42 L.R.A. 206; Baldwin v. Hosmer, 101 Mich. 119, 59 N. W. 432, 25 L.R.A. 739.

[3] Baldwin v. Hosmer, 101 Mich. 119, 59 N. W. 432, 25 L.R.A. 739.

[4] Clark v. Williard, 294 U. S. 211, 79 L. ed. 865, 55 S. Ct. 356, 98 A.L.R. 347; Choctaw Coal & Min. Co. v. Williams-Echols Dry Goods Co. 75 Ark. 365, 87 S. W. 632, 5 Ann. Cas. 569; Humphreys v. Hopkins, 81 Cal. 551, 22 P. 892, 6 L.R.A. 792, 15 Am. St. Rep. 76; Gray v. Covert, 25 Ind. App. 561, 58 N. E. 731, 81 Am. St. Rep. 117 (receiver with title under statute); Linville v. Hadden, 88 Md. 594, 41 A. 1097, 43 L.R.A. 222; Folger v. Columbian Ins. Co. 99 Mass. 267, 96 Am. Dec. 747 (affirmed in 20 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 22 L. ed. 307); Barth v. Backus, 140 N. Y. 230, 35 N. E. 425, 23 L.R.A. 47, 37 Am. St. Rep. 545; Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Lacombe, 84 N. Y. 367, 38 Am. Rep. 518; Commercial Nat. Bank v. Motherwell Iron & Steel Co. 95 Tenn. 172, 31 S. W. 1002, 29 L.R.A. 164 (receiver appointed under statute for dissolution of corporation).

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 353; 23 L.R.A. 35.

Cases reaching a contrary decision under exceptions to the general rule are considered in connection with a discussion of the legal theories under which they were decided in an annotation in 98 A.L.R. 351. See also the following cases: Relfe v. Rundle (Life Asso. of America v. Rundle) 103 U. S. 222, 26 L. ed. 337 (statutory liquidator with title; appointment of local receiver by local policyholders); Gilman v. Ketcham (Gilman v. Hudson River Boot & Shoe Mfg. Co.) 84 Wis. 60, 54 N. W. 395, 23 L.R.A. 52, 36 Am. St. Rep. 899 (receiver with title under statute; attachment by resident of state where receiver appointed).

In Disconto Gesellschaft v. Umbreit, 127 Wis. 651, 106 N. W. 821, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045, 115 Am. St. Rep. 1063 (affirmed in 208 U. S. 570, 52 L. ed. 625, 28 S. Ct. 337), it was held that a court will not assist a nonresident alien suing a nonresident alien to redress a wrong committed without the state, to impound the defendant's assets within the state by garnishment to the prejudice of his resident creditor who has obtained a judgment and a provisional lien against the assets, although the claim of the alien first accrued and his action was first brought, especially where the foreign creditor is acting merely as agent for a foreign trustee in bankruptcy who would have no standing in court.

On the theory that the authority and power of an ordinary chancery receiver, who does not ordinarily take title to the property by virtue of his appointment, but merely acts as an agent of the court appointing him, do not extend beyond the limits of the territorial jurisdiction of the court, the courts are quite generally agreed, subject to certain exceptions, that the local property of an insolvent foreign corporation for which such a receiver has been appointed is subject to attachment or garnishment, and that such attachment or garnishment, although subsequent in point of time to the appointment of the receiver, takes precedence of his claims; in some cases the same result is reached on the theory that the receiver's position is analogous to that of an assignee under an involuntary assignment, as to which the rule is that the assignee's title is subordinate to the lien of attachment in another state. Choctaw Coal & Min. Co. v. Williams-Echols Dry Goods Co. 75 Ark. 365, 87 S. W. 632, 5 Ann. Cas. 569; Humphreys v. Hopkins, 81 Cal. 551, 22 P. 892, 6 L.R.A. 792, 15 Am. St. Rep. 76; Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Lacombe, 84 N. Y. 367, 38 Am. Rep. 518.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 356.

In Choctaw Coal & Min. Co. v. Williams-Echols Dry Goods Co. 75 Ark. 365, 87 S. W. 632, 5 Ann. Cas. 569, it was held that a receiver of an insolvent foreign corporation, appointed by a Federal court sitting in Indian Territory in a proceeding to foreclose a deed of trust executed by such corporation, was not entitled to recover funds owing to the corporation by an Arkansas bank which was garnished by the creditors of the corporation subsequent to his appointment.

In Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Lacombe, 84 N. Y. 367, 38 Am. Rep. 518, it was held that commissioners appointed by a court in Louisiana for a Louisiana insolvent bank could not prevail over a creditor attaching in New York debts owing to the insolvent

§ 887. Receivership or Liquidation with Title under Statute, Decree, or Assignment.—While not as uniform and consistent in their holdings as those cases involving ordinary chancery receivers without title, frequent deviations from the general rule being noticeable, predicated on the title of the receiver or liquidator or the statutory source thereof which forms a part of the charter of the corporation, or on the peculiar relation of the attaching creditor to the corporation, there are numerous authorities which seem to apply the general rule that property of an insolvent corporation is subject to attachment or garnishment in another state, even in cases where the receiver or the liquidator was not a mere chancery receiver without title, but a receiver or liquidator clothed with title under the decree or statute of the foreign state.[5] In a number of cases, however, the opposite conclusion has been reached where the receiver was a statutory liquidator of the insolvent corporation, under a statute providing for the dissolution or liquidation of such corporations, which might be regarded as a part of the corporation's charter, the theory being that the corporation carries its charter with it into every state into which it may be admitted to do business, and that creditors or other persons dealing with it are subject to its provisions, and may not, therefore, attach its local property as against one who, under the foreign law as constituting a part of the corporate charter, has previously acquired the title thereto for purposes of liquidation.[6] Sometimes the decision disallowing the attachment in cases involving statutory receivers or liquidators with title has been based on the ground that the attaching creditor was a resident of the state in which the appointment was made, and was therefore bound by its law in attaching the property of the corporation in another state.[7] Even in cases where the receiver or the liquidator succeeds to the title of the corporation's property generally, real property located outside the jurisdiction from which his appointment is derived does not pass to him so as to prevent its being attached in the state of its situs, because that state has exclusive control and power bank, although such creditor was a nonresident of New York and a resident of Louisiana. The decision is based on the grounds that neither the law of Louisiana nor the adjudication under which the commissioners were appointed could have any operation in New York, that an assignment by virtue of or under a foreign law does not operate upon a debt as against persons in the state, and that although the plaintiff was a foreign creditor, he was rightfully pursuing a remedy in New York courts under the New York statute.

---

Because of the exclusive power of local courts over real property within their jurisdiction, and the rule giving to the state in which such property is situated exclusive right and power to regulate and prescribe its disposition and transfer, for stronger reasons than in the case of local personal property, the local real property of an insolvent foreign corporation for which a receiver has been appointed in another state is subject to attachment. Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 361.

[5] Gray v. Covert, 25 Ind. App. 561, 58 N. E. 731, 81 Am. St. Rep. 117 (receiver with title under statute).

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 362.

As against the contention of the receiver of an insolvent New Jersey corporation, appointed by a court in New Jersey, that under the New Jersey statute providing that upon the appointment of a receiver for a corporation, all of its property, wherever situated, shall vest in the receiver and the corporation shall be divested of the title thereto, he became vested with the title to corporate property in Indiana, and that, therefore, it could not thereafter be attached by a creditor in Indiana, it was held in Gray v. Covert, 25 Ind. App. 561, 58 N. E. 731, 81 Am. St. Rep. 117, that a receiver appointed for a foreign corporation in another state does not acquire such title to the property of the corporation situated in Indiana as to defeat an attachment subsequently issued by the courts of Indiana at the instance of a creditor. The court based its decision on the ground that a receiver, unlike an assignee under a voluntary general assignment for the benefit of creditors, does not acquire title, and that the statute of New Jersey referred to was limited in its operation to property in that state.

[6] Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 367.

[7] Gilman v. Ketcham (Gilman v. Hudson River Boot & Shoe Mfg. Co.) 84 Wis. 60, 54 N. W. 395, 23 L.R.A. 52, 36 Am. St. Rep. 899.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 369.

over its transfer and disposition, and may give precedence to attaching creditors as against the foreign receiver.[8]

§ 888. Assignees with Title.—The rule that the local property of a foreign insolvent corporation is subject to attachment or garnishment is also applied as against assignees with title acquired in foreign insolvency or bankruptcy proceedings.[9]

§ 889. Effect of Relationships and Circumstances.—In some cases, because of the relation of the attaching creditor to the corporation, an exception to the general rule that local property of an insolvent foreign corporation for which a receiver has been appointed in another state is subject to attachment or garnishment has been recognized, as where the creditor was a member or policyholder of the corporation, and the claim for which the property was attached arose out of or was connected with such relation. In such event, according to the view taken in a number of cases, the local property of the corporation is not subject to attachment, garnishment, or other sequestration for such claim, the theory being that such member or policyholder is bound by the liquidation of the corporation under the laws of the state of its incorporation which form a part of its charter. In most of these cases, however, it seems that the receiver was not a mere chancery receiver, but one with title under the statute or decree, or both.[10] But in a few cases involving attachments by beneficiaries under policies issued by mutual benefit insurance companies, the right to attachment was sustained, notwithstanding the appointment of a receiver for the company in another state.[11] Practically all of the cases passing upon the question whether the local property of an insolvent foreign corporation for which a receiver has been appointed in another state is subject to execution, attachment, or garnishment, tacitly assume that no constitutional inhibition is involved in its determination, and base their decision on principles of comity and on the rule that laws of a state have no extraterritorial operation and that the authority of the receiver is confined by the territorial jurisdiction of the court appointing him. This seems to involve the assumption that the full faith and credit provision of the Federal Constitution, as applied to judgments, does not require the states to give effect to the authority of the foreign receiver derived from the decrees of a court of a sister state, at least so far as it concerns local property which, under local laws, is attached or garnished by local or foreign creditors.[12] A state may, at the suit of a resident creditor, permit the attachment or garnishment of the local property of a corporation for which a foreign receiver has been appointed, without any violation of the privileges and immunities clause of the Federal Constitution, at least where no right of a nonresident to attach or garnish the property is involved.[13] Whether a state may, however, consistently with the privileges and immunities clause, deny to nonresidents the right to attach or garnish the local property of a foreign corporation for which a receiver has been appointed in another state, while conceding that right to its citizens, has been answered both affirmatively, at least with respect to nonresidents who are residents of the state where the receiver was appointed,[14] and negatively, at least with respect to persons also nonresidents of the state where the receiver was appointed.[15] It has been held that notice of the appointment of a receiver in another state, after he has obtained an attachment, does not put him to an election between his attachment and the right to share in the foreign receivership, but, after taking the benefit of the security obtained by the attachment, he may claim in the receivership for any balance that may remain unpaid.[1] The rule has been enunciated that where, upon the insolvency of a corporation, the law of its domicil assumes to take its property and assign it by judicial proceedings, without its consent, to trustees for distribution among its creditors, such an assignment will not be allowed by the courts of another state to prevail against any remedy which the laws of the latter state afford to its own citizens against property within its jurisdiction, provided the insolvent corporation remains in existence at the time such remedy is availed of by the local creditors.[2]

---

[8] Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 369.

[9] Security Trust Co. v. Dodd, 173 U. S. 624, 43 L. ed. 835, 19 S. Ct. 545; Paine v. Lester, 44 Conn. 196, 26 Am. Rep. 442.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 366.

In Security Trust Co. v. Dodd, 173 U. S. 624, 43 L. ed. 835, 19 S. Ct. 545, it was held that an assignee of an insolvent Minnesota corporation, under an assignment executed by the corporation under the general Assignment Statute of Minnesota, took title to the corporation property in Massachusetts subservient to the lien of attachment levied thereon by creditors of the corporation residing in New York, because such an assignment was not operative to pass personal property situated in Massachusetts as against such creditors.

In Paine v. Lester, 44 Conn. 196, 26 Am. Rep. 442, it was held that the title of an assignee or trustee in insolvency of a Pennsylvania corporation to the property of the corporation in Connecticut depended for recognition in Connecticut solely upon principles of comity, which would not be given effect where the property was, under the laws of Connecticut, attached by a creditor of the corporation, though the attachment was subsequent to the assignment to the trustee, and was made by a creditor residing in a third state, since under the Federal Constitution, citizens of other states are entitled to the same privileges and immunities as citizens of the state. The court regarded the assignment as a statutory assignment made in insolvency proceedings, and not a voluntary common-law assignment, and held that it had no legal effect beyond the limits of the state in which it was made.

[10] Relfe v. Rundle (Life Asso. of America v. Rundle) 103 U. S. 222, 26 L. ed. 337 (not involving attachment, but the rights of a statutory liquidator and a receiver appointed in another state for the local assets of the company, and frequently cited as authority in attachment cases).

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 369.

[11] Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 373.

§ 890. —Effect of Residence or Domicil of Creditor.—In many cases the decision sustaining the attachment, garnishment, or other sequestration of the local property of a foreign corporation, as against its foreign receiver, is expressly based on the ground that the rights of local attaching creditors must prevail.[3] In other cases the attachment or garnishment of the local property of such a corporation has been sustained irrespective of whether the attaching creditor was a resident or nonresident of the forum,[4] so long as he was not a resident of the state in which the receiver was appointed,[5] and sometimes even where he was a resident of such state.[6]

---

[12] Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 374.

The question, however, whether full faith and credit are due to the title of a liquidator of an insolvent foreign corporation derived from the provisions of the statute of a sister state, was answered in the affirmative by the United States Supreme Court, in the reported Clark v. Williard, 294 U. S. 211, 79 L. ed. 865, 55 S. Ct. 356, 98 A.L.R. 347, by its holding that the full faith and credit provision of the Federal Constitution requires that a state in which property is located of a foreign corporation for which a statutory liquidator has, in the domiciliary state, been appointed for the purpose of liquidating its assets upon dissolution, recognize such liquidator as the successor in title to the property of the corporation. The necessary result of this decision would have been to render immune from attachment or garnishment local property of a foreign corporation the title to whose assets was under the statute of another state vested in a liquidator, had not the court qualified its decision by the further holding that its conclusion did not prevent such state, in effectuating its policy tolerating preferences and a race of diligence among the creditors of an insolvent corporation, from subordinating such title to the liens of attachments and executions levied upon such property by the creditors of the corporation subsequent to the appointment of the liquidator.

[13] Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 381.

[14] Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 381.
See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[15] Paine v. Lester, 44 Conn. 196, 26 Am. Rep. 442.
Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 381.
See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[1] Ward v. Connecticut Pipe Mfg. Co. 71 Conn. 345, 41 A. 1057, 42 L.R.A. 706, 71 Am. St. Rep. 207; Linville v. Hadden & Co. 88 Md. 594, 41 A. 1097, 43 L.R.A. 222.
Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 382.

The view has been taken that the rule that the property in Maryland of a Connecticut corporation for which a receiver was appointed in the latter state was subject to attachment by a creditor of the corporation, even though such creditor was a nonresident of Maryland, so long as he was not a resident of Connecticut, was not altered by the fact that the creditor proved his claim also in the receivership proceedings in the other state, where it appeared that the attachment preceded such proof, and that the claim filed with the receiver contained a reservation or condition that by filing it the creditor did not intend to abandon any rights that he might have gained by the attachment suit. Linville v. Hadden & Co. 88 Md. 594, 41 A. 1097, 43 L.R.A. 222.

[2] Folger v. Columbian Ins. Co. 99 Mass. 267, 96 Am. Dec. 747, affirmed in 20 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 22 L. ed. 307.
Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 386.

§ 891. —Rule as Affected by Possession of Receiver Acquired before Attachment.—While there is authority to the contrary,[7] the overwhelming weight of judicial decision supports the rule in terms, or in effect, that property of an insolvent foreign corporation which has been reduced to the possession of its foreign receiver is not subject to attachment, particularly where the possession is first acquired by the receiver in the state of his appointment. In some of the cases supporting this rule the receiver had acquired the title to the property; in others apparently he had not.[8] Thus, where property has once vested as the property of a receiver by the law of the state where the property was situated, the law of another state will not divest the receiver of his right to it if he takes it into such state in the performance of his duty. Comity in such cases prevails to exempt the property from attachment in a foreign jurisdiction, when taken there under authority from the foreign court.[9]

---

[3] Choctaw Coal & Min. Co. v. Williams-Echols Dry Goods Co. 75 Ark. 365, 87 S. W. 632, 5 Ann. Cas. 569; Humphreys v. Hopkins, 81 Cal. 551, 22 P. 892, 6 L.R.A. 792, 15 Am. St. Rep. 76; Folger v. Columbian Ins. Co. 99 Mass. 267, 96 Am. Dec. 747, affirmed in 20 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 22 L. ed. 307.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 377.

[4] Security Trust Co. v. Dodd, 173 U. S. 624, 43 L. ed. 835, 19 S. Ct. 545; Linville v. Hadden & Co. 88 Md. 594, 41 A. 1097, 43 L.R.A. 222. See also Paine v. Lester, 44 Conn. 196, 26 Am. Rep. 442 (based on privileges and immunities clause of Federal Constitution).

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 377.

[5] Linville v. Hadden & Co. 88 Md. 594, 41 A. 1097, 43 L.R.A. 222; Gilman v. Ketcham (Gilman v. Hudson River Boot & Shoe Mfg. Co.) 84 Wis. 60, 54 N. W. 395, 23 L.R.A. 52, 36 Am. St. Rep. 899.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 377.

A receiver of a foreign corporation appointed in another state in proceedings to dissolve the corporation has a right to a debt due the corporation as against an attempt at garnishment of the debt by a nonresident creditor of the corporation who is a citizen of the state in which the corporation existed and in which the receiver was appointed. Gilman v. Ketcham (Gilman v. Hudson River Boot & Shoe Mfg. Co.) 84 Wis. 60, 54 N. W. 395, 23 L.R.A. 52, 36 Am. St. Rep. 899.

[6] Barth v. Backus, 140 N. Y. 230, 35 N. E. 425, 23 L.R.A. 47, 37 Am. St. Rep. 545; Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Lacombe, 84 N. Y. 367, 38 Am. Rep. 518; Commercial Nat. Bank v. Motherwell Iron & Steel Co. 95 Tenn. 172, 31 S. W. 1002, 29 L.R.A. 164.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 377.

In Hibernia Nat. Bank v. Lacombe, 84 N. Y. 367, 385, 38 Am. Rep. 518, the court said: "The plaintiff, as we have seen, although a foreign creditor, is rightfully in our court pursuing a remedy given by our statutes. It may enforce that remedy to the same extent, in the same manner, and with the same priority as a citizen. Any other construction would make the permission of the statute a form without benefit; a formality, and not matter of substance; a mere delusion. Once properly in court and accepted as a suitor, neither the law, nor the court administering the law, will admit any distinction between the citizen of its own state and that of another. Before the law and in its tribunals there can be no preference of one over the other." In this case the attaching creditor was a resident of the state in which the commissioners for the liquidation of the defendant insolvent corporation were appointed.

In Commercial Nat. Bank v. Motherwell Iron & Steel Co. 95 Tenn. 172, 31 S. W. 1002, 29 L.R.A. 164, a receiver of an insolvent corporation appointed by a court in Ohio in proceedings instituted for its dissolution under the Ohio statute was not permitted, in Tennessee, to prevail over an Ohio creditor of the corporation who, having obtained in Ohio a judgment by confession against the corporation after the appointment of the receiver, sought to enforce the same in Tennessee by attachment of property of the corporation in that state.

[7] Humphreys v. Hopkins, 81 Cal. 551, 22 P. 892, 15 Am. St. Rep. 76, 6 L.R.A. 792.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 382.

The general rule that the property of an insolvent foreign corporation is subject to attachment was applied in Humphreys v. Hopkins, 81 Cal. 551, 22 P. 892, 6 L.R.A. 792, 15 Am. St. Rep. 76, as against a foreign receiver who, having reduced the property of the corporation to possession in the foreign jurisdiction, brought it into California, where its attachment by creditors of the insolvent company was sustained, it being held that the receiver could not hold the property against the claims of citizens of California who, in pursuance of the laws of that state, attached it. The court said that the order of the foreign court appointing the receiver did not vest the title to the property in him, and that principles of comity did not require California to recognize that order so as to award to him the property for the exclusive benefit of creditors residing in other states.

[8] Pond v. Cooke, 45 Conn. 126, 29 Am. Rep. 668; Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. 108 Ill. 317, 48 Am. Rep. 557; Robertson v. Staed, 135 Mo. 135, 36 S. W. 610, 33 L.R.A. 203, 58 Am. St. Rep. 569; Woodhull v. Farmers' Trust Co. 11 N. D. 157, 90 N. W. 795, 95 Am. St. Rep. 712.

Annotation: 98 A.L.R. 382.

6. Questions of Priority Arising out of Attachment or Garnishment of Decedents' Estates and Interests Therein

§ 892. Attachment or Garnishment and Claims of Widow and Others on Decedent's Estate.[10]—In view of the general rule that the lien of an attachment continues until judgment is rendered, so that the lien of an execution issued on the judgment relates back to the inception of the attachment lien unaffected by the death of the debtor or other intervening circumstances, it would seem that an attachment pending at the death of the debtor would give the creditor priority over the widow's claim of dower,[11] and would be entitled to preference over nonattaching creditors in the payment of claims against the estate.[12] However, a widow's right to preference in payment of her allowance for support is not subject to the lien of an attachment in suit against her husband levied in his lifetime and undetermined at his death.[13]

§ 893. Attachment or Garnishment and Right of Retainer.—The right of

---

In Pond v. Cooke, 45 Conn. 126, 29 Am. Rep. 668, property purchased by the receiver of an insolvent New Jersey corporation with the funds of the estate and brought over to Connecticut, to be used in the construction of a bridge under a contract between the insolvent corporation and a municipality, was held not subject to attachment by a creditor of the corporation.

In Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Keokuk Northern Line Packet Co. 108 Ill. 317, 48 Am. Rep. 557, a barge belonging to an insolvent Missouri corporation for which a receiver had been appointed in Missouri to take over its property was held not subject to attachment in Illinois by a creditor of the corporation, where it appeared that at the time of the appointment of the receiver the barge was in Missouri, and the receiver took possession thereof and leased it for a trip to Illinois where it was attached. The decision is based on the ground that the receiver, by taking possession of the barge, acquired a special property therein which he was entitled to protect everywhere. The court conceded that if the barge had been in Illinois from the beginning, and had never come into the possession of the receiver, an attachment thereof by creditors residing in Illinois would have prevailed as against the receiver of its owner.

In Robertson v. Staed, 135 Mo. 135, 36 S. W. 610, 33 L.R.A. 203, 58 Am. St. Rep. 569, it was held that a receiver of a New York railroad corporation appointed by a court in the Republic of Mexico, who, as receiver, having taken possession of a railroad car belonging to the corporation, brought it into Missouri, where it was attached by Illinois creditors of the corporation, could institute in Missouri a suit of replevin against such creditors to recover the car, because by such possession he acquired a special property therein. The court said: "Courts will protect the rights of domestic creditors, and will not permit property located in their jurisdiction to be carried away by a receiver of a foreign state or nation until all such creditors are satisfied. But we know of no principle upon which rights of domestic creditors can be created by reason of the property, in the lawful possession of the receiver, being brought within their jurisdiction. . . . Hence it is generally ruled that after a receiver has obtained possession of the property of the debtor within the jurisdiction of the court appointing him, such possession will be protected, into whatever jurisdiction the property may thereafter be taken by the receiver."

Apparently conceding that the rule would have been otherwise if the attachment had preceded the appointment of a receiver in another state, or the taking of possession of the property by such receiver, it was held, in Woodhull v. Farmers' Trust Co. 11 N. D. 157, 90 N. W. 795, 95 Am. St. Rep. 712, that where the receiver of the corporation which owned notes secured by mortgage on land in North Dakota took possession of such notes after his appointment in Iowa, and brought them over to North Dakota for the purpose of using them as evidence in a foreclosure suit in the latter state, they were not subject to attachment in that state.

[9] Somerset Coal Co. v. Diamond State Steel Co. 224 Pa. 217, 73 A. 442, 132 Am. St. Rep. 775. And see Gilman v. Ketchum (Gilman v. Hudson River Boot & Shoe Mfg. Co.) 84 Wis. 60, 54 N. W. 395, 23 L.R.A. 52, 36 Am. St. Rep. 899.

[10] Generally, as to the attachability of a decedent's estate, and the interests in, and claims on, the same, see Vol. 4, p. 811, §§ 410 et seq.

[11] Tetzloff v. May, 151 Iowa, 441, 131 N. W. 647, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 341.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913A, 343.

[12] Tetzloff v. May, 151 Iowa, 441, 131 N. W. 647, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 341.

[13] Ibid.

retainer may be exercised as against an attaching creditor of a distributee, and will take precedence of an attachment in execution against the legatee's interest in an estate.[14] Nevertheless, the view has been taken that an heir's distributive share of the real estate of his ancestor is not burdened with the lien of a debt which he owes such ancestor, which will take priority over an attachment against the heir's interest in favor of a third person.[15]

7. Priority between Attaching Creditors of Partner and Partnership

§ 894. As to Property of Partner.—As a general rule, the lien of an attachment or garnishment, based on a partnership liability upon the property of an individual partner, is not postponed, but is prior to the liens of subsequent judgments, attachments, or executions based on the individual obligations of such partner.[16] The reason for the rule is that equity follows the law and enforces legal liens according to their priorities in the administration of partnership and individual assets. Thus, the equitable rule which prefers partnership creditors in partnership assets and individual creditors in individual assets is not applicable to affect an existing legal lien.[17] A different rule prevails in at least one state, where the right of a partnership creditor to preference in the application of firm assets is a legal right, and the creditor of an individual partner has a like preference in the application of the separate estate.[18] The attachment of one partner's interest by another in a suit between them for an accounting gives to the plaintiff a lien superior to any lien of a subsequent execution creditor.[19]

§ 895. As to Partnership Property.[20]—It is a general rule that the lien of an attachment or garnishment, or other lien generally, in an action on an individual obligation of an individual member of a partnership is, as to the partnership, real or personal assets, subject to the lien of a subsequent attachment or garnishment in an action on a partnership obligation.[1] The reason for the rule is that the lien of an attachment against an individual partner reaches only the debtor's right in the partnership property, which is only an interest in the assets and claims of the partnership subject to the claims of partnership creditors and a partnership accounting.[2] Under varying circumstances the application of this rule has been qualified.[3] There seems to be a conflict of authority as to whether the fact that the prior lien is against all the partners as individuals will affect adversely the priority ordinarily given to subsequent lien creditors of the partnership as to the partnership effects. Some cases hold or imply that the partnership creditors are not affected adversely thereby.[4] Other cases take the contrary view and hold that an at-

---

[14] Annotation: 1 A.L.R. 1034, s. 30 A.L.R. 780, and 75 A.L.R. 886.

The lien given by a statute which provides that "when an estate is solvent and a person to whom a share of it descends is indebted to the intestate at the time of his death, such debt creates a lien on his share, having priority to any attachment of it; and such lien may be enforced by suit and attachment of the share within two years after administration is granted," is superior to an attachment made by a creditor of a distributee, though made before any attachment by the administrator. Annotation: 1 A.L.R. 1034, s. 30 A.L.R. 780, and 75 A.L.R. 886.

[15] Neel v. Campton, 201 Ky. 1, 255 S. W. 840, 30 A.L.R. 765.

[16] Allen v. Wells, 22 Pick. (Mass.) 450, 33 Am. Dec. 757 (a frequently cited case, holding that the separate property of each member of a firm is liable to attachment for debts due from the partnership, and that the lien thereof is not defeated by a subsequent attachment by the creditor of an individual partner); Meech v. Allen, 17 N. Y. 300, 72 Am. Dec. 465 (judgments); Cummings's Appeal, 25 Pa. 268, 64 Am. Dec. 695 (judgments); Bardwell v. Perry, 19 Vt. 292, 47 Am. Dec. 687; Savings & Loan Corp. v. Bear, 155 Va. 312, 154 S. E. 587, 75 A.L.R. 980 (judgments).

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 999.

[17] Savings & Loan Corp. v. Bear, 155 Va. 312, 154 S. E. 587, 75 A.L.R. 980 (judgments).

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1000.

[18] Bowker v. Smith, 48 N. H. 111, 2 Am. Rep. 189 (judgments).

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1003.

[19] Thoms v. Southard, 2 Dana (Ky.) 475, 26 Am. Dec. 467.

[20] As to interest of partner in partnership subject to attachment or garnishment against partner, see Vol. 4, p. 764, § 335.

As to the power of partners acting jointly to waive their lien to have the partnership credits applied to the payment of partnership obligations, and as to the general question of identity or equality as between joint debts of all the partners as individuals and their liabilities as partners, see Partnership [Also 20 R. C. L. p. 790].

[1] Bullock v. Hubbard, 23 Cal. 495, 83 Am. Dec. 130; Conroy v. Woods, 13 Cal. 626, 73 Am. Dec. 605. See also Swan v. Gilbert, 175 Ill. 204, 51 N. E. 604, 67 Am. St. Rep. 208 (holding that an execution against an individual partner is subordinate to a later chattel mortgage or other claims of firm creditors as regards the firm property); Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Huntington Nat. Bank, 229 Ky. 674, 17 S. W. (2d) 726, 71 A.L.R. 70 (holding that a creditor of an individual partner garnishing the insurer of partnership property is not entitled to judgment for any amount whatever, where partnership debts exceed the entire proceeds of the insurance); Page v. Thomas, 43 Ohio St. 38, 1 N. E. 79, 54 Am. Rep. 788 (judgments); Sterling v. Brightbill, 5 Watts, 229, 30 Am. Dec. 304 (implied as to judgments); Overholt's Appeal, 12 Pa. 222, 51 Am. Dec. 598 (implied where the land is held as partners, and not as tenants in common); Erwin's Appeal, 39 Pa. 535, 80 Am. Dec. 542 (holding that judgments against a firm for firm debts are payable out of the proceeds of firm property in preference to a prior judgment against an individual partner whose name did not appear in the deed); Meily v. Wood, 71 Pa. 488, 10 Am. Rep. 719 (implied by holding that a judgment against an individual partner is not a lien on the partnership land so as to preclude a partnership from disposing of the land and giving a title clear of such encumbrance); Richard v. Allen, 117 Pa. 199, 11 A. 552, 2 Am. St. Rep. 652 (executions); Savings & Loan Corp. v. Bear, 155 Va. 312, 151 S. E. 587, 75 A.L.R. 980 (judgments); Powers v. Large, 69 Wis. 621, 35 N. W. 53, 2 Am. St. Rep. 767 (implied).

---

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1005.

In Powers v. Large, 69 Wis. 621, 35 N. W. 53, 2 Am. St. Rep. 767, the court held that in a contest between a creditor of one of two or more partners and a creditor of the partnership, the latter was to be preferred if he showed that he had in any way obtained a lien upon the partnership property before the same had been appropriated to the payment of the debt of the judgment creditor of the individual partner, and that where it was shown that the firm creditors had attached the firm assets before the same had been sold on the execution in favor of the creditor of the individual partner, it was wholly immaterial that the creditor of the individual partner obtained his lien first.

[2] See Vol. 4, p. 764, § 335.

[3] Schmidlapp v. Currie, 55 Miss. 597, 30 Am. Rep. 530 (holding that a bona fide transfer of the firm assets of a solvent firm for an individual debt of one of its members, made with the consent of all partners, is superior to the right of firm creditors subsequently attaching); Himmelreich v. Shaffer, 182 Pa. 201, 37 A. 1007, 61 Am. St. Rep. 698 (holding that individual lien creditors have priority over firm creditors whose liens are later in date, where there is, in fact, no partnership); Willis v. Freeman, 35 Vt. 44, 82 Am. Dec. 619 (holding that the lien of an attaching individual creditor on the real estate of the firm while the firm is solvent cannot be divested by its subsequent insolvency). See also Reed v. Shepardson, 2 Vt. 120, 19 Am. Dec. 697.

In Scudder v. Delashmut, 7 Iowa, 39, 71 Am. Dec. 428, the court says: "It is true that, as a rule, the partnership creditors have a priority of right in the partnership property. But what is the meaning of the rule, and where is it applicable? Does it mean that the partnership creditor may step in, and take precedence of an individual creditor, at any time and under all circumstances? The answer must be that, to enable the court to apply the rule, the case must be such that the court may marshal the debts and effects, and thus ascertain the amount of the joint liabilities and of the joint property. In this manner the court finds whether the entire assets are wanting to pay the joint creditors. Before the joint creditor can take the property from the individual creditor, who has an attachment or other lien, it must be ascertained that the property is wanted for this purpose,—that is, that there are not more than sufficient means for the payment of the partnership creditors. Therefore, it will be perceived that the joint creditor cannot come in by his attachment alone, and oust the separate creditor from his prior attachment, or other lien. The former has not a lien which he may enforce in this manner, for himself alone, by his attachment."

[4] Forsyth v. Woods, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 484, 20 L. ed. 207; Richard v. Allen, 117 Pa. 199, 11 A. 552, 2 Am. St. Rep. 652 (if before sale).

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1010.

In Forsyth v. Woods, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 484, 20 L. ed. 207, the court indicated its opinion in the following language: "If a firm be composed of two persons associated for the conduct of a particular branch of business, it can hardly be maintained that the joint contract of the two partners, made in their individual names, respecting a matter that has no connection with the firm business, creates a liability of the firm as such. The partnership is a distinct thing from the partners themselves, and it would seem that debts of the firm are different in character from other joint debts of the partners. If it is not so, the rule that sets apart the property of a partnership exclusively, in the first instance, for the payment of its debts, may be of little value. That rule presumes that a partnership debt was incurred for the benefit of the partnership, and that its property consists, in whole or in part, of what has been obtained from its creditors. The reason of the rule fails when a debt or liability has not been incurred for the firm as such, even though all the persons who compose the firm may be parties to the contract."

tachment or garnishment against all the partners as individuals has priority over a subsequent attachment or garnishment against the partnership.[5] Generally, in the case of a dormant partnership, priority in point of time gives priority in law, even as against a subsequent lien on the firm property as such.[6] The view has been taken that where the record or legal title of land is in tenants in common, though purchased by funds of a partnership comprised of such individuals, an attachment on the land against them as individuals has priority over a subsequent attachment or other lien on the land by firm creditors.[7] However, there is authority to the contrary. Of course, if the record title shows that the land is partnership property, the general rule applies.[8] When joint creditors acquire a lien on the joint assets, no subsequent disposition of the property by the several partners or by their separate attachment creditors can defeat such lien; it is a lien on the assets themselves, the firm creditors' rights are paramount; no agreement as to the order of sale can give the separate creditors a preference over them.[9]

XII. BONDS, RECEIPTS, AND THEIR ENFORCEMENT

A. The Attachment or Garnishment Bond

1. In General

§ 896. Generally.—Local statutes and practice, almost without exception, require that before an attachment or garnishment shall issue, the plaintiff shall give a bond conditioned to pay the costs and damages which the defendant may sustain by reason of the wrongful suing out of the writ. Under these acts the filing of the bond is held to be a condition precedent to the issuance of the writ.[10] However, attachment statutes sometimes do not require bonds to sustain the issuance of an attachment, at least of attachments based on certain grounds or for certain purposes.[11] A statute authorizing the attachment of property of a nonresident without an undertaking is not unconstitutional.[12] An attachment may be issued without the bond required by statute where the United States is the plaintiff in an action in a state court.[13]

---

[5] Smith v. Smith Bros. 87 Iowa, 93, 54 N. W. 73, 43 Am. St. Rep. 359; Davis v. Delaware & H. Canal Co. 109 N. Y. 47, 15 N. E. 873, 4 Am. St. Rep. 418; Saunders v. Reilly, 105 N. Y. 12, 12 N. E. 170, 59 Am. Rep. 472; Richard v. Allen, 117 Pa. 199, 11 A. 552, 2 Am. St. Rep. 652 (after sale under the prior levy); Doner v. Stauffer, 1 Penr. & W. (Pa.) 198, 21 Am. Dec. 370.

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1011.

In Smith v. Smith Bros. 87 Iowa, 93, 54 N. W. 73, 43 Am. St. Rep. 359, a mortgage executed by the members of a firm to secure payment of the debts of the several individual partners was held to be superior to the liens of subsequent attachments by firm creditors.

In Saunders v. Reilly, 105 N. Y. 12, 12 N. E. 170, 59 Am. Rep. 472, it was said that all the members of a firm might sell the partnership property, even if wholly insolvent, to a purchaser in good faith, and that while the firm property would not pass under successive sales upon execution issued against each one of the individual partners, there was no apparent reason to doubt that it would pass under a sale upon a joint execution against all the partners issued upon a judgment recovered for any joint debt whatever.

[6] How v. Kane, 2 Pinney (Wis.) 531, 54 Am. Dec. 152 (obiter).

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1015.

[7] Cundey v. Hall, 208 Pa. 335, 57 A. 761, 101 Am. St. Rep. 938; Stover v. Stover, 180 Pa. 425, 36 A. 921, 57 Am. St. Rep. 654; Lefevre's Appeal, 69 Pa. 122, 8 Am. Rep. 229; Ridgway's Appeal, 15 Pa. 177, 53 Am. Dec. 586.

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1013.

Notably in Pennsylvania is this rule followed. See cases cited above.

In a Massachusetts case it was held that real estate purchased by partners with partnership funds for partnership use and convenience, but conveyed to them in such a manner as to make them tenants in common, must be considered at law as the several property of the partners as tenants in common, and must be dealt with according to the legal title, and so an attachment by an individual creditor for the separate debt of one was prior to a subsequent attachment for a firm debt. Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 999.

The New Jersey court of chancery takes exception to the Pennsylvania cases cited above. Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 997.

[8] See Savings & Loan Corp. v. Bear, 155 Va. 312, 154 S. E. 587, 75 A.L.R. 980.

Annotation: 75 A.L.R. 1013.

Generally as to when real estate is considered partnership property, see Partnership [Also 20 R. C. L. p. 790].

[9] Coover's Appeal, 29 Pa. 9, 70 Am. Dec. 149 (execution creditors).

[10] Java Cocoanut Oil Co. v. Fidelity & D. Co. (C. C. A. 9th) 300 F. 302, 39 A.L.R. 523; Erwin v. Commercial & R. Bank, 3 La. Ann. 186, 48 Am. Dec. 447; Mullen v. Sanborn, 79 Md. 364, 29 A. 522, 25 L.R.A. 721, 47 Am. St. Rep. 421; Mundil v. Hutson, 33 N. M. 388, 268 P. 566, 59 A.L.R. 522; Vickery v. Crawford, 93 Tex. 373, 55 S. W. 560,

§ 897. Discretion of Court to Permit Filing of Bond for Amount Smaller than That Required by Statute.—It is not within the discretion of the court to permit the filing of an attachment bond for an amount smaller than that required by the statute.[14] However, although upon a proper motion an attachment will be dissolved for failure to file a bond in the necessary amount, the view has been taken that the attachment is not rendered void by the fact that a bond for less than the requisite amount has been filed;[15] and if the judge or other officer erroneously decides that a defective bond is sufficient, such erroneous decision does not go to the jurisdiction to allow the writ,[16] but the error may be cured by filing a sufficient bond nunc pro tunc.[17]

§ 898. Construction of Bonds in Attachment Proceedings.—The primary rights and obligations of the parties to a bond given in an attachment or garnishment suit must be determined in view of the provisions of the law in force when the same is executed[18] and with regard to the object sought to be accomplished by the statute prescribing its execution.[19] The bond will be construed and enforced with respect to the terms of the statute requiring it,

---

49 L.R.A. 773, 77 Am. St. Rep. 891; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 79 Am. Dec. 172; 89 Am. Dec. 658.

In New York the defendant may, together or in the alternative, move for, in addition to the vacation or modification of the warrant, an increase in the amount of the undertaking given by the plaintiff to procure the warrant. 7 Carmody, N. Y. Prac. p. 597.

The property of a citizen cannot be taken from his possession under any writ without a proper proceeding against him, in which security is given for the costs and damages which may result. Vickery v. Crawford, 93 Tex. 373, 55 S. W. 560, 49 L.R.A. 773, 77 Am. St. Rep. 891.

Where an order is made for the payment of the claim of a garnishing creditor out of a fund paid into court by a garnishee, upon the creditors giving a bond with sufficient sureties to refund the amount if he should be found not entitled to it, the bond so given is substituted for the fund. Bowden v. Schatzell, 8 S. C. Eq. (Bailey) 360, 23 Am. Dec. 170.

[11] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; State v. Marshall, 100 Miss. 626, 56 So. 792, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 434; Marsh v. Steele, 9 Neb. 96, 1 N. W. 869, 31 Am. Rep. 406; Byrd v. Rector, 112 W. Va. 192, 163 S. E. 845, 81 A.L.R. 1213.

A plaintiff in an attachment suit is not required by the West Virginia Code, chap. 38, § 8, art. 7, to give bond in order that he may garnish assets of the defendant in the hands of a third party. Byrd v. Rector, 112 W. Va. 192, 163 S. E. 845, 81 A.L.R. 1213.

[12] Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; Marsh v. Steele, 9 Neb. 96, 1 N. W. 869, 31 Am. Rep. 406. See also Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U. S. 94, 65 L. ed. 837, 41 S. Ct. 433, 17 A.L.R. 873.

A territorial statute permitting attachment against a nonresident without a bond, while requiring the bond for attachment against a resident, does not constitute a denial to the nonresident of the equal protection of the laws or of due process. Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346.

[13] United States v. Murdock, 18 La. Ann. 305, 89 Am. Dec. 651.

[14] Fleitas v. Cockrem, 101 U. S. 301, 25 L. ed. 954; Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573; Duxbury v. Dahle, 78 Minn. 427, 81 N. W. 198, 79 Am. St. Rep. 408.

The fact that the amount of an attachment bond is fixed by an order of a judge makes no difference in Louisiana as to the effect of the invalidity of an insufficient bond upon the subsequent proceedings. According to the Code of that state as construed by its courts, the bond given by the attaching creditor must be for a sum exceeding by one half that which he claims. Fleitas v. Cockrem, 101 U. S. 301, 25 L. ed. 954.

[15] Fleitas v. Cockrem, 101 U. S. 301, 25 L. ed. 954; Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573.

[16] Duxbury v. Dahle, 78 Minn. 427, 81 N. W. 198, 79 Am. St. Rep. 408.

[17] See infra, § 900.

[18] Jayne v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810; Bedard v. Mahoney, 30 R. I. 469, 76 A. 113, 136 Am. St. Rep. 965.

[19] Jayne v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810, which will be read into it,[20] especially in any case where the construction to be given a bond is doubtful. However, the view has been taken that the language of an attachment or garnishment bond is to be strictly construed in favor of the obligors.[1] Moreover, it has been ruled that if the words in an undertaking in attachment are not sufficiently explicit or, if literally construed, would be nonsensical, the bond must be construed with reference to the intention of the parties, and that in doing this, it is allowable to depart from the letter of the condition, to reject meaningless words, and to supply obvious omissions in order to uphold the bond.[2]

2. Validity, Efficacy, and Amendments

§ 899. Validity and Efficacy as Obligation.—The sufficiency of an attachment bond to procure or sustain an attachment is to be distinguished from its validity and efficacy as an obligation.[3] It is a settled rule of law, applicable to attachment and garnishment as well as to other bonds generally, that bonds intended to be taken in compliance with statutes, though failing in such compliance, if entered into voluntarily and founded upon a valid consideration, and if they do not violate public policy or contravene any statute, constitute valid common-law obligations and will be enforced by common-law remedies.[4] If an undertaking in attachment shows a conclusive purpose and intention to indemnify the defendant, the omission or insertion of unimportant words, surplusage, or mere clerical errors, will not vitiate it.[5] Moreover, the view has been taken that the validity of a bond in attachment is not affected by a noncompliance with the statute prescribing the steps precedent to the execution of the obligation—as, for example, a failure of the officer issuing the attachment to require the plaintiff to make affidavit that one of the statutory grounds for attachment exists.[6] Accordingly, the misrecital of facts is of no importance where the facts misstated are matter of inducement to the obligation, and not necessary to be stated at all as inducement or otherwise, and as mere surplusage the recitals may be disregarded;[7] a variance between the bond and the attachment cannot be assigned as error when the recital in the bond is unnecessary;[8] it is immaterial that the surety, by mistake, signs his name to the justification of the undertaking, instead of to the undertaking itself, where, since the statute prescribes no rule as to the execution of the undertaking, a signing and delivery is sufficient;[9] and an attachment bond is valid although the names of the obligors signed at the bottom of the bond do not appear in the body thereof.[10] However, a bond which is signed in blank when delivered and afterwards filled in[11] or a bond exacted by an officer in an attachment case without authority of law is null and void.[12] Moreover, where authority to require the bond is made to depend upon the issuance of the writ of attachment, a bond executed in the absence of any writ is ineffectual to create any liability on the part of the purported obligors.[13]

---

[20] Kimbrell v. Heffner, 163 S. C. 35, 161 S. E. 175, 80 A.L.R. 591.

[1] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326; Bedard v. Mahoney, 30 R. I. 469, 76 A. 113, 136 Am. St. Rep. 965.

[2] Simmons Hardware Co. v. Alturas Commercial Co. 4 Idaho, 334, 39 P. 550, 95 Am. St. Rep. 66.

[3] As to the sufficiency of a bond to procure the attachment or garnishment, see infra, § 900.

[4] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232; Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306; Plumley v. Stewart, 165 S. C. 316, 163 S. E. 777, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 595; 97 Am. St. Rep. 69; 81 Am. Dec. 475.

Although the statute may provide for the execution of a bond, yet the form of the obligation is not material; and if the instrument is technically an undertaking, it is valid and enforceable. A bond or undertaking, as either may be prescribed by statute, is designed to serve the same purpose and to stand upon the same consideration; and when an action is brought upon either, the obligation is governed by like principles. No distinction may be drawn on the ground that a bond is a writing under seal, and that since an undertaking is only a promise to pay the debt of another, and not under seal, no consideration can be presumed; but the same must be expressed in the writing. Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306; Plumley v. Stewart, 165 S. C. 316, 163 S. E. 777, citing R. C. L.

[5] Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110; Simmons Hardware Co. v. Alturas Commercial Co. 4 Idaho, 334, 39 P. 550, 95 Am. St. Rep. 66; Boger v. Cedar Cove Lumber Co. 165 N. C. 557, 81 S. E. 784, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 116.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 993.

[6] McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45, 97 Am. St. Rep. 67.

[7] Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 993.

[8] Annotation: 107 Am. St. Rep. 89f

The rule of de minimis non curat lex is applicable to attachment bonds, at least where the deficiency is less than $1. However, it has been held that the rule does not cure a deficiency in an attachment bond of more than $1.[14]

§ 900. Sufficiency to Procure or Sustain Attachment or Garnishment; Amendments and Additional Bonds.—In many jurisdictions in which the filing of a proper bond is made a prerequisite to the issuance of the attachment writ, the courts have refused, in the absence of express statutory authority, to permit amendments to be made to defective attachment bonds after the issuance of the writ, the view taken being that the requirement must be strictly and rigidly enforced, since the remedy of attachment is an unusual and extraordinary one.[15] At least, the rule has been stated, where the bond is a nullity because jurisdictionally defective, that a cure cannot be effected by amendment or the filing of a new undertaking.[16] However, under the authority of statutes which in express terms authorize amendments to attachment bonds, in many jurisdictions wherein the giving of a prescribed bond or undertaking is a prerequisite to the issuance of an attachment writ, attachment bonds have been held to be amendable subsequent to the issuance of the writ either by the giving of a new bond or by a correction of the old one. Where amendments are thus expressly authorized by statute, some decisions not only hold that the plaintiff may exercise that right on request, but go further and make it the duty of the court to give an opportunity for amendment before quashing the attachment proceedings.[17] In other jurisdictions such authority is based upon a liberal construction of amendment statutes generally, or of those relating to attachment.[18] The view has been taken that where an amendment

---

[9] Boger v. Cedar Cove Lumber Co. 165 N. C. 557, 81 S. E. 784, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 116.

[10] McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45, 97 Am. St. Rep. 67.

[11] Perminter v. McDaniel, 19 S. C. L. (1 Hill) 267, 26 Am. Dec. 179.

[12] Lowe v. Southern Surety Co. 55 S. D. 623, 227 N. W. 78, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 56 Am. Dec. 332.

[13] Benedict v. Bray, 2 Cal. 251, 56 Am. Dec. 332.

[14] Annotation: 44 A.L.R. 184.

[15] Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 1005; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 117.

If an attachment bond has been executed with fewer than the required number of sureties, it will be quashed or dismissed on motion; and where the statute requires at least two good and sufficient securities, a bond with but one surety is insufficient and cannot be amended. Annotation: 9 Ann. Cas. 708.

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 118.

An attachment bond providing that the plaintiff would prove his demand on a trial at law has been held jurisdictionally defective. Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 1005.

The California Practice Act, § 553, requires an undertaking in attachment to pay all damages without limitation as to amount. Under this statute, a bond limiting damages to "not exceeding $100" is illegal. Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 1005.

[17] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 118.

[18] Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573 (bond insufficient in amount); Boger v. Cedar Cove Lumber Co. 165 N. C. 557, 81 S. E. 784, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 116.

Annotation: 61 Am. Dec. 130; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 117.

In several jurisdictions in which there is no express statutory authority for amending an attachment bond, it has been held that amendments of defective bonds subsequent to the issuance of the writ are allowable under statutes authorizing generally in furtherance of justice the amendment of any pleading, process, or proceeding. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 118.

If an attachment undertaking was inval-is allowed, either by correcting the original undertaking or by substituting a new one, the effect is to validate the proceeding from its inception,[19] and that until a reasonable opportunity has been given to the plaintiff to perfect proceedings in which there are curable defects, such proceedings will be treated as valid.[20]

B. Dissolution and Release Bonds

1. In General

§ 901. Generally.[1]—The bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or to release property subject to the attachment or garnishment takes different forms in different jurisdictions. However, such bonds fall into one of two general classes.[2] The first class of bonds comprises those which are conditioned generally that if judgment in the attachment suit is rendered against the defendant, the property shall be forthcoming to satisfy the execution on such judgment, otherwise that the sureties will be bound to the extent of the value of the property, in some instances, and to the amount of the indebtedness, in other instances. These bonds are variously called "bail bonds," "forthcoming bonds," and "delivery bonds." Such bonds release the property only from the custody of the officer; they do not release it from the lien of the attachment.[3] Such a bond may also be called and be in the form of a replevy or refunding bond.[4]

The second class of bonds comprises those which are conditioned generally that the defendant in the attachment suit will perform whatever judgment may be entered against him in such attachment suit, and that in default thereof, and in the event that judgment is entered against such defendant, the sure-id where the surety signed his name to the justification, instead of to the undertaking, the court had power, on a motion to vacate, to permit the filing of a proper undertaking. Boger v. Cedar Cove Lumber Co. 165 N. C. 557, 81 S. E. 784, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 116.

---

A sufficient bond may be permitted to be filed nunc pro tunc where the court has erroneously permitted the issuance of an attachment on a bond insufficient in amount. Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573; Duxbury v. Dahle, 78 Minn. 427, 81 N. W. 198, 79 Am. St. Rep. 408.

[19] Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 118.

[20] Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573.

The fact that an additional bond in an attachment suit is not filed within the specified time does not discharge the attachment where it is filed before the institution of proceedings attacking the validity of the attachment and the rules of court allow amendments. State ex rel. Nenzel v. District Ct. 49 Nev. 145, 241 P. 317, 43 A.L.R. 1331.

[1] See also, as to receipts for the release of attached property, infra, §§ 931 et seq.

[2] Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 595.

The Ohio practice is to permit a release of the attached property, but not a discharge of the attachment, on a bond to produce property, and to permit a discharge of the attachment on a bond to pay judgment. 4 Ohio Jur. pp. 263, 264. See also Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810; Fortman v. Rottier, 8 Ohio St. 548, 72 Am. Dec. 606.

The Pennsylvania practice is to permit a bond to dissolve a foreign attachment and a bond to release property subject to, but not to dissolve, a fraudulent debtor's attachment. See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

The North Dakota statute makes provision for the discharge of an attachment upon the application of the defendant when he furnishes an undertaking. Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460.

[3] Krippendorf v. Hyde, 110 U. S. 276, 28 L. ed. 145, 4 S. Ct. 27; King v. Watson, 51 Colo. 293, 117 P. 165, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 178; Floyd v. Cook, 118 Ga. 526, 45 S. E. 441, 63 L.R.A. 450; Waterman v. Treat, 49 Me. 309, 77 Am. Dec. 261; Smith v. Lacey, 86 Miss. 295, 38 So. 311, 109 Am. St. Rep. 707 (a forthcoming bond); People v. Metropolitan Surety Co. 205 N. Y. 135, 98 N. E. 412, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1180; Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306; St. Joseph Stockyards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 272; 36 A.L.R. 449; 37 A.L.R. 1402; 80 A.L.R. 595; 81 A.L.R. 81; 89 A.L.R. 266; L.R.A.1916F, 589.

The giving of a delivery bond does not divest the lien of an attachment upon goods which remain, in contemplation of law, in the possession of the officer. Krippendorf v. Hyde, 110 U. S. 276, 28 L. ed. 145, 4 S. Ct. 27.

[4] Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052.

ties will pay the amount thereof. A bond of this class not only releases the officer from the further liability as to the care and custody of the property, but also releases the property itself from the lien of such attachment, working an entire dissolution of the attachment so far as the property is concerned, in consequence whereof the bond itself is held as a substitute of the res.[5] As these bonds are unknown to the common law and are purely the creatures of statutory law, it is necessary, of course, to look to the law of their creation for the definition of their character and their operation on the rights of the parties.[6] Where the mode is provided by statute in which the sheriff is authorized to release attached property, such officer cannot take any other obligation or security from the defendant or another for the purpose of such release than that authorized by the statute.[7] Under modern statutes a married woman has become a person sui juris and may procure the dissolution of an attachment of her property by giving the statutory bond.[8] If, after attached property is surrendered to the defendant in pursuance of a delivery bond, it is seized and taken from his possession under another writ, whereupon he executes, with sureties, another delivery bond and again gains possession of the property and, on judgment being recovered against him in the second action, surrenders possession of the property to an officer pursuant to the terms of the second bond, he cannot maintain an action against the second officer for the possession of the property, even though the second levy, by reason of the first, was unauthorized.[9]

§ 902. Duty to Give Bond and Procure Return of Property to Mitigate Damages.—In some cases the courts have taken the position that if the owner is financially able to do so, he must procure the return of his wrongfully attached property by giving a bond, thereby reducing the damages resulting from the wrongful attachment. Of course, if he is not financially able to procure an undertaking, the law will not require him to do so or lose his right to damages. In such a case he will be entitled to rely on the rule of compensation.[10]

---

[5] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254; Inbusch v. Farwell, 1 Black (U. S.) 566, 17 L. ed. 188; United States v. Morrison, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 124, 7 L. ed. 804; Smith v. Heineman, 118 Ala. 195, 24 So. 364, 72 Am. St. Rep. 150; Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262; Stevenson v. Palmer, 14 Colo. 565, 24 P. 5, 20 Am. St. Rep. 295; Worstman v. Wade, 77 Ga. 651, 4 Am. St. Rep. 102; Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021; Cole v. Parker, 7 Iowa, 167, 71 Am. Dec. 439; Toelle v. Sells-Floto Shows Co. 111 Kan. 562, 207 P. 849, citing R. C. L.; Rogers v. Abbot, 206 Mass. 270, 92 N. E. 472, 138 Am. St. Rep. 394; Walsh v. Brown, 194 Mass. 317, 80 N. E. 465, 120 Am. St. Rep. 556; Olds v. City Trust, S. D. & Surety Co. 185 Mass. 500, 70 N. E. 1022, 102 Am. St. Rep. 356; Fidelity & D. Co. v. B. F. Sturtevant Co. 86 Miss. 509, 38 So. 783, 109 Am. St. Rep. 716; Smith v. Lacey, 86 Miss. 295, 38 So. 311, 109 Am. St. Rep. 707; Martin v. McBryde, 182 N. C. 175, 108 S. E. 739, 21 A.L.R. 12; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810; Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818; Bedard v. Mahoney, 30 R. I. 469, 76 A. 113, 136 Am. St. Rep. 965; Nighbert v. Hornsby, 100 Tenn. 82, 42 S. W. 1060, 66 Am. St. Rep. 736; Portis v. Parker, 8 Tex. 23, 58 Am. Dec. 95.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 272; 36 A.L.R. 449; 37 A.L.R. 1402; 80 A.L.R. 595; 81 A.L.R. 81; 89 A.L.R. 266; 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1273; 123 Am. St. Rep. 1049; 12 Ann. Cas. 170.

Where, at the instance of the attachment debtor, a bond is substituted for the lien of the attachment, the original lien of the attachment is represented by the bond out of which judgment entered against the debtor may be satisfied. Martin v. McBryde, 182 N. C. 175, 108 S. E. 739, 21 A.L.R. 12.

Under a statute providing that an attachment bond "may be in a penalty of double the amount specified in the affidavit, annexed to the writ, as due to the plaintiff, conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be recovered by the plaintiff in the suit commenced by such attachment, within sixty days after such judgment shall be rendered," the court held that a bond in the penalty of $5,600, to pay whatever judgment should be obtained, was within the statute where the judgment rendered was in the sum of $2,884.48 and costs. Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553.

[6] Bank of United States v. Patton, 5 How. (Miss.) 200, 35 Am. Dec. 428.

[7] Cole v. Parker, 7 Iowa, 167, 71 Am. Dec. 439.

[8] Binney v. Globe Nat. Bank, 150 Mass. 574, 23 N. E. 380, 6 L.R.A. 379.

[9] Stevenson v. Palmer, 14 Colo. 565, 24 P. 5, 20 Am. St. Rep. 295.

§ 903. Requirement of Bail or Security as Condition of Right to Appear and Defend.[11]—By the custom of London a defendant could not appear or raise an issue about the debt claimed without entering special bail or surrendering his body. Hence, it naturally came about that the American colonies and states, in adopting foreign attachment as a remedy for collecting debts due from nonresident or absconding debtors, in many instances, made it a part of the procedure that if the defendant desired to enter an appearance and contest the plaintiff's demand, he must first give substantial security, usually in the form of special bail.[12] Such a requirement does not violate the due process[13] or privileges and immunities[14] clauses of the Federal Constitution.[15] Furthermore, no denial of the equal protection of the laws results from the provision of a foreign attachment statute under which a nonresident individual defendant is debarred from appearing and defending without first giving special security, while a foreign corporate defendant may appear and answer without giving any security except for the lien of the process upon the property attached.[16]

§ 904. Right of Sureties to Reimbursement, Subrogation, Contribution, Possession, and Injunctive Relief.—The principal and surety relationship on an attachment or garnishment bond is governed by the law of suretyship as it applies to that relationship on bonds generally.[17] Accordingly, a surety, upon actually paying the debt upon such a bond, where he is under legal obligation to make such payment, generally becomes entitled to reimbursement from the principal,[18] to contribution from cosureties to equalize the common burden,[1] and to subrogation to the lien of the attachment or garnishment to secure his rights.[2]

---

[10] W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467.
Annotation: 33 A.L.R. 1479.

In W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467, it was held that one whose automobile had been wrongfully seized under an attachment was under a duty to procure its return by giving a bond with approved security, if financially able to do so, and thus to reduce the damages for the wrongful seizure. It was stated, however, that the owner would not lose his right to damages if he was financially unable to procure the necessary bond.

[11] Generally as to the effect of bonds in attachment or garnishment proceedings as constituting an appearance, see infra, § 948; as conferring jurisdiction on the court, see Vol. 4, p. 582, § 53.

[12] Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U. S. 94, 65 L. ed. 837, 41 S. Ct. 433, 17 A.L.R. 873, stating this to have been the rule in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.
Annotation: 17 A.L.R. 884.

[13] Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U. S. 94, 65 L. ed. 837, 41 S. Ct. 433, 17 A.L.R. 873.
Annotation: 17 A.L.R. 884.

[14] Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U. S. 94, 65 L. ed. 837, 41 S. Ct. 433, 17 A.L.R. 873.
Annotation: 17 A.L.R. 884.

[15] In Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U. S. 94, 65 L. ed. 837, 41 S. Ct. 433, 17 A.L.R. 873, the court sustained the validity of the Delaware statutes which afforded a nonresident individual defendant in a suit begun by a foreign attachment an opportunity to appear and defend only in case he gave bail or security for the discharge of the property seized to the value of such property and costs. The decision was based on cases which showed the custom of requiring special bail as a condition of appearance, but which did not discuss the validity of statutory provisions making this requirement.

[16] Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U. S. 94, 65 L. ed. 837, 41 S. Ct. 433, 17 A.L.R. 873.

No other case than the above, expressly passing on the question of the constitutionality of such a statute, has been found. Attention is called, however, to several illustrative cases not involving attachment in which the right to make a defense was conditional. Annotation: 17 A.L.R. 885.

[17] Judgment on a forthcoming bond does not destroy the relation of principal and surety existing between the parties to the bond. Newell v. Hamer, 4 How. (Miss.) 684, 35 Am. Dec. 415.

See SURETYSHIP [Also PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, 21 R. C. L. p. 940].

[18] Edgerly v. Emerson, 23 N. H. 555, 55 Am. Dec. 207.

See SURETYSHIP [Also PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, 21 R. C. L. p. 1097, §§ 134 et seq.].

Sureties on a delivery bond induced to become such by representations that the property had been levied on, when in fact no legal levy had been made, are not bound and may have an injunction against the enforcement of their liability.[3]

2. VALIDITY, EFFICACY, AND WAIVER OF DEFECTS

§ 905. Generally.—The general rule is that a mere informality will not void a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or release attached or garnished property.[4] The omission of words[5] or misrecitals in the bond[6] do not ordinarily vitiate it. Also, the fact that attached property is not in the name of the attachment debtor does not invalidate a bond for its release, on the giving of which the attachment is dissolved;[7] nor are the obligors in a bond released from liability for its forthcoming to meet the exigencies of executions against the real owner because of misrecitals in the obligation of its ownership.[8] However, a bond delivered with a blank left for the insertion of the amount is not the deed of the party signing; nor will it become so unless there is a redelivery thereof after the blanks have been filled in by someone properly authorized.[9]

---

[1] Preston v. Preston, 4 Gratt. (Va.) 88, 47 Am. Dec. 717 (forthcoming bond for property taken on execution).

The sureties of one of the joint debtors in a forthcoming bond become, on the forfeiture thereof, sureties for the debt; hence, when they have discharged the same, they are entitled to be substituted to all the rights of the creditors against the original debtors subsisting at the time they became so bound for the debt. They may, therefore, have a decree against the other joint debtors, or either of them, as each is liable for the whole debt. However, they cannot charge them for the execution and forfeiture of the forthcoming bond. Robinson v. Sherman, 2 Gratt. (Va.) 178, 44 Am. Dec. 381.

However, a surety on a supersedeas bond on appeal in an action based on attachment dissolved on execution of a release bond, which supersedeas bond was entered into without the request of the sureties on the release bond, is not, on payment of the judgment after affirmance, entitled by right of subrogation to look to the sureties on the release bond for reimbursement. Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021.

See SURETYSHIP [Also PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, 21 R. C. L. p. 1130, §§ 167 et seq.].

[2] Edgerly v. Emerson, 23 N. H. 555, 55 Am. Dec. 207.

However, sureties on a delivery bond under which attached property has been surrendered to the defendant by the officer levying the writ have no right to the possession thereof before the entry of final judgment in the action, and hence cannot maintain an action of replevin against an officer who subsequently seizes the property under another writ. Stevenson v. Palmer, 14 Colo. 565, 24 P. 5, 20 Am. St. Rep. 295.

See SURETYSHIP [Also PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, 21 R. C. L. p. 1112, § 148].

[3] Bradley v. Kesee, 5 Coldw. (Tenn.) 223, 94 Am. Dec. 246.

[4] Williams v. Lyles, 2 Cranch (U. S.) 9, 2 L. ed. 191; Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110; Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021; Doe ex dem. Robinson v. Parker, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 114, 41 Am. Dec. 614; Evans v. Matson, 51 Pa. 366, 88 Am. Dec. 584.

If a forthcoming bond shows on its face that it was given for the forthcoming of certain property levied on and claimed as exempt, identifies the contest with respect to the pendency of which it is given, and shows that the obligors bind themselves to the forthcoming of the particular property involved in the contest, it is sufficient as a statutory obligation and in respect of the summary proceedings on it authorized by statute, and its validity or sufficiency is not affected by the fact that it erroneously recites the levy of an execution on the property when the levy in question was in fact that of an attachment. Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110.

[5] The omission of the words "aforesaid property" in a forthcoming bond after the words "shall have forthcoming and deliver" does not vitiate the bond, as these words are supplied by intendment. Doe ex dem. Robinson v. Parker, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 114, 41 Am. Dec. 614.

[6] A forthcoming bond which, in reciting the execution, states the cost to be slightly in excess of the correct amount is not thereby vitiated if the aggregate of debts and costs is truly stated, but will support a judgment on motion. Williams v. Lyles, 2 Cranch (U. S.) 9, 2 L. ed. 191.

[7] Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021.

[8] Evans v. Matson, 51 Pa. 366, 88 Am. Dec. 584.

[9] Sievers v. Samuel, 172 La. 1005, 136 So. 33, citing R. C. L.; Williams v. Crutcher, 5 How. (Miss.) 71, 35 Am. Dec. 422.

The dissolution of the attachment alone is a sufficient consideration for a release bond.[10]

§ 906. Waiver of Defects and Irregularities.—A plaintiff may waive defects and irregularities in a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or to release attached or garnished property;[11] and if he does so, there is no reason why the bond should not be binding on the signers[12] or why anyone else should object to its validity.[13] Thus, the plaintiff, for whose protection the bond is executed, may waive its formal approval by the sheriff or clerk, as provided by statute, and accept it as tendered under the statute, without invalidating its efficacy as a statutory release bond.[14]

§ 907. Formal Approval.—Bonds for the discharge of attachments are required in some states to be approved officially, the purpose of approval being that by exacting specific approval, mistakes in receiving bonds executed by persons of doubtful responsibility are thereby more likely to be avoided. It is a condition to the acceptance of the bond by the officer, however, without which, in the absence of a waiver, the attachment is not dissolved. Nor can the bond, without approval, be deemed statutory, whatever its efficacy as a common-law obligation. But the plaintiff, for whose protection the bond is executed, may waive the formality of approval and accept it as tendered under the statute, without invalidating its efficacy as a statutory release bond.[15]

§ 908. Obligation Valid as Common-law Recognizance Despite Defectiveness as Statutory Bond.—It is a familiar principle, applicable to bonds in attachment or garnishment proceedings as well as to bonds generally, that though voluntary and not authorized by, or not in accord with, statutory provision, if they do not contravene public policy or violate any statute, they are valid and binding on the parties to them.[16] Accordingly, it is a settled rule that bonds intended to be taken in compliance with statutes, but failing in such compliance, nevertheless constitute, if entered into voluntarily and founded upon a valid consideration and if not violative of public policy or in contravention of any statute, valid common-law obligations and will be enforced by common-law remedies.[17] Thus, a surety on a release bond cannot escape liability thereon because it was accepted by the parties by stipulation and not approved by the officer as provided by statute.[18] This does not mean that a bond insufficient under the statute will ground the dissolution of an attachment or garnishment or the release of attached or garnished property, but only that if it is given that effect, it will be binding between the parties as an undertaking if it is sufficient for that purpose.

---

[10] Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021.

[11] Ibid.

It would seem, in any case, that the statutory requirement of more than one surety may be dispensed with by the party for whose benefit the bond is taken. And it has been held that a statutory requirement that there shall be two sureties in a bond to procure the discharge of an attachment upon a vessel may be dispensed with by the creditor without invalidating the bond. Annotation: 9 Ann. Cas. 708.

[12] Sievers v. Samuel, 172 La. 1005, 136 So. 33, citing R. C. L.; Coffee v. Planters' Bank, 11 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 458, 49 Am. Dec. 68.

[13] Sievers v. Samuel, 172 La. 1005, 136 So. 33, citing R. C. L.; Walker v. McDowell, 4 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 118, 43 Am. Dec. 476.

[14] Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021.

[15] Ibid.

[16] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45, 97 Am. St. Rep. 67; Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232; Plumley v. Stewart, 165 S. C. 316, 163 S. E. 777, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 595.

However, it has been held that where a statutory bond to release property would become effective if the attachment should be "sustained," a bond to become effective if the attachment was "discharged" was inoperative and no recovery could be had on it even as a common-law obligation. Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 1005.

[17] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021; Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232; Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306; Plumley v. Stewart, 165 S. C. 316, 163 S. E. 777, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 595; 97 Am. St. Rep. 69; 81 Am. Dec. 475.

The failure to procure more than one surety to an attachment bond does not invalidate it so as to relieve the single surety from liability thereon in case of a breach of its conditions. Annotation: 9 Ann. Cas. 708.

§ 909. Bond Void where Attachment Void.—The general rule is that an attachment which is void will not sustain a bond given to discharge it or to release property levied on under it, and that principal or surety on such a bond, in an action to enforce his liability thereon, may show that the attachment was void.[19] Nor is the bond binding as a common-law bond.[20]

A delivery bond exacted by legal coercion for property exempt from execution, but levied on without the defendant's assent, is no recognition of the validity of the levy or waiver of the defendant's right, but is void and equity will relieve against it.[1]

§ 910. Attacking the Bond.—While ordinarily, if a bond is irregularly taken, it may be quashed on the motion of either party,[2] as a general rule, a party to a forthcoming bond cannot have it quashed after the return term,[3] although it is never too late for one who is not a party to it to object to its operating to charge him, since as to him it is void.[4]

It has been held that relief upon the motion of a surety on a forthcoming bond may be granted in a proper case in the court in which the bond was taken, which court may direct an exoneretur of the surety, and need not require him to seek his remedy by audita querela or by a bill in chancery.[5]

---

[18] Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021.

[19] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; Fleitas v. Cockrem, 101 U. S. 301, 25 L. ed. 954; Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262; Murphy v. Montandon, 3 Idaho, 325, 29 P. 851, 35 Am. St. Rep. 279. See also Ex parte Cheatham, 6 Ark. 531, 44 Am. Dec. 525; Murphy v. Montandon, 3 Idaho, 325, 29 P. 851, 35 Am. St. Rep. 279; Olson v. Nunnally, 47 Kan. 391, 28 P. 149, 27 Am. St. Rep. 296; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810; Lowe v. Southern Surety Co. 55 S. D. 623, 227 N. W. 78, citing R. C. L. (holding rule not applicable to facts of case). Bradley v. Kesee, 5 Coldw. (Tenn.) 223, 94 Am. Dec. 246.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 277; 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 407.

Where property of a national bank was attached in contravention of a Federal statute (12 U. S. C. A. § 91), it was held, in Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718, that the sureties on a bond given to release such property, which was conditioned to pay any judgment which might be rendered against the bank, were not bound and could assert the invalidity of the attachment, since, there being no authority of law for the attachment, there could be none for taking the bond, which was consequently not good under the statute or at common law, because there was no sufficient foundation to support it.

[20] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718.

Where a writ of attachment was void because issued on the clerk's own fiat, and not granted by a court or judge, it was held that a replevin bond given to the sheriff to release property levied on under the attachment was not authorized by law, and that no decree could properly be entered thereon against the sureties. Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 277.

[1] Perry v. Hensley, 14 B. Mon. (Ky.) 474, 61 Am. Dec. 164. See also Eltzroth v. Webster, 15 Ind. 21, 77 Am. Dec. 78, wherein it was held that giving up property under a writ and executing a delivery bond therefor do not estop the execution defendant from claiming the property as exempt from execution at any time before sale, and that since the levy has to be made, there is no good reason why the fact that the property was given up should be considered a waiver of the right to claim it as exempt from sale.

The payment of money by a person to free his goods from an attachment sued out for the purpose of extortion by one who knows that he has no valid cause of action has been held to be a compulsory payment and recoverable as such. Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10; Chandler v. Sanger, 114 Mass. 364, 19 Am. Rep. 367; Adams v. Reeves, 68 N. C. 134, 12 Am. Rep. 627; Collins v. Westbury, 2 S. C. L. (2 Bay) 211, 1 Am. Dec. 643. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1355.

[2] Steele v. Boyd, 6 Leigh (Va.) 547, 29 Am. Dec. 218.

[3] Coffee v. Planters' Bank, 11 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 458, 49 Am. Dec. 68.

[4] Doe ex dem. Smith v. Roe, 4 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 261, 43 Am. Dec. 483.

3. Accrual and Measure of Liability

§ 911. Accrual of Liability.—The general rule is that liability of obligors on a bond to dissolve or release an attachment is fixed by judgment against the defendant in the attachment, according to their undertaking,[6] and there is a breach of such a bond when the sureties fail to pay the amount of the judgment within the statutory period after its rendition.[7] The obligors on a forthcoming bond are bound thereby without an express demand or notice from the obligee to deliver the property.[8] The view has been taken that it is the final judgment of the appellate court that determines liability. Sureties are not exonerated from liability by judgment of the trial court for the defendant and dissolution of the attachment, where an appellate court on a trial de novo renders judgment for the plaintiff and sustains the attachment.[9]

Where the statute under which a release bond is given forms a part of the bond and provides that in case the plaintiff in the attachment action should be entitled to recover, judgment might go against the surety on the bond, the surety, by signing the bond, is bound by the statute and virtually consents that judgment may go against him in the action.[10]

§ 912. Measure of Liability.—The extent of the liability upon a bond for the release of property from attachment depends upon the terms and conditions of the bond actually given.[11] A bond given to obtain the redelivery to the defendant of the property attached, and conditioned upon the return of such property, limits the liability to the extent of the value of the property.[12] But a bond conditioned upon the payment to the plaintiff of the amount of the judgment that may be rendered against the defendant imposes a liability in the amount of such judgment.[13] Indeed, where both statute and bond are conditioned solely for the payment of the judgment recovered by the attachment plaintiff, liability is not limited to the value of the property released, although the plaintiff and the defendant in attachment have stipulated as to the value of such property in lieu of an appraisal.[14]

---

[5] Steele v. Boyd, 6 Leigh (Va.) 547, 29 Am. Dec. 218.

[6] People v. Metropolitan Surety Co. 205 N. Y. 135, 98 N. E. 412, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1180; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810.

Annotation: 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 743.

The liability of a surety for the return of attached property is contingent, though the receipt given for the return of the property is absolute in terms. Goldberg v. Parker, 87 Conn. 99, 87 A. 555, 46 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1097, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 1059.

When a bond given to dissolve an attachment is conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be recovered in the action, the sureties cannot require the obligee to exhaust any collateral securities which he may have held before taking judgment in the action in which the bond was given. If the sureties have any interest or concern with the action of the obligee in such collateral, it can be no more than a right to subrogation on the payment of the bond. Olds v. City Trust, S. D. & Surety Co. 185 Mass. 500, 70 N. E. 1022, 102 Am. St. Rep. 356.

A forthcoming bond in an attachment suit cannot be held to be conditioned upon the outcome of an intervention suit to test title to the property, which was not instituted until nearly a week after the bond was executed. Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398.

[7] Rogers v. Abbot, 206 Mass. 270, 92 N. E. 472, 138 Am. St. Rep. 394.

[8] King v. Watson, 51 Colo. 293, 117 P. 165, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 178; Janes v. Horton, 32 Ga. 245, 79 Am. Dec. 300.

If a bond given to release an attachment contains a provision that it shall be void if at any time after final judgment, the goods, on request therefor, shall be returned to the officer taking the bond, it has been held that the possession of an execution on such judgment is not necessary to enable the officer to demand a return of the property. Tucker v. Carr, 20 R. I. 477, 40 A. 1, 78 Am. St. Rep. 893.

[9] King v. Watson, 51 Colo. 293, 117 P. 165, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 178.

[10] Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254.

[11] Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 595.

[12] Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 595.

[13] Kimbrell v. Heffner, 163 S. C. 35, 161 S. E. 175, 80 A.L.R. 591.

Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 597.

These bonds usually contain a penalty, and it is a fundamental rule that the extent of the surety's liability is limited by the penalty in the bond.

4. Discharge and Estoppel

a. What Operates to Discharge Liability

§ 913. Generally.—A defendant who has given a bond to secure the redelivery of his property or release it from the attachment or garnishment lien is discharged of all liability on such bond by a judgment in the principal case in his favor. He is likewise discharged by a decision to the effect that the attachment or garnishment is invalid. The surety on such bond is discharged by anything which discharges the principal obligor and, in addition thereto, is discharged under the rules applicable to the suretyship relation generally.[15] He may be discharged by an extension of time without his knowledge or consent. Such a discharge arises generally where the record or pleading is amended by the introduction of a new cause of action or different measure of damages; by an amendment to the prejudice of the surety; by judgment or favorable outcome for the defendant; sometimes by the death, bankruptcy, or insolvency of the defendant, depending upon the condition of the bond and the effect of such event on the attachment or garnishment;[16] or by a binding agreement with the principal debtor enlarging the time of payment without the consent of the surety.[17] As to a forthcoming or redelivery bond, which generally does not effect the dissolution of the attachment or garnishment,[18] the surety will be discharged by subsequent events or transactions having the effect of discharging the attachment or garnishment or releasing the attached or garnished property from the lien of the same.[19] Liability of

---

[14] Kimbrell v. Heffner, 163 S. C. 35, 161 S. E. 175, 80 A.L.R. 591.

Where an $8,000 bond was given to release an attachment upon property of the actual value of $1,000, the condition being that if, upon judgment being rendered for the plaintiff, the property should be returned, the obligation should be void, the statute providing for a bond in double the appraised value "conditioned for the return of the said property in case judgment shall be rendered for the plaintiff," it was held that, there having been no appraisal of the property as provided for by the statute, the liability on the bond was the penal sum thereof, not exceeding the amount of the judgment rendered, irrespective of the value of the property. Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 599.

[15] See Suretyship [Also Principal and Surety, 21 R. C. L. p. 1000, §§ 50 et seq.].

[16] See infra, §§ 914 et seq.

Generally, as to effect of death, bankruptcy, or insolvency of defendant on attachment, see Vol. 4, p. 928, §§ 625 et seq.; on garnishment, see supra, §§ 742 et seq.

[17] It has been held that a surety on a forthcoming bond is released if the creditor makes an agreement with the principal debtor to give the latter time and to take a specified sum payable in annual instalments in satisfaction of the bond. Steele v. Boyd, 6 Leigh (Va.) 547, 29 Am. Dec. 218.

A mere voluntary indulgence to the debtor, however, is not within the policy of this rule, and abridges none of the rights of the creditor. There must be a positive and binding agreement, and for this purpose it must be based on some new and valuable consideration which is sufficient to tie up the creditor and prevent him from asserting any remedy during the time for which the indulgence has been given (see Suretyship [Also Principal and Surety, 21 R. C. L. p. 940]). Holding up execution on a forthcoming bond does not, therefore, discharge the surety, where it is a voluntary act on the part of the creditor, for which no consideration has been given (Wright v. Yell, 13 Ark. 503, 58 Am. Dec. 336; Blandford v. Barger, 9 Dana (Ky.) 22, 33 Am. Dec. 519), even though during the time that the writ is so held, the principal debtor becomes insolvent (Newell v. Hamer, 4 How. (Miss.) 684, 35 Am. Dec. 415).

[18] See supra, § 901.

[19] Inbusch v. Farwell, 1 Black (U. S.) 566, 17 L. ed. 188; Crook Horner Co. v. Gilpin, 112 Md. 1, 75 A. 1049, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 233, 136 Am. St. Rep. 376; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810.

However, see King v. Watson, 51 Colo. 293, 117 P. 165, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 178, holding the surety still liable where, on a trial de novo, judgment for the defendant was reversed and the attachment sustained after it had been dissolved in a proceeding in a justice court.

This rule, of course, does not apply to a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnish-both principal and surety on such a bond is discharged by loss of the attached or garnished property without their fault, as by fire, this condition of liability being implicit in the ordinary undertaking of this nature;[20] or by the interference of the law making performance of the condition impossible.[1] But if property has been levied on by writ of attachment and a forthcoming bond has been given, the surrender of such property by the attachment defendant voluntarily, to a third person having no valid prior right thereto, does not release the surety on the forthcoming bond.[2]

§ 914. Amendments—New Cause of Action as Test.—Assuming the permissibility of an amendment of the original cause of action in an attachment or garnishment suit, there is some variation in opinion as to the effect of such an amendment on the liability of a surety on a bond to dissolve the attachment or garnishment. The prevailing view seems to be that only if the amendment materially changes the cause of action, are the sureties to be deemed discharged from liability. They are not discharged if the judgment was entered on one of the original counts of the pleadings.[3] Accordingly, amendments correcting clerical or other errors as to parties, whether occurring in the pleadings or in the writ,[4] dismissing or striking out the name of one of the parties defendant,[5] adding new parties defendant,[6] changing the form of ment, conditioned to perform any judgment against the defendant, the effect of which is to dissolve the attachment or garnishment.

---

[20] George v. Hewlett, 70 Miss. 1, 12 So. 855, 35 Am. St. Rep. 626 (discussed, case differing on facts).

As to liability for loss of attached property, see Vol. 4, p. 888, § 548.

[1] As the law controls the rights and remedies of every person, if it interferes and prevents an obligor from complying with the conditions of a bond, the obligor will not be held liable because of his noncompliance, the interference of the law in such a case being analogous to an act of God operating to prevent compliance. Thus, where a claimant gives a levying officer a forthcoming bond, and retains possession of the property, which the same officer subsequently seizes and sells under a lien of superior dignity, applying the proceeds to such superior lien, the maker of the forthcoming bond is not liable thereon for a failure to produce the property at the time and place of sale. Floyd v. Cook, 118 Ga. 526, 45 S. E. 441, 63 L.R.A. 450.

[2] Fidelity & D. Co. v. B. F. Sturtevant Co. 86 Miss. 509, 38 So. 783, 109 Am. St. Rep. 716.

[3] Warren Bros. Co. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445; Aronow v. Gold, 274 Mass. 65, 174 N. E. 267, 74 A.L.R. 910; Norris v. Anderson, 181 Mass. 308, 64 N. E. 71, 92 Am. St. Rep. 420; Ball v. Claflin, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 303, 16 Am. Dec. 407; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810; Com. use of Gettman v. A. B. Baxter & Co. 235 Pa. 179, 84 A. 136, 42 L.R.A. (N.S.) 484; Bedard v. Mahoney, 30 R. I. 469, 76 A. 113, 136 Am. St. Rep. 965; Petri v. Manny, 99 Wash. 601, 170 P. 127, 1 A.L.R. 1595; Hare v. Marsh, 61 Wis. 435, 21 N. W. 267, 50 Am. Rep. 141.

Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 913; 40 L.R.A. (N.S.) 743, s. L.R.A.1918E, 820.

One of the reasons for the rule is that the surety may have been satisfied that the plaintiff could not prevail upon the cause of action set forth in the complaint as it stood when he executed the undertaking to release the attached property, and for that reason may have been willing to afford the defendant relief by signing as his surety, though he might not have been willing to do so if another and different cause of action had been stated in the complaint. Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 917.

Under a statute providing for the entry of judgment in an attachment suit against the defendant and his sureties on a bond releasing the attachment, judgment cannot be entered against the surety upon a cause of action introduced by amendment after such dissolution, which was in no way related to the cause upon which the action was originally founded. Petri v. Manny, 99 Wash. 601, 170 P. 127, 1 A.L.R. 1595.

However, in Connor Livestock Co. v. Fisher, 32 Ariz. 80, 255 P. 996, 57 A.L.R. 196, it was held, on the theory of estoppel of the obligor on the bond to question the validity of the attachment proceedings (see infra, § 921), that the fact that the affidavit for an attachment in aid of an action on an account set up a cause of action different from that proved and upon which judgment was rendered did not release the sureties on the bond, where it was conditioned that if the defendant was condemned in said action and satisfied the judgment which might be rendered, the obligation should be and become void and of no effect, otherwise to remain in full force and effect.

[4] Norris v. Anderson, 181 Mass. 308, 64 N. E. 71, 92 Am. St. Rep. 420.

Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 918.

[5] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 919.

[6] Bedard v. Mahoney, 30 R. I. 469, 76 A. 113, 136 Am. St. Rep. 965.

Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 920.

A change of parties to an attachment or garnishment suit may have the effect of action,[7] changing the nature of the action from one in assumpsit on an express contract to one on an implied contract by the substitution of or addition to the common counts,[8] merely putting the statement of cause of action in proper form,[9] merely striking out surplusages in the pleadings, changing the phraseology of the complaint, describing one of the counts in greater detail,[10] changing the relief sought from specific performance to recovery of money paid under the contract sued upon,[11] adding or substituting counts,[12] and increasing the ad damnum, without changing the identity of the cause of action,[13] have been held not to be such changes in the cause of action as to discharging the surety on a bond to dissolve an attachment, although the point is one on which the cases are conflicting. Where an amendment changing the parties to a suit does not introduce distinct parties and materially change those contemplated, it is generally held that the sureties are not discharged thereby. But an amendment altering the parties so that they are distinct from those contemplated by the obligors has been held to release them (Annotation: 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 485, 490). The question is settled in some states by statutory provisions which authorize changes of parties to be made without impairing the obligations of the bond (Bedard v. Mahoney, 30 R. I. 469, 76 A. 113, 136 Am. St. Rep. 965). In the absence of such statute, the view has been expressed that the condition of the bond which binds the surety to pay the judgment rendered against the principal must be deemed to contemplate a judgment not only against the person who occupies the position of a party at the time, but also against a person who may be substituted in his place. In other words, if the original defendant in case of a bond to procure an attachment has ceased to occupy his position as a party, and another person has been substituted in his stead, the surety of such party continues liable. Also, if the plaintiff assigns his cause of action, the sureties on the bond to procure the attachment are not discharged (Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754).

---

[7] Warren Bros. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445.
Annotation: 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 487.

[8] Warren Bros. Co. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445 (where the judgment recovered was not greater than that originally claimed); Aronow v. Gold, 274 Mass. 65, 174 N. E. 267, 74 A.L.R. 910.
Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 921.

[9] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 921.

[10] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 924.

[11] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 921.

[12] Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262; Ball v. Claflin, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 303, 16 Am. Dec. 407; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810.
Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 922.

Where the original complaint declared upon a claim for money had and received by the defendants to and for the use of the plaintiff, it was held that the sureties would not be released by the fact that the complaint was subsequently amended so as to state the same claim for the same amount in a different form by stating that after the dissolution of a partnership existing between the defendants and the plaintiff, the defendants collected the assets of the partnership and failed to apply them to its debts. Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810.

New counts averring that the defendant received the property and did not account for the same may, by amendment, be added to the original count for indebitatus assumpsit for goods sold and delivered (the goods being the same); such an amendment, constituting a mere change in the form of declaring on the same cause of action, does not discharge the attachment so as to release the bail or to give precedence to the rights of intermediate attaching creditors. Ball v. Claflin, 5 Pick. (Mass.) 303, 16 Am. Dec. 407.

An undertaking, given to prevent an attachment, to pay the amount of the judgment recovered "in said action," cannot be deemed limited to the cause of action for money received first stated in the complaint, joined therein with counts alleging conversion, so as to exonerate the sureties, where the court made no findings upon the issues raised by the first cause of action, though such cause of action was the only one affording foundation for an attachment. Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262.

[13] Warren Bros. Co. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445; Hare v. Marsh, 61 Wis. 435, 50 Am. Rep. 141, 21 N. W. 267.
Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 923.

In Hare v. Marsh, 61 Wis. 435, 21 N. W. 267, 50 Am. Rep. 141, it was held that an amendment which did not change the cause of action or add a new cause of action, but simply authorized a larger recovery upon the same cause of action, by changing the amount of the ad damnum from one within the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace to one beyond it, when the case came before the upper court, would not release the surety, even pro tanto, the obligation of the bond being that he would pay not any judgment rendered by the justice of the peace, but any judgment rendered by the upper court, by which undertaking the surety may be deemed to have had in contemplation any amendment which might be allowed by the court.

It has been held that though the amendment changed the nature of the action from one in assumpsit to one on an implied contract, with an increase of the ad damnum, the surety was not discharged, where the judgment ultimately recovered was not greater than the amount originally claimed. Warner Bros. Co. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am.

discharge the surety.[14] In some cases, however, the sureties have been held discharged by amendments affecting the name or identity of parties,[15] changing the form of action so that it is virtually a new action,[16] adding new counts,[17] or increasing the amount of the claim.[18]

In some jurisdictions it has been held that the two tests by which to determine whether an amendment introduces a new cause of action are (1) whether the same evidence will support both the original and amended declarations, and (2) whether the same measure of damages will apply to both; if both of these fail, the new pleadings must be held to introduce a new cause of action.[19]

It will be presumed that the court, in allowing an application to amend, ascertained and found that the claim declared upon in the amended declaration or complaint, though stated in different form, was based upon the same facts and transactions as the claim stated in the original petition.[20]

§ 915. —Prejudice Caused Surety as Test.—There is a strong and growing inclination on the part of some courts to decline to discharge the surety from his liability in toto merely because the amendment in some way changes the original pleadings or the writ, or increases the amount of the claim. These courts, under the theory that the test whether the surety shall be discharged or not is whether the amendment would prejudicially affect him and subject him to a greater liability than he assumed by the signing of the bond, have evolved the rule that when the amendment does introduce a greater or different claim from that asserted in the original pleadings, the surety will not be discharged in toto, but merely pro tanto to the extent of the increase in the claim, and will still be held liable to the extent, and to the extent only, of the original claim.[1]

§ 916. Judgment or Favorable Outcome for Defendant.—The condition of liability in a dissolution or release bond in attachment or garnishment contemplates, of course, the exoneration of the obligor upon judgment or favor-

---

St. Rep. 445, the court, however, basing its decision on the theory that the causes of action were the same.

[14] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 926.

It has been held that the sureties will not be discharged by an amendment consolidating two actions instituted on different notes, and bringing in a new claim upon another note, but will be liable to the extent of the amount involved in the original action under which the attachment was obtained. Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 923.

[15] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 920.

[16] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 924.

[17] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 924.

[18] Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 924.

[19] Com. use of Gettman v. A. B. Baxter & Co. 235 Pa. 179, 84 A. 136, 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 484.

[20] Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810.

[1] Aronow v. Gold, 274 Mass. 65, 174 N. E. 267, 74 A.L.R. 910; Com. use of Gettman v. A. B. Baxter & Co. 235 Pa. 179, 84 A. 136, 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 484 (holding that the sureties are neither totally discharged by, nor made liable to the full extent of the claim asserted in, the amended statement of claim, but are liable only to the extent of the amount claimed in the original declaration); Petri v. Manny, 99 Wash. 061, 170 P. 127, 1 A.L.R. 1595.

Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 925.

Upon this theory it has been held that an amendment to the original complaint which adds to the two causes of action stated in the original complaint, for goods sold and delivered to the defendant and for goods furnished to other parties at the request of the defendant, three additional causes of action upon three separate promissory notes made payable to the defendant and by him indorsed to the plaintiff, does not bind the surety for the discharge of the attachment for any amount greater than that involved in the original causes of action, and operates as a release of the surety upon such bond against that portion of the judgment which is based upon the new causes of action, even under as vigorous a statute as that of Washington, which provides that the bond for the release of the attachment shall be conditioned to perform the judgment, and, if the judgment goes against the defendant, it shall be entered against him and the sureties, the proper construction of such statute being that the bond given to perform the judgment of the court merely contemplates such a judgment as will follow from the cause of action pleaded at the time of its execution. Petri v. Manny, 99 Wash. 601, 170 P. 127, 1 A.L.R. 1595.

able outcome of the suit for the defendant.[2] This means, according to one view, the final outcome of the case; the fact that the trial court finds for the defendant does not effect a release if, on appeal, judgment is against the defendant.[3] Generally dismissal or discontinuance will effect exoneration of the surety.[4] However, it is well settled that by discontinuing the action as to a part of the defendants and proceeding to judgment against the remainder, the sureties are not released from liability upon their undertaking.[5]

§ 917. Death of Defendant.[6]—Whether a surety on a bond given to release an attachment is discharged by the death of the principal defendant depends on whether the bond is conditioned for the payment of the judgment obtained by the plaintiff, if successful, or merely conditioned for the redelivery of the attached property. Where its condition, either by its own terms or by judicial construction, is to return the property levied on, it is generally held that the sureties thereon are discharged by the death of their principal,[7] at least where the death of the defendant before judgment has the effect of dissolving the attachment or garnishment.[8] Where the condition of the bond is to perform the judgment and thereby dissolve the attachment or garnishment, the rule is generally otherwise, the attachment or garnishment not being dissolved by the death of the defendant, at least where personal jurisdiction of the defendant is obtained and the action against him is not abated by his death.[9]

§ 918. Bankruptcy of Defendant.[10]—It is clear that bankruptcy proceedings commenced against a defendant in an attachment or garnishment suit more than four months after the attachment or garnishment do not discharge the liability of the surety on a bond to dissolve or release the attachment or garnishment.[11] It is likewise clear that such liability is not discharged where it becomes fixed before the commencement of the bankruptcy proceedings, as where judgment is taken against the defendant in the attachment or garnishment,[12] or where surrender or redelivery of the attached or garnished property to the attaching officer is wrongfully refused.[13-14] Where, however, the attachment or garnishment proceedings are commenced within four months before the bankruptcy proceedings, the effect of the bankruptcy proceedings upon the liability of the surety is not so clear. The general rule is that the liability of the surety is discharged [15] where the condition of the bond, either by its own terms or by judicial construction, is to return the property levied on,[16] but not where the bond is conditioned to pay the amount of any judgment the plaintiff may recover.[17] However, where the attaching creditor proves his claim against the estate of the defendant and receives a dividend, the sureties' liability is reduced pro tanto.[18]

---

[2] Barton v. Petit, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 288, 3 L. ed. 347 (reversal of judgment).

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 659.

[3] King v. Watson, 51 Colo. 293, 117 P. 165, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 178 (appeal from justice court; trial de novo).

[4] Inbusch v. Farwell, 1 Black (U. S.) 566, 17 L. ed. 188.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 659.

[5] Inbusch v. Farwell, 1 Black (U. S.) 566, 17 L. ed. 188.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 659.

[6] See infra, § 918, as to the corresponding effect of the bankruptcy of the defendant on the liability of the surety on the bond to dissolve or release.

[7] Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 290.

[8] As to the rule in many jurisdictions that the death of the defendant before judgment dissolves the attachment or garnishment, see Vol. 4, p. 928, § 625; supra, § 742.

If the attachment or garnishment is dissolved and the property released, there is no reason to hold security conditioned it will be forthcoming.

[9] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 767, 8 S. Ct. 718.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 290.

If conditioned for the payment of any judgment rendered, it would seem that the surety would not be discharged unless the death of the defendant terminated the action as well as the attachment or garnishment, which, as a general rule, is the case only where no jurisdiction of the defendant has been acquired, so that the main action is purely in rem. See Vol. 4, p. 556, § 10; p. 928, § 625; supra, § 742.

[10] See supra, § 917, as to the effect of the death of the defendant on the liability of the surety on the bond to dissolve or release.

As to effect of the bankruptcy of the debtor on the liability of the receiptor on the receipt to restore the attached property, see infra, § 934.

[11] Hill v. Harding, 130 U. S. 699, 32 L. ed. 1083, 9 S. Ct. 725; Hill v. Harding, 107 U. S. 631, 27 L. ed. 493, 2 S. Ct. 404; Rosenthal v. Nove, 175 Mass. 559, 56 N. E. 884, 49 Am. St. Rep. 512.

Annotation: 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 508, s. 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 234; 15 Ann. Cas. 956.

[12] Annotation: 15 Ann. Cas. 957.

Special judgment may, in some jurisdictions, be rendered against the debtor to enable the plaintiff to proceed against sureties upon the bond.[19]

§ 919. Insolvency of Defendant.—Sureties on a bond to dissolve an attachment conditioned to satisfy such judgment as might be rendered against the defendant, otherwise the obligation to be void, are discharged by insolvency proceedings having the effect of preventing the entry of such a judgment.[20] A different result would seem to follow where the insolvency does not have that effect.[21]

Where the debt of an attachment debtor is not discharged by his discharge in insolvency, the sureties on an attachment bond given by a third person on behalf of the debtor are not discharged.[22]

b. Defenses and Estoppel

§ 920. Generally.[1]—Obligors on a bond to dissolve an attachment or gar-

---

[13-14] Where a receiptor wrongfully refused to redeliver to the sheriff, and on the next day the debtor filed his petition in bankruptcy, the liability of the receiptor was fixed, and not discharged, by the bankruptcy. Parks v. Sheldon, 36 Conn. 466, 4 Am. Rep. 95.

[15] See Bankruptcy [Also 3 R. C. L. p. 341, § 157]; Suretyship [Also Principal and Surety, 21 R. C. L. p. 1067, § 108].

[16] Crook Horner Co. v. Gilpin, 112 Md. 1, 75 A. 1049, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 233, 136 Am. St. Rep. 376; Smith v. Lacey, 86 Miss. 295, 38 So. 311, 109 Am. St. Rep. 707.

Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 450.

The theory of the rule is stated, in Crook Horner Co. v. Gilpin, 112 Md. 1, 75 A. 1049, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 233, 136 Am. St. Rep. 376, to be that the bond stands in the place of the attachment and should be released accordingly, citing Metcalf Bros. v. Barker, 187 U. S. 165, 47 L. ed. 122, 23 S. Ct. 67; Hill v. Harding, 130 U. S. 699, 32 L. ed. 1083, 9 S. Ct. 725; Wolf v. Stix, 99 U. S. 1, 25 L. ed. 309.

In Payne v. Able, 7 Bush (Ky.) 344, 3 Am. Rep. 316, where, in one bond the sureties undertook that the defendant in the attachment proceedings should perform the judgments of the court, and in another, that the attached property or its value should "be forthcoming and subject to the order of the court for the satisfaction of such judgment," the court held that the sureties were released by the discharge in bankruptcy of their principal.

[17] Andrews v. Jones, 46 R. I. 141, 125 A. 356, 36 A.L.R. 447.

Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 451.

In Andrews v. Jones, 46 R. I. 141, 125 A. 356, 36 Am. St. Rep. 447, it is held that a surety on a bond conditioned on payment of the judgment in an attachment proceeding is not released by an adjudication in bankruptcy against the principal within four months of the attachment, although by the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, such proceedings nullified the attachment. However, sureties on a bond to perform judgment have been held released on the theory that the bankruptcy made performance of the condition impossible. Payne v. Able, 7 Bush (Ky.) 344, 3 Am. Rep. 316. See also Keyes v. Shannon, 8 Rob. (La.) 172, 41 Am. Dec. 299. Annotation: 15 Ann. Cas. 956.

[18] Annotation: 26 A.L.R. 452.

[19] See infra, §§ 962, 963, as to right to, and form of, such special judgment.

[20] Keyes v. Shannon, 8 Rob. (La.) 172, 41 Am. Dec. 299.

A suit in equity may be maintained by a receiver of a bank against the attaching creditors and sureties on the bonds given to dissolve the attachments, to reduce to the possession of the receiver securities held by such sureties for their protection, and to restrain the attaching creditors from enforcing the attachment bonds, although such bonds are invalid, and a decree in such action will, if the sureties are held not to be liable, conclude the creditors from all further procedings against them on the bonds. Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718.

[21] As to the rule that an attachment generally has priority over a subsequent insolvency, proceeding, see supra, §§ 880 et seq.

[22] Annotation: 15 Ann. Cas. 957.

[1] Generally, as to estoppel on bonds to nishment or to release attached or garnished property are estopped, by the nature of their undertaking, from certain defenses to an action upon it. Consequently, objections can be made to an attachment issued on proper legal authority, which cannot be used as a defense to an action on a bond taken under the statute for its dissolution.[2]

In some cases where the giving of a bond containing no undertaking to pay the judgment has the effect of discharging and releasing the attached property, it is held that the fact that such a bond is executed does not preclude the defendant from attacking the attachment in the case in which the attachment issued, though in some cases where the bond given discharges and releases the property, it has been held that the defendant or his sureties cannot attack the attachment.[2a]

§ 921. Defects and Irregularities.—By the weight of authority, a surety on a bond given to prevent an attachment or garnishment or to secure the release of property levied on cannot, after the recovery of judgment against the defendant in the original action, avoid liability on the bond on the ground of irregularities in the attachment or garnishment proceedings, whether the bond was one conditioned for the payment of any judgment that might be rendered in the original action, or was a mere forthcoming bond conditioned for the redelivery of the property or, in the alternative, for such redelivery, or the payment of the value of the property or of the defendant's interest therein, as the case may be,[3] unless such irregularities go to the jurisdiction of the procure attachment or garnishment, see infra, §§ 921 et seq.

---

The discussion in this subdivision should be read in connection with the discussion in the preceding subdivision of events discharging liability on dissolution and release bonds in attachment and garnishment, for it is obvious that the questions are closely related, since the obligor on such a bond cannot be said to be estopped from pleading, as a defense to an action to enforce his undertaking, that it was discharged. See supra, §§ 913 et seq.

[2] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718.
Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 267.

[2a] Annotation: 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 404.

It has been held in some cases that the giving of an undertaking for the release of attached property does not preclude the defendant from moving in the principal case to vacate the attachment where the attachment is not put to an end by the undertaking. Annotation: 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 406.

[3] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553; Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110; Connor Livestock Co. v. Fisher, 32 Ariz. 80, 255 P. 996, 57 A.L.R. 196; Kettle Creek Ref. Co. v. Scales, 181 Ark. 295, 25 S. W. (2d) 446, citing R. C. L.; Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262; Crisman v. Matthews, 2 Ill. 148, 26 Am. Dec. 417; Roche v. American Surety Co. 193 Iowa, 965, 184 N. W. 317, 27 A.L.R. 1537; Olds v. City Trust, S. D. & Surety Co. 185 Mass. 500, 70 N. E. 1022, 102 Am. St. Rep. 356; Haggert v. Morgan, 5 N. Y. 422, 55 Am. Dec. 350; Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818; Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306; Amarillo Nat. Bank v. Sanborn, — Tex. Civ. App. —, 169 S. W. 1075, citing R. C. L.; Truax v. Title Guaranty & Surety Co. 94 Wash. 472, 162 P. 586, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 267; 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 401.

It is no defense to such an action that the attachment or garnishment was wrongfully sued out. Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262; Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818.

This is in accordance with the general principle that wherever the surety has contracted in reference to the conduct of one of the parties in some suit or proceeding in the courts or for the result of such suit or proceeding, he is concluded by the judgment. Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553. Annotation: 83 Am. Dec. 380.

In Bunnerman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306, the court said: "A bond or undertaking given to obtain the release of property seized upon attachment is not rendered invalid by irregularity in making such attachment. By means of it the property was released and surrendered, and the plaintiffs consented to dissolve the attachment, and the defendant in this action cannot defeat his liability because of some irregularity in such proceeding. The undertaking served its purpose to secure the release of the property attached, and the defendant is estopped now from setting up such irregularities."

In Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262, it was held that sureties on an undertaking given to prevent an attachment cannot escape liability merely by showing that the attachment court and void the process.[4] Accordingly, the defectiveness or falsity of an affidavit to procure an attachment or garnishment, unless such defectiveness or falsity goes to the jurisdiction of the court and voids the attachment or garnishment,[5] constitutes no defense to an action to enforce a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or to release attached or garnished property. Nor are the recitals of the bond an important element in determining whether this estoppel arises.[6] However, fraud, collusion, or clear mistake in the attachment or garnishment proceedings constitutes such a defense.[7] There are cases holding that the surety on a bond to dissolve or release an attachment can set up as a defense to an action on the bond that the affidavit on which it issued was false, where the falsity of the affidavit renders the attachment void and defeats the jurisdiction of the court.[8] The view has been taken that sureties in a bond conditioned for the payment of any judgment that may be rendered are estopped to deny the issuance of the writ of attachment or any other fact recited in their undertaking. It has also been held that a surety on such a bond may be estopped by the recitals in the bond to deny the sufficiency of the writ.[9]

§ 922. —Defective Levy, Return, Inventory, and Appraisement.—Sureties on a bond given to release property from attachment, conditioned for the payment of the judgment, are generally held to be estopped, in an action on the bond, to deny the making of a valid levy.[10] The same rule of estoppel applies where a forthcoming bond was given.[11] It has been said that in such cases proceedings were voidable, but must show that they were void and a nullity from their inception.

---

[4] See supra, § 909.

[5] As to when the absence, falsity, or insufficiency of the affidavit has this effect, see Vol. 4, p. 849, §§ 485 et seq.; supra, §§ 723 et seq.

[6] Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553; Koehler v. Serr, 216 Cal. 143, 13 P. (2d) 673, 89 A.L.R. 262 (false affidavit that action in tort was action on contract for payment of money); Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 269.

In Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818, the court, in an action on the bond, said that where a defendant in attachment gave a bond to procure the release of the property levied on, the obligors in the bond were estopped to traverse the truth of the allegations of the affidavit after judgment had been rendered against the defendant in the original action.

[7] Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110; Charles v. Hoskins, 14 Iowa, 471, 83 Am. Dec. 378; Jaynes v. Platt, 47 Ohio St. 262, 24 N. E. 262, 21 Am. St. Rep. 810.

[8] Murphy v. Montandon, 3 Idaho, 325, 29 P. 851, 35 Am. St. Rep. 279.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 278.

In Murphy v. Montandon, 3 Idaho, 325, 29 P. 851, 35 Am. St. Rep. 279, it was held that sureties on a bond given to release an attachment and containing a condition to pay any judgment which might be rendered could defend an action on the bond by showing the falsity of an allegation in the affidavit on which the attachment was issued, that the attachment plaintiff had no security for the payment of the debt, which allegation was necessary to give the court jurisdiction to issue the writ. In thus holding, the court said: "The defendants . . . were not parties to the original suit, and could not appear therein and move for a dissolution of the attachment. They have had no day in court. An attachment issued upon a false or fatally defective affidavit stands in the same position as an attachment issued without any affidavit; and can it be successfully contended that a bond executed to release property from the lien of an attachment issued without affidavit, and therefore without any jurisdiction, is supported by a valuable consideration? If the defendants in this suit cannot go back of the naked bond, then they cannot show that their obligation is without any consideration—a position, it seems to us, contrary to the plainest principles of justice."

[9] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 273.

Courts adhering to the doctrine that there is no jurisdiction in an attachment suit wherein there has been no issue of a writ, or wherein the writ is substantially defective will necessarily take the view that such absence of, or defects in, the writ can be pleaded as a defense by sureties in an action on a bond given to dissolve the attachment. Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 279.

[10] Mead v. Figh, 4 Ala. 279, 37 Am. Dec. 742; Olds v. City Trust, S. D. & Surety Co. 185 Mass. 500, 70 N. E. 1022, 102 Am. St. Rep. 356.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 274; 4 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1020, s. 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 635; 81 Am. Dec. 470, 475.

[11] Mead v. Figh, 4 Ala. 279, 37 Am. Dec. 742; Moore v. Holder, 95 Fla. 504, 116 So. 498, citing R. C. L.; Oliver v. Warren, 124

the execution by the obligors of the bond is deemed to amount to an admission on their part that the levy was a valid one, and the admission operates as an estoppel to their denial of the legality.[12] Thus, it has been held that sureties are estopped in such an action from denying the validity of the levy on the ground that it was made by the sheriff instead of by the coroner.[13] The rule has been applied in the case of a common-law undertaking not in the form prescribed by statute.[14] But where a statute provides that an attachment be discharged on the giving of a bond conditioned to pay any judgment that may be rendered against the attachment defendant, it has been held that a summary judgment against a surety on such a bond cannot be sustained, in the absence of a levy on the property recited in the bond.[15]

Sureties on a bond conditioned for the payment of any judgment that may be rendered have been held estopped, in an action on the bond, to raise objections to the officer's return to the writ of attachment.[16]

The general rule as to estoppel in an action on a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment applies to failure to make an inventory of the attached property. Thus, it has been held that where an attachment was dissolved by the giving of a bond which was substituted for the property, the making of an inventory of the attached property was waived, and the sureties could not defend an action on the bond on the ground that no inventory was made. Likewise, it has been held that the surety on a bond in statutory form conditioned for payment of the actual value of the interest of the attachment defendant in the property was estopped to assert the invalidity of the attachment on the ground of the failure of the officer to inventory the attached property.[17]

Sureties in a forthcoming bond cannot, as a defense in an action on the bond, set up the failure of the officer to appraise the attached property.[18]

§ 923. —Defective Grounds for Attachment.—In some jurisdictions it has been held that where the court had jurisdiction to issue the writ of attachment, a surety on a bond conditioned for the payment of any judgment that might be recovered against the defendant in the attachment suit could not, in an action on the bond, controvert the ground of the attachment.[19] But in

---

Ga. 549, 53 S. E. 100, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1020, 110 Am. St. Rep. 188; Crisman v. Matthews, 2 Ill. 148, 26 Am. Dec. 417; Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306; Portis v. Parker, 8 Tex. 23, 58 Am. Dec. 95; Wells v. Cloud (Tex. Civ. App.) 202 S. W. 331, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 274; 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1020, s. 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 635.

In a suit on a forthcoming bond given by a claimant, where its execution is not denied, the main issue to be decided is whether or not there has been a breach of the bond. Neither the legality of the levy nor the authority of the officer to make it is an issuable fact, these issues being concluded by the judgment in the claim case. Peeples v. Garrison, 141 Ga. 411, 81 S. E. 116, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 635.

[12] Annotation: 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1020.

[13] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 274.

[14] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 274.

[15] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 274.

[16] Huff v. Hutchison, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 276.

[17] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 277.

[18] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 277.

[19] Haggart v. Morgan, 5 N. Y. 422, 55 Am. Dec. 350; Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 271.

In Haggart v. Morgan, 5 N. Y. 422, 55 Am. Dec. 350, the court held that where an attachment was issued on an affidavit alleging the nonresidence of the defendant, the sureties were estopped, in an action on their bond, from showing that the defendant was a resident of the state. In thus holding, the court said that the fact of nonresidence was not jurisdictional, although competent proof of that fact was.

An obligor on a statutory bond to discharge an attachment, conditioned that the defendant will perform the judgment of the court in the action in which the attachment is issued, is absolutely liable in an action against him on the bond for the amount recovered in the action in which the bond was given, without reference to the question whether the attachment was rightfully or wrongfully issued, and the defendant is precluded by such bond from controverting the grounds of the attachment. Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 other jurisdictions a contrary doctrine has been announced where the attachment was dissolved in the original action on the defendant's motion on traverse, or where the ground of attachment was abandoned.[20]

§ 924. —Property Not Liable to Attachment or Garnishment.—In most jurisdictions in which the question has been considered, it has been held that sureties on a bond conditioned for the payment of the judgment, given to release property from attachments, cannot avoid liability in an action on the bond by showing that the property was not subject to levy under the attachment.[1] The same rule has been applied where a forthcoming bond was given.[2]

§ 925. —Defendant's Lack of Title, or Title in Surety.—The decisions on the question whether the obligors on a forthcoming or delivery bond are estopped by the bond, in an action upon it, from contesting the defendant's right to the property are conflicting. The question does not seem to arise on a bond to perform the judgment dissolving the attachment, except perhaps where no jurisdiction of the defendant is obtained and the proceeding is purely in rem.[3] The weight of opinion is that the obligor is estopped, in such an action upon a forthcoming bond, to set up title in himself or in another than the defendant in discharge of his liability on such bond.[4] Likewise, the majority rule is that where one has given a receipt conditioned for the redelivery, to the officer, on demand, of property described as taken on a writ against another person, the receiptor is estopped, in an action upon the receipt, from setting up property in himself; however, it has been said that such a receiptor may show as a defense that the property did not belong to the defendant, and that he has restored it to the true owner.[5] On the other hand, there is authority, sometimes under statute, to the effect that an owner of property who gives a bond to secure its release from attachment is not there-

---

P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818.

[20] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 272.

The giving of a replevin bond has been held not to preclude the defendant in the attachment suit from attacking the ground of attachment, where the bond does not discharge the lien. Annotation: 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 406.

[1] Moffitt v. Garrett, 23 Okla. 398, 100 P. 533, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 401, 138 Am. St. Rep. 818.

Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 274.

[2] Annotation: 89 A.L.R. 275.

[3] See Vol. 4, p. 556, § 10.

[4] Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718; Roswald v. Hobbie, 85 Ala. 73, 4 So. 177, 7 Am. St. Rep. 23; Moore v. Holder, 95 Fla. 504, 116 So. 498, citing R. C. L.; Murphy v. Montandon, 3 Idaho, 325, 29 P. 851, 35 Am. St. Rep. 279; Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398; Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1021; Morgan v. Furst, 4 Mart. N. S. (La.) 116, 16 Am. Dec. 166; Morrison v. Blodgett, 8 N. H. 238, 29 Am. Dec. 653; Nagle v. Stroh, 4 Watts (Pa.) 124, 28 Am. Dec. 695; Portis v. Parker, 8 Tex. 23, 58 Am. Dec. 95.

Annotation: 37 A.L.R. 1402; 4 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1021; 30 Am. St. Rep. 330; 25 Am. Dec. 429.

In Pacific Nat. Bank v. Mixter, 124 U. S. 721, 31 L. ed. 567, 8 S. Ct. 718, it was held that it is no defense, to an action against sureties for a breach of the condition of a bond to discharge an attachment, that the property attached did not belong to the defendant.

One in whose possession property attached as belonging to another is found, who gives a forthcoming bond to retain possession of the property, cannot defeat liability on the bond, in case judgment goes against the defendant in the attachment, by showing title in himself or the pendency in the attachment proceeding of an interpleader asserting his title to the property. Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398.

In Morgan v. Furst, 4 Mart. N. S. (La.) 116, 16 Am. Dec. 166, it was held that one who obtained the release of property attached as belonging to another, by giving bond that the property or its proceeds should be forthcoming to answer the judgment of the court in the attachment suit, cannot, in an action upon the bond brought by the sheriff to whom it was given, deny the right of the latter to sue, by asserting that at the time of the attachment he himself was the owner.

That attached property is not in the name of the attachment debtor does not invalidate a bond for its release, upon the giving of which the attachment is dissolved. Fidelity & D. Co. v. Bowen, 123 Iowa, 356, 98 N. W. 897, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1021.

[5] See infra, § 935.

by estopped from showing that the property belongs to him,[6] especially where the property for which the bond is given is surrendered or redelivered to the sheriff.[7] Also, it has been ruled that in an action on a delivery bond, it is a sufficient defense that at the time of the levy the property belonged to a person other than the defendant in the writ.[8] A redelivery bond does not estop a surety from subsequently claiming the property as against the sheriff or the attachment plaintiff, where he was induced to sign the bond by a fraudulent misrepresentation of the facts, although a mere statement by the officer who takes the bond, concerning its legal effect, does not entitle him so to escape from his bond or to insist that the property was his.[9-10]

5. ENFORCEMENT; PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

§ 926. Generally.—Statutory provisions are sometimes encountered requiring that if the judgment in an action goes against the defendant, the same shall be entered against him and his sureties on the bond releasing the attachment.[11]

---

[6] Roche v. American Surety Co. 193 Iowa, 965, 184 N. W. 317, 27 A.L.R. 1537; Ayres, W. & R. Co. v. Dorsey Produce Co. 101 Iowa, 141, 70 N. W. 111, 63 Am. St. Rep. 376; Halbert v. McCulloch, 3 Met. (Ky.) 456, 79 Am. Dec. 556.

Annotation: 37 A.L.R. 1405; 25 Am. Dec. 429, 430.

A surety on a delivery bond in an attachment proceeding may show that the property attached did not, at the time of the attachment, belong to the attachment debtor, under a statute providing that in an action upon such bond, it shall be a sufficient defense that the property for the delivery of which the bond was given did not, at the time of the levy, belong to the one against which the attachment was issued. Roche v. American Surety Co. 193 Iowa, 965, 184 N. W. 317, 27 A.L.R. 1537.

It has been held that a surety on a delivery bond in a garnishment proceeding is not estopped from setting up the defense that the property garnished did not belong to the attachment debtor by the fact that judgment was entered against the attachment debtor in the main proceeding, after one with whom it has reinsured its risk had guaranteed the fees of an attorney employed by the attachment debtor to represent him in the main proceeding. Roche v. American Surety Co. 193 Iowa, 965, 184 N. W. 317, 27 A.L.R. 1537.

[7] Roswald v. Hobbie, 85 Ala. 73, 4 So. 177, 7 Am. St. Rep. 23.

There is some authority to the contrary. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915D, 407.

See also Lester v. Ladrigan, 90 Conn. 570, 98 A. 124, L.R.A.1916F, 939; Johns v. Church, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 557, 23 Am. Dec. 651.

In Roswald v. Hobbie, 85 Ala. 73, 4 So. 177, 7 Am. St. Rep. 23, the plaintiffs gave the sheriff a replevy bond conditioned, if the defendant failed in the action, to return the property in thirty days, and later asked him to withdraw and destroy it; on his refusal, the plaintiffs handed him an affidavit of claim and a claim bond, and demanded the return of the replevy bond, but the sheriff returned both bonds and the affidavit of claim into court. It was held that the refusal of the trial court to strike the claim proceeding from the file was proper.

See also infra, § 935.

[8] Ayres, W. & R. Co. v. Dorsey Produce Co. 101 Iowa, 141, 70 N. W. 111, 63 Am. St. Rep. 376.

Where a plaintiff, by its agent, directed the sheriff to levy upon property in the possession of the defendant, after the fullest assertion of title by a third person, the court held that the true owner was not estopped from showing his title to the property by reason of the recitals in a release bond executed by him in order that the defendant might retain possession of the property, as the plaintiff company, being advised of his claim of title, was in no way deceived or injured by the recitals in the bond. Woods-Egan Live-Stock Commission Co. v. Hicks, 92 Kan. 922, 142 P. 276, L.R.A.1915A, 1132.

It has been held that in an action against a surety upon a forthcoming bond for property attached as that of his principal, he may show in defense of his liability that he himself was in possession of the property at the time of the attachment, and that he was then the owner of said property under a chattel mortgage from the principal obligor, which mortgage was valid against creditors, where, by the recitals of the bond, the surety expressly reserved his rights under the mortgage. Annotation: 37 A.L.R. 1407.

[9-10] Peterson v. Woollen, 48 Kan. 770, 30 P. 128, 30 Am. St. Rep. 327.

A surety on a bond executed for the delivery of property, who signed upon the officer's representation that the property had been attached, and who was not present when the supposed levy was made, is not liable thereon. Annotation: 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 409.

[11] Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254; Brown v. Clarke, 4 How. (U. S.) 4, 11 L. ed. 850; Roche v. American Surety Co. 193 Iowa, 965, 184 N. W. 317, 27 A.L.R. 1537; Bank of United States v. Patton, 5 How. (Miss.) 200, 35 Am. Dec. 428; Petri v. Manny, 99 Wash. 601, 170 P. 127, 1 A.L.R. 1595.

Judgment against a surety on a bond given to obtain the return of attached property may be entered without notice to him on establishing the liability for which the bond was given, where such procedure is allowed by the statute under which the bond was given. Johnson v. Chicago & P.

However, the usual practice in the enforcement of a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or to release attached or garnished property is by an action on such bond.[12] Such an action is, in general, governed by the same principles as if brought on an undertaking.[13] Likewise, in the absence of other provisions, the rules applicable to actions on the case for wrongful attachment will apply and govern the procedure in such an action.[14]

§ 927. Parties.—The plaintiff may, of course, sue on a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or release attached or garnished property, provided the liability thereon is absolute.[15] It has been both held and denied that an undertaking for the release of an attachment levied on the property of the judgment debtor is an incident of the judgment, and that the assignment of the judgment entitles the assignee to maintain an action on the bond against the sureties.[16] Where a statute requires an attachment bond to be made payable to all of the defendants named in a bill praying for a writ of attachment, for the benefit of whom it may concern, one of the defendants whose property has been attached is entitled to sue on the bond, even though it is made payable to another defendant by name, followed by the phrase "et al." [17]

One who has not joined in the execution of a dissolution or delivery bond in attachment or garnishment cannot, of course, be liable thereon, as there is nothing on which a statutory judgment on such bond can rest,[18] and he can object at any time after the return term to its operating so as to charge him.[19] Thus, as one partner cannot bind a copartner by a forthcoming bond to which he has signed the latter's name without authority, a statutory judgment on such bond is invalid as to the partner not signing.[20]

§ 928. Pleadings and Defenses.—In an action on an undertaking to release an attachment it is not essential that the declaration or complaint set out all the facts which authorize the issuing of an attachment,[1] for the obligors on the bond are estopped from attacking the attachment proceedings except where they are void.[2] The general rule is that the obligors in an action on a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment can set up in defense of an action on the bond their discharge of liability thereon,[3] but they cannot set up any defense which they are estopped from making by the nature of their undertaking.[4]

§ 929. Evidence.—The general rule is that judgment against the principal and other facts and circumstances rendering liability absolute on a bond to

---

Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254.

[12] Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306.

Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 291; 81 Am. Dec. 467.

[13] Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306.

[14] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 467.

As to action for wrongful attachment, see infra, §§ 984 et seq.

[15] Generally as to accrual of liability on such bond, see supra, § 911.

[16] Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 291.

Where a bond to pay any judgment which may be recovered was given to release an attachment and was assigned to a third party in trust for another, who paid the consideration of the assignment, and after the death of the equitable owner it was assigned to the trustee, widow of the deceased, it was held that such widow held the bond in trust for the estate, and, having the legal title, was the real party in interest in the undertaking sued on, and was entitled to maintain an action as the "real party in interest." Annotation: 64 L.R.A. 605.

[17] Annotation: 14 Ann. Cas. 572.

[18] Doe ex dem. Smith v. Roe, 4 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 261, 43 Am. Dec. 483.

[19] Ibid.

[20] Doe ex dem. Smith v. Roe, 4 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 261, 43 Am. Dec. 483; Brown v. M'Donald, 8 Yerg. (Tenn.) 158, 29 Am. Dec. 112.

[1] Bunneman v. Wagner, 16 Or. 433, 18 P. 841, 8 Am. St. Rep. 306.

[2] See supra, §§ 909, 921.

[3] Generally as to such discharge, see supra, §§ 913 et seq.

[4] Generally as to such estoppel, see supra, §§ 920 et seq.

dissolve an attachment or garnishment or to release attached or garnished property[5] may be introduced in evidence in an action to enforce such an undertaking.[6] Such a judgment has generally been held to be conclusive against the surety,[7] and in such an action the judgment that the property be sold is sufficient evidence of the levy of the attachment.[8] In an action to recover upon a bond to dissolve an attachment to enforce a judgment on a promissory note, which judgment was alleged to have been compromised by the plaintiff's attorney, a witness may testify that he gave the note to the attorney, and not to the plaintiff in the action, for the purpose of showing which was the real party in interest.[9] Although an obligor on a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment is estopped from setting up title to the attached or garnished property in himself in an action on his undertaking,[10] he may show such title in order to mitigate the damages.[11]

To warrant judgment against a surety on a replevin bond in an action on an account in support of which an attachment is levied, the attachment and bond need not be introduced in evidence.[12]

§ 930. Trial.—The law of trial applies generally to an action on a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment. The issue on such a trial is whether or not there has been a breach of the bond.[13]

C. Receipting for Release of Attached or Garnished Property

§ 931. Generally.—The giving of receipts for property attached is not only lawful everywhere between the parties to them, but the law encourages such transactions. The purposes of the practice are to save litigants the trouble and expense attending the keeping of property attached pending the attachment proceedings[14] and to perfect and continue the attachment lien or to hold the liability of the receiptor as a substitute security for the plaintiff's claim where actual removal of the attached goods is impractical,[15] where it is impractical for the attaching officer to keep them in his personal custody,[16] or where the plaintiff, defendant, or other claimant desires their use pending the attachment proceedings.[17] The contract of a receiptor is usually a written undertaking to keep the property safely, to redeliver it on demand or to pay its value,[18] and in some cases, if there is no demand for the attached property, to redeliver it within a stipulated time after the rendering of a judgment against the defendant so that it may be taken on execution.[19] Sometimes, however, it is merely a contract to redeliver or pay the value of the property and contains no condition to redeliver on demand.[20]

---

[5] As to when such liability becomes absolute, see supra, § 911.

[6] Crisman v. Matthews, 2 Ill. 148, 26 Am. Dec. 417.

Annotation: 9 Ann. Cas. 157; Ann. Cas. 1915D, 407.

The record of a judgment in a contest of a claim of exemption is admissible in evidence in an action on a forthcoming bond given by the plaintiff in such contest. Troy v. Rogers, 116 Ala. 255, 22 So. 486, 67 Am. St. Rep. 110.

[7] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915D, 408.

[8] Crisman v. Matthews, 2 Ill. 148, 26 Am. Dec. 417.

[9] Vaughn v. Robbins, 254 Mass. 35, 149 N. E. 677, 41 A.L.R. 1488.

[10] See supra, § 925.

[11] Evidence of property in the defendant is admissible upon the question of damages in a suit on his promise to return the property; and if such evidence shows that the property could not have been applied to satisfy the creditor's execution, the plaintiff can recover nominal damages only. Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423.

[12] Connor Livestock Co. v. Fisher, 32 Ariz. 80, 255 P. 996, 57 A.L.R. 196.

[13] Oliver v. Warren, 124 Ga. 549, 53 S. E. 100, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1020, 110 Am. St. Rep. 188.

See Trial [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[14] Peters v. Stewart, 45 Conn. 103, 29 Am. Rep. 663; Shelton v. Hurd, 7 R. I. 403, 84 Am. Dec. 564.

[15] Attachment of bulky articles is sufficient without a removal if a receiptor is left in charge and will prevail against a subsequent attachment. Hemmenway v. Wheeler, 14 Pick. (Mass.) 408, 25 Am. Dec. 411.

Levying an execution or attachment, and taking a receipt therefor, change the possession of goods in the contemplation of law without an actual removal. Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. (N. Y.) 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108.

[16] Retention of the possession of property levied upon is essential to the continuance of an attachment lien, unless the property is receipted for. Chadbourne v. Sumner, 16 N. H. 129, 41 Am. Dec. 720.

[17] Peters v. Stewart, 45 Conn. 103, 29 Am. Rep. 663; Weston v. Dorr, 25 Me. 176, 43 Am. Dec. 259.

The general rule is that although a sheriff has taken a receipt for the goods levied on, conditioned for their return on demand, he still retains in law the power to control the goods and at his pleasure may retake them into his personal custody.[21] Indeed, the sheriff himself continues alone responsible for them to both debtor and creditor.[22] He has such a special interest in them as to enable him to maintain trover for their conversion.[1] On the other hand, the receiptor also has such a special interest in the goods as to enable him to maintain trover or replevin for them.[2] If the receiptor detains them wrongfully according to the terms of the receipt or if, having delivered them over to a third person, he finds himself unable to redeliver, the officer may bring replevin or trover for the wrong according to its nature, refusal to deliver being evidence of a conversion.[3] An action also lies directly on the contract contained in the receipt, but whether the officer resorts to this or sues for the wrong rests in his election.[4]

A receipt for the redelivery of the goods or the payment of their value, containing no condition that the attaching officer can retake them on demand, gives him no right to retake them before judgment, unless the assent of the owner or receiptor is first obtained, especially if there is no suggestion that the latter is not of sufficient ability to make indemnity according to his contract. To give the officer this power, it has been said, would certainly allow him to disregard the spirit of his contract and often expose the property to a ruinous sacrifice, whereas, the promise of the receiptor being to do one of two things, the election is with him as in the case of other contracts of similar kind.[5]

The value of the articles contained in a receipt given to an officer for property attached by him has been held to be conclusive on both parties to such receipt.[6] Also, a receiptor is liable for all property represented as attached in a receipt given by him to the attaching officer if the property is returned on the writ as attached.[7] Where a distinct value is affixed to each article named in a receipt for attached property, however, a tender of a part of such property is good; and if such tender is made by the receiptor and refused by the officer, the latter cannot recover the value of the part tendered.[8]

---

[18] Currier v. Currier, 2 N. H. 75, 9 Am. Dec. 43; Browning v. Hanford, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 588, 40 Am. Dec. 369.

[19] Wright v. Dawson, 147 Mass. 384, 18 N. E. 1, 9 Am. St. Rep. 724.

[20] Weston v. Dorr, 25 Me. 176, 43 Am. Dec. 259.

[21] Odiorne v. Colley, 2 N. H. 66, 9 Am. Dec. 39.

As distinguished from a naked bailment, when a sheriff or other officer delivers property to a person or to his order under a receipt, he ceases to have any further care or custody of the property as between him and the receiptor, but the receiptor is bound to return it to him on demand or pay all the damages the sheriff might sustain in consequence of his failure so to do. Peters v. Stewart, 45 Conn. 103, 29 Am. Rep. 663.

[22] Odiorne v. Colley, 2 N. H. 66, 99 Am. Dec. 39.

[1] Dezell v. Odell, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 215, 38 Am. Dec. 628; Lockwood v. Bull, 1 Cow (N. Y.) 322, 13 Am. Dec. 539.

[2] See infra, § 932.

[3] Lockwood v. Bull, 1 Cow. (N. Y.) 322, 13 Am. Dec. 539.

[4] Dezell v. Odell, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 215, 38 Am. Dec. 628.

[5] Weston v. Dorr, 25 Me. 176, 43 Am. Dec. 259.

[6] Remick v. Atkinson, 11 N. H. 256, 35 Am. Dec. 493.

[7] Harris v. Morse, 49 Me. 432, 77 Am. Dec. 269.

[8] Remick v. Atkinson, 11 N. H. 256, 35 Am. Dec. 493.

A promise to redeliver contained in a receipt is founded on a sufficient consideration and may be enforced.[9]

§ 932. Interest of Receiptor in Property Receipted for; Permitting Owner Custody Thereof.—It has been said that a receiptor, being merely the sheriff's servant, has no property in the goods receipted for.[10] The better rule, however, appears to be that the giving of a receipt therefor vests in the receiptor a special property therein, although it is, of course, subordinate to that of the sheriff.[11] Accordingly, it has been held very generally that a receiptor for goods taken either on an attachment or execution has a sufficient interest therein to maintain trover for them against one who takes them out of his possession with no color of right.[12] After taking a receipt for attached goods, the officer cannot retake them before judgment without the consent of the receiptor and owner, unless the receipt is conditioned for their retaking on demand.[13] In fact, the whole object of giving receipts for property attached is to enable the receiptor to enjoy the property during the pendency of the suit, and to save the expense attending the keeping of the property during that time.[14] But of course, if one who has receipted for attached property allows it to go back into, or to remain in, the hands of the debtor, and the latter wastes, destroys, or sells it, the receiptor is liable. Having intrusted the property to the debtor, he will be responsible to the sheriff for the debtor's acts.[15] It has been held that where property attached by a sheriff, receipted for, and left by the receiptor in the defendant's possession, is, before judgment, levied on and sold by a deputy on an execution against the defendant, without the knowledge or consent of the sheriff, the receiptor on the judgment recovered in the first suit and execution issued is liable to the sheriff in an action for the property.[16] By suffering the property to pass into the hands of the owner, however, he does not abandon his right to reclaim the possession, while it remains in such owner's hands or in the hands of a person having full knowledge of all the facts; and accordingly, he may maintain replevin therefor where the defendant takes the goods into another state to sell.[17]

§ 933. Nature of Receiptor's Liability to Redeliver.[18]—It is a general principle that a receiptor of goods seized on execution or attachment is an ordinary bailee only, and is not under an absolute liability as an insurer to redeliver the property, even though he is the debtor or friend of the debtor, unless his contract is very special and explicit.[19] Thus, it has been held that he is not liable for a casual loss of goods by fire after a seizure on execution, although he has left them with the debtor.[20] [9] Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423; Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. (N. Y.) 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108; Lockwood v. Bull, 1 Cow. (N. Y.) 322, 13 Am. Dec. 539.

---

[10] Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. (N. Y.) 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108.

[11] Peters v. Stewart, 45 Conn. 103, 29 Am. Rep. 663.

[12] Poole v. Symonds, 1 N. H. 289, 8 Am. Dec. 71; Thayer v. Hutchinson, 13 Vt. 504, 37 Am. Dec. 607.

[13] See supra, § 931.

[14] See supra, § 931.

[15] Waitt v. Thompson, 43 N. H. 161, 80 Am. Dec. 136; Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. (N. Y.) 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108.

[16] Flanagan v. Hoyt, 36 Vt. 565, 86 Am. Dec. 675.

[17] Peters v. Stewart, 45 Conn. 103, 29 Am. Rep. 663.

[18] Generally as to accrual of liability on bond to dissolve or release, see supra, § 911.

[19] Wright v. Dawson, 147 Mass. 384, 18 N. E. 1, 9 Am. St. Rep. 724; Browning v. Hanford, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 588, 40 Am. Dec. 369.

Compare Stephens v. Vaughan, 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 206, 20 Am. Dec. 216, wherein it was said that the nonperformance of a covenant to deliver personalty was not excused unless such nondelivery was occasioned by the act of God, of the law, of the obligee, or of some one who had a right to take the possession.

§ 934. Defenses and Estoppels.[1]—As a general proposition, it has been stated that a receiptor is entitled to prove as an excuse for not delivering property receipted for and as a defense to an action on the receipt any state of facts which shows that the officer is not under any liability either to apply the property to the debt of the attaching creditor or to return it to the debtor or other owner.[2] However, as will appear in the discussion in the following sections, the application of this rule is limited by the recognition in many jurisdictions of various estoppels arising from the nature of an undertaking on a receipt for the redelivery of released attached property. To justify a nondelivery on the ground that the property was taken from the covenantor's possession by another officer under an execution, it must be shown that such officer had authority so to do and that the property was taken before the day for delivery.[3]

§ 935.—Lack of Title in Defendant or Title in Receiptor.[4]—The authorities are conflicting with respect to the estoppel of a receiptor for attached property to set up as a defense to liability on his receipt lack of title in the attachment defendant to the property attached. One view is that such an estoppel arises;[5] the other is that it does not.[6] According to the view that such an estoppel arises, a receiptor is estopped from denying the sheriff's right to the goods and cannot set up title in a third person, except where such goods have been taken from him by act of law or, perhaps, by force.[7] It has also been ruled that a receiptor is estopped by his receipt from claiming the property as his own where he makes no such claim at the time of the levy and does not stipulate that his receipt shall be without prejudice to his right,[8] especially where it appears that the defendant in the attachment had other property which the officer could and would have attached had the receiptor at that time asserted his claim to the property.[9] On the other hand, in the case of an ordinary receipt, given where property has been attached by an officer and in which the receiptor merely promises to redeliver it on demand, it has been held that he is not estopped from showing that the property belonged to himself, and not to the debtor.[10] The view is generally taken that the receiptor can claim title to the property where he surrenders or redelivers it to the officer.[11] Likewise, where the bond or receipt contains no admission of title in the defendant in attachment and the receiptor at the time gives notice of his claim, he is not estopped from setting up his title as a bar to an action upon the receipt.[12] Similarly, it has been held that in an action upon a receipt which, by its terms, expressly denies the right of the plaintiff to attach the property as that of the defendant in the attachment suit, "reserving the right to claim said logs as my own property," the receiptor is not estopped to set up title in himself as a defense to the action, as the terms of the receipt sufficiently guard his rights in this respect. One court, at least, has adopted the view that the receiptor, by the mere fact of having informed the officer of his claims at the time of the attachment, may show, in an action upon the receipt, that at the time of the attachment the property was his, and not that of the defendant in attachment, and that proof of ownership, coupled with such notice, entitles him to a complete discharge.[13] However, where the goods of a debtor are actually attached as his property and the receiptor, in his receipt, expressly admits that the goods are the property of such debtor and promises to return them to the attaching officer or pay the amount of the judgment recovered against the debtor, he will not, in an action on such a receipt, be permitted to give evidence to show that the goods are not the property of the debtor or that they are not attachable,[14] although it has been held that he may in such a case, after complying with his promise to return the property re-

---

[20] Browning v. Hanford, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 588, 40 Am. Dec. 369.

[1] As to discharge of liability on bond to dissolve or release, see supra, §§ 913 et seq.; as to estoppels on such bond, see supra, §§ 920 et seq.

[2] Wright v. Dawson, 147 Mass. 384, 18 N. E. 1, 9 Am. St. Rep. 724.

[3] Stephens v. Vaughan, 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 206, 20 Am. Dec. 216.

[4] See also supra, § 925, as to lack of title in defendant or title in surety as defense to action on forthcoming or redelivery bond in attachment.

[5] Lathrop v. Cook, 14 Me. 414, 31 Am. Dec. 62; Dewey v. Field, 4 Met. (Mass.) 381, 38 Am. Dec. 376; Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423; Morrison v. Blodgett, 8 N. H. 238, 29 Am. Dec. 653; Dezell v. Odell, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 215, 38 Am. Dec. 628 (seizure on execution).

Annotation: 37 A.L.R. 1402.

In Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423, it was held that in an action upon a receipt the defendant would not be allowed to set up title in himself as a defense to the action, even though at the time the receipt was given, he gave notice of his claim to the property, but that evidence of title in himself was admissible upon the question of damages and tended to show that the plaintiff was entitled to nominal damages only, since the receiptor might have surrendered the property in discharge of his obligation and then brought suit for its recovery.

In Morrison v. Blodgett, 8 N. H. 238, 29 Am. Dec. 653, where the members of a new partnership, comprising some of the same members as did the old, the new members having assumed, as between themselves and those whose interests they had purchased, their share of the debts of the old firm, gave an accountable receipt for goods found in their possession and attached as the property of the old firm, it was held, in an action upon the receipt, that they were estopped to set up title in themselves as members of the new firm in discharge of their liability upon the receipt, or to show that the property was attached for the personal debt of one of the members of the old firm.

In Lathrop v. Cook, 14 Me. 414, 31 Am. Dec. 62, it was held that one whose goods were attached as belonging to another and who gave a receipt for them to the attaching officer, which receipt was not in the usual form and contained no admission

[6] Lester v. Ladrigan, 90 Conn. 570, 98 A. 124, L.R.A.1916F, 939.

Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 942.

According to this view, he may show that he returned it to the true owner. Fisher v. Bartlett, 8 Me. 122, 22 Am. Dec. 225; Dewey v. Field, 4 Met. (Mass.) 381, 38 Am. Dec. 376. Annotation: 25 Am. Dec. 428.

[7] Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. (N. Y.) 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108.

Annotation: 25 Am. Dec. 427.

[8] Dezell v. Odell, 3 Hill (N. Y.) 215, 38 Am. Dec. 628.

---

that the goods were those of the defendant in attachment, could, in an action upon the receipt, set up title in himself as a valid defense.

[9] Dewey v. Field, 4 Met. (Mass.) 381, 38 Am. Dec. 376.

[10] Lathrop v. Cook, 14 Me. 414, 31 Am. Dec. 62; Barron v. Cobleigh, 11 N. H. 557, 35 Am. Dec. 505.

Annotation: 25 Am. Dec. 428.

[11] It has been held that the owner does not waive his title to property attached while in the hands of another by receipting for the same where the receipt is merely a promise to deliver the property to the officer, and that a recital contained therein to the effect that the person signing the receipt is estopped to deny that the property is that of the debtor does not operate after the property is delivered to the officer. Lester v. Ladrigan, 90 Conn. 570, 98 A. 124, L.R.A.1916F, 959.

After the receiptor has delivered back the property, he is not estopped to claim it. Johns v. Church, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 557, 23 Am. Dec. 651.

In Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423, the court said: "But if the promise had been complied with, had the defendant delivered over the goods agreeably to his contract, he might then have brought his action of replevin, trespass, or trover, to try his right of property. He would no longer be estopped by his contract and the implied admission contained in it, and upon proving title in himself, as he has proved it in the present action, he would have recovered the goods on their value. Johns v. Church, 12 Pick. (Mass.) 557, 23 Am. Dec. 651. The receiptor under such circumstances, although he may intend ultimately to assert his right of property, may well wait in the expectation that the attaching creditor will fail in his action, in which case the property will be delivered up, and all litigated questions of title avoided."

However, in Dewey v. Field, 4 Met. (Mass.) 381, 38 Am. Dec. 376, it was held that a receiptor ought not to conceal his ownership and thus induce the other party to forego making an attachment of other property belonging to the debtor which would have furnished adequate security for the debt. Under such circumstances, the giving of a receipt to an attaching officer should operate as an estoppel and be held sufficient to prevent the party from controverting the debtor's title to the property mentioned in the receipt. See also annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 944.

[12] Woods-Egan Live-Stock Commission Co. v. Hicks, 92 Kan. 922, 142 P. 276, L.R.A. 1915A, 1132.

Annotation: 37 A.L.R. 1402.

[13] Annotation: 37 A.L.R. 1406.

[14] Annotation: 25 Am. Dec. 427.

ceipted for, bring replevin, trespass, or trover to try his right of property and will not, in such action, be estopped by his receipt from proving title in himself.[15] Likewise, in such an action on the receipt, evidence of property in the defendant is admissible on the question of damages in a suit on his promise to return the property; and if such evidence shows that the property could not have been applied to satisfy the creditor's execution, the plaintiff can recover nominal damages only.[16]

§ 936. —Property Not Liable.[17]—The receiptor has been allowed to defend an action on his undertaking on the ground that the property attached is exempt from attachment and has been given up to the debtor, or that the attachment has been dissolved by the insolvency of the debtor.[18] On the other hand, it has been ruled that one who receives from an officer property levied on and covenants to redeliver at a given time and place cannot excuse nondelivery by the fact that the property is exempt from execution.[19] It has also been held that where a receiptor refused to deliver the property prior to the time when the debtor filed his petition in bankruptcy, the subsequent proceedings in bankruptcy are no defense to an action brought by the sheriff against the receiptor for the amount of the execution.[20]

§ 937. —Defects and Irregularities in Attachment.—The general rule is that a receiptor for attached property may not set up as a defense to liability on the receipt the fact that the attachment proceedings were defective, unless they were void.[1] Accordingly, in an action on a receipt given for goods attached, the defendant will not be permitted to prove that the goods were not attached, or were not even in the sheriff's possession, or delivered by him to the defendant,[2] especially where they were at that time in the possession of the receiptor.[3]

XIII. THE MAIN ACTION

A. In General

§ 938. Generally.—The main action is in essence the action by the plaintiff on his claim against the defendant. Such action must necessarily be in rem until personal jurisdiction of the defendant is secured,[4] and it is elementary that no personal jurisdiction of the defendant is secured until personal service is had upon him or until he enters a general appearance to answer to the merits of the claim against him.[5] Consequently, until such jurisdiction is secured, no judgment can be entered in the main action against him, binding upon him personally, except with respect to property validly attached or garnished.[6] The main action may be commenced as an ordinary action or, in some jurisdictions, by a writ of attachment or garnishment.[7]

---

[15] Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423.

[16] Bursley v. Hamilton, 15 Pick. (Mass.) 40, 25 Am. Dec. 423.

As to a similar holding in an action on a bond to dissolve or release, see supra, § 925.

[17] As to estoppel of surety on bond to dissolve attachment or garnishment to set up exemptions of property, see supra, § 924.

[18] Wright v. Dawson, 147 Mass. 384, 18 N. E. 1, 9 Am. St. Rep. 724.

As to effect of insolvency on liability on a bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment or to release attached or garnished property, see supra, §§ 918, 919.

[19] Stephens v. Vaughan, 4 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 206, 20 Am. Dec. 216.

[20] Parks v. Sheldon, 36 Conn. 466, 4 Am. Rep. 95.

As to effect of bankruptcy on liability on bond to dissolve attachment or to release attached property, see supra, § 918.

[1] As to estoppel in an action on a bond to dissolve or release to set up defects and irregularities in the attachment, see supra, § 921.

[2] Lowry v. Cady, 4 Vt. 504, 24 Am. Dec. 628; Spencer v. Williams, 2 Vt. 209, 19 Am. Dec. 711.

[3] Pettes v. Marsh, 15 Vt. 454, 40 Am. Dec. 689.

[4] See Vol. 4, p. 556, § 10.

[5] See Vol. 4, p. 578, §§ 48 et seq.

The discussion of the main action in attachment or garnishment is limited in this article to the practice and procedure peculiar to such action by virtue of issuance, in the action, of the attachment or garnishment, and excludes for the most part discussion of matters pertaining generally to actions at law.

§ 939. Continuance, Discontinuance, Abatement, and Revival.—A main action in an attachment or garnishment is subject generally to the law of dismissal, discontinuance, and nonsuit,[8] continuance,[9] and abatement, survival, and revival of actions.[10] It may be noted here, however, that a court may continue a case after verdict or decision, and suspend the entry of final judgment, in order that it may determine the liability of a garnishee.[11] Statutory provision is sometimes made for the continuance of an attachment or garnishment case when a resident defendant is absent from the state at the commencement of the action and does not return or enter an appearance before the return day of the writ, and for a continuance and an order of notice by the court, by publication or otherwise, where the defendant is a nonresident and does not appear.[12] It may also be noted that it has been held that in an action at law on an attachment against a nonresident defendant, the suit does not abate on the return day of the summons, though the return discloses that the defendant is not found in the county, if it also appears that the defendant has property or debts in the county, and that the attachment has been levied thereon.[13] The dissolution of an attachment, where it constitutes the sole basis of jurisdiction of the court over the main action, as in the case of a nonresident defendant, and where no personal jurisdiction over the defendant is obtained, naturally discontinues the main action.[14] An attachment suit will abate upon a showing that the defendant is a nonresident and cannot be found, that service cannot be had upon him, and that none of his property can be found.[15] However, the failure to issue publication of process upon the sheriff's return of "not found" does not create a hiatus devitalizing the suit, where property of the nonresident has been attached within the jurisdiction of the court.[16]

§ 940. Parties.—The law of parties[17] applies generally to the parties in the main action in an attachment or garnishment suit. The garnishee usually is not made a party to the principal action, though under some statutes, if he fails to answer or fails to make a true and satisfactory answer, he may then be made a party defendant, a cause of action being stated against him by the plaintiff on behalf of the defendant debtor.[18]

---

[6] See infra, §§ 954 et seq.

[7] See infra, § 942.

[8] See DISMISSAL, DISCONTINUANCE AND NONSUIT [Also 9 R. C. L. pp. 190 et seq.].

[9] See CONTINUANCES [Also 6 R. C. L. pp. 542 et seq.].

[10] See ABATEMENT, SURVIVAL AND REVIVAL, Vol. 1, pp. 15 et seq.

[11] Tillinghast v. Johnson, 34 R. I. 136, 82 A. 788, 41 L.R.A.(N.S.) 764, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 960.

[12] Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951.

[13] Adams v. Trepanier Lumber Co. 117 Ohio St. 298, 158 N. E. 541, 55 A.L.R. 1118.

[14] Ibid.

[15] Byrd v. Rector, 112 W. Va. 192, 163 S. E. 845, 81 A.L.R. 1213.

[16] Ibid.

[17] See PARTIES [Also 20 R. C. L. p. 660].

[18] Sanders v. Herndon, 122 Ky. 760, 93 S. W. 14, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1072, 121 Am. St. Rep. 493.

In Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363, it was held that to give a court of equity jurisdiction to subject a debt within the state to payment of alimony due by a nonresident husband, his debtor must be made a party to the proceeding and the debt must be seized.

B. Process, Service, and Notice

§ 941. Process.—The main action may be commenced by personal service of a summons on the defendant, in which event personal jurisdiction of the defendant is at once secured, and the attachment or garnishment may then issue on mesne process, where proper grounds for such issuance exist.[19] Indeed, in many states the writ of attachment may be issued only after the commencement of an action by service of summons in the usual manner.[20] The main action may, on the other hand, be commenced by the execution of a writ of attachment or garnishment, in which event jurisdiction of the property attached or garnished is at once secured, as is jurisdiction of any garnishee who is served with process.[1] The service of a writ of attachment or garnishment on the defendant, sufficient to constitute a summons, although no property is levied upon, has the effect of the service of a writ of summons, and commences an action against the defendant, although, of course, no attachment has been effected.[2] However, no action whatsoever is commenced where there is neither a personal service upon the defendant nor a valid attachment or garnishment of his property.[3] In some states the statutes make the clause of summons an essential portion of the writ of attachment, but in effect they are regarded as two separate writs, and with separate objects,—the one directing the officer to seize property as a security for the creditor, and the other directing the officer to advise the debtor of what has been done. And while under such an act the court will not permit the property seized to be subjected to the payment of the debt unless the debtor is legally advised of the proceedings, yet the invalidity or total nullity of the summons is held not necessarily to make the attachment also a nullity.[4]

---

[19] Ridenbaugh v. Sandlin, 14 Idaho, 472, 94 P. 827, 125 Am. St. Rep. 175; White v. Johnson, 27 Or. 282, 40 P. 511, 50 Am. St. Rep. 726; Cheeseman v. Fenton, 13 Wyo. 436, 80 P. 823, 110 Am. St. Rep. 1010.

[20] Cheeseman v. Fenton, 13 Wyo. 436, 80 P. 823, 110 Am. St. Rep. 1010.

Under a statute allowing the plaintiff, "at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time afterward," to have the property of the defendant attached, the summons must be issued at the time of, or prior to, the issuance of the writ of attachment. If the writ is issued before the summons, it is void. White v. Johnson, 27 Or. 282, 40 P. 511, 50 Am. St. Rep. 726. See also Ridenbaugh v. Sandlin, 14 Idaho, 472, 94 P. 827, 125 Am. St. Rep. 175.

[1] Clark v. Wells, 203 U. S. 164, 51 L. ed. 138, 27 S. Ct. 43; Courtney v. Pradt, 196 U. S. 89, 49 L. ed. 398, 25 S. Ct. 208; New York, L. E. & W. R. Co. v. Estill, 147 U. S. 591, 37 L. ed. 292, 13 S. Ct. 444; Pratt v. Law, 9 Cranch (U. S.) 456, 3 L. ed. 791; Dulion v. S. A. Lynch Enterprise Finance Corp. (C. C. A. 5th) 53 F. (2d) 568, 82 A.L.R. 509, writ of certiorari denied in 285 U. S. 540, 76 L. ed. 933, 52 S. Ct. 312; Cowart v. W. E. Caldwell Co. 134 Ga. 544, 68 S. E. 500, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 720; Bicknell v. Herbert, 20 Haw. 132, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1186, affirmed in 233 U. S. 70, 58 L. ed. 854, 34 S. Ct. 562; Wagner v. Farmers' Co-op. Exch. Co. 147 Minn. 376, 180 N. W. 231, 14 A.L.R. 279; Raymond v. Leishman, 243 Pa. 64, 89 A. 791, L.R.A.1915A, 400, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 780; Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319.

Annotation: 82 A.L.R. 514.

An action is commenced by the levy of an attachment, and neither the action nor the attachment is abandoned thereafter by a delay in the service of summons. Wagner v. Farmers' Co-op. Exch. Co. 147 Minn. 376, 180 N. W. 231, 14 A.L.R. 279.

"Foreign attachment" is the equivalent of a summons for the commencement of a personal action. It is a process by which to commence a personal action and compel an appearance. Raymond v. Leishman, 243 Pa. 64, 89 A. 791, L.R.A.1915A, 400, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 780.

The levy of an attachment issued out of a state court on property of a nonresident defendant has been held to constitute the commencement of a suit within the meaning of the Federal statute providing for the removal of causes from state to Federal courts Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319.

[2] New York, L. E. W. R. Co. v. Estill, 147 U. S. 591, 57 L. ed. 292, 13 S. Ct. 444.

[3] National Bank v. Furtick, 2 Marv. (Del.) 35, 42 A. 479, 44 L.R.A. 115, 96 Am. St. Rep. 99.

A court cannot proceed in an attachment action, in the absence of personal service on the defendant within the jurisdiction, unless property of the defendant is found by the officer on which to levy the writ of attachment. Ibid.

[4] Bank of Missouri v. Matson, 26 Mo. 243, 72 Am. Dec. 208.

A plaintiff may proceed to a verdict and general judgment on his declaration, although his attachment or garnishment is dissolved or discharged because of its invalidity, if the defendant has entered a general appearance and made defense.[5]

The effect of errors or defects in the summons to the defendant, or in the writ of attachment or garnishment as a summons, depends upon the jurisdictional character of such error or defects, and in this connection it is to be observed that there is a difference of opinion among the courts upon the general matter of what errors and defects in attachment and garnishment proceedings are jurisdictional, and what are not.[6] However, it is generally true that a writ of attachment or garnishment may be defective in that capacity and still be efficient and vital as a summons to the defendant, and the vitality and efficiency of a writ of attachment cannot in all cases and at all hazards be tested by the strength of the summons to withstand a motion to quash. The fact that the clerk makes a mistake in drawing a summons, and in some respect fails to comply with the statutory requirements, will not, alone and of itself, render the process as though no summons whatever had been issued, so as to subject the writ of attachment to dissolution on the ground that no summons had been issued at the time of the issuance of the writ.[7] The view has been taken that the summons must be signed by the clerk because his signature is a matter of substance and a fundamental part of the summons, without which there can be no effectual summons.[8]

§ 942. Service of Process and Notice.—An attachment or garnishment statute may require personal service either of process or of notice on the defendant; in such case there must be compliance with the statute.[9] But the statutes

---

[5] Cowart v. W. E. Caldwell Co. 134 Ga. 544, 68 S. E. 500, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 720.

It is provided by statute that where the defendant has appeared and made defense, judgment against him shall bind all his property and have the same force and effect as if there had been personal service, and that where notice in writing was given to the defendant of the pendency of attachment proceedings, the declaration shall not be dismissed because the attachment may have been dismissed or discontinued, but the plaintiff shall be entitled to judgment on the declaration filed, as in other cases at common law, upon the merits of the case. Cowart v. W. E. Caldwell Co. 134 Ga. 544, 68 S. E. 500, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 720.

[6] See Vol. 4, p. 607, §§ 85, 86.

[7] Ridenbaugh v. Sandlin, 14 Idaho, 472, 94 P. 827, 125 Am. St. Rep. 175.

[8] Sharman v. Huot, 20 Mont. 555, 52 P. 558, 63 Am. St. Rep. 645.

[9] Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951; Bicknell v. Herbert, 20 Haw. 132, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1186, affirmed in 233 U. S. 70, 58 L. ed. 854, 34 S. Ct. 562; J. J. Smith Lumber Co. v. Scott County Garbage Reducing & Fuel Co. 149 Iowa, 272, 128 N. W. 389, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1184 (statute requiring notice to defendant of garnishment proceedings); Union P. R. Co. v. Smersh, 22 Neb. 751, 36 N. W. 139, 3 Am. St. Rep. 290 (requiring notice to defendant of garnishment execution although such notice is not provided for by statute); Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567 (statute requiring notice to defendant of garnishment proceeding); Friedman v. First Nat. Bank, 39 Okla. 486, 135 P. 1069, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 548 (in case of resident defendants); Kevorko v. Vaitkunas, 54 R. I. 8, 168 A. 910, citing R. C. L. (writ of scire facias).

Annotation: 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 548.

Statutory provisions relating to the form and contents of the notice to the attachment defendant should be strictly and literally observed in order that judgment shall be of legal force and validity against him. Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567.

Omission of the notice served on the principal defendant in garnishment proceedings to state, as required by statute, that his money will be applied and his effects disposed of to pay the judgment, is a jurisdictional defect which invalidates the judgment against the garnishee. Mares v. Schuth, 38 N. M. 101, 28 P. (2d) 527, 92 A.L.R. 567.

In an action brought by attachment against the defendant in the county where he had resided, in which it is charged he has absconded, process may be served on him in any county in which he may be afterward discovered, and a judgment secured upon such process cannot be disregarded as void. Gandy v. Jolly, 35 Neb. 711, 53 N. W. 658, 37 Am. St. Rep. 460.

Statutes do not always require notice to the defendant of garnishment proceedings. Such statutes contemplate garnishment proceedings on mesne, rather than original, process. See supra, § 941.

Where proceedings have been properly commenced and jurisdiction obtained by the garnishment of property of the princiof the states have provided for several kinds of service of original process short of actual service on the party brought before the court, and the nature and effect of this service, and the purpose which it answers, depend altogether upon the effect given to it by the statute.[10] However, in some jurisdictions no provision is made for notice to the defendant if he is a nonresident not within the state.[11] A corporate defendant to an attachment suit must be served with process in the manner provided by statute.[12]

§ 943. —Leaving a Copy of Process at Usual Place of Abode.—The form of service of a writ of attachment or garnishment on a resident defendant in the main action, as prescribed by some statutes, at least under certain circumstances, is by leaving a copy of the process at his usual place of abode.[13] However, leaving notice at the defendant's usual place of abode may fail in actually notifying him of the attachment or garnishment. Hence, provision is sometimes made for the continuance of cases when the defendant, though a resident of the state, is absent from it at the commencement of the action and does not return or enter an appearance before the return day, and for a continuance and an order of notice by the court, by publication or otherwise, where the defendant is a nonresident and does not appear.[14]

§ 944. —Publication.—As a rule, if the defendant is a nonresident, or absent from the state, or in concealment therein, the statute superadds publication of notice in a newspaper in order that he may have certain and speedy information concerning at whose suit his estate is taken, and where and when he may release it,[15] and it is the duty of the court to order such publication pal defendants in the hands of the garnishee, a defect in the notice that should subsequently be given to the principal defendant is an irregularity that will not render the judgment a nullity, although it may be a sufficient cause for reversal. Bruce v. Cloutman, 45 N. H. 37, 84 Am. Dec. 111.

---

As to levy of attachment on shares of stock, see Vol. 4, p. 897, § 564.

[10] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931; Shea v. Shea, 154 Mo. 599, 55 S. W. 869, 77 Am. St. Rep. 779; Washington v. Sanders, 13 N. C. (2 Dev. L.) 343, 21 Am. Dec. 336; White v. Johnson, 27 Or. 282, 40 P. 511, 50 Am. St. Rep. 726; Breon v. Miller Lumber Co. 83 S. C. 221, 65 S. E. 214, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 276, 137 Am. St. Rep. 803; McClung v. Sieg, 54 W. Va. 467, 46 S. E. 210, 66 L.R.A. 884; Cheeseman v. Fenton, 13 Wyo. 436, 80 P. 823, 110 Am. St. Rep. 1010.

[11] Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951. Bicknell v. Herbert, 20 Haw. 132, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1186, affirmed in 233 U. S. 70, 58 L. ed. 854, 34 S. Ct. 562.

[12] In State ex rel. Ferrocarriles Nacionales v. Rutlidge, 331 Mo. 1015, 56 S. W. (2d) 28, 85 A.L.R. 1378 (writ of certiorari denied in 289 U. S. 746, 77 L. ed. 1492, 52 S. Ct. 689), a foreign railway corporation was made defendant in an attachment suit by service of process on a soliciting freight agent.

Under a statute authorizing service of process upon a foreign corporation doing business within the state, by a service upon its agent therein, the court held that jurisdiction in attachment proceedings was obtained by such service upon the local agent of a foreign corporation. Société Foncière v. Milliken, 135 U. S. 304, 34 L. ed. 208, 10 S. Ct. 823.

[13] Herbert v. Bicknell, 233 U. S. 70, 58 L. ed. 854, 34 S. Ct. 562; Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951; Kevorko v. Vaitkunas, 54 R. I. 8, 168 A. 910, citing R. C. L. (writ of scire facias).

Due process of law is not denied where the principal defendant in a garnishment suit had actual knowledge of the suit in addition to process having been served by leaving a copy of the summons at his usual residence. Herbert v. Bicknell, 233 U. S. 70, 58 L. ed. 854, 34 S. Ct. 562.

The provision sometimes is that a copy of the process shall be left with him personally or at his usual place of abode, if within the state. Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951.

[14] Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951.

[15] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931; Shea v. Shea, 154 Mo. 599, 55 S. W. 869, 77 Am. St. Rep. 779; Washington v. Sanders, 13 N. C. (2 Dev. L.) 343, 21 Am. Dec. 336; White v. Johnson, 27 Or. 282, 40 P. 511, 50 Am. St. Rep. 726; Breon v. Miller Lumber Co. 83 S. C. 221, 65 S. E. 214, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 276, 137 Am. St. Rep. 803; McClung v. Sieg, 54 W. Va. 467, 46 S. E. 210, 66 L.R.A. 884; Cheeseman v. Fenton, 13 Wyo. 436, 80 P. 823, 110 Am. St. Rep. 1010.

Annotation: 76 Am. St. Rep. 803.

as the statute prescribes, and to see that it is properly made.[16] In jurisdictions wherein attachment cannot issue in an action sounding in tort or where damages are unliquidated,[17] a nonresident cannot be summoned by publication in such an action.[18]

§ 945. —Order and Time for Publication.—Since the purpose of publication is to notify the defendant of the attachment, the publication should be subsequent to the attachment and should show that the attachment has been issued, or that it has been levied, or the cause for which it has been levied.[19] Consequently, proceedings for the service of the summons by publication on a nonresident before attaching his property are null and void.[20] Generally, publication may and must be made within a reasonable time after return of process.[1] Where the affidavit for attachment and other papers in a cause show that the defendants are nonresidents, and no order of publication has been taken on the return day of the process, the plaintiff is entitled to a reasonable time in which to perfect his suit by order of publication, and the suit does not abate immediately upon the return of the process and failure to take the order of publication.[2]

§ 946. —Failure of, and Defective, Publication; Amendments.—According to some courts, if the plaintiff has failed to publish notice of the proceedings, as required by the statute, on failure to make personal service on the defendant, the court loses jurisdiction to proceed further. The view is taken that the fact of publication of notice as required by statute must appear from the records of the court. A notice by publication is fatally defective which fails to show that the attachment has been issued or that it has been levied, or the cause for which it has been levied.[3] But in jurisdictions that take the general view that irregularities in the attachment proceedings are not fatal to the jurisdiction of the court,[4] the attachment is merely voidable, and not void, as a consequence of failure of, or defective, publication, and judgment in the action, while irregular, is not open to collateral attack.[5]

C. Appearance by Defendant

§ 947. Generally.—The principal defendant in an attachment or garnishment case may enter an appearance in the main action by appearing in person or by filing a plea or answer to the merits,[6] or he may enter a special appearance to attack the attachment or garnishment.[7]

---

[16] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931.

"It is the duty of the court to order such publication and to see that it has been properly made, and, undoubtedly, if there has been no such publication, a court of errors might reverse the judgment. But when the writ has been issued, the property seized, and that property been condemned and sold, we cannot hold that the court had no jurisdiction for want of a sufficient publication of notice." Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 380, 19 L. ed. 931 (a collateral attack on an attachment).

A provision of a statute requiring proof of publication in a newspaper to be made by the "affidavit of the printer, or his foreman, or his principal clerk," is satisfied when the affidavit is made by the editor of the paper. Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565.

[17] See Vol. 4, p. 622, §§ 106 et seq.

[18] Mudge v. Steinhart, 78 Cal. 34, 20 P. 147, 12 Am. St. Rep. 17.

[19] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Breon v. Miller Lumber Co. 83 S. C. 221, 65 S. E. 214, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 276, 137 Am. St. Rep. 803.

Annotation: 76 Am. St. Rep. 803.

[20] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Breon v. Miller Lumber Co. 83 S. C. 221, 65 S. E. 214, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 276, 137 Am. St. Rep. 803.

[1] Shea v. Shea, 154 Mo. 599, 55 S. W. 869, 77 Am. St. Rep. 779; McClung v. Sieg, 54 W. Va. 467, 46 S. E. 210, 66 L.R.A. 884.

[2] Ibid.

[3] Annotation: 76 Am. St. Rep. 803.

See Vol. 4, p. 586, § 58.

As to time for publication, see supra, § 945.

[4] See Vol. 4, p. 607, § 85.

[5] See infra, § 957.

See also infra, § 959, as to full faith and credit.

§ 948. Entering Security to Dissolve or Release Attachment or Garnishment as Constituting Appearance.—Whether or not the entry of security to dissolve an attachment or release attached property has the effect of constituting a general appearance in the main action depends upon statutory provisions and the nature and effect of such security. Generally speaking, dissolution bonds conditioned by the agreement of the defendant to appear and abide by the judgment of the court are regarded as constituting a general appearance in the main action[8] and a waiver of defects in the attachment.[9] On the other hand, forthcoming, delivery, and replevin bonds do not generally have these effects.[10] In some jurisdictions statutes have been enacted which expressly provide that the giving of bond to secure the release of attached property shall have the same force and effect as personal service.[11]

The general rule is that entry of security by a third person to dissolve or release an attachment cannot have the effect of constituting an appearance by the defendant.[12]

---

[6] Maxwell v. Stewart, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 71, 22 Wall. 77, 22 L. ed. 564; McGoon v. Scales, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 23, 19 L. ed. 545; Chaffee v. Hayward, 20 How. (U. S.) 208, 15 L. ed. 804; Toland v. Sprague, 12 Pet. (U. S.) 300, 9 L. ed. 1093; Pollard v. Dwight, 4 Cranch (U. S.) 421, 2 L. ed. 666; Butcher v. Cappon & B. Leather Co. 148 Mich. 552, 112 N. W. 110, 12 Ann. Cas. 169; Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington & W. R. Co. 119 N. C. 693, 25 S. E. 854, 56 Am. St. Rep. 682.

[7] Davis v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 217 U. S. 157, 54 L. ed. 708, 30 S. Ct. 463, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 823, 18 Ann. Cas. 907; Adams v. Trepanier Lumber Co. 117 Ohio St. 298, 158 N. E. 541, 55 A.L.R. 1118.

A nonresident defendant over whom personal jurisdiction has not been obtained may appear specially in a suit in a Federal Circuit Court for the sole purpose of moving to quash the service of writs of garnishment upon his property in the district, on the ground that such property was not subject to garnishment. Davis v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 217 U. S. 157, 54 L. ed. 708, 30 S. Ct. 463, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 823, 18 Ann. Cas. 907.

[8] Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254; Butcher v. Cappon & B. Leather Co. 148 Mich. 552, 112 N. W. 110, 12 Ann. Cas. 169.

Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 587.

From the time of the execution of a release bond in attachment, the attached property disappears from the proceedings, the bond taking its place, and the action becomes one in personam. Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254.

Statutes have been enacted in some jurisdictions which expressly provide that the giving of a bond to secure the release of attached property shall have the same force and effect as personal service. Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 587.

[9] See Vol. 4, p. 924, § 620.

As to classification of dissolution and release bonds, and their effect, see supra, §§ 901 et seq.

[10] Wagner v. Farmers' Co-op. Exch. Co. 147 Minn. 376, 180 N. W. 231, 14 A.L.R. 279; Winder v. Penniman, 181 N. C. 7, 105 S. E. 884, 13 A.L.R. 364; American Surety Co. v. Stebbins, L. S. Co. 107 Tex. 413, 180 S. W. 101, L.R.A.1916F, 583.

Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 588.

A bond to secure the release of attached property, which is conditioned merely to deliver the property or pay the value thereof to the sheriff to whom the execution upon the attachment obtained by the plaintiff in the action may be issued, and which requires no action of the court, it being merely an engagement to redeliver the attached property or pay the value thereof, and which does not release the lien of the attachment, does not amount to a general appearance. Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 589.

In American Surety Co. v. Stebbins, L. S. Co. 107 Tex. 413, 180 S. W. 101, L.R.A. 1916F, 583, it was held that where a statute provided that no judgment could be obtained against a defendant except upon service, acceptance, or waiver of process, or upon appearance, the filing of a replevin bond in an attachment suit did not constitute a waiver of service of process, or an appearance, so as to justify a judgment by default against the defendant.

The giving of a replevin bond by a nonresident who came into the state to attend a trial, to recover possession of personal property which he brought with him into the state, and which was wrongfully attached while he was in the state on such errand, is not a submission to the jurisdiction of the court. Winder v. Penniman, 181 N. C. 7, 105 S. E. 884, 13 A.L.R. 364.

However, it has been held that the mere replevying of attached property renders it incumbent on the defendant to enter an appearance or be subject to the proceedings as in the case of personal service of process, although the replevy bond does not operate to dissolve the attachment, notice of the suit being acknowledged by the act of filing the bond. Likewise, the view has been taken that the execution of a redelivery bond in replevin, conditioned as required by statute to deliver the property to the plaintiff if such delivery should be adjudged, and to pay all costs and damages that should be awarded, is an appearance in the action and waives the issuance of summons. Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 590.

[11] Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 587.

D. PLEADINGS

§ 949. Generally.—The law of pleading[13] applies generally to the main action in an attachment or garnishment proceeding.[14] Whether or not a motion to quash or dissolve an attachment extends the time to plead in the main action depends upon local statutes and practice.[15] The effect of the appearance of the defendant or the dissolution of the attachment upon the course of pleading in the main action likewise depends upon local statutes and practice.[16]

§ 950. Relation between Complaint and Attachment Affidavit.—In some jurisdictions a verified pleading may serve both as the complaint of the plaintiff in the main action and as an affidavit to support an attachment or garnishment.[17] However, it is believed that the general practice is not to combine the complaint and the attachment affidavit in a single instrument.[18]

§ 951. Effect of Variance between Complaint and Attachment or Garnishment Affidavit.—The general rule is that a difference in substance between the declaration or complaint in the main action and the attachment affidavit is fatal,[19] but that an immaterial variance is amendable.[20] Thus, the plaintiff may not sue out an attachment for one cause of action and allege another cause in his declaration or complaint,[1] but a variance between the parties stated in the attachment affidavit and in the complaint is amendable.[2] There is no variance between the cause of action for which the attachment was sued out and that declared on, where the declaration is for breach of warranty and the ground for suing out the attachment was that the warranty so broken was fraudulently made.[3] The view has been taken that an attachment, regular upon its face, is not void because the complaint does not set up a cause of action which would warrant the issuance of an attachment.[4]

---

[12] Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 591.

[13] See PLEADING [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 431].

[14] Fresh v. Gilson, 16 Pet. (U. S.) 327, 10 L. ed. 982; Skalowski v. Joe Fisher, 152 S. C. 108, 149 S. E. 340, 65 A.L.R. 1427.

The rules applicable to assumpsit must govern proceedings commenced by attachment upon a short note in lieu of a formal declaration, where such proceedings assume the essential character of an action of assumpsit. Fresh v. Gilson, 16 Pet. (U. S,) 327, 10 L. ed. 982.

The sufficiency of the complaint in an action in which an attachment has issued must be determined, on demurrer, from its terms, unaided by affidavits and exhibits. Skalowski v. Joe Fisher, 152 S. C. 108, 149 S. E. 340, 65 A.L.R. 1427.

Only legal defenses can be made to an attachment, in the attachment suit. McLaughlin v. Swann, 18 How. (U. S.) 217, 15 L. ed. 357.

[15] Annotation: 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 856.

Where an attachment is issued at the same time the suit is commenced by præcipe and summons, pendency of a motion to dismiss the attachment will not prevent the entering of default for failure to plead. Annotation: 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 856.

[16] Goldsborough v. Orr, 8 Wheat. (U. S.) 217, 5 L. ed. 600.

Under the Attachment Act of Maryland of 1795, chap. 56, if the defendant appears and dissolves the attachment, a declaration and subsequent pleadings are not necessary, but the cause may be tried on a short note. Ibid.

[17] Skalowski v. Joe Fisher, 152 S. C. 108, 149 S. E. 340, 65 A.L.R. 1427.

In New York, the application for a warrant of attachment must be founded on an affidavit, but a verified pleading is regarded as an affidavit. 7 Carmody, N. Y. Prac. p. 403.

[18] McComb v. Reed, 28 Cal. 281, 87 Am. Dec. 115.

[19] Hambrick v. Wilkins, 65 Miss. 18, 3 So. 67, 7 Am. St. Rep. 631; Simmons v. Simmons, 56 W. Va. 65, 48 S. W. 833, 107 Am. St. Rep. 890, 3 Ann. Cas. 184.

Annotation: 107 Am. St. Rep. 894; 3 Ann. Cas. 186.

[20] Hambrick v. Wilkins, 65 Miss. 18, 3 So. 67, 7 Am. St. Rep. 631; Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. E. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23.

Annotation: 107 Am. St. Rep. 895.

[1] Hambrick v. Wilkins, 65 Miss. 18, 3 So. 67, 7 Am. St. Rep. 631; Simmons v. Simmons, 56 W. Va. 65, 48 S. W. 833, 107 Am. St. Rep. 890, 3 Ann. Cas. 184.

[2] Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. W. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23.

There is authority to the contrary. Annotation: 107 Am. St. Rep. 895.

[3] Hambrick v. Wilkins, 65 Miss. 18, 3 So. 67, 7 Am. St. Rep. 631.

§ 952. Amendments.—The general rule is that the power to amend the pleadings in the main action in an attachment or garnishment proceeding is the same as it is in other cases; at least this is the rule in the absence of statute.[5] Consequently, it may be said that the pleading in such a suit may be amendable, as in other cases generally, where the amendment does not introduce a new cause of action. This rule is aided by the liberal amendment statutes in force in many states.[6] The rule is applicable to variance or defects in parties,[7] defects in the form of declaring,[8] an amendment changing the form of action merely, or adding a new count,[9] a change in the ad damnum without changing the identity of the cause of action,[10] and to an amendment which merely sets the cause forth with greater detail.[11]

The operation of amendments in attachment or garnishment proceedings as discharging the attachment or garnishment or liability on a dissolution or release bond is elsewhere noted herein.[12]

E. Evidence and Trial

§ 953. Generally.—The law of evidence [13] and trial [14] applies generally to the trial of the main action in an attachment or garnishment suit. Inasmuch as the jurisdiction of the court to grant relief is based and depends upon allegations showing one of the recognized grounds for the issuance of the writ, such allegations must be sustained by admissible evidence; otherwise the court has no power to render judgment.[15] The burden of proof rests, in proceedings of this character, where it usually does, upon the party plaintiff.[16] The merits of the main action cannot be tried on a traverse filed in support of a motion to discharge the attachment, and denying the grounds thereof.[17]

---

[4] McComb v. Reed, 28 Cal. 281, 87 Am. Dec. 115.

Annotation: 7 Am. St. Rep. 633.
But see 5 Texas Jur. p. 246.

[5] Rothschild v. Knight, 184 U. S. 334, 46 L. ed. 573, 22 S. Ct. 391; Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858.

[6] Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858; Blankenship v. Blackwell, 124 Ala. 355, 27 So. 551, 82 Am. St. Rep. 175 (amendment by adding new parties); Warren Bros. Co. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445; Aronow v. Gold, 274 Mass. 65, 174 N. E. 267, 74 A.L.R. 910; Meyer v. Brooks, 29 Or. 203, 44 P. 281, 54 Am. St. Rep. 790; Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. W. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23; Hare v. Marsh, 61 Wis. 435, 21 N. W. 267, 50 Am. Rep. 141.

[7] Blankenship v. Blackwell, 124 Ala. 355, 27 So. 551, 82 Am. St. Rep. 175 (amendment by adding new parties); Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. W. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23.

Annotation: 107 Am. St. Rep. 895.

[8] Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. W. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23.

Annotation: 61 Am. Dec. 125.

[9] Warren Bros. Co. v. Kendrick & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445; Aronow v. Gold, 274 Mass. 65, 174 N. E. 267, 74 A.L.R. 910; Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. W. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23.

Annotation: 74 A.L.R. 912.

[10] Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858; Warren Bros. Co. v. Kendricks & Roberts, 113 Md. 603, 77 A. 847, 140 Am. St. Rep. 445 (constituting in a common count a demand for $10,000 damages in lieu of a specific statement of an indebtedness of $7,157.53).

An amendment to include interest not originally claimed is proper. Tilton v. Cofield, 93 U. S. 163, 23 L. ed. 858.

[11] Meyer v. Brooks, 29 Or. 203, 44 P. 281, 54 Am. St. Rep. 790; Niehaus v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co. 135 Tenn. 382, 186 S. W. 461, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 23.

[12] See Vol. 4, p. 930, §§ 628 et seq.; supra, §§ 914 et seq.

[13] See Evidence [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 847].

[14] See Trial [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[15] Stone v. Connelly, 1 Met. (Ky.) 652, 71 Am. Dec. 499.

[16] J. Cueva Co. v. R. Lancaster Williams & Co. 145 Md. 526, 125 A. 849, citing R. C. L. See Pelzer Mfg. Co. v. Pitts, 76 S. C. 349, 57 S. E. 29, 11 Ann. Cas. 665.

[17] Collins v. Stanley, 15 Wyo. 282, 88 P. 620, 123 Am. St. Rep. 1022.

In McLaughlin v. Swann, 18 How. (U. S.) 217, 15 L. ed. 357, the court holds that only legal defenses may be interposed in an attachment action, and if the defenses amount to outstanding equities, in third

F. JUDGMENT AND EXECUTION

1. IN GENERAL

§ 954. Generally.—A judgment in the main action in an attachment or garnishment suit may be entered in personam where the court has jurisdiction of the defendant,[18] and in rem where property of the defendant has been attached or garnished and is still bound by the process so that the court has jurisdiction of it.[19] No valid judgment in personam can be entered where the court has no jurisdiction of the person;[1] only a judgment in rem can be entered in such case.[2] Nor can a judgment in rem be entered where jurisdiction of the res has not been obtained, or where it has been lost,[3] as where the attachment is dissolved by the entry of security,[4] where the recovery against the defendant is on a cause of action for which no attachment could lawfully issue,[5] or where the attachment or garnishment is otherwise jurisdictionally defective.[6]

If property is attached and the defendant served by publication only, the court is deemed in some states to have jurisdiction to render a judgment personal in form, but affecting only the property attached.[7] person, of such a character that a court of law could not take notice of them, they must be availed of by a bill brought against the attaching creditor or by a bill of interpleader.

---

Generally, as to the issues triable on the traverse of an attachment affidavit, see Vol. 4, p. 865, § 503; as to issues on the traverse of a garnishment disclosure, see supra, §§ 770 et seq.

[18] Maxwell v. Stewart, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 71, 22 Wall. 77, 22 L. ed. 564; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Harrison, 122 Ala. 149, 25 So. 697, 82 Am. St. Rep. 68; Starkey v. Lunz, 57 Or. 147, 110 P. 702, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 783.

[19] Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman & McNeill, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Harrison, 122 Ala. 149, 25 So. 697, 82 Am. St. Rep. 68; First Nat. Bank v. Eastman, 144 Cal. 487, 77 P. 1043, 103 Am. St. Rep. 95, 1 Ann. Cas. 626; Strand v. Halverson, — Iowa, —, 264 N. W. 266, 103 A.L.R. 835; De Bearn v. De Bearn, 115 Md. 668, 81 A. 223, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 421, writ of error dismissed in 225 U. S. 695, 56 L. ed. 1261, 32 S. Ct 834; Capital City Bank v. Parent, 134 N. Y. 527, 31 N. E. 976, 18 L.R.A. 240; Starkey v. Lunz, 57 Or. 147, 110 P. 702, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 783; Edward F. Gerber Co. v. Thompson, 84 W. Va. 721, 100 S. E. 733, 7 A.L.R. 730.

[1] Clark v. Wells, 203 U. S. 164, 51 L. ed. 138, 27 S. Ct. 43; Caledonian Coal Co. v. Baker (New Mexico ex rel. Caledonian Coal Co. v. Baker) 196 U. S. 432, 49 L. ed. 540, 25 S. Ct. 375; Boswell v. Otis, 9 How. (U. S.) 336, 13 L. ed. 164; Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman & McNeill, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951; Strand v. Halverson, — Iowa, —, 264 N. W. 266, 103 A.L.R. 835.

"If, without personal service, judgments in personam, obtained ex parte against nonresidents and absent parties, upon mere publication of process, which in the great majority of cases would never be seen by the parties interested, could be upheld and enforced, they would be the constant instruments of fraud and oppression." Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565.

Where a judgment has the same effect as if process had been served personally on the defendant, such a judgment is, to that extent, in personam, and necessarily implies that the court had proper jurisdiction of the defendant to support its judgment binding him personally. Doe ex dem. Skinner v. Moore, 19 N. C. (2 Dev. & B. L.) 138, 30 Am. Dec. 155.

[2] Hoffman v. McClelland, 264 U. S. 552, 68 L. ed. 845, 44 S. Ct. 407; Boswell v. Otis, 9 How. (U. S.) 336, 13 L. ed. 164; Southern R. Co. v. Ward, 123 Ala. 400, 26 So. 234, 82 Am. St. Rep. 129; Strand v. Halverson, — Iowa, —, 264 N. W. 266, 103 A.L.R. 835; De Bearn v. De Bearn, 115 Md. 668, 81 A. 223, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1421, writ of error dismissed in 225 U. S. 695, 56 L. ed. 1261, 32 S. Ct. 834; Capital City Bank v. Parent, 134 N. Y. 527, 31 N. E. 976, 18 L.R.A. 240; Johnson v. Whilden, 166 N. C. 104, 81 S. E. 1057, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 783, affirmed on rehearing in 171 N. C. 153, 88 S. E. 223, 225; Hartzell v. Vigen, 6 N. D. 117, 69 N. W. 203, 35 L.R.A. 451, 66 Am. St. Rep. 589; Edward F. Gerber Co. v. Thompson, 84 W. Va. 721, 100 S. E. 733, 7 A.L.R. 730.

Upon attachment of bonds of a nonresident corporation in the hands of custodians, to reach the debt of a nonresident owner of the bonds which are registered in the name of his children, the judgment must be one of condemnation against the specific bonds, and not in personam against the custodians. De Bearn v. De Bearn, 115 Md. 668, 81 A. 223, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 421, writ of error dismissed in 225 U. S. 695, 56 L. ed. 1261, 32 S. Ct. 834.

[3] Mudge v. Steinhart, 78 Cal. 34, 20 P. 147, 12 Am. St. Rep. 17; Starkey v. Lunz, 57 Or. 147, 110 P. 702, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 783.

[4] Truax v. Title Guaranty & S. Co. 94 Wash. 472, 162 P. 586, citing R. C. L.

[5] Mudge v. Steinhart, 78 Cal. 34, 20 P. 147, 12 Am. St. Rep. 17.

[6] See Vol. 4, p. 608, § 86.

[7] Neufelder v. German American Ins. Co.

Where an interpleader to settle title to the property is filed in an attachment proceeding, judgment may be rendered in the attachment suit before the matter involved in the interpleader is decided.[8]

Where the garnishee is summoned to appear in the main action and defaults, a judgment may sometimes be entered against him, conclusive upon him with respect to the defendant's ownership of specific property attached or garnished in his possession,[9] or when on the trial the court finds that he is indebted to the defendant.[10] That a garnishee was not made a party to the principal action and no relief was demanded against him therein does not prevent the court from rendering judgment against him where the writ of garnishment was served on him, if by statute it is not necessary to commence an action against the garnishee in order to authorize the court to render judgment against him.[11]

§ 955. Amount of Judgment.—The general rule is that a judgment in the principal action in an attachment or garnishment suit must ascertain and declare the amount of the claim, debt, or demand sought to be enforced by the attachment or garnishment.[12] However, where no personal jurisdiction of the defendant is acquired and only a judgment in rem can be entered,[13] such judgment cannot, of course, embrace more, or be for a greater amount, than the res which has been attached or garnished.[14] In some states the rule is that the entering of judgment for a greater sum than the debt sworn to and named in the attachment is error for the excess only; [15] in others, however, it is a fatal error for the plaintiff to take judgment for more than the sum claimed in the affidavit, with subsequently accruing interest.[16]

2. OPERATION AND EFFECT

§ 956. Generally.—Judgments rendered in attachment and garnishment suits have, in general, the same operation and effect as those rendered in other actions.[17] The entry of a judgment in personam, such as a simple money judgment, without any order or direction for enforcement against attached property, has been held to have the effect of releasing such property from the attachment.[18] Sometimes such a judgment is the proper practice, and the effect of the attachment or garnishment is merely to secure its enforcement.[19] In no event, however, does the judgment for the plaintiff operate to prejudice or diminish pre-existing rights of third persons, superior to the attachment lien, with respect to the attached property.[20] On the other hand, judgment for the plaintiff or a reversal on appeal in his favor operates to invest him with sufficient title to the property to enable him to maintain an action for recovery of its proceeds surrendered or paid by the sheriff to claimants whose rights to the same are subordinate to the attachment lien.[21] Never-

---

6 Wash. 336, 33 P. 870, 22 L.R.A. 287, 36 Am. St. Rep. 166.
Annotation: 50 L.R.A. 583.

[8] Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398.

[9] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.
As to the entry of judgment against the defendant and the surety on the bond to dissolve or release the attachment or garnishment, see supra, § 926.

[10] Tiger v. Rogers Cotton Cleaner & Gin Co. 96 Ark. 1, 130 S. W. 585, 30 L.R.A.(N.S.) 694, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 488.

[11] Ibid.

[12] Pullman Palace Car Co. v. Harrison, 122 Ala. 149, 25 So. 697, 82 Am. St. Rep. 68.

[13] See supra, § 954.

[14] Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman & McNeill, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718.

[15] Den ex dem. Skinner v. Moore, 19 N. C. (2 Dev. & B. L.) 138, 30 Am. Dec. 155.

[16] Annotation: 76 Am. St. Rep. 802.

[17] Den ex dem. Skinner v. Moore, 19 N. C. (2 Dev. & B. L.) 138, 30 Am. Dec. 155.

[18] Smith v. Dwight, 80 Or. 1, 148 P. 477, 156 P. 573, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 563.

[19] Den ex dem. Skinner v. Moore, 19 N. C. (2 Dev. & B. L.) 138, 30 Am. Dec. 155.

[20] Columbia Bank v. Jacobs, 10 Mich. 349, 81 Am. Dec. 792.

[21] The action of assumpsit for money had theless, under statutes providing that an attachment shall be dissolved or discharged by a judgment for the defendant in the main action, a plaintiff appealing from such a judgment, without taking steps to preserve the attachment lien, cannot, upon a reversal of the judgment, assert any claim to the property in the hands of one to whom it had been sold pending the appeal.[22]

§ 957. Conclusiveness and Collateral Attack.—The record and judgment in the main action in an attachment or garnishment proceeding is conclusive to the extent that other judicial records and judgments are conclusive. Such a judgment is not open to collateral attack unless it is void for lack of jurisdiction in the court rendering it,[23] or was fraudulently secured.[1] Defects and irregularities in the attachment suit are not open to inquiry in a collateral suit unless they were of such character as to void the attachment or garnishment and deprive the court of jurisdiction in the proceedings.[2] and received can be maintained against persons who, with knowledge that the property has been attached, cause the sheriff to sell it and pay the proceeds over to them, where they refuse to surrender such proceeds on demand and where the attaching plaintiff has recovered judgment for his debt and kept his attachment alive (Finch v. Park, 12 S. D. 63, 80 N. W. 155, 76 Am. St. Rep. 588). It may also be maintained where money obtained by an attachment levy is paid over by the sheriff before judgment to subsequent lienors who have procured a vacation of the attachment, if the attachment is afterwards held valid on appeal and the plaintiffs have obtained judgment and issued execution which is returned unsatisfied (Haebler v. Myers, 132 N. Y. 363, 30 N. E. 963, 15 L.R.A. 588, 28 Am. St. Rep. 589).

---

[22] Maxwell v. Bank of New Richmond, 101 Wis. 286, 77 N. W. 149, 70 Am. St. Rep. 926.

Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 424; Ann. Cas. 1913B, 184.

[23] Matthews v. Densmore, 109 U. S. 216, 27 L. ed. 912, 3 S. Ct. 126; Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931; McGoon v. Scales, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 23, 19 L. ed. 545; Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553; Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Albie v. Jones, 82 Ark. 414, 102 S. W. 222, 12 Ann Cas. 433; Mudge v. Steinhart, 78 Cal. 34, 20 P. 147, 12 Am. St. Rep. 17; Marquis v. Ireland, 86 Kan. 416, 121 P. 486, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 144; Toth v. Toth, 242 Mich. 23, 217 N. W. 913, 56 A.L.R. 839; Union Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 155 Mo. 95, 55 S. W. 989, 78 Am. St. Rep. 560; Tourville v. Wabash R. Co. 148 Mo. 614, 50 S. W. 300, 71 Am. St. Rep. 650, affirmed in 179 U. S. 322, 45 L. ed. 210, 21 S. Ct. 113; German Nat. Bank v. Kautter, 55 Neb. 103, 75 N. W. 566, 70 Am. St. Rep. 371; Union P. R. Co. v. Smersh, 22 Neb. 751, 36 N. W. 139, 3 Am. St. Rep. 290; Johnson v. Whilden, 166 N. C. 104, 81 S. E. 1057, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 783, affirmed on rehearing in 171 N. C. 153, 88 S. E. 223, 225; Harrison v. Pender, 44 N. C. (Busbee, L.) 78, 57 Am. Dec. 573; Atwood v. Tucker (Atwood v. Roan) 26 N. D. 622, 145 N. W. 587, 51 L.R.A. (N.S.) 597; Davies v. Thompson, 61 Okla. 21, 160 P. 75, L.R.A.1917B, 395; Edward F. Gerber Co. v. Thompson, 84 W. Va. 721, 100 S. E. 733, 7 A.L.R. 730.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 597; L.R.A. 1917B, 400; Ann. Cas. 1913C, 146.

If a plaintiff in attachment seizes a resident's property as that of a nonresident, and sells it under a judgment rendered upon constructive service, the judgment defendant may, in the absence of an appearance in that suit, attack such judgment in a subsquent suit by him, wherein the attachment plaintiff invokes such judgment as a defense, and show that it is void for the reason that at the time of the inception of the attachment suit and judgment, he was a resident of the state and present therein. German Nat. Bank v. Kautter, 55 Neb. 103, 75 N. W. 566, 70 Am. St. Rep. 371.

[1] Union Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 155 Mo. 95, 55 S. W. 989, 78 Am. St. Rep. 560; Holmes v. Remsen, 20 Johns. (N. Y.) 229, 11 Am. Dec. 269.

Annotation: 46 A.L.R. 449.

[2] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565 (publication notice); Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931 (attachment affidavit); McGoon v. Scales, 9 Wall. (U. S.) 23, 19 L. ed. 545; Mitchell v. St. Maxent, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 237, 18 L. ed. 326; Huft v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553; Mudge v. Steinhart, 78 Cal. 34, 20 P. 147, 12 Am. St. Rep. 17; Hogue v. Corbit, 156 Ill. 540, 41 N. E. 219, 47 Am. St. Rep. 232 (sheriff's return); Marquis v. Ireland, 86 Kan. 416, 121 P. 486, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 144 (levy of attachment); Wagner v. Farmers Co-op Exch. Co. 147 Minn. 376, 180 N. W. 231, 14 A.L.R. 279; Stone v. Myers, 9 Minn. 303, 86 Am. Dec. 104; Union Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 155 Mo. 95, 55 S. W. 989, 78 Am. St. Rep. 560; German Nat. Bank v. Kautter, 55 Neb. 103, 75 N. W. 566, 70 Am. St. Rep. 371; Harrison v. Pender, 44 N. C. (Busbee, L.) 78, 57 Am. Dec. 573; Friedman v. First Nat. Bank, 39 Okla. 486, 135 P. 1069, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 548; Bank of Colfax v. Richardson, 34 Or. 518, 54 P. 359, 75 Am. St. Rep. 664; Billings v. Russell, 23 Pa. 189, 62 Am. Dec. 330; Sutherland v. De Leon, 1 Tex. 250, 46 Am. Dec. 100.

Annotation: 75 Am. St. Rep. 683; Ann. Cas. 1913C, 146.

Irregularities that make a judgment voidable merely can be taken advantage of only in the court where the judgment was rendered. Wagner v. Farmers Co-op. Exch. Co. 147 Minn. 376, 180 N. W. 231, 14 A.L.R. 279.

A judgment in personam may be attacked by the defendant in so far as it

§ 958. —As to Persons Not Parties to Proceedings.—Third persons cannot collaterally attack attachment or garnishment proceedings with respect to irregularities not depriving the court of jurisdiction and not depriving them of their property without due course of law.[3] However, a judgment cannot conclude a person, not privy to the proceedings, from claiming the attached or garnished property,[4] unless he has waived his claim by failure to interfere and protect his claim when he was properly summoned to do so, in which case, however, he is, strictly speaking, privy to the proceedings.[5]

§ 959. Full Faith and Credit.—The record and judgment of an attachment or garnishment suit are entitled to full faith and credit in so far as they are not void for want of jurisdiction or for fraud.[6] It is, however, established that jurisdiction to render a judgment in personam cannot, consistently with due process of law, rest upon the attachment or garnishment of property within the state, at least if the defendant is a nonresident.[7] Nor is a judgment in rem in a proceeding by attachment in which the defendant was not served with process and did not appear entitled to full faith and credit in another state, unless the res was seized or at least was within the jurisdiction of the court rendering the judgment.[8] binds him generally, where the court rendering it had attached or garnished his property but had not secured personal jurisdiction over him. Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Johnson v. Whilden, 166 N. C. 104, 81 S. E. 1057, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 783, affirmed on rehearing in 171 N. C. 153, 88 S. E. 223, 225.

---

The defense that a foreign corporation, defendant in an attachment suit, has its chief place of business within the state, and that ordinary legal process could have been served upon it therein, cannot be raised in a collateral proceeding unless fraud is pleaded and proved. Union Nat. Bank v. State Nat. Bank, 155 Mo. 95, 55 S. W. 989, 78 Am. St. Rep. 560.

The judgment cannot be collaterally impeached by showing that the plaintiff at the time of the issuing of the attachment was not a creditor of the defendants. Harrison v. Pender, 44 N. C. (Busbee, L.) 78, 57 Am. Dec. 573.

[3] Walter v. Bickham, 122 U. S. 320, 30 L. ed. 1185, 7 S. Ct. 1197.

[4] Albie v. Jones, 82 Ark. 414, 102 S. W. 222, 12 Ann. Cas. 433; Davies v. Thompson, 61 Okla. 21, 160 P. 75, L.R.A.1917B, 395; Edward F. Gerber Co. v. Thompson, 84 W Va. 721, 100 S. E. 733, 7 A.L.R. 730; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 400.

[5] See supra, § 688; infra, § 964.

[6] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855; Stephenson v. Kirtley, 269 U. S. 163, 70 L. ed. 213, 46 S. Ct. 50; Harris v. Balk, 198 U. S. 215, 49 L. ed. 1023, 25 S. Ct. 625, 3 Ann. Cas. 1084; King v. Cross, 175 U. S. 396, 44 L. ed. 211, 20 S. Ct. 131; Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sturm, 174 U. S. 710, 43 L. ed. 1144, 19 S. Ct. 797; Matthews v. Densmore, 109 U. S. 216, 27 L. ed. 912, 3 S. Ct. 126; Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565, Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931; Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109; Voorhees v. Jackson, 10 Pet. (U. S.) 449, 9 L. ed. 490; Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Citizens' Bank, 166 Ark. 551, 266 S. W. 675, 39 A.L.R. 1458; Tourville v. Wabash R. Co. 148 Mo. 614, 50 S. W. 300, 71 Am. St. Rep. 650, affirmed in 179 U. S. 322, 45 L. ed. 210, 21 S. Ct. 113; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Moore, 31 Neb. 629, 48 N. W. 475, 28 Am. St. Rep. 534.

Annotation: 28 Am. St. Rep. 538.

A title acquired under the attachment or garnishment laws of a state, which is valid there, is to be held valid in every other state. Green v. Van Buskirk, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 139, 19 L. ed. 109.

[7] Joseph Joseph & Bros. Co. v. Hoffman, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718.

Annotation: 50 L.R.A. 577; 47 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1127.

[8] Ward v. Boyce, 152 N. Y. 191, 46 N. E. 180, 36 L.R.A. 549.

National comity is not extended to a judgment against a nonresident who was not personally served with process and did not appear in the action, where the court acquired no jurisdiction over the subject of the action by an attachment of property within the state; a judgment so rendered is not entitled to full faith and credit in another state. Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565.

It is a fundamental principle that no man is to be deprived of his property without his consent, or without due process of law, and to constitute due process of law and make it effectual to change the title to property, there must be jurisdiction over the person of the owner or over his property. Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Joseph Joseph and Bros. Co. v. Hoffman, 173 Ala. 568, 56 So. 216, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 924, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 718; Griffith v. Milwaukee Harvester Co. 92 Iowa, 634, 61 N. W. 243, 54 Am. St. Rep. 573; National Broadway Bank v. Sampson, 179 N. Y. 213, 71 N. E. 766, 66 L.R.A. 606, 103 Am. St. Rep. 851; Owen v. Miller, 10 Ohio St. 136, 75 Am. Dec. 502; Bank of Colfax v. Richardson, 34 Or. 518, 54 P. 359, 75 Am. St. Rep. 664.

3. Execution

§ 960. Of Judgment in Personam.—A judgment in personam in the main action in an attachment or garnishment suit is enforced by execution as in other cases generally.[9] Of course, unless the attachment or garnishment has been dissolved, the judgment is secured to the extent of the attached or garnished property,[10] in which case the attached property may be taken and sold on the execution,[11] or the garnished property may be proceeded against to a final conclusion in the garnishment.[12]

§ 961. Of Judgment in Rem.—The general rule is that in the absence of personal service, a judgment in the main suit in an attachment or garnishment can only be enforced against the res.[13] The usual method of enforcing such a judgment is by a sale of the attached property in execution,[14] or, as to garnished property, by proceeding in the garnishment to a final conclusion.[15] No general execution can be issued under such a judgment for any balance unpaid after the attached property is exhausted, and no suit can be maintained on such a judgment in the same court or in any other, nor can it be used as evidence in any other proceeding not affecting the attached property, nor can the cost in such a proceeding be collected from the defendants out of any other property than that attached in the suit.[16] In case there is no appearance, in some jurisdictions, execution cannot issue until the plaintiff files a bond to refund the whole or such part of the judgment as the defendant may, within a time permitted by statute, come into court and disprove,[17] or in case the judgment is reversed in whole or in part.[18]

4. Right to, and Form of, Special Judgment against Bankrupt

§ 962. Right to Judgment.—A special judgment may be entered against one discharged in bankruptcy, to be enforced against property attached or garnished, where the lien of the attachment or garnishment is saved by the operation of the Bankruptcy Act.[19] Such a judgment may be entered in order to charge a garnishee[1] or to establish the right to levy on attachable property of the bankrupt, the title to which may not have passed to the trustee in bankruptcy.[2]

---

[9] Myers v. Mott, 29 Cal. 359, 89 Am. Dec. 49; Starkey v. Lunz, 57 Or. 147, 110 P. 702, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 783.

[10] If personal service of summons in attachment has been made on the defendant within the state, or if he has appeared or answered, personal judgment may go against him and general execution issue thereon, but, when otherwise, power to render judgment is limited to property brought before the court by valid attachment. Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951; Starkey v. Lunz, 57 Or. 147, 110 P. 702, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 783.

[11] Myers v. Mott, 29 Cal. 359, 89 Am. Dec. 49; Chrisman v. Dorsey, 12 Colo. 567, 21 P. 920, 4 L.R.A. 664.

Where the defendant in attachment dies after levy of the writ, but before judgment, and his administrator is substituted and the case continued against him, judgment cannot be rendered enforcing the attachment lien by ordering a sale of the attached property to satisfy the demand. Myers v. Mott, 29 Cal. 359, 89 Am. Dec. 49.

[12] Generally, as to judgment and execution in the garnishment, see supra, §§ 789 et seq.

[13] Clark v. Wells, 203 U. S. 164, 51 L. ed. 138, 27 S. Ct. 43; Central Loan & T. Co. v. Campbell Commission Co. 173 U. S. 84, 43 L. ed. 623, 19 S. Ct. 346; Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931; Eastman v. Wadleigh, 65 Me. 251, 20 Am. Rep. 695; Douglass v. Phenix Ins. Co. 138 N. Y. 209, 33 N. E. 938, 20 L.R.A. 118, 34 Am. St. Rep. 448; Johnson v. Whilden, 166 N. C. 104, 81 S. E. 1057, Ann. Cas. 1916C. 783, affirmed on rehearing in 171 N. C. 153, 88 S. E. 223, 225; Starkey v. Lunz, 57 Or. 147, 110 P. 702, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 783; Edward F. Gerber Co. v. Thompson, 84 W. Va. 721, 100 S. E. 733, 7 A.L.R. 730.

In Johnson v. Whilden, 166 N. C. 104, 81 S. E. 1057, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 783, affirmed on rehearing in 171 N. C. 153, 88 S. E. 223, 225, the court holds that where, in an action duly instituted and on attachment issued, there has been a valid levy of property of the defendant in the jurisdiction, bringing the same within the custody of the court, the question of indebtedness may be considered and determined in so far only as the value of the property may be made available in satisfaction of the claim by sale under final process or further decree in the cause; beyond this value, no judgment in personam may be entered or enforced.

[14] Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951.

[15] Generally, as to judgment and execution against the garnishee, see supra, §§ 789 et seq.

[16] Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U. S. 714, 24 L. ed. 565; Cooper v. Reynolds, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 308, 19 L. ed. 931.

[17] See Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[18] Barber v. Morgan, 84 Conn. 618, 80 A. 791, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 951.

The power to issue a qualified judgment with a perpetual stay of execution against the defendant debtor, notwithstanding his discharge in bankruptcy, so as to enable the plaintiff creditor to proceed against the sureties on a bond given to release an attachment or garnishment lien, and conditioned to pay such judgment as the plaintiff may recover in the action, has been consistently affirmed and held where the lien of such attachment or garnishment was saved from the dissolving operation of the Bankruptcy Act, and in such jurisdictions as maintain that the liability of the sureties on such a bond given to dissolve an attachment invalidated by the bankruptcy law is not affected by such invalidation.[3] A qualified judgment has been permitted against a discharged bankrupt to reach the sureties on a forthcoming bond given to release an attachment made more than four months before the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy.[4]

A qualified judgment, with a perpetual stay of execution against a discharged bankrupt, to enable the creditor to reach the sureties on his dissolving bond, has been refused on various grounds, as that the bond was considered as falling with the lien which it was given to dissolve, lack of power to render judgment against a discharged bankrupt, or failure to prove a sufficient reason founded in right and equity for such a judgment.[5]

§ 963. Form of Judgment.—The form of the special judgment which may be entered against a discharged bankrupt in an action on a claim to which the discharge is a bar depends on the facts of the particular case. If the purpose is to perfect a right against a garnishee or one secondarily liable, such as a surety, judgment may be entered against the bankrupt with a perpetual stay of execution. If there is an attachment of property good against the trustee in bankruptcy, or of property which he does not claim, judgment may be entered against the bankrupt, to be levied only on the property attached.[6]

---

[19] Hill v. Harding, 130 U. S. 699, 32 L. ed. 1083, 9 S. Ct. 725; Hill v. Harding, 107 U. S. 631, 27 L. ed. 493, 2 S. Ct. 404 (dictum); Doe ex dem. Vaillant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549; Peck v. Jenness, 7 How. (U. S.) 612, 12 L. ed. 841; American Woolen Co. v. Maaget, 86 Conn. 234, 85 A. 583, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 889; Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78; Stickney & B. Coal Co. v. Goodwin, 95 Me. 246, 49 A. 1039, 85 Am. St. Rep. 408; Rosenthal v. Nove, 175 Mass. 559, 56 N. E. 884, 78 Am. St. Rep. 512; Munson v. Boston, H. & E. R. Co. 120 Mass. 81, 21 Am. Rep. 499; Powers Dry Goods Co. v. Nelson, 10 N. D. 580, 88 N. W. 703, 58 L.R.A. 770; Elliott v. Booth, 44 Tex. 180, 23 Am. Rep. 593; Stoddard v. Locke, 43 Vt. 574, 5 Am. Rep. 308.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 81.

In Elliott v. Booth, 44 Tex. 180, 23 Am. Rep. 593, involving a vendor's lien, the court held that although a discharge in bankruptcy would prevent a personal judgment against the bankrupt, the state courts would still have jurisdiction to enforce such a lien or one acquired by attachment or otherwise, and that judgment should have been entered for the plaintiff, to be enforced against the land, but not to be enforced as a personal judgment against the bankrupt or any other property.

[1] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

[2] The fact that the defendant receives a discharge in bankruptcy does not affect the right of the plaintiff to enforce his lien, when no trustee in bankruptcy claims the property. Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

[3] Hill v. Harding, 130 U. S. 699, 32 L. ed. 1083, 9 S. Ct. 725; Hill v. Harding, 107 U. S. 631, 27 L. ed. 493, 2 S. Ct. 404 (dictum); American Woolen Co. v. Maaget, 86 Conn. 234, 85 A. 583, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 889 (dictum, discharge being denied); Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 88.

[4] Smith v. Lacey, 86 Miss. 295, 38 So. 311, 109 Am. St. Rep. 707, relying on Hill v. Harding, 130 U. S. 699, 32 L. ed. 1083, 9 S. Ct. 725.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 87.

[5] Payne v. Able, 7 Bush (Ky.) 344, 3 Am. Rep. 316; Keyes v. Shannon, 8 Rob. (La.) 172, 41 Am. Dec. 299; Crook v. Horner Co. v. Gilpin, 112 Md. 1, 75 A. 1049, 28 L.R.A. (N.S.) 233, 136 Am. St. Rep. 376.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 94.

In Crook Horner Co. v. Gilpin, 112 Md. 1, 75 A. 1049, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 233, 136 Am. St. Rep. 376, such a judgment was refused where the attachment and the bond to dissolve it had been taken within four months of bankruptcy, the court holding that under such circumstances the surety was released.

XIV. CLAIM, INTERVENTION, AND INTERPLEADER

A. Remedies of Garnishee for Protection against Adverse Claimants

§ 964. Disclosing, Interpleading, and Citing or Notifying Adverse Claimant to Defend.—Interpleading, citing, or notifying adverse claimants to defend garnishment proceedings is a common practice.[7] In some jurisdictions the practice is to disclose the adverse claim, whereupon the adverse claimant is cited to appear and defend his claim.[8] In others, the garnishee is permitted to notify any claimant of the fund garnished to appear, if he sees fit, and to defend against the action; and where this has been done, the judgment against the garnishee is made a bar to any subsequent claim against him by such claimants.[9] For failure to interplead the rival claimants to the property, the garnishee may make himself liable to both or all of them.[10] On the other hand, the third party may lose his rights by failure to appear when properly cited or interpleaded.[11]

---

[6] Smith v. Davis, 131 Me. 9, 158 A. 359, 81 A.L.R. 78.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 85.

[7] Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855 (interpleader by insurer against insured and garnishing creditor under Act of Congress of May 8, 1926, 28 U. S. C. A. § 41 (26)); Payne v. Mobile, 4 Ala. 333, 37 Am. Dec. 744; Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Citizens' Bank, 166 Ark. 551, 266 S. W. 675, 39 A.L.R. 1458; Hardy v. Hunt, 11 Cal. 343, 70 Am. Dec. 787; Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248 (on a writ of scire facias); Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. South Florida Farms Co. 91 Fla. 593, 109 So. 212, 48 A.L.R. 957; Central Mercantile Co. v. Oklahoma State Bank, 83 Kan. 504, 112 P. 114, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 954; Metz Mfg. Co. v. Holbeck, 247 Mich. 241, 225 N. W. 536, citing R. C. L.; Levy v. Miller, 38 Minn. 526, 38 N. W. 700, 8 Am. St. Rep. 691; Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 4 Am. Dec. 626; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; Hambley v. White, 192 N. C. 31, 133 S. E. 399, citing R. C. L.; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637 (statute authorizing garnishee to serve an interpleader on claimant); Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473, 37 P. 675, 43 Am. St. Rep. 849; Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 658; 66 A.L.R. 908; L.R.A.1918B, 1069.

Interpleader will not lie when the garnishee defends against two suits and has subjected himself to double liability; hence, where he has defended both against a garnishing creditor and an assignee of a note and is unsuccessful in both suits, the bill will not lie. Yarborough v. Thompson, 3 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 291, 41 Am. Dec. 626.

A garnishee is not bound at its peril to ask that all claimants be made parties to the proceeding or defend the rights of claimants to be fully protected by the judgment. Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

The courts of a state in which garnishment proceedings are instituted against a corporation doing business within its limits to reach a fund due a nonresident have jurisdiction to determine the rights of a nonresident third person, claimant of the fund, who is brought into the cause by interpleader and given notice according to the laws of the state. Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Citizens' Bank, 166 Ark. 551, 266 S. W. 675, 39 A.L.R. 1458.

The lien acquired by a pending garnishment proceeding in another state to subject the proceeds of fire insurance to the payment of a debt of the insured must be given effect, as against the insured's claim that the proceeds are exempt from execution by the laws of the state of his residence, in an interpleader proceeding instituted by the insurers against the insured and the garnishing creditor, under Act of Congress of May 8, 1926, in a Federal District Court of the state of the insured's residence, since the purpose of the act was not to permit insurers by interpleader to change the positions of defendants or to interfere with existing equities. Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855.

Generally, see Interpleader [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 220].

[8] Payne v. Mobile, 4 Ala. 333, 37 Am. Dec. 744; Central Mercantile Co. v. Oklahoma State Bank, 83 Kan. 504, 112 P. 114, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 954; Metz Mfg. Co. v. Holbeck, 247 Mich. 241, 225 N. W. 536, citing R. C. L.; Farrington v. F. E. Fleming Commission Co. 94 Neb. 108, 142 N. W. 297, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 742; Central Mercantile Co. v. Oklahoma State Bank, 83 Kan. 504, 112 P. 114, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 954; Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473, 37 P. 675, 43 Am. St. Rep. 849.

Under such practice, it is error for the court to order judgment against the garnishee until the claimant is duly cited and made a party; unless this is done, the rights of such claimant cannot be barred or affected by the judgment. Metz Mfg. Co. v. Holbeck, 247 Mich. 241, 225 N. W. 536, citing R. C. L.; Levy v. Miller, 38 Minn. 526, 38 N. W. 700, 8 Am. St. Rep. 691.

The court should not act of its own motion in ordering the claimant to be made a party, but the garnishee should act to secure an interpleader. Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473, 37 P. 675, 43 Am. St. Rep. 849.

A garnishee's duty to bring an adverse claimant into court is discharged where he fully complies with the governing statutory provision[12] or where the adverse claimant has actual notice of the garnishment or makes appearance and intervenes in the suit.[13] Nor is interpleader necessary if the rival claimants are both parties to the action.[14]

There are decisions holding that the maker of a negotiable promissory note who has been charged upon it as garnishee of the payee when he has been sued upon it by one who claims ownership of the paper as an indorsee before maturity is entitled to have the garnishment creditor brought into the action to litigate the question whether he or the plaintiff is entitled to the proceeds of the note and to enjoin the collection until that question is determined. Furthermore, legislation has been enacted making provision in case of attachment of debts due by commercial negotiable paper for bringing into the trustee proceeding persons who claim to own and hold the paper by transfers from the defendants. The right of the garnishee of a debt due upon negotiable promissory notes known to be held under a claim of ownership by another than the defendant in the garnishment to go into chancery and file a bill of interpleader against the garnishor and the claimant has been recognized and upheld.[15]

§ 965. Election between Interpleader and Delivering of Garnished Property into Court.—Where, by statute, a garnishee might secure full protection by delivering custody of the property into court or to the officer serving the writ, the judgment will protect him against claimants having notice of the proceeding, though not made parties to it, notwithstanding the statute also authorizes the garnishee to serve an interpleader on the claimant so as to bind him by the judgment.[16]

---

[9] Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Citizens' Bank, 166 Ark. 551, 266 S. W. 675, 39 A.L.R. 1458; Parker, Peebles & Knox v. National F. Ins. Co. 111 Conn. 383, 150 A. 313, 69 A.L.R. 599; Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248 (on a writ of scire facias); Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918B, 1069.

In order to conclude an adverse claimant and relieve the garnishee from liability, it is not sufficient that the latter merely notify such claimant of the pendency of the garnishment suit; he must request him to defend and tender to him the conduct of the defense of the suit. Adams v. Filer, 7 Wis. 306, 73 Am. Dec. 410.

[10] Hardy v. Hunt, 11 Cal. 343, 70 Am. Dec. 787.

[11] Coit v. Sistare, 85 Conn. 573, 84 A. 119, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 248.

[12] Annotation: L.R.A.1918B, 1069.

[13] Schenbeck v. First Nat. Bank, 69 Okla. 21, 169 P. 619, L.R.A.1918B, 1066; Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

Where, by statute, a garnishee might secure full protection by delivering custody of the property into court or to the officer serving the writ, the judgment will protect him aganist claimants having notice of the proceeding, though not made parties to it, notwithstanding the statute also authorizes the garnishee to serve an interpleader upon the claimant so as to bind him by the judgment. Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

A mere bailee for hire who becomes garnishee in a proceeding to reach the property bailed is protected from claims of a subsequent assignee of the property, who has knowledge from any reliable source that the proceedings are pending and fails to assert his claim, although he is not made a party to the proceeding. Ibid.

[14] Eau Claire Nat. Bank v. Chippewa Valley Bank, 124 Wis. 520, 102 N. W. 1068, 109 Am. St. Rep. 966.

[15] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 731, 758.

Generally as to duties and rights of garnishee on negotiable paper, see Vol. 4, p. 721, §§ 259 et seq.

[16] Henderson v. Hooper Sugar Co. 65 Utah, 241, 236 P. 239, 45 A.L.R. 637.

Generally as to delivery of garnished property into court, see supra, § 719.

B. Remedies of Attaching Creditor

§ 966. Generally.—An attaching or garnishing creditor generally may interplead or join as parties defendant adverse claimants to the attached or garnished property.[17]

C. Remedies of Adverse Claimants

§ 967. Relief in Equity.—Where the practice of claim and intervention has not been adopted, either under statutory regulation or by the courts on their own initiative, or where it constitutes an inadequate remedy at law, it seems that claimants of the property may maintain a bill in equity to contest an attachment.[18] Where a subsequent attachment has been first levied by the sheriff or his deputies, the fund attached is under the control of the court, and the parties are all before the court, the chancellor should distribute the fund among the attaching creditors in the order in which the attachments came into the sheriff's office.[19]

§ 968. Notice of Claim.—A common practice under statutory provision is for a claimant to attached property to give notice of claim to the attaching officer. If the plaintiff contests the rights of a person giving such notice, he must execute a bond of indemnity to him in case he loses his contest. An issue is then made up to try the title or claim of such person. If the plaintiff fails to give the bond, he concedes the right of the claimant to the property.[20] If the plaintiff files a bond to contest the issue, the claimant must file a claim bond to have the possession of the property.[1]

It is not necessary for one who claims to be the owner of attached property to serve a notice of such claim before commencing an action to recover such property if a delivery bond has already been executed by which the officer levying the writ is amply protected.[2]

§ 969. Statement of Amount Due Claimant.—Some statutes require that a statement of the amount due to one having a special or limited interest in attached property be furnished to an attaching officer upon such officer's request. A claimant has a reasonable time, after receiving such demand, within which to deliver his statement of account.[3] Under such a statute, a mortgagee, pledgee, or lienor of property, in his demand for the money due him after its attachment, must state a just and true account of the debt or demand for which the property is liable to him, even though such property is found to be worth less than the true and just amount due.[4] Such a statute is highly penal and should not be extended by construction to cases not clearly within its provisions.[5] It applies only to process out of a state court, not to process issued out of a United States court.[6]

---

[17] Baird v. Meyer, 55 N. D. 930, 215 N. W. 542, 56 A.L.R. 175.

[18] Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. McNutt, 68 Ark. 417, 59 S. W. 761, 82 Am. St. Rep. 299; Henderson v. Thornton, 37 Miss. 448, 75 Am. Dec. 70.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 771.

A court of equity may, at the suit of a creditor, annul a judgment in attachment rendered against his debtor in favor of a plaintiff who was not a creditor at the time the attachment issued where the debtor's property is not sufficient to satisfy that and the attachments of other creditors founded on valid debts then subsisting. Henderson v. Thornton, 37 Miss. 448, 75 Am. Dec. 70.

No one has a right to complain of an attachment lien which does not injuriously affect him; and he is not injuriously affected unless the prior attachment is invalid and he cannot institute an action to have the judgment thereon set aside on the ground that the defendant had defenses which he might have asserted or that, in the transaction between the plaintiff and the defendant out of which the judgment grew, the former overreached the latter. Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. McNutt, 68 Ark. 417, 59 S. W. 761, 82 Am. St. Rep. 299.

[19] Kennon v. Ficklin, 6 B. Mon. (Ky.) 414, 44 Am. Dec. 776.

Annotation: 62 Am. St. Rep. 606.

The general rule is that the attachment writ first in the hands of the sheriff has priority. It is his duty to levy it first. See supra, § 839.

[20] Ayres, W. & R. Co. v. Dorsey Produce Co. 101 Iowa, 141, 70 N. W. 111, 63 Am. St. Rep. 376; First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809.

The North Dakota statute makes provision for the release of the levy of attachment upon the demand of a third person claiming title or right to the possession of the attached property if the plaintiff fails to indemnify the sheriff. Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460.

[1] See infra, § 974.

[2] Ayres, W. & R. Co. v. Dorsey Produce Co. 101 Iowa, 141, 70 N. W. 111, 63 Am. St. Rep. 376.

There appears to be no general rule as to when a statement is sufficient or insufficient; the conclusion in each case depends on its own peculiar facts and surrounding circumstances.[7] The description of the amount due must, of course, be definite or certain.[8] However, an overstatement of the amount due does not render the statement insufficient where the mistake is unintentional and where the true amount due exceeds the value of the property.[9]

§ 970. Intervention Generally.—For the purpose of enabling persons to protect their rights when they are in danger of being injuriously affected by attachment or garnishment proceedings, statutes of a number of states permit what is termed an "intervention."[10] This remedy was not known at common

---

[3] Harding v. Coburn, 12 Met. (Mass.) 333, 46 Am. Dec. 680; Magnifico v. Nicholson, 264 Mass. 519, 163 N. E. 156, 63 A.L.R. 572.

Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 575, 588.

The statement of account might be made after the sale of the property under the attachment. Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 588.

The value of the property attached is the test not of whether the holder of a prior encumbrance thereon is excused from failing to state the just and true amount due him in his demand therefor, but of whether the attaching creditor has had an opportunity to reach a fair determination whether to pay off the encumbrance and hold the goods or to abandon his attachment and return them. Magnifico v. Nicholson, 264 Mass. 519, 163 N. E. 156, 63 A.L.R. 572.

[4] Magnifico v. Nicholson, 264 Mass. 519, 163 N. E. 156, 63 A.L.R. 572.

[5] Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 576.

[6] Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 588.

[7] Harding v. Coburn, 12 Met. (Mass.) 333, 340, 46 Am. Dec. 680.

Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 576.

[8] Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 582, 583.

[9] Magnifico v. Nicholson, 264 Mass. 519, 163 N. E. 156, 63 A.L.R. 572; Harding v. Coburn, 12 Met. (Mass.) 333, 46 Am. Dec. 680.

[10] Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254 (construing Illinois statute); Doe ex dem. Vaillant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549; De Loach Mill Mfg. Co. v. Little Rock Mill & Elevator Co. 65 Ark. 467, 47 S. W. 118, 67 Am. St. Rep. 942; Berghauser v. Golden State Orchards, 208 Cal. 550, 282 P. 950, citing R. C. L.; Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157; Davis v. Eppinger, 18 Cal. 378, 79 Am. Dec. 184; Horn v. Volcano Water Co. 13 Cal. 62, 73 Am. Dec. 569; Carter v. Garetson, 56 Cal. App. 238, 204 P. 1090, citing R. C. L.; Bankers' Mortg. Co. v. Sohland, 33 Del. 331, 138 A. 361, citing R. C. L.; Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A. (N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398; Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. Lewellyn, 158 La. 303, 103 So. 823, 39 A.L.R. 1502; New Orleans Canal & Bkg. Co. v. Beard, 16 La. Ann. 345, 79 Am. Dec. 582; McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Wilde v. Mahoney, 183 Mass. 455, 67 N. E. 337, 62 L.R.A. 813; Cummins v. Christie, 179 Mass. 74, 60 N. E. 396, 88 Am. St. Rep. 357; State ex rel. Myersick v. District Ct. 53 Mont. 450, 164 P. 546, citing R. C. L.; McKinney v. Sutphin, 196 N. C. 318, 145 S. E. 621, citing R. C. L.; Baird v. Meyer, 55 N. D. 930, 215 N. W. 542, 56 A.L.R. 175; Dawson Produce Co. v. Cohn, 172 Okla. 28, 43 P. (2d) 1034, citing R. C. L.; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894; Schenbeck v. First Nat. Bank, 69 Okla. 21, 169 P. 619, L.R.A.1918B, 1066; Ballew v. Young, 24 Okla. 182, 103 P. 623, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1084; First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809; George D. Shore & Bro. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. 76 S. C. 472, 57 S. E. 526, 11 Ann. Cas. 909; Harris v. Tenney, 85 Tex. 254, 20 S. W. 82, 34 Am. St. Rep. 796; Miller v. White, 46 W. Va. 67, 33 S. E. 332, 76 Am. St. Rep. 791.

Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1505; 85 A.L.R. 672; 35 L.R.A. 772; 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536; 123 Am. St. Rep. 308; 18 Ann. Cas. 594.

For the purpose of preventing circuity and multiplicity of litigation and as a speedy and convenient mode of determining questions of preference between different attachment and execution creditors and, indeed, all questions as to the ownership in, and right to, avails of property seized under legal process, the procedure by claim and intervention must recommend itself. In its broadest sense, an intervention takes place when a third person is permitted to become a party to an action or proceeding between other persons by joining the plaintiff in claiming what is sought by the complaint, by uniting with the defendant in resisting the claims of the law, but seems to be a product of the civil law. It had its origin in this country in Louisiana, whence it was first carried to California, and up to the present time has been adopted principally by the middle and western states of the Union.[11] In the absence of any statutory provision, third persons claiming an interest in the attached property or a lien thereon are permitted, in some jurisdictions, to intervene in the attachment proceeding and contest the right to the property attached or defend the same on the ground of fraud between the plaintiff and the defendant therein, or raise jurisdictional objections to the sufficiency of the proceedings. In other jurisdictions, in the absence of any statute permitting it, the right is denied a claimant to property attached or persons having a lien thereon to intervene in the attachment proceeding and defend the same or to try title to the property attached.[12]

In some jurisdictions the right to file an intervening petition rests in the sound discretion of the court.[13]

The claimant may enforce his rights in the garnishment proceedings, leaving the plaintiff any balance which may remain.[14]

§ 971. Election between Intervention and Other Remedies Generally. The fact that the intervener has another remedy and may not be barred by a judgment in the action is no reason for denying him the right to intervene.[15] Nor does intervention on his part constitute a waiver of rights or compatible remedies.[16] It has been held that a statute providing for a trial of the right of property in the action in which the attachment was issued does not prevent the maintenance of an independent action for damages by the owner of property seized under an attachment against the property of another.[17] Indeed, there is authority to the effect that the remedy by claim and intervention may be pursued concurrently with the prosecution of an independent action for the same cause.[18] One who, after a sale under attachment, but before payment of the proceeds, files an interplea claiming title to the property sold or the proceeds thereof is not estopped to prosecute his claim by independent suit because of the judgment in the original suit, to which he was not a party, discharging the attachment and giving the defendant therein damages.[19] Likewise, under a statute providing for the trial of an issue on a notice of claim to attached property,[20] the owner of the property attached and sold as the property of the defendant is not precluded from recovering against the plaintiff by having notified the sheriff and the plaintiff that he owned the property or by having accepted the proceeds of the sale.[1] plaintiff, or by demanding anything adversely to both the plaintiff and the defendant. Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591.

---

[11] Bankers Mortg. Co. v. Sohland, 33 Del. 331, 138 A. 361, citing R. C. L.; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.

Annotation: 123 Am. St. Rep. 280.

The admiralty courts have recognized this salutary practice since very early times, having acquired it, together with the bulk of their rules of procedure, from the civil law. See ADMIRALTY, Vol. 1, p. 600, §§ 98 et seq.

[12] Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 540, 541.

[13] Jump v. McClurg, 35 Mo. 193, 86 Am. Dec. 146.

Annotation: 123 Am. St. Rep. 310.

As to persons entitled to intervene, see infra, § 975.

As to time for intervention, see infra, § 977.

[14] Cummins v. Christie, 179 Mass. 74, 60 N. E. 306, 88 Am. St. Rep. 357.

[15] Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591.

[16] Central Mercantile Co. v. Oklahoma State Bank, 83 Kan. 504, 112 P. 114, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 954.

[17] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 673.

[18] Hall v. Richardson, 16 Md. 396, 77 Am. Dec. 303.

[19] De Loach Mill Mfg. Co. v. Little Rock Mill & Elevator Co. 65 Ark. 467, 47 S. W. 118, 67 Am. St. Rep. 942.

[20] See supra, § 968.

[1] First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809.

§ 972. Right of Indorsee to Recover Amount Collected by Garnishment of Note. There is difficulty in allowing an assignee or indorsee in good faith and for value of a negotiable instrument to recover from a garnishor money which he has collected in an action against a previous holder by garnishment of the person liable on the note. Some courts have taken the view that such recovery could be had in an action for money had and received, while others have denied this.[2] Assuming that the indorsee-holder has some right to recover from the garnishor an amount thus paid on the note, he may, nevertheless, lose that right by failure to intervene in the garnishment.[3]

D. Practice and Procedure on Intervention

§ 973. Generally.—Practice and procedure on intervention in attachment or garnishment suits are governed by the law of intervention in suits generally.[4] A common provision of intervention statutes, applicable to attachment and garnishment cases, is that an intervention shall be tried as like issues between plaintiff and defendant.[5] An intervention is but an accessory to the main action.[6]

§ 974. Necessity of Bond and Affidavit of Just Claim to Intervene.—The intervener may [7] or may not [8] be required to give bond as prerequisite to intervention. By some attachment statutes the right to bond the attached property is limited to the original parties in the action, and not extended to interveners.[9] By executing the bond and taking possession of the property the claimant renders himself liable for whatever sum the plaintiff in the action may show himself entitled to against the defendant, in the event that the claim is not well founded.[10]

Sometimes an affidavit of a just claim is prerequisite to intervention. A claim bond unaccompanied by the required affidavit does not authorize the officer to deliver the property to the claimant.[11]

§ 975. Who May Intervene.—The right of a person to file a petition in intervention in an attachment or garnishment is to be determined primarily from an examination of the statute which authorizes the practice. An examination of the cases discloses that the right to intervene is generally limited to the purposes expressly provided for by the statute, and to the persons to whom it is apparent that the act was intended to apply.[12] Under such statutes the right is usually denied to a general creditor of the defendant [13] but extended to the owner of the attached or garnished property, to one having some interest therein [14] or lien thereon,[15] or to an adverse claimant of it. The interest in the attached or garnished property entitling one to intervene in the attachment or garnishment must be a direct legal interest.[16] However, the right of intervention is not confined to persons who may establish the legal title to the property in themselves. The object of the statute, it has been held, is not merely to allow an intervention by one in possession of the property claiming absolute ownership in his own right, but also by one in possession claiming a right to such possession, a special property interest affected by the attachment.[17] The practice acts in several jurisdictions provide in general terms that any person who has an interest in the matter of litigation, in the success of either of the parties, or an interest against both, may intervene in the action. Under such statutes it is generally held that a claimant of attached property may in-

---

[2] Annotation: L.R.A.1918C, 764.

[3] Herndon v. Swearingen, 1 Port. (Ala.) 192, 26 Am. Dec. 359.

[4] Dawson Produce Co. v. Cohn, 172 Okla. 28, 43 P. (2d) 1034, citing R. C. L.
See Parties [Also 20 R. C. L. p. 688, §§ 27 et seq.].

[5] Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am. Dec. 545; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.

[6] Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am. Dec. 545.

[7] Smith v. Heineman, 118 Ala. 195, 24 So. 364, 72 Am. St. Rep. 150.

[8] Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398.

[9] Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am. Dec. 545.

[10] Halbert v. McCulloch, 3 Met. (Ky.) 456, 79 Am. Dec. 556.

[11] Smith v. Heineman, 118 Ala. 195, 24 So. 364, 72 Am. St. Rep. 150.

[12] Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.
Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536; 18 Ann. Cas. 596.

[13] Horn v. Volcano Water Co. 13 Cal. 62, 73 Am. Dec. 569; Miller v. White, 46 W. Va. 67, 33 S. E. 332, 76 Am. St. Rep. 791.

[14] Berghauser v. Golden State Orchards, 208 Cal. 550, 282 P. 950, citing R. C. L.; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Fleming v. Shields, 21 La. Ann. 118, 99 Am. Dec. 719; McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742,

---

52 A.L.R. 105; Wilde v. Mahoney, 183 Mass. 455, 67 N. E. 337, 62 L.R.A. 813; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894; Ballew v. Young, 24 Okla. 182, 103 P. 623, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1084; Miller v. White, 46 W. Va. 67, 33 S. E. 332, 76 Am. St. Rep. 791.

Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536; 18 Ann. Cas. 594.

Express statutory provision secures the right in many jurisdictions. Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536.

The owner or claimant of property attached as that of another in an action for debt has such an interest as against both parties to the main action as entitles him to intervene, irrespective of other and adequate remedies, for the purpose of asserting his right and title to the attached property, under a statute authorizing the intervention of third parties who have an interest in the matter in litigation, an interest in the success of either of the parties, or an interest against both. Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591.

An assignee of the principal debtor may appear in a proceeding to reach a fund by trustee process and raise the objection that the fund is not subject to such process. McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105; Wilde v. Mahaney, 183 Mass. 455, 67 N. E. 337, 62 L.R.A. 813.

An assignee of a chose in action may be permitted to intervene in a subsequent garnishment proceeding. McDowell, P. & Co. v. Hopfield, 148 Md. 84, 128 A. 742, 52 A.L.R. 105.

An insured, claiming the proceeds of policies, as exempt from execution under the laws of the state of his residence, and his creditor, claiming the proceeds under foreign attachment proceedings in another state in which the insurers were garnished, are adverse claimants of the proceeds for the purposes of an interpleader proceeding instituted by the insurers against the insured and the creditors in a Federal District Court in the state of the insured's residence, under the Act of Congress of May 8, 1926. Sanders v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 292 U. S. 190, 78 L. ed. 1206, 54 S. Ct. 677, 91 A.L.R. 950, rehearing denied in 292 U. S. 612, 78 L. ed. 1472, 54 S. Ct. 855.

There are, however, some decisions denying the right of the owner or claimant of property attached to intervene, which seem to hold that although a third party may be the owner or claimant of the property attached, he may not intervene in the main case for the purpose of asserting his right. See discussion of Texas cases in Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591. See also Harris v. Tenney, 85 Tex. 254, 20 S. W. 82, 34 Am. St. Rep. 796.

In some jurisdictions, in the absence of statutory provision, the view has been taken that such a claimant has no such right to intervention and must enforce his rights, if any he has, in an independent proceeding. Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 540; 18 Ann. Cas. 594.

In other jurisdictions, however, the courts, without basing the right of intervention on any statute, have permitted the claimants of attached property to intervene in the attachment suit. Gumbel v. Pitkin, 124 U. S. 131, 31 L. ed. 374, 8 S. Ct. 379; Hall v. Richardson, 16 Md. 396, 77 Am. Dec. 303.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 594.

Such intervention has been allowed on the ground of fraud between the plaintiff and the defendant in the attachment suit, or to raise jurisdictional objections to the sufficiency of the proceedings. Ranahan v. O'Neale, 6 Gill & J. 298, 26 Am. Dec. 576; Stone v. Magruder, 10 Gill. & J. 383, 32 Am. Dec. 177. Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 540.

[15] Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157; Davis v. Eppinger, 18 Cal. 378, 79 Am. Dec. 184; Bankers' Mortg. Co. v. Sohland, 33 Del. 331, 138 A. 361, citing R. C. L.; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Miller v. White, 46 W. Va. 67, 33 S. E. 332, 76 Am. St. Rep. 791.

The ground upon which such interveners are allowed to become parties to the action is that by reason of their lien upon the property attached, they are interested in preventing the plaintiff from recovering a judgment. Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157.

[16] New Orleans Canal & Bkg. Co. v. Beard, 16 La. Ann. 345, 79 Am. Dec. 582; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.

The right which will authorize an intervention is said to be that created by a claim to the demand, or some part thereof, in suit, or claim to, or lien upon, the property, or some part thereof, which is the subject of litigation. Horn v. Volcano Water Co. 13 Cal. 62, 73 Am. Dec. 569; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591.

[17] George D. Shore & Bro. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. 76 S. C. 472, 57 S. E. 526, 11 Ann. Cas. 909.

tervene.[18] However, in some jurisdictions, under similar statutes, it is held that the interest which entitles a third party to intervene in an attachment suit is an interest in the subject-matter of the original suit, and not an interest in the property attached, and therefore that a claimant of the attached property who has no other interest in the litigation cannot intervene.[19] A claimant to attached property is not entitled to intervene by virtue of statutory provisions concerning the parties to actions which provide generally that any person may be a defendant who has, or claims, an interest in the controversy adverse to the plaintiff, or who is a necessary party to a complete determination or settlement of the questions involved.[20]

It has been held that an assignee in bankruptcy may on his own motion be made a party to an attachment pending in a state court, if for no other reason than to have it properly known by the court that the defendant is bankrupt.[1]

§ 976. —Junior Attaching Creditor.—The right of an attaching creditor to intervene in the suit of a prior attachment creditor appears to be wholly statutory. The result is that the right of intervention, where it exists, is subject to various qualifications, depending on the statute of the particular state in which the question arises.[2] Generally an attaching creditor may intervene in a suit of a prior attachment creditor to show that the senior attachment was fraudulently obtained, or obtained through collusion with the common debtor,[3] or to show that the prior attachment was based on an indebtedness not yet due,[4] although he has no right to intervene for the purpose of dissolving the senior attachment because of alleged defects in the procedure, with the end in view of making himself the first attaching creditor.[5] Such intervener must produce all the papers on which his own attachment is founded, and affirmatively show that there were no irregularities in his own proceedings.[6] Various other restrictions may also be imposed on the right to intervene in the suit of a prior attachment creditor.[7]

---

[18] Gumbel v. Pitkin, 124 U. S. 131, 31 L. ed. 374, 8 S. Ct. 379 (recognizing and applying the Louisiana doctrine); Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157; Davis v. Eppinger, 18 Cal. 378, 79 Am. Dec. 184; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; New Orleans Canal & Bkg. Co. v. Beard, 16 La. Ann. 345, 79 Am. Dec. 582; Perkins v. Bailey, 38 Wash. 46, 80 P. 177, 107 Am. St. Rep. 831.

Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536; 18 Ann. Cas. 595.

[19] Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 595.

[20] Ibid.

[1] Doe ex dem. Vaillant v. Childress, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 642, 22 L. ed. 549.

[2] Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102; Caruth-Byrnes Hardware Co. v. Deere, 53 Ark. 140, 13 S. W. 517, 7 L.R.A. 405; McComb v. Reed, 28 Cal. 281, 87 Am. Dec. 115; Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157; Davis v. Eppinger, 18 Cal. 378, 79 Am. Dec. 184 (intervention by judgment creditor); Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. Lewellyn, 158 La. 303, 103 So. 823, 39 A.L.R. 1502; Henderson v. Thornton, 37 Miss. 448, 75 Am. Dec. 70; Miller v. White, 46 W. Va. 67, 33 S. E. 332, 76 Am. St. Rep. 791.

Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1505; 35 L.R.A. 773; 18 Ann. Cas. 597.

Under some statutes permission to subsequent attaching creditors to appear and defend a prior attachment is within the sound discretion of the court; the refusal of permission to such creditors to plead in abatement is not error where there is nothing to show that the court exercised its discretion unsoundly. Jump v. McClurg, 35 Mo. 193, 86 Am. Dec. 146.

[3] Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1509.

In Texas it has been held that an attaching creditor may intervene in a suit of a prior attachment creditor to show that the senior attachment was fraudulently obtained or obtained through collusion with the common debtor. It seems also to have been held in this state that a subsequent lien creditor may intervene and have the prior attachment vacated where the creditor suing it out knew his affidavit to be false when he made it. Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1505, 1509, 1510.

[4] Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102.

[5] Davis v. H. B. Claflin Co. 63 Ark. 157, 38 S. W. 662, 1117, 41 S. W. 996, 35 L.R.A. 776, 58 Am. St. Rep. 102; Caruth-Byrnes Hardware Co. v. Deere, 53 Ark. 140, 13 S. W. 517, 7 L.R.A. 405; Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. Lewellyn, 158 La. 303, 103 So. 823, 39 A.L.R. 1502; Clamageran v. Bucks, 4 Mart. N. S. (La.) 487, 16 Am. Dec. 185.

Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1507.

The formality and regularity of attachment proceedings, in the absence of fraud and collusion between the plaintiffs and defendants, are matters pertaining exclusively to the defendants. Clamageran v. Bucks, 4 Mart. N. S. (La.) 487, 16 Am. Dec. 185.

§ 977. Time for Intervention.—The general rule is that an attachment or garnishment suit is subject to intervention while it is pending, or at least while the attached or garnished property, or the proceeds from the same, continue under the control of the court.[8]

§ 978. Pleadings.—The pleadings in intervention in an attachment or garnishment are governed by the rules of practice which apply to pleadings generally.[9] The first pleading is the petition, interplea, or intervening complaint of the claimant.[10] This should not be filed until leave of the court has been granted. It should contain appropriate allegations setting forth the ground upon which the intervention is rested and should raise a proper issue;[11] it should, under the statutory requirements in most states, be verified.[12]

The original parties may answer or demur to the intervening petition or complaint as though it were an original complaint.[13]

An attachment suit may be amended so as to embrace the same cause of action against persons who have intervened to claim the property as was set up against the original defendant.[14]

§ 979. Service, Process, and Notice.—The intervening petition, as the practice is prescribed ordinarily, must be served upon the parties to the action or proceeding who have not appeared, and upon the attorneys of the parties who have appeared.[15] After appearing in the case, the intervener is entitled to notice of all proceedings thereafter taken.[16]

---

[6] Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1508.

[7] Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1509, 1510.

[8] A claimant to attached or garnished property may intervene in the attachment or garnishment suit at any time until judgment. Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 281, 81 Am. Dec. 157.

Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 1510; 35 L.R.A. 783.

The entry of judgment in an attachment suit does not prevent the court from protecting the interests of the true owner of the property which have been presented by intervention. Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398.

In Johnson v. Chicago & P. Elevator Co. 119 U. S. 388, 30 L. ed. 447, 7 S. Ct. 254, in construing an Illinois statute the court held that the denial of a hearing to a third party claiming the ownership of attached water craft was proper where a release bond had been given, which took the place of the property attached, and the subsequent judgment could only be against the defendants in personam.

[9] Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am. Dec. 545; Dawson Produce Co. v. Cohn, 172 Okla. 28, 43 P. (2d) 1034, citing R. C. L.; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.

[10] Smith v. Heineman, 118 Ala. 195, 24 So. 364, 72 Am. St. Rep. 150; Home Land & Loan Co. v. Routh, 123 Ark. 360, 185 S. W. 467, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1142; Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 774.

This pleading is sometimes termed an "interplea." Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 774.

[11] Home Land & Loan Co. v. Routh, 123 Ark. 360, 185 S. W. 467, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1142.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 774.

An intervener's plea which states that the funds held by the garnishee are not the property of the debtor but are the property of the intervener, is sufficiently definite concerning the ownership of the property. It is unnecessary to set out the evidence on which the intervener's claim of ownership is based. The statement that the funds are his property is a statement of fact and not of a legal conclusion. Home Land & Loan Co. v. Routh, 123 Ark. 360, 185 S. W. 467, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1142.

A nonresident intervening in an attachment suit to contest the jurisdiction of the court cannot raise the question that the garnishee is a necessary party and has not been brought in, or that there has been no actual seizure of the res, since he would thereby waive lack of jurisdiction. Forrester v. Forrester, 155 Ga. 722, 118 S. E. 373, 29 A.L.R. 1363.

[12] Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 774.

[13] Smith v. Heineman, 118 Ala. 195, 24 So. 364, 72 Am. St. Rep. 150. Compare Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am. Dec. 545.

[14] Finch v. Gregg, 126 N. C. 176, 35 S. E. 251, 49 L.R.A. 679.

[15] Smith v. Heineman, 118 Ala. 195, 24 So. 364, 72 Am. St. Rep. 150. Compare Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am Dec. 545.

[16] Perkins v. Bailey, 38 Wash. 46, 80 P. 177, 107 Am. St. Rep. 831.

§ 980. Issues and Defenses.—Generally speaking, one who files an intervening petition in attachment or garnishment is confined to claiming the property in his own right and showing fundamental invalidity to his own injury. He does not stand in the position of an original party, and his attack is limited to such matters as might be taken advantage of in a collateral proceeding.[17] He cannot contest the plaintiff's claim against the defendant[18] or interpose a defense that is personal to the defendant.[19] Whether the plaintiff, the court, and the officer who served the writ have been acting legally does not concern him.[20] The attachment plaintiff, to defeat the claim of an intervener, need only show that the title to the property attached is not in the intervener.[1] The assignee of a garnished debt stands in place of the principal debtor and can make any defense to the judgment which the latter could make, and none which he could not make.[2]

It has been held that while it is proper to entertain a motion for the immediate discharge of property seized in attachment proceedings as that of defendant when it is claimed by another who interpleads, if the showing upon the motion discloses a substantial question as to the ownership between defendant and interpleader, the motion should be overruled where the hearing is upon ex parte affidavits.[3]

§ 981. Evidence and Trial.—The trial and proof of issues on an intervention is governed by the law of trial and evidence generally.[4] The intervener stands in the character of plaintiff before the court as to the nature of his title and the object of his demand, and is governed in his pleadings by the rules of practice which apply to plaintiffs in principal demands.[5] He generally has the burden of proving title or right to possession of the attached or garnished property, and the bona fides of his claim,[6] although under some statutes the trial judge has the discretion to require the attachment plaintiff to bear the burden of proving that the ownership of the property is in the defendant rather than in the claimant.[7] By the production of evidence showing fraud on the part of the defendant in transferring his property to the claimant, the plaintiff makes a prima facie case, and the burden rests upon the claimant to show that he was a bona fide purchaser.[8]

---

[17] Home Land & Loan Co. v. Routh, 123 Ark. 360, 185 S. W. 467, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 1142; Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. Lewellyn, 158 La. 303, 103 So. 823, 39 A.L.R. 1502; Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894; Millus v. Lowrey Bros. 63 Okla. 261, 164 P. 663, L.R.A.1918B, 336; Ballew v. Young, 24 Okla. 182, 103 P. 623, 23 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1084.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 773, 775; 18 Ann. Cas. 594.

The right of one who files an interplea in attachment claiming title to, and the right in, immediate possession of the property attached, without attacking the grounds of attachment or any of the proceedings had therein prior to the levy, is analogous to the right of a petitioner in replevin. Millus v. Lowrey Bros. 63 Okla. 261, 164 P. 663, L.R.A.1918B, 336.

One who intervenes in an attachment proceeding wherein the service, which was by publication, was so defective as to be void, and claims the real estate attached, may attack such service before the rendition of judgment, by motion to set it aside. Ballew v. Young, 24 Okla. 182, 103 P. 623, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1084.

Allegations of fraud in an affidavit for attachment may be disproved by a judgment creditor who intervenes, and it has been held that other creditors may intervene and show fraud when their interest in the property has suffered or is likely to suffer from a fraudulent transaction between the plaintiff and the defendant. Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 773.

[18] Fleming v. Shields, 21 La. Ann. 118, 99 Am. Dec. 719.

[19] Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Fleming v. Shields, 21 La. Ann. 118, 99 Am. Dec. 719.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A. 775.

Questions of the admissibility of testimony and the formality and regularity of the pleadings, in so far as they do not pertain to the claim of the intervener, are matters for the consideration of the defendant, and if he sees fit to waive them, he may. Fleming v. Shields, 21 La. Ann. 118, 99 Am. Dec. 719.

[20] Potlatch Lumber Co. v. Runkel, 16 Idaho, 192, 101 P. 396, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 536, 18 Ann. Cas. 591; Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. Lewellyn, 158 La. 303, 103 So. 823, 39 A.L.R. 1502; Fleming v. Shields, 21 La. Ann. 118, 99 Am. Dec. 719; Clamageran v. Bucks, 4 Mart. N. S. (La.) 487, 16 Am. Dec. 185.

Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1084.

[1] Slocomb v. Breedlove, 8 La. 143, 28 Am. Dec. 135.

[2] Coit v. Haven, 30 Conn. 190, 79 Am. Dec. 244.

The assignee may object that the debt is not liable to the process. Wilde v. Mahaney, 183 Mass. 455, 67 N. E. 337, 62 L.R.A. 813.

[3] Western Grocer Co. v. Alleman, 81 Kan. 543, 106 P. 460, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 620, 135 Am. St. Rep. 398.

[4] See EVIDENCE [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 847]; TRIAL [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[5] Clapp v. Phelps, 19 La. Ann. 461, 92 Am. Dec. 545; Farmers State Bank v.

The answer of the garnishee is not evidence of the facts therein stated against the interveners in a contest between them and the garnishors.[9]

Where one is sought to be charged as the garnishee of the payee of a promissory note, and a third party intervenes claiming property in the note, the presumption is that it came into the latter's possession before its maturity, and the plaintiff must show affirmatively not only that he did not acquire it before maturity, but that it was in fact the property of the payee at the time of service of the writ of garnishment.[10]

§ 982. Judgment and Right to Proceeds after Sale.—Where the property in controversy has not been sold, a successful intervener or interpleader in attachment is entitled to have the same returned to him, or, if replevied, to be adjudged the owner thereof, or, if the intervener or interpleader claims a lien on or an interest in the property, to have the same adjudged superior to the claim of the attaching creditor.[11] Where the property has been sold by order of court, and the proceeds are held by the person making such sale, or have been paid into court, such interpleader or intervener is entitled to the proceeds of the sale,[12] and it is generally held to be error to give judgment to him against the plaintiff for the value of the goods, instead of for the amount in court.[13] A few jurisdictions have, however, adopted the rule that damages are allowable to a successful intervener or interpleader in attachment.[14] It is not always necessary to settle the matter of interpleader before rendering judgment on the attachment suit.[15]

In case judgment is rendered against the intervener, he is entitled to an order suspending execution pending an appeal.[16]

§ 983. Right of Intervener to Recover Counsel Fees.—On the question of the right of a successful intervener or claimant of property attached as that of another to recover attorneys' fees for securing the release of the property from the attachment, the authorities are conflicting. In a number of deci-

---

Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894; Commercial Invest. Trust v. William Frankfurth Hardware Co. 179 Wis. 21, 190 N. W. 1004, citing R. C. L.

[6] Williams v. Hill, 19 How. (U. S.) 246, 15 L. ed. 570; Richards v. Vaccaro, 67 Miss. 516, 7 So. 506, 19 Am. St. Rep. 322.

However, in Speyer v. Ihmels, 21 Cal. 280, 81 Am. Dec. 157, it was held that where a subsequent attaching creditor intervenes on the ground that the prior attachment was fraudulently taken out, he occupies the position of a defendant, and the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff.

[7] Pelzer Mfg. Co. v. Pitts, 76 S. C. 349, 57 S. E. 29, 11 Ann. Cas. 665.

[8] Richards v. Vaccaro, 67 Miss. 516, 7 So. 506, 19 Am. St. Rep. 322.

[9] Bassett v. Garthwaite, 22 Tex. 230, 73 Am. Dec. 257.

[10] Ibid.

[11] Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 912.

[12] Hall v. Richardson, 16 Md. 396, 77 Am. Dec. 303.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 908.

A sale, in attachment proceedings, of goods which were subject to a vendor's lien or right of stoppage will not operate to the prejudice of the vendor so as to defeat his prior right, but he will be entitled, by intervening in the attachment proceedings, to have the proceeds applied to the satisfaction of his debt in preference to the attaching creditors. Hepp v. Glover, 15 La. 461, 35 Am. Dec. 206.

[13] Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 909.

[14] Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 911.

[15] Cermak v. Schaaf, 308 Ill. 61, 139 N. E. 39, 37 A.L.R. 1398.

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913B, 181.

sions the right to an allowance of such fees is denied, but in some cases attorneys' fees have been allowed to a successful claimant of property so attached.[17]

XV. WRONGFUL OR MALICIOUS ATTACHMENT OR GARNISHMENT

A. The Cause of Action

1. In General

§ 984. Generally.—At the outset of this discussion of liability for wrongful attachment or garnishment, the distinction must be observed between an action at common law and an action under statutes.[18] At common law, the mere fact that one person institutes a civil action against another does not give rise to a cause of action in favor of the person sued. Whatever the injury resulting from the issuance of the judicial process, the person procuring its issuance incurs no responsibility, provided he acts upon an honest conviction that the remedy is necessary to the enforcement of a legal right.[19] However, at an early stage of the common law's growth, it was perceived that the institution of criminal proceedings upon a false accusation led to gross abuses, injustice, and oppression, and that to correct this it was necessary to give to the accused a right of action against the prosecutor. Accordingly, the action denominated malicious prosecution came into existence.[20] This action had been recognized and its elements had become fixed long before the statutes permitting attachments made their appearance on the statute books. The motive consists in malice, which may be fraud, oppression, or gross negligence, a great variety of terms being used to describe the mental attitude of the party.

Although in some states the rule is, independent of statute, that the mere fact that an attachment was wrongfully issued and levied gives rise to a cause of action for damages, even though the plaintiff was not actuated by malice or had probable cause for the belief that ground for attachment existed,[21] in the majority of cases, malice and a want of probable cause are required. Acting upon the principle of the common law which guarantees a remedy for the enforcement of every right, "ubi jus, ibi remedium," the judges declared that the malicious suing out of the writ of attachment, without probable cause, should give rise to a cause of action equally with, and analogous to, the malicious prosecution of a criminal prosecution.[1] Thus, it has become established that generally the principles governing a common-law action for the wrongful issuance of an attachment are those common-law principles applicable to actions for malicious prosecution.[2] An action lies for maliciously suing out an attachment and seizing the goods of the defendant, even though there was at the time some indebtedness, especially if the indebtedness claimed exceeds the actual indebtedness by a large amount, thus resulting in a grossly excessive levy.[3] In the absence of indebtedness, attachment is wrongful, within the contemplation of such a statute, although otherwise statutory grounds for attachment exist.[4]

---

[17] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 604, s. 71 A.L.R. 1464.

[18] While the statutes are by no means uniform in their terminology, and the interpretations put upon their language disclose the usual differences of opinion found throughout the construction of American statute law, yet it is generally recognized that there is a radical difference between an action at common law for the malicious prosecution of an attachment and an action under statute for an attachment that is merely wrongful. Annotation: 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 120.

[19] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121.

See also Abuse of Process, Vol. 1, pp. 176 et seq.

[20] See Malicious Prosecution [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 9].

[21] Dickinson v. Maynard, 20 La. Ann. 66, 96 Am. Dec. 379; Reed v. Samuels, 22 Tex. 114, 73 Am. Dec. 253, 5 Tex. Jur. 261.

[1] Vesper v. Crane Co. 165 Cal. 36, 130 P. 876, L.R.A.1915A, 541; Snydacker v. Brosse, 51 Ill. 357, 99 Am. Dec. 551; Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 120; International Harvester Co. v. Iowa Hardware Co. 146 Iowa, 172, 122 N. W. 951, 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272; Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830; Keller v. Butler, 246 N. Y. 249, 158 N. E. 510, 55 A.L.R. 349 (dictum); Overton v. Sigmon Furniture Mfg. Co. 50 Okla. 531, 151 P. 215, citing R. C. L.; Floyd v. Anderson, 36 Okla. 308, 128 P. 249, 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 788, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 348; Abbott v. Kimball, 19 Vt. 551, 47 Am. Dec. 708; Ailstock v. Moore Lime Co. 104 Va. 565, 52 S. E. 213, 2 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1100, 113 Am. St. Rep. 1060, 7 Ann.

An attachment or garnishment defendant may also, of course, bring an action against the attaching or garnishing officer where the attachment or garnishment was wrongful or malicious on his part,[5] but since the writ, if lawful on its face, constitutes a defense to the attaching officer,[6] he will generally be liable only where he levies upon property not liable to the process,[7] or where he abuses the process in some other manner, such as by misusing the attached or garnished property.[8]

The principles governing abuse of process, rather than those governing malicious prosecution,[9] apply to any misuse of an attachment or garnishment

---

Cas. 545; Commercial Invest. Trust v. William Frankfurth Hardware Co. 179 Wis. 21, 190 N. W. 1004, citing R. C. L.; Veitch v. Cebell, 105 Wis. 260, 81 N. W. 411, 76 Am. St. Rep. 914.

See also Nix v. Goodhill, 95 Iowa, 282, 63 N. W. 701, 58 Am. St. Rep. 434; Savage v. Brewer, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 453, 28 Am. Dec. 255; Barnett v. Reed, 51 Pa. 190, 88 Am. Dec. 574; Hazard v. Israel, 1 Binn. (Pa.) 240, 2 Am. Dec. 428.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 662; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 274; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120, s. L.R.A. 1915A, 541; 81 Am. Dec. 476; 7 Ann. Cas. 547.

The elements of abuse of process, as distinguished from malicious prosecution, are the existence of an ulterior motive and an act in the use of process other than such as would be proper in the prosecution of the charge. There is a difference of opinion as to whether or not malice and want of probable cause are necessary elements of such a cause of action. See ABUSE OF PROCESS, Vol. 1, p. 178, § 6 and p. 179, § 8.

Taking out an invalid writ of attachment, knowing it to be such, and attaching property not subject to levy, for the purpose of gaining information or evidence upon which to base a proper writ, constitute a cause of action for malicious attachment. The second writ cannot be sustained in that way. Rosenthal v. Dickerman (Rosenthal v. Circuit Judge) 98 Mich. 208, 57 N. W. 112, 22 L.R.A. 693, 39 Am. St. Rep. 535.

If the plaintiff in garnishment proceedings had no right to the remedy of garnishment, he may be held liable for resorting to garnishment proceedings by the debtor whose rights have thus been interfered with. However, it has been held that malice must be shown by the injured party to warrant recovery. An action for malicious prosecution is his sole remedy, and although a principal defendant has been injured by having his funds tied up in a bank by garnishment proceedings, he is not, after the dismissal of the complaint and upon the trial of the garnishee action, entitled to a judgment for damages against the plaintiff, by reason of the garnishment, where the statute does not authorize such a judgment. Veitch v. Cebell, 105 Wis. 260, 81 N. W. 411, 76 Am. St. Rep. 914.

However, the mere attachment of property for a debt not yet due does not in itself constitute such a cause of action. Humphreys v. Sutcliffe, 192 Pa. 336, 43 A. 954, 73 Am. St. Rep. 819.

As to advice of counsel as a defense to an action for malicious attachment, see infra, § 998.

[2] Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830; Williams v. Hunter, 10 N. C. (3 Hawks) 545, 14 Am. Dec. 597; Commercial Invest. Trust v. William Frankfurth Hardware Co. 179 Wis. 21, 190 N. W. 1004, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 273; 68 Am. St. Rep. 267.

An attachment for the purpose of preventing a conveyance of certain property to an intended purchaser constitutes an actionable abuse of process. Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A. (N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830. The court held the action analogous to an action for malicious prosecution.

[3] Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10.

[4] Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

[5] Rice v. Chase, 9 N. H. 178, 32 Am. Dec. 346.

See SHERIFFS [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 933, § 25].

As to actions on indemnity bond, see SHERIFFS [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 977, § 71].

[6] See infra, § 1002.

[7] Rice v. Chase, 9 N. H. 178, 32 Am. Dec. 346.

[8] See infra, this section.

[9] The distinctive nature of an action for abuse of process, as distinguished from an action for malicious prosecution, is that the former lies for the improper use of process after it has been issued, not for maliciously causing process to issue. See ABUSE OF PROCESS, Vol. 1, p. 176, § 3.

after it has issued,[10] such as the levy of the writ on exempt property,[11] or any misuse or injury of the property after it is attached or garnished.[12] However, it has not been considered an actionable abuse of process for one intentionally to discontinue an action in which property has been attached, and to begin a new suit for the same cause of action and attach either the same or other property.[13] The indispensable elements of abuse of the process, as distinguished from malicious prosecution, are the existence of an ulterior motive and the use of process other than such as would be proper in the prosecution of the charge. There is a difference of opinion as to whether or not malice and want of probable cause are necessary elements to such a cause of action.[14]

§ 985. Statutory Modifications.—The remedy accorded for wrongful attachment or garnishment to suitors by the courts pursuant to their common-law powers[15] has appeared to be insufficient in the eyes of the legislatures of many states, the element of malice being regarded as a stumbling block to the accomplishment of justice. Therefore, one may find in the statute books numerous acts which are designed to enlarge the common-law remedy by extending the right of action to the wrongful suing out of the writ of attachment in cases wherein the ingredient of malice[16] and usually want of probable cause are lacking. Under most of these statutes a "wrongful" suing out of the writ, such as will sustain the action, is no more than a failure to prosecute the attachment with effect.[17] However, some statutes make want of probable cause an element of a cause of action for wrongful attachment.[18]

---

[10] Grimestad v. Lofgren, 105 Minn 286, 117 N. W. 515, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 990, 127 Am. St. Rep. 566.

[11] Ibid.

[12] Snydacker v. Brosse, 51 Ill. 357, 99 Am. Dec. 551; Bradshaw v. Frazier, 113 Iowa, 579, 85 N. W. 752, 55 L.R.A. 258, 86 Am. St. Rep. 394; Barrett v. White, 3 N. H. 210, 14 Am. Dec. 352.

Annotation: 86 Am. St. Rep. 402.

A bailee who has charge of attached property has no right to use it for his own benefit, as where a horse taken under attachment is cruelly worked. Annotation: 86 Am. St. Rep. 402.

An officer who unnecessarily or wantonly removes hay which has been attached is liable as a trespasser for abuse of process. Barrett v. White, 3 N. H. 210, 14 Am. Dec. 352.

It is an abuse of process to break open outer doors for the purpose of executing civil process. Snydacker v. Brosse, 51 Ill. 357, 99 Am. Dec. 551.

However, where, upon the attachment of a horse or wagon of a debtor, such horse and wagon are used to haul away other personal property attached, this is not an abuse of process. Paul v. Slason, 22 Vt. 231, 54 Am. Dec. 75.

Where an attaching creditor consents to a sale by the garnishee of the property attached, he is liable to his debtor for any loss resulting from such sale. Brashear v. West, 7 Pet. (U. S.) 608, 8 L. ed. 801.

See also Vol. 4, p. 893, § 558.

[13] Annotation: 86 Am. St. Rep. 401.

[14] See Abuse of Process, Vol. 1, p. 178, § 6 and p. 179, § 8.

[15] See supra, § 984.

[16] Pollock v. Gantt, 69 Ala. 373, 44 Am. Rep. 519; Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Grimestad v. Lofgren, 105 Minn. 286, 117 N. W. 515, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 990, 127 Am. St. Rep. 566; Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635; Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052; Lamb v. Day, 8 Vt. 407, 30 Am. Dec. 479; Commercial Invest. Trust v. William Frankfurth Hardware Co. 179 Wis. 21, 190 N. W. 1004, citing R. C. L.; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 659; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 273; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120, s, L.R.A. 1915A, 541; 81 Am. Dec. 467.

In Puerto Rico a comprehensive system is specially provided by the Code of Civil Procedure governing the issuing of attachments and the recovery of damages for wrongful attachment; it has been held that an action to recover for the wrongful suing out of a writ of attachment must be brought within these provisions of the Code, and not under general provisions relating to injuries based upon a careless act or omission. Perez v. Fernandez, 202 U. S. 80, 50 L. ed. 942, 26 S. Ct. 561.

[17] See infra, § 991.

[18] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121, 123; 68 Am. St. Rep. 268.

In an early case in North Carolina, Williams v. Hunter, 10 N. C. (3 Hawks) 545, 14 Am. Dec. 597, it was held that an action for unlawfully suing out an attachment

Wherever the question has arisen, it has generally been held that the attachment debtor's right of action against his attachment creditor, for maliciously, and without probable cause, suing out a writ of attachment, is not superseded or limited by the statutes authorizing and regulating the writ, but that the statutory protection is in addition to that afforded at common law.[19] If the action is brought at common law and not on the attachment bond, malice is still a necessary element of a cause of action.[20]

In many states, an attachment or garnishment is a proper practice to follow to enforce claims arising under bulk sales laws.[1] In others, such an attachment is wrongful.[2]

The giving of a redelivery bond in attachment does not waive the right to recover the actual damages which were caused by wrongfully attaching the property, although the statute provides for a motion for discharge of the attachment because improperly issued.[3]

§ 986. Malice and Probable Cause.—The malice required to sustain an action for malicious attachment has been defined as consisting in an improper motive, not necessarily any positive malignity or corruption, but a wilful disregard of the rights of others, whether it is to compass some unlawful end, or some lawful end by unlawful means, or to do a wrong and unlawful act, knowing it to be such.[4] Probable cause is said to consist in a reasonable belief in the existence of facts necessary to sustain an attachment, such belief being founded on circumstances which would be sufficient to produce such a belief in a man of ordinary caution, that is, founded on reasonable grounds.[5] Accordingly, the proof of malice and probable cause must correspond to these tests.[6] could not be maintained unless it was sued out with malice and without probable cause. The later North Carolina rule is that want of probable cause, but not malice, is an element of the cause of action. Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121.

---

[19] See infra, § 1019.

[20] Fortman v. Rottier, 8 Ohio St. 548, 72 Am. Dec. 606.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 126.

[1] See Vol. 4, p. 618, § 100.

[2] Newman v. Garfield, 93 Vt. 16, 104 A. 881, 5 A.L.R. 1507.

An officer levying an attachment in such a case is liable in damages as for a conversion. Ibid.

[3] St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569.

The giving of an undertaking for the release of attached property does not preclude the defendant from maintaining an action on the attachment bond for damage sustained by the attachment. Annotation: 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 408.

[4] Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431.

[5] Long v. Burley State Bank, 30 Idaho, 392, 165 P. 1119, citing R. C. L.; Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96.

Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 268; 81 Am. Dec. 477.

In other words, if the attachment plaintiff honestly believed that he had probable cause, the mere fact that there was not in realty any probable cause does not render him liable. Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep 362.

The intention and real object of the plaintiff must have been to injure, vex, and harass the defendant, under pretense of the action in attachment. Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431.

When an attachment is sued out by a person who knows he has no cause of action, he may be deemed to have intended thereby to vex, harass, and injure the party sued; and this will be malice enough. Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am Dec. 431.

Where there was no debt there can be no good faith in swearing to the contrary, and therefore no reasonable ground to believe what one must have known not to be true. Pittsburg, J. E. & E. R. Co. v. Wakefield Hardware Co. 138 N. C. 174, 50 S. E. 571. 3 Ann. Cas. 720. Annotation: 86 Am. St. Rep. 401; 81 Am. Dec. 478.

[6] If the plaintiff, though having a cause of action, alleges facts as ground for the attachment, knowing them to be false, this is evidence of malice. The fact that judgment in the original suit on the merits went against the plaintiff has been held to be conclusive evidence against him on the question of probable cause in an action for malicious attachment, although there is good authority to the contrary. Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 471, 478.

Any evidence going to show the justice of the plaintiff's demand, though it does not prove probable cause, tends to do so and is admissible for that purpose. Forrest v.

However, it has been held that the probable cause must exist as a fact, and not merely as a belief in the mind of the attaching creditor,[7] and undoubtedly it may be, and ordinarily is, inferred from other facts, such as the falsity of the affidavit, that the debt was not due, etc.[8]

§ 987. —Under Wrongful Attachment or Garnishment Statutes.—Under a statute making want of probable cause an element of a cause of action for wrongful attachment, the view has been taken that the want of probable cause is the want of reasonable cause to believe the grounds stated for the writ to be true.[9] However, it has been held that the want of probable cause under such a statute must exist as a fact, and not merely in the mind of the attaching creditor, to be available to him as a defense to such an action.[10]

§ 988. When Cause of Action Arises.[11]—Generally speaking, if the plaintiff in the action in which the attachment or garnishment is issued succeeds in maintaining his main action, and also the attachment or garnishment, there is no cause of action for wrongful attachment or garnishment. To this general rule, however, there are some seeming exceptions.[12]

Where the basis of the action for wrongful attachment or garnishment is that the plaintiff in the action in which the attachment or garnishment issued had no cause of action, the action for wrongful attachment or garnishment must await the termination of that action; in other words, it must be judicially determined that no cause of action existed, or the action must have been dismissed.

Where the action is based on some impropriety in the attachment or garnishment, as, for example, that there was no ground for the issuance of the process or that it was irregularly issued or that the attachment was mali-

---

Collier, 20 Ala. 175, 56 Am. Dec. 190. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 478.

Mere representations by a third person, without further inquiry by the plaintiff, are not sufficient to justify such belief on the plaintiff's part so as to be a defense to an action for malicious attachment. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 478.

The declarations of the debtor that he was about to leave the state, made just prior to the attachment, have been held not admissible for the attachment plaintiff, if they did not come to him until after the attachment, as then they could not have influenced his belief; and on the same principle, a subsequent fraudulent assignment is no justification. However, evidence that other attachments had been issued prior to his own has been held admissible as evidence for the attachment plaintiff, tending to rebut the presumption of malice, in that it strengthened his belief in his grounds for attachment. Donnell v. Jones, 17 Ala. 689, 52 Am. Dec. 194. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 478.

Words spoken or declarations made by the attachment plaintiff long after the issuance of the attachment, without evidence to show that such declarations related directly to the act of suing out the writ, are inadmissible as tending to prove malice in procuring the writ. Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465.

[7] Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

[8] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 477, 478.

[9] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 124.

[10] Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

In criticizing the Iowa cases (see preceding note) the court, in Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156, said: "To say that a debtor may be deprived of the use of his property, not for any fault of his own, but because his creditor believes that he has been in fault, is to make his rights depend upon a matter which the law cannot and does not pretend to regulate, viz., the nature and condition of the creditor's mind, and is to put him, upon the trial of his suit for damages, to proof of facts which he can get positively from no other source but the creditor himself, which would be entirely unreasonable." The court pointed out that the Iowa and Washington statutes were precisely similar.

[11] As to when statute of limitations begins to run against action, see infra, § 1004.

[12] There is obiter, in Harris v. Bickerton, 24 Ont. L. Rep. 41, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 443, to the effect that the action for wrongful attachment may be maintained even though the attachment defendant was unsuccessful in the attachment proceeding, failing to have the process complained of set aside, if the use of the attachment was harsh or oppressive.

It is recognized in certain cases, in which the decision of an inferior court is not reviewable, that a determination of the wrongfulness of the attachment or garnishcious,[13] it is not necessary to await the determination of the main action before beginning an action for wrongful attachment. The harsh and oppressive use of the attachment or garnishment process may furnish the basis of an action for wrongful attachment or garnishment, even though it is a case in which the plaintiff in the principal action has a valid claim which is sustained therein.[14]

According to the general rule, however, no action lies until the attachment or garnishment proceedings proper, as distinguished from the main action, have terminated.[15] At least, the particular property seized must be discharged from the process.[16] However, it has been held that where the gist of the action for wrongful attachment or garnishment is malice, the determination of the attachment or garnishment proceedings is not a condition prerequisite to the maintenance of the action.[17] At least, this is the rule where the termination of the attachment or garnishment is not necessary to any adjudication upon its wrongfulness.[18] It has also been held that under a statute which inhibits the defendant in attachment from putting in issue the grounds upon which it is sued out, he is not bound to wait until the attachment suit is determined.[19]

The effect of giving a bond which discharges the attachment varies in the different jurisdictions. In some, in which the giving of such bond prevents a determination of the regularity of the attachment or garnishment, no action lies for wrongful attachment or garnishment,[20] while in others such action does lie.[1]

§ 989. Necessity of Actual Levy and Interference.—There is a difference of opinion as to the necessity of actual levy and interference to sustain an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment. One view is that this is necessary.[2] Another view is that the action is maintainable without ment is not necessary; in fact, a sustaining of the attachment by such inferior court does not prevent the action for wrongful attachment. Nation v. Savely, 127 Okla. 117, 260 P. 32, citing R. C. L.

---

[13] Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830; Grimestad v. Lofgren, 105 Minn. 286, 117 N. W. 515, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 990.

Where an attachment was obtained for the purpose of preventing a sale of property by the defendant and to enable the moving party to buy it, the court held that the purpose of obtaining the attachment was a perversion of the object which the writ was intended by law to effect. Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830.

[14] Harris v. Bickerton, 24 Ont. L. Rep. 41, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 443.

[15] Wade v. Ray, 67 Okla. 39, 168 P. 447, L.R.A.1918B, 796; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350.

Annotation: 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 950; 68 Am. St. Rep. 267, 81 Am. Dec. 479, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 445.

The dissolution of the attachment proceedings gives a right of action, and it is not necessary to wait until the termination of the main action before instituting proceedings for redress. Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350.

An order of the court reducing the ad damnum in the writ is a sufficient termination to support an action for maliciously making an excessive attachment; it is not necessary to wait until the end of the main action. Zinn v. Rice, 154 Mass. 1, 27 N. E. 772, 12 L.R.A. 288.

In Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10, an averment in a declaration that money claimed in a writ of attachment was paid to save the property from total ruin was held equivalent to an averment of the termination of the proceeding in attachment in an action for maliciously suing out the writ.

[16] Grimestad v. Lofgren, 105 Minn. 286, 117 N. W. 515, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 990, 127 Am. St. Rep. 566 (seizure of exempt property which was discharged).

[17] Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362.

In Forrest v. Collier, 20 Ala. 175, 56 Am. Dec. 190, it was held that an averment that the attachment suit was ended was unnecessary where the gist of the action for malicious attachment was a false representation on the part of the defendant that he was the agent of the plaintiff.

[18] Fortman v. Rottier, 8 Ohio St. 548, 72 Am. Dec. 606.

[19] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

[20] Annotation: 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 950.

[1] Nation v. Savely, 127 Okla. 117, 260 P. 32, citing R. C. L.

[2] Annotation: 7 Ann. Cas. 548.

any arrest or seizure of property,[3] at least for nominal damages;[4] and this rule is defended on the ground that it accords with right and justice. It is said that the common law declares that for every injury there is a remedy. Especially is this so where the injury is malicious. If a man is injured in his credit and reputation, and his business lessened or broken up, it can make no difference, in his right to recover for such injury, that his person or property has not been manually seized or disturbed.[5]

§ 990. Successive Attachments and Garnishments.—Successive attachments and garnishments may, under certain circumstances, constitute a cause of action for abuse of process.[6] For example, successive attachments and garnishments of property not liable to the process constitute such a cause of action.[7]

§ 991. Attachment and Garnishment of Property Not Liable to Process.—The attachment or garnishment of property not liable to the process may, under certain circumstances, constitute wrongful[8] or malicious[9] attachment or garnishment.[10]

The question whether the mere attachment or garnishment of exempt property in the first instance constitutes a trespass, where no claim of exemption has been made, is clearly dependent upon the construction placed upon the exemption statute to which the levy is subject. But where the character of property as exempt is established, the generally recognized rule is that the repeated seizure of it for the same debt will support an action for the abuse of process, at least where such seizure may not be justified as incidental to a conveniently effective levy on other property.[11]

An attaching or garnishing creditor or officer levying upon property taken from a prisoner who has not been arrested in good faith, or who has been illegally arrested,[12] or upon property subjected to the process by trickery or fraud,[13] is liable in damages for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment.[14]

---

[3] Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362; Rice v. Miller, 70 Tex. 613, 8 S. W. 317, 8 Am. St. Rep. 630.

[4] Dorr Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 127 Iowa, 153, 98 N. W. 918, 4 Ann. Cas. 519.

[5] Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362.

[6] Rock v. Abrashin, 154 Wash. 51, 280 P. 740, 65 A.L.R. 1280.

Annotation: 65 A.L.R. 1283.

[7] See infra, § 991.

[8] Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460.

[9] Grimestad v. Lofgren, 105 Minn. 286, 117 N. W. 515, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 990, 127 Am. St. Rep. 566.

[10] Rice v. Chase, 9 N. H. 178, 32 Am. Dec. 346.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 662.

[11] Baxley v. Laster, 82 Ark. 236, 101 S. W. 755, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 983, 118 Am. St. Rep. 64, 12 Ann. Cas. 332; Rustad v. Bishop, 80 Minn. 497, 83 N. W. 449, 50 L.R.A. 168, 81 Am. St. Rep. 282; Sturges v. Jackson, 88 Miss. 508, 40 So. 547, 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 491, 117 Am. St. Rep. 754; Rock v. Abrashin, 154 Wash. 51, 280 P. 740, 65 A.L.R. 1280.

Annotation: 65 A.L.R. 1283.

A creditor will not be permitted to initiate a series of garnishments, and thus tie up in the hands of an employer separate amounts of money which have been earned as wages by a laboring man until the thirty days prescribed by statute have expired and then, by another proceeding in garnishment, appropriate these amounts to the payment of his debt. Such proceedings are a perversion of civil process and cannot be sanctioned. Rustad v. Bishop, 80 Minn. 497, 83 N. W. 449, 50 L.R.A. 168, 81 Am. St. Rep. 282.

Generally, exemptions cannot be circumvented by successive garnishments. See supra, § 707.

Although a complaint was deemed to state a good cause of action in alleging successive fruitless and abandoned garnishments levied upon exempt property, in pursuance of a conspiracy to harass the plaintiffs by the malicious abuse of the process of the court, the facts were held not to warrant recovery, for the reasons that the claim was just, that only one fourth of the wages being earned were exempt from it, that no claims of exemptions were made, and that the facts revealed no more than a contest between a dishonest debtor seeking to avoid payment of a just claim, and his creditor employing the process in question zealously, but in the justifiable effort to secure payment out of such funds as were properly available for that purpose. Rock v. Abrashin, 154 Wash. 51, 280 P. 740, 65 A.L.R. 1280.

See also Abuse of Process, Vol. 1, p. 184, § 16.

[12] Such property is not liable to seizure

Injunctive relief against successive attachments or garnishments of this character is sometimes allowed.[15]

§ 992. Cause of Action of Third Persons.—A third person whose property has been seized in an attachment action has a cause of action for such wrongful seizure. The levying officer incurs a liability therefor.[16]

The attachment plaintiff, who has done nothing more than to cause the writ to be issued, is not liable for a wrongful levy upon a third person's property.[17] But if he has either actually participated in such levy, as by ordering or directing it to be made upon particular property, or subsequently ratifies or adopts it, then he incurs liability.[18] on civil process. See Vol. 4, p. 803, §§ 400 et seq.

---

[13] Such property is not liable to levy. See Vol. 4, p. 609, § 87.

[14] Ex parte Hurn, 92 Ala. 102, 9 So. 515, 13 L.R.A. 120, 25 Am. St. Rep. 23; Closson v. Morrison, 47 N. H. 482, 93 Am. Dec. 459.

Annotation: 25 Am. St. Rep. 34.

[15] See supra, § 717.

[16] Marks v. Shoup, 181 U. S. 562, 45 L. ed. 1002, 21 S. Ct. 724; North v. Peters, 138 U. S. 271, 34 L. ed. 936, 11 S. Ct. 346; Buck v. Colbath, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 334, 18 L. ed. 257; Lovejoy v. Murray, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 18 L. ed. 129; Lundgren v. Western State Bank, 189 Minn. 476, 250 N. W. 1, 91 A.L.R. 919; Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590; Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661; Whittler v. Sharp, 43 Utah, 419, 135 P. 112, 49 L.R.A. (N.S.) 931; Ward v. Henry, 19 Wis. 77, 88 Am. Dec. 672.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 668.

However, if, upon the service of a garnishment, the person garnished answers that he is indebted to the judgment debtor, and pays the amount of the debt to the officer, it having before such garnishment been assigned to another and the debtor having been notified of the assignment, the assignee cannot maintain an action against the officer to whom such payment is made. He is justified in receiving payment and applying it upon the writ, and the remedy of the assignee is against the original debtor, who remains liable notwithstanding the payment, because he cannot, after notice of the assignment, relieve himself from liability by payment to a person other than the assignee. Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 47 L.R.A. 737, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586.

Where an automobile belonging to the plaintiff was wrongfully seized as the property of the plaintiff's husband by the deputy sheriff under an attachment, it was held that the sheriff was liable even though the action had been brought against him in his personal, and not his official, capacity, since a sheriff is personally liable for an abuse of process committed by a deputy. Annotation: 102 A.L.R. 184.

As to liability of sheriffs and constables generally, see SHERIFFS [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 946, §§ 41 et seq.].

[17] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 927.

An attaching creditor is not answerable for the act of the officer unless he in some manner interferes so as to make himself liable. Lovejoy v. Murray, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 18 L. ed. 129.

[18] Lovejoy v. Murray, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 18 L. ed. 129; Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609; Tregre v. Carter Packet Co. 132 La. 293, 61 So. 379, 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 189 (on individual's property as belonging to corporation); Duperron v. Van Wickle, 4 Rob. (La.) 39, 39 Am. Dec. 509 (execution); Lundgren v. Western State Bank, 189 Minn. 476, 250 N. W. 1, 91 A.L.R. 919 (execution); Dyett v. Hyman, 129 N. Y. 351, 29 N. E. 261, 26 Am. St. Rep. 533 (on property assigned); Allen v. Crary, 10 Wend. 349, 25 Am. Dec. 566; Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108 (on property assigned); First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann Cas. 1914D, 809; Ward v. Henry, 19 Wis. 77, 88 Am. Dec. 672.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 667; 91 A.L.R. 922.

In Dyett v. Hyman, 129 N. Y. 351, 29 N. E. 261, 26 Am. St. Rep. 533, the court held that an owner of property attached under a writ of attachment against the property of another could maintain an action for damages against the attachment plaintiffs, who had executed a bond to indemnify the sheriff. In thus holding, the court said: "Their liability for the original trespass committed by the sheriff was presumptively established by their approval and satisfaction of his act, manifested by the execution of a bond of indemnity to him. The sale of the property was secured by this bond, and the defendants were thereby shown to have exercised a controlling authority over the action of the sheriff in procuring the consummation of the wrong complained of, and thereby made themselves liable as principals for the original unlawful taking." To the same effect, see Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609.

One who indemnifies an attaching officer to continue to hold property wrongfully attached or garnished is liable as a joint trespasser. Lovejoy v. Murray, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 18 L. ed. 129.

Ratification of a wrongful levy of attachment on a stranger's goods may be predicated upon the act of the attachment plaintiff in refusing, upon demand, to release the goods after being notified as to who owned them, or upon his buying the goods and converting them to his own use, or upon his receiving the proceeds of the sale. Lundgren v. Western State Bank, 189 Minn. 476, 250 N. W. 1, 91 A.L.R. 919.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 931.

There has been a sharp conflict of authority as to whether the act of an attorney in directing or participating in a levy upon a third person's property will bind his client, in the absence of express authority to do the particular act.[19]

2. Liability on Bond

§ 993. Generally.—The plaintiff in attachment incurs no liability for the attachment on the bond, or otherwise, where his cause of action against the defendant is sustained and the attachment is held rightful. If, on the other hand, either he fails to sustain his claim, or the attachment is held wrongful, then liability on the bond is incurred under the ordinary form of the statute.[20] However, under some statutes, the attachment is not wrongful and no action can be maintained on the bond unless the attachment issued without probable cause.[1] What constitutes want of probable cause under such a statute is a matter of some disagreement and is treated in a subsequent section herein.[2] Under most statutes, nevertheless, a "wrongful" suing out of the writ, such as will sustain an action on the bond, is no more than a failure to prosecute the attachment with effect,[3] and malice and want of probable cause

---

The attachment plaintiff's act of causing perishable goods to be sold under the levy and receiving the proceeds has been regarded, in connection with his having notice that they were in a mortgagee's possession, as an adoption of the officer's levy. Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 931.

A plaintiff in attachment, in whose behalf a levy was made upon goods of a stranger, who gave notice that they were his and demanded their release, was held to have ratified the officer's wrongful levy by joining with the officer, when they were both sued for the trespass, in denying the stranger's ownership. Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 931.

A party commencing a suit by attachment of goods which were largely perishable and having notice that they were in a mortgagee's possession was held liable for their wrongful conversion where he caused them to be sold under the levy and received the proceeds, the court remarking that he adopted the officer's action as his own. Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 926.

However, failure by a third party to make a claim under § 9340, Mason's Stat. (Minn.) 1927, does not relieve the judgment creditor from liability for conversion in the levy of an execution. Lundgren v. Western State Bank, 189 Minn. 476, 250 N. W. 1, 91 A.L.R. 919.

[19] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 929.

The mere presence of the attorney for the creditor at the time when property not belonging to the debtor was taken and sold was held not to make the creditor liable for the officer's tortious act where it was said that in the absence of proof of special authority to an attorney, his acts in directing the levy upon goods or the taking of them upon process were in excess of his general powers as an attorney and did not affect his client's liability or subject him thereto. Welsh v. Cochran, 63 N. Y. 181, 20 Am. Rep. 519.

[20] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326; Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152; Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

An attachment is "wrongful and oppressive" within the condition of an attachment bond for payment of damages that may be sustained by the defendant in the event that the proceedings of the plaintiff are wrongful and oppressive if the defendant is not indebted or the statutory grounds for attachment do not exist. National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326.

In Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152, attorneys' fees were recovered by an attachment defendant for defending a wrongful attachment although he had no defense to the attachment suit on its merits, defaulted, and satisfied the plaintiff's claim.

[1] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121, 123, s. L.R.A.1915A, 541.

The fact that no indebtedness is in fact due at the time an attachment is sued out in a suit to recover a pretended indebtedness does not show that the attachment was wrongful so as to support an action on the bond, where the statute requires, as a basis for such action, not only that the attachment was wrongful, but that there was no reasonable cause to believe that the ground upon which the same was issued was true. Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120.

[2] See infra, § 999.

[3] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326; Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 658; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 276; 68 Am. St. Rep. 268.

It is an abuse of garnishment process to garnish property in the possession of in suing out the attachment are not essential elements to such cause of action.[4]

More specifically, the condition of the bond is ordinarily such [5] that a judgment for the defendant,[6] the dismissal of the attachment,[7] the discontinuance of the attachment or garnishment suit,[8] or the abandonment of the suit by the plaintiff [9] will entitle the attachment or garnishment defendant to sue upon it. However, the condition of an attachment or garnishment bond is not always such that these results will follow.[10]

It is generally held that a recovery of damages in a distinct action is not a prerequisite to an action on the bond. In some states, however, from the peculiar wording of the statutes, or because of the form of the bond required, it has been held otherwise.[11]

§ 994. Liability of Surety.[12]—The liability of the surety is fixed by the terms and conditions of the contract and may not be extended by implication to matters not fairly covered thereby.[13] However, the condition of the ordinary attachment or garnishment bond is such that the sureties are liable thereon for damages in the first instance; and, in the absence of any statute to the contrary, it is not necessary for the obligee to make any demand on the

---

a common carrier in enforcing a judgment against a debtor where an execution was returned unsatisfied, but the property was in the carrier's warehouse and where the statute provided for garnishment only in case of execution unsatisfied; the creditor should have issued another execution. Madden v. Union P. R. Co. 89 Kan. 282, 131 P. 552, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 78.

[4] Vesper v. Crane Co. 165 Cal. 36, 130 P. 876, L.R.A.1915A, 541 (implied); Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121, s. L.R.A. 1915A 541; 81 Am. Dec. 467.

The court, in Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156, in answering the argument that the "unreasonable cause to believe the ground" upon which the attachment issued meant a state of mind produced in the attaching party by information which he believes to be true, said: "But the plain reading of the statute is not that way. It does not depend upon the state of mind of anybody, but upon the true facts of the case."

[5] See supra, § 896.

[6] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 658; 81 Am. Dec. 468.

A judgment against a sheriff is conclusive against the sureties on an attachment indemnity bond. Lovejoy v. Murray, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 1, 18 L. ed. 129.

[7] Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052.

[8] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 658.

The discontinuance of an attachment suit on the plaintiff's motion without the defendant's consent entitles the defendant to maintain an action on the attachment bond for the damages sustained. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 658.

[9] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 469.

[10] It has been intimated that a judgment on the merits against the plaintiff is not conclusive evidence that the attachment was wrongfully sued out. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 468.

It has been held that mere voluntary dismissal of a suit in which an attachment was issued does not give an attachment defendant the right to sue on the attachment bond. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 658.

Where the bond is to pay in case of failure to recover, final recovery is meant thereby. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 469.

The liability on a bond extends only to wrongful attachment on the writ to sustain the issuance of which it was given; and therefore, if the attachment proceedings are commenced, a bond given, and the attachment then abandoned, and another attachment on the same property levied, it is held that the bond will not avail as security on the second proceeding. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 469.

Where the condition of an attachment bond is that the obligors shall pay to the defendant in attachment all damages that he may sustain by reason of the wrongful suing out of the writ, the bond is not broken unless the attachment was wrongfully sued out, and the nonexistence of the particular ground averred in the affidavit, or of any particular ground, does not render the attachment wrongful. If any ground for attachment existed, the bond is not to be regarded as breached. Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[11] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 468.

Where the bond was conditioned to pay all costs and damages which might be recovered against the obligors, it was held that the amount must first be determined by a judgment in a suit for that purpose. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 468.

The bond given by the plaintiff in attachment proceedings cannot be put in suit unless a suit against the plaintiff in the attachment for wrongfully suing it out has first been prosecuted to judgment. Mullen v. Sanborn, 79 Md. 364, 29 A. 522, 25 L.R.A. 721, 47 Am. St. Rep. 421.

[12] See also infra, § 1029, as to parties defendant in action on bond.

[13] Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United Fidelity & G. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951.

principal [14] or to institute suit against him to adjudicate the damages.[15] Thus, upon dismissal of an attachment wrongfully sued out, the defendant is entitled to recover of the sureties on his attachment bond the damages sustained as a direct result of the wrongful suing out of the attachment.[16] However, a surety may make any conditions he chooses to make in signing a bond before it is delivered; and where it is not signed by a party whose signature was required as a condition of his signing, he will not be bound.[17]

The filing of the claim of an attachment plaintiff in voluntary bankruptcy proceedings against the attachment defendant does not of itself, without regard to the question of actual indebtedness, amount to an abandonment of the attachment proceedings and establish the liability of the surety on the bond. However, the disallowance of the claim has that effect.[18]

§ 995. Discharge of Surety.—The discharge of the surety on an attachment or garnishment bond is governed by the law relating to the discharge of sureties generally.[19] They are discharged by an extension of time without their knowledge or consent [1] or by an alteration of their contract—that is, the bond.[2]

A surety is not discharged by the adjudication of the attachment defendant as a voluntary bankrupt.[3] However, it has been held that where proceedings for the dissolution of an insolvent surety company are commenced prior to the accrual of liability on the attachment bond, no recovery can be had as against the surety's receiver.[4]

Where the obligation of the bond is joint and several, the fact that one party is absolved by any other means than what the law deems a release does not impair the right to recover as to the rest.[5]

§ 996. Estoppel.—Sureties on a bond to procure,[6] as well as to dissolve,[7] an attachment or garnishment are estopped from setting up defects and irregularities in the proceedings in defense to an action on the bond. Indeed, the surety on a bond to procure an attachment may not even set up in defense to an action on the bond the fact that the attachment proceedings were void or illegal.[8]

---

[14] Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609; Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Annotation: 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 743, s. L.R.A. 1918E, 820.

Sureties on an indemnity bond to a sheriff to cause him to levy an attachment may be held liable as principals to the owners of the property attached if the attachment is wrongful. Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609.

[15] Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

[16] Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052. See also McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 333.

[17] Hessell v. Johnson, 63 Mich. 623, 30 N. W. 209, 6 Am. St. Rep. 334.

[18] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326.

Annotation: 68 A.L.R. 1331.

[19] See SURETYSHIP [Also PRINCIPAL AND SURETY, 21 R. C. L. p. 1000, §§ 50 et seq.].

[1] In view of the principles of the common law, which declared that an obligation under seal could be discharged only by force of an instrument of equal dignity or by payment and satisfaction, it was solemnly decided in the early cases that it was not any defense at law to an action on a bond against a surety that by parol agreement time had been given to the principal. But such is not the rule at the present time; it may be taken as settled that wherever, by binding contract, time has been given to the principal, the surety stands discharged. Steele v. Boyd, 6 Leigh (Va.) 547, 29 Am. Dec. 218.

[2] Hessell v. Johnson, 63 Mich. 623, 30 N. W. 209, 6 Am. St. Rep. 334.

[3] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326.

Annotation: 68 A.L.R. 1331.

As to the effect of such adjudication in fixing the liability of surety, see supra, § 994.

Generally as to the effect of bankruptcy within four months on the liability of the surety on a bond to dissolve the attachment or garnishment or release the attached or garnished property, see supra, § 918.

[4] People v. Metropolitan Surety Co. 205 N. Y. 135, 98 N. E. 412, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1180.

[5] Steele v. Boyd, 6 Leigh (Va.) 547, 29 Am. Dec. 218.

[6] McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45, 97 Am. St. Rep. 67; Williard v. Federal Surety Co. 91 Mont. 465, 8 P. (2d) 633, citing R. C. L.; Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754.

[7] See supra, §§ 921 et seq.

Persons who have joined in giving a bond for the attachment of the property of a corporation cannot deny its corporate existence.[9]

3. Defenses

§ 997. Generally.—A defense to an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment is valid where it denies some necessary element of the common-law or statutory cause of action, as the case may be, set up in the complaint.[10]

Attachment by virtue of the writ is no defense to the person suing it out in an action for the taking and conversion of the property attached and the closing of the house containing the property, unless statutory grounds existed justifying the issuance of the writ.[11]

The attachment plaintiff may not set up in defense of a wrongful attachment the fact that the attached property was not the property of the defendant in attachment if he averred in his complaint that it was the defendant's.[12]

When a debtor comes into court to complain against his creditor for having sued out a writ of attachment against him, it is well for him to come with clean hands; and juries well may require clear and full proof that the creditor has violated the law when the complaining debtor in the first instance has been guilty of fraud or wrong.[13]

§ 998. Lack of Malice and Advice of Counsel.—Advice of counsel, or other proof of lack of malice, is a good defense where malice is an element of the cause of action, as in the case of the common-law action for malicious attachment,[14] but not where, as is usually the case in the statutory, as distinguished from the common-law, action, malice is not such an element.[15] Advice of counsel may always be shown to prevent a recovery of punitive damages[16] or to reduce the amount of such damages.[17]

---

[8] Why should the surety be relieved from liability merely because the seizure of the defendant's property was illegal? It seems that such illegality is an unanswerable reason for his being held liable. McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45, 97 Am. St. Rep. 67.

However, the surety on an attaching officer's bond can set up the defense to an action on the bond that the judgment against the sheriff for wrongful attachment was fraudulent, collusive, or a mistake. Charles v. Hoskins, 14 Iowa, 471, 83 Am. Dec. 378.

Such a defense may be set up on the defendant's bond to dissolve an attachment or garnishment. See supra, § 909.

[9] Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

[10] See supra, §§ 984, 985.

[11] Wellington v. Spencer, 37 Okla. 461, 132 P. 675, 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 469.

It is no defense to an action against a landlord for entering a leased building occupied as a hotel, ejecting the tenant therefrom, destroying his business, and seizing and converting his goods, that the landlord was acting by virtue of a writ of attachment which he had sued out in an action against the tenant to recover a debt where there were no grounds for the attachment and it was dissolved. Ibid.

[12] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 476.

[13] Reed v. Samuels, 22 Tex. 114, 73 Am. Dec. 253.

[14] Stone v. Swift, 4 Pick. (Mass.) 389, 16 Am. Dec. 349; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 281; 81 Am. Dec. 475.

If the attaching creditor, doubtful of his legal rights, submitted the matter to counsel learned in the law with a view to ascertaining the liability of the party to be sued and did nothing more than to pursue the course pointed out by his legal adviser, how can he be charged with malice and want of probable cause? Malice cannot be imputed to him in such case, and it is error to instruct the jury in such a manner that they may so find. Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431.

It must appear, however, that the party chose a competent adviser for consultation and in good faith made a full and frank disclosure of all the facts and circumstances of the case. Annotation: 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 281; 68 Am. St. Rep. 276.

It is a sufficient defense to such an action that the suspiciousness of the plaintiff's conduct made recourse to the attachment a measure of reasonable precaution. Humphreys v. Sutcliffe, 192 Pa. 336, 43 A. 954, 73 Am. St. Rep. 819.

Generally as to advice of attorney as defense to action for malicious prosecution, see MALICIOUS PROSECUTION [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 45, § 27].

§ 999. Probable Cause.—Probable cause, whether shown by the advice of counsel or otherwise, is not a complete defense to the statutory action for wrongful attachment or garnishment,[18] unless it is made such a defense by statute.[19] Hence, in accordance with the general rule, belief in the truth of the allegations of the affidavit, where such allegations are in fact false, is no defense to such an action.[20] However, probable cause is a defense to the common-law action for malicious attachment, in so far as its absence must be established in order that a recovery may be had;[1] and the defendant even in a statutory action for wrongful attachment is always entitled to show that he acted in good faith for the purpose of avoiding or mitigating exemplary damages.[2]

§ 1000. Merits of Claim or Grounds for Attachment or Garnishment.—It is neither a defense nor a circumstance in mitigation of damages that the claim sued on was a just one if the ground for attachment did not exist, for the claim may be just and yet the attachment be wrongful, and even maliciously wrongful.[3] The rule is fully applicable to counsel fees for defending the attachment.[4]

The fact that the attachment was irregular or void will not screen the plaintiff from liability for wrongful attachment.[5] Nor may such fact be shown in mitigation of damages.[6]

Nor is it a good defense to a recovery of such counsel fees that the effort of the defendant to secure the vacation or dissolution of the attachment was unsuccessful, for the trial court may have exercised its discretion with the intention of deferring the whole matter until final hearing and determination of the issue.[7]

Where the condition of an attachment bond is that the obligors shall pay to the defendant in the attachment all such damages as he may sustain by the wrongful or vexatious suing out of the attachment, the defendant in an action on such bond is not confined in his defense to proof of the existence of the particular ground of attachment averred in the affidavit, but may show the existence of any statutory ground. If any such ground existed, the attachment was not wrongfully sued out and there was consequently no breach of the bond.[8]

---

[15] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 475.

[16] Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 276; 81 Am. Dec. 475.

[17] Grimestad v. Lofgren, 105 Minn. 286, 117 N. W. 515, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 990, 127 Am. St. Rep. 566.
Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 276.

[18] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.
Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 476.

[19] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.
Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 126; 81 Am. Dec. 476.
As to test and proof of probable cause under such a statute, see supra, § 987.

[20] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.
Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 277; 81 Am. Dec. 476.

[1] See supra, § 986.

[2] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Ellis v. Bonner, 80 Tex. 198, 15 S. W. 1045, 26 Am. St. Rep. 731.
Annotation: L.R.A.1918B, 802; 68 Am. St. Rep. 279.

[3] Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A. 1917B, 350.
Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 579, s. 71 A.L.R. 1458; 81 Am. Dec. 476.
A party may have a just cause of action, but no right to an attachment, and he cannot justify a wrongful attachment by a valid action. Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A. 1917B, 350.

[4] Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152.
Annotation: 25 A.L.R 579, s. 71 A.L.R. 1458.

[5] McLean v. Wright, 137 Ala. 644, 35 So. 45, 97 Am. St. Rep. 67; Forrest v. Collier, 20 Ala. 175, 56 Am. Dec. 190 (insufficient affidavit); Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754.
See also supra, § 996, as to estoppel of obligors on bond to question validity of attachment or garnishment as defense to action on bond.

[6] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 476.

[7] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 579, s. 71 A.L.R. 1458.

§ 1001. Defenses in Mitigation of Damages.—Certain defenses are available in mitigation of damages for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment.[9] Generally, the return of the attached or garnished property constitutes such a defense.[10] While it is no defense that other grounds of attachment than those on which the writ was issued and which failed to sustain it existed, such fact may be shown in mitigation of damages.[11] The same may be said where, although the attachment failed, the same property was subsequently seized and sold on another writ for the same debt which was the basis of the former attachment.[12] The defendant is also entitled to plead in mitigation of damages that the plaintiff replevied the goods levied on and afterward sold them and applied the proceeds to the payment of his debt.[13] Advice of counsel may be shown to reduce the amount of punitive damages.[14] The same is true of good faith.[15]

§ 1002. Defenses of Attaching Officer.[16]—A writ of attachment or garnishment valid on its face is sufficient protection to the officer who executed it when sued for seizing the property of the defendant therein, although it might have been avoided on a proper proceeding for a defect in the affidavit on which it was issued.[17] Although a writ of attachment is a valid writ, the officer is liable for wrongful seizure of property not subject to the writ[18] or for acting in excess of his authority.[19] Accordingly, he is liable for the attachment of property of a person other than the one against whom the writ is directed.[20] Nor will an invalid levy of a writ of attachment constitute a defense to the officer.[1]

---

[8] Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[9] Wade v. Ray, 67 Okla. 39, 168 P. 447, L.R.A.1918B, 796.

Where a levy upon growing crops is made in the manner prescribed by statute, the filing with the register of deeds of a notice of the abandonment of the levy does not relieve the attaching creditor from damages subsequently accruing, unless and until actual notice is given to the owner. Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460.

[10] See infra, § 1005.

[11] Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 276; 81 Am. Dec. 476, 480.

[12] Annotation: L.R.A.1918B, 801; 81 Am. Dec. 476, 480.

The right of a defendant in a prior action, whose property was wrongfully attached therein, as plaintiff in an action for damages for such wrong to treat such attachment as a conversion of such property and recover the full value of the same, with interest thereon from the date of such attachment, is not absolute, but is dependent upon his timely election to do so; and when he procures an order dissolving such attachment, and for the return of the property to himself upon the expiration of a stay and supersedeas obtained in anticipation of an appeal therefrom by the plaintiff in the attachment, who is defendant in such subsequent action for damages, and when, immediately after procuring such order, he knowingly suffers such property to be taken on execution in such prior action to satisfy a judgment for debt, obtained by the plaintiff in that action, without in any manner exercising his right of election, or manifesting his purpose to do so, especially where the attachment is not "fraudulent, malicious, or oppressive," the defendant in such latter action is entitled to show, as against the plaintiff's assertion of such right therein and in mitigation of damages, the seizure and sale of such property on such execution, and the application of the proceeds thereof on such judgment. Wade v. Ray, 67 Okla. 39, 168 P. 447, L.R.A.1918B, 796.

In New York, however, the rule is well settled that while the plaintiff in a defective attachment proceeding may show, in mitigation of damages for the wrongful attachment, that he restored the property to the defendant, who accepted the same, or that the property was seized and taken from his possession under valid levies or claims by third persons, yet he cannot show that the property was seized and sold by him under a subsequent valid levy, nor can he offset his claim, or a judgment rendered against the attachment defendant for the same, in mitigation of the damages caused by the wrongful attachment. Annotation: L.R.A.1918B, 802.

[13] Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[14] See supra, § 998.

[15] See supra, § 999.

[16] See SHERIFFS [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 989, §§ 84 et seq.].

[17] Marks v. Shoup, 181 U. S. 562, 45 L. ed.

An attaching officer is not liable to a chattel mortgagee for the alleged conversion of the mortgaged property because, after demand by the latter, he retained possession of the property and made no payment or tender to the mortgagee, but sold the attached goods upon execution for their reasonable value, but for a sum which did not satisfy all the executions, where the demand of the mortgagee did not set out a just and true account of the amount due, and the failure to render such account was not due to accident or mistake, even though the property was found to be worth less than the true amount due.[2]

1002, 21 S. Ct. 724; Matthews v. Densmore, 109 U. S. 216, 27 L. ed. 912, 3 S. Ct. 126.

A constable is not liable to an assignee for money which he collected by garnishment and paid over to the attaching creditor with notice that the title to the fund had been assigned by the attachment debtor before the garnishment was levied, if the garnishee acknowledged that it owed the fund and paid it over as the property of the debtor. Merchants' & M. Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 18 Mont. 335, 45 P. 218, 47 L.R.A. 737, 56 Am. St. Rep. 586.

[18] Matthews v. Densmore, 109 U. S. 216, 27 L. ed. 912, 3 S. Ct. 126; Buck v. Colbath, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 334, 18 L. ed. 257; Rice v. Chase, 9 N. H. 178, 32 Am. Dec. 346.

A person having a right of action against an officer for attaching property by law exempt from seizure does not lose or waive such right by merely declaring to a third person that he did not care for the things taken by the sheriff, that the creditor might have them and welcome, but that he would take good care that he got no more, where no consideration was paid by the creditor or officer and neither of them had, at the time, any knowledge that such declaration had been made; nor does it make any difference that the creditor afterwards heard of the declaration and in consequence proceeded to sell the property attached, especially when such sale was made after the debtor brought his action. Rice v. Chase, 9 N. H. 178, 32 Am. Dec. 346.

[19] Walsh v. Brown, 194 Mass. 317, 80 N. E. 465, 120 Am. St. Rep. 556.

Where an officer having a writ of attachment against a person who owns a business establishment, such as a lunchroom, goes to such room and, in addition to attaching the chattels therein, orders the employees out of the room in the evening, it being run night and day, puts a lock and staple on the door, and leaves a keeper therein during the night, and by thus closing prevents the customers from coming in as before, such acts of expulsion and of locking up are beyond his authority under his writ. Ibid.

[20] North v. Peters, 138 U. S. 271, 34 L. ed. 936, 11 S. Ct. 346; Buck v. Colbath, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 334, 18 L. ed. 257.

A writ commanding a sheriff to levy upon and attach personal property belonging to one named in it does not authorize him to seize the property of any other person; and if he does so, he becomes a trespasser and is unprotected by the law. North v. Peters, 138 U. S. 271, 34 L. ed. 936, 11 S. Ct. 346.

An officer who is directed to levy an attachment upon the property of a person, without describing any specific property, must exercise his judgment and discretion in determining whether the property upon which he proposes to levy belongs to such person, whether it is such as to be subject to be taken under the writ, and as to the quantity to be taken. Moreover, he is legally responsible to any person injured for the consequences of any error therein. Buck v. Colbath, 3 Wall. (U. S.) 334, 18 L. ed. 257.

[1] Marks v. Shoup, 181 U. S. 562, 45 L. ed. 1002, 21 S. Ct. 724; Whittler v. Sharp, 43 Utah, 419, 135 P. 112, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 931.

A levy of an attachment upon goods in the hands of a third person, without leaving a certified copy of the writ and a notice specifying the property attached with the person having possession of the same, is invalid under 1 Hill's Code (Or.) 1887 ed. § 149, subsecs. 2, 3, and constitutes no defense to the officer when sued for taking the goods. Marks v. Shoup, 181 U. S. 562, 45 L. ed. 1002, 21 S. Ct. 724.

If a sheriff levies on mortgaged property without complying with a statute requiring an officer levying on such property to pay or tender the mortgagee the amount of the mortgage debt, he does not incur a legal obligation to pay such debt personally. However, the levy is unauthorized, the seizure is a trespass and the officer is liable for tort and the damages sustained by reason of it. Whittler v. Sharp, 43 Utah, 419, 135 P. 112, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 931.

[2] Magnifico v. Nicholson, 264 Mass. 519, 163 N. E. 156, 63 A.L.R. 572.

The seller or his assignee cannot maintain replevin against the attaching officer unless he has given such officer notice of the amount due, thus giving him an opportunity to redeem from the seller's claim by paying the balance. But where there is no right of redemption, an action may be maintained by the seller against the attaching officer without giving him notice of the plaintiff's claim. Estrich, Instalment Sales, § 485, p. 910.

Generally as to statute requiring adverse claimant of attached property to render

There is no want of good faith in levying on property subject to a chattel mortgage as that of the mortgagor if the mortgage is invalid as to the creditors.[3]

§ 1003. Defenses in Action on Bond.—The general rule is that the obligors on a bond to procure an attachment or garnishment can set up in defense of an action on the bond their discharge of liability thereon,[4] but they cannot set up any defense which they are estopped from making by the nature of their undertaking.[5] Advice of counsel is ordinarily no defense to an action on the bond.[6]

§ 1004. Running of Statute of Limitations.—There is a variation of opinion among the cases as to when the statute of limitations begins to run against an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment, some cases holding the time to be that of the consequential injury[7]—viz., the time of the attachment or garnishment,[8]—others that it is the time of the return of the writ,[9] and others that it is the time of entry of judgment[10] or the conclusion of the attachment suit—that is, when the right of the plaintiff to the attached property is conclusively adjudicated.[11] Under a statute providing that the proceeds of the sale of attached property should be paid into court or otherwise disposed of as the court or judge may order, it was held that the statute did not begin to run until the disobedience by the sheriff of such an order of the court.[12] The correct rule would seem to be that the statute would begin to run from the time when the cause of action arises, but there also is a variation among the authorities as to when it does arise.[13]

B. Damages

1. In General

§ 1005. Generally.—General principles of the law of damages apply fully to damages for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment.[14] Accordingly, the recovery of such damages is generally limited to actual damages sustained, compensatory in nature,[15] naturally and proximately resulting attaching officer an accounting of his claim, see supra, § 969.

---

[3] J. D. Best & Co. v. Wolf Co. 67 Colo. 42, 185 P. 371, 29 A.L.R. 899.

[4] As to discharge of surety, see supra, § 995.

[5] Generally as to such estoppels, see supra, § 996.

[6] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 281.

[7] Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 707.

[8] Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350.

[9] Betts v. Norris, 21 Me. 314, 38 Am. Dec. 264.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 707.

[10] Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 708.

[11] State ex rel. Chatham Nat. Bank v. Finn, 98 Mo. 532, 11 S. W. 994, 14 Am. St. Rep. 654.

[12] Annotation. 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 709.

[13] See supra, § 988.

[14] See Damages [Also 8 R. C. L. p. 414].

[15] Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, 140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981; Crawford v. Staples, 184 Ky. 477, 212 S. W. 119, citing R. C. L.; Mundil v. Hutson, 33 N. M. 388, 268 P. 566, 59 A.L.R. 522; Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460; Floyd v. Anderson, 36 Okla. 308, 128 P. 249, 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 788, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 348; Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448; Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 276; 68 Am. St. Rep. 269; 81 Am. Dec. 472; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1219.

In the absence of fraud, malice, oppression, or other aggravation, damages in an action for a wrongful levy under a writ of attachment are to be measured by the actual injuries suffered. Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Palmer v. United States, 41 App. D. C. 341, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1216. Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121.

All actual damages, compensatory in their nature, such as loss or depreciation in value of property, costs, and expenses, including, under some statutes, a reasonable attorney's fee, and which naturally and proximately result from the attachment, where the order therefor was wrongfully obtained, may be recovered in a suit on the attachment bond. Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, from the wrongful attachment or garnishment.[16] Where the property wrongfully attached is not recovered by the owner, the measure of damages, in the absence of aggravating circumstances, is very generally held to be the value of the property at the time and place of seizure, with lawful interest from such time to the date of trial.[17] Where the property wrongfully levied on is afterward returned to the owner, the damages recoverable are only those caused by the detention of the property. In such a case the return of the goods, though not a bar to the action, must be considered in mitigation of damages.[18]

The above-stated rules and limitations apply to recovery on the attachment or garnishment bond, except that such recovery cannot exceed the penalty named in the bond.[19] This does not, however, mean that an attachment or

140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981; Floyd v. Anderson, 36 Okla. 308, 128 P. 249, 43 L.R.A. (N.S.) 788, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 348.

The giving of a redelivery bond in attachment does not waive the right to recover the actual damages which were caused by wrongfully attaching the property, although the statute provides for a motion for discharge of the attachment because improperly issued. St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569.

[16] Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582; National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326; Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 S. W. 577, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54; Crawford v. Staples, 184 Ky. 477, 212 S. W. 119, citing R. C. L.; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; State v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580; McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 333; Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460; Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319; Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 451; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 276; 68 Am. St. Rep. 268; 81 Am. Dec. 472; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1219.

Because one attachment usually results in subsequent attachments by all of the defendant's creditors, it does not follow, if the first attachment is defeated, that the plaintiff in the first suit is responsible for all damages from the other attachments because of his first attack. Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 S. W. 577, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 816.

Recovery may be had for the wrongful levy of an attachment on real estate if it was the proximate cause of defeating an advantageous sale or trade of the property, pending when the attachment was levied, or known to the plaintiff in attachment to be about to be made, and, in fact, consummated after the levy, without knowledge that the levy had been made, provided the land is shown to have subsequently depreciated in value. Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319.

Where growing crops have been attached and taken by the sheriff from the possession of the owner, and thereafter the attachment is abandoned and canceled, the attaching creditor is liable for damages to the crop which accrue because of weather conditions and marauding animals during the time the crop is held by attachment, when it is shown that at the time of the attachment, the crop was ready for harvesting and the owner was prepared for and was beginning harvesting operations. Kelly v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 460.

The attaching creditor is liable to the owner of a crop attached for loss due to the sheriff's failure to harvest it at the proper time. Ibid.

[17] Carpenter v. Dresser, 72 Me. 377, 39 Am. Rep. 337.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1220.

In defining or qualifying the term "value," the courts have had recourse to various expressions: i. e., "fair cash value," "fair retail value," etc. An instruction defining the value as the value of the property in the retail market has been held error. It has been held that freight paid by the officer should be deducted from the value of the goods levied upon. Annotation: Ann Cas. 1915A, 1221.

The loss resulting from a forced sale, under assignment, is not a natural or proximate consequence of the attachment by the creditor previous to the assignment by the debtor. Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

[18] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1223.

However, in Carpenter v. Dresser, 72 Me. 377, 39 Am. Rep. 337, it was held that in an action of trespass for wrongfully attaching and seizing goods, damages cannot be mitigated by proof of an offer to return the property in the same condition on the next day.

[19] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Bratton v. McReynolds, 125 Kan. 665, 266 P. 31, citing R. C. L.; Rogers v. Abbott, 206 Mass. 270, 92 N. E. 472, 138 Am. St. Rep. 394.

Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 472.

By the common law, when a bond was given for the payment of money, with a defeasance to be void upon the performance of a collateral undertaking, if there was a breach of the condition, the whole penalty was forfeited and might be recovered in an action on the bond. Courts of chancery, however, whose province it was to relieve against forfeitures, would restrain the collection of the penalty and compel the plaintiff to receive such damages as he had actually sustained, and the statute of 8 and 9 Wm. III. dispensed with the necessity of resorting to chancery, by requiring the plaintiff to set out the breaches and show the damages occasioned thereby. Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232. See BONDS [Also 4 R. C. L. p. 45].

garnishment bond limits an attaching or garnishing creditor's liability for his tort to his undertaking and liability on the bond.[20]

In order to recover on an attachment bond, it is not necessary to show that the damages sustained have been paid.[1]

The damages sustained from wrongful attachment would seem to be no different whether the action to recover them is upon the bond, or in a common-law action for wrongful attachment, or by way of counterclaim.[2]

§ 1006. Exemplary Damages.—It may be stated as the prevailing rule that if an attachment, in addition to being wrongful merely, is sued out maliciously or vexatiously and without probable cause, for the purpose of harassing and oppressing, rather than to preserve legal rights, the attachment defendant is entitled to recover exemplary or vindictive damages in addition to his actual damages;[3] if the conditions are otherwise, however, he is not thus entitled.[4] Such damages have been allowed[5] and denied[6] under a variety of circumstances. Before they can be recovered under any circumstances, however, there must be a showing of actual damages; no exemplary damages are recoverable where no actual damages are proved.[7] Mere nominal damages will not satisfy this requirement.[8]

Under the rules of common-law pleading, no other damages can be recovered if the action is brought on the bond. Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; State v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580.

It has been held that a statute entitling the attachment defendants to recover any damage they may have sustained must be construed to mean such damage as is the natural and proximate consequence of the tortious act. No doubt if the action is one of debt or covenant upon the bond itself, the obligors should be held liable for no more than the penalty named in the instrument. Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

Indeed if there is any room for construction it is difficult to see how the sureties may be held liable beyond the penalty which is always taken to be the measure and limit of their responsibility. McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 333. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 472.

[20] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 277.

[1] Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951; Raymond Bros. v. Green, 12 Neb. 215, 10 N. W. 709, 41 Am. Rep. 763.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 579, s. 71 A.L.R. 1458; 81 Am. Dec. 472; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 816.

[2] Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 275.

[3] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96; Samuels v. Davis, 185 Ky. 177, 214 S. W. 904, citing R. C. L. (garnishment); Dickinson v. Maynard, 20 La. Ann. 66, 96 Am. Dec. 379; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; Williams v. Hunter, 10 N. C. (3 Hawks) 545, 14 Am. Dec. 597; Wade v. Ray, 67 Okla. 39, 168 P. 447, L.R.A.1918B, 796; Overton v. Sigmon Furniture Mfg. Co. 50 Okla. 531, 151 P. 215, citing R. C. L.; Ellis v. Bonner, 80 Tex. 198, 15 S. W. 1045, 26 Am. St. Rep. 731; Reed v. Samuels, 22 Tex. 114, 73 Am. Dec. 253.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 273, 274; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 127; 26 Am. St. Rep. 735; 28 Am. St. Rep. 879; 68 Am. St. Rep. 677; 7 Ann. Cas. 547.

Exemplary damages for malicious attachments are allowed as a matter of punishment, and when a proper case is made, the jury is permitted, in assessing the damages, to take into consideration damages too remote to be considered strictly compensatory. Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 280.

[4] Ellis v. Bonner, 80 Tex. 198, 15 S. W. 1045, 26 Am. St. Rep. 731.

[5] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 277.

The seizure under attachment of exempt property, with knowledge of the exemption, is sufficient to allow the recovery of exemplary damages. Cronfeldt v. Arrol, 50 Minn. 327, 52 N. W. 857, 36 Am. St. Rep. 648. Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 278.

Punitive damages are allowable where an attachment was sued out in a case not warranted by law, and on a pretended claim which never existed. Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 277.

An affidavit alleging nonresidence, sworn to without inquiry and recklessly, and executed by an excessive seizure of property, justifies the recovery of exemplary damages. Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 278.

[6] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 277.

The mere levy of an attachment upon real estate, not being attended with any disturbance of the possession, use, or enjoyment by the owner, will not authorize a recovery of actual or exemplary damages. Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319.

[7] Breckenridge Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. Johnson (Tex. Civ. App.) 262 S. W. 1071, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279; 68 Am. St. Rep. 279.

Damages for loss of credit awarded by a jury as exemplary damages cannot be allowed in the absence of a finding of actual damages. Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 451.

[8] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279; 28 Am. St. Rep. 879.

To prevent a recovery of exemplary damages, or to reduce the amount thereof, the defendant is entitled to show, if he can, a variety of matters—anything which discloses an absence of malice, as, for example, that he acted on the advice of competent counsel.[9]

If the attachment was not vexatious as against the defendant himself, the fact that the attaching creditor was actuated by malice against some third person, not a party to the process, affords no ground for the recovery of vindictive damages.[10]

§ 1007. —In Action on Bond.—Exemplary damages are not generally recoverable in an action on the attachment or garnishment bond.[11] The theory of the rule is that the ordinary attachment or garnishment bond is not intended as a mere security for the payment of what may be recovered in an action for malicious prosecution, for if so intended, it should be conditioned for the payment of damages which the defendant might sustain by reason of the attachment having been sued out maliciously and without probable cause.[12] However, in some jurisdictions it is held that exemplary damages may be recovered in an action on the attachment bond where it is shown that the writ was sued out maliciously [13] or without probable cause.[14] The view has been taken that in an action on an attachment bond, exemplary damages may be recovered against the principal in case of a malicious attachment, but not against the sureties unless they are shown to have been actuated by malice in procuring the issuance of the attachment.[15] In a few jurisdictions exemplary damages are recoverable in an action on the bond, and not in an action not on the bond.[16]

§ 1008. Duty to Minimize Damages.—The general rule is that the owner of attached or garnished property must take certain reasonable steps to reduce the damages arising from wrongful attachment.[17] In the few cases discussing the question, the courts, aided in some instances by statute, have taken the position that if the owner is financially able to do so, he must procure the return of his wrongfully attached property by giving a bond, thus reducing the damages from the wrongful attachment.[18] Likewise, it has been held, on a claim for damages by the claimant alleged to have resulted from his being prevented from selling personal property because of its attachment, that it could not truly be said that the attachment prevented its sale, for the court could and would, upon proper application, have made an order for its sale, the proceeds to await the result of the attachment.[19]

---

[9] See supra, §§ 998, 1001.

[10] Wood v. Barker, 37 Ala. 60, 76 Am. Dec. 346.

[11] Floyd v. Anderson, 36 Okla. 308, 128 P. 249, 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 788, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 348.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 275; 81 Am. Dec. 474; Ann. Cas. 1915A, 349.

Punitive damages are not recoverable against the sureties in an ordinary attachment bond in a suit brought on the bond. The damages recoverable on such bond are compensatory in their nature, for instance, damages for loss or depreciation in value of the attached property, interests, costs, and expenses, including, under the Oklahoma statute, reasonable attorneys' fees, which are the proximate results of the attachment, when the order therefor has been wrongfully obtained. Floyd v. Anderson, 36 Okla. 308, 128 P. 249, 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 788, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 348.

[12] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 467.

[13] International Harvester Co. v. Iowa Hardware Co. 146 Iowa, 172, 122 N. W. 951, 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272; Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 644; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 275; L.R.A.1915A, 543.

[14] Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 124; 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282; 68 Am. St. Rep. 277; 81 Am. Dec. 474; Ann. Cas. 1915A, 350.

[15] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915A, 350.

[16] Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350; Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279, 282; 28 Am. St. Rep. 879.

[17] Annotation: 33 A.L.R. 1479; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1222.

See DAMAGES [Also 8 R. C. L. p. 442, § 14].

[18] See supra, § 902.

2. Elements

a. In General

§ 1009. Generally.—Subject to the general rules of limitation stated in the immediately preceding sections, there are numerous elements of recovery for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment which have been considered or rejected by the courts.

§ 1010. Loss of Use of, or Injury to, Property.—The general rule is that loss of the use of,[20] or the injury to[1] or destruction of,[2] property is an element of recovery in an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment.[3] If the value of the property depreciates on account of its seizure, this may be compensated for,[4] but an attaching creditor is not liable for the depreciation in value of real estate levied upon which occurs while the attachment is in force, provided there is no change of possession.[5]

§ 1011. Injury to Business, Credit, Loss of Profits, etc.—There is a difference of opinion as to whether injury to credit can be allowed as an element of damages for wrongful attachment or garnishment. One line of authorities has held that injury to credit is a natural and proximate result of the wrongful attachment or garnishment and therefore has allowed a recovery for such injury without qualification.[6] In other jurisdictions this element has been allowed only in case the attachment proceeding is malicious and without probable cause.[7] In still other jurisdictions the right to recovery is further limited and depends upon the form of action. In actions on the case for suing out the writ maliciously and without probable cause, injury to credit is a proper element of damages, but in actions on the attachment or garnishment bond it is not.[8]

---

[19] Annotation: 33 A.L.R. 1479.

[20] Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350; Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319; Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448; Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 269; 81 Am. Dec. 474.

[1] Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350; Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448.

Annotation: 86 Am. St. Rep. 400.

The value of or damage to goods actually seized is recoverable in an action for wrongful attachment. Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219.

The measure of damages, where the property is returned to the rightful owner, is not the value of the property, but the injuries resulting to the owner pending detention. Palmer v. United States, 41 App. D. C. 341, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1216.

[2] Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350.

Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 473.

In Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350, it was held that in an action for wrongful attachment, the plaintiffs below were entitled to have the jury instructed that they were entitled to the reasonable value of the property destroyed or taken under the attachment and of which they were ultimately deprived.

[3] In an action to recover damages for maliciously suing out an attachment which is not based upon the attachment bond, the measure of damages is merely the reasonable value of the use of the property during the period of its detention, and the injury to it, if any. Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448.

Actual damages for which a recovery may be had include loss occasioned by the deprivation of use of the property pending the attachment, or by the illegal sale of it, or injury to or loss or destruction of it, as well as any depreciation in its value. Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 472, 473.

[4] Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, 140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981; Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661; Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319; Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 473; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1223.

Depreciation in the value of the property and of the prices received, which proximately resulted from the unlawful attachment of the property at a sale, is an element of damages which may be recovered by the owner. Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, 140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981.

Where no contention is made that the property depreciated in value subsequent to a levy thereon, no recovery may be had upon allegations that the attachment prevented a sale of the land and the application of the proceeds to the payment of the owner's debts, or that the negotiation of a loan was prevented thereby. Tsesmelis v. Sinton State Bank (Tex. Com. App.) 53 S. W. (2d) 461, 85 A.L.R. 319.

[5] Tisdale v. Major, 106 Iowa, 1, 75 N. W. 663, 68 Am. St. Rep. 263.

---

[6] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326 (action on bond); Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59 (action for damages); Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350 (holding, however, that the jury should at the same time be admonished that they cannot consider remote, speculative, or conjectural damages).

See also Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582 (action on bond); Pollock v. Gantt, 69 Ala. 378, 44 Am. Rep. 519.

Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 451; Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1221.

At common law, for such loss of credit, breaking up of business, loss of customers, and injury to reputation, etc., resort must be had, to obtain full indemnity, to an action on the case for malicious prosecution. Annotation: 7 Ann. Cas. 548.

A man's financial standing or credit may not be "property," within the technical meaning of that term, but it is something often more valuable, and if it is wrongfully injured or destroyed by another, he may recover whatever pecuniary damages he can prove, by competent testimony under proper pleadings, that he has sustained thereby. Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661.

Damages to credit are special, and not recoverable unless pleaded. Likewise, damages for loss of credit, awarded by a jury as exemplary damages, cannot be allowed in the absence of a finding of actual damages. The extent of damage to credit is ordinarily, it seems, a question for the jury. There can be no recovery for loss of credit for wrongful attachment where the defendant to the attachment had ceased to carry on the business for which such loss is claimed, at the time of the attachment. Likewise, there can be no recovery for loss of credit from a business that at the time of the wrongful attachment had been conveyed to, and was in the hands of, a trustee for the benefit of creditors. Similarly, there can be no recovery for wrongful attachment where the loss of credit resulted from the attachment suit and not from the attachment. Again, where it appears that an attachment reveals, but does not cause, a loss of credit, the same is not recoverable as damages for wrongful attachment. Nor can there be such recovery for a loss of credit caused by the attachment defendant's own conduct, and not by the attachment. Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 455.

In National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326, it was held that injury to credit, loss of profits, diminution of business, or other loss directly attributable to the attachment may be recovered against the surety on an attachment bond breached by reason of the nonexistence of the indebtedness, but the period for computation of such damages ends with the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy by the attachment defendant.

[7] Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830; Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362 (action for damages).

Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 452; 68 Am. St. Rep. 279; Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1222.

[8] Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582; Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 69, 8 Am. Rep. 674 (action for damages); State use of Roe v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580 (action on bond).

Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 453; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 276; Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1223.

In Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 69, 8 Am. Rep. 674, the court said: "It is insisted that an action on the case for maliciously suing out a writ of attachment cannot be maintained. The objection proceeds on the ground that, inasmuch as the statute requires the plaintiff in attachment to give bond, with security, conditioned to pay all damages in case the writ is wrongfully issued, before obtaining the process, the remedy is confined to an action on the bond. We think the objection taken is not tenable, certainly not to the extent insisted upon by the counsel. The remedies by an action on the case and upon the bond may be concurrent to a certain extent. Actual damages, such as direct loss on the property attached, expenses incurred in defense of the suit, may be recovered in an action on the bond. But for loss of credit, breaking up of business, loss of customers, and injury to reputation, resort must be had, to obtain full indemnity, to an action on the case for malicious prosecution, under the common law. . . . The reputation and credit of a man in business is of great value, and is as much within the protection of the law as property or other valuable rights. And if it be true that the appellant has maliciously, by his wrongful act, destroyed the business, credit, and reputation of the appellee, the law will require him to make good the loss sustained."

The injury to a vendee's credit, resulting from the bringing of actions by his vendor for a breach of contract and for a balance due thereunder, and any loss of profits be-

A contrary rule has been followed in other jurisdictions, and the courts have refused to consider injury to credit through a wrongful attachment or garnishment as a recoverable element of damages, even though the attachment is malicious.[9]

Recovery for loss of profits or diminution of business has been held to be proper.[10] Some distinction has been based upon the form of action. Where the action is specifically for conversion of the attached goods, loss of profits or injury to business is not to be considered in estimating damages,[11] but where the action is for trespass, and it appears that the property attached was a stock of merchandise kept for sale, recovery may be had not only for the value of the goods, but for the loss of profits.[12] Again, the rule has been stated that damages are recoverable for a reasonably certain and measurable loss of profits.[13]

§ 1012. Injury to Character, Mental Suffering, Sickness, Humiliation, etc.—The cases are conflicting as to the allowability, in an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment, of damages for mental suffering, injury to feelings, humiliation, injury to character, sickness, etc.,[14] some cases allow-cause of the vendor's refusal to make further deliveries under the contract, are not elements of damages recoverable in a suit on the attachment bonds issued in such actions. Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582.

---

[9] Door Cattle Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 127 Iowa, 153, 98 N. W. 918, 102 N. W. 836, 4 Ann. Cas. 519 (action for damages); Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219 (action for damages); Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448 (action for damages); Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156 (action on bond).

Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 457; Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1225.

In Melcher v. Clark, 145 Wash. 95, 258 P. 1032, 54 A.L.R. 448, the court cites Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156, holding that injury to credit is not an element of damages in an action on the attachment bond, and says that it must follow that injury to commercial credit is not an element of damages for a malicious and wrongful attachment, where the action is one at law for damages.

In Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219, an action against an attaching creditor to recover on his general liability for a wrongful attachment, the court held that the damage to the plaintiff's credit, if any, was too uncertain and speculative a matter to be left to the jury.

As elements of damage for the wrongful suing out of an attachment on mining property, injury to the credit and business of the attachment defendant and the loss of property through sales under judgments secured by its employees for wages due at the time of the levy are not proper elements of damage, where the defendant's possession and mining operations were not disturbed by the levy of the writ. Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951.

A witness may testify to the extent of a merchant's business and to the rate or average of profits he may realize on sales, above expenses, if these are matters within his knowledge; but he cannot give his judgment or opinion as to the extent of loss a merchant will suffer by the breaking up of his business. Pollock v. Gantt, 69 Ala. 373, 44 Am. Rep. 519.

Proof was offered by the plaintiff, and received by the court, against the objection of the defendants, that the plaintiff was making advances to timbermen and others, and that thereby he had become interested in the handling of timber and crops; and his mercantile business being stopped, he lost these advantages, lost his advances, and lost the shipment of his timber. These matters of proof were inadmissible. There was no averment in the complaint to authorize them, and if there had been, the damages claimed on those accounts are speculative and too remote. Ibid.

[10] National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326; Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219.

[11] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1222.

[12] Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661. But see Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 54, s. 46 L.R.A. (N.S.) 470; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1222.

A loss of profits is a result which may be reasonably, naturally, and ordinarily expected to follow from the closing up of a merchant's place of business and the seizure of his goods. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661.

[13] Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219; Wellington v. Spencer, 37 Okla. 461, 132 P. 675, 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 469; State ex rel. Mundy v. Andrews, 39 W. Va. 35, 19 S. E. 385, 45 Am. St. Rep. 884.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 54, s. 46 L.R.A. (N.S.) 470.

[14] Foley v. Union House Furnishing Co. 228 Mo. App. 1063, 60 S. W. (2d) 725, citing R. C. L. (holding such damages allowable).

ing such damages, at least where the attaching creditor acted maliciously, on the theory that otherwise the attachment defendant does not receive full compensation for the wrong done,[15] and other cases holding the contrary, at least as to wrongful attachment or garnishment, on the theory that such damages are too remote and speculative.[16]

§ 1013. Interest.—In actions for damages for wrongful attachment or garnishment of property, and for converting the same, the general rule is that the owner is entitled to interest on the value of the property from the time of the illegal attachment or garnishment.[17] In at least two jurisdictions, however, the allowance of interest lies in the discretion of the jury or of the court, when sitting without a jury.[18] In other jurisdictions, usually by statute, a plaintiff is entitled to interest whenever he elects to take the value at the time of the conversion, but when he elects to take a higher value as of a later time, interest is not allowed.[19] However, in a few jurisdictions a plaintiff is held

---

[15] Malone v. Belcher, 216 Mass. 209, 103 N. E. 637, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 830 (injuries to feelings); Friel v. Plumer, 69 N. H. 498, 43 A. 618, 76 Am. St. Rep. 190.

Damages for sickness have been held recoverable. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1221.

[16] Tisdale v. Major, 106 Iowa, 1, 75 N. W. 663, 68 Am. St. Rep. 263; Galloway v. Morris (Tex. Civ. App.) 249 S. W. 284, citing R. C. L.; Fish v. Nethercutt, 14 Wash. 582, 45 P. 44, 53 Am. St. Rep. 892 (personal humiliation or sense of wrong, in the absence of malice or wilful oppression); Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885 (feelings).

Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 272.

[17] Morey v. Hoyt, 62 Conn. 542, 26 A. 127, 19 L.R.A. 611 (holding, in an action to recover damages for the wrongful taking and detention of a power plant and machinery under attachments, that where the property was subsequently returned, interest upon its value during the time of the detention was not an erroneous measure of damages); Winslow v. Norton, 29 Me. 419, 50 Am. Dec. 601 (holding, where property in transit was attached as the property of the consignee after he had assigned the bills of lading therefor, that the plaintiff was entitled to interest on the value of the property, less the freight, from the time of the conversion); Sargent v. Franklin Ins. Co. 8 Pick. (Mass.) 90, 19 Am. Dec. 306 (holding, where an insurance company refused to enter a transfer of its shares to an assignee thereof, and attached and sold such shares as the property of the assignor, that the measure of damages was the value of the shares at the time when the demand for their transfer was made and refused, with interest from such time); Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

Annotation: 96 A.L.R. 109; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1223.

[18] Winstead v. Hicks, 135 Ky. 154, 121 S. W. 1018, 135 Am. St. Rep. 446 (holding, in an action for damages for a wrongful levy upon exempt personal property, that in trover, in addition to the value of the property, the plaintiff may recover interest thereon, in the discretion of the jury, from the time of the conversion); Sanders v. Vance, 7 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 209, 18 Am. Dec. 167 (holding, in trover for the conversion of domestic animals and other personal property by a wrongful levy, that the measure of damages was the value of the property at the time of the conversion, and, where the jury in its discretion allowed it, interest from the time of the conversion to the time of the trial, and that an instruction to the jury to allow interest as a matter of law was error).

In Missouri, by express statutory provision applicable to conversion cases, interest is allowable as part of the damages only in the discretion of the jury. It also appears that the petition must lay a foundation for the recovery of interest by praying therefor. But where the action is on an indemnity bond, interest may be recovered as a matter of legal right, the case being then one in contract rather than in tort. Annotation: 96 A.L.R. 114.

[19] Woodworth v. Gorsline, 3 Colo. 186, 69 P. 705, 58 L.R.A. 417 (holding, in an action by a mortgagee for a wrongful levy on a law library and bookcases covered by the mortgage, that an instruction that when the plaintiff recovered judgment for the value at the time of the taking, he was entitled to legal interest from the date of the taking to the date of trial, was correct); Ingram v. Rankin, 47 Wis. 406, 2 N. W. 755, 32 Am. Rep. 762 (holding, in an action to recover the value of hay and grain which had been wrongfully taken under execution, that the measure of damages was, first, the value at the time of the conversion, with interest to the date of the trial; second, where the defendant had sold the property, the plaintiff might at his election recover the amount for which it was sold, with interest from the time of the sale; third, if the chattels were still in the possession of the defendant, the plaintiff might, at his election, recover the present value of the property at the place of conversion, and in the form it was in when converted; these rules having effect to prevent the defendant from making any profit from his wrong).

In Montana, by statutory provision, a plaintiff, where he has prosecuted the action with reasonable diligence, may elect whether he will have as his damages for the conversion the value of the property at the time of the conversion, with interest from that time until trial, or the highest market value between the time of converentitled to interest no matter as of what time the value of the controverted property is assessed.[20]

Legal interest should be allowed under an attachment bond upon the amount recovered as damages for the wrongful suing out of the attachment.[1]

b. Costs and Attorneys' Fees as Elements of Recovery

§ 1014. For Defending Attachment or Garnishment.[2]—The weight of opinion is that the costs of defending a wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment, as distinguished from the action on its merits, including reasonable attorneys' fees, constitute a proper element of damages in an action based upon the wrongful attachment or garnishment.[3] The rule is applicable whether the action is brought on the bond or in tort for the wrongful attachment or garnishment.[4] Recoverable attorneys' fees are limited to those actually paid sion and the trial, without interest; but he must make his election, and cannot have the jury instructed under both measures of damages. In some early cases, however, interest was denied. Annotation: 96 A.L.R. 115.

---

In Oklahoma ordinarily the measure of damages in cases of conversion is the value of the converted property at the time of the conversion, plus interest on such value from that time, but where the plaintiff has fulfilled the requirement of reasonable diligence in the prosecution of his suit, and elects to take the highest market value between the conversion and the trial, interest is not allowed. Annotation: 96 A.L.R. 119.

[20] Milner & K. Co. v. De Loach Mill Mfg. Co. 139 Ala. 645, 36 So. 765, 101 Am. St. Rep. 63 (holding, where an engine and boiler were attached as the property of a person who did not own them, and sold, that a charge to the jury to allow interest on the value of the property from the date of the levy until the trial was not error); Fish v. Nethercutt, 14 Wash. 582, 45 P. 44, 53 Am. St. Rep. 892 (holding, in an action for damages for a wrongful levy of execution upon certain property, that the measure of damages was the value of the property when taken, or at such time as the plaintiff might elect between the time of the taking and the bringing of the action, with interest thereon).

South Carolina follows this rule. See annotation: 96 A.L.R. 119.

[1] St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569.

[2] As to costs of suit for wrongful attachment or garnishment, see infra, § 1040.

[3] Any expenses to which the plaintiff was put in obtaining a return of the goods, including what he was obliged to pay for costs in the illegal judgments, and the alleged sheriff's fees charged for executing the illegal executions, expenses to which he had been put by way of rent of the store and clerk's hire while the defendant was in possession of the store, and money that he was compelled to expend for counsel and attorneys' fees in the proceedings to set aside the illegal judgments and executions are recoverable. Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885.

[4] Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582 (action on bond); Java Cocoanut Oil Co. v. Fidelity & D. Co. (C. C. A. 9th) 300 F. 302, 39 A.L.R. 523 (action on bond); W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467 (action for damages); Moseley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 33 Idaho, 37, 189 P. 862, 25 A.L.R. 564 (action on bond); Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 68, 8 Am. Rep. 674; Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, 140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981 (action on bond); Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152 (action on bond); Dickinson v. Maynard, 20 La. Ann. 66, 96 Am. Dec. 379; Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United States Fidelity & C. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951 (action on bond); Raymond Bros. v. Green, 12 Neb. 215, 10 N. W. 709, 41 Am. Rep. 763 (action on bond); McIntosh v. Knox, 40 Nev. 403, 165 P. 337, citing R. C. L.; Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350 (action on bond); Floyd v. Anderson, 36 Okla. 308, 128 P. 249, 43 L.R.A.(N.S.) 788, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 348 (action on bond); First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809; St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569 (action on bond); Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156 (action on bond); Anderson v. Sloane, 72 Wis. 566, 40 N. W. 214, 7 Am. St. Rep. 885; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 580, s. 71 A.L.R. 1459; 68 Am. St. Rep. 274; 81 Am. Dec. 473; 10 Ann. Cas. 954; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 815.

The bond required to be given on the granting of an attachment usually stipulates that the attachment plaintiff shall be liable to the defendant for such damages as are caused by the wrongful suing out of the writ; and it is held that counsel fees paid in procuring the discharge of an attachment are clearly within the meaning of such a stipulation. Annotation: 10 Ann. Cas. 954.

The premium paid for a refunding bond executed to secure the release of money wrongfully attached may be allowed as damages against the one securing the attachment. Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052.

In First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809, the court holds that attorneys' fees expended or contracted to be paid, and to those that are reasonable in amount.[5] A recovery of such costs is sometimes provided for by statute.[6] The right to such recovery may exist notwithstanding the plaintiff's cause of action is just, since the attachment may, nevertheless, be wrongful.[7] Within the meaning of the terms "costs" and "expenses" are included disbursements in procuring the discharge of the attachment and the return of the property, and in obtaining testimony in the principal action, and the technical costs of that action on appeal as well as in the trial court.[8] in procuring the dissolution of a wrongful attachment on the plaintiff's property are recoverable as an element of damage in an action for wrongful attachment; but the court expressly confined the allowance of the fees by stating: "We hold that such fees are only allowable, not for procuring a dissolution of injunction, or attachment, by a fight on the merits, but by motion, or otherwise, before a trial on the merits is had."

---

An undertaking to pay damages sustained by the defendant by reason of the attachment, if wrongfully obtained, was held, in Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152, to cover attorneys' fees for services in procuring a discharge of the attachment, as against the contention that the damages referred to were only such as arose from a deprivation of the use of the property, or in consequence of its removal.

In New York a motion to vacate a warrant of attachment invalid on its face, or which the defendant is entitled as a matter of law to have vacated, must be made in order to entitle the defendant in the attachment suit to recover legal expenses in defending the action, such as counsel fees, as damages sustained by reason of the attachment. Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455; 7 Carmody, N. Y. Prac. p. 599.

[5] International Harvester Co. v. Iowa Hardware Co. 146 Iowa, 172, 122 N. W. 951, 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272; Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951; Raymond Bros. v. Greene, 12 Neb. 215, 10 N. W. 709, 41 Am. Rep. 763; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 583, s. 71 A.L.R. 1459.

Only a reasonable fee for procuring a dissolution of the attachment can be recovered in an action for wrongful attachment, irrespective of the amount paid counsel. Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

Although the defendant in an attachment suit may employ numerous attorneys to defend the attachment, no more should be allowed for attorneys' fees because of the wrongful attachment than the services rendered are reasonably worth, whether rendered by one or more than one attorney. Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 600, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.

Under a statute providing that in an action on the attachment bond the court should fix the actual damages sustained, including reasonable attorneys' fees, and providing also for exemplary damages if the attachment was sued out maliciously, it was held that the reasonable attorneys' fees which the court is authorized to fix are not limited to those reasonable with reference to the actual damages sustained, but that if actual damages are shown, and the jury finds that the attachment was sued out maliciously, and allows exemplary damages on that account, attorneys' fees may be fixed with reference to the entire amount recovered as damages on the attachment bond. International Harvester Co. v. Iowa Hardware Co. 146 Iowa, 172, 122 N. W. 951, 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272.

There is some authority to the effect that the fees must be actually paid. Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 597, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.

[6] Moseley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 33 Idaho, 37, 189 P. 862, 25 A.L.R. 564; Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754.

Under an Idaho statute, one against whom an attachment has wrongfully issued is entitled to recover as a part of his damages therefor, from the surety on the attachment bond, the necessary expenses incurred by him in defending against such attachment. Moseley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 33 Idaho, 37, 189 P. 862, 25 A.L.R. 564.

[7] Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 583, s. 71 A.L.R. 1459.

In Trapnall v. McAfee, 3 Met. (Ky.) 34, 77 Am. Dec. 152, the attachment was levied only upon land, of which the defendant was not deprived of the use or occupation, and the only expense or damage to which he was subjected by reason of the attachment was the employment of counsel to defend the same; it was held that such attorneys' fees might be recovered notwithstanding there was no defense to the action on the merits, but judgment was rendered by default and satisfied by payment. Thus, the case apparently supports the doctrine that even though there is no defense to the action on its merits, and judgment is rendered against the defendant by default, if there is a wrongful attachment, the defendant, in an action on the bond, may recover attorneys' fees for procuring the discharge of the attachment, although it is on land, and he is not deprived of its use or occupation, and sustains no expense or damage from the attachment except for the employment of counsel to defend the same.

[8] W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467; First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809.

Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 269; 81 Am. Dec. 473; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 815.

In W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467, it was held that one whose automobile is wrongfully attached must, if able, in order to reduce damages, give bond and secure

The right is not lost by a removal of the cause to a Federal court.[9] The question is one of local law, the Federal courts following the decisions of the state courts where the question has been decided.[10]

In a few cases the allowance of any attorneys' fees whatever for a wrongful attachment has been denied, the courts following the general rule by which the successful litigant is not ordinarily entitled to recover such fees, in the absence of special statute or stipulation.[11] At least, the view is taken that this is the rule where there is no proof that the attachment was sued out through malice and without probable cause.[12]

It seems that attorneys' fees or other expenses of the defendant in attachment, in defending against the attachment, cannot be recovered in an action on the attachment bond if no part of the defendant's property is seized, but the property attached belongs to another.[13]

There is a difference of opinion as to whether recovery can be had for services in the appellate court. However, if it is necessary to defend against the attachment in the appellate court, there seems to be no good reason why attorneys' fees for services rendered in relation to the attachment in that court as well as in the trial court should not be included as an item of damages for the wrongful attachment, and the authorities are to this effect.[14]

§ 1015. For Defending Main Action on Its Merits.—Although there is authority allowing a recovery,[15] as a general rule, attorneys' fees for defending the main suit on its merits cannot be recovered as an element of damages for a wrongful attachment or garnishment, whether or not such action is brought upon the bond, the recovery of such fees being limited to those for services relating to the attachment or garnishment proper,[16] at least in the absence of peculiar circumstances requiring such recovery in a particular its return, and, therefore, the measure of damages for the wrongful attachment is merely the cost of the bond plus the value of the use of the car during the time necessary to secure its return.

---

[9] Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 587, s. 71 A.L.R. 1460.

[10] See Java Cocoanut Oil Co. v. Fidelity & D. Co. (C. C. A. 9th) 300 F. 302, 39 A.L.R. 523.

If there is no controlling state decision, the rule in the Federal courts seems to be that attorneys' fees are not items of damages for which a surety on an attachment bond becomes liable,—this doctrine being applied where the fees are for prosecuting a motion for an order dissolving the attachment, as well as for defending the action on the merits. Annotation: 71 A.L.R. 1459.

[11] Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. W. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052; Stringfield v. Hirsch, 94 Tenn. 425, 29 S. W. 609, 45 Am. St. Rep. 733.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 584, s. 71 A.L.R. 1460; 68 Am. St. Rep. 274; 10 Ann. Cas. 955; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 816.

[12] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 584, s. 71 A.L.R. 1460; 10 Ann. Cas. 955; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 816.

[13] Annotation: 71 A.L.R. 1464.

However, in Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455, in which recovery of attorneys' fees was permitted, a part of the property attached consisted of securities which had been loaned to the defendant by his mother.

[14] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 86, s. 71 A.L.R. 1460.

[15] Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

[16] Java Cocoanut Oil Co. v. Fidelity & D. Co. (C. C. A. 9th) 300 F. 302, 39 A.L.R. 523; Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 S. W. 577, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54; Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455 (bond); St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156 (bond).

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 587, s. 71 A.L.R. 1460; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 816.

Attorneys' fees for defending the principal action cannot, in the absence of statute, be allowed under an attachment bond, where there was no motion to dissolve the attachment, although the statute provides for an allowance of all damages which the defendant may sustain by reason of the attachment. St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569.

A defendant in an attachment suit, after defeating the action upon its merits, cannot recover upon the attachment bond for attorneys' fees and expenses incurred by him in defending the main suit, where he did not own the property attached. Tebo v. Betancourt, 73 Miss. 868, 19 So. 833, 55 Am. St. Rep. 573. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 816.

case.[17] The rule is applied with vigor where the defense of the main action was unnecessary to defeat the attachment.[18]

§ 1016. —Where Defense of Main Action Necessary to Defeat Attachment.— The majority view is that recovery of expenses for defending the attachment or garnishment suit on its merits is proper where it is necessary to defeat the main action in order to defeat the attachment.[19]

§ 1017. —Where Property Is Attached or Garnished on Ground of Nonresidence.—The cases are not in accord on the question whether attorneys' fees in the main action may be recovered as damages for wrongful attachment where property of a nonresident is attached on the ground of such nonresidence.[20] One line of cases holds that the fact that jurisdiction of an action against a foreign corporation is secured by attachment of its property does not entitle it to recover on the attachment bond the attorneys' fees for defending the principal action.[1] The majority view seems to be that attorneys' fees should be allowed for defending the attachment suit if it appears that such defense was necessary on the part of the nonresident defendant to defeat the attachment.[2] But it has been held that attorneys' fees for defending the attachment suit cannot be recovered as damages for wrongful attachment where no property of the nonresident defendant, who appeared and successfully defended the suit on its merits, was attached, the only property seized being that of his wife, since under these circumstances, he occupied merely the position and had only the rights of a defendant in an ordinary action.[3]

---

[17] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120.

The Iowa statute (Code, § 2961) provides that "in an action on such bond, the plaintiff therein may recover if he shows that the attachment was wrongfully sued out, and that there was no reasonable cause to believe the ground upon which the same was issued to be true, the actual damages sustained, and reasonable attorneys' fees, to be fixed by the court." But it has been held that under the statute, attorneys' fees for defending the main suit could not be recovered in an action upon the attachment bond, in the absence of peculiar circumstances requiring it in a particular case. Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120.

[18] Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 592, s. 71 A.L.R. 1462.

Expenses incurred in defending on the merits a suit in which a warrant of attachment invalid on its face was levied are not recoverable as damages sustained by reason of the attachment, since the attachment might have been vacated on proper motion without incurring such expenses. Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455.

[19] Moseley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 33 Idaho, 37, 189 P. 862, 25 A.L.R. 564; Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, 140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981; Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455.

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 592, s. 71 A.L.R. 1462.

In Parish v. Van Arsdale-Osborne Brokerage Co. 92 Kan. 286, 140 P. 835, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 981, it was said: "No preliminary motion was made to dissolve the attachment, but the question of whether there was a debt which was justly due was tested on the final trial, and it was then determined that there was no indebtedness, and consequently an order was made, vacating and setting aside the attachment. To obtain the attachment, the appellant made an affidavit that it had a claim against the appellee for a certain amount which was justly due. In order to establish that there was no basis for this claim, and that the appellee was not indebted to the appellant in any amount, a trial of the merits was necessary. There might have been a preliminary motion to dissolve the attachment on the ground that the averments of the affidavit were not true and that there was no indebtedness, but the same proof would have been necessary on that motion as on the final trial that was had. Just such a trial as was had was necessary to get rid of the illegal attachment and to free the property from the apparent lien; and as the fees in question were expended in accomplishing this purpose, they were proper elements of damages."

A motion to vacate the attachment is not essential to hold the surety on the attachment bond liable for attorneys' fees for defending the action on the merits, if there is no reasonable chance of success of such a motion. Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455.

However, the rule in the Federal court, as laid down in Java Cocoanut Oil Co. v. Fidelity & D. Co. (C. C. A. 9th) 300 F. 302, 39 A.L.R. 523, is that counsel fees for defeating the principal action are not recoverable in an action on the attachment bond, even though the attachment is regular upon its face and can only be discharged by defeating the principal action by a trial upon the merits. It seems, from the division of the cases made by the court, that there is ground for a distinction where the court acquires jurisdiction by attachment without personal service of process. The case arose in California, the view being taken that there were no controlling decisions in that state.

[20] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 594, s. 71 A.L.R. 1462.

[1] St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. v. Love, 57 Utah, 450, 195 P. 305, 25 A.L.R. 569.

[2] Moseley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 33 Idaho, 37, 189 P. 862, 25 A.L.R. 564; Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo.

§ 1018. Apportionment of Fees Where Same Counsel Serves in Attachment and Main Proceedings.—If, as is usual, the same attorney who renders services having for their special object the dissolution of the attachment also defends the main case on its merits, and the contract of employment is for the entire proceeding, the general rules above indicated require an apportionment of the fees according to the two kinds of services rendered; and while this may be difficult in a particular case, such apportionment seems not impracticable and has been made in a number of cases. Of course, the defendant in the attachment suit who seeks damages on the ground of the wrongful attachment must prove the value of the services relating directly to the attachment itself.[4]

C. Practice and Procedure

1. In General

§ 1019. Generally.—Practice is not uniform with respect to the recovery of damages for wrongful attachment or garnishment. Damages for merely wrongful attachment or garnishment are, according to the general rule, recoverable in an independent action on the attachment or garnishment bond.[5] The majority rule is that such an action may also be brought independently of the bond.[6] Such an action may be brought where the attachment or garnishment is malicious,[7] irrespective of any statutory requirements relating to the attachment bond.[8]

392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513 (counterclaim).

Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 594, s. 71 A.L.R. 1462.

Where the defendant was compelled to try the case on its merits in order that he might relieve his property of the attachment lien, the ground of the attachment being the nonresidence of the defendant, it has been held that he could recover as damages for wrongful attachment his attorneys' fees in defending the attachment suit. Moseley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 33 Idaho, 37, 189 P. 862, 25 A.L.R. 564 (action on bond); Thropp v. Erb, 255 N. Y. 75, 174 N. E. 67, 71 A.L.R. 1455 (bond).

[3] Tebo v. Betancourt, 73 Miss. 868, 19 So. 833, 55 Am. St. Rep. 573.

[4] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 593, s. 71 A.L.R. 1462.

[5] Fidelity & D. Co. v. L. Bucki & Son Lumber Co. 189 U. S. 135, 47 L. ed. 744, 23 S. Ct. 582; National Surety Co. v. Jean (C. C. A. 6th) 36 F. (2d) 468, 68 A.L.R. 1326; Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; State use of Roe v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580; Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232 (garnishment); McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 333; Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635; Gordon v. Kentucky Midland Coal Co. 152 Tenn. 367, 278 S. E. 68, 42 A.L.R. 1052; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 657, 659.

[6] W. J. Kelley v. Stockgrowers Credit Corp. — N. D. —, 263 N. W. 717, 103 A.L.R. 461; Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635; Lamb v. Day, 8 Vt. 407, 30 Am. Dec. 479; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 659; 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 122; 68 Am. St. Rep. 268; 81 Am. Dec. 467.

This is, of course, the practice where no attachment bond is required or given. See supra, § 901.

[7] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10; Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 68, 8 Am. Rep. 674; Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; State use of Roe v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580; Marsh v. Steele, 9 Neb. 96, 1 N. W. 869, 31 Am. Rep. 406; Friel v. Plumer, 69 N. H. 498, 43 A. 618, 76 Am. St. Rep. 190; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350; Ailstock v. Moore Lime Co. 104 Va. 565, 52 S. E. 213, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1100, 113 Am. St. Rep. 1060, 7 Ann. Cas. 545; Shaver v. White, 6 Munf. (Va.) 110, 8 Am. Dec. 730; Veitch v. Cebell, 105 Wis. 260, 81 N. W. 411, 76 Am. St. Rep. 914 (garnishment).

Compare Perez v. Fernandez, 202 U. S. 80, In some jurisdictions the strict common-law rule[9] is followed, and, in order to sustain an action independently of the bond, malice and want of probable cause are required where the property seized was not exempt from seizure under attachment.[10] If the plaintiff cannot show this, he must rely upon his statutory right of action which may confine him to a recovery on the attachment bond.[11] The attachment debtor's right of action against his attachment creditor for suing out, maliciously and without probable cause, a writ of attachment is not, according to the general rule, limited or regulated by the statutes authorizing and regulating the writ; the statutory protection is in addition to that afforded at common law.[12] The matter is one of election between remedies.[13]

In some jurisdictions, largely under the provisions of statutes, damages arising from the merely wrongful, and not malicious, issuance or levy of an attachment or garnishment may be recovered in the original action in which the attachment or garnishment was issued.[14] In other jurisdictions, however, it is held that no such recovery can be had in that suit.[15]

---

50 L. ed. 942, 26 S. Ct. 561, construing Puerto Rico Code.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 662.

In Ailstock v. Moore Lime Co. 104 Va. 565, 52 S. E. 213, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1100, 113 Am. St. Rep. 1060, 7 Ann. Cas. 545, the court held that an action for damages could be maintained for maliciously suing out and levying an attachment from a court which was without jurisdiction.

[8] Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10; Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; Marsh v. Steele, 9 Neb. 96, 1 N. W. 869, 31 Am. Rep. 406.

Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 273; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 122.

[9] See supra, § 984.

[10] Mullen v. Sanborn, 79 Md. 364, 29 A. 522, 25 L.R.A. 721, 47 Am. St. Rep. 415 (holding that an independent suit must first be brought, but that in most cases compensation for wrongful attachment can only be had from the bond); Lawing v. Schaufflu, 162 Tenn. 79, 34 S. W. (2d) 1055, 85 A.L.R. 633. Compare Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 661.

In Lawing v. Schaufflu, 162 Tenn. 79, 34 S. W. (2d) 1055, 85 A.L.R. 633, it was held that in the absence of statute authorizing the practice, the successful defendant in an attachment suit is not entitled to an assessment therein of damages for the wrongful issuance and levy of the attachment, but must bring an original suit upon the attachment bond.

[11] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 661.

[12] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 390, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 68, 8 Am. Rep. 674; Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 663.

And see supra, § 985.

[13] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59; Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10; Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 68, 8 Am. Rep. 674; State use of Roe v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580; Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635; Allith-Prouty Co. v. Wallace, 32 Wyo. 392, 233 P. 144, 234 P. 504, 39 A.L.R. 513 (implied).

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 660, 663; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 273.

In Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635, the court held that the attachment defendant could maintain an independent action on the attachment bond, and that the statute permitting recovery in the attachment suit was not exclusive.

Upon the dissolution of an attachment, the aggrieved party may elect to sue upon the bond or waive the bond and sue the attaching plaintiff for wrongful attachment. If the proceedings were malicious and instituted without probable cause, the defendant can await the termination of the main action and sue for malicious prosecution. Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350.

[14] Perez v. Fernandez, 202 U. S. 80, 50 L. ed. 942, 26 S. Ct. 561 (stating the law of Puerto Rico); Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 S. W. 377, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54; Willman v. Friedman, 4 Idaho, 209, 38 P. 937, 95 Am. St. Rep. 59; Oklahoma State Bank v. Reed, 143 Okla. 131, 288 P. 281, 85 A.L.R. 635.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 645.

Where the jury in the main action finds for the defendant, or the plaintiff is nonsuited, the jury should specially assess the damages sustained by reason of the wrongful attachment. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 647.

Under the statutes of Arkansas, it has been held that damages may be assessed against the attachment plaintiff on the dissolution of the attachment. Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 S. W. 577, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54.

[15] Lawing v. Schaufflu, 162 Tenn. 79, 34 S. W. (2d) 1055, 85 A.L.R. 633; Elder v. Massachusetts Mortg. Co. 159 Wash. 450, 293 P. 711, 85 A.L.R. 638.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 646.

In Lawing v. Schaufflu, 162 Tenn. 79, 34 S. W. (2d) 1055, 85 A.L.R. 633, the court held that where a plea in abatement to an attachment was sustained and the attach-

The liability of the obligors in a bond given to procure an attachment may be enforced in the action in which the attachment was issued in some jurisdictions,[16] but in other jurisdictions the bond cannot be enforced in that suit.[17] The view has been taken in some jurisdictions that an attachment defendant may recover damages for the malicious suing out of an attachment or garnishment in the original action in which the attachment was sued out,[18] but in others it has been held that no such recovery can be had in that action.[19]

§ 1020. —Set-off, Counterclaim, Reconvention, Cross Complaint, Recoupment, Plea in Abatement, etc.—The majority rule is that there can be no recovery in the attachment or garnishment suit of damages for wrongful attachment on a plea of counterclaim,[20] set-off,[1] recoupment,[2] reconvention,[3] or cross complaint.[4] However, in some jurisdictions such recovery has been allowed in the attachment or garnishment suit on a plea of counterclaim,[5] set-off,[6] reconvention,[7] or cross complaint.[8] In some jurisdictions an attachment

---

ment suit was dismissed, the defendant in attachment could not have her damages assessed in the attachment suit, but was limited to an action on the attachment bond. The court further held that Shannon's Code, §§ 5347, 5348, did not authorize assessment of damages on motion in an attachment suit, but referred only to summary judgments against delinquent officials.

In Elder v. Massachusetts Mortg. Co. 159 Wash. 450, 293 P. 711, 85 A.L.R. 638, the court cited with approval earlier Washington decisions to the effect that a claim of damages for wrongful attachment was not a proper subject for adjudication in the action in which the attachment was issued.

[16] Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 S. W. 577, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54.
Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 646.

[17] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 647.

[18] Perez v. Fernandez, 202 U. S. 80, 50 L. ed. 942, 26 S. Ct. 561 (stating the law of Puerto Rico).
Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 647; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 274.

In Texas it has been held that exemplary damages can be recovered under a plea of reconvention in the attachment suit. Reed v. Samuels, 22 Tex. 114, 73 Am. Dec. 253.

[19] Goodbar v. Lindsley, 51 Ark. 380, 11 N. W. 577, 14 Am. St. Rep. 54.
Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 647.

[20] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 648, 664.

The theory of the rule is that a cause of action for damages sustained by the defendant by reason of an attachment wrongfully levied on his property does not arise out of the contract or transaction set forth in the complaint as a foundation of the plaintiff's claim, and is not connected with the subject of the action. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 651.

[1] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 654.

In Pennsylvania, the rule stated in the text is followed. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 655. See also Standard Pa. Prac. Vol. 10.

[2] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 655.

[3] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 655.

In Louisiana it has been held that an attachment defendant cannot institute a demand in reconvention for damages arising from the wrongful issuance and levy of an attachment where the plaintiff and the defendant reside in the same parish, but resident defendants have been permitted to recover damages against a foreign corporation under a plea in reconvention in the attachment suit. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 655.

[4] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 656.

[5] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 651.

Such remedy is in the nature of a cross bill pleaded by the attachment defendant in his answer, in which he assumes the position of plaintiff in reconvention and alleges a claim for whatever damages he has suffered by reason of the wrongful attachment. And although the damages are dependent upon the decision in the attachment suit and cannot be known to exist at all until such judgment has been rendered, yet it is claimed that justice is more readily administered and business expedited by trying both issues together, to the end that the court, when vacating the attachment, may award damages to the reconvener at the same time. Under such counterclaim both actual and exemplary damages may be passed upon on the trial of the attachment suit. Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 274; 68 Am. St. Rep. 266, 267.

[6] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 653.

However, it has been held that an attachment defendant cannot plead as a set-off against the plaintiff's demand damages arising from the wrongful issuance of an attachment sued out after the commencement of the action. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 655.

[7] Reed v. Samuels, 22 Tex. 114, 73 Am. Dec. 253.
Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 655.
See note 3, supra, this section, as to the Louisiana rule.

[8] Willman v. Friedman, 4 Idaho, 209, 38 P. 937, 95 Am. St. Rep. 59.
Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 656.

In Willman v. Friedman, 4 Idaho, 209, 38 P. 937, 95 Am. St. Rep. 59, the defendant, after procuring the dissolution of an attachment on motion, served with his answer a cross complaint for damages sustained by reason of the wrongful issuance of the attachment. A statute provided that a defendant seeking affirmative relief relating to or depending on the contract or transaction on which action was brought, defendant can recover his damages for wrongful attachment by a plea in abatement.[9]

The view has been taken that an attachment defendant cannot plead a cause of action for malicious prosecution of an attachment as a counterclaim where the attachment proceedings have not terminated.[10] On the other hand, it has been held that exemplary damages can be recovered under a plea of reconvention in the attachment suit.[11]

§ 1021. Technical Form of Action.—The technical form of action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment is of little consequence since the abolition of common-law forms of action in most states. Where it is of consequence, it may be an action on the case,[12] an action for conversion,[13] trespass,[14] action of replevin or to recover possession of the property,[15] or an action for damages,[16] depending upon local statutes and practice. An action for abuse of process or malicious prosecution has also been held to be proper where an attachment was wrongfully and maliciously sued out.[17]

The form of action on an attachment or garnishment bond may be debt, covenant, or simply an action on the bond, depending on local practice.[18]

§ 1022. Remedies of Third Persons.—The owner of property seized under an attachment or garnishment against the property of another can, under certain circumstances, maintain an action against the attachment plaintiff[19] to recover damages arising from the wrongful attachment. He may also maintain an action against the officer making the levy.[20]

In some jurisdictions an attachment bond given on the issuance of an attachment against the defendant's property generally does not inure to the benefit of a third person where property is seized under the attachment, and he can-or affecting property to which the action related, could file a cross complaint with his answer, or subsequently by permission of court. The court held that the cause of action set forth in the cross complaint arose out of the transaction which formed the basis of the action in which the attachment was issued, and was properly presented by cross complaint.

---

[9] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 657; 29 L.R.A. (N.S.) 274.

[10] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 653.

[11] Reed v. Samuels, 22 Tex. 114, 73 Am. Dec. 253.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 656.

[12] Forrest v. Collier, 20 Ala. 175, 56 Am. Dec. 190; Lawrence v. Hagerman, 56 Ill. 68, 8 Am. Rep. 674; Alexander v. Harrison, 38 Mo. 258, 90 Am. Dec. 431; State use of Roe v. Thomas, 19 Mo. 613, 61 Am. Dec. 580; McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 333; Shaver v. White, 6 Munf. (Va.) 110, 8 Am. Dec. 730.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 659, 663; 81 Am. Dec. 469, 478.

In Shaver v. White, 6 Munf. (Va.) 110, 8 Am. Dec. 730, the court held that case, and not trespass, was the proper remedy.

[13] Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590; Dyett v. Hyman, 129 N. Y. 351, 29 N. E. 261, 26 Am. St. Rep. 533; Wade v. Ray, 67 Okla. 39, 168 P. 447, L.R.A.1918B, 796; Newman v. Garfield, 93 Vt. 16, 104 A. 881, 5 A.L.R. 1507.

Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 594; 85 A.L.R. 660.

The attachment of one person's property to satisfy a claim against another is a conversion of the property, although actual possession of the property is not taken. Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590.

Although conversion lies after the wrongful attachment of property, the action is more in the nature of trespass de bonis asportatis, if not on the case, where the defendant, after procuring the dissolution of the attachment and an order for the return of the property, brings no such action until the property has been seized and sold on the plaintiff's execution against him. Wade v. Ray, 67 Okla. 39, 168 P. 447, L.R.A.1918B, 796.

An officer levying an attachment, at the suit of a creditor of the vendor, upon property sold in bulk without complying with the provisions of the Bulk Sales Law is liable in damages as for a conversion. Newman v. Garfield, 93 Vt. 16, 104 A. 881, 5 A.L.R. 1507.

Generally, goods sold in violation of bulk sales legislation may be attached by a creditor of the vendor. See Vol. 4, p. 618, § 100.

[14] Lamb v. Day, 8 Vt. 407, 30 Am. Dec. 479.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 660.

[15] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 660.

[16] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 660.

[17] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120.

[18] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 657; 81 Am. Dec. 469.

[19] See supra, § 992.

[20] See supra, § 992.

not maintain an action on the bond.[1] In other jurisdictions it has been held that a person whose property has been seized under an attachment against the property of another generally can maintain an action on the attachment bond.[2] Generally, however, the right of an owner of goods to recover damages from an attachment creditor who caused them to be seized as belonging to another person is held not to be restricted to an action on the bond given by such creditor to the officer.[3] It has been held that he may elect (1) to sue on the bond and recover according to its condition, (2) to sue the plaintiff on the facts of the case and recover according to the statute, precisely as if the plaintiff had given a bond, or (3) to sue for malicious prosecution and recover as at common law, where the attachment was malicious and without probable cause.[4]

Under some statutes a claimant may recover damages for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment on intervention.[5] But it has been held that in the absence of a statute permitting it, an owner of property seized under an attachment against the property of another cannot recover damages in the suit in which the attachment was issued.[6] Under this view, statutes allowing intervention by a claimant of attached property are generally construed to authorize only a trial of the right of property, and not to authorize an assessment and award of damages.[7]

It has been held that one whose property has been seized under an attachment issued against the property of another can maintain an action on the levying officer's official bond.[8]

One whose property is wrongfully attached or garnished in an action against another is not deprived of his cause of action for damages by intervention in the attachment suit.[9]

The form of action for wrongful attachment of goods as the property of another is a matter of no great significance under the statutes abolishing distinctions among the forms of action. Trespass,[10] trespass de bonis asportatis,[11] trover and conversion,[12] replevin,[13] action on the case, claim and delivery, malicious abuse of process, and trespass for abuse of process are forms that the remedy has taken in actions not based upon attachment bonds.[14]

---

[1] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 670.

In Louisiana it has been held that a claimant of attached property, who intervenes in the action in which an attachment has issued and establishes his claim, cannot maintain an action on the attachment bond. Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 670.

[2] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 671.

[3] Dyett v. Hyman, 129 N. Y. 351, 29 N. E. 261, 26 Am. St. Rep. 533.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 935.

In Dyett v. Hyman, 129 N. Y. 351, 29 N. E. 261, 26 Am. St. Rep. 533, where a recovery in trover by an assignee against attaching creditors of the assignor was upheld, such creditors having given an indemnity bond, the court said: "The theory presented by the appellants in this case, that the defendants are liable as indemnitors only and are governed by the provisions of their bond, is wholly unfounded. The liability of the defendants rests wholly upon their participation in the original wrong and their liability for its consequences incurred by reason of their complicity in the trespass."

[4] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 674.

[5] Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 911; 85 A.L.R. 664.

In Farmers State Bank v. Hess, 138 Okla. 190, 280 P. 305, 66 A.L.R. 894, the court held that where property attached had been sold on the application of the plaintiff in the action in which the attachment was issued, without the consent of an interpleading claimant, and the interpleader established his claim, he was entitled to judgment for the value of the property and damages for the retention.

Where the right to the property was decided to be in the intervener, damages were assessed, limited to the value of the property at the time of the levy, with interest from that time, under a statute giving the court the right to assess damages by reason of the levy if the intervener is successful. Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 912; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1220.

[6] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 665.

[7] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 666.

[8] Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 671.

See SHERIFFS [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 911].

[9] Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590.

[10] Allen v. Crary, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 349, 25 Am. Dec. 566 (execution creditor).

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 669; 91 A.L.R. 935.

[11] Phillips v. Hall, 8 Wend. (N. Y.) 610, 24 Am. Dec. 108.

§ 1023. Contribution among Attaching or Garnishing Creditors as to Liability for Wrongful Attachment.—It has been held that where several attaching creditors incurred liability for wrongful attachment, the amount thereof should be apportioned, and they should be required to contribute according to their respective interests in the matter which gave rise to the liability, i. e., according to the ratio which the several attachment liens bore to each other.[15] However, where several creditors secured on the same day separate attachments against the property of their debtor for their separate debts, each of them giving the sheriff an indemnifying bond, and the property was seized and sold by the sheriff under all of the attachments together, and one of the attaching creditors paid the amount of a judgment which was recovered against the sheriff for wrongful attachment, it was held that the liability of the attaching creditors on account of the attachments was a common liability for a single wrong, viz., the seizure and sale of the property by the sheriff, acting as their common agent, and that each of them was bound to contribute equally to the satisfaction of the judgment, without regard to the amount of their respective debts against the original attachment debtor.[16]

2. Parties

§ 1024. Generally.—The defendant in attachment whose property was seized under the writ is generally the person entitled to sue for the wrongful issuance of the process.[17] He may maintain the action for the benefit of others for whose indemnity the bond was given,[18] for example, for the benefit of the garnishee.[19] However, the person against whom the attaching creditor's malice was directed, although he is not the defendant, is the only one who is entitled to institute an action for malicious attachment.[20] Furthermore, title or right to possession constitutes the foundation of an action for wrongful attachment; consequently, such an action cannot be maintained by one without title or right to possession.[1]

---

[12] Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590; Dyett v. Hyman, 129 N. Y. 351, 29 N. E. 261, 26 Am. St. Rep. 533; Newman v. Garfield, 93 Vt. 16, 104 A. 881, 5 A.L.R. 1507.
Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 594; 85 A.L.R. 670; 91 A.L.R. 935.

The attachment of one person's property to satisfy a claim against another is a conversion of the property, although actual possession of the property is not taken. Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590.

Where by statute a debt may be the subject of attachment, its wrongful attachment to satisfy a claim against a stranger is a conversion for which trover will lie, although the money is not paid over to the attachment officer or into court. Englehart v. Sage, 73 Mont. 139, 235 P. 767, 40 A.L.R. 590. Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 594.

[13] Allen v. Crary, 10 Wend. (N. Y.) 349, 25 Am. Dec. 566.

[14] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 935.

[15] First Nat. Bank v. Avery Planter Co. 69 Neb. 329, 95 N. W. 622, 111 Am. St. Rep. 541.
Annotation: 64 A.L.R. 223.

[16] Vandiver v. Pollak, 107 Ala. 547, 19 So. 180, 54 Am. St. Rep. 118.
Annotation: 64 A.L.R. 223.

[17] Wheeler Sav. Bank v. Tracey, 141 Mo. 252, 42 S. W. 946, 64 Am. St. Rep. 505.

An assignee of a mortgage who interpleaded in the attachment suit, setting up his right to certain accounts included in the levy, on a part of which he recovered, without making any claim to the goods covered by the mortgage, cannot maintain an action. Ibid.

[18] Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232.

[19] Ibid.

[20] See Wood v. Barker, 37 Ala. 60, 76 Am. Dec. 346.

[1] Halliday v. Hamilton, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 560, 20 L. ed. 214; Stevenson v. Palmer, 14 Colo. 565, 24 P. 5, 20 Am. St. Rep. 295; Palmer v. United States, 41 App. D. C. 341, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1216; Dixon v. White Sewing Mach. Co. 128 Pa. 397, 18 A. 502, 5 L.R.A. 659, 15 Am. St. Rep. 683.

If a vendee, prior to actual levy, claims the property as his, such an act constitutes taking possession of the property, and the

A purchaser for value in good faith and without notice that an attachment had been levied against the property purchased may properly be awarded damages where the attachment was wrongful.[2]

The rule has been laid down that an administrator cannot subject the estate to an action for damages by his tortious conduct in improperly suing out a writ of attachment, but is liable to respond personally for the injury. It has been held that he is properly sued in his individual capacity, even though in suing out the attachment he described himself as administrator.[3]

§ 1025. Principal or Agent as Defendant.—A principal, upon the general principle of respondeat superior, may be held liable for the act of his agent in an action for wrongful attachment.[4] The rule is applicable to the wrongful attachment of the property of a person other than the attachment defendant.[5] To render the principal liable the agent ordinarily must have acted by his direction and in accordance with specific instructions.[6] If an attachment sued out by an agent is merely wrongful, and the act is ratified by his principal with knowledge, the latter is undoubtedly liable for actual damages the same as though he were acting by himself alone. And if the attachment is sued out by an agent acting maliciously and without probable cause, as well as wrongfully, and the act is ratified by the principal with full knowledge of the facts, the recovery is not limited to actual damages, but exemplary damages also may be recovered against the principal. To make the principal liable in exemplary damages because of the malice of his agent, the evidence must always show that he had knowledge of, and participated in, the malice, or afterwards ratified, adopted, or approved the malicious acts.[7] In the absence of proof of such participation in, or ratification or adoption of, such malicious act by the principal, the court is not warranted in submitting to the jury the issue as to his liability for exemplary damages on that ground.[8] Thus, a principal is not liable for punitive damages for an attachment sued out by his attorney, where he knew nothing of it until it had been served, and, with the first opportunity, dismissed the same at his cost.[9] But if the plaintiff gave the attorney full authority to use his name in the commencement of a suit, he cannot shield himself in this way.[10] vendor cannot thereafter maintain an action against the officer making the wrongful levy, because possession is the foundation of the action. Palmer v. United States, 41 App. D. C. 341, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1216.

---

Where the title to goods has passed to the consignee, the consignee may maintain an action of wrongful attachment against a creditor of the consignor who attached the goods. Halliday v. Hamilton, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 560, 20 L. ed. 214.

To maintain trespass against an officer for a levy on goods, it is essential that the plaintiff be in actual possession or have the right of taking possession at the time of the trespass. Dixon v. White Sewing Mach. Co. 128 Pa. 397, 18 A. 502, 5 L.R.A. 659, 15 Am. St. Rep. 683.

Sureties on a delivery bond under which attached property has been surrendered to the defendant by the officer levying the writ have no right to the possession thereof before the entry of final judgment in the action, and hence cannot maintain an action of replevin against an officer who subsequently seizes the property under another writ. Stevenson v. Palmer, 14 Colo. 565, 24 P. 5, 20 Am. St. Rep. 295.

[2] Dorrington v. Jacobs, 213 Wis. 521, 252 N. W. 307, 91 A.L.R. 737.

[3] Annotation: 44 A.L.R. 674.

[4] Brock v. Berry, 132 Ala. 95, 31 So. 517, 90 Am. St. Rep. 896; Perez v. Fernandez, 202 U. S. 80, 50 L. ed. 942, 26 S. Ct. 561 (under Puerto Rico Code).

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 930; 1 Ann. Cas. 723.

[5] Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 931.

See also supra, § 992, as to cause of action against attaching creditor for act of attaching officer in attaching property of person other than defendant.

[6] Brock v. Berry, 132 Ala. 95, 31 So. 517, 90 Am. St. Rep. 896.

Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 930.

[7] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279, 280; 68 Am. St. Rep. 275.

[8] Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 275.

[9] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 280; 68 Am. St. Rep. 275; 81 Am. Dec. 477.

[10] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 477.

If an agent who makes the affidavit and bond in attachment acts maliciously in doing it, he, of course, is liable therefor.[11]

§ 1026. Corporation Defendant.—An action may be maintained against a private corporation to recover damages for wrongfully, maliciously, and without just or probable cause, obtaining and levying an order of attachment upon personal property, and exemplary damages may be recovered therein.[12] A municipal corporation may not be held liable in an action for wrongful attachment unless its responsibility may be shown to exist by virtue of a statute.[13]

§ 1027. Joint Defendants.[14]—It seems that where several independent writs are executed simultaneously by the same officer, a rule has been developed of holding the several plaintiffs jointly liable for trespass.[15] This rule would seem to be highly artificial and not in accord with the general rule as to independent tort-feasors.[16] It has been held that where attachments were simultaneously sued out by different creditors acting through the same attorney and levied by the same officer on the same property at the same time, but so that one constituted a prior lien on the personalty and the other a prior lien upon the realty attached, the creditors were not joint wrongdoers, since neither was interested in the success of the other, and their actions, although simultaneous, were not for a common purpose.[17]

§ 1028. In Action on Bond.—The proper and only party who can sue on an attachment bond is, as a general rule, the defendant.[18] However, as will appear in the following discussion, it is not the universal rule, at least where there are other obligees in the bond. Accordingly, the rule has been stated that to authorize a recovery on an attachment bond, all the obligees named therein must join as plaintiffs, in the capacity in which they are named, for the use of such as claim to have been injured,[19] and where the bond is in favor of all of several defendants, the action on the bond must be in the name of all, though the levy of the attachment was on the separate property of each.[20] The rule is the same in the case of a bond given to a partnership on attachment of partnership property. But it has been held that a separate right of action accrues to those of several defendants who alone were injured by the attachment, and that it is not necessary that the defendants against whom the attachment was rightfully obtained should be joined either as plaintiffs or as defendants. From the fact that in most states the statute requires the bond to be given to the people, the people, as the nominal obligee, is often the nominal plaintiff, but the action is always to be brought, if not in the name of the defendant in attachment, at least for his use and benefit.[1] While it is true as a general rule that the action on a contract, whether by parol or under seal or of record, should be brought in the name of the party in whom the legal interest is vested, yet if the obligee is a mere trustee, the prevailing practice permits the suit to be maintained by the cestuis que trust in the name of the obligee or in their own names, and this rule applies to actions on bonds given in attachment suits as well as in other legal proceedings.[2] Hence, if a bond to procure an attachment is given to the sheriff or other officer, the sureties may be held liable by the prevailing party in an action brought in the name of the officer.[3] Similarly, the obligee in an attachment bond may maintain an action on it for the benefit of a garnishee when the attachment was dissolved, the suit dismissed, and the garnishee discharged.[4]

---

[11] Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 275.

[12] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 280.

[13] Reed v. Howell County, 125 Mo. 58, 28 S. W. 177, 46 Am. St. Rep. 466.

[14] As to joinder of persons liable on bond, see infra, § 1029.

[15] Conrad v. Fisher, 37 Mo. App. 352, 8 L.R.A. 147.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 944, s. 35 A.L.R. 411, and 91 A.L.R. 762; 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 598.

Where attaching creditors were joint actors, all of them are guilty of a conversion in case any of the levies are adjudged tortious. Conrad v. Fisher, 37 Mo. App. 352, 8 L.R.A. 147.

As to contribution among attaching or garnishing creditors as to liability for wrongful attachment or garnishment, see supra, § 1023.

[16] Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 944, s. 35 A.L.R. 411, and 91 A.L.R. 762.

[17] Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 944, s. 35 A.L.R. 411, and 91 A.L.R. 762.

[18] Annotation: 64 L.R.A. 605; 81 Am. Dec. 469.

[19] Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[20] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 469.

See BONDS [Also 4 R. C. L. p. 45].

[1] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 469, 470.

§ 1029. —Defendants.[5]—The principal obligors and sureties on an attachment or garnishment bond may, in the discretion of the obligees, be sued jointly[6] or separately[7] in an action to enforce the obligation. However, it has been held that if the principal is sued alone, the sureties cannot be made liable upon the judgment, for they are not then parties to it.[8]

3. Pleading

§ 1030. Generally.—In an action seeking to enforce the common-law remedy for malicious attachment, the declaration or complaint must contain substantially the same allegations as are essential in stating a cause of action for malicious prosecution,[9] unless it is in the nature of an action for abuse of process, in which case the allegations will be the same generally as in such an action.[10] In an action seeking to enforce statutory liability for wrongful attachment, the complaint should set out fully the statutory cause of action.[11] Allegations that the writ was sued out maliciously and without probable cause are indispensable where the action is based upon malicious attachment[12] or where the plaintiff wishes to recover exemplary damages.[13] In setting out these elements the declaration need not allege malice and want of probable cause in terms; it will be deemed sufficient if it contains language of the same import as the words in question.[14] Thus, a complaint which alleges that the affidavit for the attachment was wholly false in every particular, and that the plaintiff in the attachment suit knew it to be so when he made it, is sufficient as against a general objection at the trial to the admission of any evidence under it.[15] Where the action is based upon the statute, and only actual damages are claimed, it is unnecessary to allege malice and want of probable cause,[16] unless the statute makes want of probable cause an element of such a cause of action.[17]

---

[2] Wortsman v. Wade, 77 Ga. 651, 4 Am. St. Rep. 102; Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232.

Annotation: 64 L.R.A. 606.

[3] Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553; Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609; Wortsman v. Wade, 77 Ga. 651, 4 Am. St. Rep. 102.

Where a bond was given in the name of a marshal, and his successor in office, the court held that a suit thereon was well brought in the name of the marshal, though he had been succeeded in office, for the name of the obligee, being used as a matter of form, the action could be brought in his name or in that of his successor. Huff v. Hutchinson, 14 How. (U. S.) 586, 14 L. ed. 553.

[4] Barnes v. Webster, 16 Mo. 258, 57 Am. Dec. 232.

[5] See also supra, § 994, as to liability of surety.

[6] Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609.

[7] Rice v. Wood, 61 Ark. 442, 33 S. W. 636, 31 L.R.A. 609; McReady v. Rogers, 1 Neb. 124, 93 Am. Dec. 333 (on theory of several wrongdoers).

[8] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 470.

[9] For an approved form of declaration, see Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

See supra, § 984.

[10] See supra, § 984.

[11] See supra, § 985.

[12] Beyersdorf v. Sump, 39 Minn. 495, 41 N. W. 101, 12 Am. St. Rep. 678; Young v. Gregory, 3 Call (Va.) 446, 2 Am. Dec. 556.

Annotation: 7 Ann. Cas. 548; 81 Am. Dec. 478.

[13] United States Fidelity & G. Co. v. Miller, 218 Ala. 158, 117 So. 668, citing R. C. L.; Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170; Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350.

[14] Spaids v. Barrett, 57 Ill. 289, 11 Am. Rep. 10. Compare Young v. Gregory, 3 Call (Va.) 446, 2 Am. Dec. 256.

Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 479.

In Forrest v. Collier, 20 Ala. 175, 56 Am. Dec. 190, it was held that an averment that the attachment was done "wrongfully and fraudulently, to injure," took the place of an averment of malice.

Generally, as to malice and want of probable cause as elements of the cause of action, see supra, §§ 986, 987.

The allegations concerning damages should show the real damages sustained and intended to be relied on.[18] The declaration or complaint is good without an averment of special damage, as the law implies nominal damages from the act complained of,[19] but if the plaintiff wishes to recover special damages, he must embody appropriate averments in his pleading.[20] Damages to credit, where recoverable, are special damages and must be pleaded.[1] The same is true of damages to reputation [2] and of attorneys' fees for defending the attachment or garnishment.[3]

§ 1031. In Action on Bond.—Pleadings in an action on the bond are governed by the general principles stated in the preceding section, as modified according to the cause of action or liability on the bond.[4] Accordingly, the declaration or complaint need not set out the proceedings in the attachment or garnishment,[5] for the obvious reason that the obligors in such a bond are estopped from setting up irregularities and defects in the attachment or garnishment proceedings as a defense to such an action.[6] Hence, failure to allege that a proper affidavit was filed to procure the issuance of the writ of attachment does not render the complaint insufficient.[7] However, it is a general rule that the declaration should show the execution of the bond, that the proceedings in attachment were injurious to the plaintiff, the nature of the damages, and that they have not been paid.[8] Furthermore, it must be alleged that no ground for the attachment or garnishment existed, where the absence of such ground constitutes the cause of action on the bond.[9] A complaint which alleges the execution of the bond by the principal, and sets out a copy thereof with the names of the sureties appended, but fails to allege that they joined in its execution, is insufficient on their demurrer.[10]

---

[15] Beyersdorf v. Sump, 39 Minn. 495, 41 N. W. 101, 12 Am. St. Rep. 678.

[16] Reliable Mut. Hail Ins. Co. v. Rogers, 61 Okla. 226, 160 P. 914, L.R.A.1917B, 350, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 121.

[17] See supra, § 987.

[18] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 470.

[19] Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

[20] First Nat. Bank v. Cox, 82 Okla. 129, 198 P. 579, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 471.

[1] Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661.
Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 455.
A complaint specifically alleging that the plaintiff's credit was injured and destroyed because of the fact that the sheriff attached and removed his property and locked up and closed his place of business is broad enough to admit evidence of all damages sustained by the plaintiff in consequence of the wrongful attachment, including his loss of character, credit, and business. Kyd v. Cook, 56 Neb. 71, 76 N. W. 524, 71 Am. St. Rep. 661.

[2] If there is no averment of particular damage resulting from the loss of reputation, credit, or business, or of the withdrawal of particular customers, proof of such loss, if properly objected to, is not admissible. Donnell v. Jones, 13 Ala. 490, 48 Am. Dec. 59.

[3] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 599, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.
In several cases, however, it has been held that the allegations were sufficient to authorize recovery of attorneys' fees without claiming such fees in so many words. It has been held that even if the petition was defective in not specifically alleging what attorney's fee had been paid or agreed to be paid for defending the attachment, the defect, if any, was cured by the answer, verdict, and judgment. It has also been said, with respect to the allowance of attorneys' fees for wrongful attachment, that fees can be recovered for one firm of lawyers only, unless the jury is satisfied by the evidence that the defendant in the case required more than one, and that the defendant, who had set up a cross action for damages, could not swell the damages to be paid by the plaintiff by employing an unnecessary number of counsel. Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 599, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.

[4] As to liability on bond, see supra, §§ 993, 994.

[5] Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754.

[6] See supra, § 996.

[7] Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754.
It is presumed that a proper affidavit for attachment was filed with the clerk, if it is stated in the complaint that the plaintiff made an application for a warrant of attachment and the warrant was issued. Brown v. Tidrick, 14 S. D. 249, 85 N. W. 185, 86 Am. St. Rep. 754.

The general rules stated in the preceding section as to allegations of special damages apply to a complaint in an action on the bond. When exemplary damages are claimed, the complaint, in addition to averring that the attachment was wrongfully sued out, must negative the sworn ground upon which the attachment issued, and aver that it was sued out without probable cause for believing the sworn ground to be true. But this averment is not necessary where only actual damages are, or can be, claimed.[11]

4. Evidence

§ 1032. Generally.—The rules of evidence discussed generally in another title[12] are applicable in actions involving attachments and garnishments. The reader is referred to the general discussion of the subject for the general rules. Here only specific applications to actions arising out of attachment and garnishment are considered.

§ 1033. Presumptions and Burden of Proof.—Certain presumptions arise in attachment and garnishment actions as in other cases.[13] Possession raises a presumption of ownership,[14] and title, having been proved in a person, is presumed to continue until evidence of a parting with title is introduced.[15]

The burden of proof rests, as it usually does, on the party asserting the affirmative of the issue, usually the plaintiff, to establish the elements constituting the cause of action.[16] In an action for wrongful attachment he must show the existence of these elements,[17] including lack of probable cause for the attachment or garnishment, where this is an element of the cause of action. Even though probable cause is set up as a defense, the burden is still on the plaintiff to prove its nonexistence.[18]

In an action by a third person for wrongful attachment of his property, the burden of proving title to the property rests upon him.[19]

---

[8] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 470.

[9] Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[10] Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156.

[11] Painter v. Munn, 117 Ala. 322, 23 So. 83, 67 Am. St. Rep. 170.

Generally, exemplary damages for malicious attachment or garnishment are not recoverable in an action on the attachment bond. See supra, § 1007.

[12] See Evidence [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 847].

The introduction by the defendant, in an action on an attachment bond, of evidence of the plaintiff's insolvency at the time of the issuance of the attachment is no ground for complaint by the plaintiff, where the plaintiff first introduced evidence of his solvency, and the court afterwards ruled out all the testimony on the subject. Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465.

[13] When an officer justifies the holding of goods under a writ of attachment valid upon its face, the recital of indebtedness in the affidavit raises a presumption of such indebtedness. If this presumption is rebutted, it then devolves upon the officer to prove the indebtedness by other evidence than the affidavit; but in the absence of such rebutting proof, the attachment papers are a sufficient showing upon the part of the officer to enable him to contest the title of the party seeking to reclaim the goods taken, whether the action is replevin, trespass, or trover. Treat v. Dunham, 74 Mich. 114, 41 N. W. 876, 16 Am. St. Rep. 616.

[14] Wipperman Mercantile Co. v. Robbins, 23 N. D. 208, 135 N. W. 785, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 682.

[15] Preston v. Newcomb, 149 Mich. 512, 113 N. W. 29, 119 Am. St. Rep. 691.

[16] W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467.

Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 472, 477.

[17] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120, s. L.R.A. 1915A, 541; 81 Am. Dec. 472, 477.

[18] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 472.

[19] Wipperman Mercantile Co. v. Robbins

§ 1034. Admissibility.—Questions relating to the admissibility of evidence in actions arising out of attachment or garnishment have raised a multitude of questions, which are set out in the footnote.[20] The general rule that evidence, in order to be admissible, must be material applies.[1]

Expenses and attorneys' fees incurred in seeking the dissolution of an attachment or garnishment constitute an element of recovery in an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment, whether or not such an action is brought on the attachment or garnishment bond.[2] Consequently, evidence of such expenses is generally admissible in such an action.[3] The contract price for such services is not conclusive on the question of the amount of attorneys' fees recoverable so far as the defendant in that action is concerned, but proof of such agreement is competent for the jury, with other evidence tending to show what is, in fact, a reasonable compensation.[4] Direct evidence of the facts sought to be proved is admissible, but direct proof is not always necessary.[5]

§ 1035. —Writ and Record.—The writ and return and the record and proceedings in the attachment suit are competent evidence in actions for wrongful or malicious attachment.[6] In an action on the bond, such record is competent evidence against the sureties.[7]

§ 1036. —Admissions and Declarations.—Admissions and declarations are

---

23 N. D. 208, 135 N. W. 785, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 682.

[20] In an action for wrongful attachment, evidence of profits derived from the conduct of his poolroom, run in connection with the store from which the goods were taken, was properly excluded, where the pool tables and their appurtenances were not taken and the plaintiff continued to carry on some business. Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219.

A judgment against a plaintiff in attachment is not admissible in evidence for the purpose of showing that there was no indebtedness due, at the time of issuing the writ of attachment, from the defendant to the plaintiff, until four days after the rendition of the verdict upon which the judgment is based. Treat v. Dunham, 74 Mich. 114, 41 N. W. 876, 16 Am. St. Rep. 616.

In an action against a levying officer for the attachment of a carload of poultry, claimed by the plaintiff as his property, evidence of the presence in the car at the time of levy of wild game belonging to the attachment defendant is admissible. Wipperman Mercantile Co. v. Robbins, 23 N. D. 208, 135 N. W. 785, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 682.

In an action against an officer for the attachment of goods claimed by the plaintiff, where it is shown that wild game belonging to the attachment defendant, which was taken from the car containing the attached goods, was found on the plaintiff's premises, evidence that the plaintiff, on the discovery of the wild game on his premises, notified the proper authorities, who immediately took possession thereof, is properly excluded as immaterial. Ibid.

In an action to recover for a wrongful levy, certain acts occurring after the levy, tending to establish the surreptitious removal by the defendant in attachment, with the knowledge and consent of the persons claiming to own the property, of a part of the personal property levied upon, are properly received in evidence, upon a sufficient foundation laid therefor, as being material to the title and possession of the personal property levied upon. Ibid.

Where a mortgagee of chattels brings trespass against an officer who levied on part of them while in the plaintiff's possession by virtue of an attachment against the mortgagor, and the defendant claims that enough property was left in the plaintiff's possession to satisfy the mortgage, the plaintiff may show that a part of the property left with him did not belong to the mortgagor, but to a third person. Ward v. Henry, 19 Wis. 77, 88 Am. Dec. 672.

[1] Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219; Treat v. Dunham, 74 Mich. 114, 41 N. W. 876, 16 Am. St. Rep. 616.

In an action for the wrongful attachment of merchandise, the court properly refused to permit the plaintiff to state from whom he purchased his stock, such evidence being immaterial. Sterling v. Marine Bank, 120 Md. 396, 87 A. 697, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1219.

[2] See supra, § 1014.

[3] Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951.

[4] Plymouth Gold Min. Co. v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. 35 Mont. 23, 88 P. 565, 10 Ann. Cas. 951.

[5] W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467 (direct proof of malice and want of probable cause is not necessary).

[6] Donnell v. Jones, 17 Ala. 689, 52 Am. Dec. 194.

Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 471.

[7] Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96.

admissible in certain cases,[8] as, for example, to show the reason of the plaintiff in the attachment action for having it issued.[9] But declarations of the plaintiff in attachment long after the attachment was issued and without any evidence tending to show that such declarations related directly to the act of suing out the attachment are inadmissible.[10]

Declarations of the attachment defendant relating to the ownership of the attached property are admissible in favor of the plaintiff in attachment or the levying officer when accompanied by acts of ownership, such as possession of the property.[11] Such declarations are admissible, according to the weight of authority, even as against a third party claiming title.[12] In a few jurisdictions, however, such evidence is not admissible as against a third person.[13]

Declarations of a third party as to ownership made in the presence of a party to the attachment suit may be admissible as a part of the res gestæ.[14]

Admissions of an agent, to be admissible, must be within the scope of the agent's authority.[15]

§ 1037. Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence.—The weight and sufficiency of evidence in any particular case are questions that cannot be answered generally. They are questions which depend upon the facts of the particular case.[16]

Proof of the levying of an attachment is not sufficient to show injury so as to raise a liability on the bond in case the levy proves to have been wrongful, under a statute requiring want of probable cause as a condition to such liability.[17]

Title may be proved in various ways. It is proved by a purchase in bankruptcy supported by a written agreement between the purchaser and the bankrupt recognizing such ownership.[18]

5. TRIAL

§ 1038. Generally.—The law of trial applies generally to the trial of an action for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment.[19] Instructions must be given upon the issues and the applicable law and upon the controlling, basic, main, or fundamental facts.[20] Instructions must have some support in the evidence; otherwise, they should not be given.[1]

---

[8] Wood v. Barker, 37 Ala. 60, 76 Am. Dec. 346; Raver v. Webster, 3 Iowa, 502, 66 Am. Dec. 96 (admission of act on which attachment action was founded, in action on a bond for wrongful attachment).
Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 471.

[9] Admissions of the defendant at the time of the issuance of the attachment as to his reason for having it issued are admissible. Wood v. Barker, 37 Ala. 60, 76 Am. Dec. 346.

[10] Burton v. Knapp, 14 Iowa, 196, 81 Am. Dec. 465.

[11] Avery v. Clemons, 18 Conn. 306, 46 Am. Dec. 323; Wipperman Mercantile Co. v. Robbins, 23 N. D. 208, 135 N. W. 785, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 682.

[12] Avery v. Clemons, 18 Conn. 306, 46 Am. Dec. 323.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 690.

[13] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 693.

[14] Wipperman Mercantile Co. v. Robbins, 23 N. D. 208, 135 N. W. 785, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 682.

[15] See EVIDENCE [Also ADMISSIONS AND DECLARATIONS, 1 R. C. L. p. 507, §§ 48 et seq.].

Statements made by the plaintiff's attorney after the attachment was sued out are irrelevant and inadmissible as proof of the motive of the plaintiff in suing out the writ. Empire Mill Co. v. Lovell, 77 Iowa, 100, 41 N. W. 583, 14 Am. St. Rep. 272.

[16] Evidence is insufficient to take issue of the value of corn attached to the jury where undisputed testimony of the value is given and the person who ordered the corn testifies that he was ready to take it at such price. First Nat. Bank v. McSwain, 93 S. C. 30, 75 S. E. 1106, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 809.

[17] Ames v. Chirurg, 152 Iowa, 278, 132 N. W. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 120.

[18] Preston v. Newcomb, 149 Mich. 512, 113 N. W. 29, 119 Am. St. Rep. 691.

[19] See TRIAL [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[20] Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362 (as to probable cause); Wipperman Mercantile Co. v. Robbins, 23 N. D. 208, 135 N. W. 785, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 682 (as to burden of proof of title where in issue).
See TRIAL [Also INSTRUCTIONS, 14 R. C. L. p. 723].

The province of court and jury is the same in such an action as in other actions. Speaking generally, questions of law are for the court, questions of fact for the jury.

Malice is always a question of fact exclusively for the jury.[2] While it is an inference which may be drawn from proof of the want of probable cause,[3] such inference is one of fact to be drawn by the jury. The jury is not required to draw the inference merely because they may find a want of probable cause.[4] What facts, and whether particular facts, constitute probable cause are questions of law to be determined by the court. The province of the jury is to find the facts.[5] Accordingly, it is for the jury to determine whether the defendant (attaching creditor) honestly believed that he had probable cause,[6] the test being what careful and prudent business men would have done under like circumstances.[7]

The question as to what is a reasonable attorney's fee which may be recovered in an action on the attachment bond for procuring the discharge of the attachment is a question for the jury; and to warrant submission of this question to the jury, evidence which shows the services rendered and the amount paid to the attorneys is sufficient. While it is common to offer proof in such cases by attorneys as to what is a reasonable fee, yet the jury is not concluded by such testimony and may fix the fee at a different sum. And even though testimony of the plaintiff's attorney in an action on the attachment bond as to what was a reasonable compensation for his services in obtaining a dissolution of the attachment was uncontradicted, it was held erroneous for the court to direct a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for attorneys' fees, since the question as to what was a reasonable fee was for the jury.[8] It is provided by statute in at least one state that actual damages sustained, including reasonable attorneys' fees, from wrongful attachment are to be fixed by the court in an action on the bond.[9]

The extent of the damage to credit is ordinarily, it seems, a question for the jury.[10]

As a rule, the amount of exemplary damages is discretionary with the jury.[11] The court ordinarily will not disturb a verdict on the ground that it is excessive, and the sum must be manifestly unjust and grossly disproportionate to the injury to justify any interference.[12] Nor will the award by the jury be disturbed on appeal as excessive except in extreme cases.[13]

---

[1] W. B. Moses & Sons v. Lockwood, 54 App. D. C. 115, 295 F. 936, 33 A.L.R. 1467.

[2] See Malicious Prosecution [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 30, § 17].

[3] Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 127, s. L.R.A. 1915A, 543; 68 Am. St. Rep. 268; 81 Am. Dec. 477.

[4] Annotation: 81 Am. Dec. 477.

See Malicious Prosecution [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 31, § 17].

[5] See Malicious Prosecution [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 58, § 39].

[6] Brand v. Hinchman, 68 Mich. 590, 36 N. W. 664, 13 Am. St. Rep. 362.

[7] See supra, § 986.

[8] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 600, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.

[9] The Iowa statute (Code, § 2961), for example, provides that "in an action on such bond, the plaintiff therein may recover if he shows that the attachment was wrongfully sued out, and that there was no reasonable cause to believe the ground upon which the same was issued to be true, the actual damages sustained, and reasonable attorneys' fees, to be fixed by the court." The statute has been held constitutional, it being held that the legislature might authorize the court to fix the amount of attorneys' fees, without submitting the question to a jury. The decisions construing the Iowa statute are somewhat confused, as the court has admitted in the more recent cases. Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 602, s. 71 A.L.R. 1464.

[10] Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 451.

[11] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 281.

[12] Annotation: 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 281; 81 Am. Dec. 479.

[13] International Harvester Co. v. Iowa

6. Judgments

§ 1039. Generally.—Judgments in actions for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment are in the same substance and form and have the same operation and effect as judgments in other cases generally.[14] In an action in debt on an attachment bond, final judgment should be rendered on the merits as in other cases and, if for the plaintiff, should be rendered for the debt mentioned in the declaration, so far as it has been sustained, with costs, and execution awarded accordingly.[15]

7. Costs

§ 1040. Generally.—The allowance and taxation of costs are the same generally in actions for wrongful or malicious attachment or garnishment as in other actions.[16] Such costs are to be distinguished from the costs of defending the attachment, including attorneys' fees, allowable as damages for the wrongful attachment.[17] While the latter are thus recoverable as damages, attorneys' fees for prosecuting the proceeding for damages for the wrongful attachment stand in the same class as fees in ordinary actions and are not generally recoverable in the absence of express statutory or contract provision.[18] However, there is authority to the contrary.[19]

Hardware Co. 146 Iowa, 172, 122 N. W. 951, 29 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272.

Annotation: 68 Am. St. Rep. 280.

[14] See Judgments [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 554].

[15] Annotation: 62 L.R.A. 442.

[16] See Costs [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 779].

[17] See supra, §§ 1014 et seq.

[18] Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 598, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463; 81 Am. Dec. 473.

As to the recovery of fees for defending the attachment or garnishment, see supra, § 1014.

[19] The Iowa statute has been construed as authorizing the recovery of such fees. Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 598, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.

See Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302, 33 P. 650, 36 Am. St. Rep. 156, where, in an action on an attachment bond, attorneys' fees, to be fixed by the court, for prosecuting the action were held recoverable.

It has been held that fees for counsel in bringing the action on the attachment bond were not within the condition of the bond to "prosecute the attachment to effect, and pay the defendant all such damages as he may sustain from the wrongful or vexatious suing out of such attachment." as such fees were not damages proximately caused by the suing out of the attachment, but stood on the same principle as fees in other actions brought for breaches of covenants or executory contracts. Annotation: 25 A.L.R. 598, s. 71 A.L.R. 1463.

ATTEMPTS

See Criminal Law.

ATTESTATION

See Acknowledgments, Vol. 1, p. 311; Chattel Mortgages; Deeds; Mortgages; Wills.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

I. INTRODUCTORY.
II. POWERS AND DUTIES.
  A. In General.
  B. United States Attorney General.
  C. State Attorney General.
III. COMPENSATION.
IV. ACTS IN PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS.

I. INTRODUCTORY.
  § 1. Scope of Article.
  § 2. Definition.
  § 3. Distinction between Prosecuting Attorneys and Attorneys General.
  § 4. Appointment, Qualifications, and Tenure of Office.
II. POWERS AND DUTIES.
  A. In General.
    § 5. At Common Law.
    § 6. Under Modern Statutes.
  B. United States Attorney General.
    § 7. Generally.
  C. State Attorney General.
    § 8. Conducting Litigation—In General.
    § 9. —As Affected by Private or Public Character of Litigation.
    § 10. —Discretionary Power.
    § 11. —Control over and Disposition of Litigation; Dismissal or Compromise; Waiver of State's Immunity from Suit.
    § 12. —Matters of Practice.
    § 13. Assistants.
    § 14. Advisory Opinions; Weight and Effect of Opinion.
III. COMPENSATION.
  § 15. Generally.
IV. ACTS IN PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS.
  § 16. Actions to Restrain Public Nuisances.
  § 17. Probate Proceedings and Actions Concerning Charitable Trusts.
  § 18. Actions against Public Officers.
  § 19. Actions Concerning Corporations.
  § 20. —Injunction and Mandamus against Corporations.
  § 21. Criminal Prosecutions.

I. INTRODUCTORY

§ 1. Scope of Article.—This article discusses the general law with respect to the status, powers, rights, and duties of the Attorney General of the United States and of the attorneys general of the various states. Many of the matters discussed are determined or influenced by constitutional and statutory provisions which, with respect to a particular jurisdiction, should always be consulted, for while many cases which consider the effect of statutes are given due consideration here, no attempt is made to include all of the statutory provisions. In considering the participation of the attorney general in particular proceedings, only the function of the attorney general in connection with such proceedings is discussed; the proceedings themselves are discussed in other articles.[1]

§ 2. Definition.—An attorney general is the chief law officer of a state or nation, to whom is usually intrusted not only the duty of prosecuting all suits or proceedings wherein the state is concerned, but also the task of advising the chief executive and other administrative heads of the government in all legal matters on which they may desire his opinion.[2] As an officer of the English government, an Attorney General occupies a position very different from the officer denoted by the same name in either the Federal or state government in this country. He is appointed by letters patent authorizing him to hold office during the pleasure of the Crown, and, with the aid of others, is required to manage all legal affairs and suits in which the Crown is interested. He acts as agent and representative of the Crown and has for centuries enjoyed high prerogative rights as its servant. The office, however, is not as ancient as that of the Lord High Chancellor.[3] The Attorney General of the United States, as an officer of the Federal government, is a member of the cabinet, appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate,[4] and as such, under Act of Congress, is fourth in the line of succession to the presidency in the event of a contingency arising which should necessitate having recourse to that body in order to fill a vacancy in the office of President.[5]

§ 3. Distinction between Prosecuting Attorneys and Attorneys General.—The office of prosecuting or district attorney, unlike that of attorney general, is of modern creation, with its duties chiefly prescribed by statute.[6] The civil and criminal business of the state which once pertained actually, as well as theoretically, to the office of attorney general, has been divided between the two offices for purposes of convenience. In fact, the office of prosecuting attorney has been carved out of that of attorney general and virtually made an independent office. In the exercise of his common-law powers, the attorney general undoubtedly may advise the prosecuting attorney as he does other officers, since he is regarded as the chief law officer of the state; but in practically all jurisdictions, either the Constitution or laws of the state make the two offices separate and distinct and vest in the prosecuting attorney certain powers, and impose upon him certain duties, which can be neither increased nor decreased by the attorney general.[7] If, however, the right to bring a certain action falls within the common-law powers of the attorney general, and the power to bring such action is not specifically granted to the district attorney by statute, the latter cannot sue.[8] In many instances, by constitutional or statutory provision, the authority of the attorney general and that of the district attorney are concurrent,[9] and under the laws of many of the states, the attorney general, in the exercise of his common-law powers, and in the absence of express restrictions, has a general authority in criminal prosecutions by the state, concurrent with that of the district attorney.[10]

---

[1] See, for example, CORPORATIONS [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 1]; ESCHEAT [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 602]; FRANCHISES [Also 12 R. C. L. p. 172]; MONOPOLIES AND COMBINATIONS [Also 19 R. C. L. p. 1]; NUISANCES [Also 20 R. C. L. p. 376]; PUBLIC OFFICERS [Also 22 R. C. L. p. 362]; QUO WARRANTO [Also 22 R. C. L. p. 654]; WILLS [Also 28 R. C. L. p. 47].

As to the misconduct of the attorney general as ground for suspension or disbarment as an attorney, see ATTORNEYS AT LAW, infra, p. —.

As to liability or immunity of the attorney general from an action for malicious prosecution, see MALICIOUS PROSECUTION [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 9].

[2] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1307.

The attorney general is, generally speaking, the attorney for the state. It is his duty to devote his time and energies to that employment, as it is the duty of attorneys generally to appear and defend the rights of their clients in the litigation in which they are employed. Follamer v. State, 94 Neb. 217, 142 N. W. 908, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 151.

[3] See State v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145, 35 Am. St. Rep. 27.

[4] See infra, § 4.

[5] U. S. C. A. title 3, § 22.

[6] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; Withee v. Lane & L. Fisheries Co. 120 Me. 121, 113 A. 22, citing R. C. L.; Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.; State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

See also PROSECUTING ATTORNEYS [Also 22 R C. L. p. 87, § 2].

[7] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.;

Some statutes provide that the attorney general is to exercise a supervisory power over county attorneys in all matters pertaining to the duties of their offices.[11] Others confer authority upon the attorney general to file informations and prosecute cases when required by the governor or general assembly,[12] or when required by the public service,[13] or when the county attorney neglects or refuses to enforce a statute,[14] or when a statute is not being enforced for any reason whatever.[15] And the fact that specific duties are also imposed on prosecuting attorneys does not limit or exclude the general authority of the attorney general.[16]

Where the authority of the attorney general and that of the district attorney are concurrent, their action should be co-ordinated,[17] and in the event of a conflict between them, the attorney general, being the superior officer, has control.[18]

§ 4. Appointment, Qualifications, and Tenure of Office.—The Attorney General, in England, was appointed by letters patent from the Crown, and the tenure of his official position depended entirely upon the royal pleasure.[19] The office of Attorney General of the United States is also an appointive one; the United States Attorney General is appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate and is the head of the

---

State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

[8] Withee v. Lane & L. Fisheries Co. 120 Me. 121, 113 A. 22, citing R. C. L.; Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.

[9] Coco v. Oden, 143 La. 718, 79 So. 287, 8 A.L.R. 679; State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[10] See infra, § 21.

[11] Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157; State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. Dak. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 156.

[12] People v. Gibson, 53 Colo. 231, 125 P. 531, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 138; Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157; State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935; Dupree v. State, 14 Okla. Crim. Rep. 369, 171 P. 489, L.R.A.1918D, 365.

[13] Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157; State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[14] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

[15] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

And see infra, § 21.

[16] People v. Gibson, 53 Colo. 231, 125 P. 531, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 138; Dupree v. State, 14 Okla. Crim. Rep. 369, 171 P. 489, L.R.A. 1918D, 365.

A statute imposing specific duties upon county attorneys in the matter of its enforcement is not a limitation upon, nor does it exclude, the general authority of the attorney general upon the same subject. State ex rel. Young v. Robinson, 101 Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1127, in which the court stated, with regard to a statute regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors: "The purpose of this statute was not to confer special exclusive authority upon the county attorney, but rather specifically to require of him the performance of an existing official duty."

[17] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

The attorney general, on filing an information at the request of the governor as prescribed by statute, is clothed with the same authority as the county attorney and should act concurrently with him, where the latter has instituted a prosecution for the same offense, which is pending. Dupree v. State, 14 Okla. Crim. Rep. 369, 171 P. 489, L.R.A.1918D, 365 (a defendant may not be placed in double jeopardy).

[18] See infra, § 21.

[19] State ex rel. Lamb v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145, 35 Am. St. Rep. 27.

See supra, § 2.

Department of Justice.[20] In most states, the office is an elective one; in some states, however, it is appointive, being filled by nomination on the part of the chief executive and the approval of such selection by the upper body of the state legislature.

Whether elective or appointive, the duration of the term of office is definitely fixed by law in each jurisdiction, the only difference being that where the office is appointive, the attorney general is usually removable at the pleasure of the governor, though in some instances such removal can be only for cause. Although in the Federal government the Attorney General is appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, the power of removal possessed by the President is absolutely unlimited.[1]

The qualifications necessary to render one eligible for the office of attorney general are seldom prescribed by law, perhaps owing to the fact that they are deemed to be sufficiently manifest in the nature of the office and the duties to be performed by the incumbent, and therefore to require no enumeration. Responsibilities of so high a character are usually placed upon a lawyer of ability, experience, and character.[2] That it is advisable to leave the determination of a person's fitness for the office to the good judgment of the individual or individuals having the power of selection is evidenced by the conduct of Congress, which, in creating the position, saw fit merely to declare that the attorney general should be "a meet person learned in the law." In some instances, however, the law of the jurisdiction expressly exacts certain requisites which, of course, must be possessed by an applicant or candidate in order to render him eligible for the position.[3] All questions arising as to the eligibility of a candidate or appointee, and the validity of his election, appointment, or removal are governed by the principles of law applicable to public officers in general.[4]

II. POWERS AND DUTIES

A. In General

§ 5. At Common Law.—The common-law duties of the attorney general, as chief law officer of the state, when not restricted or limited by statute, are very numerous and varied.[5] In England, the Attorney General was the chief legal adviser of the Crown and was intrusted with the management of all legal affairs and the prosecution of all suits, civil and criminal, in which the Crown was interested.[6] He exercised the right of enforcing public charities, possessed supervisory powers over the estates of lunatics, and could institute equitable proceedings for the abatement of public nuisances which affected or endangered the public safety or convenience and required immediate judicial interposition.[7] Such being the nature of the rights and duties that attached to the position at its inception, it is generally held that in the exercise of his common-law powers, an attorney general may not only control and manage all litigation in behalf of the state,[8] but he may also intervene in all suits or proceedings which are of concern to the general public.[9]

---

[20] U. S. Const. Art. II. § 2; U. S. C. A. title 5, § 291.

[1] Shurtleff v. United States, 189 U. S. 311, 47 L. ed. 828, 23 S. Ct. 535.

[2] State v. Burleigh County, 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[3] In some states the Constitutions prescribe that the attorney general must be a "male" citizen. State v. Hostetter, 137 Mo. 636, 39 S. W. 270, 38 L.R.A. 208, 59 Am. St. Rep. 515.

Residence and practice within the jurisdiction for a specified period is a requisite in some states. Saint v. Allen, 172 La. 350, 134 So. 246, citing R. C. L.

[4] See Public Officers [Also 22 R. C. L. p. 362].

[5] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; Mundy v. McDonald, 216 Mich. 444, 185 N. W. 877, 20 A.L.R. 398; Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Lamb v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145, 35 Am. St. Rep. 27.

[6] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Lamb v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145, 35 Am. St. Rep. 27.

§ 6. Under Modern Statutes.—As there are numerous variations in the duties attached to the office of attorney general in the different states, reference should be had in each instance to the law of the particular jurisdiction; in many instances statutes have given him very significant and extensive powers.[10] As a rule, however, the various statutes are more or less declaratory of the common law.[11] Moreover, it is generally held that the attorney general, in addition to the powers and duties conferred and imposed upon him by statute, is clothed and charged with all the common-law powers and duties pertaining to his office as well, except in so far as they have been expressly restricted.[12] The duties of the office are so numerous and varied that it has not been the policy of the state legislatures to attempt specifically to enumerate them; and it cannot be presumed, therefore, in the absence of an express inhibition, that the attorney general has not such authority as pertained to his office at common law. Accordingly, as the chief law officer of the state, he may, in the absence of some express legislative restriction to the contrary, exercise all such power and authority as public interests may, from time to time, require, and may institute, conduct, and maintain all such suits and proceedings as he deems necessary for the enforcement of the laws of the state, the preservation of order, and the protection of public rights.[13] In a few jurisdictions, however, it is held that the attorney general has only such powers as are expressly conferred upon him by law.[14]

---

[7] Atty.-Gen. v. Tudor Ice Co. 104 Mass. 239, 6 Am. Rep. 227; State v. Young, 54 Mont. 401, 170 P. 947, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Lamb v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145, 35 Am. St. Rep. 27.
See infra, §§ 16, 17.

[8] Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.; State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A. (N.S.) 691.

[9] See infra, § 9.

[10] State v. Burleigh County, 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[11] Parker v. State, 133 Ind. 178, 32 N. E. 836, 33 N. E. 119, 18 L.R.A. 567; State v. Bowles, 70 Kan. 821, 79 P. 726, 69 L.R.A. 176; Re Creighton's Estate, 91 Neb. 654, 136 N. W. 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 128; State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672; State ex rel. Lamb v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145, 35 Am. St. Rep. 27.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1307.

[12] Ex parte Young, 209 U. S. 123, 52 L. ed. 714, 28 S. Ct. 441, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 932, 14 Ann. Cas. 764. Cited in Pierce v. Superior Ct. 1 Cal. (2d) 759, 37 P. (2d) 460, 96 A.L.R. 1020; State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; Respass v. Com. 131 Ky. 807, 115 S. W. 1131, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 836; Withee v. Lane & L. Fisheries Co. 120 Me. 121, 113 A. 22, citing R. C. L.; Mundy v. McDonald, 216 Mich. 444, 185 N. W. 877, 20 A.L.R. 398; State v. Robinson, 101 Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1127; State v. Young, 54 Mont. 401, 170 P. 947, citing R. C. L.; Re Natural Gas Pipe Lines, 123 Neb. 259, 242 N. W. 609, citing R. C. L.; State v. Moore, 46 Nev. 65, 207 P. 75, 22 A.L.R. 1101; State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

"It is the general consensus of opinion that in practically every state of this Union whose basis of jurisprudence is the common law, the office of attorney general, as it existed in England, was adopted as a part of the governmental machinery, and that in the absence of express restrictions, the common-law duties attach themselves to the office so far as they are applicable and in harmony with our system of government." State v. Young, 54 Mont. 401, 170 P. 947, citing R. C. L.

By constitutional or statutory provision, the attorney general may be expressly clothed with "such other authority" as is conferred upon him at common law. Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.

[13] Withee v. Lane & L. Fisheries Co. 120 Me. 121, 113 A. 22, citing R. C. L.; State v. Robinson, 101 Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1127; Re Natural Gas Pipe Lines, 123 Neb. 259, 242 N. W. 609, citing R. C. L.; State v. Broad River Power Co. 157 S. C. 1, 153 S. E. 537, citing R. C. L. See also Ex parte, Young, 209 U. S. 123, 52 L. ed. 714, 28 S. Ct. 441, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 932, 14 Ann. Cas. 764.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 155.

In the absence of any statutory provision to the contrary, the attorney general has the management and control of civil litigation on behalf of the state. State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A. (N.S.) 691.

Generally speaking, the attorney general is charged with the duty of advising the heads of the various departments of the state government,[15] yet it has been held that he cannot prevent the employment of a special attorney by a state department which is given such power by statute in cases of importance or difficulty.[16] Also, it has been held that the duties of the attorney general do not attach to a special commission such as a state highway commission, created as a body corporate and empowered to sue and be sued, and such a commission may employ other counsel.[17]

B. United States Attorney General

§ 7. Generally.—While the Federal statutes which establish and regulate the Department of Justice provide that "there shall be at the seat of government an executive department to be known as the Department of Justice, and an Attorney General, who shall be the head thereof," [18] they contain no specific statement of the general duties of the Attorney General; it is to be seen, however, from the several sections relating thereto,[19] that he has authority, and it is made his duty, to supervise the conduct of all suits brought by or against the United States, and to give advice to the President and the heads of the other departments of the government.[20] It cannot, however, be claimed that all the powers and duties which characterize the position at common law attach virtute officii to that of Attorney General of the United States, inasmuch as the Federal government is one of enumerated powers only, and Congress has no power to confer a right not expressly or impliedly included within the powers granted the Federal government by the several states. Consequently, only such duties and powers attach to the position as are expressly or impliedly conferred by Congress acting within its constitutional limits.

While there is no specific statement in the enactments of Congress enumerating the general duties of the office, it is held that as the Constitution contemplates the existence of an officer of the government to determine when the United States shall sue, to decide for what it shall sue, and to be responsible for the conduct of suits, Congress, in creating the office of attorney general and in using that term in other statutes has reference to the similar office under the English law,[1] and therefore have impliedly conferred upon him authority, and made it his duty, to supervise the conduct of all suits brought by or against the United States.[2] Under the authority vested in the Attorney

---

[14] State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A. (N.S.) 672. See also Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157.

[15] See infra, § 14.

[16] Follmer v. State, 94 Neb. 217, 142 N. W. 908, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 151.

This is a qualification to the general rule that the attorney general has the exclusive management and control of all litigation in which the state is interested. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 156.

[17] Saint v. Allen, 172 La. 350, 134 So. 246, citing R. C. L.

[18] U. S. C. A. title 5, § 291.

[19] U. S. C. A. title 5, §§ 302, 303.

[20] United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850.

[1] United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850; United States v. Koleno (C. C. A. 8th) 226 F. 180, citing R. C. L.

[2] Ponzi v. Fessenden, 258 U. S. 254, 66 L. ed. 607, 42 S. Ct. 309, 22 A.L.R. 879; New York v. New Jersey, 256 U. S. 296, 65 L. ed. 937, 41 S. Ct. 492; United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850; Confiscation Cases, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 454, 19 L. ed. 196; North Dakota-Montana Wheat Growers Asso. v. United States (C. C. A. 8th) 66 F. (2d) 573, 92 A.L.R. 1484, writ of certiorari denied in 291 U. S. 672, 78 L. ed. 1061, 54 S. Ct. 457; United States v. Koleno (C. C. A. 8th) 226 F. 180, citing R. C. L.

Acts of Congress sometimes expressly provide for their enforcement by the attorney general. See Ervien v. United States, 251 U. S. 41, 64 L. ed. 128, 40 S. Ct.

General of the United States to supervise and conduct suits in which the government is interested, he may dismiss any action when in his opinion such is the proper course,[3] and he has power to enter into a compromise.[4] As the head of the Department of Justice, he has supervisory power over all officers of such department, including the Solicitor General and the Federal District Attorneys.[5] And he has power to appoint such assistants as may be necessary to discharge the business of his office.[6] As to the specific powers of the United States Attorney General, the statutes of the United States should be consulted.[7] It may be noted that whenever he deems it for the interest of the United States, he may conduct and argue, in person, any case in any court of the United States in which the United States is interested.[8] It is the duty of the Attorney General to give his advice and opinion upon questions of law, whenever required to do so by the President or the head of any of the executive departments.[9] It would seem, however, that the advisory duties of the Attorney General do not require him to advise the committees of Congress upon questions of law occurring in matters before them.[10] The official opinions of the Attorney General of the United States are collected in a series of bound volumes published by authority of Congress, and while these opinions have not the force of law, it has always been regarded as the proper practice to follow their guidance.[11] The prisons of the United States and the custody of prisoners under sentence are generally under the supervision and regulation of the Attorney General,[12] and the examination of all applications for pardon or commutation, and a report and recommendation to the President, are within his duties.[13] It is also within his province, representing the United States, to practice comity with the judicial systems of the states.[14]

75; Confiscation Cases, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 454, 19 L. ed. 196.

He is the hand of the President in taking care that the laws of the United States in legal proceedings and in the prosecution of offenses be faithfully executed. Ponzi v. Fessenden, 258 U. S. 254, 66 L. ed. 607, 42 S. Ct. 309, 22 A.L.R. 879.

The initiation and control of a suit by the United States to set aside, cancel, or annul a patent for land issued in its name, on the ground that it was obtained by fraud or mistake, lies with the attorney general. United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850.

[3] Confiscation Cases, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 454, 19 L. ed. 196.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 128.

[4] Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 128.

It is within the power of the Attorney General of the United States to enter into a consent decree in a proceeding to enjoin the violation of Anti-Trust Acts. Swift v. United States, 276 U. S. 311, 72 L. ed. 587, 48 S. Ct. 311.

Where the Federal government intervened in a suit begun by the state of New York in the Federal Supreme Court to enjoin the state of New Jersey and its sewerage commissioners from discharging sewage into the waters of upper New York bay, it was held that it was within the authority of the attorney general to agree that the United States should retire from the case upon terms stated in a stipulation on behalf of the state of New Jersey, which were approved by the Secretary of War. New York v. New Jersey, 256 U. S. 296, 65 L. ed. 937, 41 S. Ct. 192.

[5] Ponzi v. Fessenden, 258 U. S. 254, 66 L. ed. 607, 42 S. Ct. 309, 22 A.L.R. 879; United States v. Waters, 133 U. S. 208, 33 L. ed. 594, 10 S. Ct. 249; United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850; Confiscation Cases, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 454, 19 L. ed. 196.

He is authorized by law to send the solicitor general or any officer of the department of justice "to any state or district in the United States to attend to the interests of the United States in any suit pending in any of the courts of the United States or in the courts of any state or to attend to any other interest of the United States." Ponzi v. Fessenden, 258 U. S. 254, 66 L. ed. 607, 42 S. Ct. 309, 22 A.L.R. 879.

[6] United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850.

[7] U. S. C. A. title 5, §§ 291–337.

[8] U. S. C. A. title 5, § 309.

[9] United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850.

U. S. C. A. title 5, §§ 303, 304.

As to further provisions regarding advice of attorney general, see United States Statutes.

[10] United States v. San Jacinto Tin Co. 125 U. S. 273, 31 L. ed. 747, 8 S. Ct. 850.

[11] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1308.

As to weight and effect of opinion of state attorney general, see infra, § 14.

[12] Ponzi v. Fessenden, 258 U. S. 254, 66 L. ed. 607, 42 S. Ct. 309, 22 A.L.R. 879.

[13] Ibid.

[14] Thus, he may consent to the appearance in a state court for trial of a Federal

C. State Attorney General

§ 8. Conducting Litigation—In General.—Obviously there can be no dispute as to the right of an attorney general to represent the state in all litigation of a public character. The attorney general represents the public and may bring all proper suits to protect its rights.[15] A breach or violation of public duty, either actual or threatened, is essential to the right of action.[16] Whether or not a particular action is such that it could be maintained by the state must be decided by the court in which it is brought. In determining this question it should be noted that pecuniary interest on the part of the state is not decisive of the matter, for the obligation it is under to promote the interest of all and to prevent the wrongdoing of one resulting in injury to the general welfare is often of itself sufficient to give it standing in court.[17] Statutes directing suits for specific objects to be brought by the attorney general, and regulating the proceedings in them, are common, and their validity has been recognized uniformly.[18] As illustrations of the many and varied proceedings which the attorney general may prosecute, the following may be mentioned: Actions to abate public nuisances;[19] actions to enforce public charities;[20] quo warranto proceedings against public officers[1] and against corporations;[2] and prosecutions for criminal offenses.[3] He may also maintain proceedings to compel the removal of buildings erected by private individuals on land reserved for public landing places,[4] to enjoin the exacting of unlawful and excessive rates by common carriers,[5] and to restrain the conduct of an unlawful monopoly or combination in restraint of trade.[6] Powers and duties with respect to the collection of taxes due the state, and the representation of the state tax commissioner in any litigation, may be expressly conferred upon him.[7] He is the proper relator in a mandamus proceeding to compel school directors to dismiss, from public schools, children admitted in violation of statutes requiring them to be vaccinated.[8] It has been held that under a statute making it the duty of the attorney general to defend cases in which the people of the state may be interested, he may defend a judge sued for libel for statements in a report charging wilful neglect on the part of public officials in the enforcement of the criminal laws, made after a hearing initiated prisoner while under commitment of a sentence imposed in a Federal court. Ibid.

---

[15] State ex rel. Porterie v. Walmsley, 181 La. 597, 160 So. 91, citing R. C. L.; Knowlton v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 55 N. E. 77, 47 L.R.A. 314.

Re Bennett, 52 Ont. L. Rep. 229 [1923] 3 D. L. R. 1173, 11 B. R. C. 799.

The Attorney General, as the chief law officer of the state, has broad powers derived from the common law, and in the absence of any legislative restriction, has the power to file any civil action or proceeding directly involving the rights and interests of the state, or which he deems necessary for the enforcement of the laws of the state, the preservation of order, and the protection of public rights and interests. Pierce v. Superior Ct. 1 Cal. (2d) 759, 37 P. (2d) 460, 96 A.L.R. 1020.

[16] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471. 31 L.R.A. 473.

[17] State v. Zachritz, 166 Mo. 307, 65 S. W. 999, 89 Am. St. Rep. 711; State v. Pacific Exp. Co. 80 Neb. 823, 115 N. W. 619, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 664.

See also States [Also 25 R. C. L. p. 408, § 44].

[18] An illustration is a proceeding in quo warranto, or a bill in equity against corporations to test the rights to the exercise of their franchises or declare them forfeited, or, if insolvent, to wind up their business and distribute their assets. United States v. Union P. R. Co. 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143.

And see infra, § 19.

[19] See infra, § 16.

[20] See infra, § 17.

[1] See infra, § 18.

[2] See infra, §§ 19, 20.

[3] See infra, § 21.

[4] Atty. Gen. ex rel. Adams v. Tarr, 148 Mass. 309, 19 N. E. 358, 2 L.R.A. 87.

[5] See infra, § 19.

[6] See infra, § 19.

[7] State ex rel. Wilson v. Young, 44 Wyo. 6, 7 P. (2d) 216, 81 A.L.R. 114.

[8] Com. ex rel. Schaffer v. Wilkins, 271 Pa. 523, 115 A. 887, 19 A.L.R. 1379.

by complaint of the prosecuting attorney.[9] The attorney general may also maintain an action in equity for a breach or violation of public duty touching property or funds held by public or municipal corporations for public use.[10] In a suit between private individuals, where the rights of the state are connected with the relief sought against the defendant, the attorney general, representing the state, may be joined as a party defendant.[11]

§ 9. —As Affected by Private or Public Character of Litigation.—Generally, litigation over which the attorney general has authority involves the enforcement of rights of the state or of the people.[12] In the absence of statutory amplification of his authority, he can participate in a litigation of a private character only when it has a bearing on the interests of the general public or affects the interests and welfare of the general public; [13] he has neither the right nor duty to participate in litigation which is purely of a private character, with no bearing on the interests of the general public. It has been held that a civil action to recover money fraudulently obtained from a municipal corporation by alleged conspirators is not maintainable by an attorney general, as the corporation, and not the state, is the proper party plaintiff.[14]

At common law, an individual who had some private interest to subserve, in conjunction with the rights of the Crown, or an interest acquired from the Crown by grant or otherwise, which it was within the province of the Crown to protect, could as a matter of right interpose as a relator through the attorney general to set in motion the judicial machinery.[15] In cases of purely public concern, however, affecting the welfare of the whole people or the state at large, the jurisdiction of the court can only be invoked by such executive officers of the state as are by law intrusted with the discharge of such duties.[16]

§ 10. —Discretionary Power.—It is generally acknowledged that the attorney general is the proper party to determine the necessity and advisability of undertaking or prosecuting actions on the part of the state.[17] Frequently, the language of the statute designating his powers indicates an intention to confer upon him the right to exercise his discretion in a large degree.[18] Generally if he, in his discretion, declines to institute an action, the courts will not assume jurisdiction to compel him to do so. As a rule, the character of the duties pertaining to the office are such as call for the exercise of personal judgment based upon the facts and circumstances surrounding each particular question.[19] Thus, the discretion of the attorney general in determining what the public interests require as to bringing an action against a domestic business corporation or its officers is absolute and cannot be made the subject of inquiry by the courts.[20] In like manner, under a statute imposing upon the attorney general the duty of enforcing a prohibition law whenever it is not enforced in any county of the state, he is the sole person to judge of the existence of the statutory grounds calling for intervention on his part.[1] He may, however, be compelled to perform mere ministerial duties,[2] and in certain cases, where the attorney general refuses to bring or consent to the bringing of a suit to protect the rights of the public, a private individual may institute a proceeding on his relation, in the name of the state.[3] Moreover, there are constitutional and statutory provisions in many states which make it the duty of the attorney general, when required by the governor, to appear for the state and prosecute in any court or before any officer, in any cause or matter, civil or criminal, in which the state may be a party or interested. Such provisions are considered mandatory, and when required by the governor, the attorney general has no discretion to refuse to prosecute the matter in question.[4] If he does refuse, a writ of mandamus will issue to compel him to perform his official duties.[5]

---

[9] Mundy v. McDonald, 216 Mich. 444, 185 N. W. 877, 20 A.L.R. 398.

[10] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473.

[11] Varick v. Smith, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 137, 28 Am. Dec. 417.

[12] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

The attorney general is charged with the duty of representing the state in all judicial proceedings in which the state has an interest, either as plaintiff, defendant or intervener. Pecuniary interest on the part of the state is not decisive of the matter; for the obligation it is under to promote the interest of all, and to prevent the wrongdoing of one resulting in injury to the general welfare, is often of itself sufficient to give it standing in court. State ex rel. Porterie v. Walmsley, 181 La. 597, 160 So. 91, citing R. C. L.

That the expense of a suit filed by the attorney general for the abatement of a nuisance is paid by private relators does not make it a private suit. State v. Excelsior Powder Mfg. Co. 259 Mo. 254, 169 S. W. 267, L.R.A.1915A, 615.

[13] Capitol Stages v. State, 157 Miss. 576, 128 So. 759, citing R. C. L.; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

Where the right of a corporation to practice law is involved, the common-law duty of the attorney general to represent the people calls upon him to take part in a controversy of such vital interest to the people as a whole, even though it is raised in a private proceeding. Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

As to the right of the attorney general to intervene in a divorce action or to bring an independent action to set aside a decree of divorce on behalf of the government, see DIVORCE AND SEPARATION [Also 9 R. C. L. p. 409, § 208].

[14] People v. Ingersoll, 58 N. Y. 1, 17 Am. Rep. 178.

[15] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473.

And see infra, § 12.

[16] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

In the case of mandamus proceedings, however, a different rule prevails in some jurisdictions. See infra, § 12.

The manner in which a proceeding to enforce a purely public right should be brought is discussed infra, § 12.

§ 11. —Control over and Disposition of Litigation; Dismissal or Compromise; Waiver of State's Immunity from Suit.—Ordinarily the attorney general, both under the common law and by statute, is empowered to make any disposition of the state's litigation which he deems for its best interest.[6] His power effectively to control litigation involves the power to discontinue if and when, in his opinion, this should be done.[7] Generally, therefore, the attorney general has authority to direct the dismissal of proceedings instituted in behalf of the state.[8] And he may enter into compromises and settlements of suits in which the state is an interested party, which will be binding on the state, where there is doubt and an honest dispute as to the state's rights, and the compromise or settlement is a bona fide one,[9] at least when he acts with the approval of the executive head of the department having charge of the matter involved in the suit.[10] Under certain circumstances, however, it has been held that the attorney general has no right or power to compromise or direct dismissal of the litigation.[11] And even though an attorney general may have the power and may have concluded to dismiss an action begun by him if no steps are taken by him to dismiss the suit, other than to make a minute of such determination, until his term of office expires, he is without power thereafter to order dismissal if his successor in office continues the prosecution.[12] Where the allegations of fact and contentions of law in several actions are the same, it has been held that the attorney general may properly enter into an agreement to accept the evidence taken in some of the cases with the same force and effect as if taken in the particular case, and that such agreement is binding upon his successor in office who has been substituted as a party.[13]

---

[17] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; State ex rel. Porterie v. Walmsley, 181 La. 597, 160 So. 91, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Peterson v. Fraser, 191 Minn. 427, 254 N. W. 776, citing R. C. L.; State v. Pacific Exp. Co. 80 Neb. 823, 115 N. W. 619, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 664; People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 17 L.R.A. 737; State v. Burleigh County, 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443.

Under a statute making it the duty of the Attorney General to prosecute and defend cases pertaining to the public interest, "in any cause or matter, civil or criminal, in which the people of this State may be a party or interested," a broad discretion is vested in the attorney general in determining what matters may or may not be of interest to the people generally. Mundy v. McDonald, 216 Mich. 444, 185 N. W. 877, 20 A.L.R. 398.

[18] Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157 ("when, in his judgment, the interests of the state require, he shall appear for the state before any other court or tribunal, prosecute or defend all actions and proceedings, civil or criminal, in which the state may be a party or interested"); State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935 ("the attorney general or his assistants are authorized to institute and prosecute any cases in which the state is a party, whenever in their judgment it would be to the interests of the state so to do").

[19] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

[20] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 17 L.R.A. 737.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443.

And see infra, § 19.

[1] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; State v. Burleigh County, 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[2] Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 442.

[3] People ex rel. Graves v. District Ct. 37 Colo. 443, 86 P. 87, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 768 (bill charging election frauds); State ex rel. Lamb v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35, 17 L.R.A. 145 (suit charging an unconstitutional apportionment by the legislature of election districts). And see State ex rel. McCue v. Blaisdell, 18 N. D. 55, 118 N. W. 141, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 465, 138 Am. St. Rep. 741 (action claiming election law unconstitutional).

[4] A proceeding for the examination of witnesses under the provisions of a prohibitory liquor law is a matter before an officer, in which the state is interested; and when required by the governor, the attorney general has no discretion to refuse to prosecute in such a proceeding. State ex rel. Stubbs v. Dawson, 86 Kan. 180, 119 P. 360, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 993.

[5] See MANDAMUS [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 78].

It is generally held that unless duly authorized by law, the attorney general may not waive the immunity of the state from suit, and thus cannot bind the state by appearing in an action so as to give the court jurisdiction,[14] although there is some authority to the contrary.[15]

§ 12. —Matters of Practice.—In the conduct of legal proceedings no greater liberties or concessions are made to the attorney general than are granted to other litigants, but he must comply with the rules of practice and show the same deference to the rules of the court in which he institutes his action as would be required if he were representing private individuals.[16] In the actual conduct of litigation, the attorney general, owing to the multiplicity of his duties, is under no obligation to appear or prosecute in person, and he may authorize any member of the bar to do so in his behalf.[17] The mere fact that a pleading on behalf of the state is signed by counsel other than the attorney general and does not disclose, on its face, authority or direction from that officer to file the same, does not make it demurrable. Such an objection must be raised by motion, plea, or answer.[18]

---

[6] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 156.

[7] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

[8] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369 (criminal prosecution); State ex rel. Wilson v. Young, 44 Wyo. 6, 7 P. (2d) 216, 81 A.L.R. 114.
Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 124.
And see, as to the dismissal of criminal prosecutions, infra, § 21.
As to power of United States Attorney General, see supra, § 7.

[9] New York v. New Jersey, 256 U. S. 296, 65 L. ed. 937, 41 S. Ct. 492.
Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 124.
As to right of attorney general to compromise or settle matters in dispute in litigation respecting a public charity, see infra, § 17.

[10] Where it is the duty of the attorney general to represent the inheritance tax commissioner in any litigation, he may, acting in conjunction with such commissioner, bind the state by a compromise of a suit to recover an inheritance tax. State ex rel. Wilson v. Young, 44 Wyo. 6, 7 P. (2d) 216, 81 A.L.R. 114.

[11] The attorney general has been held to have no power to dismiss the suit, where the relator is the real party in interest seeking the cancelation of a patent of land issued to defendant, in a case alleging usurpation of the office of governor. Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 130.
He has been held to be without authority to compromise a suit brought by the state for the foreclosure of a mortgage, by acceptance of payment of less than the amount due. Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 131.
He has been held to have no power, without the consent of the state comptroller, to discontinue proceedings begun by him at the instigation of the comptroller, for the closing of the affairs of a fire insurance company. Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 131.

[12] Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 132.

[13] Prout v. Starr, 188 U. S. 537, 47 L. ed. 584, 23 S. Ct. 398.

[14] Annotation: 42 A.L.R. 1484.

[15] Annotation: 42 A.L.R. 1485.

[16] Com. v. Knapp, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 476, 20 Am. Dec. 534.

Where the matters involved are of purely public concern, affecting the welfare of all the people or the state at large, rather than matters of private right, the appropriate action or proceeding should be instituted in the name of the attorney general [19] or in the name of the state upon the relation of the attorney general,[1] and not in the name of a private relator.[2] However, a distinction has been made where the proceeding is one of mandamus, and although the authorities are divided, it has been held that where the question is one of public right, and the object of the mandamus is to procure the enforcement of a public duty, a private person may, in behalf of the public, and without showing any individual or special interest to be served, become a relator, and, through the proper state officer, institute the proceeding.[3]

At common law, where a suit did not immediately concern the rights of the Crown, it generally depended upon the relation of some person whose name was inserted in the information, and who was called the "relator." The relator was considered answerable to the court and the parties for the propriety of the suit and the conduct of it, and he became responsible for costs if it appeared the suit was improperly instituted or conducted.[4]

In a suit between private individuals, where the rights of the state are

---

If the attorney general undertakes to exercise the powers and duties of prosecuting attorneys, he is limited by the same rules of practice that control them. Com. v. Knapp, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 476, 20 Am. Dec. 534; Denham v. Robinson, 72 W. Va. 243, 77 S. E. 970, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1123.

[17] See infra, § 13.

[18] State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

[19] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473.

Where an attorney general is authorized by constitutional provision to bring a suit for the forfeiture of an office legally held, by reason of misconduct, and it is not expressly provided that such proceeding shall be in the name of the state, a suit in the name of the attorney general, in his official capacity, is well brought, although a statute provides that a suit against the usurper of an office must be brought in the name of the state. Coco v. Oden, 143 La. 718, 79 So. 287, 8 A.L.R. 679.

[1] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473; Com. ex rel. Schaffer v. Wilkins, 271 Pa. 523, 115 A. 887, 19 A.L.R. 1379; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

If it is permissible at all to bring the suit in the name of the state alone, the complaint or information should show upon its face that the appropriate law officer brings the same for or in behalf of the state. State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473.

Where it is sought to procure the enforcement of a public duty owed by public officials, it is the proper practice to issue a writ in the name of the state on the relation of the attorney general. Com. ex rel. Schaffer v. Wilkins, 271 Pa. 523, 115 A. 887, 19 A.L.R. 1379.

[2] People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 17 L.R.A. 737, rehearing denied in 136 N. Y. 639, 32 N. E. 611; State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

Where a complaint or bill purports to be that of a private relator, and is verified by such individual, the mere fact that the attorney general affixed his signature thereto in his official capacity will not obviate the deficiency of the proceeding. State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473.

[3] Ibid.

[4] State ex rel. Taylor v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

At common law, if a private individual had an interest in the proceeding apart from the interest of the government, he might, as relator, have his bill incorporated with the information of the attorney general, which was denominated an "information and bill." In practice, if it afterwards appeared that the relator had no interest to be subserved, the bill was dismissed and the information retained. Ibid.

connected with the relief sought against the defendant, the attorney general, representing the state, may be joined as a party defendant.[5]

If the question involved in a private litigation is such as to warrant intervention on the part of the attorney general,[6] it is perfectly proper for him to appear on behalf of the state, pursuant to notice served upon him by order of the court, and to participate in the argument thereof.[7]

§ 13. Assistants.—Ordinarily, the attorney general is expressly authorized by law to appoint such assistants as may be necessary to discharge the business of his office.[8] In the actual conduct and prosecution of litigation, he is under no obligation to appear in person, for any member of the bar may appear in his behalf if specially authorized to do so.[9] It has been held that special counsel designated by the attorney general to represent him in a litigation concerning a charitable fund may not, however, be granted an allowance out of the fund in litigation.[10]

§ 14. Advisory Opinions; Weight and Effect of Opinion.[11]—As previously indicated, one of the most important duties of an attorney general, and at the same time one having its inception in the origin of the office,[12] is that of advising the executive heads of the government. In most jurisdictions statutes expressly impose upon him the duty of advising the chief executive and departmental heads upon questions of law touching their official duties. In the discharge of this function he acts in an advisory and ministerial, rather than a judicial, capacity, his opinion being for the information of the officer to whom it is rendered. While it may be persuasive, it is neither conclusive nor binding, and the recipient of it is free to follow it or not as he chooses.[13] Consequently, a public officer is neither justified in a particular act nor shielded from its legal consequences by a written opinion of the attorney general upholding the legality thereof.[14] Of course, under the familiar rule that a charge of malicious prosecution is well met by proof that the proceedings were instituted in good faith, in reliance on the advice of counsel received after a full statement to him of the facts known to the prosecutor, or which he had reason to suppose existed,[15] an officer who takes the precaution of first consulting the attorney general, and thereafter, in good faith, acts in strict accordance with his views and under his instructions, is not open to the charge that he instituted the proceedings complained of without probable cause, and is therefore not liable for malicious prosecution.[16] Although the opinions of the attorney general have in no sense the effect of judicial utterances,[17] in actual practice they are usually followed.[18] And there can be no question but that his advice and opinions are of great influence in affecting public interests and the rights of all persons within the state.[19] Moreover, in the conduct of his office there are certain matters that rest in his discretion, and in these matters the courts have no right to overrule his decision or to interfere with his authority.[20] Where a question of law is before a court for determination, an opinion previously rendered by the attorney general on such question, while entitled to careful consideration and quite generally regarded as highly persuasive, is not binding on the court.[1]

---

[5] Varick v. Smith, 5 Paige (N. Y.) 137, 28 Am. Dec. 417.

[6] See supra, § 9.

[7] Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

Where the attorney general is granted leave to appear in a private action involving the constitutionality of a statute, he does not become, in the strict sense, a party to the proceeding so as to entitle him to file a petition for a rehearing. In such case, no judgment could be rendered for or against him, or for or against the state. His relation to the court is rather that of an amicus curiæ. Parker v. State, 133 Ind. 178, 32 N. E. 836, 33 N. E. 119, 18 L.R.A. 567.

And see Amicus Curiæ, Vol. 2, p. 679.

[8] State v. Burleigh County, 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935; Wemme v. First Church of Christ, 110 Or. 179, 219 P. 618, 223 P. 250, citing R. C. L.

And, as to criminal prosecutions, see infra, § 21.

[9] Re Creighton, 91 Neb. 654, 136 N. W. 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 128; Wemme v. First Church of Christ, 110 Or. 179, 219 P. 618, 223 P. 250, citing R. C. L.; State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 890.

Pleadings or other papers executed in his name by responsible members of the bar will not be disregarded upon the sole ground that the attorney general must appear in person, and with no suggestion that such appearance was not duly authorized. Re Creighton, 91 Neb. 654, 136 N. W. 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 128.

[10] Wemme v. First Church of Christ, 110 Or. 179, 219 P. 618, 223 P. 250, citing R. C. L.

[11] As to United States Attorney General, see supra, § 7.

[12] See supra, §§ 5, 6.

[13] Follmer v. State, 94 Neb. 217, 142 N. W. 908, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 151.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1307.

"If the law were otherwise, any executive office of the state could be controlled by the opinion of the attorney general specifying what the law requires to be done in that office." Follmer v. State, 94 Neb. 217, 142 N. W. 908, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 151.

[14] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1307.

[15] See Malicious Prosecution [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 45, § 27].

III. COMPENSATION

§ 15. Generally.—The compensation of the attorney general is a matter determined by statute. Where a salary is provided for, the statute may declare that such salary is in lieu of all other fees, commissions, and emoluments. It has been held that under such a statute, in litigation involving a charitable fund, an allowance of attorneys' fees may not be made out of such fund to either the attorney general, his assistants appointed pursuant to the statute, or to a special counsel designated by the attorney general to represent him.[2]

IV. ACTS IN PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS

§ 16. Actions to Restrain Public Nuisances.—It is the unquestioned right of the attorney general to file an information in equity for the abatement of nuisances which affect or endanger the public safety or convenience, and require immediate judicial interposition.[3] Thus, he may institute proceedings to restrain acts which are injurious to public health,[4] safety,[5] or morals,[6] and may prevent any invasion upon the rights of the public in highways,[7] parks,[8] and other public lands,[9] and in navigable waters.[10] It is the general rule that the fact that the acts constituting the nuisance are punishable under the criminal law does not affect the right of the attorney general to institute equitable proceedings to enjoin the nuisance, when for any reason such procedure is found to be more convenient and appropriate.[11] To render a nuisance public in character, so as to warrant proceedings on the part of the attorney general for its abatement, it is not essential that proof of actual injury to the public be adduced, so long as the nature of the acts complained of is such as to tend to the public detriment. Whenever an illegal act is being committed which in its nature tends to injure the public, the attorney general may maintain an action to restrain its commission without introducing any evidence of actual injury to the public.[12]

---

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1308.

[17] Leddy v. Cornell, 52 Colo. 189, 120 P. 153, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1304.

[18] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1308.

[19] State v. Burleigh County, 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[20] See supra, § 10.

Thus, in those jurisdictions which follow the common-law rule, his determination as to whether a given set of circumstances calls for the institution of quo warranto proceedings for the recovery of a public office is final and conclusive. See infra, § 18.

In like manner, where the attorney general has vested in him by law a general supervisory power over the accounts of marshals, his decision disallowing certain fees claimed to be due to a deputy marshal is conclusive and not subject to collateral attack in the courts. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1307.

[1] Leddy v. Cornell, 52 Colo. 189, 120 P. 153, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1304; People ex rel. Brundage v. Peters, 305 Ill. 223, 137 N. E. 118, 26 A.L.R. 16; Jones v. Williams, 121 Tex. 94, 45 S. W. (2d) 130, 79 A.L.R. 983.

While the construction placed upon a statute in the opinion of the attorney general is persuasive authority, it is neither conclusive nor binding upon the courts, and where it is without authoritative legal support, it should not be approved or followed. Leddy v. Cornell, 52 Colo. 189, 120 P. 153, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1304.

An admission by the attorney general does not control the determination of the court as to whether or not a contempt is civil or criminal. People ex rel. Brundage v. Peters, 305 Ill. 223, 137 N. E. 118, 26 A.L.R. 16.

[2] Wemme v. First Church of Christ, 110 Or. 179, 219 P. 618, 223 P. 250, citing R. C. L.

[3] Georgetown v. Alexandria Canal Co. 12 Pet. (U. S.) 91, 9 L. ed. 1012; State ex rel. La Prade v. Smith, — Ariz. —, 29 P. (2d) 718, 31 P. (2d) 102, 92 A.L.R. 168; People v. Truckee Lumber Co. 116 Cal. 397, 48 P. 374, 39 L.R.A. 581, 58 Am. St. Rep. 183; People v. Gold Run Ditch & Min. Co. 66 Cal. 138, 4 P. 1152, 56 Am. Rep. 80; Augusta v. Reynolds, 122 Ga. 754, 50 S. E. 998, 69 L.R.A. 564, 106 Am. St. Rep. 147; State v. Ohio Oil Co. 150 Ind. 21, 49 N. E. 809, 47 L.R.A. 627; Respass v. Com. 131 Ky. 807, 115 S. W. 1131, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 836; State v. Zachritz, 166 Mo. 307, 65 S. W. 999, 89 Am. St. Rep. 711.

Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 1161, s. 91 A.L.R. 320; 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 641.

See NUISANCES [Also 20 R. C. L. p. 376].

[4] The practice of medicine and surgery by one who is unskilled and incompetent is a menace to public health and constitutes a public nuisance which may be enjoined by the attorney general. State ex rel. La Prade v. Smith, — Ariz. —, 29 P. (2d) 718, 92 A.L.R. 168, modified on rehearing in — Ariz. —, 31 P. (2d) 102, 92 A.L.R. 173. Annotation: 92 A.L.R. 173.

A suit to enjoin a municipal corporation from emptying sewage into a stream in such a manner as to constitute a public nuisance may be maintained by the attorney general. Atty.-Gen. v. Grand Rapids, 175 Mich. 503, 141 N. W. 890, 50 L.R.A.(N.S.) 473, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 968.

[5] Operating a powder mill where persons on public roads and railroads and in villages are subject to danger from an explosion is a public nuisance which may be enjoined by the attorney general. State v. Excelsior Powder Mfg. Co. 259 Mo. 254, 169 S. W. 267, L.R.A.1915A, 615.

[6] Respass v. Com. 131 Ky. 807, 115 S. W. 1131, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 836.

[7] State v. Ehrlick, 65 W. Va. 700, 64 S. E. 935, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 1169, s. 91 A.L.R. 322.

An obstruction in a public street which materially interferes with travel is a public nuisance which may be enjoined in equity on the information of the attorney general. Augusta v. Reynolds, 122 Ga. 754, 50 S. E. 998, 69 L.R.A. 564, 106 Am. St. Rep. 147.

A court of equity is, however, as a rule loath to interfere to enjoin obstructions upon public highways in a proceeding by the attorney general where the law makes other remedies available. Thus, where power was conferred upon a city to prevent and remove obstructions of streets, and there is no allegation of any demand upon or refusal of the city council to act, it was held there was neither necessity nor authority for the attorney general to act. Atty.-Gen. v. Murray, 225 Mich. 170, 196 N. W. 446, citing R. C. L.

[8] While the erection of a building above the statutory height permitted in the case of edifices fronting upon a public park is not a public nuisance in the strict and narrow sense of that term, it is in the nature of one, and an information in equity by the attorney general is the proper remedy for the enforcement of the public rights infringed as a consequence thereof. Atty-Gen. v. Williams, 140 Mass. 329, 2 N. E. 80, 3 N. E. 214, 54 Am. Rep. 468.

And see BUILDINGS [Also 4 R. C. L. p. 393].

[9] Atty.-Gen. v. Tarr, 148 Mass. 309, 19 N. E. 358, 2 L.R.A. 87 (public landing place).

The attorney general may restrain the erection of bay windows over a passageway, where the state, as original owner, has deeded the land bounded by the passageway, but has reserved to itself the right of entry upon the premises to remove all obstructions which may be erected on the premises contrary to the stipulations. Atty.-Gen. v. Williams, 174 Mass. 476, 55 N. E. 77, 47 L.R.A. 314.

[10] Georgetown v. Alexandria Canal Co. 12 Pet. (U. S.) 91, 9 L. ed. 1012.

See also: Pennsylvania v. Wheeling & B. Bridge Co. 13 How. (U. S.) 518, 14 L. ed. 249; People v. Truckee Lumber Co. 116 Cal. 397, 48 P. 374, 39 L.R.A. 581, 58 Am. St. Rep. 183 (restraining the unlawful destruction of fish).

The Attorney General of the United States may bring suit to protect the waters of the Great Lakes from withdrawal. See WATERS [Also 27 R. C. L. p. 1352, § 263].

[11] State ex rel. La Prade v. Smith, — Ariz. —, 29 P. (2d) 718, 92 A.L.R. 168, modified on rehearing in — Ariz. —, 31 P. (2d) 102, 92 A.L.R. 173; Respass v. Com. 131 Ky. 807, 115 S. W. 1131, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 836; Atty.-Gen. v. Tarr, 148 Mas. 309, 19 N. E. 358, 2 L.R.A. 87.

Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 1145, s. 91 A.L.R. 315; 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

A court of chancery may, at the suit of the attorney general, enjoin as a common nuisance the maintenance of a place where pools upon horse racing are sold, notwithstanding it may also be a crime, especially where the criminal laws have proved ineffectual to afford relief. Respass v. Com. 131 Ky. 807, 115 S. W. 1131, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 836.

The power to enjoin a public nuisance at the instance of the state or an individual, although the act is punishable as a crime, is conferred by statute in some instances. Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 1145, s. 91 A.L.R. 315; 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 691.

[12] Smith v. McDowell, 148 Ill. 51, 35 N. E. 141, 22 L.R.A. 393; State v. Zachritz, 166 Mo. 307, 65 S. W. 999, 89 Am. St. Rep. 711.

Atty.-Gen. v. Shrewsbury Bridge Co. L. R. 21 Ch. Div. 752, 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 567.

Annotation: 22 Eng. Rul. Cas. 129.

§ 17. Probate Proceedings and Actions Concerning Charitable Trusts.—Upon the question of whether an attorney general may intervene in probate proceedings solely by reason of the possible interest of the state in the event of a contingency causing an escheat, the authorities are divided. Some take the view that the interest of the state in property which would escheat to it in case of intestacy, the testator leaving no heirs or kindred, is sufficient to entitle it to contest the probate of a will,[13] while others hold that it is not.[14]

Where, however, a will makes provision for a public charity or charitable trust, the decisions are in general accord as to the right of the attorney general to represent the public. A charitable trust is of public concern and the attorney general is the protector of the interests of the public, or, what is the same thing, of the indefinite and fluctuating body of persons who are the cestuis que trust.[15] If the charity is of a public character, he is the proper person to institute proceedings for its enforcement, and he may file an information either on his own motion or on the relation of any party concerned;[16] he may come into the suit by intervention,[17] or he may be made a party defendant as representing the public interests.[18] Some cases, at least in the language of the opinion, appear to support the proposition that the attorney general is the only person entitled to maintain a suit to enforce or administer a charitable or benevolent trust,[19] but there are many cases in which the action is held maintainable by other parties than the attorney general, and it seems to be sufficient if he is a party to the suit, either as plaintiff or defendant, for in either event the interests of the public at large, or of the indefinite class of the public who constitute the beneficiaries, are represented and protected.[20] Generally, however, the attorney general is not only a proper, but a necessary, party to proceedings relating to public charities, for no final and conclusive settlement may be had unless the state is represented.[1] [13] Fell v. Fell, 31 C. L. R. (Austr.) 268, 13 B. R. C. 1093.

---

Annotation: 130 Am. St. Rep. 204.

And see Escheat [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 602].

[14] Annotation: 130 Am. St. Rep. 204.

[15] Beatty v. Kurtz, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 566, 7 L. ed. 521; Philadelphia Baptist Asso. v. Hart, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 1, 4 L. ed. 499; People ex rel. Ellert v. Cogswell, 113 Cal. 129, 45 P. 270, 35 L.R.A. 269; Stowell v. Prentiss, 323 Ill. 309, 154 N. E. 120, 50 A.L.R. 584; People ex rel. Smith v. Braucher, 258 Ill. 604, 101 N. E. 944, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1015; Going v. Emery, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 107, 26 Am. Dec. 645; Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858; Re Creighton, 91 Neb. 654, 136 N. W. 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 128; MacKenzie v. Presbytery of Jersey City, 67 N. J. Eq. 652, 61 A. 1027, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 227; Stearns v. Newport Hospital, 27 R. I. 309, 62 A. 132, 8 Ann. Cas. 1176; Ewell v. Sneed, 136 Tenn. 602, 191 S. W. 131, 5 A.L.R. 303; Kenney Presby. Home v. State, 174 Wash. 19, 24 P. (2d) 403, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 883; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 138.

In England, the King, as parens patriæ, was the guardian of charitable trusts, and enforced them by his attorney general with the aid of the chancellor. Philadelphia Baptist Asso. v. Hart, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 1, 4 L. ed. 499; Going v. Emery, 16 Pick. (Mass.) 107, 26 Am. Dec. 645; Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858.

In this country, it is the general view that the people or the state, as parens patriæ, are the guardian of charitable trusts, enforcing them by their attorney general. People ex rel. Ellert v. Cogswell, 113 Cal. 129, 45 P. 270, 35 L.R.A. 269; Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858. See also Beatty v. Kurtz, 2 Pet. (U. S.) 566, 7 L. ed. 521.

In some jurisdictions, however, it has been held or suggested that the government does not succeed to the full prerogative of the Crown, as parens patriæ. Hence, although a statute confers a right upon the attorney general to bring the trustees of charitable funds to an account for the management of such property, where the beneficiaries of a charitable trust are not named or are uncertain individuals of an unascertained class, such statute does not confer upon the attorney general a power to act as parens patriæ in order to set up the invalid charity undertaken by the will. Ewell v. Sneed, 136 Tenn. 602, 191 S. W. 131, 5 A.L.R. 303. And see Philadelphia Baptist Asso. v. Hart, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 1, 4 L. ed. 499; Re Creighton, 91 Neb. 654, 136 N. W. 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 128.

But, in such a jurisdiction, where certain and ascertainable trustees are appointed, it has been held that it is the duty of the attorney general to appear in support of the charity. Re Creighton, 91 Neb. 654, 136 N. W. 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 128.

And in Ewell v. Sneed, 136 Tenn. 602, 191 S. W. 131, 5 A.L.R. 303, the court intimated that where a charitable trust is lawfully created and title to the property has once vested in the trustees named, it may be that the attorney general can intervene if the trustees named die or refuse to act, and have others appointed in their stead. And see Philadelphia Baptist Asso. v. Hart, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 1, 4 L. ed. 499.

And see Charities [Also 5 R. C. L. p. 287].

[16] Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858; Kenney Presby. Home v. State, 174 Wash. 19, 24 P. (2d) 403, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 884; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 138.

[17] Stowell v. Prentiss, 323 Ill. 309, 154 N. E. 120, 50 A.L.R. 584.

[18] Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 887; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 138.

He may come into the suit by intervention or be brought in by amendment to the pleadings, when necessary, and in case he should choose to do so, he should be given the right to take charge and control of that portion of the litigation which relates to the public right. Stowell v. Prentiss, 323 Ill. 309, 154 N. E. 120, 50 A.L.R. 584.

The refusal of the attorney general to institute a proceeding where he believes it inadvisable is not a usurpation of judicial power, and where, in such case, he is made an unwilling party, he may challenge the right of the plaintiff to maintain the suit.[2] The attorney general may compromise or settle matters in dispute in litigation respecting a charity, where he believes that the settlement will be more beneficial to the charity than a long and contested litigation, even though the settlement does not concede the utmost that the charity is entitled to, and such a settlement will be sanctioned by the court.[3]

The power of the attorney general to institute a suit for the enforcement of a public charitable trust is a common-law power incident to the office, not dependent on statutes;[4] but the right or duty of the attorney general, or of the state generally, to enforce charitable trusts, has been the subject of statutory provisions enacted in some states.[5] Unless, however, a gift is definitely to a charity such as equity recognizes, and one more or less public or general, there is no right in the public to serve as a ground for suit or intervention on the part of the attorney general.[6]

§ 18. Actions against Public Officers.—The attorney general is the proper person to institute proceedings against public officers whose acts require the supervision of a court. Here, as elsewhere, it is essential to the successful prosecution of such matters that the state or the general public be concerned therein.[7]

---

[19] Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858; MacKenzie v. Presbytery of Jersey City, 67 N. J. Eq. 652, 61 A. 1027, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 227; Kenney Presby. Home v. State, 174 Wash. 19, 24 P. (2d) 403, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 885.

[20] Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 886.

Those with a special interest may enforce the trust, or a localized or grouped charity may be enforced by a class suit. Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858.

The children and heirs of the donor of a trust for charitable uses are not entitled to maintain a suit to restrain the use of the property in alleged violation of the terms of the trust, where the complainants have no standing in court by right of reverter or as being in themselves possible beneficiaries. Only the attorney general, by way of information, or the trustee can properly invoke the superintending power of the courts over the administration of the trust. MacKenzie v. Presbytery of Jersey City, 67 N. J. Eq. 652, 61 A. 1027, 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 227.

[1] Philadelphia Baptist Asso. v. Hart, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 1, 4 L. ed. 499; People ex rel. Ellert v. Cogswell, 113 Cal. 129, 45 P. 270, 35 L.R.A. 269; Stowell v. Prentiss, 323 Ill. 309, 154 N. E. 120, 50 A.L.R. 584; Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858. See also Ewell v. Sneed, 136 Tenn. 602, 191 S. W. 131, 5 A.L.R. 303.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 887; 81 A.L.R. 130; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 138.

But when a deed of gift creates a charitable trust for two beneficiaries, one of them may institute a suit against the other seeking to be allowed to discharge the duties imposed upon it by the terms of the trust, and the attorney general is not a necessary, although he would have been a proper, party to the proceeding. Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 888.

[2] Dickey v. Volker, 321 Mo. 235, 11 S. W. (2d) 278, 62 A.L.R. 858.

Generally, as to discretionary power of attorney general, see supra, § 10.

[3] Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 130.

In England, the Attorney General is a necessary party to all actions relating to charities, and no compromise can be enforced without his sanction. The court has a discretion, instead of acting according to the strict rules of law, to refer matters arising out of an action to the consideration of the attorney general and to act on his certificate or report. Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 130.

[4] Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 891.

[5] Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 891.

[6] Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 889; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 138.

One of the most important of the duties of the attorney general is that of instituting proceedings in the nature of quo warranto for the recovery of public offices from those who wrongfully assume to be the lawful occupants thereof.[8] It is quite uniformly agreed that in the absence of statute, his discretion as to the necessity of instituting quo warranto proceedings for this purpose is absolute, the courts having neither the power of sitting in judgment upon the exercise of his discretion nor of coercing action on his part, and that neither an individual claiming office, nor any other person, has any legal right to compel the attorney general to bring an action in the name of the people.[9] Under statutes in some states, however, where the attorney general or other officer refuses to bring an information, it may be brought by the relator himself, with leave of the court.[10] If, on the other hand, the attorney general elects to proceed, the writ should issue as a matter of course,[11] for at common law he has, ex officio, the right either to sue out a writ of quo warranto or to bring an information in the nature of a quo warranto without leave of the court.[12]

The duty of the attorney general to recover a public office arises not only in the case of a wrongful usurpation, but also where an office is forfeited by the holder thereof.[13] It has been held that where a statute empowers the attorney general to enforce forfeitures of office, without restriction or limitation as to particular offices, he may enforce the forfeiture of a municipal office.[14] And such power is in no way interfered with because the city charter confers upon the city council a similar power to remove municipal officers who have failed properly to discharge their duties, the powers of the state and of the city council being concurrent.[15]

---

[7] Yett v. Cook, 115 Tex. 205, 281 S. W. 837, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

Annotation: 6 Ann. Cas. 912.

The rule is elementary that the state, the guardian and protector of all public rights, may maintain an action to prevent an abuse of power by public officers. Yett v. Cook, 115 Tex. 205, 281 S. W. 837, citing R. C. L.

[8] An action to determine a disputed title to a public office can be brought only in the name of the state by the attorney general or district attorney on his own information or that of another who may be joined as plaintiff. Guillotte v. Poincy, 41 La. Ann. 333, 6 So. 507, 5 L.R.A. 403.

[9] Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 604 et seq.; Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1307 et seq.

That he should have such absolute discretion wherever the title to public office is concerned is highly proper, for the usurpation of a public office is essentially a public wrong, even though the private individual wrongfully excluded therefrom is deeply interested in securing the ouster of the wrongdoer. Being a public wrong, it is for the state to determine when it deems its rights to have been infringed so as to call for the necessity of commencing such an action; and as the state must confide the power of making such determination to some one of its public servants, it is most fitting that it should be vested in the attorney general to whom it intrusts all of its legal matters. To be sure, it is not uncommon for cases to arise in which the disturbing influence of party feeling so affects the action of the attorney general as to result in great injustice to individuals. It is to be presumed, however, that he will do his duty and act with strict impartiality. Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 605; Ann. Cas. 1913C, 1308.

In some cases, however, it is held that the discretion of the attorney general is subject, in a measure at least, to the control of the courts. Annotation: 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 606.

[10] Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 603.

[11] Com. v. Walter, 83 Pa. 105, 24 Am. Rep. 154.

Annotation: 1 L.R.A.(N.S.) 826; 6 Ann. Cas. 912.

[12] Atty.-Gen. v. Sullivan, 163 Mass. 448, 40 N. E. 843, 28 L.R.A. 455.

Annotation: 1 L.R.A.(N.S.) 826; 6 Ann. Cas. 912.

A distinction, however, is made between proceedings by the attorney general on behalf of the public and proceedings on the relation of an individual. In the absence of a statute permitting the filing of the information on the relation of a private individual, it is generally held that an information by an individual, or even by a public officer on the relation of an individual and for the vindication of a private right, can only be filed with leave of court. Annotation: 6 Ann. Cas. 913.

[13] Coco v. Oden, 143 La. 718, 79 So. 287, 8 A.L.R. 679; State ex rel. Young v. Robinson, 101 Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1127.

A suit against a sheriff for forfeiture of his office because he accepted, received, and used a free pass or free transportation, or accepted discriminatory passenger rates, is properly brought by the attorney general, or district attorney, under constitutional provision. Coco v. Oden, 143 La. 718, 79 So. 287, 8 A.L.R. 679.

[14] State ex rel. Young v. Robinson, 101

In addition to the remedy available to the attorney general by forfeiture of office, he may proceed, in protecting the rights of the people, and in curbing the misconduct of officers, through the less drastic remedies of injunction and mandamus.[16] It is competent for the state, at common law, through its officers, to maintain injunction proceedings to restrain apprehended wrong on the part of public officers.[17] Thus, the attorney general, by virtue of his office, may on his own relation enjoin the secretary of state from giving notices to proceed with an election under an act alleged to be unconstitutional.[18] It has been held, however, that the attorney general may not interfere in the case of every illegal act of a public officer, and that where the state has no direct interest, it may not interfere to protect individuals from the illegal acts of a public officer, where such individuals have, in the ordinary course of the law, ample and adequate means of protection.[19] Again, a writ of mandamus against public officers to compel the performance of a public duty may be issued in the name of the state on the relation of the attorney general.[20] Thus, he may bring mandamus to compel school directors to observe a statute excluding from the public schools children who have not been vaccinated,[1] or to require municipal officers to call an election to fill their own offices.[2]

§ 19. Actions Concerning Corporations.—Where the injury sought to be redressed is public in its nature, the attorney general may institute proceedings on his own relation against a private corporation, even though the wrong complained of results in private as well as public harm.[3] It is especially the province of the attorney general to sue out a writ of quo warranto against a corporation guilty of public wrong,[4] or which has exceeded its powers,[5] and he may bring quo warranto proceedings to inquire into particular acts of private corporations alleged to be unlawful, to oust a corporation from the exercise of powers not granted or powers forbidden to be exercised.[6] And

---

Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1127.

[15] Ibid.

[16] Yett v. Cook, 115 Tex. 205, 281 S. W. 837, citing R. C. L.

"Indeed, we know of no reason why the State may not avail itself of any of the writs and processes of the law available to individuals for the enforcement of rights, and the redress of wrongs. So that the form of the action is no objection, if the right exists in the State to interfere." State v. McLaughlin, 15 Kan. 228, 22 Am. Rep. 264.

[17] State v. McLaughlin, 15 Kan. 228, 22 Am. Rep. 264.

[18] State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Cunningham, 81 Wis. 440, 51 N. W. 724, 15 L.R.A. 561.

[19] State v. McLaughlin, 15 Kan. 228, 22 Am. Rep. 264.

The attorney general cannot maintain an action for an injunction to restrain a county treasurer from collecting a tax levied to pay void bonds issued by a public school district. Though the payment of such bonds is illegal, it would work no greater wrong to the state or general public than would the payment of an illegal debt by a single individual; and, conceding the bonds to be void, each and every taxpayer has ample protection by an action of injunction, or all the taxpayers may unite in a single action. Ibid.

[20] Com. ex rel. Schaffer v. Wilkins, 271 Pa. 523, 115 A. 887, 19 A.L.R. 1379; Yett v. Cook, 115 Tex. 205, 281 S. W. 837, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 1382.

[1] Com. ex rel. Schaffer v. Wilkins, 271 Pa. 523, 115 A. 887, 19 A.L.R. 1379.

[2] Yett v. Cook, 115 Tex. 205, 281 S. W. 837, citing R. C. L.

[3] State v. Broad River Power Co. 157 S. C. 1, 153 S. E. 537, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

[4] Com. v. American Baseball Club, 290 Pa. 136, 138 A. 497, 53 A.L.R. 1027; Wright v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 95 Wis. 29, 69 N. W. 791, 36 L.R.A. 47, 60 Am. St. Rep. 74.

[5] United States v. Union P. R. Co. 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1336.

The attorney general may properly appear in a proceeding to test the right of a corporation to engage in the practice of the law. Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

[6] Com. ex rel. Woodruff v. American Baseball Club, 290 Pa. 136, 138 A. 497, 53 it is held that the offices of a corporation, created by special act or under a general corporation law, are offices of a public character, and the remedy by information in the nature of quo warranto lies against one usurping such an office.[7] There is no doubt that the attorney general, however, may not seek a remedy for the redress of mere private grievances, unaccompanied by an injury to the public.[8] The courts are not entirely in agreement on the question of whether a particular injury is public in character or whether it is purely of a private nature. As it is within the province of the legislature to determine what acts affect the public interest, the statutes of the particular jurisdiction should be consulted, as they frequently determine the powers and duties of the attorney general with respect to corporations.[9] The prevailing view is that in the absence of statute, the attorney general has no right to enforce the primary right of the corporation to reclaim misapplied assets,[10] or to remove unsuitable or misbehaving officers.[11] It is the policy of some jurisdictions, however, to allow the attorney general to interfere with the affairs of private corporate bodies, without a relator, in every case where he is of the opinion that the public interests require that such an action be brought.[12] And it is recognized that the state may have a legal interest in the management or disposal of the funds of certain private corporations whose functions are public in nature, such as religious or charitable corporations.[13]

In some jurisdictions the peculiar nature of the business conducted by particular private corporations is so far considered as of public interest as to

---

A.L.R. 1027, holding that an incorporated baseball club, conducting ball games on Sunday in violation of statute, may be ousted from any right, privilege, or authority to conduct games on Sunday, by a quo warranto proceeding instituted by the attorney general, although the statute provides for a penalty for its violation.

And see QUO WARRANTO [Also 22 R. C. L. p. 671, § 11].

[7] An information in the nature of a quo warranto may at common law be filed by the attorney general in the name of the state, to test the claim to office of an officer of a manufacturing corporation organized for private gain, either under special charter or under general incorporation laws, since the corporation is exercising a public franchise, and the title to its offices is a matter of public concern. Brooks v. State, 3 Boyce (Del.) 1, 79 A. 790, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1126, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1133. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1145.

And see State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

[8] Brooks v. State, 3 Boyce (Del.) 1, 79 A. 790, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1126, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1133.

[9] Thus, it has been held that statutory authority to the attorney general to prosecute all actions in the Supreme Court in which the state shall be interested or a party, and to appear for the state in any Circuit Court whenever requested by the governor or either branch of the legislature to do so, does not empower him, without the request of the governor or legislature, to institute in the Circuit Court an action to annul the franchise of a private corporation. State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

[10] State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A. (N.S.) 672. See also United States v. Union P. R. Co. 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143.

[11] State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A. (N.S.) 672.

Annotation: 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

Such mere sentimental or remote interest as the whole public may have that corporate officers behave well, or that private corporations do not squander their own money, is not that sort of right which constitutes the state "the real party in interest." State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

[12] People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 17 L.R.A. 737, rehearing denied in 136 N. Y. 639, 32 N. E. 611; State v. Lord, 28 Or. 498, 43 P. 471, 31 L.R.A. 473.

Under a system of legislation showing a progressive tendency towards state supervision of its corporations through its courts and the attorney general, which gives the courts jurisdiction of suits brought by the attorney general when he is convinced that the interest of the public will be promoted thereby, the attorney general may, in the name of the people, without a relator, maintain an action to remove the trustees of a business corporation and to compel them to account for its property. People v. Ballard, 134 N. Y. 269, 32 N. E. 54, 17 L.R.A. 737, rehearing denied in 136 N. Y. 639, 32 N. E. 611. Annotation: 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 673.

And see CORPORATIONS [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 1].

[13] United States v. Union P. R. Co. 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143; State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

And see supra, § 17.

justify the interference of the state through its officers in order to protect the members of such corporations. Thus, in some states, statutes have been enacted empowering the attorney general on the advice of the secretary of state or similar officer to bring an action to dissolve a building and loan association, and on the failure of such officer to act, making it the duty of the attorney general to institute proceedings on his own account.[14] And statutes have not infrequently been passed directing the attorney general to proceed against a particular and specified corporation (a bank, insurance company, railroad, etc.), to obtain a decree declaring its charter forfeited, or to wind up its business affairs for insolvency and distribute its assets, or to institute suit against the officers and others dealing with the corporation; and such statutes are well-recognized acts of legislative power uniformly sustained by the courts.[15]

§ 20. —Injunction and Mandamus against Corporations.—Although it is customary for English courts to permit the Attorney General to file an information in equity to enjoin a corporation from violating its charter and its public duties, in this country courts of equity do not assume jurisdiction in such matters quite so readily, on the ground that there is an adequate legal remedy by proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto, and for the further reason that it is not the function of equity to administer punishment or enforce forfeitures.[16] It is generally acknowledged, however, that the state, in its sovereign capacity, may appeal to the courts through its attorney general for relief by injunction whenever either its property is involved or public interests are threatened and jeopardized by any corporation, especially if the latter is of a public service character, such as a railroad trying to transcend its powers or to violate its duties to the general public.[17] Thus, the attorney general may maintain an action to enjoin common carriers whose rates are fixed by law from exacting unlawful and excessive rates,[18] and may bring suit to restrain an act which tends to create an unlawful monopoly or combination in restraint of trade, in violation of statute.[19]

Mandamus may be brought by the attorney general to compel a public service corporation to resume and maintain the operation of a street railway in accordance with its franchise,[20] and to compel a railroad to comply with a statute in a matter concerning the public.[1]

---

[14] Union Sav. & Invest. Co. v. District Ct. 44 Utah, 397, 140 P. 221, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 821 and note.

[15] United States v. Union P. R. Co. 98 U. S. 569, 25 L. ed. 143.

[16] Atty.-Gen. v. Tudor Ice Co. 104 Mass. 239, 6 Am. Rep. 227.

Annotation: 88 Am. Dec. 537, 538.

[17] Atty-Gen. v. Old Colony R. Co. 160 Mass. 62, 35 N. E. 252, 22 L.R.A. 112; State v. American Surety Co. 91 Neb. 22, 135 N. W. 219, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 976; State v. Pacific Exp. Co. 80 Neb. 823, 115 N. W. 619, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 664; Stockton v. Central R. Co. 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 A. 964, 17 L.R.A. 97; Buck Mountain Coal Co. v. Lehigh Coal & Nav. Co. 50 Pa. 91, 88 Am. Dec. 534.

Annotation: 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 664.

[18] State v. Pacific Exp. Co. 80 Neb. 823, 115 N. W. 619, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 664.

Annotation: 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 664.

[19] State v. American Surety Co. 91 Neb. 22, 135 N. W. 365, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 976; Stockton v. Central R. Co. 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 A. 964, 17 L.R.A. 97.

Thus, a statute may make it the duty of the attorney general to enforce an act making unlawful combinations to prevent competition in insurance. State v. American Surety Co. 91 Neb. 22, 135 N. W. 365, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 976.

A railroad's lease of its franchises and roads to a railway corporation of another state, which was expressly forbidden by law, the effect of which was partially to destroy competition in the production and sale of anthracite coal, a staple commodity of the state, is an excess of corporate power which tends to monopoly and may be restrained in equity at the suit of the attorney general. Stockton v. Central R. Co. 50 N. J. Eq. 52, 24 A. 964, 17 L.R.A. 97.

[20] State ex rel. Daniel v. Broad River Power Co. 157 S. C. 1, 153 S. E. 537, citing R. C. L.

[1] Atty. Gen. v. Old Colony R. Co. 160 Mass. 62, 35 N. E. 252, 22 L.R.A. 112 (statute required railroad to issue mileage tickets and receive those of other companies; statute held unconstitutional).

§ 21. Criminal Prosecutions.—By virtue of his common-law powers, the attorney general may conduct such criminal prosecutions as he may see fit,[2] though in most jurisdictions, as a result of Constitution or statute, his office has been relieved of this duty, which is now discharged by the prosecuting attorneys of the various counties or districts.[3] The Constitution and statutes of the particular jurisdiction should be consulted.[4] Except in so far as the Constitution and statutes expressly restrict the common-law powers of the attorney general, however, it is the general rule that his powers in criminal matters are as broad as those at common law,[5] although in a few jurisdictions a contrary rule prevails.[6] In some instances statutes require him to prosecute such criminal matters as the governor may request him to undertake.[7] Provisions of this character are mandatory and the attorney general is bound to comply with the wishes of the chief executive.[8] Other statutes authorize the attorney general to appear for the state before any court or tribunal whenever in his judgment, the interests of the state require it, and prosecute criminal actions.[9] And with respect to the enforcement of particular laws, the attorney general may be empowered with special statutory authority.[10] Thus, the framework and plan of a state intoxicating liquor law may contemplate a central law enforcement head in the attorney general to insure that local laxness will not permit the law to be violated with impunity, and authorize him to undertake its enforcement in any county whenever in his judgment circumstances require it.[11]

---

[2] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; State ex rel. Young v. Robinson, 101 Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1127.

[3] As to respective powers of the attorney general and of prosecuting attorneys, see supra, § 3.

[4] Under Act of Congress, the attorney general of a territory, elected by its legislature, and not the attorney of the United States for such territory, appointed by the President, is entitled to prosecute persons accused in that territory of offenses against its laws. Snow v. United States, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 317, 21 L. ed. 784.

[5] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; State ex rel. Young v. Robinson, 101 Minn. 277, 112 N. W. 269, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1127.

And see supra, § 6.

[6] Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157.

See supra, § 6.

[7] People v. Gibson, 53 Colo. 231, 125 P. 531, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 138; State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; State v. Dawson, 86 Kan. 180, 119 P. 360, 39 L.R.A. (N.S.) 993.

When requested by the governor, in such a jurisdiction, the attorney general has authority to charge by information, in the name of the people, the commission of a felony and to prosecute the proceeding in the District Court. People v. Gibson, 53 Colo. 231, 125 P. 531, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 138.

It has been held that such a statute, however, is not a restriction on the attorney general's common-law powers. State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

Contra: State v. Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 136 Wis. 179, 116 N. W. 900, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 672.

Generally, as to effect of statutes on common-law powers of attorney general, see supra, § 6.

Where the authority of the attorney general arises in a particular matter by reason of an executive order requesting him to undertake the prosecution, the courts are bound to take judicial notice thereof, and it need not appear on the face of an indictment signed by him. State v. Bowles, 70 Kan. 821, 79 P. 726, 69 L.R.A. 176.

[8] State ex rel. Stubbs v. Dawson, 86 Kan. 180, 119 P. 360, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 993.

[9] Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157. See also State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

"We are of the opinion that the attorney general is the proper party to decide when he shall attend the trial of any party accused of crime and assist in the prosecution, and that the attorney general or his assistants are the proper parties to decide when it is to the best interests of the state to institute and prosecute any case." State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[10] See State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

[11] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; State v. Bowles, 70 Kan. 821, 79 P. 726, 69 L.R.A. 176; State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914B, 143 (discussing similar statutes in other states).

The intoxicating liquor law provided: "Whenever the county attorney shall be unable or shall neglect or refuse to enforce the provisions of this act in his county, or for any reason whatever the provisions of this act shall not be enforced in any county, it shall be the duty of the attorney general to enforce the same in such county." It

Where authority is conferred upon the attorney general to prosecute criminal proceedings, he possesses all the powers of a prosecuting attorney, including those of appearing before the grand jury,[12] of signing indictments, and of either pursuing cases to a final determination [13] or entering a nolle prosequi therein, in which latter respect his power is frequently greater than that of the local official.[14] And the attorney general may dismiss a criminal prosecution, pursuant to a promise of immunity, notwithstanding the opposition of the county attorney.[15]

Where the authority of the attorney general and the district attorney is concurrent, their action should be co-ordinated,[16] and, in the event of a conflict between them, the attorney general, being the superior officer, has control.[17] was held that if the attorney general believes that the plan or system followed by the county attorney is ineffective, he may go in, though he believes the county attorney is acting in entire good faith. State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

---

And see INTOXICATING LIQUORS [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 239].

[12] Cosson v. Bradshaw, 160 Iowa, 296, 141 N. W. 1062, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 157; State v. Bowles, 70 Kan. 821, 79 P. 726, 69 L.R.A. 176; People v. Rich, 237 Mich. 481, 212 N. W. 105, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Miller v. District Ct. 19 N. D. 819, 124 N. W. 417, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 935.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912D, 945.

[13] State v. Bowles, 70 Kan. 821, 79 P. 726, 69 L.R.A. 176; People v. Rich, 237 Mich. 481, 212 N. W. 105, citing R. C. L., writ of certiorari denied in 275 U. S. 559, 72 L. ed. 425, 48 S. Ct. 118, and dismissed in 275 U. S. 500, 72 L. ed. 394, 48 S. Ct. 140.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912D, 945.

[14] Confiscation Cases, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 454, 19 L. ed. 196 (as to Attorney General of the United States); State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369; People v. Rich, 237 Mich. 481, 212 N. W. 105, citing R. C. L., writ of certiorari denied in 275 U. S. 559, 72 L. ed. 425, 48 S. Ct. 118, and dismissed in 275 U. S. 500, 72 L. ed. 394, 48 S. Ct. 140; People v. McLeod, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 377, 25 Wend. 483, 37 Am. Dec. 328.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 132; 35 L.R.A. 701 et seq.

At common law, the attorney general alone could discontinue a criminal prosecution by entering a nolle prosequi therein. People v. McLeod, 1 Hill (N. Y.) 377, 25 Wend. 483, 37 Am. Dec. 328. See also State v. Anderson, 119 Tex. 110, 26 S. W. (2d) 174, 69 A.L.R. 233. Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 240; 81 A.L.R. 132.

The assent of the court was unnecessary. Denham v. Robinson, 72 W. Va. 243, 77 S. E. 970, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1123. Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 132; 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1123

The common-law rule as to the assent of the court is followed in some of the states. Annotation: 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1123.

In other states, statutes require the consent of the court. Annotation: 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1124.

And other jurisdictions, by long practice, have established the rule that the consent of the court must be obtained. Denham v. Robinson, 72 W. Va. 243, 77 S. E. 970, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1123. Annotation: 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1124.

In such a jurisdiction, it has been held that so far as the attorney general may undertake to exercise or control the powers and duties of prosecuting attorneys, he is limited by the same rules of practice that control them, and may not enter a nolle prosequi without the consent of the court. Denham v. Robinson, 72 W. Va. 243, 77 S. E. 970, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1123.

As to power of prosecuting attorneys to enter nolle prosequi, see PROSECUTING ATTORNEYS [Also 22 R. C. L. p. 97, § 9].

[15] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 1378.

[16] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

Under a statute making it the duty of the attorney general, upon request of the governor, to appear in the trial court and to institute and conduct the prosecution of particular criminal cases, he is clothed by such request with all the powers and duties of the county attorney in regard to the prosecution of criminal cases generally; but such request and appearance do not abrogate the powers and duties of the county attorney in regard to the particular prosecution, and consequently, a defendant who has been acquitted in proceedings instituted by a county attorney may plead former jeopardy in a prosecution for the same offense instituted by the attorney general. Dupree v. State, 14 Okla. Crim. Rep. 369, 171 P. 489, L.R.A.1918D, 365.

[17] State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 156. See also Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 127.

The framework and plan of the Kansas intoxicating liquor law contemplates a central law enforcement head. That head is the attorney general, who has authority to enforce its provisions in any county in the state. State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369.

The attorney general may appear in an action instituted by the county attorney and move to dismiss (State v. Finch, 128 Kan. 665, 280 P. 910, 66 A.L.R. 1369). But, if an action has already been instituted in one court by the county attorney, the latter's powers are not abrogated by the fact that the attorney general subsequently institutes a prosecution for the same offense in another court. If the county attorney continues the prosecution which he has commenced, which results in the acquittal

To aid in the prosecution of criminal matters the attorney general may secure the assistance of another attorney, even in the case of a crime punishable by death, but such an attorney can receive no compensation from any private individual for his services, and the direction and control of the prosecution remains in the attorney general.[18] of the accused before the prosecution by the attorney general is reached for trial, that acquittal may be pleaded in bar in the prosecution by the attorney general. Dupree v. State, 14 Okla. Crim. Rep. 369, 171 P. 489, L.R.A.1918D, 365.

---

[18] Com. v. Knapp, 10 Pick. (Mass.) 477, 20 Am. Dec. 534.

ATTORNEY IN FACT

See Agency, Vol. 2, p. 1.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

I. INTRODUCTORY.

II. ADMISSION TO PRACTICE.
  - A. In General.
  - B. Qualifications and Eligibility.
  - C. Procedure for Admission.

III. CREATION AND TERMINATION OF RELATION OF ATTORNEY AND CLIENT.
  - A. Creation of Relation.
  - B. Termination of Relation.
  - C. Substitution of Attorneys.

IV. NATURE, OBLIGATIONS, AND DISABILITIES OF RELATION.
  - A. Character of, and Duties Attaching to, Relation.
  - B. Dealings between Attorney and Client.
  - C. Illegal Transactions between Attorney and Client.
  - D. Acquiring Adverse Interest in Subject-matter of Employment.
  - E. Representing Conflicting Interests.

V. AUTHORITY OF ATTORNEY TO ACT FOR OR BIND CLIENT.
  - A. In General.
  - B. Liability of Client through Imputations Arising from Relation.
  - C. Authority to Appear.
  - D. Authority in Conduct of Litigation.
  - E. Authority to Release, Dismiss, or Compromise Cause of Action or Confess Judgment.
  - F. Authority after Judgment.

VI. RIGHT OF CLIENT TO SETTLE OR DISMISS SUIT.

VII. LIABILITY OF ATTORNEY TO CLIENT.
  - A. Existence, Nature, and Extent.
  - B. Enforcement by Action.
  - C. Enforcement by Summary Proceedings.

VIII. LIABILITY OF ATTORNEY TO THIRD PERSONS.

IX. COMPENSATION OF ATTORNEYS.
  - A. Right to Compensation.
  - B. Contracts for Compensation.
  - C. Matters Affecting Attorney's Right.
  - D. Remedies to Obtain Payment.
  - E. Measure of Compensation or Recovery.

X. ATTORNEYS' LIENS.
  - A. In General.
  - B. General or Retaining Lien.
  - C. Special or Charging Lien.
  - D. To What Charging Lien Attaches.
  - E. Enforcement of Charging Lien.

XI. PUNISHMENT, SUSPENSION, AND DISBARMENT OF ATTORNEYS.
  - A. In General.
  - B. Grounds for Suspension or Disbarment.
  - C. Procedure.
  - D. Reinstatement of Attorney.

I. INTRODUCTORY.
- § 1. Scope.
- § 2. Regulation of Practice of Law.
- § 3. What Constitutes Law Practice.
- § 4. —Work Done by Law Clerk.
- § 5. Attorneys and Counsel Defined and Distinguished.
- § 6. Nature of Office of Attorney.
- § 7. Duties of Office.
- § 8. —Precedence of Public, over Private, Duties.
- § 9. Sale of Law Business; Restrictive Covenants.
- § 10. Necessity of Representation by Attorney.
- § 11. Privileges and Exemptions of Office.
- § 12. Imposition of Occupation Tax—In General.
- § 13. —By Municipal Corporation.

II. ADMISSION TO PRACTICE.
- A. In General.
  - § 14. Right and License to Practice.
  - § 15. Jurisdiction to Admit.
  - § 16. Nonresident Practitioners.
  - § 17. Liability for Unauthorized Practice of Law.
  - § 18. Who May Challenge Right.
- B. Qualifications and Eligibility.
  - § 19. Generally.
  - § 20. Eligibility to Admission or Practice Generally.
  - § 21. Residence and Citizenship; Race.
  - § 22. Sex.
  - § 23. Moral Character.
  - § 24. Education.
  - § 25. Right of Corporations to Practice Law.
- C. Procedure for Admission.
  - § 26. Generally.
  - § 27. Examination of Applicants.
  - § 28. Administration of Oath.

III. CREATION AND TERMINATION OF RELATION OF ATTORNEY AND CLIENT.
- A. Creation of Relation.
  - § 29. Necessity of Retainer or Contract of Employment.
  - § 30. Who May Employ Attorney.
  - § 31. Sufficiency of Retainer.
  - § 32. —Necessity of Writing or Warrant of Attorney.
  - § 33. Assignment of Counsel by the Court.
- B. Termination of Relation.
  - § 34. By Act of Client.
  - § 35. —Necessity of Notice of Discharge.
  - § 36. —When Attorney's Power Is Coupled with an Interest.
  - § 37. By Death of Client.
  - § 38. By Dissolution of Corporation or Partnership, or Receivership.
  - § 39. By Act of Attorney.
  - § 40. —What Is Sufficient Cause for Withdrawal.
  - § 41. By Death of Attorney or Acceptance of Incompatible Office.
  - § 42. By Outbreak of War.
  - § 43. By Accomplishment of Purpose.
- C. Substitution of Attorneys.
  - § 44. Generally.

IV. NATURE, OBLIGATIONS, AND DISABILITIES OF RELATION.
- A. Character of, and Duties Attaching to, Relation.
  - § 45. Nature of Relationship.
  - § 46. Duties Owed to Client by Attorney.
  - § 47. —Exercise of Reasonable Care and Skill.

IV.—continued.
B. Dealings between Attorney and Client.
- § 48. Generally.
- § 49. Transactions Concerning Subject-matter of Retainer.
- § 50. Burden of Proof.
- § 51. Gifts or Bequests.
- § 52. Transactions after Termination of Relations.
- § 53. Effect of Laches upon Client's Right to Relief.

C. Illegal Transactions between Attorney and Client.
- § 54. Generally.
- § 55. Lobbying Contracts.
- § 56. Contracts to Obstruct Justice or to Shield or Promote Crime.
- § 57. Contracts to Procure Liberation or Pardon of Convict.

D. Acquiring Adverse Interest in Subject-matter of Employment.
- § 58. Generally.
- § 59. Purchase of Outstanding Titles or Claims.
- § 60. Purchase at Tax or Judicial Sale.
- § 61. Effect of Prior Termination of Relation.
- § 62. Effect of Good Faith.
- § 63. Effect of Laches upon Right to Relief.

E. Representing Conflicting Interests.
- § 64. Generally.
- § 65. Where Interests Are Not Adverse or Both Clients Consent.
- § 66. Effect of Former Retainer.

V. AUTHORITY OF ATTORNEY TO ACT FOR OR BIND CLIENT.

A. In General.
- § 67. Power to Bind Client as Agent.
- § 68. Authority in Litigation and in Special Employment Distinguished.
- § 69. Collection of Client's Claim.
- § 70. Surrender or Waiver of Client's Rights.
- § 71. Ratification of, or Estoppel to Deny, Unauthorized Acts.
- § 72. Delegation of Authority.
- § 73. —Employment of Assistant or Associate Counsel.

B. Liability of Client through Imputations Arising from Relation.
- § 74. Imputation of Attorney's Knowledge to Client.
- § 75. Knowledge Acquired in Another Transaction or Outside Employment.
- § 76. Knowledge Acquired in Employment of Another Client.
- § 77. Knowledge Acquired While Acting for Own Interest; Imputation of Attorney's Fraud.
- § 78. Imputation of Attorney's Negligence to Client.

C. Authority to Appear.
- § 79. Generally.
- § 80. Presumption of Authority; Burden of Proving Want of Authority.
- § 81. Sufficiency of Proof of Want of Authority.
- § 82. Challenging Authority to Appear.
- § 83. Effect of Unauthorized Appearance.
- § 84. Withdrawal or Striking Out of Appearance.

D. Authority in Conduct of Litigation.
- § 85. Generally.
- § 86. Exclusiveness of Control.
- § 87. Commencement of Suit or Proceedings by or against Client.
- § 88. Execution of Indemnity Bonds.
- § 89. Attachment and Arrest.
- § 90. Writs, Notices, Pleadings, and Technical Formalities.
- § 91. Stipulations and Agreements.
- § 92. —Limitations on Power.
- § 93. Conclusiveness of Admissions of Attorney.
- § 94. —When Not Binding on Client.
- § 95. Incurring Incidental Expenses.

V.—continued.

E. AUTHORITY TO RELEASE, DISMISS, OR COMPROMISE CAUSE OF ACTION OR CONFESS JUDGMENT.

§ 96. Release of Client's Cause of Action.
§ 97. Dismissal, Discontinuance, Nonsuit, Retraxit, or Reinstatement.
§ 98. Compromise of Cause of Action.
§ 99. —Ratification or Estoppel to Repudiate.
§ 100. Submission to Arbitration, Reference, or Amicable Action.
§ 101. Consenting to or Confessing Judgment.

F. AUTHORITY AFTER JUDGMENT.

§ 102. Generally.
§ 103. Collection or Satisfaction of Judgment.
§ 104. Sale, Transfer, or Assignment of Judgment or Its Proceeds.
§ 105. Release of Judgment or Lien Thereof.
§ 106. Opening, Modifying, Vacating, or Reviewing Judgment.
§ 107. Prosecuting Appeal or Writ of Error.
§ 108. Control of Execution.
§ 109. —Return.
§ 110. —Stay of Execution.
§ 111. —Execution Sale.
§ 112. —Payment and Satisfaction.
§ 113. —Discharge of Defendant Taken upon Body Execution.
§ 114. Purchase for Client at Judicial Sale.
§ 115. Control over Supplementary Proceedings.

VI. RIGHT OF CLIENT TO SETTLE OR DISMISS SUIT.

§ 116. Settlement or Compromise out of Court.
§ 117. Effect of Existence of Attorney's Lien.
§ 118. Dismissal of Suit.
§ 119. Effect of Client's Fraud or Collusion.

VII. LIABILITY OF ATTORNEY TO CLIENT.

A. EXISTENCE, NATURE, AND EXTENT.

§ 120. Generally.
§ 121. Liability on Contract.
§ 122. Injury Resulting from Violation of Authority or Instructions.
§ 123. Fraud, Unfair Dealing, or Unlawful Exactions.
§ 124. Negligence in Performance of Duties.
§ 125. —What Amounts to Negligence.
§ 126. —Errors of Judgment and Mistakes of Law.
§ 127. —Ignorance of the Law.
§ 128. Negligence in Preparing and Conducting Litigation.
§ 129. Negligence in Enforcing Judgment.
§ 130. Negligence in Collection of Claims.
§ 131. Failure to Remit; Loss or Conversion of Money Collected.
§ 132. Negligence or Mistake in Investigating, Abstracting or Conveying Title.
§ 133. Drafting, Preserving, and Recording Legal Documents.
§ 134. Liability for Acts of Partner, Assistant, Clerk, or Agent.

B. ENFORCEMENT BY ACTION.

§ 135. Form of Remedy.
§ 136. Necessity of Demand.
§ 137. Applicability of Statute of Limitations.
§ 138. Pleading.
§ 139. Burden of Proof.
§ 140. Evidence.
§ 141. Trial; Questions of Law and Fact.
§ 142. Measure and Mitigation of Damages.

C. ENFORCEMENT BY SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS.

§ 143. Generally.
§ 144. As Affected by Right to Jury Trial.
§ 145. Necessity of Relation of Attorney and Client.
§ 146. Procedure.

VIII. LIABILITY OF ATTORNEY TO THIRD PERSONS.

§ 147. Generally.
§ 148. Wrongful Execution or Attachment.
§ 149. On Contracts Made in Interest of Client.
§ 150. Liability, as Purchaser or Assignee, to Equities against Client.
§ 151. Liability to Assistant Counsel or Law Clerk for Compensation.
§ 152. Liability to Laymen for Procuring Employment.

IX. COMPENSATION OF ATTORNEYS.

A. Right to Compensation.

§ 153. Generally.
§ 154. Necessity of Employment or Retainer.
§ 155. —Liability of Third Person Benefited by Attorney's Services to Another.
§ 156. Right of Unlicensed Attorney to Fees.
§ 157. Attorneys Appointed to Defend Indigents or Prosecute Disbarment Proceedings.
§ 158. Right to Retaining Fee.

B. Contracts for Compensation.

§ 159. Generally.
§ 160. Contracts Made during Existence of Relation of Attorney and Client.
§ 161. —Increasing Attorney's Compensation.
§ 162. Contracts Made after Completion of Services or Termination of Relation.
§ 163. Contracts for Contingent Fees.
§ 164. —Considerations Affecting Validity.
§ 165. —Effect of Agreement to Pay Costs and Expenses.
§ 166. —In Divorce and Alimony Proceedings.
§ 167. —Effect of Agreement as Equitable Assignment.

C. Matters Affecting Attorney's Right.

§ 168. Generally.
§ 169. Fraud, Bad Faith, Negligence.
§ 170. Serving Adverse Interests.
§ 171. Failure of Performance, Withdrawal, or Abandonment of Case.
§ 172. Discharge or Prevention of Performance by Client.
§ 173. —Settlement, Compromise, or Dismissal of Suit.
§ 174. Combined Act of Attorney and Client.
§ 175. Death, Incapacity, or Disbarment of Attorney.
§ 176. Illegality of Contract of Employment.
§ 177. —Contracts Procured through Solicitation.
§ 178. —Right to Compensation on a Quantum Meruit.
§ 179. Statute of Limitations; Accrual of Action.

D. Remedies to Obtain Payment.

§ 180. Retention of Fees from Funds in Hand.
§ 181. Remedy by Suit.
§ 182. —For Wrongful Discharge.
§ 183. Recovery in Client's Action.
§ 184. Right of Attorney to Continue Action Which Client Has Settled or Compromised.
§ 185. —Divorce or Other Marital Action.
§ 186. Recourse against Adverse Party Where Suit Is Compromised or Settled.
§ 187. Pleading.
§ 188. Burden of Proof.
§ 189. —As to Fairness of Contract; Presumptions.
§ 190. Proof of Value of Services.
§ 191. —Admissibility of Expert Testimony.
§ 192. —Conclusiveness of Expert Evidence.
§ 193. Variance.
§ 194. Trial; Questions for Court and Jury.

IX.—continued.
- E. MEASURE OF COMPENSATION OR RECOVERY.
  - § 195. Under Express Contract.
  - § 196. —When Contract Is Invalid.
  - § 197. —For Additional Services.
  - § 198. Under Implied Contract.
  - § 199. Interest on Fees.
  - § 200. Statutory Limitation on Amount of Fees.
  - § 201. On Death of Attorney.
  - § 202. On Discharge by Client.
  - § 203. On Dismissal or Discontinuance of Action by Client.
  - § 204. On Settlement or Compromise by Client.
  - § 205. When Adversary Agrees to Pay Fee.
  - § 206. Right to Taxable Costs, Statutory Fees, and Expenses.
  - § 207. Division of Compensation between Attorneys Contributing Services.

X. ATTORNEYS' LIENS.
- A. IN GENERAL.
  - § 208. Generally.
- B. GENERAL OR RETAINING LIEN.
  - § 209. Generally.
  - § 210. Property to Which Lien Attaches.
  - § 211. —Money Collected by Attorney.
  - § 212. —Property Not Affected.
  - § 213. Services and Compensation Covered by Lien.
  - § 214. Notice of Lien.
  - § 215. Priorities.
  - § 216. Waiver or Loss of Lien.
  - § 217. —Loss of Possession.
  - § 218. Enforcement of Lien.
- C. SPECIAL OR CHARGING LIEN.
  - § 219. Generally.
  - § 220. Purpose and Basis of Lien.
  - § 221. Agreement Creating Lien.
  - § 222. Extent of Lien; Taxable Costs.
  - § 223. Limitation of Lien to Services in Suit Wherein Judgment Is Had.
  - § 224. Lien for Successful Defense of Suit or Right.
  - § 225. Notice of Lien.
  - § 226. —Sufficiency of Notice.
  - § 227. Priorities.
  - § 228. —As between Lien and Set-off.
  - § 229. —When Judgment or Verdict Is Assigned to Attorney.
  - § 230. Waiver or Loss of Lien.
  - § 231. —Death or Withdrawal from Case.
  - § 232. —Compromise or Settlement by Client.
  - § 233. —Assignment of Cause of Action or Judgment.
- D. TO WHAT CHARGING LIEN ATTACHES.
  - § 234. Cause of Action.
  - § 235. —Construction and Validity of Statutes Creating Lien on Cause of Action.
  - § 236. Judgments, Decrees, or Awards.
  - § 237. —Divorce and Alimony Proceedings.
  - § 238. Property Recovered in Litigation.
  - § 239. Money and Funds.
  - § 240. —Public Funds.
  - § 241. Property Received by Client in Satisfaction of Judgment.
- E. ENFORCEMENT OF CHARGING LIEN.
  - § 242. Generally.
  - § 243. Enforcement in Original Action.
  - § 244. Equitable Remedy.
  - § 245. Independent Action at Law.
  - § 246. Liability of Adverse Party for Destroying Lien.

X. E—continued.

§ 247. Vacation of Settlement, Dismissal, or Satisfaction.
§ 248. Enforcement against Judgment.

XI. PUNISHMENT, SUSPENSION, AND DISBARMENT OF ATTORNEYS.

A. IN GENERAL.

§ 249. Generally.
§ 250. Preliminary Inquest.
§ 251. Power of Courts to Suspend or Disbar.
§ 252. Liability of Attorney to Disbarment or Suspension.
§ 253. Discretion of Court in Suspending or Disbarring.
§ 254. Effect of Suspension or Disbarment.
§ 255. —Right to Practice in Other Courts of Same Jurisdiction.
§ 256. —Right to Practice in Another Jurisdiction.

B. GROUNDS FOR SUSPENSION OR DISBARMENT.

§ 257. Generally.
§ 258. Misconduct before Admission.
§ 259. Fraud in Procuring Admission.
§ 260. Moral Turpitude; Want or Loss of Moral Character.
§ 261. Professional Misconduct Generally.
§ 262. Perverting or Obstructing Justice.
§ 263. —Fabricating or Suppressing Papers or Evidence and Tampering with Witnesses.
§ 264. Misconduct toward Court or Judge.
§ 265. —Abusive Conduct.
§ 266. —Criticism of Judicial Acts.
§ 267. —Effect of Retraction, Disavowal, or Apology.
§ 268. Breach of Duties Owing to Client or Former Client.
§ 269. Conversion or Misappropriation of Client's Property.
§ 270. —When Done by One Member of Law Firm.
§ 271. —Matters in Defense or Mitigation.
§ 272. Contracts Contrary to Public Policy.
§ 273. Unethical Conduct.
§ 274. —Solicitation of Business.
§ 275. —Advertising.
§ 276. Misconduct outside Scope of Professional Relation.
§ 277. —Personal Vices Not Affecting Integrity.
§ 278. —Misconduct in Official Capacity.
§ 279. Commission or Conviction of Crime.
§ 280. —Sabotage, Rioting, Treason, and Disloyalty.
§ 281. —Necessity of Prior Conviction or Prosecution.
§ 282. —Effect of Pending Prosecution.
§ 283. —Effect of Failure to Indict, Nol. Pros. or Acquittal.
§ 284. —Effect of Pardon.
§ 285. Acts or Convictions in Other Jurisdictions.

C. PROCEDURE.

§ 286. Generally.
§ 287. Nature of Proceeding.
§ 288. Time within Which Proceedings Must Be Instituted.
§ 289. Notice and Opportunity to Be Heard.
§ 290. In Whose Name and by Whom Proceeding Instituted.
§ 291. Charges.
§ 292. Demurrer or Answer and Subsequent Pleadings.
§ 293. Evidence—Presumptions.
§ 294. —Admissibility of Evidence.
§ 295. —Weight and Sufficiency.
§ 296. Trial or Hearing.
§ 297. —Right to Jury Trial.
§ 298. —Continuance.
§ 299. Judgment and Enforcement Thereof.
§ 300. Review.

XI.—continued.
D. Reinstatement of Attorney.
§ 301. Generally.

I. INTRODUCTORY

§ 1. Scope.—This article is a presentation of the law governing attorneys at law and their relations with their clients generally. It comprehends a discussion of the nature, status, and purpose of the office of attorney; the qualifications and admission to the practice of attorneys; the creation and termination of the relation of attorney and client; the rights, privileges, duties, and disabilities arising from the office or relation; the authority of the attorney and his client's responsibility for his acts; the liability of the attorney to his client or to third persons; the compensation of attorneys and their rights to assert liens for their fees; and the punishment, suspension, or disbarment of attorneys. Other articles discuss the authority of particular persons or classes of persons to employ an attorney;[1] the right of an attorney to act as surety for his client;[2] arguments of counsel;[3] and the question of attorneys' fees as costs.[4] The subject of privileged communications arising by reason of the relation of attorney and client also is treated elsewhere,[5] as is the question of the attorney's liability for, and the privilege attaching to, defamatory communications made regarding the subject of his employment.[6]

While the validity and enforcement of contracts between attorney and client are treated in this article, the general subject of champerty and maintenance is treated in another connection.[7]

§ 2. Regulation of Practice of Law.—The practice of law is affected with a public interest, and it is both the right and duty of the state to regulate and control it so that the public welfare will be served and promoted;[8] the legislature has the power to declare acts of unauthorized practice of the law illegal and punishable by fine or imprisonment, yet there is an inherent power in the courts to control and supervise the practice of law generally, whether in or out of court, notwithstanding the acts of the legislature in exercise of its power.[9]

§ 3. What Constitutes Law Practice.—The practice of law is not limited to the conduct of cases or litigation in court;[10] it embraces the preparation of pleadings and other papers incident to actions and special proceedings, the management of such actions and proceedings on behalf of clients before judges and courts, and, in addition, conveyancing. In general, all advice to clients, and all action taken for them in matters connected with the law,[11] incorporation services,[12] assessment and condemnation services contemplating an appearance before a judicial body,[13] the foreclosure of a mortgage,[14] enforcement of a creditor's claim in bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings,[15] and conducting proceedings in attachment[16] and in matters of estates and guardianship have been held to constitute law practice,[17] as do the preparation and drafting of all kinds of legal instruments,[18] where the work done involves the determination by a trained legal mind of the legal effect of facts and conditions.[19] However, such work is not legal practice when it involves only the clerical labor of filling in blanks and stereotyped forms which involve no legal determination.[1] Generally, the collection of claims without resort to courts of law does not constitute the practice of law,[2] although it may where the collector undertakes to give legal advice, threaten debtors with legal proceedings, or represent the employer in court, either directly or through an attorney engaged by him.[3] Other matters of a legal nature which are held to be an illegal practice of law by a corporation include the maintenance of a legal department to give free legal advice,[4] the furnishing of legal services for members of a protective association,[5] and the maintenance of a collection agency,[6] but not the mere fact of paying the expenses of a particular litigation[7] or the retainer of an attorney on an annual salary basis to attend to and conduct a corporation's own legal business.[8]

---

[1] See Corporations [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 631, § 631]; Executors and Administrators [Also 11 R. C. L. p. 233, § 260]; Guardian and Ward [Also 12 R. C. L. p. 1135, § 32]; Husband and Wife [Also 13 R. C. L. p. 1286, § 324]; Infants [Also 14 R. C. L. p. 258, § 35]; Insane and Other Incompetent Persons [Also Insanity, 14 R. C. L. p. 587, § 41]; Receivers [Also 23 R. C. L. p. 116, § 124]; Trusts [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1340, § 205]; and other specific titles.

[2] See Suretyship [Also Principal and Surety, 21 R. C. L. p. 957, § 11].

[3] See Trial [Also Arguments of Counsel, 2 R. C. L. p. 403].

[4] See Costs [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 792, § 17].

[5] See Witnesses [Also 28 R. C. L. p. 548, §§ 138 et seq.].

[6] See Libel and Slander [Also 17 R. C. L. p. 338, § 85].

[7] See Champerty and Maintenance [Also 5 R. C. L. p. 267].

[8] Kelly v. Judge of Recorder's Ct. (Kelly v. Boyne) 239 Mich. 204, 214 N. W. 316, 53 A.L.R. 273; Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

[9] Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

[10] Fitchette v. Taylor, 191 Minn. 582, 254 N. W. 910, 94 A.L.R. 356; Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1918C, 131.

Counsel as to legal status and rights, conduct in respect thereof, and the disposition of issues of legal right and wrong for others by advice and negotiation for hire are as much the practice of law as though process and pleadings with or without trial were necessary. Fitchette v. Taylor, 191 Minn. 582, 254 N. W. 910, 94 A.L.R. 356.

---

[11] Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657; Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 658.

Where a person advises clients as to legal matters pending or to be brought before courts of record and prepares pleadings and proceedings for use in such courts, he "practices law." Re Bailey, 50 Mont. 365, 146 P. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1198.

The practice of law comprehends all the activities of a lawyer in advising and assisting others in all matters of law both in and out of court. Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

One who obtains employment to prosecute a claim starts suit by summons, determines the form of action, prepares the declaration, attaches a claim of lien for the services for his own benefit, keeps control of the action through substitution of attorney in blank, negotiates a settlement, authorizes the plaintiff to take judgment, and tries to take a fee out of the judgment is engaged in the practice of law. Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509.

A definition of what constitutes the practice of law in a statute forbidding the practice of law by one not admitted to the practice is not all inclusive. Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

[12] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1335; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 131.

[13] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1333.

[14] Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W. 318, 73 A.L.R. 1319.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1335.

[15] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1918C, 133.

[16] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1335.

[17] Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W. 318, 73 A.L.R. 1319.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1336.

[18] Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 658.

[19] Re Eastern Idaho Loan & T. Co. 49 Idaho, 280, 288 P. 157, 73 A.L.R. 1323.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1332; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 132.

[1] Re Eastern Idaho Loan & T. Co. 49 Idaho, 280, 288 P. 157, 73 A.L.R. 1323.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1332.

[2] Annotation: 84 A.L.R. 750.

[3] Berk v. State, 225 Ala. 324, 142 So. 832, 84 A.L.R. 740; Creditors Nat. Clearing House v. Bannwart, 227 Mass. 579, 116 N. E. 886, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 130; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

Annotation: 84 A.L.R. 751; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 133, 134.

[4] Creditors Nat. Clearing House v. Bannwart, 227 Mass. 579, 116 N. E. 886, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 130.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1332.

[5] Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1333.

[6] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1333; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 134.

[7] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1335; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 135.

[8] Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W. 318, 73 A.L.R. 1319.

The execution of trusts, such as accepting appointments as executor or administrator and acting as such, is not part of the duties peculiarly pertaining to the legal profession and does not constitute what is ordinarily understood as the practice of law.[9]

§ 4. —Work Done by Law Clerk.—The work of a law clerk approaches in a degree that of the attorney by whom he is employed; so long, however, as it is work of a preparatory nature, such as research, investigation of details, assemblage of data, and such other work as will enable the employer to carry the matter to a conclusion through his own examination, approval, or additional effort, it does not constitute the practice of law. However services rendered by a law clerk in handling uncontested probate matters, giving oral opinions on abstracts of title, and in preparing wills, leases, mortgages, bills of sale, and contracts, upon his own initiative, with no supervision from his employer, even though performed without compensation direct from the client, amount to the practice of law within the meaning of a statute prohibiting an unlicensed person from doing work of a legal nature.[10]

§ 5. Attorneys and Counsel Defined and Distinguished.—An attorney at law is one who engages in any of the branches of the practice of law.[11] According to the definition given by the Supreme Court of the United States, persons acting professionally in legal formalities, negotiations, or proceedings by the warrant or authority of their clients may be regarded as attorneys at law within the usual meaning of that designation;[12] one who makes it his business to, and does, thus act for and by the warrant of others practices law.[13]

Formerly, a distinction was quite generally made between attorneys at law and counsel. Although some theoretical distinction is sometimes still maintained,[14] the actual distinction between attorneys or solicitors and counsel or barristers is practically abolished in nearly all the states of this country.[15] The lawyer in charge of a case acts both as solicitor and counsel, and his services in the one capacity and the other cannot be well distinguished.[16] It is a common practice, however, to refer to associate attorneys as "of counsel," to distinguish them from the "attorneys of record" in a cause.

§ 6. Nature of Office of Attorney.—In acting for a client, the attorney occupies, in a sense, the position of agent or employee.[17] He is, however, more than a mere agent or servant of his client.[18] Within his sphere and in the line of his special powers, he is as independent as the judge of the court and has, not only his duties and obligations to the court and to his client, but powers entirely different from, and superior to, those of an ordinary agent.[19]

---

[9] Metcalfe v. Bradshaw, 145 Ill. 124, 33 N. E. 1116, 36 Am. St. Rep. 478.

[10] Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

[11] Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 658.

[12] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657.

[13] Re Bailey, 50 Mont. 365, 146 P. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1198.

[14] Bently v. Fidelity & D. Co. 75 N. J. L. 828, 69 A. 202, 127 Am. St. Rep. 837, 15 Ann. Cas. 1178.

The word "attorney" means attorney at law. Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

[15] Re Paschal, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

Annotation: 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 657; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 666.

[16] Re Paschal, 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992.

[17] See infra, § 47.

[18] Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134.

[19] Ibid.

An attorney is, in a certain limited sense at least, a public officer,[20] although he does not come within the meaning of the term "public officer" or "civil officer," etc., as used in statutory or constitutional provisions.[1] He occupies what may be termed a "quasi judicial office,"[2] since he is, in fact, an officer of the court.[3] Like the court itself, an attorney is an instrument or agency to advance the ends of justice.[4]

§ 7. Duties of Office.—The trust and confidence which must necessarily be reposed in an attorney by clients require in the attorney a high standard and appreciation of his duty to his clients, his profession, the courts, and the public.[5] His duties are many and varied. Often, they are defined by statute.[6] Among them is the duty to support the Constitutions and laws of the United States and the states.[7] He must uphold the laws, counsel his fellow citizens to use peaceful and lawful methods in seeking justice,[8] and refrain from doing an intentional wrong to the adverse party.[9] Above all, an attorney owes to the court the duty of good faith and honorable dealing,[10] of maintaining a respectful and courteous attitude toward it, and of being obedient to its rules and proper orders.[11] He has no right, under the guise of protecting the interest of his client, to depart from the well-established rules of practice in order unnecessarily to insult, scandalize, and otherwise impugn the honor and integrity of the court.[12] He should be amenable to the rules and discipline of the court in all matters of order or procedure not in conflict with the Constitution or laws of the state.[13]

---

[20] Re Bergeron, 220 Mass. 472, 107 N. E. 1007, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 549; Robinson's Case, 131 Mass. 376, 41 Am. Rep. 239, per Gray, Ch. J.

Annotation: 17 L.R.A. 244.

[1] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Re Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Ex parte Yale, 24 Cal. 241, 85 Am. Dec. 62; Re Thomas, 16 Colo. 441, 27 P. 707, 13 L.R.A. 538.

Annotation: 17 L.R.A. 245.

[2] Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622.

[3] Powell v. Alabama, 287 U. S. 45, 77 L. ed. 158, 53 S. Ct. 55, 84 A.L.R. 527; Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Re Speakman, 32 Ariz. 307, 257 P. 986, 56 A.L.R. 169; Paul v. Stuckey, 126 Ark. 389, 189 S. W. 676, L.R.A.1917B, 888; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; Kloss v. State, 95 Fla. 433, 116 So. 39, citing R. C. L.; West v. Field, — Ga. — 181 S. E. 661, 101 A.L.R. 465; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; People ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Beattie, 137 Ill. 553, 27 N. E. 1096, 31 Am. St. Rep. 384; State v. Perkins, 138 Kan. 899, 28 P. (2d) 765, citing R. C. L.; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A. (N.S.) 240; Huggins v. Field, 196 Ky. 501, 244 S. W. 903, 29 A.L.R. 1268; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679; Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Re Bergeron, 220 Mass. 472, 107 N. E. 1007, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 549; Bar Asso. v. Casey, 211 Mass. 187, 97 N. E. 751, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1226; Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207, 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851; Seawell v. Parsons Lumber Co. 172 N. C. 320, 90 S. E. 241, citing R. C. L.; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218; Austin's Case, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657; Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226; Cooper v. Bell, 127 Tenn. 142, 153 S. W. 844, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 980; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A. (N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829; Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156; Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

An attorney for an indigent prisoner, in particular, stands in the position of a quasi public officer charged with the dual responsibility of a faithful discharge of his duties both to the individual and the state. State v. Hudson, — R. I. —, 179 A. 130, 100 A.L.R. 313.

[4] People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851.

[5] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737.

[6] Re Clifton, 33 Idaho, 614, 196 P. 670, 19 A.L.R. 931; Re Sylvester, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180; State v. Breckenridge, 126 Okla. 86, 258 P. 744, 53 A.L.R. 1239.

[7] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Re Clifton, 33 Idaho, 614, 196 P. 670, 19 A.L.R. 931; Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

[8] Re Hittson, 20 N. M. 319, 150 P. 733, L.R.A.1916A, 1171; State ex rel. McLaughlin v. Graves, 73 Or. 331, 144 P. 484, L.R.A. 1915C, 259.

[9] Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848.

[10] Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; Kloss v. State, 95 Fla. 433, 116 So. 39, citing R. C. L.; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; People ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Beattie, 137 Ill. 553, 27 N. E. 1096, 31 Am. St. Rep. 384; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240; Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207, 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Austin's Case, 5 Rawle, 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829; Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

No attorney at law should be permitted to engage in or continue in a course of conduct which brings the profession into disrepute. People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v.

§ 8. —Precedence of Public, over Private, Duties.—An attorney at law has both public and private obligations, being sworn to act with all good fidelity toward both his client and the court.[14] His private obligations comprise those duties which he owes to his client;[15] his public duty consists in his obligation to aid the administration of justice,[16] to uphold the dignity of the court and respect its authority,[17] and to co-operate with it whenever justice would otherwise be imperiled.[18] Where his duties to his client conflict with those he owes to the public as an officer of the court in the administration of justice, the former must yield to the latter.[19] He violates his oath of office when he resorts to deception or allows his client to do so.[20]

§ 9. Sale of Law Business; Restrictive Covenants.—The good will that an attorney at law has built up in the practice of his profession may be made the subject of sale, like that of any other business.[1] So, while it has been held that specific performance of an agreement to purchase the business of an attorney will be denied,[2] it is held that an agreement made by an attorney at law, upon the sale of his business and good will, not to engage in the practice of his profession in the place to which the good will relates will be sustained.[3] So also, agreements made by clerks employed in the offices of attorneys not to practice their profession within a certain radius of a town or with-

---

Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737.

[11] Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; Re Speakman, 32 Ariz. 307, 257 P. 986, 56 A.L.R. 169; Huggins v. Field, 196 Ky. 501, 244 S. W. 903, 29 A.L.R. 1268; Re Cohen, 261 Mass. 484, 159 N. E. 495, 55 A.L.R. 1309; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 1185.

It is the especial duty and obligation of members of the bar to protect the good name of the courts against ill-founded and unwarranted attacks. Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 572.

As to when the attorney's conduct amounts to contempt, see CONTEMPT [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 493, § 7].

[12] Huggins v. Field, 196 Ky. 501, 244 S. W. 903, 29 A.L.R. 1268; Re Mindes, 88 N. J. L. 117, 95 A. 743, citing R. C. L.

[13] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

[14] Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622.

[15] See infra, §§ 48, 49.

[16] Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

[17] Huggins v. Field, 196 Ky. 501, 244 S. W. 903, 29 A.L.R. 1268.

[18] People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851.

[19] Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622.

An attorney is not justified in wrongfully deviating from a strict performance of his duty to the court, because of a bona fide belief that his adversary is attempting to take an unfair advantage. Re Hittson, 20 N. M. 319, 150 P. 733, L.R.A.1916A, 1171.

[20] Kloss v. State, 95 Fla. 433, 116 So. 39, citing R. C. L.; People v. Beattie, 137 Ill. 553, 27 N. E. 1096, 31 Am. St. Rep. 384.

There is nothing in the duty of diligence which a lawyer owes to his client which in any way makes it necessary under any circumstances, for him to practice, or attempt to practice, a fraud on the court or to swear to that which is not true. People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Martin, 288 Ill. 615, 124 N. E. 340, 14 A.L.R. 854.

He must enter into no unlawful conspiracy with his client, the judge, or any other person, which might have a tendency either to frustrate the administration of justice or to obtain for his client something to which he is not justly and fairly entitled. Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622.

[1] See GOOD WILL [Also 12 R. C. L. p. 982, §§ 6 et seq.].

[2] Annotation: L.R.A.1918E, 628.

[3] Smalley v. Greene, 52 Iowa, 241, 3 N. W. 78, 35 Am. Rep. 267.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 926.

in certain counties after the termination of their employment have been upheld.[4]

§ 10. Necessity of Representation by Attorney.—In England, prior to the enactment of statutes regulating the subject giving the courts the power to examine and admit attorneys, a suitor was not permitted to have an attorney, because the words of the writ commanded the defendant to appear, and that was always taken to mean in proper person. Attorneys, anterior to the statutes, could be had only by those who had permission of the King, and such attorneys were simply attorneys in fact. It was the custom of the King to direct his writs to the judges, commanding them to receive such persons by their attorney, and the judges were bound so to do.[5] The statute which gave shape to the matter and became a model for later statutes was that of 4 Hen. IV. chap. 18, which, among other things, provided that "all attorneys should be examined by the justices, and by their discretion their names should be put upon the roll." Under the American practice, it would seem that unless the English statutes on the subject are considered to be in force, a state statute is necessary in order that attorneys may be admitted to practice in the courts, and in the absence of statutory regulations, the common-law rule that all persons should appear in person would be operative.[6] The existence of a statute authorizing appearance by attorney does not, however, render such method of appearance obligatory. A party to an action may appear in his own proper person or by attorney,[7] unless such party is a corporation, in which case it can appear only by attorney.[8] Even a natural person cannot appear both in person and by attorney; he must elect between the two. If he appears by attorney, he must be heard through him alone.[9] If after the trial begins he insists upon examining a witness himself, he may be required to continue with the trial by himself.[10] However, it has been held not error to permit an attorney who is party to a suit to appear as his own attorney and argue the case to the jury, although he is represented by other counsel in the case.[11]

Every person, sui juris, who is charged with crime has the constitutional right to try his own cause,[12] and a trial court is not justified in imposing counsel on a defendant against his will, unless, indeed, it appears that he is mentally incompetent or not sui juris at the time of the trial.[13] The constitutional provision relating to the right of a prisoner to have the assistance of counsel was inserted for the purpose of abrogating the common-law practice under which prisoners accused of felony were denied such right, and to restrain the legislature from denying it by statute. Such provision is merely permissive, and conditional upon the pleasure of the accused. Preferring the protection of the court or choosing to rely upon his own skill and ability, he may not desire the assistance of counsel.[14] But he must elect by which method to proceed; he cannot insist upon examining one witness himself and then proceeding through his counsel.[15]

---

[4] Annotation: 26 L.R.A.(N.S.) 961.

[5] State ex rel. Wolfe v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520.

[6] State ex rel. Wolfe v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314.

[7] Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204; Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Henck v. Todhunter, 7 Harr. & J. (Md.) 275, 16 Am. Dec. 300; Abernethy v. Burns, 206 N. C. 370, 173 S. E. 899, citing R. C. L.

[8] Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204.

[9] Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Henck v. Todhunter, 7 Harr. & J. (Md.) 275, 16 Am. Dec. 300; Abernethy v. Burns, 206 N. C. 370, 173 S. E. 899, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[10] People v. Northcott, 209 Cal. 639, 289 P. 634, 70 A.L.R. 806.

[11] Scott v. Times-Mirror Co. 181 Cal. 345, 184 P. 672, 12 A.L.R. 1007.

[12] State v. Yoes, 67 W. Va. 546, 68 S. E. 181, 140 Am. St. Rep. 978; Dietz v. State, 149 Wis. 462, 136 N. W. 166, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 732.

[13] State v. Moore, 121 Mo. 514, 26 S. W. 345, 42 Am. St. Rep. 542, affirmed in 159 U. S. 673, 40 L. ed. 301, 16 S. Ct. 179; Dietz v. State, 149 Wis. 462, 136 N. W. 166, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 732.

§ 11. Privileges and Exemptions of Office.—An attorney, as such, enjoys various privileges and exemptions not enjoyed by laymen; these privileges are granted for the purpose of protecting the courts from interruption and delay; they are such as are considered necessary for the due administration of justice and the protection of the client's rights[16] and are of common-law origin, although in many states they have been made the subject of statutory regulation. For example, attorneys are usually among the classes of persons exempted by statute from jury service.[17] Such statutes would seem, however, to apply only to those who follow the business of the profession of law as their vocation or calling, and persons who, while nominally attorneys at law, are engaged as a means of livelihood in some other business are not exempt from jury service.

At common law, attorneys, barristers, and solicitors were privileged from arrest on any civil process while going to the place of trial, while attending there for the purposes of the cause, and while returning home,[18] and this common-law privilege is recognized in many states.[19] In others, there are express statutory provisions exempting attorneys from arrest while attending court in connection with causes in which they are employed,[20] some of which extend to arrest on a criminal warrant.[1] In some states, however, the privilege formerly existing has been modified or expressly repealed, and in still others it seems that it has never been recognized or acknowledged.[2]

In many jurisdictions attorneys, while attending court, are exempt from the service of summons or other process other than arrest; in some this exemption is limited to nonresident attorneys within the state for this purpose. In other jurisdictions there seems to be no such exemption in favor of attorneys. This matter is discussed in detail under another title.[3]

§ 12. Imposition of Occupation Tax—In General.—Statutes have been enacted imposing occupation taxes upon persons pursuing the vocation of attorney at law;[4] the constitutionality of these statutes has generally been sustained,[5] although some have been condemned as an invasion of the judicial department of the government.[6] Such taxes are different from and in addition to the license to practice,[7] being laid for revenue, and not an exaction for purposes of regulation,[8] and may, as a general rule, be imposed notwithstanding a previous license to practice.[9] The imposition of such taxes has been held not to conflict with a constitutional provision that all taxes shall be uniform and in proportion to the value of the property taxed,[10] nor is such a tax to be construed as a poll or capitation tax.[11] The power to levy such taxes includes the power to compel payment thereof as a condition precedent to entering on or practicing such occupation, and the power to impose a penalty for nonpayment.[12] In some jurisdictions an action at law will lie against an attorney at law to compel the payment of his occupation tax.[13]

---

[14] State v. Yoes, 67 W. Va. 546, 68 S. E. 181, 140 Am. St. Rep. 978.

[15] People v. Northcott, 209 Cal. 639, 289 P. 634, 70 A.L.R. 806.

[16] Annotation: 71 A.L.R. 1399; L.R.A. 1917B, 893.

[17] Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519.

The constitutionality of such statutes is upheld by the weight of authority. Annotation: 5 Ann. Cas. 783.

[18] Greenleaf v. People's Bank, 133 N. C. 292, 45 S. E. 638, 63 L.R.A. 499, 98 Am. St. Rep. 709; Bennington Iron Co. v. Rutherford, 18 N. J. L. 105, 35 Am. Dec. 528.

Generally, as to privilege from arrest on civil process, see ARREST, Vol. 4, p. 64, §§ 93–115.

[19] Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; Hoffman v. Bay County Circuit Judge, 113 Mich. 109, 71 N. W. 480, 38 L.R.A. 663, 67 Am. St. Rep. 458.

[20] Hoffman v. Bay County Circuit Judge, 113 Mich. 109, 71 N. W. 480, 38 L.R.A. 663, 67 Am. St. Rep. 458.

[1] Durst v. Tautges (C. C. A. 7th) 44 F. (2d) 507, 71 A.L.R. 1394 (construing Illinois statute).

[2] Greenleaf v. People's Bank, 133 N. C. 292, 45 S. E. 638, 63 L.R.A. 499, 98 Am. St. Rep. 709.

[3] See PROCESS [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 1304, § 48].

[4] Royall v. Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 29 L. ed. 735, 6 S. Ct. 510; Cousins v. State, 50 Ala. 113, 20 Am. Rep. 290; Young v. Thomas, 17 Fla. 169, 35 Am. Rep. 93; Blanchard v. State, 30 Fla. 223, 11 So. 785, 18 L.R.A. 409; Simmons v. State, 12 Mo. 268, 49 Am. Dec. 131; American Union Exp. Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675, 27 Am. Rep. 382; Wilmington v. Macks, 86 N. C. 88, 41 Am. Rep. 443; Abraham v. Roseburg, 55 Or. 359, 105 P. 401, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 597; Ex parte Williams, 31 Tex. Crim. Rep. 262, 20 S. W. 580, 21 L.R.A. 783; Ould v. Richmond,

Each member of a firm of practicing lawyers may be required to pay the prescribed tax.[14]

§ 13. —By Municipal Corporation.—The legislature may delegate to municipalities authority to impose a tax on occupations and employments, including the occupation of attorney at law.[15] Such a tax may be imposed upon an attorney at law who has his office and place of business within the city limits, although he resides outside,[16] unless the authority granted to levy and collect license taxes on attorneys at law is, by its terms, limited to those residing in the city.[17] The power is not affected by the fact that the state has or has not imposed an occupation tax upon attorneys.[18] However, statutes del-

---

23 Gratt. (Va.) 464, 14 Am. Rep. 139; Petersburg v. Cocke, 94 Va. 244, 26 S. E. 576, 36 L.R.A. 432.
Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 409; 21 L.R.A. 783; 129 Am. St. Rep. 291.

[5] Cousins v. State, 50 Ala. 113, 20 Am. Rep. 290; Ex parte Williams, 31 Tex. Crim. Rep. 262, 20 S. W. 580, 21 L.R.A. 783.
Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 409; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

Such a tax is not unconstitutional as to lawyers on the ground that some criminal might be deprived of counsel by reason of the law, at least without showing that some criminal has actually been deprived thereby of legal counsel. Ex parte Williams, 31 Tex. Crim. Rep. 262, 20 S. W. 580, 21 L.R.A. 783.

[6] Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 409; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 600.

[7] Royall v. Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 29 L. ed. 735, 6 S. Ct. 510.

[8] Ibid.

[9] Young v. Thomas, 17 Fla. 169, 35 Am. Rep. 93; Ex parte Williams, 31 Tex. Crim. Rep. 262, 20 S. W. 580, 21 L.R.A. 783; Ould v. Richmond, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 469, 14 Am. Rep. 139.
Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 409; 8 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1274; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

[10] Simmons v. State, 12 Mo. 268, 49 Am. Dec. 131; Ex parte Williams, 31 Tex. Crim. Rep. 262, 20 S. W. 580, 21 L.R.A. 783.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

[11] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

[12] Royall v. Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 29 L. ed. 735, 6 S. Ct. 510; Cousins v. State, 50 Ala. 113, 20 Am. Rep. 290; Wilmington v. Macks, 86 N. C. 88, 41 Am. Rep. 443; Simmons v. State, 12 Mo. 268, 49 Am. Dec. 131.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

[13] Shepherd v. Little Rock, 183 Ark. 244, 35 S. W. (2d) 361, citing R. C. L.; Wilmington v. Macks, 86 N. C. 88, 41 Am. Rep. 443.

[14] Blanchard v. State, 30 Fla. 223, 11 So. 785, 18 L.R.A. 409.
Annotation: 129 Am. St. Rep. 293; 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 394.

Under a statute applicable to "any person, firm, company, or corporation, who desires to engage in or carry on any business or profession hereinafter named," each member of a firm must pay the sum required. Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 409.

[15] Davies v. Hot Springs, 141 Ark. 521, 217 S. W. 769, citing R. C. L.; Wilmington v. Macks, 86 N. C. 88, 41 Am. Rep. 443; Abraham v. Roseburg, 55 Or. 359, 105 P. 401, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 597; Ould v. Richmond, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 464, 14 Am. Rep. 139; Petersburg v. Cocke, 94 Va. 244, 26 S. E. 576, 36 L.R.A. 432.
Annotation: 129 Am. St. Rep. 292; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

Authority "to license and regulate all such callings, trades, and employments as the public good may require to be licensed" empowers a city to impose a license tax upon attorneys. Abraham v. Roseburg, 55 Or. 359, 105 P. 401, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 597.

A city council may, by ordinance, divide lawyers into certain classes and require the members of each class to pay a specified tax, such classification being made by a committee, and public notice being given so that any lawyer dissatisfied with his classification may appear and correct it if it is erroneous. Ould v. Richmond, 23 Gratt. (Va.) 464, 14 Am. Rep. 139.

[16] Petersburg v. Cocke, 94 Va. 244, 26 S. E. 576, 36 L.R.A. 432.
Annotation: 129 Am. St. Rep. 293.

[17] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

[18] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

egating this power are to be strictly construed; the delegation of authority should be in clear and unmistakable terms.[19]

II. ADMISSION TO PRACTICE

A. In General

§ 14. Right and License to Practice.—The practice of law is not a profession open to all who wish to engage in it, nor is it a natural, inherent, or vested right, or one guaranteed by the Constitution; it is a personal right or privilege limited to persons of good moral character, with special qualifications duly ascertained and certified.[20] The privilege cannot be assigned or inherited, but must be earned by study and good conduct.[1] It is in the nature of a franchise from the state conferred only for merit.[2] Without any statutes on the subject of admission to practice, a person cannot practice as an attorney without a license from the court,[3] even though associated as partner with a duly licensed attorney,[4] not even by hiring a licensed attorney to practice law for his own benefit or profit,[5] for the admission of attorneys to the practice of law in the state courts is subject entirely to state control.[6] This is true although the claim involved in the litigation arises out of interstate commerce.[7] Statutes usually forbid the practice of law by those who are unlicensed,[8] although a party complying with the statutory conditions is entitled as of right to a license to practice law,[9] which he may enforce by mandamus against an officer whose duty to issue it is merely ministerial.[10]

---

[19] American U. Exp. Co. v. St. Joseph, 66 Mo. 675, 27 Am. Rep. 382; Abraham v. Roseburg, 55 Or. 359, 105 P. 401, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 597.

Annotation: 129 Am. St. Rep. 292, 293; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

A grant of authority to tax persons engaged in enumerated trades and occupations and "all other business, trades, avocations, or professions whatever has been held not to empower a municipality to tax lawyers. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 599.

[20] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; State v. Rosborough, 152 La. 945, 94 So. 858, citing R. C. L.; Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298; Simmons v. State, 12 Mo. 268, 49 Am. Dec. 131; Re Bailey, 50 Mont. 365, 146 P. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1198; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218; Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418; Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527; Re Ellis, 118 Wash. 484, 203 P. 957, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel Mackintosh v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 821, 17 Ann. Cas. 625.

Annotation: 14 L.R.A. 581; 44 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1196.

The right to practice law is not a privilege or immunity of a citizen of the United States within the provision of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution forbidding the abridgment of such privileges or immunities by state laws. Re Lockwood, 154 U. S. 116, 38 L. ed. 929, 14 S. Ct. 1082; Bradwell v. Illinois, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 130, 21 L. ed. 442.

[1] Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A, 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

[2] Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

[3] Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W. 318, 73 A.L.R. 1319; Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750.

[4] Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 752.

[5] Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W. 318, 73 A.L.R. 1319.

[6] Bradwell v. Illinois, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 130, 21 L. ed. 442; Re Bailey, 50 Mont. 365, 146 P. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1198; Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

The Federal courts will be governed by that interpretation of a state statute controlling admission to the practice which is given by the courts of the state. Re Lockwood, 154 U. S. 116, 38 L. ed. 929, 14 S. Ct. 1082.

[7] Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

[8] Berk v. State, 225 Ala. 324, 142 So. 832, 84 A.L.R. 740.

Where a statute forbids, under penalty, any person to practice law in any court in the state, except in a justice's, recorder's, or municipal court, without having received a license as attorney, or counselor, such statute limits the right of appearing as an attorney before courts-martial to those who have obtained the required license. State v. Crosby, 24 Nev. 115, 50 P. 127, 77 Am. St. Rep. 786.

Such statutes are valid enactments under the police power; they constitute no usurpation of judicial power. Berk v. State, 225 Ala. 324, 142 So. 832, 84 A.L.R. 740.

The right to practice law is usually attested by a certificate of the authority [11] to which may be attached such terms, conditions, and restrictions as may be deemed necessary for the public good,[12] consistent with the nature and purpose of the right or privilege to be exercised.[13]

§ 15. Jurisdiction to Admit.—In England, though provision was made as early as the Act of 4 Hen. IV. chap. 18, for the examination and enrolment of attorneys by the judges, the courts never appoint barristers or counselors at law; they are called to the bar by the inns of court.[14] This power of admission is delegated by the judges to the inns of court, and their conduct is subject to the control of the judges as visitors. No one is called to the bar who is not a member of an inn, and on the question of admission to an inn, there is no appeal from the benchers. As visitors, the judges have jurisdiction only over actually admitted members of an inn.[15] In some of the American colonies the power of appointing attorneys was exercised by the governor of the colony, who, however, usually took advice from the court of last resort,[16] and this practice was adopted in some states.[17] But under the modern practice in the United States, although the function is administrative rather than judicial in nature, admission to practice as an attorney at law, or the licensing of attorneys, is not regarded as the exercise of a mere ministerial power, but as a judicial function, and is therefore intrusted to the courts [18] or the judicial department,[19] rather than to the legislative branch of government.[20] Admission to the practice of law is an inherent power of the court.[1] The power to prescribe all reasonable rules for the admission of persons desiring to practice, subject, of course, to the paramount authority of the Constitution and laws of the state, exists as one of its inherent privileges, necessarily incident to its control over the membership of its bar.[2]

The legislature may, however, confer on particular courts of the state the exclusive control over the admission of attorneys;[3] in a number of states this power is vested in the highest court of the state.[4]

---

[9] Royall v. Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 29 L. ed. 735, 6 S. Ct. 510.

[10] Sands v. Edmunds, 116 U. S. 585, 29 L. ed. 739, 6 S. Ct. 516; Royall v. Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 29 L. ed. 735, 6 S. Ct. 510.

[11] Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

[12] Yeiser v. Dysart, 267 U. S. 540, 69 L. ed. 775, 45 S. Ct. 399; State ex rel. Mackintosh v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 821, 17 Ann. Cas. 625.

[13] Re Collins, 188 Cal. 701, 206 P. 990, 32 A.L.R. 1062.

[14] State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519.

[15] Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207, 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740.

[16] State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314.

[17] Re Hahn, 85 N. J. Eq. 510, 96 A. 589, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 830.
Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 289.

[18] Re Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Brydonjack v. State Bar, 208 Cal. 439, 281 P. 1018, 66 A.L.R. 1507; Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239; Re Leach, 134 Ind. 665, 34 N. E. 641, 21 L.R.A. 701; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240; Opinion of Justices, 279 Mass. 607, 180 N. E. 725, 81 A.L.R. 1059; Fitchette v. Taylor, 191 Minn. 582, 254 N. W. 910, 94 A.L.R. 356; Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187; Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418; Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527; Re Goodell, 39 Wis. 232, 20 Am. Rep. 42.

[19] Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991.

[20] Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240; Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

[1] Brydonjack v. State Bar, 208 Cal. 439, 281 P. 1018, 66 A.L.R. 1507.

An act creating a court, which grants to it the power to make rules for regulating the forms and mode of procedure before it, gives that court authority to make rules for the admission of persons to appear before it as attorneys. Manning v. French, 149 Mass. 391, 21 N. E. 945, 4 L.R.A. 339.

[2] Re Leach, 134 Ind. 665, 34 N. E. 641, 21 L.R.A. 701.

§ 16. Nonresident Practitioners.—It is the general practice of the courts of record in the several states to permit members of the bar in other states to appear as counsel on the trial or argument of causes. No license is necessary or proper for that purpose, the usual and proper practice being for the court in which the case is pending to grant leave, ex gratia, for the occasion.[5] Such right, however, exists merely by privilege and permission,[6] and it seems that in some jurisdictions, while a nonresident attorney may try or assist in the trial or conduct of a pending action or proceeding, he has no authority to commence an action therein.[7]

§ 17. Liability for Unauthorized Practice of Law.—If an attorney unlawfully practices law without a license, he may be punished as for a contempt of court,[8] or he may be subjected to a criminal prosecution.[9] A person's right to practice law may also be questioned and legally prohibited in quo warranto proceedings,[10] or it may be challenged by a suit for an injunction, notwithstanding the fact that it constitutes a violation of the criminal law.[11] The action of a corporation in practicing law may be punished by ouster from its franchise in a proceeding in quo warranto or by a fine.[12]

§ 18. Who May Challenge Right.—It is unlawful for one to undertake to practice law without a license as prescribed by the local practice and laws, and he may be prosecuted therefor; a criminal prosecution may not, however, afford adequate relief, and it is generally held that duly licensed members of the bar may invoke the jurisdiction of the courts to restrain the illegal practice of law by others.[13] In other words, attorneys, as officers of the court, may, both for themselves and all the affected members of their profession, institute and maintain a suit to challenge or enjoin the unlawful intrusion into their office and professional field by one who is not licensed to do so.[14] They may, for example, bring a petition or proceeding to have persons illegally engaged in the practice of law adjudged to be in contempt of the court.[15] It seems, however, that a party to an action cannot object to the appearance of the opposite party by attorney because such attorney has not paid for and procured the license required by law.[16]

---

[3] State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240.

Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 289; 10 Ann. Cas. 198.

The matter of admission to practice law may be assumed to be a subject for legislative regulation. Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

[4] Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A. (N.S.) 240; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218; Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

[5] Tuppela v. Mathison (C. C. A. 9th) 291 F. 728, citing R. C. L.; Freeling v. Tucker, 49 Idaho, 475, 289 P. 85, citing R. C. L.; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; State v. Union Nat. Bank, 145 Ind. 537, 44 N. E. 585, 57 Am. St. Rep. 209; Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323; Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 754.

[6] Youmans v. Hanna, 35 N. D. 479, 160 N. W. 705, 161 N. W. 797, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 263.

[7] Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707.

[8] Re Eastern Idaho Loan & T. Co. 49 Idaho, 280, 288 P. 157, 73 A.L.R. 1323; Re Bailey, 50 Mont. 365, 146 P. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1198; Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226; Re Morse, 98 Vt. 85, 126 A. 550, 36 A.L.R. 527.

Annotation: 36 A.L.R. 533, s. 100 A.L.R. 236; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1200.

If a person is prevented from obtaining a license to practice, in violation of his constitutional rights, he cannot be punished for practicing without it. Royall v. Virginia, 116 U. S. 572, 29 L. ed. 735, 6 S. Ct. 510.

[9] Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

[10] Berk v. State, 225 Ala. 324, 142 So. 832, 84 A.L.R. 740.

[11] Fitchette v. Taylor, 191 Minn. 582, 254 N. W. 910, 94 A.L.R. 356; Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

Annotation: 94 A.L.R. 359.

Generally as to jurisdiction of equity to restrain criminal acts see INJUNCTIONS [Also 14 R. C. L. p. 376, § 78].

[12] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1336.

[13] See 4 Ohio Jur. Supplement, § 4a.

B. Qualifications and Eligibility

§ 19. Generally.—Originally the courts alone determined the qualifications of candidates for admission to the bar,[17] and this power still exists.[18] It does not depend upon either the Constitution or statutes for its existence, but exists in all courts of record, unless restricted or taken away by express legislation.[19] The courts have, however, generally acquiesced in all reasonable provisions relating to qualifications enacted by the legislature,[20] so long as the rules and regulations prescribed are not unreasonable or do not deprive the courts of their inherent power to prescribe other rules and conditions of admission to practice.[1] The exercise of such power is held not to violate any constitutional or inherent prerogative of the court.[2] There are, it is true, some courts which have taken the view that courts cannot add qualifications to those prescribed by the legislature, but must admit those shown to have the qualifications prescribed,[3] but, as a general rule, the court will itself prescribe such other qualifications as may seem necessary to it in order to protect it, as well as the public at large, from persons of bad repute.[4] In some jurisdictions the courts have even denied the existence of any power whatever in the legislature to prescribe what qualifications shall be prerequisite to admission of an attorney,[5] especially if the legislature overrides the judicial department.[6]

---

[14] Fitchette v. Taylor, 191 Minn. 582, 254 N. W. 910, 94 A.L.R. 356.

[15] Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

[16] Harrington v. Edwards, 17 Wis. 586, 84 Am. Dec. 768.

[17] Re Secombe, 19 How. (U. S.) 9, 15 L. ed. 565; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240.

[18] Opinion of Justices, 279 Mass. 607, 180 N. E. 725, 81 A.L.R. 1059; Manning v. French, 149 Mass. 391, 21 N. E. 945, 4 L.R.A. 339, writ of error dismissed in 133 U. S. 186, 33 L. ed. 582, 10 S. Ct. 258.

Annotation: 10 Ann. Cas. 198.

[19] Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418.

[20] Brydonjack v. State Bar, 208 Cal. 439, 281 P. 1018, 66 A.L.R. 1507; Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Ex parte Yale, 24 Cal. 241, 85 Am. Dec. 62; Re Leach, 134 Ind. 665, 34 N. E. 641, 21 L.R.A. 701; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240; Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298; Re Taylor, 48 Md. 28, 30 Am. Rep. 451; Kelley v. Judge of Recorder's Ct. (Kelley v. Boyne) 239 Mich. 204, 214 N. W. 316, 53 A.L.R. 273; Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207, 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740; Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A. (N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 1512, s. 81 A.L.R. 1064; 10 Ann. Cas. 198.

[1] Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Ex parte Secombe, 19 How. (U. S.) 9, 15 L. ed. 565; Brydonjack v. State Bar, 208 Cal. 439, 281 P. 1018, 66 A.L.R. 1507; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240; Opinion of Justices, 279 Mass. 607, 180 N. E. 725, 81 A.L.R. 1059.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 1512, s. 81 A.L.R. 1064.

The power of the legislature to prescribe the amount of learning on which the court must admit a person to practice has never been recognized by the state courts, except in regard to statutes providing that any person who holds a diploma from a designated law school shall be granted a license thereon. Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519.

Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 289.

[2] Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187.

[3] Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288.

[4] Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 289.

Statutes are regarded as fixing the minimum and not as setting bounds beyond which the judicial department cannot go. Opinion of Justices, 279 Mass. 607, 180 N. E. 725, 81 A.L.R. 1059.

[5] State ex rel. Clyatt v. Hocker, 39 Fla. 477, 22 So. 721, 63 Am. St. Rep. 174; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519;

§ 20. Eligibility to Admission or Practice Generally.—It is generally required that applicant for admission to the bar be of legal age at the time of his application,[7] or at least before the time for the next examination.[8] Eligibility is not, however, to be determined by whether the applicant is qualified to hold a public office.[9]

Membership of the bar of the court of last resort of a state is a prerequisite to admission to the bar of the United States Supreme Court.[10]

§ 21. Residence and Citizenship; Race.—It is generally required that an applicant for a license to practice law be a resident of the state in which the application is made,[11] and that he be a citizen of the United States, or eligible to naturalization,[12] and have declared his intention of becoming a citizen.[13] Such discrimination against aliens is not contrary to the Federal or state Constitutions.[14] The right to receive a license to practice law may also be limited to persons of the white race,[15] and it has been held that such a limitation does not conflict with the provisions of the Federal Constitution which give citizens of each state all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states, and forbid the making or enforcement of any law abridging the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States.[16]

§ 22. Sex.—Female attorneys at law were unknown in England, and it is well established by the decisions of the courts of the United States that the right to practice law is not a natural right inherently possessed by a woman as a citizen, independent of legislative authorization.[17] Many instances may be cited where the courts have denied the eligibility of women to be admitted to the bar, in the absence of express statutory authorization of their admis-

---

Re Goodell, 39 Wis. 232, 20 Am. Rep. 42; Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 1514, s. 81 A.L.R. 1065; 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 289.

[6] Opinion of Justices, 279 Mass. 607, 180 N. E. 725, 81 A.L.R. 1059.

[7] Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 701.

[8] Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1. 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187.

[9] Re Thomas, 16 Colo. 441, 27 P. 707, 13 L.R.A. 538; Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207. 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740.

[10] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569.

[11] Re Robinson, 82 Neb. 172, 117 N. W. 352, 17 Ann. Cas. 878; Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323; Re Yamashita, 30 Wash. 234, 70 P. 482, 59 L.R.A. 671, 94 Am. St. Rep. 860; Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 701; 17 Ann. Cas. 878.

The removal of a licensed attorney from the state, in some jurisdictions at least, takes away his right to practice in such state, at least during his nonresidence. Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 756; 17 Ann. Cas. 878.

[12] Bosque v. United States, 209 U. S. 91, 52 L. ed. 698, 28 S. Ct. 501; Agg Large v. State Bar, 218 Cal. 334, 23 P. (2d) 288, citing R. C. L.; Re Robinson, 82 Neb. 172, 117 N. W. 352, 17 Ann. Cas. 878; Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323; Re Yamashita, 30 Wash. 234, 70 P. 482, 59 L.R.A. 671, 94 Am. St. Rep. 860 (native of Japan not eligible to admission).

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 701; 17 Ann. Cas. 878.

A Spanish lawyer who had previously been denied permission to practice upon the ground that he did not possess the political qualifications required by law was held not entitled to such permission by virtue of the provisions of the Philippine Islands Code of Civil Procedure, § 13, for the admission to practice of those "not specially declared ineligible," who have been duly licensed under the laws and orders of the Islands, under the sovereignty of Spain or of the United States, and are "in good and regular standing as members of the bar." Bosque v. United States, 209 U. S. 91. 52 L. ed. 698, 28 S. Ct. 501.

[13] 1 California Jur. p. 595, § 12.

[14] Templar v. State Examiners, 131 Mich. 254, 90 N. W. 1058, 100 Am. St. Rep. 610; Wright v. May, 127 Minn. 150, 149 N. W. 9, L.R.A.1915B, 151; Re Yamashita, 30 Wash. 234, 70 P. 482, 59 L.R.A. 671, 94 Am. St. Rep. 860.

Annotation: 39 A.L.R. 349.

[15] Annotation: 53 Am. Rep. 325.

[16] Re Taylor, 48 Md. 28, 30 Am. Rep. 451; Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298.

[17] Re Lockwood, 154 U. S. 116, 38 L. ed. 929, 14 S. Ct. 1082; Bradwell v. Illinois, 16 Wall. (U. S.) 130, 21 L. ed. 442; Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298; Re Robinson, 131 Mass. 376, 41 Am. Rep. 239.

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 701.

sion.[18] Statutes which apply in terms to males only have been construed not to include females.[19] In many jurisdictions, however, the courts have admitted women to the bar on equal terms with men, in the absence of a statutory or constitutional provision to the contrary.[20] In fact, in almost all, if not all, states women may now be admitted to practise as attorneys on equal terms with men.

§ 23. Moral Character.—Satisfactory evidence of the good moral character of the applicant for admission to the bar is a usual requirement, either by virtue of express statutory regulation, or in the exercise of the power of the court to prescribe such qualifications as it may deem necessary to protect itself and the public from persons of bad repute,[1] although in some instances persons who have been admitted in other states have been admitted upon their certificates of admission in such other states without proof of good character.[2] Under some statutes an applicant for a license to practice law, who, on his examination, satisfies the court of his competent knowledge of the law, is entitled to receive a license, and no investigation into his general moral character is required or permitted. Such statutes have been held not to constitute an unwarranted exercise of judicial power by the legislature or an unlawful attempt to deprive the judicial department of a power which, of right, belongs to it.[3]

Where inquiry as to the moral character of the applicant is permissible, an absolute duty rests upon him to make a full disclosure of any charges preferred against him, irrespective of their outcome, and refusal to admit to the practice of law may be based upon the making of false statements by the applicant in his application.[4]

---

[18] Re Leach, 134 Ind. 665, 34 N. E. 641, 21 L.R.A. 701; Re Robinson, 131 Mass. 376, 41 Am. Rep. 239; Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323; Re Goodell, 39 Wis. 232, 20 Am. Rep. 42.

Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 701.

[19] Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298; Re Robinson, 131 Mass. 376, 41 Am. Rep. 239; Re Goodell, 39 Wis. 232, 20 Am. Rep. 42.

Under this view, even though a woman founds her application on a certificate of her admission in another state or territory, she cannot be admitted. Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298; Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323.

[20] Re Hall, 50 Conn. 131, 47 Am. Rep. 625; Re Leach, 134 Ind. 665, 34 N. E. 641, 21 L.R.A. 701; Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207, 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740; Re Thomas, 16 Colo. 441, 27 P. 707, 13 L.R.A. 538.

Marriage will not disqualify a woman for admission where the legal disabilities of women have been removed. Ricker's Petition, 66 N. H. 207, 29 A. 559, 24 L.R.A. 740.

[1] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569; Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Spears v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 183, 294 P. 697, 72 A.L.R. 923; Re Collins, 188 Cal. 701, 206 P. 990, 32 A.L.R. 1062; People ex rel. Maupin v. Keegan, 18 Colo. 237, 32 P. 424, 36 Am. St. Rep. 274; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Wheeler, 259 Ill. 99, 102 N. E. 188, 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1202, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 286; People ex rel. Healy v. Macauley, 230 Ill. 208, 82 N. E. 612, 120 Am. St. Rep. 287; People ex rel. Deneen v. Smith, 200 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 27, 93 Am. St. Rep. 206; Rosencranz v. Tidrington, 193 Ind. 472, 141 N. E. 58, 28 A.L.R. 1136.

See also Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 35, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187; Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323; Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380; Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355; Re Richter, 187 Wis. 490, 204 N. W. 492, 41 A.L.R. 485.

Annotation: 28 A.L.R. 1140, s. 72 A.L.R. 929; 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288; 21 L.R.A. 701.

Good character in the members of the bar is essential to the preservation of the integrity of the courts. The duty and power of the court to guard its portals against intrusion by men and women who are mentally and morally dishonest, unfit on account of bad character, evidenced by their course of conduct, to participate in the administration of law, would seem to be unquestioned as a matter of preservation of judicial dignity and integrity. Gould v. State. 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

A charge of crime, though not followed by conviction, may justify a refusal to admit the person charged to the practice of law. Spears v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 183, 294 P. 697, 72 A.L.R. 923.

A provision of a state constitution, that all attorneys at law, licensed to practice in certain designated courts of other states or of the United States, shall be eligible to practice in any court of the state without examination, does not preclude the court from inquiring into their moral qualifications when the contingency arises requiring the exercise of such power. Re Mosher, 24 Okla. 61, 102 P. 705, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 530, 20 Ann. Cas. 209.

[2] Re Leonard, 12 Or. 93, 6 P. 426, 53 Am. Rep. 323.

[3] Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187.

§ 24. Education.—Every attorney ought to possess learning sufficient to enable him either to ascertain the law or to determine his limitations in that respect for the purpose of giving safe advice, and a reasonable education may be required as a qualification for admission to the practice of law.[5] In nearly all the states the power to prescribe the period of study which shall be required of an applicant for admission to the bar has been exercised by the courts, either by virtue of their inherent power to control the admission of attorneys or by express statutory provision. This varies in the different states.[6] An applicant may be required to show that he is a graduate of, or has studied at, a college, high school, or school of equal grade,[7] and he may be required to pursue his study of law at designated law schools.[8] Some statutes provide that the possessors of certificates of graduation from certain designated law schools shall be admitted by the courts of the state to practice law.[9] In some jurisdictions one cannot be admitted to practice unless he has served a clerkship with some practicing attorney of the court for a specified time. Such a rule implies that the applicant, as clerk, must actually and regularly have assisted the attorney in his business during the prescribed period, and not merely have studied law in his office.[11]

§ 25. Right of Corporations to Practice Law.—The practice of law is not a lawful business except for members of the bar who have complied with all the conditions required by statute and the rules of the court, and cannot be engaged in by corporations; there is, accordingly, no judicial dissent from the proposition that a corporation cannot lawfully engage in the practice of law.[12] Nor can it do so indirectly by employing qualified lawyers to practice for it.[13]

---

[4] Spears v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 183, 294 P. 697, 72 A.L.R. 923.

[5] Re Bergeron, 220 Mass. 472, 107 N. E. 1007, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 549.

[6] Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187.

[7] Re Bergeron, 220 Mass. 472, 107 N. E. 1007, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 549.
Annotation: 87 A.L.R. 997.

[8] Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991.
Annotation: 87 A.L.R. 996.
Such a requirement is not waived by permitting one who attended a nonapproved school to take an examination, and notifying him that he had satisfactorily passed it, where, had the examining committee been fully advised as to the facts, it would not have permitted the applicant to take the examination. Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991.

[9] Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519.
Annotation: 87 A.L.R. 998; 10 L.R.A. (N.S.) 289.
In one instance a statute overriding the rules of court respecting admission of attorneys, by requiring the admission of any person who began to study law before a specified date, provided he has obtained a diploma from a law school in the state after a specified period of attendance, or passed a satisfactory examination before an examining board, after a prescribed course of study, was held to be an unconstitutional assumption by the legislature of power properly belonging to the courts. Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519.

[11] Re Dunn, 43 N. J. L. 359, 39 Am. Rep. 600.

[12] People v. Merchants' Protective Corp. 189 Cal. 531, 209 P. 363, citing R. C. L.; People ex rel. Los Angeles Bar Asso. v. California Protective Corp. 76 Cal. App. 354, 244 P. 1089, citing R. C. L.; Boykin v. Hopkins, 174 Ga. 511, 162 S. E. 796, citing R. C. L.; Re Eastern Idaho Loan & T. Co. 49 Idaho, 280, 288 P. 157, 73 A.L.R. 1323; Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W. 318, 73 A.L.R. 1319; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; Land Title Abstract & T. Co. v. Dworken, 129 Ohio St. 23, 193 N. E. 650, citing R. C. L.; State ex rel. Lundin v. Merchants' Protective Corp. 105 Wash. 12, 177 P. 694, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1328; 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 56; 19 Ann. Cas. 889.

[13] Re Otterness, 181 Minn. 254, 232 N. W.

C. Procedure for Admission

§ 26. Generally.—Proceedings for the admission of attorneys at law to practice are in the nature of investigations by the court or its representatives to determine whether particular candidates are qualified to become its officers, the ultimate purpose of which is to assure the courts the assistance of advocates of ability, learning, and sound character, and to protect the public from incompetent and dishonest practitioners.[14] The application for admission may be made by a written motion or by a mere oral motion and sustained by evidence without any written pleadings.[15] The applicant puts his own good moral character directly in issue by asking admission to the bar and is held to assume the burden of proof on the issue.[16] If the proof offered falls short of convincing the examiners, it is their privilege and duty to refuse to recommend such applicant for admission.[17]

§ 27. Examination of Applicants.—Express provision is usually made in the various states for the examination of applicants for admission to the bar, and for the granting of a certificate of proficiency by some designated court or committee as a prerequisite to their admission.[18] The conducting of such examinations is usually performed by a special board, committee, or referee.[19]

318, 73 A.L.R. 1319; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; Land Title Abstract & T. Co. v. Dworken, 129 Ohio St. 23, 193 N. E. 650, citing R. C. L.; Rhode Island Bar Asso. v. Automobile Serv. Asso. — R. I. —, 179 A. 139, 100 A.L.R. 226.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1331.

[14] Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991.

[15] Brydonjack v. State Bar, 208 Cal. 439, 281 P. 1018, 66 A.L.R. 1507; Rosencranz v. Tidrington, 193 Ind. 472, 141 N. E. 58, 28 A.L.R. 1136.

[16] Spears v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 183, 294 P. 697, 72 A.L.R. 923; Rosencranz v. Tidrington, 193 Ind. 472, 141 N. E. 58, 28 A.L.R. 1136.

Annotation: 28 A.L.R. 1142, s. 72 A.L.R. 930.

The presentation of a certificate of good moral character embracing all the requirements prescribed by law or the rules of court establishes this fact prima facie, but not conclusively. Annotation: 28 A.L.R. 1145, s. 82 A.L.R. 933.

The fact that a Federal court has adjudged in a proceeding, to which an applicant for admission to a state bar was not a party, that certain acts in alleged violation of the state law were not an offense against the Federal law, does not exclude from evidence proof of his admission in a prosecution in a Federal court that he had done the acts in violation of the state law. Rosencranz v. Tidrington, 193 Ind. 472, 141 N. E. 58, 28 A.L.R. 1136.

[17] Spears v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 183, 294 P. 697, 72 A.L.R. 923.

Evidence of bad moral character may be sufficient to reject the application even though it would not be enough to sustain a disbarment proceeding. Annotation: 28 A.L.R. 1144, s. 72 A.L.R. 932.

[18] Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187; St. Louis v. Meyrose Lamp Mfg. Co. 139 Mo. 560, 41 S. W. 244, 61 Am. St. Rep. 474; Re Dunn, 43 N. J. L. 359, 39 Am. Rep. 600; Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187.

Annotation: 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 289.

The Constitution of Indiana forbids examination as to legal attainments. Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187, (referring to the Constitution of Indiana); the legislature has, however, given the Supreme Court of that state exclusive jurisdiction to admit attorneys to practice law in all courts of the state under such rules and regulations as it may prescribe (Laws, 1931, Ch. 64), pursuant to which rules have been adopted requiring applicants to submit to examination.

A court rule providing for admission to practice of candidates who have passed a bar examination applies only to persons admitted to the examination in accordance with rules limiting those who may take it. Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991.

[19] In Rosenthal v. State Bar Examining Committee, 116 Conn. 409, 165 A. 211, 87 A.L.R. 991, it is held that the employment of members of the bar to ascertain the character and qualifications of applicants is reasonable and involves no unlawful delegation of judicial power.

In State ex rel. Clyatt v. Hocker, 39 Fla. 477, 22 So. 721, 63 Am. St. Rep. 174, on the other hand, it is held that members of a board of legal examiners created by the legislature are such officers as the state Constitution requires the legislature to provide either for their election by the people or their appointment by the governor, and that, consequently, a statute purporting to authorize the state supreme court to appoint such a board to examine and grant certificates to applicants is unconstitutional and void.

Whether such examination shall be wholly written or oral, or partly written or oral, who shall mark the examination papers, and what relative weight shall be given to the result thereof are matters for the determination of the judicial department.[20]

Rules made by the examiners will generally be sustained if they are reasonable.[1] Nor will the court ordinarily review the decision of the board, committee, or referee on character and fitness against granting the certificate,[2] unless a convincing showing is made that such recommendation is not based upon sound premises and valid reasoning.[3] Generally, however, the courts have plenary power to admit those who in its opinion meet the test, whether the investigators do or do not agree with its conclusion.[4]

Members of the bar of another state who have taken a residence in the state where application for admission is made are in most states, under certain prescribed conditions, relating usually to the length of practice in the state where they were originally admitted, admitted without examination.[5]

§ 28. Administration of Oath.—Provisions usually exist in the statutes of the various states requiring as a condition precedent to an attorney's admission to practice, or to his continuance in practice, the taking of a prescribed oath, and, in the absence of constitutional restriction, such a requirement is a valid exercise of the power of the legislature to impose conditions on the admission of attorneys.[6] However, an attempt to require as a condition of admission to practice, or of continuance therein, an oath to the effect that the affiant had not voluntarily borne arms against the United States or otherwise supported the organized enemies thereof violates the constitutional inhibitions against bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.[7]

III. CREATION AND TERMINATION OF RELATION OF ATTORNEY AND CLIENT

A. Creation of Relation

§ 29. Necessity of Retainer or Contract of Employment.—An attorney at law has no power to act as legal representative or counsel for a person by virtue of his license alone; there must be a contract of employment, express or implied, between him and the party for whom he purports to act or some one authorized to represent such party.[8] The authority of an attorney begins with his retainer.[9] The relationship in a particular case cannot be established by the fact that it exists in some other case or has existed at some remote time, even though the subject-matter of the two cases bears some relation to each other.[10]

---

[20] Opinion of Justices, 279 Mass. 607, 180 N. E. 725, 81 A.L.R. 1059.

[1] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 552.

[2] Annotation: 28 A.L.R. 1146.

[3] Spears v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 183, 294 P. 697, 72 A.L.R. 923.

[4] Brydonjack v. State Bar, 208 Cal. 439, 281 P. 1018, 66 A.L.R. 1507.

[5] Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; Re Maddox, 93 Md. 727, 50 A. 487, 55 L.R.A. 298; Re Mosher, 24 Okla. 61, 102 P. 705, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 530, 20 Ann. Cas. 209; Re Yamashita, 30 Wash. 234, 70 P. 482, 59 L.R.A. 671, 94 Am. St. Rep. 860; Re Mosness, 39 Wis. 509, 20 Am. Rep. 55.

[6] Ex parte Yale, 24 Cal. 241, 85 Am. Dec. 62; Re Applicants for License, 143 N. C. 1, 55 S. E. 635, 10 L.R.A.(N.S.) 288, 10 Ann. Cas. 187; Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622.

Some statutory provisions authorizing a court to permit an attorney who is not a resident of the state to practice law therein during any term of such court require that such attorney take an oath for the faithful discharge of his duties. State v. Union Nat. Bank, 145 Ind. 537, 44 N. E. 585, 57 Am. St. Rep. 209.

The fact that a state constitution prescribes the oath to be taken as a qualification for any office or public trust has been held not to affect the power of the legislature to prescribe an oath which shall be taken by attorneys. Ex parte Yale, 24 Cal. 241, 85 Am. Dec. 62.

[7] Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; Cummings v. Missouri, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 277, 18 L. ed. 356.

In Ex parte Yale, 24 Cal. 241, 85 Am. Dec. 62, however, it was held that the legislature might require of attorneys the oath prescribed in an "act to exclude traitors and alien enemies from the courts of justice in civil cases."

[8] M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon.

§ 30. Who May Employ Attorney.—Generally speaking, anyone who has the legal capacity to contract [11] may employ an attorney. No attempt, therefore, is made in this article to treat of the capacity of particular persons or classes of persons, natural or artificial, to employ attorneys at law or to bind themselves to compensate such attorneys for their services.[12]

One may, as agent for another, employ counsel on behalf of his principal.[13]

§ 31. Sufficiency of Retainer.—The relation of attorney and client is not dependent upon the payment of a fee,[14] although this is the usual and most weighty item of evidence to establish the relation. The essential feature of the relation is the fact of an employment agreement, express or implied, for compensation, but whether payment is made in part or in whole by retainer in advance is not material; nor is it even indispensable that the compensation should be assumed by the client.[15] The relation of attorney and client may be created by the employment of an attorney to prepare a deed of trust [16] or by consultation concerning a title to land.[17] It is not, however, established by the fact that a party to a contract is an attorney and offers to, and does, draw the necessary writings gratuitously.[18]

The employment of a firm of lawyers is equivalent to the retainer of each of the partners, although only one of them is consulted.[19] However, a general contract with a firm of attorneys for services does not give the client the right to demand that any particular member of the firm shall render the services or conduct the litigation.[20]

(Ky.) 190, 16 Am. Dec. 93; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662; Ewing v. Haas, 132 Va. 215, 111 S. E. 255, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 150.

In order to consummate the relation of attorney and client there must be a retainer, or an offer to retain, or a fee paid. De Wolf v. Strader, 26 Ill. 225, 79 Am. Dec. 371.

The relation of attorney and client cannot exist between an attorney employed by a corporation to practice law for it and a client of the corporation. Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A. (N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

[9] Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 43 L. ed. 1028, 19 S. Ct. 747.

[10] Sandall v. Sandall, 57 Utah, 150, 193 P. 1093, 15 A.L.R. 620.

[11] See generally CONTRACTS [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 593, § 13].

[12] See CORPORATIONS [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 631, § 631]; EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS [Also 11 R. C. L. p. 233, § 260]; GUARDIAN AND WARD [Also 12 R. C. L. p. 1135, § 32]; HUSBAND AND WIFE [Also 13 R. C. L. p. 1286, § 324]; INFANTS [Also 14 R. C. L. p. 258, § 35]; INSANE AND OTHER INCOMPETENT PERSONS [Also INSANITY, 14 R. C. L. p. 586, § 41]; MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS [Also 19 R. C. L. p. 774, § 79]; RECEIVERS [Also 23 R. C. L. p. 116, § 124]; TRUSTS [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1340, § 205]; and other specific titles.

[13] M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 190, 16 Am. Dec. 93; Swartz v. D. S. Morgan & Co. 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786; and see Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609.

A general agent, with authority to make collections for his principal, has power to direct an attorney at law to bring suit. Swartz v. D. S. Morgan & Co. 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.

[14] Pyeatt v. Estus, 72 Okla. 160, 179 P. 42, 4 A.L.R. 1570.

[15] Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

The fact that one who selects an attorney to make an examination of title for the purpose of a contemplated loan requires the borrower to furnish an abstract of title and to pay the attorney for his services does not constitute the lawyer the attorney of the borrower. Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172.

[16] Davis v. Kline, 96 Mo. 401, 9 S. W. 724, 2 L.R.A. 78,

[17] Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609.

[18] Stout v. Smith, 98 N. Y. 25, 50 Am. Rep. 632.

[19] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 16.

[20] Clifton v. Clark, 83 Miss. 446, 36 So. 251, 66 L.R.A. 821, 102 Am. St. Rep. 458, 1 Ann. Cas. 396.

§ 32. —Necessity of Writing or Warrant of Attorney.—The usual contract of employment of an attorney by a client does not fall within the statute of frauds and need not be in writing; particular contracts may, however, come within the meaning of provisions requiring a contract which is not to be performed within a specified time to be in writing.[1] Under the English practice the fact of employment is evidenced by the warrant of attorney, to be produced when rightfully demanded by the opposite party.[2] In the United States, however, it is not the usual practice to require a warrant of attorney, and the English rules in relation to that subject are not applicable.[3]

§ 33. Assignment of Counsel by the Court.—It is within the power, in fact it is the duty, of the trial judge, where the accused in a criminal case is without counsel and without means to employ counsel, to assign counsel to him;[4] and the attorney appointed is bound to render service when required by such an appointment,[5] although there is some authority to the effect that such services cannot be demanded without just compensation.[6]

The power to appoint counsel for an indigent accused has been said to be an inherent power,[7] although in some jurisdictions the power emanates from the legislature and its exercise is subject to the regulation and control of that department.[8] Some courts have construed statutes granting power to appoint counsel for the defense of indigent persons to include any proceeding in the course of a criminal prosecution from the return of the indictment or information to final acquittal or conviction,[9] and some apply the rule to all criminal prosecutions, while others limit it to the more serious crimes, or even to capital cases.[10]

A court in lunacy proceedings may be required to appoint an attorney to represent the person alleged to be insane,[11] and juvenile courts may appoint counsel to represent juvenile offenders tried before them.[12]

In appointing counsel for an indigent accused, the court should act in such a way that both the individual and the state will be impartially protected.[13] Where the trial court does not limit the number of lawyers assisting the prosecuting attorney, it has been held that additional experienced counsel should be appointed to represent the defendant.[14]

---

[1] McPherson v. Cox, 96 U. S. 404, 24 L. ed. 746.
Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 326.

[2] M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 190, 16 Am. Dec. 93.

[3] Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520; Henck v. Todhunter, 7 Harr. & J. (Md.) 275, 16 Am. Dec. 300.
Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 29.

[4] Powell v. Alabama, 287 U. S. 45, 77 L. ed. 158, 53 S. Ct. 55, 84 A.L.R. 527; Pardee v. Salt Lake County, 39 Utah, 482, 118 P. 122, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 200.
Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377.
The failure of the court to assign counsel to an indigent accused is a denial of due process of law within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment if the prosecution is a capital case. Powell v. Alabama, 287 U. S. 45, 77 L. ed. 158, 53 S. Ct. 55, 84 A.L.R. 527.

[5] Powell v. Alabama, 287 U. S. 45, 77 L. ed. 158, 53 S. Ct. 55, 84 A.L.R. 527.

[6] See infra, § 157.

[7] State v. Hudson, — R. I. —, 179 A. 130, 100 A.L.R. 313.

[8] Clay County v. McGregor, 171 Ind. 634, 87 N. E. 1, 17 Ann. Cas. 333.
Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377.

[9] State v. Hudson, — R. I. —, 179 A. 130, 100 A.L.R. 313.

[10] Powell v. Alabama, 287 U. S. 45, 77 L. ed. 158, 53 S. Ct. 55, 84 A.L.R. 527.

[11] Re Moynihan, 332 Mo. 1022, 62 S. W. (2d) 410, 91 A.L.R. 74.

[12] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1016.

[13] State v. Hudson, — R. I. —, 179 A. 130, 100 A.L.R. 313.
The court may refuse the request of the accused that a certain attorney be assigned, on the ground that a person of more legal experience ought to be assigned. Com. v. Knapp, 9 Pick. (Mass.) 496, 20 Am. Dec. 491.

[14] People v. Blevins, 251 Ill. 381, 96 N. E. 214, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 451.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912C, 451.

B. Termination of Relation

§ 34. By Act of Client.—The authorities universally recognize the right of a client to terminate the relation between himself and his attorney at his election, with or without cause,[15] at any time by paying for his services in full to the date of discharge, particularly if the employment is on a general retainer basis,[16] the existence or nonexistence of valid cause for the discharge of the attorney bearing only on his right to compensation or damages.[17] This right of a client is an implied term of every contract of employment of counsel, at least when the latter is not vested in some way with an interest in the cause of action or its subject-matter,[18] and is based on necessity, in view both of the delicate and confidential nature of the relation between them and of the evil engendered by friction or distrust.[19] The power cannot be affected by a previous arrangement between the parties, as, for instance, by a contract for a contingent fee.[20]

§ 35. —Necessity of Notice of Discharge.—An attorney is, of course, entitled to notice of his discharge, although such notice need not be formal; any act which shows an intention to sever the relation being sufficient.[1] An undisclosed discharge of an attorney will not, however, affect the right of third persons who are ignorant of that fact and rely upon acts done by such attorney ostensibly by virtue of his retainer.[2]

§ 36. —When Attorney's Power Is Coupled with an Interest.—An exception to the general rule as to the power of the client to discharge his attorney at will exists where the power of the attorney is coupled with an interest in the cause of action.[3] Generally speaking, this interest must be in the thing itself; the power must be ingrafted on an estate in the thing, and the power and interest must be united in the same person.[4] The interest must be such a beneficial interest in the power itself that if the power were revoked, the attorney would be deprived of a substantial right.[5] Thus, while an attorney employed on a contingent fee may be vested with such interest in the cause of action as will entitle him to intervene in the action to protect it after he has been dismissed without cause,[6] he has no such interest as will prevent the client from discharging him.[7]

---

[15] Baker v. Humphrey, 101 U. S. 494, 25 L. ed. 1065; O'Connell v. Superior Ct. 2 Cal. (2d) 418, 41 P. (2d) 334, 97 A.L.R. 918; Regan v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 204 Ill. App. 115, citing R. C. L.; Louque v. Dejan, 129 La. 519, 56 So. 427, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 389; Lawler v. Dunn, 145 Minn. 281, 176 N. W. 989, citing R. C. L.; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291; Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263; Ritz v. Carpenter, 43 S. D. 236, 178 N. W. 877, 19 A.L.R. 840; Price v. Western Loan & Sav. Co. 35 Utah, 379, 100 P. 677, 19 Ann. Cas. 589; Fidelity & D. Co. v. Madson, 201 Wis. 609, 231 N. W. 170, 70 A.L.R. 832; Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.
Annotation: 19 Ann. Cas. 592.

[16] Puffer v. Merton, 168 Wis. 366, 170 N. W. 368, 5 A.L.R. 1288.

[17] See infra, §§ 153 et seq.

It is both the right and the duty of a client to discharge an attorney who violates his duty to the court and obstructs justice, as, for example, when he attempts to secure a postponement of the trial by suggesting simulation of illness to a material witness. Duffy v. Colonial Trust Co. 287 Pa. 348, 135 A. 204, 49 A.L.R. 406, writ of certiorari denied in 273 U. S. 765, 71 L. ed. 880, 47 S. Ct. 570.

[18] Marquam v. Vachon (C. C. A. 9th) 7 F. (2d) 607, citing R. C. L.; Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.

[19] Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402; Price v. Western Loan & Sav. Co. 35 Utah, 379, 100 P. 677, 19 Ann. Cas. 589.
Annotation: 19 Ann. Cas. 592.

[20] Fletcher v. Kellogg, 55 App. D. C. 351, 6 F. (2d) 476, 40 A.L.R. 1525, writ of certiorari denied in 269 U. S. 555, 70 L. ed. 409, 46 S. Ct. 18; Louque v. Dejan, 129 La. 519, 56 So. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 389.
Annotation: 97 A.L.R. 927; 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 389; 19 Ann. Cas. 592.

[1] Annotation: 19 Ann. Cas. 592.

[2] Beliveau v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co. 68 N. H. 225, 40 A. 734, 44 L.R.A. 167, 73 Am. St. Rep. 577.
Annotation: 19 Ann. Cas. 592.

Citation or notice of appeal may be served on the appellee's attorney of record while his name remains upon the docket of the court below, even though he has in fact been discharged by his client. Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258.

[3] O'Connell v. Superior Ct. 2 Cal. (2d) 418, 41 P. (2d) 334, 97 A.L.R. 918; Todd v. Superior Ct. 181 Cal. 406, 184 P. 684, 7 A.L.R. 938; Louque v. Dejan, 129 La. 519, 56 So. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 389.
Annotation: 97 A.L.R. 923.

[4] O'Connell v. Superior Ct. 2 Cal. (2d) 418, 41 P. (2d) 334, 97 A.L.R. 918; Todd v.

§ 37. By Death of Client.—It is a well-established general rule that the relation of attorney and client is terminated by the death of the client.[8] In the absence of a retainer from the personal representatives of his deceased client, the attorney has thereafter no further power or authority to appear or take any further action on behalf of the deceased.[9]

An exception to this general rule as to the termination of the relation by the client's death seems to exist, however, in the case of a special contract to conduct a suit to judgment, or some agreement on a fee for the entire case,[10] as upon a contingent fee.[11]

§ 38. By Dissolution of Corporation or Partnership, or Receivership.—The dissolution of a corporation or a partnership terminates a relationship of attorney and client and revokes the authority of the attorney.[12] So too, the appointment of a receiver for the client terminates the contract of the attorney,[13] at least if the attorney refuses to accept the new relationship.[14]

§ 39. By Act of Attorney.—Among the fundamental rules of ethics is the principle that an attorney who undertakes to conduct an action impliedly stipulates to carry it to its termination, and he is not at liberty to abandon it without reasonable cause.[15] When, however, reasonable cause or sufficient reason exists, an attorney may, previous to the termination of the suit, terminate the

---

Superior Ct. 181 Cal. 406, 184 P. 684, 7 A.L.R. 938.

Annotation: 97 A.L.R. 923.

[5] Todd v. Superior Ct. 181 Cal. 406, 184 P. 684, 7 A.L.R. 938.

[6] Kellogg v. Winchell, 51 App. D. C. 17, 273 F. 745, 16 A.L.R. 1159.

[7] O'Connell v. Superior Ct. 2 Cal. (2d) 418, 41 P. (2d) 334, 97 A.L.R. 918; Louque v. Dejan, 129 La. 519, 56 So. 427, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 389; Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.

Annotation: 97 A.L.R. 926.

[8] Moyle v. Landers, 78 Cal. 99, 20 P. 241, 12 Am. St. Rep. 22; Brickell v. McCaskill, 90 Fla. 441, 106 So. 470, citing R. C. L.; McCornick v. Shaughnessy, 19 Idaho, 465, 114 P. 22, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1188; Kelley v. Riley, 106 Mass. 339, 8 Am. Rep. 336; State v. District Ct. 42 Mont. 496, 113 P. 472, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 246; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Cisna v. Beach, 15 Ohio, 300, 45 Am. Dec. 576; Piukkula v. Pillsbury Astoria Flouring Mills Co. 150 Or. 304, 42 P. (2d) 921, 44 P. (2d) 162, 99 A.L.R. 244; Teter v. Irwin, 69 W. Va. 200, 71 S. E. 115, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 707.

Annotation: 5 L. ed. 590; 8 L. ed. 61; 23 L.R.A. 710; 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1188; 12 Am. St. Rep. 22; Ann. Cas. 1913A, 712.

[9] McCornick v. Shaughnessy, 19 Idaho, 465, 114 P. 22, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1188; Teter v. Irwin, 69 W. Va. 200, 71 S. E. 115, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 707.

Annotation: 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1188; Ann. Cas. 1913A, 712.

Service of notice of appeal on an attorney after the death of his client cannot bind the decedent's representatives. Moyle v. Landers, 78 Cal. 99, 20 P. 241, 12 Am. St. Rep. 22; Cisna v. Beach, 15 Ohio, 300, 45 Am. Dec. 576.

Where a party to an action dies after judgment, the attorney must obtain his employment and authority from a legal representative of the estate of such deceased person before he can prosecute an appeal in the case. McCornick v. Shaughnessy, 19 Idaho, 465, 114 P. 22, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1188.

[10] Re Mallory, 99 Cal. App. 96, 278 P. 488, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1189; Ann. Cas. 1913A, 714.

A contract to defend a suit for a third person from "the beginning to the end" is not annulled by the death of the person employing the attorney, because in such case the relation between the employer and the attorney is not strictly that of attorney and client. Barrett v. Towne, 196 Mass. 487, 82 N. E. 698, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 643.

Annotation: 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 643.

[11] Jeffries v. Mutual L. Ins. Co. 110 U. S. 305, 28 L. ed. 156, 4 S. Ct. 8; Wylie v. Coxe, 15 How. (U. S.) 415, 14 L. ed. 753; Re Agee, 69 Utah, 130, 252 P. 891, 50 A.L.R. 641.

[12] Teter v. Irwin, 60 W. Va. 200, 71 S. E. 115, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 707.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913A, 712.

[13] City Bank v. Bryan, 76 W. Va. 481, 86 S. E. 8, L.R.A.1915F, 1219.

[14] Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536.

[15] Stark County v. Mischel, 42 N. D. 332, 173 N. W. 817, 6 A.L.R. 174.

relation without the consent of the client, upon giving reasonable notice;[16] as between attorneys and clients, leave of court is not required,[17] although as to the adverse party who may be entitled to serve papers on the attorney of record, the attorney may be required to obtain leave of court in order to withdraw from a case after he has entered an appearance of record.[18]

In any case, however, the attorney should give his client reasonable notice before withdrawing,[19] so as to afford the latter an opportunity to procure other counsel.[20] Whether the notice given is reasonable is to be determined from the circumstances in the particular case.[1]

§ 40. —What Is Sufficient Cause for Withdrawal.—What constitutes a sufficient cause to justify an attorney in abandoning a case in which he has been retained depends largely upon the peculiar circumstances of the individual case.[2] Sufficient cause may be furnished by the failure or refusal of a client to advance money for the expenses of the suit, to recognize liability for attorneys' fees, or to make payments to his attorney, during the progress of a long litigation, to apply on his compensation,[3] or by conduct on the part of a client during the progress of a litigation which would tend to degrade or humiliate his attorney,[4] such as attempting to sustain his case by the subornation of witnesses or any other unjustifiable means.[5] An attorney may withdraw from the case without criticism when it becomes apparent that he may be called as a witness.[6] The mere fact of employment by the client of associate counsel is not a sufficient ground to justify an attorney in abandoning a case,[7] unless he has personal and professional objections to such associate counsel and is unwilling to be associated with him.[8]

§ 41. By Death of Attorney or Acceptance of Incompatible Office.—A contract of employment for legal services is personal in its nature and terminates upon the death of the attorney employed.[9] Even the death of a member of a firm may terminate a contract for the employment of the firm, if the contract was made with the understanding that the services were to be rendered by the deceased member. However, one member of a law firm cannot, upon the death of another member, refuse to carry to completion executory contracts which do not call for the individual personal services of the deceased partner.[10]

---

[16] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Sullivan, 279 Ill. 634, 117 N. E. 134, L.R.A. 1918A, 1136; Eliot v. Lawton, 7 Allen (Mass.) 274, 83 Am. Dec. 683; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536.

As to effect of withdrawal on right to compensation, see infra, § 171.

[17] Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258.

[18] Tripp v. Santa Rosa Street R. Co. 144 U. S. 126, 36 L. ed. 371, 12 S. Ct. 655; United States v. Curry, 6 How. (U. S.) 106, 12 L. ed. 363.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1136.

[19] Eliot v. Lawton, 7 Allen (Mass.) 274, 83 Am. Dec. 683; Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1136.

[20] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Sullivan, 279 Ill. 634, 117 N. E. 134, L.R.A. 1918A, 1136.

[1] Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.

[2] Genrow v. Flynn, 166 Mich. 564, 131 N. W. 1115, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 638; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1142; 35 L.R.A. (N.S.) 960; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 640.

Discovery that the client's case had no foundation in fact and could be supported only through perjury not only justifies, but requires, the attorney's prompt withdrawal from the case. Gebhardt v. United R. Co. (Mo.) 220 S. W. 677, 9 A.L.R. 1076.

[3] Eliot v. Lawton, 7 Allen (Mass.) 274, 83 Am. Dec. 683; Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258; Genrow v. Flynn, 166 Mich. 564, 131 N. W. 1115, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 638; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1145; 35 L.R.A. (N.S.) 960; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 640.

[4] Genrow v. Flynn, 166 Mich. 564, 131 N. W. 1115, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960; State v. Bersch, 276 Mo. 397, 207 S. W. 809, citing R. C. L.

[5] Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

[6] Allen v. Ross, 199 Wis. 162, 225 N. W. 831, 64 A.L.R. 180.

[7] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1148; 35 L.R.A. (N.S.) 960; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 640.

[8] Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

[9] Bacon v. Hart, 1 Black (U. S.) 38, 17 L. ed. 52; Cox v. Martin, 75 Miss. 238, 21 So. 611, 36 L.R.A. 607, 65 Am. St. Rep. 604; Clifton v. Clark, 83 Miss. 446, 36 So. 251, 66 L.R.A. 821, 102 Am. St. Rep. 458, 1 Ann. Cas. 396; Barrett v. Towne, 196 Mass. 487, 82 N. E. 698, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 643; Puffer v.

An attorney who accepts the office of judge of a court effects, by operation of law, a termination of an existing relation of attorney and client.[11]

§ 42. By Outbreak of War.—While there is some authority to the contrary, the better rule seems to be that the existence of war between the country of which the client is a citizen and that in which the attorney resides operates to terminate the relation of attorney and client, and steps then taken in the case by the attorney will not affect the client.[12]

§ 43. By Accomplishment of Purpose.—While it may be stated in general terms that the relation of attorney and client is terminated by the accomplishment of the purpose of its creation, and that no act of the attorney can bind his client thereafter, yet the question what constitutes such an accomplishment of the purpose for which the attorney was employed must necessarily depend to a great extent on the facts in each case.[13] However, it is safe to state that where an attorney has been employed to conduct litigation, his authority to represent his client ceases with the termination of the particular litigation.[14] The fact that the agreed compensation of an attorney retained in a criminal case related only to the preliminary hearing does not show that his relation to his client ceased when such hearing was over.[15]

C. SUBSTITUTION OF ATTORNEYS

§ 44. Generally.—One has, subject to exception in a case where the attorney has an interest in the subject-matter of the suit,[16] the right to change his attorney of record at any stage of the cause, and substitute another,[17] provided

---

Merton, 168 Wis. 366, 170 N. W. 368, 5 A.L.R. 1288.

Annotation: 66 L.R.A. 821; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 210.

[10] Clifton v. Clark, 83 Miss. 446, 36 So. 251, 66 L.R.A. 821, 102 Am. St. Rep. 458, 1 Ann. Cas. 396.

Annotation: 1 Ann. Cas. 396.

[11] Justice v. Lairy, 19 Ind. App. 272, 49 N. E. 459, 65 Am. St. Rep. 405.

[12] Blackwell v. Willard, 65 N. C. 555, 6 Am. Rep. 749.

Annotation: 8 B. R. C. 733.

The rule seems to be limited to cases of general agency and is held not to extend to relationships involving a special agency, as where the attorney is given authority to sell land (Tingley v. Muller [1917] 2 Ch. 144, 8 B. R. C. 681, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 726—C. A.) or to collect a claim for his client (Annotation: 8 B. R. C. 733).

[13] Sandall v. Sandall, 57 Utah, 150, 193 P. 1093, 15 A.L.R. 620.

[14] Orwig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 217 Iowa, 521, 250 N. W. 148, 90 A.L.R. 258; Sandall v. Sandall, 57 Utah, 150, 193 P. 1093, 15 A.L.R. 620.

Annotation: 8 L. ed. 61.

If, however, the action is dismissed through accident, inadvertence, neglect, or oversight on the part of the attorney, no new employment is necessary to enable him to continue to act. Rhodes v. Rhodes (Todd v. Rhodes) 108 Kan. 64, 193 P. 894, 16 A.L.R. 423.

[15] Ritz v. Carpenter, 43 S. D. 236, 178 N. W. 877, 19 A.L.R. 840.

[16] Todd v. Superior Ct. 181 Cal. 406, 184 P. 684, 7 A.L.R. 938.

As to when the attorney has such an interest, see supra, § 44.

[17] Texas v. Peabody, 131 U. S. xcvi. Appx. and 19 L. ed. 886; Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; O'Connell v. Superior Ct. 2 Cal. (2d) 418, 41 P. (2d) 334, 97 A.L.R. 918; Todd v. Superior Ct. 181 Cal. 406, 184 P. 684, 7 A.L.R. 938; People's Home Sav. Bank v. Superior Ct. 104 Cal. 649, 38 P. 452, 43 Am. St. Rep. 147, 29 L.R.A. 844; Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.

The fact that the attorney has rendered valuable services or that the client is indebted to him therefor or for moneys advanced in the prosecution or defense of the action does not deprive the client of this right. O'Connell v. Superior Ct. 2 Cal. (2d) 418, 41 P. (2d) 334, 97 A.L.R. 918.

The substitution of an attorney for a corporation, in a proceeding to restrain a receiver, cannot be prevented by the prior attorney on the ground of disqualification he secures the consent of the court,[18] which must be obtained by a proper proceeding for the purpose, as by motion,[19] and provided further that he pays the attorney or secures to him the fees he has already earned [20] and to which he is rightfully entitled.[1] If it is impossible in a given case to comply with this rule as to payment or security, the fact must be shown by the party moving the discharge and substitution, and it should appear that justice to the client or attorney demands the change.[2] In England and also in some states of this country an attorney cannot be changed without an order of court.[3]

After the rendition of a final judgment in an action, a new attorney may be employed to take out execution, without the necessity of a formal substitution.[4] In some jurisdictions no order of substitution is necessary where a new attorney is employed to prosecute an appeal,[5] while in others it is.[6] Clearly, after an attorney regularly employed to prosecute an action has docketed an appeal from an adverse judgment, a client has no authority, without permission of the court, to substitute another attorney.[7]

IV. NATURE, OBLIGATIONS, AND DISABILITIES OF RELATION

A. Character of, and Duties Attaching to, Relation

§ 45. Nature of Relationship.—The relation between attorney and client is highly fiduciary in its nature and of a very delicate, exacting, and confidential character, requiring a very high degree of fidelity and good faith.[8] It is pure-by reason of business relations with the receiver, so long as the parties do not object. People's Home Sav. Bank v. Superior Ct. 104 Cal. 649, 38 P. 452, 29 L.R.A. 844, 43 Am. St. Rep. 147.

---

[18] Kellogg v. Winchell, 51 App. D. C. 17, 273 F. 745, 16 A.L.R. 1159; Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; De Armond v. Fine, 111 Miss. 737, 72 So. 145, citing R. C. L.; Walton v. Sugg, 61 N. C. (Phill. L.) 98, 93 Am. Dec. 580.

No reason need be given to the court for a party's desire to substitute another attorney, if he has paid his attorney for services rendered. Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164.

[19] Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; De Armond v. Fine, 11 Miss. 737, 72 So. 145, citing R. C. L.

Where a party desires to change his counsel in an action in the Federal courts, a rule nisi will be granted to such counsel to show cause why such change should not be made. Texas v. Peabody, 131 U. S. xcvi. Appx. and 19 L. ed. 886.

The law forbids the arbitrary discharge of the attorney in the midst of the performance of his duties, and requires a proper proceeding for such purpose, in the course of which the court examines the reasons for the proposed change. Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134.

Where the attorney has been guilty of misconduct, a petition for substitution is usually granted as a matter of course. Kellogg v. Winchell, 51 App. D. C. 17, 273 F. 745, 16 A.L.R. 1159.

Some statutes authorize the substitution of attorneys on such terms as are just. Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.

[20] Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Kellogg v. Winchell, 51 App. D. C. 17, 273 F. 745, 16 A.L.R. 1159; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; Horvath v. Vasvary, 246 Mich. 231, 224 N. W. 365, citing R. C. L.; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.

Annotation: 33 A.L.R. 1297.

[1] If an attorney is guilty of negligence or misconduct in the management of the case, or if he refuses to go on with his client's cause, the court may make an order changing him, even though his fees have not been paid or secured. Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536.

Annotation: 87 Am. Dec. 166.

[2] Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134.

[3] Annotation: 87 Am. Dec. 169.

The safe and orderly conduct of the litigation is facilitated by making the fact of substitution a matter of record by formal order. Fidelity & D. Co. v. Madson, 201 Wis. 609, 231 N. W. 170, 70 A.L.R. 832.

[4] Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164.

[5] Annotation: 70 A.L.R. 834.

[6] Fidelity & D. Co. v. Madson, 201 Wis. 609, 231 N. W. 170, 70 A.L.R. 832.

Annotation: 70 A.L.R. 834.

[7] Kellogg v. Winchell, 51 App. D. C. 17, 273 F. 745, 16 A.L.R. 1159.

[8] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Stockton v. Ford, 11 How. (U. S.) 232, 13 L. ed. 676; Heffren v. Jayne, 39 Ind. 463, 13 Am. Rep. 281 (within the meaning of Bankruptcy Act); Ber-ly a personal relation, involving the highest personal trust and confidence,[9] which cannot be delegated without consent.[10] In a limited and dignified sense, the relation of attorney and client is that of principal and agent or master and servant;[11] that is, apart from his connection with existing litigation, an attorney is a mere agent.[12] An attorney is not, however, so completely subordinate to his client as the ordinary agent is to his principal,[13] nor is an attorney an employee within the meaning of statutes giving wages of employees a preferred status over other debts of an insolvent employer.[14]

§ 46. Duties Owed to Client by Attorney.—An attorney must faithfully, honestly, and consistently represent the interests,[15] and protect the rights, of his client.[16] He is bound to discharge his duties to his client with the strictest fidelity,[17] to observe the highest and utmost good faith towards him,[18] and to obey his lawful directions.[19] He is not allowed to divulge confidential communications, information, and secrets imparted to him by the client or acquired during their professional relation, unless he is authorized to do so by the client himself.[20]

The usual office and duty of an attorney at law is the representation of parties litigant in courts of justice.[1] In the discharge of this duty he should make man v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; White Earth Creamery Co. v. Edwardson, 49 N. D. 394, 191 N. W. 622, citing R. C. L.; Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709; Re Rempfer, 51 S. D. 393, 216 N. W. 355, 55 A.L.R. 1346; Cooper v. Bell, 127 Tenn. 142, 153 S. W. 844, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 980; Flanagan v. Pearson, 42 Tex. 1, 19 Am. Rep. 40.

---

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915A, 1297.

The parties have been held to sustain to each other the relation of trustee and cestui que trust, and their dealings with each other are subject to the same intendments and imputations as obtain between other trustees and beneficiaries. Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Dickinson v. Bradford, 59 Ala. 581, 31 Am. Rep. 23; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156; Ott v. Hood, 152 Wis. 97, 139 N. W. 762, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 636.

[9] Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 412, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Hightomer v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509; Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794; Ott v. Hood, 152 Wis. 97, 139 N. W. 762, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524.

Tyrrell v. Bank of London, 10 H. L. Cas. 26, 11 Eng. Reprint, 934, 2 Eng. Rul. Cas. 496, 507.

[10] Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

[11] Paul v. Stuckey, 126 Ark. 389, 189 S. W. 676, L.R.A.1917B, 888; Wood v. Claiborne, 82 Ark. 514, 102 S. W. 219, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 913, 118 Am. St. Rep. 89; Farnsworth v. Hazelett, 197 Iowa, 1367, 199 N. W. 410, 38 A.L.R. 814; Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879; Seawell v. Parsons Lumber Co. 172 N. C. 320, 90 S. E. 241, citing R. C. L.; Allen v. Allen, 96 Wash. 689, 165 P. 889, citing R. C. L.

[12] Brown v. Hebb, 167 Md. 535, 175 A. 602, 97 A.L.R. 366.

[13] Judd & Detweiler v. Gittings, 43 App. D. C. 304, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 518.

[14] Latta v. Lonsdale (C. C. A. 8th) 107 F. 585, 52 L.R.A. 479; Lewis v. Fisher, 80 Md. 139, 30 A. 608, 26 L.R.A. 278, 45 Am. St. Rep. 327.

Annotation: 54 A.L.R. 569.

[15] Langen v. Borkowski, 188 Wis. 277, 206 N. W. 181, 43 A.L.R. 622.

[16] Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848.

[17] People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; People v. Beattie, 137 Ill. 553, 27 N. E. 1096, 31 Am. St. Rep. 384; Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

[18] Stark County v. Mischel, 42 N. D. 332, 173 N. W. 817, 6 A.L.R. 174; Cooper v. Bell, 127 Tenn. 142, 153 S. W. 844, Ann. Cas 1914B, 980.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 11.

[19] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 48, § 14.

[20] People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Murphy v. Riggs, 238 Mich. 151, 213 N. W. 110, 51 A.L.R. 1303.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 848, § 381.

[1] Brewer v. Watson, 71 Ala. 299, 46 Am. Rep. 318; Seawell v. Parsons Lumber Co. 172 N. C. 320, 90 S. E. 241, citing R. C. L.; Williams v. Johnson, 112 N. C. 424, 17 S. E. 496, 21 L.R.A. 848, 34 Am. St. Rep. 513.

When an attorney undertakes the collection of a debt, it becomes his duty to sue out all process, both mesne and final, necessary to effect that object. He is not, however, imperiously bound to institute new collateral suits without special instructions to do so, for example, he is not an effective presentation of the rights of his client, take proper exception to erroneous rulings of the court, and remain there in attendance until the whole subject of litigation is disposed of.[2]

It is likewise the duty of an attorney to advise his client promptly whenever he has any information to give which it is important that the client receive.[3] He should notify his client forthwith of the collection of money on his account, and remit it to the client, less proper charges, as soon as he can reasonably do so, or notify him of his readiness to pay.[4]

§ 47. —Exercise of Reasonable Care and Skill.—An attorney owes to his client the duty of exercising that knowledge, skill, and ability ordinarily possessed and exercised by members of his profession.[5] He is impliedly bound to act diligently and skilfully in the conduct of his client's case,[6] and to possess such reasonable knowledge of well-settled rules of law as will enable him to perform the duties he undertakes.[7] He is not, however, bound to extraordinary diligence,[8] in the absence of special contract therefor;[9] he is required only to exercise a reasonable degree of care and skill, in view of the character of the business he undertakes to do.[10]

The degree of care and skill required is in no manner affected by the fact that the attorney's services are rendered gratuitously.[11] Nor does the fact that an attorney intrusts to another the performance of a duty undertaken by him relieve him from his obligation to exercise reasonable care, skill, and diligence in the performance of the duty.[12]

B. Dealings between Attorney and Client

§ 48. Generally.—An attorney and his client are not under any legal disabilities to contract with each other, nor are all dealings between them necesbound to institute an action against the sheriff or clerk for the failure of his duty in the issuance or service of process. Nor is the attorney bound to attend in person to the levy of an execution, or to search for property out of which to make the debt; this is the business of the sheriff. Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

---

[2] Ward v. Todd, 103 U. S. 327, 26 L. ed. 339; Ex parte Crenshaw, 96 Tex. Crim. Rep. 654, 259 S. W. 587, 31 A.L.R. 1181.

[3] Baker v. Humphrey, 101 U. S. 494, 25 L. ed. 1065; Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Selover v. Hedwall, 149 Minn. 302, 184 N. W. 180, citing R. C. L.; James v. Steere, 16 R. I. 367, 16 A. 143, 2 L.R.A. 164; Holland v. Brown (Tex. Civ. App.) 66 S. W. (2d) 1095, citing R. C. L.

An attorney cannot withhold from his client information acquired by him in the exercise of such attorneyship, in order to use the same to extort an increased compensation from his client, or coerce him into a contract he would not enter into upon full information. Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

[4] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183; Goodyear Metallic Rubber Co. v. Baker (Goodyear Metallic Rubber Shoe Co. v. Carpenter) 81 Vt. 39, 69 A. 160, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 667, 15 Ann. Cas. 1207; Otto v. Hood, 152 Wis. 97, 139 N. W. 762, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 636; Cotton v. Sharpstein, 14 Wis. 226, 80 Am. Dec. 774.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 36.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 983, § 427.

[5] Hampel-Lawson Mercantile Co. v. Poe, 169 Ark. 840, 277 S. W. 29, citing R. C. L.; People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 5.

[6] Wilcox v. Plummer, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 172, 7 L. ed. 821.

[7] Re Woods, 158 Tenn. 383, 13 S. W. (2d) 800, 62 A.L.R. 904.

Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1.

[8] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386.

[9] Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386.

[10] Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 5, 6.

[11] Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 6.

[12] Antrobus v. Sherman, 65 Iowa, 230, 21 N. W. 579, 54 Am. Rep. 7; Cummins v.

sarily voidable on the ground of the relationship,[13] although the measure of good faith which an attorney is required to exercise in his dealings with his client is a much higher standard than is required in business dealings where the parties trade at "arm's length." [14] All dealings between attorneys and clients will be closely scrutinized by the courts,[15] and transactions between the two are often declared to be voidable which would be deemed unobjectionable between other persons.[16] The attorney cannot allow his private interests to conflict with those of his client [17] or take any personal advantage of,[18] or any benefit from, his client unless he first advises him to take independent advice.[19] Nor is an attorney permitted to withhold from his client information acquired by him in the exercise of such attorneyship and use the same to his own advantage.[20]

§ 49. Transactions Concerning Subject-matter of Retainer.—The law will not permit an attorney to take advantage of his relations with his client to make a contract in reference to the property in litigation, or in regard to which he has advised his client; [1] in such cases he is permitted to contract for his own benefit only upon making full communication to his client of all facts known to him respecting the property, as well as any opinion or belief that he may have found respecting his client's rights. Hence, assignments or conveyances which an attorney takes from his client while the relation of attorney and client exists

---

Heald, 24 Kan. 600, 36 Am. Rep. 264; Dickson v. Wright, 52 Miss. 585, 24 Am. Rep. 677; Bradstreet v. Everson, 72 Pa. 124, 13 Am. Rep. 665; Rhines v. Evans, 66 Pa. 192, 5 Am. Rep. 364; Krause v. Dorrance, 10 Pa. 462, 51 Am. Dec. 496.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 18.

[13] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Kisling v. Shaw, 33 Cal. 425, 91 Am. Dec. 644; Post v. Mason, 91 N. Y. 539, 43 Am. Rep. 689; Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Miles v. Ervin, 6 S. C. Eq. (1 M'Cord) 524, 16 Am. Dec. 623; Bruce v. Bibb, 129 Va. 45, 105 S. E. 570, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 140 Am. St. Rep. 85, 86.

[14] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

[15] Lecatt v. Sallee, 3 Port. (Ala.) 115, 29 Am. Dec. 249; Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283, 94 Am. St. Rep. 160; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Merryman v. Euler, 59 Md. 588, 43 Am. Rep. 564; Bingham v. Salene, 15 Or. 208, 14 P. 523, 3 Am. St. Rep. 152; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Miles v. Ervin, 6 S. C. Eq. (1 M'Cord) 524, 16 Am. Dec. 623; Bruce v. Bibb, 129 Va. 45, 105 S. E. 570, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 9 L.R.A. 90; 1 Am. St. Rep. 259; 83 Am. St. Rep. 159; 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 356, 357.

[16] Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283, 94 Am. St. Rep. 160; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Merryman v. Euler, 59 Md. 588, 43 Am. Rep. 564; Darlington's Estate, 147 Pa. 624, 23 A. 1046, 30 Am. St. Rep. 776; Conner v. Hodgdon, 120 Wash. 426, 207 P. 675, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 159; 116 Am. St. Rep. 498.

[17] Re Rempfer, 51 S. D. 393, 216 N. W. 355, 55 A.L.R. 1346.

[18] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Manhattan Cloak & Suit Co. v. Dodge, 120 Ind. 1, 21 N. E. 344, 6 L.R.A. 369; Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Americus v. McGinnis, 128 Wash. 28, 221 P. 987, citing R. C. L.; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

[19] Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539.

Lloyd v. Coote & Ball [1915] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 242, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 434—Div. Ct.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916E, 436.

[20] Crocheron v. Savage, 75 N. J. Eq. 589, 73 A. 33, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 679; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Tyrrell v. Bank of London, 10 H. L. Cas. 26, 11 Eng. Reprint, 934, 2 Eng. Rul. Cas. 496.

Annotation: 2 Eng. Rul. Cas. 518.

[1] Stark v. Starr, 94 U. S. 477, 24 L. ed. 276; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Cunningham v. Jones, 37 Kan. 477, 15 P. 572, 1 Am. St. Rep. 257; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 L.R.A. 90; Crocheron v. Savage, 75 N. J. Eq. 589, 73 A. 33, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 679; Miles v. Ervin, 6 S. C. Eq. (1 M'Cord) 524, 16 Am. Dec. 623.

Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 679; 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 723; 1 Am. St. Rep. 257; 36 Am. St. Rep. 413; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 692.

An attorney in hac re cannot sustain a purchase from a client of the subject-matter of the retainer, where it appears that during the course of his employment he formed an opinion that the property was more valuable than had theretofore been assumed, which opinion he failed to disclose. Crocheron v. Savage, 75 N. J. Eq. 589, 73 A. 33, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 679.

A constructive trust arises where the attorney procures a deed to property from the client, to be used in the litigation. Annotation: 35 A.L.R. 310, s. 45 A.L.R. 854.

are presumptively invalid or fraudulent.[2] The doctrine is founded on public policy. It arises from the necessity of protecting proper relations of trust and confidence wherever they exist.[3] No presumption of innocence or improbability of wrongdoing can be considered in the attorney's favor.[4] However, according to the weight of authority, a contract between attorney and client concerning property in litigation is not absolutely void unless the relationship appears to have been used to the prejudice of the client. An examination of most of the cases in which relief has been given shows that some circumstances entered into them demonstrating the influence which the relationship between the parties had over the contract, either furnished by some positive act of fraud or deducible from its inequality.[5]

§ 50. Burden of Proof.—When a transaction between an attorney and his client is attacked, the burden is cast upon the attorney to prove that it was not influenced by the relationship.[6] He must show that it was made in the best of faith and without disadvantage to the client, that it was fair [7] and equitable, and that the client was fully informed of his rights and interests in the subject-matter of the transaction, of the nature and effect of the transaction itself, and was so placed as to be able to deal with the attorney at arm's length.[8] This is especially true in the case of an assignment or conveyance from the client to the attorney,[9] or where the attorney takes a mortgage from the client.[10]

---

[2] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Kisling v. Shaw, 33 Cal. 425, 91 Am. Dec. 644; Warner v. Flack, 278 Ill. 303, 116 N. E. 197, 2 A.L.R. 423; Reeder v. Lund, 213 Iowa, 300, 236 N. W. 40, citing R. C. L.; Phipps v. Willis, 53 Or. 190, 96 P. 866, 99 P. 935, 18 Ann. Cas. 119; Bingham v. Salene, 15 Or. 208, 14 P. 523, 3 Am. St. Rep. 152; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 123.

The close scrutiny with which transactions between attorney and client are viewed does not lead to a presumption of unfairness on the part of an attorney in obtaining a voluntary payment of a just claim for professional services. Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

[3] Powell v. Griffin, 178 Ark. 788, 13 S. W. (2d) 18, citing R. C. L.; Hamilton v. Allen, 86 Neb. 401, 125 N. W. 610, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 723.

[4] Powell v. Griffin, 178 Ark. 788, 13 S. W. (2d) 18, citing R. C. L.; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 L.R.A. 90.

Annotation: 9 L.R.A. 90.

[5] Kisling v. Shaw, 33 Cal. 425, 91 Am. Dec. 644; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Miles v. Ervin, 6 S. C. Eq. (1 M'Cord) 524, 16 Am. Dec. 623.

[6] Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709.

[7] Williams v. Bailey, 69 Fla. 225, 67 So. 877, citing R. C. L.; Warner v. Flack, 278 Ill. 303, 116 N. E. 197, 2 A.L.R. 423; Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

[8] Kisling v. Shaw, 33 Cal. 425, 91 Am. Dec. 644; St. Leger's Appeal, 34 Conn. 434, 91 Am. Dec. 735; Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283, 94 Am. St. Rep. 160; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 L.R.A. 90; Hamilton v. Allen, 86 Neb. 401, 125 N. W. 610, 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 723; Crocheron v. Savage, 75 N. J. Eq. 589, 73 A. 33, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 679; Post v. Mason, 91 N. Y. 539, 43 Am. Rep. 689; Phipps v. Willis, 53 Or. 190, 96 P. 866, 99 P. 935, 18 Ann. Cas. 119; Bingham v. Salene, 15 Or. 208, 14 P. 523, 3 Am. St. Rep. 152; Re Dick, 166 Okla. 114, 26 P. (2d) 412, citing R. C. L.; Darlington's Estate, 147 Pa. 624, 23 A. 1046, 30 Am. St. Rep. 776; James v. Steere, 16 R. I. 367, 16 A. 143, 2 L.R.A. 164; Miles v. Ervin, 6 S. C. Eq. (1 M'Cord) 524, 16 Am. Dec. 623.

Annotation: 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 723; 3 Am. St. Rep. 152; 36 Am. St. Rep. 413; 83 Am. St. Rep. 159.

[9] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Kisling v. Shaw, 33 Cal. 425, 91 Am. Dec. 644; Williams v. Bailey, 69 Fla. 225, 67 So. 877, citing R. C. L.; Warner v. Flack, 278 Ill. 303, 116 N. E. 197, 2 A.L.R. 423; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Merryman v. Euler, 59 Md. 588, 43 Am. Rep. 564 (assignment of mortgage); Phipps v. Willis, 53 Or. 190, 96 P. 866, 99 P. 935, 18 Ann. Cas. 119; Bingham v. Salene, 15 Or. 208, 14 P. 523, 3 Am. St. Rep. 152.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 123.

He must show payment of an adequate consideration for the property, or that a gratuity was intended. Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

A conveyance to a third person with whom the attorney is interested falls within this rule. Miles v. Ervin, 6 S. C. Eq. (1 M'Cord) 524, 16 Am. Dec. 623.

The rule applies to an assignment by a client to his attorney of a judgment, an interest in the subject-matter of the litigation, a claim held by the client, an in-

§ 51. Gifts or Bequests.—A gift to an attorney from his client is presumptively nugatory, and the burden of proof is on the attorney to show that there was no undue influence or undue advantage because of the relation, that he fully and faithfully discharged his duty to the client, and that the client was fully informed as to the nature and effect of the gift.[11] Thus, if a lawyer, in drawing a will, drafts himself a bequest, he must explain the circumstances and show that the gift was freely and willingly made; he must, in other words, show that he did not embrace the opportunity of exerting undue influence over the testator.[12]

§ 52. Transactions after Termination of Relations.—In order that the above rules may apply, it is essential that the relationship of attorney and client shall actually exist.[13] Transactions taking place after the termination of the relation of attorney and client are generally sustained,[14] although the disability to purchase from the client continues so long as the reason for the rule continues to operate.[15] Thus, in some instances, an attorney is not permitted to purchase the subject-matter of his retainer without clearly showing the fairness and equity of so doing, as well as the adequacy of the consideration.[16]

§ 53. Effect of Laches upon Client's Right to Relief.—In the case of a voidable conveyance between an attorney and client, the client must, if he desires to have it set aside, take steps to do so within a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time depends upon the facts of particular cases. Parties may be required to assert their rights within a shorter time where their values are rapidly increasing than in other communities. One cannot, however, be charged with laches unless he has full knowledge of the facts and freedom of action.[17]

C. Illegal Transactions between Attorney and Client

§ 54. Generally.—There are numerous classes of contracts between an attorney and client which are held to be in contravention of public policy and terest in an estate or a lease, the execution by a client to his attorney of a trust deed or bill of sale, or the confession of judgment by the client to the attorney. Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 125.

---

[10] Phipps v. Willis, 53 Or. 190, 96 P. 866, 99 P. 935, 18 Ann. Cas. 119; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 125; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1159; 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 356.

[11] Kisling v. Shaw, 33 Cal. 425, 91 Am. Dec. 644; Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

Annotation: 9 L.R.A. 90; 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1087; 1 Am. St. Rep. 259.

A promise by a prisoner, during the relation of attorney and client, to give his attorney a gratuity in addition to a stipulated fee for defending him is not binding and will not be enforced. Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 182.

[12] Re Putnam, 257 N. Y. 140, 177 N. E. 399, 79 A.L.R. 1423.

The presumption is one of fact—a badge of fraud—and may be rebutted by any evidence which shows that in the particular case it is untrue. St. Leger's Appeal, 34 Conn. 434, 91 Am. Dec. 735. See also Post v. Mason, 91 N. Y. 539, 43 Am. Rep. 689.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 361; 21 Am. St. Rep. 95.

[13] Stout v. Smith, 98 N. Y. 25, 50 Am. Rep. 632; Bingham v. Salene, 15 Or. 208, 14 P. 523, 3 Am. St. Rep. 152.

[14] Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401.

Annotation: 28 L.R.A.(N.S.) 723; 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 356, 357.

If an attorney has purchased from his client after the confidential relation has terminated, the client cannot avoid the contract without showing that it was procured by fraud. Annotation: 28 L.R.A. (N.S.) 723; 83 Am. St. Rep. 187.

Where an attorney purchases from his client the subject of litigation, he must, before doing so, divest himself of the character of attorney, so that his former client may deal with him as a stranger. Cunningham v. Jones, 37 Kan. 477, 15 P. 572, 1 Am. St. Rep. 257.

[15] Luddy v. Peard, L. R. 33 Ch. Div. 500, 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 670.

[16] Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 679.

An agreement between a mortgagor and mortgagee to extinguish the equity of redemption cannot stand when the latter for years was the legal adviser of the former in reference to the lands involved and other property. Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283, 94 Am. St. Rep. 160.

[17] Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401.

unenforceable[18] by either party.[19] In the determination of whether a contract between an attorney and his client contravenes public policy, the usual test is that if the contract in question can by its terms be performed lawfully, it will be treated as legal, even if performed in an illegal manner, whereas if it was entered into with intent to violate the law, it is illegal, even if the parties may, in performing it, depart from the contract and keep within the law.[20] Examples of contracts between attorney and client that have been declared void as against public policy include contracts to procure a divorce or facilitate its procurement,[21] especially those in consideration of a certain portion of the alimony awarded;[22] contracts made by relatives of a property owner for services of an attorney in advising the property owner as to the disposition of his property, so as to prevent the disinheriting of such relatives;[23] contracts with private employers to assist in the prosecution of a criminal case;[1] and lobbying contracts or contracts to obstruct justice or shield or promote crime, which are discussed in the succeeding sections.

Many courts hold that contracts between attorney and client, by which the latter agrees not to settle or discontinue his suit without the consent of his attorney, are void as against public policy because of their tendency to foster and encourage litigation.[2] Some courts, however, have taken the position that such agreements are not necessarily void but are to be condemned or not according to the circumstances of the case.[3] And a mere stipulation which is separable from the remainder of the contract will not render the entire contract invalid.[4]

---

[18] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 867.

[19] Flack v. Warner, 278 Ill. 368, 116 N. E. 202, L.R.A.1917F, 464; Bowman v. Phillips, 41 Kan. 364, 21 P. 230, 3 L.R.A. 631, 13 Am. St. Rep. 292; Jones v. Henderson, 189 Ky. 412, 225 S. W. 34, 20 A.L.R. 1471; Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92.

Annotation: 20 A.L.R. 1477, s. 26 A.L.R. 98.

As to recovery of compensation, see infra, §§ 180 et seq.

As to recovery of damages for breach, see infra, § 182.

[20] Herrick v. Barzee, 96 Or. 357, 190 P. 141, citing R. C. L.; Stansell v. Roach, 147 Tenn. 183, 246 S. W. 520, 29 A.L.R. 143; Arlington Hotel Co. v. Ewing, 124 Tenn. 536, 138 S. W. 954, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 121.

Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842.

[21] Re Sylvester, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180; Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Barngrover v. Pettigrew, 128 Iowa, 533, 104 N. W. 909, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 260, 111 Am. St. Rep. 206; Overstreet v. Barr, 255 Ky. 82, 72 S. W. (2d) 1014, citing R. C. L.

[22] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

[23] Flack v. Warner, 278 Ill. 368, 116 N. E. 202, L.R.A.1917F, 464.

[1] Rock v. Ekern, 162 Wis. 291, 156 N. W. 197, L.R.A.1916D, 459.

[2] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; North Chicago Street R. Co. v. Ackley, 171 Ill. 100, 49 N. E. 222, 44 L.R.A. 177; Davis v. Chase, 159 Ind. 242, 64 N. E. 88, 853, 95 Am. St. Rep. 294; Kansas City Elev. R. Co. v. Service, 77 Kan. 316, 94 P. 262, 14 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1105; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Burho v. Carmichiel, 117 Minn. 211, 135 N. W. 386, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 305; Huber v. Johnson, 68 Minn. 74, 70 N. W. 806, 64 Am. St. Rep. 456; Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441; Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 94 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245; Davy v. Fidelity & C. Ins. Co. 78 Ohio St. 256, 85 N. E. 504, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443, 125 Am. St. Rep. 694 (contract champertous); Pennsylvania Co. v. Lombardo, 49 Ohio St. 1, 29 N. E. 573, 14 L.R.A. 785; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390.

Annotation: 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390; 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101; 83 Am. St. Rep. 181; 93 Am. St. Rep. 174; 13 Ann. Cas. 444; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 306.

An agreement to pay damages for dropping a lawsuit without the attorney's consent will be held void as against public policy. Andrews v. Haas, 214 N. Y. 255, 108 N. E. 423, 3 A.L.R. 458.

A stipulation that the client shall have the assistance and advice of his attorney on any compromise that may be made is however not illegal. Burho v. Carmichiel, 117 Minn. 211, 135 N. W. 386, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 305.

[3] Lipscomb v. Adams, 193 Mo. 530, 91 S. W. 1046, 112 Am. St. Rep. 500. And see Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.

Annotation: 13 Ann. Cas. 445; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 307.

[4] Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S.

§ 55. Lobbying Contracts.—All agreements between attorney and client which tend to introduce personal solicitation and influence on the part of the attorney in procuring or influencing legislative action [5] or action by any department of the government,[5a] particularly those in which a contingent fee is involved,[6] are invalid as against public policy.[7] An attorney may, of course, contract for purely professional services, such as drafting a petition for an act, attending to the taking of testimony, collecting facts, preparing arguments, and submitting them to the committee or other proper authority, etc.,[8] for professional services in preparing and advocating just claims for compensation against the government [9] or in presenting claims before governmental departments,[10] even though such services are to be performed for a contingent fee.[11] But if such a contract also includes lobby services, it has been held that the entire contract will be vitiated.[12]

§ 56. Contracts to Obstruct Justice or to Shield or Promote Crime.—Contracts for legal services to obstruct or prevent the administration of justice are invalid.[13] It is against public policy and illegal for an attorney to agree to protect a client in the commission of crime,[14] to agree to defend his client or clients against prosecutions for future wrongs and violations of law contemplated when the contract was executed; [15] to agree to render services to prevent the finding of an indictment against one accused or suspected of crime; [16] or to agree to procure, for a contingent fee, the quashing of a crim-

---

Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908.

[5] Weed v. Black, 2 MacArth. (D. C.) 268, 29 Am. Rep. 618; Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 132, 103 N. W. 1053, 107 N. W. 125, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 212, 121 Am. St. Rep. 713; Richardson v. Scott's Bluff County, 59 Neb. 400, 81 N. W. 309, 48 L.R.A. 294, 80 Am. St. Rep. 682; Mills v. Mills, 40 N. Y. 543, 100 Am. Dec. 535; Ormerod v. Dearman, 100 Pa. 561, 45 Am. Rep. 391; Clippinger v. Hepbaugh, 5 Watts & S. (Pa.) 315, 40 Am. Dec. 519.

Annotation: 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 213; 13 Am. St. Rep. 298; 40 Am. Dec. 524.

An agreement to take charge of a claim before Congress and prosecute it as agent or attorney for the claimant, by lobby service is void. Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623.

Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 298.

Generally, as to lobbying contracts, see CONTRACTS [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 731, § 137].

[5a] Ormerod v. Dearman, 100 Pa. 561, 45 Am. Rep. 391 (contract for services before the war department in procuring the discharge of a drafted man).

Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 299.

[6] Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623.

Annotation: 29 A.L.R. 166, s. 67 A.L.R. 689; L.R.A.1915C, 824.

[7] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Spaulding v. Maillet, 57 Mont. 318, 188 P. 377, citing R. C. L.; Houlton v. Nichol, 93 Wis. 393, 67 N. W. 715, 33 L.R.A. 166, 57 Am. St. Rep. 928.

Annotation: L.R.A.1915C, 824.

[8] Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623; Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 132, 103 N. W. 1053, 107 N. W. 125, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 212, 121 Am. St. Rep. 713; West v. Coos County, 115 Or. 409, 237 P. 961, 40 A.L.R. 1362; Spalding v. Erving, 149 Pa. 375, 24 A. 219, 15 L.R.A. 727, 34 Am. St. Rep. 608. See also Barry v. Capen, 151 Mass. 99, 23 N. E. 735, 6 L.R.A. 808.

Annotation: 29 A.L.R. 173, s. 67 A.L.R. 689; 46 A.L.R. 214; 13 Am. St. Rep. 298, 299; 121 Am. St. Rep. 726.

[9] Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548, 23 L. ed. 983.

[10] Shouse v. Consolidated Flour Mills Co. 128 Kan. 174, 277 P. 54, 64 A.L.R. 606.

[11] Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 132, 103 N. W. 1053, 107 N. W. 125, 4 L.R.A. (N.S.) 212, 121 Am. St. Rep. 713.

Annotation: 121 Am. St. Rep. 726.

[12] Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623; Weed v. Black, 2 MacArth. (D. C.) 268, 29 Am. Rep. 618; McBratney v. Chandler, 22 Kan. 692, 31 Am. Rep. 213.

Annotation: 29 A.L.R. 173, s. 67 A.L.R. 689; 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 213.

[13] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

The law looks with disfavor upon any contract the tendency of which is to promote or cause litigation, even though the litigation is of a civil character, and there are still greater reasons why such a contract should be regarded by the courts with disfavor where promotive of the violation of the criminal law. Annotation: 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 842.

[14] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 183.

[15] Bowman v. Phillips, 41 Kan. 364, 21 P. 230, 3 L.R.A. 631, 13 Am. St. Rep. 292.

[16] Weber v. Shay, 56 Ohio St. 116, 46 N. E. 377, 37 L.R.A. 230, 60 Am. St. Rep. 743; Bradley v. Gilliam (Tex. Civ. App.) 260 S. W. 289, citing R. C. L.

inal prosecution.[17] It is also a well-established principle that contracts between attorney and client which have for their subject-matter any interference with the due enforcement of laws are against public policy and therefore void,[18] as is a contract to secure the suspension of a criminal statute.[19] However, a mere contract to test the constitutionality of a statute is not against public policy.[20]

§ 57. Contracts to Procure Liberation or Pardon of Convict.—There is nothing unlawful or opposed to public policy, as a general rule, in simply employing an attorney to endeavor, by proper means, to secure a pardon.[1] Nor is it to be inferred that an unlawful course of conduct was intended from the mere fact that payment is contingent upon success in procuring a pardon,[2] although a contract founded upon a promise or engagement to procure signatures and obtain a pardon from the governor for one convicted of a criminal offense and sentenced to punishment has been held to be unlawful.[3] Moreover, generally speaking, all contracts to change the course of trials or the effects of trials, whether to obtain the liberation of a prisoner by money to the jailer, or to obtain a pardon by the use of money directly or indirectly, must be deemed void.[4]

D. Acquiring Adverse Interest in Subject-matter of Employment

§ 58. Generally.—It is well established that an attorney cannot deal for himself in the subject-matter of the litigation to the prejudice of his client's interest,[5] and can in no case, without the client's consent, buy and hold, otherwise than in trust, any adverse title or interest touching the thing to which his employment relates;[6] all such purchases inure to the benefit of the client.[7] It is contrary to the policy of the law, and also contrary to the principles of equity, to permit an attorney at law to occupy at the same time and in the same transaction the antagonistic and wholly incompatible position of adviser of his client concerning a pending litigation threatening the title to his property and that of the purchaser of such property in opposition to the title of his client.[8]

---

[17] Ormerod v. Dearman, 100 Pa. 561, 45 Am. Rep. 391.

[18] Spalding v. Ewing, 149 Pa. 375, 24 A. 219, 15 L.R.A. 727, 34 Am. St. Rep. 608; Ormerod v. Dearman, 100 Pa. 561, 45 Am. Rep. 391.
Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 297.

[19] Arlington Hotel Co. v. Ewing, 124 Tenn. 536, 138 S. W. 954, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 121.
Annotation: 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842.

[20] Kagey v. Fox West Coast Theatres Corp. 139 Kan. 301, 31 P. (2d) 67, 92 A.L.R. 286; Arlington Hotel Co. v. Ewing, 124 Tenn. 536, 138 S. W. 954, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 121.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913A, 126.

[1] Gordon v. Gordon, 168 Ky. 409, 182 S. W. 220, L.R.A.1916D, 576, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 886; Chadwick v. Knox, 31 N. H. 226, 64 Am. Dec. 329. Annotation: 46 A.L.R. 215.

[2] Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 298.

[3] Hatzfield v. Gulden, 7 Watts (Pa.) 152, 31 Am. Dec. 750. And see Buck v. First Nat. Bank, 27 Mich. 293, 15 Am. Rep. 189.

[4] Newbold v. McCrorey, 103 S. C. 299, 87 S. E. 542, 1103, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 46 A.L.R. 217.

[5] Parks v. Skipper, 164 Md. 388, 165 A. 319, citing R. C. L.; Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709.

[6] Baker v. Humphrey, 101 U. S. 494, 25 L. ed. 1065; Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 178, 22 L. ed. 482; Manhattan Cloak & Suit Co. v. Dodge, 120 Ind. 1, 21 N. E. 344, 6 L.R.A. 369; Cunningham v. Jones, 37 Kan. 477, 15 P. 572, 1 Am. St. Rep. 257; Oviatt v. Smith, 226 Mich. 253, 197 N. W. 535, citing R. C. L.; Bucher v. Hohl, 199 Mo. 320, 97 S. W. 922, 116 Am. St. Rep. 492; Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609; Davis v. Kline, 96 Mo. 401, 9 S. W. 724, 2 L.R.A. 78; Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104, 76 N. W. 433, 71 Am. St. Rep. 670; Mebane v. Broadnax, 183 N. C. 333, 111 S. E. 627, citing R. C. L.; Wade v. Pettibone, 11 Ohio, 57, 37 Am. Dec. 408; Harrison v. Murphey, 39 Okla. 548, 135 P. 1137, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1059; Henry v. Raiman, 25 Pa. 354, 64 Am. Dec. 703; Stephens v. Dubois, 31 R. I. 138, 76 A. 656, 140 Am. St. Rep. 741.
Annotation: 9 L.R.A. 90; 1 Am. St. Rep. 259; 32 Am. St. Rep. 614; 71 Am. St. Rep. 680; Ann. Cas. 1915C, 953.
If the attorney has title to the property conveyed to his brother, the latter stands in the same position as the attorney. Baker v. Humphrey, 101 U. S. 494, 25 L. ed. 1065.

[7] Mebane v. Broadnax, 183 N. C. 333, 111 S. E. 627, citing R. C. L.; Henry v. Raiman, 25 Pa. 354, 64 Am. Dec. 703.
Even the client's subsequent recognition of his attorney's title to property thus acquired is not binding on him where the evidence shows a case of implicit trust and confidence reposed by him in the attorney. Bucher v. Hohl, 199 Mo. 320, 97 S. W. 922, 116 Am. St. Rep. 492.

The rule applies to everyone who acts for another in the capacity of attorney and acquires by his relationship the influence ordinarily exerted by an attorney over his client.[9]

§ 59. Purchase of Outstanding Titles or Claims.—An attorney employed to sustain his client's rights or title to property cannot purchase for himself any outstanding or opposing title against the interests of his client, either before or after the cause is ended, whether during the time the client holds for himself or after he has conveyed his interest; any such purchase will inure to the benefit of the client or his vendee or assignee.[10] In such case the attorney can obtain, at most, no more than the sum actually paid by him for such property.[11] Nor will an attorney retained in litigation to enforce a claim against a certain estate be permitted to purchase the residue of the estate to the prejudice of his client.[12] It has been held, however, that a person is not disqualified, because of his being an attorney at law, from purchasing a mortgage, with the intention of foreclosing it if not paid, where no violation of duty is disclosed;[13] or from acquiring an interest in property he is under no duty to acquire for his client.[14]

§ 60. Purchase at Tax or Judicial Sale.—A tax deed made to an attorney has been held to be void if the owner of the land was the client of such attorney at the time.[15] An attorney cannot buy and hold property sold at a judicial sale in which his client is interested, where the purchase would result in any injury or disadvantage to the client,[16] without the consent of his client.

---

[8] Fisher v. McInerney, 137 Cal. 28, 69 P. 622, 907, 92 Am. St. Rep. 68; Cunningham v. Jones, 37 Kan. 477, 15 P. 572, 1 Am. St. Rep. 257.

[9] The rule applies as against the attorney of an assignee of an insolvent who purchases an outstanding claim against the estate. Manhattan Cloak & Suit Co. v. Dodge, 120 Ind. 1, 21 N. E. 344, 6 L.R.A. 369.

An attorney selling property at public auction on another's account cannot become the buyer on his own account. Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 178, 22 L. ed. 482.

An attorney who has prepared deeds of trust and been consulted as to the purposes for which they were made cannot afterwards, on purchasing the land included therein on an execution sale, maintain a suit to set aside such deeds as fraudulent. Davis v. Kline, 96 Mo. 401, 9 S. W. 724, 2 L.R.A. 78.

[10] Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609; Davis v. Kline, 96 Mo. 401, 9 S. W. 724, 2 L.R.A. 78; Strever v. Sinclair, 66 Mont. 258, 213 P. 253, citing R. C. L.; White Earth Creamery Co. v. Edwardson, 49 N. D. 394, 191 N. W. 622, citing R. C. L.; Henry v. Raiman, 25 Pa. 354, 64 Am. Dec. 703.

Annotation: 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 567; 1 Am. St. Rep. 259; 32 Am. St. Rep. 614; Ann. Cas. 1915C, 955.

The attorney of an assignee for the benefit of creditors has no right to borrow the trust funds, paying interest, and use them to buy claims against the debtor below their face value, and then file such claims and have them allowed by the assignee, nor can he use his own funds for that purpose; in case he does so, the assignee must account for the profits realized by the attorney if he had knowledge of his action. Manhattan Cloak & Suit Co. v. Dodge, 120 Ind. 1, 21 N. E. 344, 6 L.R.A. 369.

[11] Cassem v. Heustis, 201 Ill. 208, 66 N. E. 283, 94 Am. St. Rep. 160; Manhattan Cloak & Suit Co. v. Dodge, 120 Ind. 1, 21 N. E. 344, 6 L.R.A. 369; Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104, 76 N. W. 433, 71 Am. St. Rep. 670; McKenna v. Van Blarcom, 109 Wis. 271, 85 N. W. 322, 83 Am. St. Rep. 895.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915C, 955.

[12] Manhattan Cloak & Suit Co. v. Dodge, 120 Ind. 1, 21 N. E. 344, 6 L.R.A. 369; Stephens v. Dubois, 31 R. I. 138, 76 A. 656, 140 Am. St. Rep. 741.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915C, 955.

[13] McKenna v. Van Blarcom, 109 Wis. 271, 85 N. W. 322, 83 Am. St. Rep. 895.

[14] Annotation: 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 569.

[15] Cunningham v. Jones, 37 Kan. 477, 15 P. 572, 1 Am. St. Rep. 257.

[16] Byers v. Surget, 19 How. (U. S.) 303, 15 L. ed. 670; Stockton v. Ford, 11 How. (U. S.) 232, 13 L. ed. 676; Cunningham v. Jones, 37 Kan. 477, 15 P. 572, 1 Am. St. Rep. 257; Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104, 76 N. W. 433, 71 Am. St. Rep. 670; Wade v. Pettibone, 11 Ohio, 57, 37 Am. Dec. 408; Leisenring v. Black, 5 Watts (Pa.) 303, 30 Am. Dec. 322; unless he bids a sufficient amount to discharge the judgment debt.[17] In all such cases the client may elect to treat him as a trustee and the act as done for his benefit, and claim the advantage derived from the sale,[18] providing such right of election is exercised within a reasonable time [19] and before the client has, with knowledge of the facts, dealt with the attorney as owner, in such a way as to ratify the purchase and estop himself from claiming the benefit thereof.[20]

§ 61. Effect of Prior Termination of Relation.—In general it may be said that if the relation of attorney and client has ceased and the attorney does not use any information obtained as counsel or take an unfair advantage, a purchase of a right or claim against the client does not constitute the attorney a trustee, where he has no duty to perform inconsistent with the purchase.[1] However, owing to the confidential and fiduciary relation between attorney and client, the courts closely scrutinize all such transactions,[2] and will not permit the attorney to avail himself of information acquired during his employment to purchase an interest in the subject of his employment without first disclosing the facts to his client and obtaining his consent.[3] Other courts hold that the disability of an attorney to purchase continues as long as the reason on which it is founded continues to exist, and deny him the right to purchase after the termination of the employment.[4]

§ 62. Effect of Good Faith.—The question of good faith on the part of an attorney in acquiring an interest adverse to that of his client, the fairness of the transaction, or the adequacy of consideration will not as a general rule be inquired into where the client seeks to secure the benefit of a purchase made by his attorney for his own interest or benefit and without the knowledge or consent of the client.[5] Such a transaction is vitiated by the law, irrespective of its merits, fairness, or good faith, and without regard to whether it is injurious to the client.[6] If, however, the client intended that the attorney should make the purchase for himself and acquiesced in his action, the

---

Roger v. Whitham, 56 Wash. 190, 105 P. 628, 134 Am. St. Rep. 1105, 21 Ann. Cas. 272.

Annotation: 9 L.R.A. 90; 21 Ann. Cas. 274; 71 Am. St. Rep. 680.

An attorney by whom judgment was recovered and who was also attorney for the assignee of the judgment is not at liberty to purchase it on sale under execution against the assignor; if he does so, equity will impress upon it a trust in favor of the assignee. Stockton v. Ford, 11 How. (U. S.) 232, 13 L. ed. 676.

[17] Douglass v. Blount, 95 Tex. 369, 67 S. W. 484, 58 L.R.A. 699.

As to attorney's authority to purchase for client at a judicial sale, see infra, § 114.

[18] Stockton v. Ford, 11 How. (U. S.) 232, 13 L. ed. 676; Bucher v. Hohl, 199 Mo. 320, 97 S. W. 922, 116 Am. St. Rep. 492; Davis v. Kline, 96 Mo. 401, 9 S. W. 724, 2 L.R.A. 78; Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104, 76 N. W. 433, 71 Am. St. Rep. 670; Beardsley v. Root, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 464, 6 Am. Dec. 386; Wade v. Pettibone, 11 Ohio, 57, 37 Am. Dec. 408, bill of review dismissed in 14 Ohio, 557; Leisenring v. Black, 5 Watts (Pa.) 303, 30 Am. Dec. 322; Roger v. Whitham, 56 Wash. 190, 105 P. 628, 134 Am. St. Rep. 1105, 21 Ann. Cas. 272.

Annotation: 1 Am. St. Rep. 259; 71 Am. St. Rep. 680; 21 Ann. Cas. 276.

[19] Wade v. Pettibone, 11 Ohio, 57, 37 Am. Dec. 408 (twenty-five months held too long a delay).

Annotation: 1 Am. St. Rep. 259; 71 Am. St. Rep. 680; 21 Ann. Cas. 277.

[20] Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104, 76 N. W. 433, 71 Am. St. Rep. 670.

[1] Harrison v. Murphey, 39 Okla. 548, 135 P. 1137, 49 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1059.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 277; Ann. Cas. 1915C, 956.

[2] Garceau v. McNamara, 125 Minn. 130, 145 N. W. 809, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 951, holding that the burden is on the attorney to establish the fairness and good faith of the transaction.

[3] Henry v. Raiman, 25 Pa. 354, 64 Am. Dec. 703.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915C, 957.

[4] Eoff v. Irvine, 108 Mo. 378, 18 S. W. 907, 32 Am. St. Rep. 609.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915C, 956, 957.

[5] Baker v. Humphrey, 101 U. S. 494, 25 L. ed. 1065; Stockton v. Ford, 11 How. (U. S.) 232, 13 L. ed. 676; Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709; Stephens v. Dubois, 31 R. I. 138, 76 A. 656, 140 Am. St. Rep. 741.

[6] Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709.

transaction will be upheld if open, honest, and fair.[7] Moreover, authorities are not wanting to the effect that an attorney may buy and hold property sold at a judicial sale, where he acts in good faith and not against the interest of the client, and no injustice is done.[8]

§ 63. Effect of Laches upon Right to Relief.—A client who, with full knowledge of all the facts, has acquiesced for a long time in a purchase made by his attorney will be denied relief in a proceeding to have the purchase declared to be for his benefit.[9] He cannot, however, be charged with laches unless he has had full knowledge of all the facts, and perfect freedom of action.[10]

E. Representing Conflicting Interests

§ 64. Generally.—An attorney owes to his client an undivided allegiance, and after he has been retained by, and received the confidence of, a client, he cannot, without the free and intelligent consent of his client, given after full knowledge of all the facts and circumstances, act both for his client and for one whose interest is adverse to or conflicting with that of his client in the same general matter,[11] however slight such adverse interest may be;[12] nor is it material that the intention and motive of the attorney may have been honest.[13] The rule is particularly applicable to prosecuting attorneys or city counsel, precluding them from representing individuals having an interest adverse to, or dissociated from, the public interest, or undertaking the defense of one whom they are charged by their public office with prosecuting upon a criminal charge.[14] Nor can an attorney be employed by others in matters so closely related to those of his client as in effect to be a part thereof.[15] If the attorney is employed with reference to a claim against his own personal debtor, he must not, unknown to the client, give his own claim preference over his client's in the pursuit of the debtor.[16]

---

[7] Garceau v. McNamara, 125 Minn. 130, 145 N. W. 809, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 951; Watts v. Jackson, 75 Okla. 123, 182 P. 508, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915C, 956.

An execution sale to the attorney of the defendant is not unlawful if made in good faith with the consent of the defendant and without any purpose of defrauding his creditors, and no presumption arises that such purchase was made for the benefit of the client or with his funds. Fisher v. McInerney, 137 Cal. 28, 69 P. 622, 907, 92 Am. St. Rep. 68.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 276.

[8] Pacific R. Co. v. Ketchum, 101 U. S. 289, 25 L. ed. 932; Roger v. Whitham, 56 Wash. 190, 105 P. 628, 134 Am. St. Rep. 1105, 21 Ann. Cas. 272.

Annotation: 1 Am. St. Rep. 260; 136 Am. St. Rep. 814, 815.

[9] Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 178, 22 L. ed. 482; Tomblin v. Hill, 206 Cal. 689, 275 P. 941, citing R. C. L.; Stephens v. Dubois, 31 R. I. 138, 76 A. 656, 140 Am. St. Rep. 741.

[10] Tomblin v. Hill, 206 Cal. 689, 275 P. 941, citing R. C. L.; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Stephens v. Dubois, 31 R. I. 138, 76 A. 656, 140 Am. St. Rep. 741.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915C, 955.

[11] Parker v. Parker, 99 Ala. 239, 13 So. 520, 42 Am. St. Rep. 48; Wassell v. Reardon, 11 Ark. 705, 54 Am. Dec. 245; Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545; Jones v. Lamont, 118 Cal. 499, 50 P. 766, 62 Am. St. Rep. 251; People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Strong v. International Bldg. L. & Invest. Union (Strong v. Brennan) 183 Ill. 97, 55 N. E. 675, 47 L.R.A. 792; Derlin v. Derlin, 142 Md. 352, 121 A. 27, citing R. C. L.; Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509; Walker v. Hill, 90 Mont. 111, 300 P. 260, citing R. C. L.; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Hosford v. Eno, 41 S. D. 65, 168 N. W. 764, L.R.A.1918F, 831; Bryant v. Lewis (Tex. Civ. App.) 27 S. W. (2d) 604, citing R. C. L.; Ramsey v. Brooke County Bldg. & L. Asso. 102 W. Va. 119, 135 S. E. 249, 49 A.L.R. 668.

Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1320; Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181, 217; 57 Am. St. Rep. 662; 59 Am. St. Rep. 237; 62 Am. St. Rep. 255.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 891, § 394.

An attorney may, however, have a duty to act for clients with adverse interests, as where he undertakes the collection of separate claims against the same debtor, in which case he must protect both equally. Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 892, § 394.

[12] Parker v. Parker, 99 Ala. 239, 13 So. 520, 42 Am. St. Rep. 48.

[13] People ex rel. Livers v. Hanson, 290 Ill. 370, 125 N. E. 268, citing R. C. L.; People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Strong v. International Bldg. Loan & Invest. Asso. 183 Ill. 97, 55 N. E. 675, 47 L.R.A. 792; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

The rule is designed not alone to prevent the dishonest practitioner from fraudulent conduct, but as well to preclude the honest practitioner from putting himself in a position where he may be required to choose between conflicting duties, or be led to an attempt to reconcile conflicting interests, rather than to enforce to their full extent the rights of the interest which he should alone represent. Strong v. International Bldg. L. & Invest. Union (Strong v. Brennan) 183 Ill. 97, 55 N. E. 675, 47 L.R.A. 792.

§ 65. Where Interests Are Not Adverse or Both Clients Consent.—The rule prohibiting an attorney retained by a client from acting for another applies only in the case of conflicting interests; it is generally conceded that an attorney may represent his client's adversary with perfect propriety whenever their interests are not hostile to each other. The test of inconsistency is whether acceptance of the new retainer will require the attorney to do anything which will injuriously affect his first client in any matter in which he represents him, and also whether he will be called upon, in his new relation, to use against his first client any knowledge or information acquired through their connection.[17] An attorney may also properly represent at the same time parties whose interests conflict, where he acts with the full knowledge and consent of both.[18] And an attorney who acts for both parties in the preparation of a mortgage may act as agent of the mortgagee to accept the delivery of the mortgage.[19]

§ 66. Effect of Former Retainer.—Even after the relation of attorney and client terminates, the obligation of the attorney to preserve inviolate the confidence reposed in him by his former client continues.[20] Hence, an attorney cannot, upon the termination of an employment, represent one whose interest in the transaction is adverse to that of his former client,[1] even though, while

---

[14] Hosford v. Eno, 41 S. D. 65, 168 N. W. 764, L.R.A.1918F, 831.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918F, 832.

[15] People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636.

[16] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 889, § 393.

[17] Wutchumna Water Co. v. Bailey, 216 Cal. 564, 15 P. (2d) 505, citing R. C. L.; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912B, 212.

The same attorney may represent both borrower and lender upon mortgage or similar security, upon a mutual understanding between the parties, although the former only is expected to pay the fees. Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

Annotation: 59 Am. St. Rep. 237.

Several creditors in proceedings to realize upon the assets of a bankrupt may be represented by one attorney. Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 893, § 394.

Whether an attorney who represents an administrator may act for one of the heirs as against other heirs, in an adversary proceeding relating to the property of the estate, is a question which would depend on the circumstances of the particular case. Jones v. Lamont, 118 Cal. 499, 50 P. 766, 62 Am. St. Rep. 251.

[18] Rhodes v. Rhodes (Todd v. Rhodes) 108 Kan. 64, 193 P. 894, 16 A.L.R. 423.

Where an attorney employed to collect a note is appointed by the defendant, with knowledge of the fact, as his attorney in fact to confess judgment on the note, his exercise of such power is consistent with fair dealing. Wassell v. Reardon, 11 Ark. 705, 54 Am. Dec. 245.

[19] Jones v. Howard, 99 Ga. 451, 27 S. E. 765, 59 Am. St. Rep. 231.

Annotation: 59 Am. St. Rep. 237.

[20] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

[1] Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545; Fairfield County Bar v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767; People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A.1917B, 378; State v. Osborne, 54 Or. 289, 103 P. 62, 20 Ann. Cas. 627; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Hosford v. Eno, 41 S. D. 65, 168 N. W. 764, L.R.A.1918F, 831.

Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1307; Ann. Cas. 1912B, 212; Ann. Cas. 1916A, 651.

This is the rule in England. Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1321.

An attorney representing a litigant will not be allowed to change sides in a case and accept a retainer from the adverse party. Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545; Weidekind v. Tuolumne Water Co. 74 Cal. 386, 19 P. 173, 5 Am. St. Rep. 445.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912B, 212.

A change of sides in the same suit, though at different trials, if permitted, has been held to be an irregularity on account acting for his former client, he acquired no knowledge which could operate to the client's disadvantage in the subsequent adverse employment.[2] It is both the right and the duty of the court to prohibit or restrain an attorney from acting for one whose interest is adverse to that of a former client.[3]

A former attorney for a defendant in criminal proceedings cannot, after withdrawing from the case, be permitted to associate himself with the prosecuting attorney [4] to assist in the prosecution, if, by reason of his professional relations with the accused, he has acquired a knowledge of the facts upon which the prosecution is predicated or which are closely interwoven therewith.[5]

The general rule stated above does not, however, prevent an attorney from representing a subsequent client against a former client, where the duties required of him do not conflict with those required in the first employment.[6] Nor does the fact that an attorney has given voluntary advice to one party on the matter involved in the litigation without an offer of employment make improper his acceptance of employment by the other party.[7]

V. AUTHORITY OF ATTORNEY TO ACT FOR OR BIND CLIENT

A. In General

§ 67. Power to Bind Client as Agent.—Where a relation of attorney and client exists, the client is bound, according to the ordinary rules of agency, by the acts of his attorney within the scope of the latter's authority,[8] even though the attorney is without a license.[9] Accordingly, a client may be responsible for a trespass committed by his attorney that he in no way authorized except by his general employment of the attorney,[10] or for the tortious institution, continuation, or prosecution of legal proceedings to enforce the client's claim.[11] So also, notice given by an attorney is the act of the client.[12] The attorney may properly observe the usages of his profession in the locality, so far as he reasonably believes that the client knows of them and intends that he should do so.[13]

§ 68. Authority in Litigation and in Special Employment Distinguished.—There is a well-recognized distinction between the powers implied in the gen-of which a new trial should be granted. Weidekind v. Tuolumne Water Co. 74 Cal. 386, 19 P. 173, 5 Am. St. Rep. 445.

---

[2] People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

[3] Weidekind v. Tuolumne County Water Co. 74 Cal. 386, 19 P. 173, 5 Am. St. Rep. 445; People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Boyd v. Second Judicial Dist. Ct. 51 Nev. 264, 274 P. 7, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1315; Ann. Cas. 1912B, 214.

[4] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912B, 212.

[5] People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916A, 651.

[6] Shaw v. Bill, 95 U. S. 10, 24 L. ed. 333; Wutchumna Water Co. v. Bailey, 216 Cal. 564, 15 P. (2d) 505, citing R. C. L.; Murphy v. Riggs, 238 Mich. 151, 213 N. W. 110, 51 A.L.R. 1303.

Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1312; Ann. Cas. 1912B, 212.

An attorney, when discharged by his client, can make no use of secrets in relation to the cause, obtained from his former client. Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545.

[7] Lester v. Gay, 217 Ala. 585, 117 So. 211, 59 A.L.R. 1561.

[8] Epperson v. Helbron, 145 Ark. 566, 225 S. W. 345, 15 A.L.R. 597; Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542.

Annotation: 47 A.L.R. 208.

The opposite party may safely treat with the attorney on all matters within the scope of his apparent authority until notice to the contrary. Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 153.

[9] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 64, § 21.

[10] Gibson v. Holmes, 78 Vt. 110, 62 A. 11, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 451.

[11] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 564, § 253.

[12] Epperson v. Helbron, 145 Ark. 566, 225 S. W. 345, 15 A.L.R. 597.

[13] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 93, § 36.

eral retainer of an attorney to commence, prosecute, and control a cause until judgment is rendered, and those arising from employment for a special purpose.[14] Under a general retainer, an attorney, by virtue of his employment, has authority to perform all acts in or out of court, necessary or incident to the prosecution and management of the suit, which affect the remedy only, and not the cause of action,[15] but where an attorney is called on to perform specific services, and does not identify himself with the record of the cause, and performs only the particular services which he has been retained to perform, his implied authority to bind his client seems limited to the proper conduct of the specific work intrusted to him.[16] In such cases the presumption of authority obtaining in court, arising from his license and because he is an officer of the court, cannot be claimed. Strangers cannot safely deal with him on the faith of such representation, and they have the right to demand from him some reasonable and satisfactory evidence of his authority—evidence other than his mere assertion. Thus, for instance, while an attorney at law, as the representative of his client, has the right to inspect public records where his client would have such right, he may be required to show evidence of his authority as such attorney.[17]

§ 69. Collection of Client's Claim.—The authority of an attorney to receive the payment of a debt or claim which he is employed to recover by suit or to collect is well settled,[18] but generally speaking, his authority extends no further than the collection of such claims.[19] The debtor is bound to take notice of the attorney's authority.[20]

An attorney who holds a claim for collection has no authority to receive anything in payment of such claim except lawful and generally accepted money or currency, unless especially authorized to do so by his principal, and hence cannot ordinarily take promissory notes, drafts, warrants,[1] deeds of trust,[2] or land in satisfaction of the claim.[3] It is clear that the attorney cannot credit his own indebtedness to the client's debtor against his client's claim,[4] nor can he transfer his client's securities in payment of such debt.[5] If negotiable paper payable to the client is rightly received in payment of the claim, he has no authority to indorse it,[6] even though he has an interest in it by way of fees which he is authorized to retain.[7] Nor can he release the debtor without an actual payment of the full amount of the debt in money,[8] since this would amount to a compromise of his client's rights[9] which he has no authority to make,[10] though he may accept a partial payment of a debt as such, and receipt therefor.[11] Also, it has been held that even though an attorney has authority to receive payment of an obligation, this does not authorize him to receive such payment before it is due.[12]

---

[14] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 153.

[15] See infra, § 85.

[16] United States v. Sloat (D. C.) 56 F. (2d) 434, citing R. C. L.; Anderson v. Storie, 208 Iowa, 1172, 227 N. W. 93, 66 A.L.R. 1410; Mosher v. Beselin, 129 Neb. 541, 261 N. W. 126, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 153.

[17] Randolph v. State, 82 Ala. 527, 2 So. 714, 60 Am. Rep. 761; Brewer v. Watson, 71 Ala. 299, 46 Am. Rep. 318; Doeller v. Mortgage Guarantee Co. 166 Md. 500, 171 A. 856, citing R. C. L.

[18] Chapman v. Cowles, 41 Ala. 103, 91 Am. Dec. 508; Pace v. Reid, 158 Miss. 145, 130 So. 294, citing R. C. L.; Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 321; Clark v. Randall, 9 Wis. 135, 76 Am. Dec. 252.

Annotation: 21 Eng. Rul. Cas. 37.

As to the authority of attorneys to receive payment of a judgment or moneys collected under execution, see infra, §§ 103, 112.

[19] Chapman v. Cowles, 41 Ala. 103, 91 Am. Dec. 508.

[20] Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828, 71 N. W. 724, 66 Am. St. Rep. 478; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293.

For a discussion of the authority of agents generally to collect and receive payment, see AGENCY, Vol. 2, p. 127, §§ 159 et seq.

[1] Ball v. State Bank, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Chapman v. Cowles, 41 Ala. 103, 91 Am. Dec. 508 (receipt of depreciated Confederate currency); Herriman v. Shomon, 24 Kan. 387, 36 Am. Rep. 261; Mangum v. Ball, 43 Miss. 288, 5 Am. Rep. 488; Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828, 71 N. W. 724, 66 Am. St. Rep. 478; Smith v. Jones, 47 Neb. 108, 66 N. W. 19, 53 Am. St. Rep. 519; Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506; Davis v. Home Ins. Co. 127 Tenn. 330, 155 S. W. 131, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 626; Smock v. Dade, 5 Rand. (Va.) 639, 16 Am. Dec. 780.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 116; 35 L.R.A. (N.S.) 53; 66 Am. St. Rep. 483; 21 Ann. Cas. 581; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833; 21 Eng. Rul. Cas. 36.

It has been held that when the attorney realizes on securities or collects claims placed in his hands by the debtor, the proceeds so collected should be considered as a payment pro tanto of the claim of his original client. Smock v. Dade, 5 Rand. (Va.) 639, 16 Am. Dec. 780.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 583.

[2] Davis v. Home Ins. Co. 127 Tenn. 330, 155 S. W. 131, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 626.

§ 70. Surrender or Waiver of Client's Rights.—It is a general principle that an attorney cannot, by virtue of his general authority as attorney, bind his client by any act which amounts to a surrender or waiver in whole or in part of any substantial right of the client, or do any act which will either release his client's debtor or his surety or substantially jeopardize his interests in any way. If he does, the client is not barred, without ratification or something which amounts to an estoppel, to deny his attorney's authority.[13] Authority to bind the client by an extrinsic agreement to alter or vary the terms of a written instrument must be special, and cannot be implied.[14] In the absence of express authority from his client, an attorney cannot compound a debt, extend the time of payment of a claim intrusted to him for payment, or bind his principal by assenting to an assignment.[15]

---

[3] Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 118.

[4] Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 118; 21 Eng. Rul. Cas. 37.

[5] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 261; 21 Eng. Rul. Cas. 37.

[6] Brown v. People's Nat. Bank, 170 Mich. 416, 136 N. W. 506, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 657; Rosacker v. Commercial State Bank, 191 Minn. 553, 254 N. W. 824, 94 A.L.R. 551.

[7] Rosacker v. Commercial State Bank, 191 Minn. 553, 254 N. W. 824, 94 A.L.R. 551.

[8] Ball v. State Bank, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Smith v. Jones, 47 Neb. 108, 66 N. W. 19, 53 Am. St. Rep. 519; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Granger v. Batchelder, 54 Vt. 248, 41 Am. Rep. 846; Watt v. Brookover, 35 W. Va. 323, 13 S. E. 1007, 29 Am. St. Rep. 811; Chilton v. Willford, 2 Wis. 1, 60 Am. Dec. 399.
Annotation: 53 Am. St. Rep. 520, 55 Am. St. Rep. 763.

[9] Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 581.

[10] See infra, § 98.

[11] Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 321.

[12] Smith v. Kidd, 68 N. Y. 130, 23 Am. Rep. 157.

[13] San Francisco v. Le Roy, 138 U. S. 656, 34 L. ed. 1096, 11 S. Ct. 364; Pomeroy v. Prescott, 106 Me. 401, 76 A. 898, 138 Am. St. Rep. 347, 21 Ann. Cas. 574; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Turner v. Fleming, 37 Okla. 75, 130 P. 551, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 265, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 831; Davis v. Home Ins. Co. 127 Tenn. 330, 155 S. W. 131, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 626; Rhoades v. Banking Trust & Mtg. Co. 125 Va. 320, 99 S. E. 673, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 9 Am. St. Rep. 546; 132 Am. St. Rep. 156, 163.
An attorney for a city has no right to relinquish rights reserved for the public by ordinance. San Francisco v. Le Roy, 138 U. S. 656, 34 L. ed. 1096, 11 S. Ct. 364.
An attorney has no power to release one of two joint debtors in consideration of the other's giving security for the debt. Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828, 71 N. W. 724, 66 Am. St. Rep. 478.
An attorney has no general power to release a lien upon property held by his principal and take a lien upon other property, without express authority from his principal. Ludden & B. Southern Music House v. Sumter, 45 S. C. 186, 22 S. E. 738, 55 Am. St. Rep. 761.

[14] Falkenstein v. Gibson, 108 N. J. Eq. 251, 154 A. 876, 76 A.L.R. 1457.
Annotation: 76 A.L.R. 1461.

[15] Lockhart v. Wyatt, 10 Ala. 231, 44 Am. Dec. 481; Dorchester Trust Co. v. Casey (Mass.) 167 N. E. 915, 71 A.L.R. 1, corrected opinion in 268 Mass. 494, 176 N. E. 178; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Ohio County v. Clemens, 85 W. Va. 11, 100 S. E. 680, 7 A.L.R. 373.
Annotation: 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62; Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1295.
One dealing with an attorney employed solely to collect a debt must take notice of such attorney's lack of authority to grant extensions of time to the debtor. Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293.

§ 71. Ratification of, or Estoppel to Deny, Unauthorized Acts.—With regard to the effect upon a client of acts of his attorney done without express authority, the usual rule as to such acts of agents applies,[16] and under some circumstances the client will be held to have ratified the unauthorized acts of his attorney or to be estopped to deny the latter's authority.[17] Ratification may, of course, arise from an adoption and approval of the attorney's act,[18] or it may be inferred from circumstances, as, for instance, from the silent acquiescence of the client for a long period,[19] or from his acceptance and retention of the fruits of the unauthorized act,[20] provided the client so acted or remained silent after having obtained full knowledge of the facts. If a client repudiates the unauthorized contract of his attorney within a reasonable time after being informed thereof, and restores to the owner all fruits which have come into his hands as the result of such unauthorized contract, he cannot be held liable thereon.[1] The ratification must be that of the client himself, and not merely that of his agent.[2] Whether a client has ratified the acts of his attorney, or has been so guilty of laches as to be precluded from disclaiming such act, is usually a question of fact, to be determined by the jury under all the facts in the case.[3]

§ 72. Delegation of Authority.—It is a well-established rule that the confidence reposed in counsel is personal and cannot be delegated to another without the client's consent [4] unless, from the facts of a particular case it may fairly be inferred that power to delegate his authority was given,[5] as where the business in question was to be transacted at a place so remote from the business residence of the attorney that it must have been understood by his client that he was not to attend to it in person.[6] The general rule applies where a claim or debt is intrusted to an attorney for collection.[7]

---

[16] See Agency, Vol. 2, p. 165, § 208.

[17] Robb v. Vos, 155 U. S. 13, 39 L. ed. 52, 15 S. Ct. 4; Stark v. Starr, 94 U. S. 477, 24 L. ed. 276; Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Foxworth v. Murchison Nat. Bank, 136 S. C. 458, 134 S. E. 428, citing R. C. L.

[18] Stark v. Starr, 94 U. S. 477, 24 L. ed. 276; Erwin v. Blake, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 18, 8 L. ed. 852; August v. Collins, 265 Mich. 389, 251 N. W. 565, citing R. C. L.

[19] Gardner v. Mobile & N. W. R. Co. 102 Ala. 635, 15 So. 271, 48 Am. St. Rep. 84 (acquiescence as raising inference of consent to attorney's assignment of judgment); Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828, 71 N. W. 724, 66 Am. St. Rep. 478; Gray v. Richmond Bicycle Co. 167 N. Y. 348, 60 N. E. 663, 82 Am. St. Rep. 720 (laches as affecting right to enjoin enforcement of foreign judgment); Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244 (failure to disclaim authority to represent client).

Annotation: 66 Am. St. Rep. 478.

[20] Robb v. Vos, 155 U. S. 13, 39 L. ed. 52, 15 S. Ct. 4; Florence Cotton & Iron Co. v. Louisville Bkg. Co. 138 Ala. 588, 36 So. 456, 100 Am. St. Rep. 50; Julier v. Julier, 62 Ohio St. 90, 56 N. E. 661, 78 Am. St. Rep. 697; Wheeler v. Alderman, 34 S. C. 533, 13 S. E. 673, 27 Am. St. Rep. 842.

Annotation: 9 Am. St. Rep. 546.

Ratification of an attorney's appearance in a case is established where it is shown that the client subsequently commenced another action which was based upon the judgment or decree obtained in the first action. Robb v. Vos, 155 U. S. 13, 39 L. ed. 52, 15 S. Ct. 4.

[1] Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828, 71 N. W. 724, 66 Am. St. Rep. 478; Smith v. Kidd, 68 N. Y. 130, 23 Am. Rep. 157.

Annotation: 66 Am. St. Rep. 483.

[2] Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542.

[3] Gray v. Richmond Bicycle Co. 167 N. Y. 348, 60 N. E. 663, 82 Am. St, Rep. 720; Campbell's Appeal, 29 Pa. 401, 72 Am. Dec. 641 (receipt of money from sale of judgment).

The making of a criminal complaint or the seeking of civil remedy against the attorney for the act constituting the breach of authority cannot, as to third persons, be construed as a ratification of it. Rosacker v. Commercial State Bank, 191 Minn. 553, 254 N. W. 824, 94 A.L.R. 551.

[4] Sloan v. Williams, 138 Ill. 43, 27 N. E. 531, 12 L.R.A. 496; Cornelius v. Wash, Breese (Ill.) 63, 12 Am. Dec. 145; Sloan v. Williams, 138 Ill. 43, 27 N. E. 531, 12 L.R.A. 496; Smalley v. Greene, 52 Iowa, 241, 3 N. W. 78, 35 Am. Rep. 267; Antrobus v. Sherman, 65 Iowa, 230, 21 N. W. 579, 54 Am. Rep. 7; Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 412, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Dickson v. Wright, 52 Miss. 585, 24 Am. Rep. 677; Bentley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 75 N. J. L. 828, 69 A. 202, 127 Am. St. Rep. 837, 15 Ann. Cas. 1178; Re Cooperative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 160.

[5] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 256.

§ 73. —Employment of Assistant or Associate Counsel.—An attorney ordinarily has no implied authority, by virtue of his employment, to employ assistant or associate counsel at his client's expense,[8] although it seems that he may employ others to assist him and charge his client with the reasonable value of the entire labor,[9] especially where the employment of the original attorney is general in its character and amounts to an agency in the legal business of the client.[10] Of course, there may be coupled with an attorney's retainer an express authority to engage other counsel, or the client may be held bound by his attorney's act in this regard on the doctrine of ratification.[11]

B. Liability of Client through Imputations Arising from Relation

§ 74. Imputation of Attorney's Knowledge to Client.—The well-established general rule that notice or knowledge of an agent, while the agency exists and while he is acting within the scope of his authority, is imputed to his principal [12] is applicable to the relation of attorney and client; notice to the attorney is notice to his client, at least where the attorney receives such notice in the course of the transaction in which he is acting for his client,[13] and where it comes in such a manner that he may communicate it to the client or act on it without any violation of duty.[14] The test is whether the information is of a character which it is the duty of the attorney to communicate.[15] Thus, an attorney's knowledge of an infirmity in a note,[16] or his knowledge that payment of the claim he was employed to collect was assumed by a third person, is chargeable to his client.[17] There are, however, some limitations upon the general rule stated, where the attorney is acting for his own interest or in fraud of his client's rights.[18]

---

[6] Annotation: L.R.A.1918F, 16.

Where an attorney is employed to conduct a case in another county, he may employ local counsel to attend to formal matters connected with the court. Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 273; 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 705; 132 Am. St. Rep. 160.

[7] Smalley v. Greene, 52 Iowa, 241, 3 N. W. 78, 35 Am. Rep. 267; Bradstreet v. Everson, 72 Pa. 124, 13 Am. Rep. 665.

Although money made on execution can, by virtue of a statute, be paid to an attorney of record of the execution creditor, such attorney has no authority as such to authorize the clerk of the Circuit Court, in his official capacity, to accept money on a judgment. Hendry v. Benlisa, 37 Fla. 609, 20 So. 800, 34 L.R.A. 283.

[8] Orwig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 217 Iowa, 521, 250 N. W. 148, 90 A.L.R. 258; Orozem v. McNeill, 103 Kan. 429, 175 P. 633, 3 A.L.R. 1598, on rehearing in 103 Kan. 694, 176 P. 106, 3 A.L.R. 1601; Bentley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 75 N. J. L. 828, 69 A. 202, 127 Am. St. Rep. 837, 15 Ann. Cas. 1178; Forman v. Sewerage & Water Bd. 119 La. 49, 43 So. 908, 12 Ann. Cas. 773.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 266; L.R.A.1918F, 16; 12 Ann. Cas. 776.

[9] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 160.

[10] Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 272.

[11] Orwig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 217 Iowa, 521, 250 N. W. 148, 90 A.L.R. 258; Bentley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 75 N. J. L. 828, 69 A. 202, 127 Am. St. Rep. 837, 15 Ann. Cas. 1178.

Annotation: 15 Ann. Cas. 1180.

The general counsel of a railroad company will not be deemed to have ratified the employment of an attorney to defend a suit against the railroad company, by agreeing to pay for certain models for use on a trial of the case and the witness fees of the person making them, where it is not shown that he knew that the attorney claimed to have been employed by the railroad company. Orwig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 217 Iowa, 521, 250 N. W. 148, 90 A.L.R. 258.

[12] See Agency, Vol. 2, p. 286, § 368.

[13] Armstrong v. Ashley, 204 U. S. 272, 51 L. ed. 482, 27 S. Ct. 270; Rogers v. Palmer, 102 U. S. 263, 26 L. ed. 164; Smith v. Ayer, 101 U. S. 320, 25 L. ed. 955; May v. Le Claire, 11 Wall. (U. S.) 217, 20 L. ed. 50; Bogart v. George K. Porter Co. 193 Cal. 197, 223 P. 959, 31 A.L.R. 1045; Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Hunter v. Watson, 12 Cal. 363, 73 Am. Dec. 543; Sweeney v. Pratt, 70 Conn. 274, 39 A. 182, 66 Am. St. Rep. 101; Johnson v. McKinnon, 54 Fla. 221, 45 So. 23, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 874, 127 Am. St. Rep. 135, 14 Ann. Cas. 180; Farnsworth v. Hazelett, 197 Iowa, 1367, 199 N. W. 410, 38 A.L.R. 814; Allen v. McCalla, 25 Iowa, 464, 96 Am. Dec. 56; DeLouis v. Meek, 2 G. Greene (Iowa) 55, 50 Am. Dec. 491; Hess v. Conway, 92 Kan. 787, 142 P. 253, 4 A.L.R. 1580, on rehearing in 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681; Barnes v. Com. 179 Ky. 725, 201 S. W. 318, citing R. C. L.; Allen v. Frank Janes Co. 142 La. 1056, 78 So. 115, citing R. C. L.; Vietor v. Spalding, 199 Mass. 52, 84 N. E. 1016, 127 Am. St. Rep. 472; Littauer v. Houck, 92 Mich. 162, 52 N. W. 464, 31 Am. St. Rep. 572; Riley v. Pearson, 120 Minn. 210, 139 N. W. 361, L.R.A.1916D, 7; Trentor v. Pothen, 46 Minn. 298, 49 N. W. 129, 24 Am. St. Rep. 225; Bank of Commerce v. Hoeber, 88 Mo. 37, 57 Am. Rep. 359; Constant v. University of Rochester, 111 N. Y. 604, 19 N. E. 631, 2 L.R.A. 734, 7 Am. St. Rep. 769; United States v. Sumner, 127 Misc. 907, 217 N. Y. S. 645, citing R. C. L.; Pyeatt v. Estus, 72 Okla. 160, 179 P. 42, 4 A.L.R. 1570; Lambert v. Smith, 53 Okla. 606, 157 P. 909, 18 A.L.R. 1; Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts (Pa.) 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489; Barnes v. M'Clinton, 3 Penr. & W. (Pa.) 67, 23 Am. Dec. 62; Scot-

A client may be charged with knowledge acquired by an attorney whom he subsequently discharged and replaced with another.[19]

In the case of attorneys practicing as copartners, notice to either partner is notice to the client.[20] But if an attorney is the agent of another, engaged by the creditor to collect a claim, his knowledge is not imputed to the creditor.[1]

§ 75. Knowledge Acquired in Another Transaction or Outside Employment.—In order for a client to be affected by his attorney's notice or knowledge of facts, such notice must have been acquired in and during the transaction in which the attorney is engaged; the client will not be chargeable with notice of facts acquired by the attorney prior to the relation of attorney and client [2] or with knowledge not received in the course [3] or within the scope of the employment.[4] Under this rule, one who employs an attorney for some special purpose is not chargeable with knowledge acquired by the attorney in another transaction.[5] Nor does the general rule always hold as to an attor-

---

tish American Mortg. Co. v. Clowney, 70 S. C. 229, 49 S. E. 569, 3 Ann. Cas. 437; Riordan v. Britton, 69 Tex. 198, 7 S. W. 50, 5 Am. St. Rep. 37; Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co. 93 Wis. 153, 66 N. W. 518, 57 Am. St. Rep. 899.

Kennedy v. Green, 3 Myl. & K. 699, 724, 21 Eng. Rul. Cas. 820.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1594, s. 38 A.L.R. 821; 2 L.R.A. 734; 31 Am. St. Rep. 574; 127 Am. St. Rep. 475; 3 Ann. Cas. 441; 21 Eng. Rul. Cas. 842, 847.

It is immaterial that the attorney may have wilfully withheld information of the facts from his client, or that the client was ignorant of the peculiar facilities possessed by the attorney for acquiring his knowledge. Annotation: 24 Am. St. Rep. 232; 3 Ann. Cas. 441.

[14] See infra, §§ 76, 77.

An attorney is conclusively presumed to have performed his duty of communicating to his client whatever information he acquires in relation to the subject-matter involved in the transaction. Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Hess v. Conway, 92 Kan. 787, 142 P. 253, 4 A.L.R. 1580, on rehearing in 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681.

[15] Annotation: 31 Am. St. Rep. 574.

[16] Smith v. Ayer, 101 U. S. 320, 25 L. ed. 955; Lambert v. Smith, 53 Okla. 606, 157 P. 909, 18 A.L.R. 1.

[17] Bogart v. George K. Porter Co. 193 Cal. 197, 223 P. 959, 31 A.L.R. 1045.

[18] See infra, § 77.

[19] Farnsworth v. Hazelett, 197 Iowa, 1367, 199 N. W. 410, 38 A.L.R. 814.

Annotation: 38 A.L.R. 824.

[20] Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172.

Annotation: 3 Ann. Cas. 441.

[1] Hoover v. Wise, 91 U. S. 308, 23 L. ed. 392.

[2] Scotch Lumber Co. v. Sage, 132 Ala. 598, 32 So. 607, 90 Am. St. Rep. 932; Moore v. Webb, 219 Cal. 304, 26 P. (2d) 22, 89 A.L.R. 925; Bogart v. George K. Porter Co. 193 Cal. 197, 223 P. 959, 31 A.L.R. 1045; McCormick v. Wheeler, 36 Ill. 114, 85 Am. Dec. 388; Drury v. Franke, 247 Ky. 758, 57 S. W. (2d) 969, 88 A.L.R. 917; Vietor v. Spalding, 199 Mass. 52, 84 N. E. 1016, 127 Am. St. Rep. 472; Trentor v. Pothen, 46 Minn. 298, 49 N. W. 129, 24 Am. St. Rep. 225; Martin v. Jackson, 27 Pa. 504, 67 Am. Dec. 489; Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts (Pa.) 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489; Scottish American Mortg. Co. v. Clowney, 70 S. C. 229, 49 S. E. 569, 3 Ann. Cas. 437.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1600, 1614, s. 38 A.L.R. 823; 39 Am. Rep. 323; 127 Am. St. Rep. 475.

[3] Puffer v. Badley, 92 Or. 360, 181 P. 1, 4 A.L.R. 1561; Strickland v. Capital City Mills, 74 S. C. 16, 54 S. E. 220, 7 L.R.A.(N.S.) 426.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1602, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

[4] Trentor v. Pothen, 46 Minn. 298, 49 N. W. 129, 24 Am. St. Rep. 225; Florence v. De Beaumont, 101 Wash. 356, 172 P. 340, 4 A.L.R. 1565.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1605, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

[5] Howard Ins. Co. v. Halsey, 8 N. Y. 271, 59 Am. Dec. 478.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1603, s. 38 A.L.R. 822; 127 Am. St. Rep. 475.

One who employs an attorney for the ney retained generally by a client to render such legal services as he may from time to time require.[6] Many cases have held that a client may be charged with knowledge acquired by the attorney before the relation was created, some apparently without making any qualification;[7] but the better-considered cases have followed the English courts in recognizing a modification to the general rule above set forth to the effect that where one transaction is closely followed by, and connected with, another, or where it is clear that the previous transaction was present to the mind of the attorney when engaged in another transaction, there is no ground for relieving the client for whom the attorney is acting in the second transaction of notice thus acquired by his attorney.[8] Still others have restricted the operation of this exception to such matters as are so material to the transaction as to make it the attorney's duty to communicate them to his client.[9]

§ 76. Knowledge Acquired in Employment of Another Client.—In order that notice to an attorney may be imputed to his client it must come to the attorney in such a manner that he may communicate it to his client without any violation of duty.[10] Hence, knowledge obtained by an attorney in transacting business for one client is not imputable to another where it would be a breach of professional confidence for him to disclose the knowledge thus acquired and possessed,[11] even though the second employment is with reference to the same subject-matter.[12] If, however, knowledge is acquired by the special purpose of examining an abstract of title to property and giving an opinion thereon is not chargeable with the attorney's knowledge, acquired in another transaction, of the pendency of a suit which may affect the title to such property. Trentor v. Pothen, 46 Minn. 298, 49 N. W. 129, 24 Am. St. Rep. 225.

---

[6] Vietor v. Spalding, 199 Mass. 52, 84 N. E. 1016, 127 Am. St. Rep. 472, approved on second appeal in 202 Mass. 234, 88 N. E. 846; Akers v. Rowan, 33 S. C. 451, 11 S. E. 389, 12 S. E. 165, 10 L.R.A. 705.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1621, s. 38 A.L.R. 824.

[7] Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319; Littauer v. Houck, 92 Mich. 162, 52 N. W. 464, 31 Am. St. Rep. 572.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1615, s. 38 A.L.R. 823.

[8] Moore v. Webb, 219 Cal. 304, 26 P. (2d) 22, 89 A.L.R. 925; Bogart v. George K. Porter Co. 193 Cal. 197, 223 P. 959, 31 A.L.R. 1045; Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Drury v. Franke, 247 Ky. 758, 57 S. W. (2d) 969, 88 A.L.R. 917; Constant v. University of Rochester, 111 N. Y. 604, 19 N. E. 631, 2 L.R.A. 734, 7 Am. St. Rep. 769; Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co. 93 Wis. 153, 66 N. W. 518, 57 Am. St. Rep. 899.

Annotation: 2 L.R.A. 734; 4 A.L.R. 1616, s. 38 A.L.R. 823; 3 Ann. Cas. 441.

Even this modification is expressly disapproved in some of the states, the courts holding that the principle underlying the general rule is just in itself and founded on wise considerations of policy. McCormick v. Wheeler, 36 Ill. 114, 85 Am. Dec. 388.

[9] Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1618, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

[10] Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Brown v. Wilson, 21 Colo. 309, 40 P. 688, 52 Am. St. Rep. 228; Sebald v. Citizens Deposit Bank, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1244, 105 S. W. 130, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 376; Littauer v. Houck, 92 Mich. 162, 52 N. W. 464, 31 Am. St. Rep. 572; Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts (Pa.) 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489; Akers v. Rowan, 33 S. C. 451, 12 S. E. 165, 10 L.R.A. 705.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1609, s. 38 A.L.R. 822; 31 Am. St. Rep. 574; 41 Am. St. Rep. 181.

[11] Moore v. Webb, 219 Cal. 304, 26 P. (2d) 22, 89 A.L.R. 925; McCormick v. Wheeler, 36 Ill. 114, 85 Am. Dec. 388; Farnsworth v. Hazelett, 197 Iowa, 1367, 199 N. W. 410, 38 A.L.R. 814; Drury v. Franke, 247 Ky. 758, 57 S. W. (2d) 969, 88 A.L.R. 917; Sebald v. Citizens Deposit Bank, 31 Ky. L. Rep. 1244, 105 S. W. 130, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 376; Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts (Pa.) 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489; Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co. 93 Wis. 153, 66 N. W. 518, 57 Am. St. Rep. 899.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1607, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

See Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 281, p. 623.

[12] Brown v. Wilson, 21 Colo. 309, 40 P. 688, 52 Am. St. Rep. 228.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1608, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

The constructive notice to an attorney of knowledge of his partner of matters pertaining to the firm business does not extend to a distinct transaction at a subsequent time in which he is acting for a different client to charge such client. Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1621, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

attorney in such a way that he may communicate it to another client without a violation of duty, it may be imputed to the latter,[13] especially if it appears that the knowledge obtained in acting for such other client was present to his mind at the very time of the transaction in question.[14] For example, where the attorney is acting for several clients at the same time and in the same business,[15] as when he represents both a vendor and a purchaser[16] or a mortgagor and a mortgagee,[17] knowledge which he acquires in the transaction may be imputed to all. However, a contrary view has been taken,[18] particularly in cases where the attorney's agency for the client to whom knowledge is sought to be imputed is special and limited, or where it is to the interest of the other client to conceal knowledge from one to whom the imputation is sought to be made.[19]

§ 77. Knowledge Acquired While Acting for Own Interest; Imputation of Attorney's Fraud.—An exception is ingrafted upon the general rule that knowledge of an attorney is imputable to his client, where the attorney is acting in his own interest or in fraud of his client.[20] It is almost certain that the attorney will conceal such fraud or wrong.[1] However, the view has been expressed that the fraud of the attorney cannot alter the legal effect of his knowledge with respect to his client in regard to third parties who had no connection with the attorney in relation to the perpetration of fraud and no knowledge that the fraud had been perpetrated.[2] Thus, where an attorney, employed to effect a composition with his client's creditors, secretly gave one of the creditors his personal obligation for, and afterward paid him, a sum in excess of what was accepted by the other creditors, it was held that the composition was thereby invalidated, although the client was ignorant of the fraud.[3]

§ 78. Imputation of Attorney's Negligence to Client.—While the client is not liable for the negligent physical conduct of his attorney,[4] the professional negligence, unskilfulness, or incompetency of counsel is imputed to the client, who is bound thereby, under the general principle that the acts and omissions of an attorney acting within the scope of his authority are to be regarded as the acts of the person he represents.[5] The courts will not usually relieve a party against the fault or negligence of his attorney,[6] unless it is an extreme case where a clear failure of justice would otherwise result,[7] particularly if the client is also negligent where, by diligence, he might have avoided the consequences of his attorney's negligence.[8] The rule has been applied where an attorney failed to bring suit within the statutory period allowed.[9] The rule applies in criminal, as well as in civil, cases.[10] It is frequently applied in the case of application for relief against a judgment obtained through an attorney's mistake or ignorance of the law, his omission or negligence in making or proving a proper defense, or his neglect to take other necessary legal steps, although there are many cases in which negligence or mistake of an attorney is held not imputable to the client so as to prevent him from obtaining relief from a judgment, especially where the mistake was an excusable one. This matter is discussed fully under another title.[11]

---

[13] Littauer v. Houck, 92 Mich. 162, 52 N. W. 464, 31 Am. St. Rep. 572; Trentor v. Pothen, 46 Minn. 298, 49 N. W. 129, 24 Am. St. Rep. 225.
Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1609, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

[14] Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Constant v. University of Rochester, 111 N. Y. 604, 19 N. E. 631, 2 L.R.A. 734, 7 Am. St. Rep. 769.
Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1610, s. 38 A.L.R. 822, 31 Am. St. Rep. 574; 3 Ann. Cas. 441.
Where the former employment was of recent date, knowledge acquired therein may be imputed to the second client. Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co. 93 Wis. 153, 66 N. W. 518, 57 Am. St. Rep. 899.

[15] Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1610, s. 38 A.L.R. 822.

[16] Hess v. Conway, 92 Kan. 787, 142 P. 253, 4 A.L.R. 1580, on rehearing in 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681; Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co. 93 Wis. 153, 66 N. W. 518, 57 Am. St. Rep. 899.
Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1612, s. 38 A.L.R. 823.

[17] Pyeatt v. Estus, 72 Okla. 160, 179 P. 42, 4 A.L.R. 1570.
Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1612, s. 38 A.L.R. 823.

[18] Puffer v. Badley, 92 Or. 360, 181 P. 1, 4 A.L.R. 1561.
Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1612, s. 38 A.L.R. 823.

[19] Florence v. De Beaumont, 101 Wash. 356, 172 P. 340, 4 A.L.R. 1565.

[20] Scotch Lumber Co. v. Sage, 132 Ala. 598, 32 So. 607, 90 Am. St. Rep. 932; Farnsworth v. Hazelett, 197 Iowa, 1367, 199 N. W. 410, 38 A.L.R. 814; Fairfield Sav. Bank v. Chase, 72 Me. 226, 39 Am. Rep. 319; Florence v. De Beaumont, 101 Wash. 356, 172 P. 340, 4 A.L.R. 1565.
Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1618, 1619, s. 38 A.L.R. 824.

[1] Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co. 93 Wis. 153, 66 N. W. 518, 57 Am. St. Rep. 899.
Annotation: 3 Ann. Cas. 441.

[2] Armstrong v. Ashley, 204 U. S. 272, 51 L. ed. 482, 27 S. Ct. 270. See also Abrams v. United States Fidelity & G. Co. 127 Wis. 579, 106 N. W. 1091, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 575, 115 Am. St. Rep. 1055.

[3] Bank of Commerce v. Hoeber, 88 Mo. 37, 57 Am. Rep. 359.

[4] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 250, p. 559.

C. Authority to Appear

§ 79. Generally.—No person has the right to appear as the attorney of another without the authority of that other, whether such other is a natural person or a corporation.[12] There must be a contract of employment, express or implied, between the attorney and the party for whom he appears, or someone authorized to represent such party.[13] Employment in a principal case does not authorize an attorney to appear in other proceedings not forming essentially a part of that case.[14] Nor does an authority to appear specially for the sole purpose of objecting to the jurisdiction of the court authorize him to enter a general appearance.[15] However, as a general rule, the mere appearance of an attorney for one of the parties to a suit is deemed sufficient for the opposite party and for the court; it is not generally necessary that an attorney regularly admitted prove his authority to represent a person in the first instance.[16] The law presumes that he had authority to appear for the party whom he purports to represent.[17] Nevertheless, his authority to appear may be questioned; and when it is disputed, he may be required to produce evidence of it.[18]

---

[5] Wheiles v. Ætna L. Ins. Co. (C. C. A. 5th) 68 F. (2d) 99, citing R. C. L.; Alger v. Beasley, 180 Ark. 46, 20 S. W. (2d) 317, citing R. C. L.; Griffith v. Investment Co. 92 Fla. 781, 110 So. 271, citing R. C. L.; Small v. Colonial Invest. Co. 92 Fla. 503, 109 So. 433, citing R. C. L.; Sayre v. Com. 194 Ky. 338, 238 S. W. 737, 24 A.L.R. 1017; Given v. Kuhlman, — La. App. —, 145 So. 550, citing R. C. L.; Sayer v. Lee, 40 S. D. 170, 166 N. W. 635, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 31 L.R.A. 36; 53 Am. St. Rep. 449; 20 Ann. Cas. 397.

[6] Putnam v. Day, 22 Wall. (U. S.) 60, 22 L. ed. 764; Bunnell v. Holmes, 64 Colo. 345, 171 P. 365, citing R. C. L.; Spaulding v. Thompson, 12 Ind. 477, 74 Am. Dec. 221; Carr v. First Nat. Bank, 35 Ind. App. 216, 73 N. E. 947, 111 Am. St. Rep. 159; Beale v. Swasey, 106 Me. 35, 75 A. 134, 20 Ann. Cas. 396; Douglas Mill. & Power Co. v. Rickey, 47 Nev. 148, 217 P. 590, citing R. C. L.; Drinkard v. Ingram, 21 Tex. 650, 73 Am. Dec. 250.

Annotation: 31 L.R.A. 36; 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524; 80 Am. St. Rep. 269; 96 Am. St. Rep. 108; 20 Ann. Cas. 397; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 498.

[7] People v. McCann, 247 Ill. 130, 93 N. E. 100, 20 Ann. Cas. 496; Dame v. Dame, 38 N. H. 429, 75 Am. Dec. 195; State v. Davies, 33 S. D. 243, 145 N. W. 719, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 1102.

[8] Peterson v. Koch, 110 Iowa, 19, 81 N. W. 160, 80 Am. St. Rep. 261; Halloran v. New England Teleph. & Teleg. Co. 95 Vt. 273, 115 A. 143, 18 A.L.R. 554.

Annotation: 80 Am. St. Rep. 264.

[9] Beale v. Swasey, 106 Me. 35, 75 A. 134, 20 Ann. Cas. 396.

Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 397.

[10] Sayre v. Com. 194 Ky. 338, 238 S. W. 737, 24 A.L.R. 1017.

Annotation: 24 A.L.R. 1027, 1031.

[11] See Judgments [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 711, § 161; p. 756, § 209].

[12] Santa Rosa v. Fall, 273 U. S. 315, 71 L. ed. 658, 47 S. Ct. 361; Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204.

[13] Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1.

An attorney employed through a third person should promptly communicate the fact of retainer to the client. Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1.

[14] Hollan v. Kepner, 297 Ill. 332, 130 N. E. 699, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 150.

[15] Green v. Green, 42 Kan. 654, 22 P. 730, 16 Am. St. Rep. 510.

§ 80. Presumption of Authority; Burden of Proving Want of Authority.— It is well established in the courts of this country, both Federal and state, that the appearance of a regularly admitted attorney at law is presumptive evidence of his authority to represent the person for whom he appears.[19] This rule applies whether the attorney appears for a natural person or for a corporation; in neither case is it necessary for him to show his authority in order to progress with the suit unless properly demanded.[20] This presumption as to the authority of an attorney to appear and represent his client is, however, usually considered to be a rebuttable one.[1] In other words, when the attorney's authority to appear is properly put in issue, it is competent to rebut this presumption of authority by proof that no such authority was given.[2] According to the weight of authority, a judgment predicated upon an unauthorized appearance by attorney may be set aside even though it may not be subject to collateral attack.[3] The right to assail an unauthorized appearance may, of course, be waived;[4] and until the presumption arising from a voluntary appearance by attorney is overcome by proof, the court will not deny the attorney the privilege of representing his client.[5] The burden of impeaching the authority of the attorney falls, of course, upon the party who claims that his appearance is unauthorized.[6] Such person must show some good cause for so doing, such as that the attorney was appearing for the mere purpose of oppression or for some other sinister purpose, or that there is fraud, accident, or mistake in the appearance.[7]

---

[16] Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; Penobscot Boom Corp. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656; Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204.

Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 33.

[17] See infra, § 80.

[18] Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 34.

[19] Hill v. Mendenhall, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 453, 22 L. ed. 616; Shelton v. Tiffin, 6 How. (U. S.) 163, 12 L. ed. 387; New Jersey v. New York, 6 Pet. (U. S.) 323, 8 L. ed. 414; Washington use of M'Cue v. Young, 10 Wheat. (U. S.) 406, 6 L. ed. 352; Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204; Brewer v. Watson, 71 Ala. 299, 46 Am. Rep. 318; Doe v. Abbott, 152 Ala. 243, 44 So. 637, 126 Am. St. Rep. 30; Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; Great West Min. Co. v. Woodmas of Alston Min. Co. 12 Colo. 46, 20 P. 771, 13 Am. St. Rep. 204; Anderson v. Crawford, 147 Ga. 455, 94 S. E. 574, L.R.A.1918B, 894; Winchester v. Ring, 312 Ill. 544, 144 N. E. 333, 36 A.L.R. 520; Welch v. Sykes, 8 Ill. 197, 44 Am. Dec. 689; Carson, P. S. & Co. v. Long, 219 Iowa, 444, 257 N. W. 815, citing R. C. L.; Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520; Hefferman v. Burt, 7 Iowa, 320, 71 Am. Dec. 445; Reynolds v. Fleming, 30 Kan. 106, 1 P. 61, 46 Am. Rep. 86; King Constr. Co. v. Mary Helen Coal Corp. 194 Ky. 435, 239 S. W. 799, citing R. C. L.; M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 189, 16 Am. Dec. 93; Kelly v. Benedict, 5 Rob. (La.) 138, 39 Am. Dec. 530; Roselius v. Delachaise, 5 La. Ann. 481, 52 Am. Dec. 597; York Harbor Village Corp. v. Libby, 126 Me. 537, 140 A. 382; Penobscot Boom Corp. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656; Henck v. Todhunter, 7 Harr. & J. (Md.) 275, 16 Am. Dec. 300; Dorsey v. Kyle, 30 Md. 512, 96 Am. Dec. 617; Corbitt v. Timmerman, 95 Mich. 581, 55 N. W. 437, 35 Am. St. Rep. 586; Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1; Miller v. Continental Assur. Co. 233 Mo. 91, 134 S. W. 1003, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 102; Deegan v. Deegan, 22 Nev. 185, 37 P. 360, 58 Am. St. Rep. 742; Bunton v. Lyford, 37 N. H. 512, 75 Am. Dec. 144; American Ins. Co. v. Oakley, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 496, 38 Am. Dec. 561; Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 296, 5 Am. Dec. 237; Williams v. Johnson, 112 N. C. 424, 17 S. E. 496, 21 L.R.A. 848, 34 Am. St. Rep. 513; Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244; Pillsbury v. Dugan, 9 Ohio, 117, 34 Am. Dec. 427; Babcock v. Wambaugh & C. Oil Co. 4 Pa. D. & C. 468, citing R. C. L.; McEachern v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 652, 36 P. 690, 40 Am. St. Rep. 922; Charleston v. Littlepage, 73 W. Va. 156, 80 S. E. 131, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 353.

Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 15; 21 L.R.A. 848; 126 Am. St. Rep. 33.

Proof of a resolution by a city council authorizing the commencement of eminent domain proceedings need not be made, since, in the absence of statutory requirements or proof to the contrary, direction to the city counsel to commence the proceedings will be presumed. Winchester v. Ring, 312 Ill. 544, 144 N. E. 333, 36 A.L.R. 520.

[20] Annotation: 16 Am. Dec. 98.

[1] Great West Min. Co. v. Woodmas of Alston Min. Co. 12 Colo. 46, 20 P. 771, 13 Am. St. Rep. 204; Anderson v. Crawford, 147 Ga. 455, 94 S. E. 574, L.R.A.1918B, 894; Roselius v. Delachaise, 5 La. Ann. 481, 52 Am. Dec. 597; York Harbor Village Corp. v. Libby, 126 Me. 537, 140 A. 382.

[2] Doe ex dem. Chamberlain, M. & Co. v. Abbott, 152 Ala. 243, 44 So. 637, 126 Am. St. Rep. 30; Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; Great West Min. Co. v. Woodmas of Alston Min. Co. 12 Colo. 46, 20 P. 771, 13 Am. St. Rep. 204; Hollinger v. Reeme, 138 Ind. 363, 36 N. E. 1114, 24 L.R.A. 46, 46 Am. St. Rep. 402; Green v. Green, 42 Kan. 654, 22 P. 730, 16 Am. St. Rep. 510; M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 189, 16 Am. Dec. 93; Belt v. Wilson, 6 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 495, 22 Am. Dec. 88; Roselius v. Delachaise, 5 La. Ann. 481, 52 Am. Dec. 597; Keith v. Wilson, 6 Mo. 435, 35 Am. Dec. 443; Winters v. Means, 25 Neb. 241, 41 N. W. 157, 13 Am. St. Rep. 489; Vilas v. Plattsburgh & M. R. Co. (Vilas v. Butler) 123 N. Y. 440, 25 N. E. 941, 9 L.R.A. 844, 20 Am. St. Rep. 771.

Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 71; 126 Am. St. Rep. 33.

§ 81. Sufficiency of Proof of Want of Authority.—The presumption of the authority of an attorney who makes a voluntary appearance for a party to an action is a strong one and can be overthrown only by clear, satisfactory, and convincing proof of his authority,[8] or at least by a clear preponderance of the evidence.[9] The rule has been laid down that it is incumbent on the party who questions the authority of the attorney representing his adversary to show to the court, by affidavit, facts sufficient to raise a reasonable presumption that the attorney is acting in the case without authority from the party he assumes to represent.[10] In jurisdictions where an actual written warrant of attorney is required as evidence of the fact of employment and authority of the attorney,[11] the court may require such warrant to be produced when the attorney's authority to appear is called into question,[12] and even where such warrants have been dispensed with, the attorney may be required to show some authority, either written or verbal.[13] It is not, however, generally necessary for an attorney at law to produce or file a warrant of attorney to be enabled to appear for a party in court,[14] even though such party is a corporation.[15] It has been held that the authority of an attorney to bring a suit and represent the plaintiff is sufficiently shown by his oath,[16] and the declaration by the attorney that he was employed by the plaintiff or his agent who, the attorney believed, was duly authorized to employ him may be deemed sufficient.[17] Copies of proceedings of the board of directors of a corporation for whom the attorney appears may be admitted as evidence of the attorney's authority.[18] Even though a written authority may be required, if the attorney has such authority from the agent of the plaintiff, he need not show that such agent had written authority from his principal.[19]

---

[3] See JUDGMENTS [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 713. § 163].

[4] Doe ex dem. Chamberlain, M. & Co. v. Abbott, 152 Ala. 243, 44 So. 637, 126 Am. St. Rep. 30.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 33.

[5] Charleston v. Littlepage, 73 W. Va. 156, 80 S. E. 131, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 353.
Such appearance is binding until it is proved that it was unauthorized. Hill v. Mendenhall, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 453, 22 L. ed. 616.

[6] Carson, P. S. & Co. v. Long, 219 Iowa, 444 257 N. W. 815, citing R. C. L.; Reynolds v. Fleming, 30 Kan. 106, 1 P. 61, 46 Am. Rep. 86; King Constr. Co. v. Mary Helen Coal Corp. 194 Ky. 435, 239 S. W. 799, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 36.

[7] Annotation: 16 Am. Dec. 99.

[8] Anderson v. Crawford, 147 Ga. 455, 94 S. E. 574, L.R.A.1918B, 894; Winters v. Means, 25 Neb. 241, 41 N. W. 157, 13 Am. St. Rep. 489. See also Stuart's Appeal, 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.
Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 16; 126 Am. St. Rep. 39.

[9] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 16.
If several attorneys are employed to defend an action, evidence of one of them that one of the defendants did not engage him to act as his attorney, without any evidence as to the want of authority of the other attorneys to represent such defendant, is insufficient to establish that such attorneys had no authority to appear for him in the action. And the authority of the attorney of record to represent one who he testifies is his client will not be decreed to be at an end on the testimony of another attorney, not of record, unsupported by other evidence. Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 37.

[10] Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; Kelly v. Benedict, 5 Rob. (La.) 138, 39 Am. Dec. 530.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 43, 44.

[11] As to when a written warrant of attorney is necessary, see supra, § 32.

[12] M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 189, 16 Am. Dec. 93.

[13] Keith v. Wilson, 6 Mo. 435, 35 Am. Dec. 443.

[14] Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204; Rodgers v. Bromberg (C. C. A. 5th) 53 F. (2d) 723, 19 Am. Bankr. Rep (N. S.) 1, citing R. C. L., writ of certiorari denied in 285 U. S. 542, 76 L. ed. 934, 52 S. Ct. 314; Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520; Henck v. Todhunter, 7 Harr. & J. (Md.) 275, 16 Am. Dec. 300; Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1; Bunton v. Lyford, 37 N. H. 512, 75 Am. Dec. 144; Haslet v. Street, 13 S. C. L. (2 M'Cord) 310, 13 Am. Dec. 724.
Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 29.

[15] Washington use of M'Cue v. Young, 10 Wheat. (U. S.) 406, 6 L. ed. 352; Osborn v.

§ 82. Challenging Authority to Appear.—Who may question the right of an attorney to appear for a party in a suit is a vexed question.[20] The party whom the attorney assumes to represent may, of course, challenge his authority to appear.[1] It seems clear, however, that an attorney's authority to appear will not be questioned at the instance of a stranger to the record.[2] However, the court, on its own motion, by virtue of its inherent powers, may investigate the authority of an attorney to appear in a cause,[3] and in some jurisdictions the opposite party may require that the attorney produce evidence of his authority,[4] especially where his rights will otherwise be jeopardized and he will be brought into litigation, without the consent of the man who stands on the record as his adversary.[5] In other jurisdictions, however, the adverse party cannot require an attorney affirmatively to show his authority to appear for the party whom he assumes to represent.[6]

As stated above, the court may, on its own motion, investigate the authority of an attorney to appear; generally, however, the court will make no inquiry into this matter until the attorney's power to act is challenged in an appropriate manner.[7] The proper method of attacking an attorney's authority to make an appearance is by motion, supported by oath showing, prima facie at least, his want of authority.[8] It has been held that an attorney's authority to appear and prosecute a suit cannot be questioned by demurrer or answer.[9]

Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204.

[16] Mobile Transp. Co. v. Mobile, 128 Ala. 335, 30 So. 645, 64 L.R.A. 333, 86 Am. St. Rep. 143. And see Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 298, 5 Am. Dec. 237; Williams v. Johnson, 112 N. C. 424, 17 S. E. 496, 21 L.R.A. 848, 34 Am. St. Rep. 513.
Annotation: 21 L.R.A. 848.

[17] Penobscot Boom Corp. v. Lamson, 16 Me. 224, 33 Am. Dec. 656.

[18] Miller v. Continental Assur. Co. 233 Mo. 91, 134 S. W. 1003, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 102.

[19] Annotation: 16 Am. Dec. 99.

[20] Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 35.

[1] Miller v. Continental Assur. Co. 233 Mo. 91, 134 S. W. 1003, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 102.

[2] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 74; 126 Am. St. Rep. 35.

[3] Santa Rosa v. Fall, 273 U. S. 315, 71 L. ed. 658, 47 S. Ct. 361; Miller v. Continental Assur. Co. 233 Mo. 91, 134 S. W. 1003, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 102; Missoula Belt Line R. Co. v. Smith, 58 Mont. 432, 193 P. 529, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912C, 106.

[4] Brewer v. Watson, 71 Ala. 299, 46 Am. Rep. 318; M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 190, 16 Am. Dec. 93.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 35.
The absence of the client from the state for a number of years has been held to furnish good reason for requiring the attorney to produce his authority. Keith v. Wilson, 6 Mo. 435, 35 Am. Dec. 443; Miller v. Continental Assur. Co. 233 Mo. 91, 134 S. W. 1003, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 102.

[5] M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 189, 16 Am. Dec. 93; Belt v. Wilson, 6 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 495, 22 Am. Dec. 88.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 35.

[6] Harrington v. Edwards, 17 Wis. 587, 84 Am. Dec. 768.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 35.

[7] Hirsch Bros. & Co. v. R. E. Kennington Co. 155 Miss. 242, 124 So. 344, 88 A.L.R. 1.

[8] Charleston v. Littlepage, 73 W. Va. 156, 80 S. E. 131, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 353.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 43, 44.
The proceeding may be by motion to vacate the appearance, to dismiss the action, or for an order requiring authority to be shown, but if a statute provides that the court may, on motion of either party, require the attorney for the adverse party to produce and prove authority under which he appears, and until this is done may stay all proceedings by him in behalf of the party for whom he assumes to act, it provides the exclusive method of testing the authority of the attorney to act. Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 44.
Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 44.

[9] Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 43.

The authority of an attorney to appear should be challenged promptly; otherwise the right to do so will be held to have been waived.[10] In some instances it has been held that such right must be exercised at the first term after service and before pleading, and not after the trial has been entered upon by the selection of a jury.[11] The question cannot be raised for the first time in the appellate court.[12]

The authority of an attorney to appear should not be capriciously demanded, upon light or frivolous grounds, and if so demanded the court will not order it produced.[13]

If the attorney prosecuting a suit fails to produce satisfactory evidence of his authority to do so, in a case where there is reasonable ground to apprehend that he is proceeding without the permission of the individual who stands on the record as plaintiff, he will not be permitted to prosecute the suit,[14] and the suit will be dismissed.[15] An order granted on motion to compel an attorney of the plaintiff to produce his authority for using the plaintiff's name must direct that the authority be produced to the court granting the order, and state the time and place at which it is required to be presented.[16]

§ 83. Effect of Unauthorized Appearance.—The courts are not agreed as to the binding effect of a judgment which is litigated upon an unauthorized appearance entered by an attorney purporting to act for the defendant. According to the overwhelming weight of modern authority, a domestic judgment based upon an unauthorized appearance by an attorney is subject to direct attack, but not, according to the performance of authority, to collateral attack; some courts, however, hold that such a judgment is not subject to direct attack, and, on the other hand, a substantial number hold that it may be subjected to collateral attack.[17] Cases which take the position that an appearance by an attorney without authority is sufficient to give the court jurisdiction over the person restrict the party whose appearance has been thus entered to his remedy against the attorney,[18] it being well settled that an unauthorized appearance entered by an attorney for a party renders the attorney liable to such party for resulting damages.[19] With regard to foreign judgments, it seems well settled that the party on whose behalf an unauthorized appearance has been made by an attorney may attack the validity of the

---

The objection cannot be heard at the trial as a defense to the action. Continental Tyre & Rubber Co. v. Daimler Co. [1915] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 893, 5 B. R. C. 304—C. A.

A mere denial of the authority of an attorney to appear for the party whom he assumes to represent is insufficient to challenge his authority and require him to produce it. Doe ex dem. Chamberlain, M. & Co. v. Abbott, 152 Ala. 243, 44 So. 637, 126 Am. St. Rep. 30.

[10] Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 36.

[11] Doe ex dem. Chamberlain, M. & Co. v. Abbott, 152 Ala. 243, 44 So. 637, 126 Am. St. Rep. 30.

[12] McIlhenny v. Binz, 80 Tex. 1, 13 S. W. 655, 26 Am. St. Rep. 705.

Continental Tyre & Rubber Co. v. Daimler Co. [1915] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 893, 5 B. R. C. 304—C. A.

[13] Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; M'Alexander v. Wright, 3 T. B. Mon. (Ky.) 189, 16 Am. Dec. 93.

[14] Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; Belt v. Wilson, 6 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 495, 22 Am. Dec. 88.

[15] Belt v. Wilson, 6 J. J. Marsh. (Ky.) 495, 22 Am. Dec. 88; Keith v. Wilson, 6 Mo. 435, 35 Am. Dec. 443.

[16] Annotation: 126 Am. St. Rep. 44, 45.

[17] Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 12. For general discussion, see JUDGMENTS [Also 15 R. C. L. p. 713, § 163].

[18] Bunton v. Lyford, 37 N. H. 512, 75 Am. Dec. 144; Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 298, 5 Am. Dec. 237; American Ins. Co. v. Oakley, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 496, 38 Am. Dec. 561; Ferguson v. Crawford, 70 N. Y. 256, 26 Am. Rep. 589; Vilas v. Plattsburgh & M. R. Co. 123 N. Y. 440, 25 N. E. 941, 9 L.R.A. 844, 20 Am. St. Rep. 771; Abbott v. Dutton, 44 Vt. 546, 8 Am. Rep. 394; Hubbard v. Dubois, 37 Vt. 94, 86 Am. Dec. 690.

Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 16; 54 Am. St. Rep. 246, 247.

[19] See infra, § 122.

judgment. The matter of attack on a judgment based upon an unauthorized appearance is reserved for discussion elsewhere in this work.[20]

Some courts, while letting a judgment stand, though rendered against a defendant on the unauthorized appearance of an attorney, have granted relief to the extent of staying all proceedings and letting the defendant in to plead to the merits if he has any defense.[21]

§ 84. Withdrawal or Striking Out of Appearance.—Counsel may, under some circumstances, where the act is done with an honest purpose to subserve the interests or to comply with the wishes of his client, withdraw his own appearance and the answer of the defendant, and thereby accelerate the entry of a default judgment against the defendant, but he is not authorized to do so merely because his client has failed to pay his fee.[1]

D. Authority in Conduct of Litigation

§ 85. Generally.—An attorney of record, by virtue of his employment as such, subject to the approval of the court, has implied authority to do all acts necessary and proper to the regular and orderly conduct of the case and the protection and promotion of his client's interests, which affect the remedy only, and not the cause of action,[2] and which are ancillary or incidental to the general authority conferred.[3] He is the agent of his client to conduct his suit to judgment,[4] and his acts in conducting a suit are presumed to be authorized by the party he represents.[5] Such acts, in the absence of fraud, will be binding on the client,[6] though done without consulting him,[7] and even against his wishes.[8] An attorney may, and ought to, exercise his discretion in all the ordinary occurrences which take place in relation to the cause.[9] But even in the case of an employment under a general retainer, the implied authority is limited to the management of litigation and the control of all proceedings therein; [10] acts outside and beyond the ordinary course of procedure in the action,[11] or which affect the cause of action itself,[12] are not ordinarily binding upon the client. It has been held that what counsel did on a former trial and in the progress of it, is binding on his client only so far as that action and its consequences are concerned, and no further, and that it is not within the scope of his authority to change the rights of his client except so far as it might be done in that action.[13]

---

[20] See Judgments [Also 15 R. C. L. 554].

[21] Hollinger v. Reeme, 138 Ind. 372, 36 N. E. 1114, 24 L.R.A. 46, 46 Am. St. Rep. 402; Vilas v. Plattsburgh & M. R. Co. 123 N. Y. 440, 25 N. E. 941, 9 L.R.A. 844, 20 Am. St. Rep. 771; Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 296, 5 Am. Dec. 237; American Ins. Co. v. Oakland, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 496, 38 Am. Dec. 561.

Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 24.

[1] Nichells v. Nichells, 5 N. D. 125, 64 N. W. 73, 33 L.R.A. 515, 57 Am. St. Rep. 540; Okmulgee N. R. Co. v. Oklahoma Salvage & Supply Co. 133 Okla. 64, 271 P. 167, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 33 L.R.A. 515.

It is presumed, when an attorney of record applies for permission to have his appearance stricken out, and the same is ordered, that this was done at the instance and by the authority of the party for whom his appearance was entered. Henck v. Todhunter, 7 Harr. & J. (Md.) 275, 16 Am. Dec. 300.

[2] Osborn v. Bank of United States, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 738, 6 L. ed. 204; Preston v. Hill, 50 Cal. 43, 19 Am. Rep. 647; Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Tobler v. Nevitt, 45 Colo. 231, 100 P. 416, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 702, 132 Am. St. Rep. 142, 16 Ann. Cas. 925; Robert v. Commercial Bank, 13 La. 528, 33 Am. Dec. 570; Pomeroy v. Prescott, 106 Me. 401, 76 A. 898, 138 Am. St. Rep. 347, 21 Ann. Cas. 574; Hahn v. Loker, 229 Mass. 363, 118 N. E. 661, L.R.A.1918D, 807; Moulton v. Bowker, 115 Mass. 36, 15 Am. Rep. 72; B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. v. Holland, 159 Miss. 346, 131 So. 882, citing R. C. L.; Jenkins v. Gillespie, 10 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 31, 48 Am. Dec. 732; State v. Turlok, 76 Mont. 549, 248 P. 169, citing R. C. L.; Klein v. Boylan, 115 N. J. L. 295, 179 A. 638, reversed apparently on other grounds in — N. J. L. —, 184 A. 736, citing R. C. L.; Shaft v. Phœnix L. Ins. Co. 67 N. Y. 544, 23 Am. Rep. 138; Averill v. Williams, 4 Denio (N. Y.) 295, 47 Am. Dec. 252; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 47 Am. Dec. 549; Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244; Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245; Nichells v. Nichells, 5 N. D. 125, 64 N. W. 73, 33 L.R.A. 515, 57 Am. St. Rep. 540; Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 321; Neil v. Union Nat. Bank, 72 Okla. 116, 178 P. 659, citing R. C. L.; Swartz v. Morgan, 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506.

Annotation: 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244; 93 Am. St. Rep. 170; 132 Am. St. Rep. 148.

An attorney retained in an action is, within his proper sphere, possessed of plenary authority and discretion in all those processes which are strictly incidental to the regular course of procedure in the action. Nichells v. Nichells, 5 N. D. 125, 64 N. W. 73, 33 L.R.A. 515.

An attorney may do anything fairly pertaining to the prosecution of his client's cause and the protection of his client's interests in the suit. Turner v. Fleming, 37 Okla. 75, 130 P. 551, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 265, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 831.

[3] Ball v. State Bank, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649. And see Wabash, St. L. & P. R. Co. v. McDougall, 126 Ill. 111, 18 N. E. 291, 1 L.R.A. 207, 9 Am. St. Rep. 39.

[4] Rogers v. Marshal (United States use of Rogers v. Conklin) 1 Wall. (U. S.) 644, 17 L. ed. 714; Sayre v. Com. 194 Ky. 338, 238 S. W. 737, 24 A.L.R. 1017.

[5] Alexandria Canal Co. v. Swann, 5 How. (U. S.) 83, 12 L. ed. 60.

§ 86. Exclusiveness of Control.—If a party appears in an action by attorney, he must be heard only through such attorney,[14] who, so long as he remains the attorney of record, has the exclusive management and control of the action and of all steps and proceedings taken therein to enforce the rights and remedies of his client.[15] If the client becomes dissatisfied with his attorney, he should apply to the court for leave to change counsel,[16] and until this has been done, he has no right to control his attorney in the due and orderly conduct and management of the case.[17]

§ 87. Commencement of Suit or Proceedings by or against Client.—As a general rule, when a demand is placed in the hands of an attorney for enforcement, he has authority to determine what proceedings he will institute,[18] and to commence the action for his client.[19] Whatever adverse proceedings may be taken by the attorney are to be considered, so far as they affect the defendant in the suit, as approved by the client in advance, and therefore as his act, even though they prove to be unwarranted by the law.[20] But em-

---

An attorney whose authority is derived from a next friend prosecuting a lawsuit for an infant has no more power and authority than has the next friend. Paskewie v. East St. Louis & Suburban R. Co. 281 Ill. 385, 117 N. E. 1035, L.R.A.1918C, 52.

[6] Preston v. Hill, 50 Cal. 43, 19 Am. Rep. 647; Judd & Detweiler v. Gittings, 43 App. D. C. 304, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 518; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Wood v. Wood, 59 Ark. 441, 27 S. W. 641, 28 L.R.A. 157, 43 Am. St. Rep. 42.
Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60.

[7] Annotation: 87 Am. Dec. 167.

[8] Nichells v. Nichells, 5 N. D. 125, 64 N. W. 73, 33 L.R.A. 515, 57 Am. St. Rep. 540.

[9] Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549.

[10] Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506.

[11] Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549; B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. v. Holland, 159 Miss. 346, 131 So. 882, citing R. C. L.

[12] Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244.
Annotation: 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244.

[13] Arthur v. Homestead F. Ins. Co. 78 N. Y. 462, 34 Am. Rep. 550.

[14] Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164.

[15] Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509; Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244.
Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 860, § 385.
It is indispensable to the decorum of the court, and to the due and orderly conduct of a cause, that the attorney have the management and control of the action, and that his acts go unquestioned by everyone except the party whom he represents. Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164.

[16] See supra, §§ 44 et seq.

[17] Toy v. Haskell, 128 Cal. 558, 61 P. 89, 79 Am. St. Rep. 70; Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164; Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244; Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245.
Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 170.

[18] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 150.

[19] Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60.

[20] Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185.

ployment to collect a debt does not, of itself, give authority to begin legal proceedings.[1]

An attorney cannot, without authority to do so, accept service of process which commences an action against his client.[2] Moreover, as a general rule, an attorney at law has no authority, merely by virtue of his general employment as such, to waive or admit service for his client of original process by which the court for the first time acquires jurisdiction of the client.[3] Yet this rule has been modified by statute in some states, and in others seems never to have obtained to its fullest extent.[4]

§ 88. Execution of Indemnity Bonds.—According to some decisions, an attorney employed to bring suit, having authority to take all steps necessary in the regular course of the litigation, may give a bond of indemnity in his client's name,[5] at least this has been held true where the client was a nonresident.[6] According to other decisions, however, the employment of counsel does not confer on him, ex necessitate, the right to bind his client to indemnify a third party who may become surety in the progress of the suit.[7]

§ 89. Attachment and Arrest.—The intrusting of an attorney with a demand for collection and giving him general authority to institute a suit empowers him to attach property of the debtor.[8] A client is bound by the acts of his attorney in causing the wrongful arrest or imprisonment of his adversary, if the attorney is acting under his directions or within the scope of his employment,[9] although it seems that mere authority given to collect a claim, without specific instructions, does not give the attorney the right to arrest the debtor, so as to make his client liable for malicious prosecution or false arrest or imprisonment.[10]

An attorney also has authority to release an attachment on realty or personalty,[11] at least where he takes other security.[12] It has been held, however, that an attorney may release a garnishee from his attachment only by special authority from the client.[13]

§ 90. Writs, Notices, Pleadings, and Technical Formalities.—Where the action has been commenced and jurisdiction has been acquired by the court, the attorney of record has authority to accept service of the usual papers and notices, and may give any notice affecting his client's rights which the latter himself might give. In some jurisdictions it has been held that an attorney authorized to commence an action is thereby empowered to indorse his client's name on the writ, but in others it has been decided that such authority is not conferred upon him by virtue of his employment.[14] Attorneys are also generally given the right to verify pleadings filed on behalf of their clients, although such right exists only to the extent and under the conditions which the statutes of each jurisdiction prescribe.[15] Attorneys also, by virtue of their implied authority, may bind their clients by the waiver of informalities, irregularities, and technical advantages in the cases which they are conducting,[16] and may make concessions in matters relating to the trial and progress of the causes.[17]

---

[1] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 978, § 426.

[2] Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 43 L. ed. 1028, 19 S. Ct. 747.

[3] Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 154.

[4] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 154.

There is authority to the effect that where an attorney has actually been employed for the purposes of a suit and in anticipation thereof, he has as much power to bind his client before as after the commencement of the suit, and hence, may bind him by waiver of service. Hefferman v. Burts, 7 Iowa, 320, 71 Am. Dec. 445.

[5] Swartz v. D. S. Morgan & Co. 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 294, 295, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.

A bond of indemnity under seal, executed by an attorney whose authority was by parol, is valid against his client as a simple contract. Ford v. Williams, 13 N. Y. 577, 67 Am. Dec. 83.

[6] Swartz v. D. S. Morgan & Co. 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 294, 295, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786; Clark v. Randall, 9 Wis. 135, 76 Am. Dec. 252.

[7] White v. Davidson, 8 Md. 169, 63 Am. Dec. 699.

[8] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 171.

[9] Guilleaume v. Rowe, 94 N. Y. 268, 46 Am. Rep. 141; Gibson v. Holmes, 78 Vt. 110, 62 A. 11, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 451.

Annotation: 35 A.L.R. 657.

[10] Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 474.

[11] Monson v. Hawley, 30 Conn. 51, 79 Am. Dec. 233; Hahn v. Loker, 229 Mass. 363, 118 N. E. 661, L.R.A.1918D, 807; Moulton v. Bowker, 115 Mass. 136, 15 Am. Rep. 72.

Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60; L.R.A.1918D, 809; 132 Am. St. Rep. 171, 172; 21 Ann. Cas. 584.

[12] Monson v. Hawley, 30 Conn. 51, 79 Am. Dec. 233.

[13] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 172.

§ 91. Stipulations and Agreements.—Generally speaking, an attorney of record has implied authority to enter into stipulations and agreements in all matters of procedure during the progress of the trial,[18] which are necessary or incidental to the management of the suit, and which affect only the procedure or remedy, as distinguished from the cause of action itself.[19] He may, for example, enter into a stipulation to advance the date of a hearing[20] or to continue the case.[1] He may waive objections to evidence and enter into stipulations for the admission of facts on the trial,[2] waive or stipulate for the waiver of his client's privilege as to confidential communications which do not involve his own relationship with the client,[3] or consent to accept a joinder in issue after having signed a judgment for the want of such joinder in due time, notwithstanding the express orders of his client to the contrary,[4] and, where suits are actually pending, he may bind his client by a stipulation that one suit shall abide the event of another suit involving the same question,[5] unless the agreement is improvidently, fraudulently, or collusively made.[6] Generally, however, an attorney, in his capacity merely as such, has no power to make any agreement for his client concerning the litigations before a suit has been commenced or before he has been retained to commence one,[7] although an attorney employed in anticipation of a suit to be brought may bind his client by stipulations in relation to the same.[8] A client may, by waiver or estoppel, be bound by a stipulation made by his attorney in excess of his authority.[9]

---

[14] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 155.

An attorney is not compelled to accept notice of the time and place of taking a deposition, but if he does, or if he waives notice, it will bind the client. Buddicum v. Kirk, 3 Cranch (U. S.) 293, 2 L. ed. 444.

[15] See PLEADING [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 490, § 54].

[16] Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549.

Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60; 132 Am. St. Rep. 163.

[17] Hess v. Vinton Colliery Co. 255 Pa. 78, 99 A. 218, 14 A.L.R. 1.

As to the right of an attorney to waive the accused's right to be present when the verdict is returned, see CRIMINAL LAW [Also 7 R. C. L. p. 92, § 52].

[18] Wood v. Wood, 59 Ark. 441, 27 S. W. 641, 28 L.R.A. 157, 43 Am. St. Rep. 42; Equitable Trust Co. v. Washington-Idaho Water, Light & P. Co. (D. C.) 300 F. 601, citing R. C. L.; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549; Bizzell v. Auto Tire & Equipment Co. 182 N. C. 98, 108 S. E. 439, citing R. C. L.; Youmans v. Hanna, 35 N. D. 479, 160 N. W. 705, 161 N. W. 797, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 263; Ohio County v. Clemens, 85 W. Va. 11, 100 S. E. 680, 7 A.L.R. 373.

Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60; 132 Am. St. Rep. 155.

An agreement that the property involved in the litigation may be sold pending an appeal and the parties left to their rights against the proceeds will bind the parties. Halliday v. Stuart, 151 U. S. 229, 38 L. ed. 141, 14 S. Ct. 302.

[19] North Missouri R. Co. v. Stephens, 36 Mo. 150, 88 Am. Dec. 138; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549; Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 321; Turner v. Fleming, 37 Okla. 75, 130 P. 551, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 265, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 831; Willis v. Chowning, 90 Tex. 617, 40 S. W. 395, 59 Am. St. Rep. 842; Ohio County v. Clemens, 85 W. Va. 11, 100 S. E. 680, 7 A.L.R. 373.

Annotation: 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 265; 59 Am. St. Rep. 842; 132 Am. St. Rep. 155.

[20] Youmans v. Hanna, 35 N. D. 479, 160 N. W. 705, 161 N. W. 797, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 263.

[1] Ohio County v. Clemens, 85 W. Va. 11, 100 S. E. 680, 7 A.L.R. 373.

[2] Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 321.

[3] Alberti v. New York, L. E. & W. R. Co. 118 N. Y. 77, 23 N. E. 35, 6 L.R.A. 765 (communication between physician and patient, attorney's client).

Annotation: 48 L.R.A.(N.S.) 421.

[4] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 259.

[5] Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 43 L. ed. 1028, 19 S. Ct. 747.

[6] Eidam v. Finnegan, 48 Minn. 53, 50 N. W. 933, 16 L.R.A. 507.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 584.

§ 92. —Limitations on Power.—The implied authority of an attorney to make stipulations is ordinarily limited to matters of procedure in the management or prosecution of the action; in the absence of special authority, any stipulation which operates as a surrender of the substantial rights of the client will not be upheld by the courts.[10] Thus, an attorney has no implied authority to remit a liability which his client might enforce against a witness, for the purpose of removing the interest of such witness so as to render him competent to testify,[11] or to make a general agreement with other attorneys not to try causes during a particular period.[12] In the absence of special authority, an attorney employed by a railway company in proceedings to condemn land for a right of way has no power to bind the company by his stipulation or agreement as to the plan of constructing the road,[13] nor has an attorney, employed to enjoin interference with a highway, authority to stipulate for the vacation of the highway.[14] Stipulations by counsel as to matters of law have also been held to be of no effect.[15]

§ 93. Conclusiveness of Admissions of Attorney.[16]—Admissions of facts made by an attorney in the progress of the trial are usually held to be binding on his client, provided such admissions are distinct and formal and made for the express purpose of dispensing with formal proof of such facts at the trial,[17] especially if acquiesced in by the client through his silence.[18] This rule applies in criminal prosecutions, whether the admission is made by the defense counsel or the prosecuting attorney,[19] and in the case of an attorney employed by a municipal corporation, as well as to an attorney employed by an individual.[20]

---

[7] Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 43 L. ed. 1028, 19 S. Ct. 747 (agreement that rights of client shall abide result of test suits to be brought).

[8] Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 43 L. ed. 1028, 19 S. Ct. 747; Hefferman v. Burt, 7 Iowa, 320, 71 Am. Dec. 445.

[9] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 156.

[10] Ball v. Bank of State, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Wabash, St. L. & P. R. Co. v. McDougall, 126 Ill. 111, 18 N. E. 291, 1 L.R.A. 207, 9 Am. St. Rep. 539; De Louis v. Meek, 2 G. Greene (Iowa) 55, 50 Am. Dec. 491; Robert v. Commercial Bank, 13 La. 528, 33 Am. Dec. 570; Pomeroy v. Prescott, 106 Me. 401, 76 A. 898, 138 Am. St. Rep. 347, 21 Ann. Cas. 574; Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 521; Breisch v. Locust Mt. Coal Co. 267 Pa. 546, 110 A. 242, 9 A.L.R. 1330; Hathaway v. Milwaukee, 132 Wis. 249, 111 N. W. 570, 112 N. W. 455, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 778, 122 Am. St. Rep. 975.

Annotation: 9 Am. St. Rep. 546; 59 Am. St. Rep. 852; 132 Am. St. Rep. 155.

[11] Ball v. Bank of State, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649.

[12] Robert v. Commercial Bank, 13 La. 528, 33 Am. Dec. 570.

[13] Wabash, St. L. & P. R. Co. v. McDougall, 126 Ill. 111, 18 N. E. 291, 1 L.R.A. 207, 9 Am. St. Rep. 539.

Annotation: 9 Am. St. Rep. 546.

[14] Breisch v. Locust Mt. Coal Co. 267 Pa. 546, 110 A. 242, 9 A.L.R. 1330.

[15] New Jersey Title Guarantee & T. Co. v. McGrath, 246 Mich. 553, 224 N. W. 755, citing R. C. L.; Reynolds v. McMan Oil & Gas Co. (Tex. Com. App.) 11 S. W. (2d) 778, citing R. C. L., rehearing denied in (Tex.) 14 S. W. (2d) 819.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 159.

In the case of an attorney employed by a guardian ad litem to represent minor defendants, a stipulation which in effect waives a trial in one of two actions does not bind the infant party unless approved and ratified by the court upon a showing that it is for the interest, or at least not prejudicial to the interest, of the infant. Eidam v. Finnegan, 48 Minn. 53, 50 N. W. 933, 16 L.R.A. 507.

[16] Generally, as to admissibility of agent's admissions as evidence against client, see EVIDENCE [Also ADMISSIONS AND DECLARATIONS, 1 R. C. L. p. 507, §§ 48–53].

[17] Turner v. Yates, 16 How. (U. S.) 13, 14 L. ed. 824; Harvey v. Thorpe, 28 Ala. 250, 65 Am. Dec. 344; Godwin v. State, 1 Boyce (Del.) 173, 74 A. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 940; Central Branch Union P. R. Co. v. Shoup, 28 Kan. 394, 42 Am. Rep. 163; Municipality No. 2 v. Orleans Cotton Press, 18 La. 122, 36 Am. Dec. 624; Pratt v. Conway, 148 Mo. 291, 49 S. W. 1028, 71 Am. St. Rep. 602.

Annotation: 14 L. ed. 824; 132 Am. St. Rep. 159.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, p. 642, § 284.

[18] Dick v. United States (C. C. A. 8th) 40 F. (2d) 609, 70 A.L.R. 90.

The rule applies when the admission is oral, if made at the trial in open court,[1] or even when it is made out of court, if made in the course of the attorney's employment,[2] and has been held applicable even to a failure of the attorney to deny or qualify a statement, made in open court, in his presence, by the opposing counsel, that certain matters were admitted by the attorney.[3] Where counsel, in their opening statements, state or admit facts, the existence of which precludes a recovery by their clients, the court may close the case at once and give judgment against the clients.[4] A statement made by an attorney in a letter written within the scope of his employment is admissible in evidence against his client on the trial of the case.[5]

Though the rule is different if the admission is made only for the purposes of the pending trial,[6] an unqualified and formal admission made by counsel for the purpose of relieving the opposing party from a strict rule of law or the proof of some fact may be introduced against the client upon a subsequent trial of the same action,[7] unless it is properly withdrawn.[8] Even an oral admission made by an attorney on a trial has been held to bind his client on a subsequent trial of the same action if it appears to have been intended to be general. The tribunal to determine what was the import and intent of the admission, when doubtful whether or not it was such general admission, is the jury before which the case is then pending for hearing.[9] In considering the existence and extent of the attorney's authority, the purpose of his employment, the relevancy of the admission or its relation to a disputed relevant fact, the seriousness and intent with which it was made, and the course or procedure of the litigation are all factors to be weighed.[10]

§ 94. —When Not Binding on Client.—An admission by counsel as to a matter of law has been held to be of no effect to bind his client.[11] Nor are mere matters of conversation, though they relate to the facts in controversy,[12] or admissions made by an attorney long after a case has been tried and his employment ended,[13] or admissions made or letters written before the attorney's appearance in the cause, unless authorized by the client after his retainer, binding.[14] Clearly, statements out of court by counsel, without the presence and without the knowledge or authority of his client, expressing an opinion as to the probability of the conviction of, or a verdict against, his client, are inadmissible against him.[15] While attorneys engaged in the actual management of a cause may bind their clients by admissions when so engaged, or by statements and correspondence in relation thereto, yet they have no authority, under a general retainer, to bind a client by statements that he has no cause of action or that he has surrendered whatever rights he possessed. When employed under a general retainer to prosecute a claim, an attorney cannot, in the absence of a reference by his client of the defendant to him for information, bind his client by admissions or advice prejudicial to the client's cause of action.[16] Thus, an attorney has no implied authority to admit the validity of set-offs to his client's cause of action.[17]

---

[19] Dick v. United States (C. C. A. 8th) 40 F. (2d) 609, 70 A.L.R. 90; Godwin v. State, 1 Boyce (Del.) 173, 74 A. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 940; People v. Miller, 278 Ill. 490, 116 N. E. 131, L.R.A.1917E, 797; Sinclair v. State, 161 Miss. 142, 132 So. 581, 74 A.L.R. 241; State v. Wood, 99 Vt. 490, 134 A. 697, 48 A.L.R. 985.
Annotation: 70 A.L.R. 94.

[20] Municipality No. 2 v. Orleans Cotton Press, 18 La. 122, 36 Am. Dec. 634.

[1] Godwin v. State, 1 Boyce (Del.) 173, 74 A. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 940; Gilmore v. Shearer, 197 Iowa, 506, 197 N. W. 631, 32 A.L.R. 733 (admission of correctness of copy of deed); Ætna Bldg. & L. Asso. v. McCarty, 78 Okla. 187, 189 P. 357, citing R. C. L.

[2] Graffam v. Burgess, 117 U. S. 180, 29 L. ed. 839, 6 S. Ct. 686.

[3] Godwin v. State, 1 Boyce (Del.) 173, 74 A. 1101, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 940.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913E, 945.

[4] See TRIAL [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1071, § 77].

[5] Meginnes v. McChesney (Meginnes v. Copeland) 179 Iowa, 563, 160 N. W. 50, L.R.A.1917E, 1060.

[6] Annotation: 10 Ann. Cas. 1064.

[7] Moynahan v. Perkins, 36 Colo. 481, 85 P. 1132, 10 Ann. Cas. 1061.
Annotation: 10 Ann. Cas. 1063.

[8] Annotation: 10 Ann. Cas. 1064.

[9] Moynahan v. Perkins, 36 Colo. 481, 85 P. 1132, 10 Ann. Cas. 1061; Central Branch Union P. R. Co. v. Shoup, 28 Kan. 394, 42 Am. Rep. 163; Re Condemnation of Property (Mo.) 263 S. W. 97, citing R. C. L.

[10] Brown v. Hebb, 167 Md. 535, 175 A. 602, 97 A.L.R. 366.

[11] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 159.

[12] Annotation: 14 L. ed. 824.

[13] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 258.

[14] Annotation: 14 L. ed. 825.

Where an admission by an attorney has been made improvidently and by mistake, it would seem that the court, in the exercise of its coercive powers over its own officers, has the authority to relieve against the consequences of such admission and may set it aside upon such terms as may be just.[18]

§ 95. Incurring Incidental Expenses.—Such reasonable expenses as the conduct of a case may require may be incurred by the attorney of record, and he may bind his client for any services which may be necessary and proper, not only for the preparation of the case for trial, but for the convenient conduct of such trial and the proceedings thereafter taken.[19] Thus, he may bind his client for the expense of a stenographer employed to take and transcribe evidence,[20] for the fees of an expert witness, for the reasonable cost of printing briefs, and for the necessary expenses of the proper care and custody of property which he has been employed to recover.[1]

E. AUTHORITY TO RELEASE, DISMISS, OR COMPROMISE CAUSE OF ACTION OR CONFESS JUDGMENT

§ 96. Release of Client's Cause of Action.—The rule is well established that an attorney, merely by virtue of his employment as such, has no implied authority to release his client's claim or cause of action[2] or otherwise surrender his client's rights, except upon full payment.[3] His general authority gives him no right to release an indorser of a note received by him for collection[4] or to release a surety on an obligation which he has been employed to enforce, without previous satisfaction of the claim.[5] The release of a person from liability in order that he may testify as a witness is beyond the scope of the attorney's implied authority as such.[6] However, a release has sometimes been upheld under the circumstances of the particular case.[7] An attorney has been held to have implied authority to agree to release a surety on a delivery bond from all claim for damages assessed for the value of the use of the property if he will procure and deliver to the sheriff the property specified in the bond.[8]

---

[15] State v. Edins, 25 N. M. 680, 187 P. 545, 8 A.L.R. 1331.
Annotation: 8 A.L.R. 1334.

[16] Rivers Bros. v. C. F. T. Co. 124 Or. 157, 264 P. 368, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 159.

[17] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 75.

[18] Harvey v. Thorpe, 28 Ala. 250, 65 Am. Dec. 344.
Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 258.

[19] Miller v. Palmer, 25 Ind. App. 357, 58 N. E. 213, 81 Am. St. Rep. 107; Forbes v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 150 Iowa, 177, 129 N. W. 810, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 311; Klein v. Boylan, 115 N. J. L. 295, 179 A. 638, reversed apparently on other grounds in — N. J. L. —, 184 A. 736, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 702; 132 Am. St. Rep. 161; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 313.
If he assumes the expense, he is entitled to be made whole by any regular means. Swartz v. D. S. Morgan & Co. 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.

[20] Miller v. Palmer, 25 Ind. App. 357, 58 N. E. 213, 81 Am. St. Rep. 107. And see Tobler v. Nevitt, 45 Colo. 231, 100 P. 416, 132 Am. St. Rep. 142, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 702, 16 Ann. Cas. 925.
Annotation: 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 702; 81 Am. St. Rep. 113.

[1] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 161.

[2] McLaughlin v. Monaghan, 290 Pa. 74, 138 A. 79, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 168.

[3] Glover v. Bradley (C. C. A. 4th) 233 F. 721, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921.

[4] Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293.
Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 168.

[5] Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B,

§ 97. Dismissal, Discontinuance, Nonsuit, Retraxit, or Reinstatement.—Although there are decisions to the effect that an attorney has no implied authority to dismiss an action,[9] the general rule, as evidenced by the weight of authority, is that he may, by virtue of his general authority as such, dismiss or discontinue the action [10] or agree to a nonsuit.[11] But he is not, as a general rule, held to have the implied authority to enter a retraxit, since by the latter the plaintiff irrevocably renounces his right of action.[12] This rule has, however, been relaxed under the statutes of some jurisdictions.[13] So, also, an attorney may restore the action after a non pros., even without the consent of his client,[14] or agree to the reinstatement of an action against his client after a dismissal or a nonsuit.[15]

§ 98. Compromise of Cause of Action.—The rule is almost universal that an attorney who is clothed with no other authority than that arising from his employment in that capacity has no implied power by virtue of his general retainer to compromise and settle his client's claim or cause of action,[16] except

---

1293. See also Chilton v. Willford, 2 Wis. 1, 60 Am. Dec. 399.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 168.

An unauthorized extension of payment by him will not discharge a surety. Ohio County v. Clemens, 85 W. Va. 11, 100 S. E. 680, 7 A.L.R. 373.

[6] Ball v. State Bank, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Pomeroy v. Prescott, 106 Me. 401, 76 A. 898, 138 Am. St. Rep. 347, 21 Ann. Cas. 574.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 168.

[7] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 258.

[8] Stone v. Bank of Commerce, 174 U. S. 412, 43 L. ed. 1028, 19 S. Ct. 747; Willis v. Chowning, 90 Tex. 617, 40 S. W. 395, 59 Am. St. Rep. 842.

[9] Annotation: 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244; 132 Am. St. Rep. 161.

[10] Ball v. Bank of State, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Monson v. Hawley, 30 Conn. 51, 79 Am. Dec. 233; Lovelace v. Lovelace, 179 Ga. 822, 177 S. E. 685, citing R. C. L.; Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental Asso. v. Smith, 170 Ga. 515, 153 S. E. 209, citing R. C. L.; Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549; Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244.

Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60; 132 Am. St. Rep. 161.

[11] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 258, 259.

When the alternative is presented of a probable defeat upon the merits, or a dismissal without prejudice, thus saving the cause of action, it is for the attorney to decide, as one of the incidents of the trial and in the performance of his duty to his client, which course to pursue. Bacon v. Mitchell, 14 N. D. 454, 106 N. W. 129, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 244.

[12] Glover v. Bradley (C. C. A. 4th) 233 F. 721, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921; Thomason v. Odum, 31 Ala. 108, 68 Am. Dec. 159; Lambert v. Sandford, 2 Blackf. (Ind.) 137, 18 Am. Dec. 149; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549; Kellogg v. Gilbert, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 220, 6 Am. Dec. 335; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Lowry v. McMillan, 8 Pa. 157, 49 Am. Dec. 501; Sheffer v. Perkins, 83 Vt. 185, 75 A. 6, 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1313; Seymour State Bank v. Rettler, 164 Wis. 619, 160 N. W. 1084, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1313; 132 Am. St. Rep. 162.

[13] Annotation: 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1314; 132 Am. St. Rep. 162.

[14] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 259.

[15] Rhodes v. Rhodes (Todd v. Rhodes) 108 Kan. 64, 193 P. 894, 16 A.L.R. 423; Swartz v. Morgan, 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.

[16] United States v. Beebe, 180 U. S. 343, 45 L. ed. 563, 21 S. Ct. 371; Holker v. Parker, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 436, 3 L. ed. 396; Glover v. Bradley (C. C. A. 4th) 233 F. 721, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921; Collins v. Thuringer, 92 Colo. 433, 21 P. (2d) 709, citing R. C. L.; Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Preston v. Hill, 50 Cal. 43, 19 Am. Rep. 647; Kilmer v. Gallaher, 112 Iowa, 583, 84 N. W. 697, 84 Am. St. Rep. 358; De Louis v. Meek, 2 G. Greene (Iowa) 55, 50 Am. Dec. 491; Hall v. Wright, 138 Ky. 71, 127 S. W. 516, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1255; Harrow v. Farrow, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 126, 45 Am. Dec. 60; Pomeroy v. Prescott, 106 Me. 401, 76 A. 898, 138 Am. St. Rep. 347, 21 Ann. Cas. 574; White v. Davidson, 8 Md. 169, 63 Am. Dec. 699; Vaughn v. Robbins, 254 Mass. 35, 149 N. E. 677, 41 A.L.R. 1488; Dalton v.

in situations where he is confronted with an emergency and prompt action is necessary to protect the interests of the client and there is no opportunity for consultation with him.[17] Generally, unless such an emergency exists, either precedent special authority from the client or subsequent ratification by him is essential in order that a compromise or settlement by an attorney shall be binding on his client.[18] Obviously, therefore, if a litigant instructs his attorney not to compromise his case, the attorney is bound by such instructions, even though he honestly believes that a compromise settlement would be to the best interest of his client.[19] On the other hand, there can be no question but that an attorney may be specially authorized to enter into a compromise which will be binding on the client,[20] although it has been held that an attorney employed to bring suit for damages or to settle by compromise is not authorized to compromise without first consulting his client, especially after suit has been started.[1] Some cases hold that the authority of an attorney to compromise is presumed until the contrary is shown;[2] at least, it is not to be presumed that this was done without lawful authority, and slight

---

West End Street R. Co. 159 Mass. 221, 34 N. E. 261, 38 Am. St. Rep. 410; Moulton v. Bowker, 115 Mass. 36, 15 Am. Rep. 72; Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185; Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; North Missouri R. Co. v. Stephens, 36 Mo. 150, 88 Am. Dec. 138; Smith v. Jones, 47 Neb. 108, 66 N. W. 19, 53 Am. St. Rep. 519; Hall v. Presnell, 157 N. C. 290, 72 S. E. 985, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 62, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1293; Loucheimer, M. & Co. v. Weil, 113 N. C. 181, 18 S. E. 103, 23 L.R.A. 578; Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co. v. Vance, 74 Okla. 261, 180 P. 693, 15 A.L.R. 981; National Surety Co. v. Scales, 68 Okla. 92, 171 P. 922, citing R. C. L.; Turner v. Fleming, 37 Okla. 75, 130 P. 551, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 265, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 831; North Whitehall Twp. v. Keller, 100 Pa. 105, 45 Am. Rep. 361; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506; Whipple v. Whitman, 13 R. I. 512, 43 Am. Rep. 42; Davis v. Home Ins. Co. 127 Tenn. 330, 155 S. W. 131, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 626; East Line & R. River R. Co. v. Scott, 72 Tex. 70, 10 S. W. 99, 13 Am. St. Rep. 758; Granger v. Batchelder, 54 Vt. 248, 41 Am. Rep. 846; Smock v. Dade, 5 Rand. (Va.) 639, 16 Am. Dec. 780; Dwight v. Hazlett, 107 W. Va. 192, 147 S. E. 877, 66 A.L.R. 102; Watt v. Brookover, 35 W. Va. 323, 13 S. E. 1007, 29 Am. St. Rep. 811; State ex rel. Wilson v. Young, 44 Wyo. 6, 7 P. (2d) 216, 81 A.L.R. 114.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 108; 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 523; 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 852; 21 Ann. Cas. 577; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833.

An attorney cannot compromise an award obtained by his client against a township for road damages. North Whitehall Twp. v. Keller, 100 Pa. 105, 45 Am. Rep. 361.

As to effect of unauthorized compromise, see Compromise and Settlement [Also 5 R. C. L. p. 888, § 11].

[17] Lewis v. Vache, 92 Colo. 358, 20 P. (2d) 554, citing R. C. L.; Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549. And see North Whitehall Twp. v. Keller, 100 Pa. 105, 45 Am. Rep. 361.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 120; 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 523; 21 Ann. Cas. 583; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833.

[18] Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549; Smith v. Jones, 47 Neb. 108, 66 N. W. 19, 53 Am. St. Rep. 519; North Whitehall Twp. v. Keller, 100 Pa. 105, 45 Am. Rep. 361; Whipple v. Whitman, 13 R. I. 512, 43 Am. Rep. 42; Watt v. Brookover, 35 W. Va. 323, 13 S. E. 1007, 29 Am. St. Rep. 811.

[19] Rogers v. Pettigrew, 138 Ga. 528, 75 S. E. 631, 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 852, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 409; Dalton v. West End Street R. Co. 159 Mass. 221, 34 N. E. 261, 38 Am. St. Rep. 410.

Annotation: 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 852.

[20] Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 121; 21 Ann. Cas. 586; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833.

This special authority may take the form of, or be coupled with, an assignment of the claim to the attorney; and where this is the case, the power cannot be revoked at will, at least not after a settlement is effected. Jeffries v. Mutual L. Ins. Co. 110 U. S. 305, 28 L. ed. 156, 4 S. Ct. 8.

The question as to the existence of such authority is one of fact to be determined by the jury. Such authority cannot be established by his declarations; nor will the fact that the attorney at the time of the settlement represented that he had special authority to make it prove his authority, especially when he testifies that he does not recollect that he had such authority. Nor will evidence of an inquiry by a client of his attorney as to the chance of getting a certain amount by way of a cash settlement constitute proof of authority of the attorney to accept such a settlement on behalf of his client. Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 586.

See further, as to what is considered sufficient proof, annotation: 66 A.L.R. 123–126.

[1] Annotation: 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524.

[2] United States v. Beebe, 180 U. S. 343, 45 L. ed. 563, 21 S. Ct. 371; East Line & R. River R. Co. v. Scott, 72 Tex. 70, 10 S. W. 99, 13 Am. St. Rep. 758.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 126.

evidence in such a case may be sufficient to authorize the belief that he was clothed with all the power he assumed to exercise.[3]

It has been held that a compromise settlement made in good faith by counsel, when sanctioned by the court in a decree, is binding upon the client.[4]

Statutes relative to the authority of an attorney touching the conduct of his client's cause of action have generally been held to effect no departure from the general rule that an attorney has no implied authority to compromise his client's claim.[5] The general rule has been held to apply even though the client may be a resident of a distant state[6] or is a municipality or other government body.[7] The general rule stated is now followed by the English courts, although the early tendency of these courts was, apparently, to recognize such power.[8]

In some states the question as to the implied power of an attorney to agree to a compromise of his client's right of action out of court appears to be an open one,[9] and in a few jurisdictions it has been held that an agreement of compromise by an attorney is binding on the client.[10] In some cases this view finds support in a statute expressly providing that no action shall be maintained on a demand settled by a creditor or his attorney intrusted to collect it, in full discharge of it, by the receipt of money or other valuable consideration, however small.[11]

§ 99. —Ratification or Estoppel to Repudiate.—An unauthorized compromise by an attorney may be ratified by the client; such ratification may be either express or implied from the circumstances, such as the client's acceptance of the fruits of the compromise with knowledge thereof.[12] So, the client may waive his right[13] or be estopped to repudiate an unauthorized compromise made by his attorney by reason of his own negligence, inattention, or apparent acquiescence therein,[14] provided he has full knowledge of the settlement. The acceptance of the proceeds of the settlement, without knowledge of it or of its terms, or under the supposition that such proceeds constitute merely a payment on account of his claim, does not estop him to pursue the defendant for the balance of his claim.[15]

---

[3] East Line & R. River R. Co. v. Scott, 72 Tex. 70, 10 S. W. 99, 13 Am. St. Rep. 758.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 124.

[4] Glover v. Bradley (C. C. A. 4th) 233 F. 721, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921.

[5] Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 120; 21 Ann. Cas. 584.

[6] Granger v. Batchelder, 54 Vt. 248, 41 Am. Rep. 846.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 119; 21 Ann. Cas. 583.

[7] United States v. Beebe, 180 U. S. 343, 45 L. ed. 563, 21 S. Ct. 371.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 119, 127; 21 Ann. Cas. 583; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833.

[8] Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 136; 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 525; 21 Ann. Cas. 589.
The holdings are also conflicting in Canada. Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 138; 21 Ann. Cas. 591.

[9] Anglo-American Land, Mortg. & Agency Co. v. Dyer, 181 Mass. 593, 64 N. E. 416, 92 Am. St. Rep. 437.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 134; 21 Ann. Cas. 592.

[10] Beleveau v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co. 68 N. H. 225, 40 A. 734, 44 L.R.A. 167, 73 Am. St. Rep. 577.
Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 593.

[11] Annotation: 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523.

[12] Mosher v. Beselin, 129 Neb. 541, 261 N. W. 126, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 131; 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 523; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833.

[13] Campbell v. Frye, 145 Okla. 213, 292 P. 7, citing R. C. L.

[14] Stowe v. United States, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 13, 22 L. ed. 144; Combs v. Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Co. 236 Ky. 524, 33 S. W. (2d) 649, citing R. C. L.; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506.
Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 130; 31 L.R.A. (N.S.) 529.
It is the duty of the client to express his disapproval of the settlement within a reasonable time, especially where the attorney has acted in good faith, believing the settlement to be advantageous to his client, and has promptly apprised him of it. Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 587.

[15] United States v. Beebe, 180 U. S. 343, 45 L. ed. 563, 21 S. Ct. 371; Cram v. Sickel, 51 Neb. 828, 71 N. W. 724, 66 Am. St. Rep. 478.

§ 100. Submission to Arbitration, Reference, or Amicable Action.—Although he has no right to enter into a compromise without the consent of his client,[16] according to numerous authorities, an attorney may submit to arbitration a case actually pending in court[17] or enter into a reference,[18] as this is one of the modes of trial to which the client's assent is implied.[19] In some jurisdictions it is held that an attorney may bind his client by stating a case for the judgment of the court[20] or by agreeing to an amicable action.[1] Some courts, however, take the position that an attorney cannot, without special authority from his client, submit a controversy to arbitration unless the cause is actually pending and the submission is made under the authority and direction of the court.[2] And even though an attorney may have general authority to submit to arbitration, whether a cause is pending or not, where his client has agreed to the terms of an arbitration, the attorney has no authority to assent to a change in the terms thus agreed upon.[3]

§ 101. Consenting to or Confessing Judgment.—It is quite generally conceded that the control of the attorney, as such, over the conduct of the cause impliedly authorizes him to bind his client by a confession of, or consent to, judgment,[4] and by his consent to orders and judgments made in the progress of a cause and intended to promote the interests of his client.[5] However, where a judgment is entered by an attorney by confession against his client, an inquiry may properly be ordered as to the consideration and the proceed-

---

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 131; 21 Ann. Cas. 587.

[16] See supra, § 98.

[17] Holker v. Parker, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 436, 3 L. ed. 396; Ball v. Bank of State, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Daniels v. New London, 58 Conn. 156, 19 A. 573, 7 L.R.A. 563; White v. Davidson, 8 Md. 169, 63 Am. Dec. 699; Jenkins v. Gillespie, 10 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 31, 48 Am. Dec. 732; North Missouri R. Co. v. Stephens, 36 Mo. 150, 88 Am. Dec. 138; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549; Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542; Maroulas v. State Industrial Acci. Commission, 117 Or. 406, 244 P. 317, citing R. C. L.; Swartz v. Morgan, 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 975, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 169.

[18] Alexandria Canal Co. v. Swann, 5 How. (U. S.) 83, 12 L. ed. 60; Holker v. Parker, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 436, 3 L. ed. 396; Jones v. Horsey, 4 Md. 306, 59 Am. Dec. 81; Pike v. Emerson, 5 N. H. 393, 22 Am. Dec. 468; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506; Somers v. Balabrega, 1 Dall. (Pa.) 164, 1 L. ed. 83.

Filmer v. Delber, 3 Taunt. 486, 128 Eng. Reprint, 192, 3 Eng. Rul. Cas. 371.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 169; 3 Eng. Rul. Cas. 372.

[19] Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542.

[20] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 171.

[1] Swartz v. Morgan, 163 Pa. 195, 29 A. 974, 43 Am. St. Rep. 786.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 171.

[2] Daniels v. New London, 58 Conn. 156, 19 A. 573, 7 L.R.A. 563; Jenkins v. Gillespie, 10 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 31, 48 Am. Dec. 732.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 169.

[3] Daniels v. New London, 58 Conn. 156, 19 A. 573, 7 L.R.A. 563; Jenkins v. Gillespie, 10 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 31, 48 Am. Dec. 732. And see North Missouri R. Co. v. Stephens, 36 Mo. 150, 88 Am. Dec. 138.

A change by which the award is to be made final, instead of being returned to the court for judgment, is a material change such as an attorney cannot make unless expressly authorized. Daniels v. New London, 58 Conn. 156, 19 A. 573, 7 L.R.A. 563.

[4] Pacific R. Co. v. Ketchum, 101 U. S. 289, 25 L. ed. 932; Wood v. Wood, 59 Ark. 441, 27 S. W. 641, 28 L.R.A. 157, 43 Am. St. Rep. 42; Adkins v. Bryant, 133 Ga. 465, 66 S. E. 21, 134 Am. St. Rep. 211; De Charette v. St. Matthews Bank & T. Co. 214 Ky. 400, 283 S. W. 410, 50 A.L.R. 34; Parr v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. 194 Mo. App. 416, 184 S. W. 1169, citing R. C. L.; Beliveau v. Amoskeag Mfg. Co. 68 N. H. 225, 40 A. 734, 44 L.R.A. 167, 73 Am. St. Rep. 577; Kellogg v. Gilbert, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 220, 6 Am. Dec. 335; Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 296, 5 Am. Dec. 237; Garrett v. Hanshue, 53 Ohio St. 482, 42 N. E. 256, 35 L.R.A. 321; Schmidt v. Oregon Gold Min. Co. 28 Or. 9, 40 P. 406, 1014, 52 Am. St. Rep. 759; Dunman v. Hartwell, 9 Tex. 495, 60 Am. Dec. 176; Dwight v. Hazlett, 107 W. Va. 192, 147 S. E. 877, 66 A.L.R. 102; Teter v. Irwin, 69 W. Va. 200, 71 S. E. 115, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 707.

Annotation: 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750; 132 Am. St. Rep. 162; Ann. Cas. 1914C, 548, 551.

An attorney's consent to judgment against his client may be binding notwithstanding the attorney's knowledge of the fact that his client had a good defense to the action. Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 259.

[5] Glover v. Bradley (C. C. A. 4th) 233 F. 721, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921; De Charette v. St. Matthews Bank & T. Co. 214 Ky. 400, 283 S. W. 410, 50 A.L.R. 34.

ings be stayed in the meantime.[6] The rule itself is based on a presumption and becomes impotent whenever the presumption is reasonably rebutted.[7] If the consent judgment was entered through fraud, it will not be upheld.[8] Moreover, a considerable number of decisions maintain the view that an attorney has no implied authority to enter a consent decree or confess judgment without the client's direction, knowledge, or consent,[9] and that where a judgment or decree is entered against the protest of the client or his instructions not to compromise, it will be held not binding on the client,[10] especially when the judgment or decree is designed to carry into effect an unauthorized compromise.[11] However, authority of an attorney in consenting to a decree may be shown by the conduct of the client, his acquiescence, ratification, or other circumstances,[12] or the court may indulge in a presumption that he had authority so to act.[13]

In some jurisdictions, under particular statutes involved, the courts have recognized the right of attorneys representing a municipality to bind it by a consent judgment,[14] but other courts disaffirm the right.[15]

Where it appears of record that a defendant assented to a decree through its solicitor, it is equivalent to a direct finding as a fact by the court that the solicitor had authority to do what he did, and it binds the court on an appeal so far as the question is one of fact only.[16]

F. Authority after Judgment

§ 102. Generally.—It is frequently stated, as a broad general rule, that in the absence of a special arrangement, the authority of an attorney to act for his client terminates when final judgment is obtained,[17] but clearly this is not so in all cases and for all purposes.[18] A final judgment may well be held to terminate the comprehensive authority with which an attorney is vested, yet as a general rule, the authority of the attorney continues after judgment, so far at least as regards the institution of proceedings required to make the judgment obtained by him effectual.[19]

---

[6] Starr v. Vanderheyden, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 253, 6 Am. Dec. 275.

[7] Dwight v. Hazlett, 107 W. Va. 192, 147 S. E. 877, 66 A.L.R. 102.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914C, 549.

[8] Adkins v. Bryant, 133 Ga. 465, 66 S. E. 21, 134 Am. St. Rep. 211.

[9] Kilmer v. Gallaher, 112 Iowa, 583, 84 N. W. 697, 84 Am. St. Rep. 358; Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542.

Annotation: 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 752; 132 Am. St. Rep. 162; Ann. Cas. 1914C, 550.

The rule is based on the theory that a different holding would be opposed to the doctrine denying that the attorney, merely by virtue of his authority as such, can bind his client by a compromise. Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 259.

[10] Preston v. Hill, 50 Cal. 43, 19 Am. Rep. 647; Davis v. First Nat. Bank, 139 Ga. 702, 78 S. E. 190, 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750; Dalton v. West End Street R. Co. 159 Mass. 221, 34 N. E. 261, 38 Am. St. Rep. 410.

[11] Holker v. Parker, 7 Cranch (U. S.) 436, 3 L. ed. 396; Kilmer v. Gallaher, 112 Iowa, 583, 54 N. W. 697, 84 Am. St. Rep. 358; Bizzell v. Auto Tire & Equipment Co. 182 N. C. 98, 108 S. E. 439, citing R. C. L.; Turner v. Fleming, 37 Okla. 75, 130 P. 551, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 265, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 831; Huston v. Mitchell, 14 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 307, 16 Am. Dec. 506.

[12] Teter v. Irwin, 69 W. Va. 200, 71 S. E. 115, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 707.

[13] Annotation: 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 753; Ann. Cas. 1914C, 549.

[14] Coolsaet v. Veblen, 55 S. D. 485, 226 N. W. 726. 67 A.L.R. 1499.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 1507.

[15] Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 1507.

[16] Pacific R. Co. v. Ketchum, 101 U. S. 289, 25 L. ed. 932. See also Hefferman v. Burt, 7 Iowa, 320, 71 Am. Dec. 445; Dunman v. Hartwell, 9 Tex. 495, 60 Am. Dec. 176.

[17] Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185; Treasurers v. M'Dowell, 19 S. C. L. (1 Hill) 184, 26 Am. Dec. 166; Strickland v. Capital City Mills, 74 S. C. 16, 54 S. E. 220, 7 L.R.A.(N.S.) 426; Hamilton v. Hamilton (Tex. Civ. App.) 225 S. W. 69, citing R. C. L.; Sandall v. Sandall, 57 Utah, 150, 193 P. 1093, 15 A.L.R. 620.

[18] Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185.

[19] Union Bank v. Geary, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 99, 8 L. ed. 60; Albertson v. Goldsby, 28 Ala. 711, 65 Am. Dec. 380; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179;

§ 103. Collection or Satisfaction of Judgment.—It is generally conceded that where an attorney has recovered a judgment for his client, he has authority, by virtue of his employment as attorney, to receive payment and give or enter satisfaction of the judgment.[1] An attorney has no implied authority, however, to accept anything in satisfaction of the judgment other than that which was sued for and for which the judgment was rendered,[2] nor can he accept less than the full amount of the judgment,[3] or other than lawful money,[4] or enter satisfaction without the actual receipt of the money, in case of a money judgment.[5]

§ 104. Sale, Transfer, or Assignment of Judgment or Its Proceeds.—It is a well-established general rule that an attorney at law, merely by virtue of his general employment as such, has no authority to sell or assign a judgment recovered in favor of his client, or any interest therein.[6] Nor can an attorney indorse negotiable paper made payable to his client in satisfaction of the judgment,[7] or assign a sheriff's certificate of sale acquired through judgment and execution sale, or accept the amount represented thereby from a lienholder,[8] even though the contract of employment authorized him to retain his fee from the fund recovered.[9] An attempted sale of a judgment by an attorney will bind the client only when he has expressly authorized or has subsequently ratified or adopted that act.[10] This may be inferred from circumstances,[11]

Smyth v. Harvie, 31 Ill. 62, 83 Am. Dec. 202; Heard v. Lodge, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 53, 32 Am. Dec. 197.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 173.

At common law, for the purpose of enforcing the judgment, the attorney's authority is said to continue for a year and a day thereafter, and if the judgment is not satisfied and continues in force, his authority will be prolonged accordingly. Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262. And see Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179.

[1] Hayes v. Waldrop, 214 Ala. 534, 108 So. 333, citing R. C. L.; Ball v. Bank of State, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Albertson v. Goldsby, 28 Ala. 711, 65 Am. Dec. 380; Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179; Howard v. Kelly, 137 Iowa, 76, 114 N. W. 544, 126 Am. St. Rep. 274; Hopkins Mfg. Co. v. Ketterer, 237 Pa. 285, 85 A. 421, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 558; Strickland v. Capital City Mills, 74 S. C. 16, 54 S. E. 220, 7 L.R.A.(N.S.) 426; Wheeler v. Alderman, 34 S. C. 533, 13 S. E. 673, 27 Am. St. Rep. 842; Treasurers v. M'Dowell, 19 S. C. L. (1 Hill) 184, 26 Am. Dec. 166; Smock v. Dade, 5 Rand. (Va.) 639, 16 Am. Dec. 780; State ex rel. Lane v. Ballinger, 41 Wash. 23, 82 P. 1018, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 72; Yoakum v. Tilden, 3 W. Va. 167, 100 Am. Dec. 738.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 174.

A tender of payment made to an attorney is binding upon the client. Hopkins Mfg. Co. v. Ketterer, 237 Pa. 285, 85 A. 421, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 558.

[2] Harrow v. Farrow, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 126, 45 Am. Dec. 60.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 175.

[3] Harrow v. Farrow, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 126, 45 Am. Dec. 60; Vaughn v. Robbins, 254 Mass. 35, 149 N. E. 677, 41 A.L.R. 1488; Hahn v. Loker, 229 Mass. 363, 118 N. E. 661, L.R.A.1918D, 807; Hoy v. Nichols, 170 Minn. 191, 212 N. W. 530; Watt v. Brookover, 35 W. Va. 323, 13 S. E. 1007, 29 Am. St. Rep. 811.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 115; 132 Am. St. Rep. 175; 21 Ann. Cas. 580.

[4] Chapman v. Cowles, 41 Ala. 103, 91 Am. Dec. 508 (acceptance of depreciated paper money unauthorized).

[5] Wheeler v. Alderman, 34 S. C. 533, 13 S. E. 673, 27 Am. St. Rep. 842; Treasurers v. M'Dowell, 19 S. C. L. (1 Hill) 184, 26 Am. Dec. 166; Smock v. Dade, 5 Rand. (Va.) 639, 16 Am. Dec. 780 (may not receive bond from judgment debtor).

A subsequent purchaser for value, of land affected by such judgment, will, however, be protected even though it is afterwards made to appear that the satisfaction was improperly entered. Wheeler v. Alderman, 34 S. C. 533, 13 S. E. 673, 27 Am. St. Rep. 842.

[6] Boren v. McGehee, 6 Port. (Ala.) 432, 31 Am. Dec. 695; Ball v. Bank of State, 8 Ala. 590, 42 Am. Dec. 649; Gardner v. Mobile & N. W. R. Co. 102 Ala. 635, 15 So. 271, 48 Am. St. Rep. 84; Head v. Gervais, Walk. (Miss.) 431, 12 Am. Dec. 577; Holiday Oil Co. v. Fidelity & D. Co. 162 Okla. 197, 19 P. (2d) 335, citing R. C. L.; Fassitt v. Middleton, 47 Pa. 214, 86 Am. Dec. 535; Campbell's Appeal, 29 Pa. 401, 72 Am. Dec. 641.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 115; 132 Am. St. Rep. 173.

[7] Crahe v. Mercantile Trust & Sav. Bank, 295 Ill. 375, 129 N. E. 120, 12 A.L.R. 92.

[8] Howard v. Kelly, 137 Iowa, 76, 114 N. W. 544, 126 Am. St. Rep. 274.

[9] Crahe v. Mercantile Trust & Sav. Bank, 295 Ill. 375, 129 N. E. 120, 12 A.L.R. 92.

[10] Campbell's Appeal, 29 Pa. 401, 72 Am. Dec. 641.

[11] Gardner v. Mobile & N. W. R. Co. 102 Ala. 635, 15 So. 271, 48 Am. St. Rep. 84; as where there is silent acquiescence for many years by the client.[12]

§ 105. Release of Judgment or Lien Thereof.—The general authority of an attorney employed to prosecute a suit to judgment does not empower him to release a judgment obtained by him, or to discharge the lien of such judgment before the payment or satisfaction thereof.[13] Neither can the attorney waive the lien of the judgment by filing such judgment as a claim in equity proceedings.[14] It is generally no part of the attorney's business, in attending to the affairs of his client, to alter or change by substitution or satisfaction any lien held by his client unless he is authorized to do so; third persons deal with an attorney at their peril when they have him change or substitute one security for another.[15]

§ 106. Opening, Modifying, Vacating, or Reviewing Judgment.—The attorney of record in a case ordinarily has no right, without a new warrant of authority from the client, to vacate, open,[16] or consent to the setting aside of a final judgment in favor of his client,[17] or to agree to a new trial;[18] it is generally held, however, that he has authority to accept service of notice of process to vacate or modify the judgment[19] except where such notice is made a long time afterwards.[20] The attorney of record also has authority to receive and accept service of notice or citation of appeal or error proceedings to review the judgment rendered,[1] unless statutory provision as to who shall be served, renders, expressly or by implication, such service insufficient.[2]

Under the practice in some jurisdictions a default judgment may be opened by the attorney by whom it was taken and the defendant allowed to answer or be heard on the merits; in others it has been held that an attorney may consent that a default judgment be opened, even contrary to his client's instructions, where it was taken under such circumstances that it would be opened by the court itself.[3]

During the time when an attorney is legally authorized to enforce a judgment, he has the authority to protect such judgment against proceedings

---

Campbell's Appeal, 29 Pa. 401, 72 Am. Dec. 641.

[12] Gardner v. Mobile & N. W. R. Co. 102 Ala. 635, 15 So. 271, 48 Am. St. Rep. 84.

[13] Harrow v. Farrow, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 126, 45 Am. Dec. 60; Banks v. Evans, 10 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 35, 48 Am. Dec. 734; Kirk's Appeal, 87 Pa. 243, 30 Am. Rep. 357; Ludden & B. Southern Music House v. Sumter, 45 S. C. 186, 22 S. E. 738, 55 Am. St. Rep. 761.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 809; 55 Am. St. Rep. 763; 132 Am. St. Rep. 174.

It does not make any difference or add any superior sanctity to that arrangement, that it was entered of record in open court. Harrow v. Farrow, 7 B. Mon. (Ky.) 126, 45 Am. Dec. 60.

[14] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 174.

[15] Ludden & B. Southern Music House v. Sumter, 45 S. C. 186, 22 S. E. 738, 55 Am. St. Rep. 761.

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916B, 724.

[17] Tritsch v. Covington, 161 Ky. 171, 170 S. W. 518, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 722.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 172; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 724.

[18] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 172.

[19] McSherry v. McSherry, 113 Md. 395, 77 A. 653, 140 Am. St. Rep. 428 (such authority was recognized twenty-five months after entry of the decree, the client being without the state at the time).

Annotation: 78 A.L.R. 370.

[20] Underwood v. Underwood, 142 Ga. 441, 83 S. E. 208, L.R.A.1915B, 674; Sandall v. Sandall, 57 Utah, 150, 193 P. 1093, 15 A.L.R. 620.

Annotation: 15 A.L.R. 627.

The authority of an attorney for the defendant in a divorce proceeding terminates when the decree is entered and he is paid, so that subsequent notice to him of a motion for modification of the decree is without effect upon the defendant. Sandall v. Sandall, 57 Utah, 150, 193 P. 1093, 15 A.L.R. 620.

[1] Scruggs v. Memphis & C. R. Co. 131 U. S. cciv, appx. 26 L. ed. 741; United States v. Curry, 6 How. (U. S.) 106, 12 L. ed. 363; Bacon v. Hart, 1 Black (U. S.) 38, 17 L. ed. 52; Re Osborn, 179 Minn. 133, 228 N. W. 551, citing R. C. L.; Atwood v. McKenzie-Waterhouse Co. 120 Wash. 214, 206 P. 978, 41 A.L.R. 650.

[2] State ex rel. Hibler v. Superior Ct. 164 Wash. 618, 3 P. (2d) 1098, 78 A.L.R. 366.

[3] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 172; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 725.

instituted for its vacation.[4] He may, after the entry of judgment, represent the client on a motion for a new trial,[5] and may consent to a remittitur to avoid the grant of a new trial for excessiveness of damages.[6]

While it seems that an attorney is without authority to institute affirmative proceedings on his own motion to keep alive a judgment intrusted to him for collection, yet it has been held that the attorney for the defendant may, by virtue of such relation, waive notice of motion for revivor of a judgment.[7]

§ 107. Prosecuting Appeal or Writ of Error.—It seems to be conceded generally that an attorney retained to prosecute or defend an action has no implied authority, in the event of a judgment adverse to his client, to prosecute review proceedings and to bind his client for costs and expenses incidental thereto,[8] although he should, where he has easy access to his client, first consult the latter's wishes upon the question of taking an appeal from the judgment rendered against him.[9] When an appeal has been taken by an attorney, however, it will be presumed that he had authority to do so.[10] A distinction is made by some authorities between the power of an attorney to try a litigated issue and that of one employed to collect the debt; the latter, it seems, may appeal from the judgment if it is against his client. And in respect of attorneys of public bodies, such as municipal corporations, who are employed to protect the interest of their clients in all legal controversies, the courts generally recognize the scope of their powers as being larger than those of attorneys for private litigants, especially retained for a single case.[11] In some jurisdictions the rule obtains that an attorney may not object to a dismissal of an appeal for the sole reason that he has a contract for a contingent fee.[12]

Although there are authorities apparently holding to the contrary, the general rule seems to be that an attorney is not authorized, by virtue of his general powers as such, to execute an appeal bond for his client.[13] However, an attorney may, after entry of judgment, in the exercise of his general authority, stipulate for an extension of time in which to perfect an appeal, and there is no question but that attorneys conducting an appeal may stipulate in matters relating to the procedure.[14]

§ 108. Control of Execution.—An attorney has, subject to the control by the client himself,[15] authority to control the remedy which the law gives him to secure or collect the debt of his client.[16] He is, in general, deemed to have authority to cause execution to issue [17] and to take other steps necessary to enforce payment of the judgment; [18] he may direct the sheriff as to the time and manner of its enforcement,[19] procure the arrest of the defendant,[20] permit a sheriff to renew an execution in the name of his client, indemnify an officer for making a levy,[1] and generally control or superintend the execution of final process.[2] General directions which the attorney deems best calculated to advance the interests of his client are a justification and exoneration to the sheriff and are binding on the plaintiff, depriving him of the right to go against the sheriff for his loss,[3] and, according to many decisions, subjecting him to liability for a wrongful execution[4] or arrest.[5] Other decisions, however, are to the effect that in the absence of proof of special authority, the acts of an atorney in taking goods under process are in excess of his general powers as attorney and do not subject his client to liability.[6]

---

[4] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 172.

[5] Morris v. Standard Oil Co. 192 Cal. 343, 219 P. 998, 30 A.L.R. 1103.

[6] Annotation: 30 A.L.R. 1111.

[7] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 172.

[8] Tobler v. Nevitt, 45 Colo. 231, 100 P. 416, 132 Am. St. Rep. 142, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 702, 16 Ann. Cas. 925.
Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 180; 16 Ann. Cas. 928.

[9] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 180.

[10] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 180.

[11] Tobler v. Nevitt, 45 Colo. 231, 100 P. 416, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 702, 132 Am. St. Rep. 142, 16 Ann. Cas. 925.

[12] See Appeal and Error, Vol. 3, p. 321, § 745.

[13] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 181.

[14] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 181.

[15] Albertson v. Goldsby, 28 Ala. 711, 65 Am. Dec. 380.
Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 263.

[16] Rogers v. Marshall (United States use of Rogers v. Conklin), 1 Wall. 644, 17 L. ed. 714.

[17] Erwin v. Blake, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 18, 8 L. ed. 852; Union Bank v. Geary, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 99, 8 L. ed. 60; Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185; Kellogg v. Gilbert, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 220, 6 Am. Dec. 335.
Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60.

[18] Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179.
Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 176.

§ 109. —Return.—The implied authority of an attorney to enforce a judgment by execution and to control such execution extends to the return thereof; acts of an attorney in causing an execution to be returned to him for the purpose of indorsing payment thereon and discharging it, or in accepting without objection an unsatisfied execution delivered to him on or before the return day, or in advising the officer to omit to return the execution at the proper time, will protect the officer against suit for failure to make a return or for negligence in making it. Nor will a sheriff be liable for a defect in a return made by the authorized attorney of the plaintiff, who directed the officer to sign it.[7]

§ 110. —Stay of Execution.—The plaintiff's attorney, by virtue of his implied authority to control an execution, may stay the same for a reasonable length of time, and discharge the defendant from arrest thereon, where this seems advisable in the interests of his client and he exercises such power honestly and with discretion.[8] But he cannot stay execution so as to destroy his client's lien, or postpone it to subsequent claims,[9] or discharge a surety.[10]

§ 111. —Execution Sale.—An attorney may procure satisfaction of execution issued upon his client's judgment by levy upon and sale of the defendant's property,[11] and he may, within reasonable bounds, control the sale under execution.[12] Thus, he may consent to or direct a postponement of the sale,[13] even though the lien of the execution may be defeated or lost by reason of the postponement.[14] It has been held, however, that an attorney has no implied authority to agree to a private sale of the property levied on or to a sale by a person other than the sheriff,[15] or to direct what shall be sold under his client's execution,[16] or to bind his client by an agreement that the amount bid shall be paid by the purchaser to a third person, and not to the officer making the sale.[17]

---

[19] Erwin v. Blake, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 18, 8 L. ed. 852; Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549; Lynch v. Com. 16 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 368, 16 Am. Dec. 582.
Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60; 132 Am. St. Rep. 176.

[20] Annotation: 8 L. ed. 61; 132 Am. St. Rep. 173.

[1] Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60, 61.

[2] Rogers v. Marshall (United States ex rel. Rogers v. Conklin) 1 Wall. (U. S.) 644, 17 L. ed. 714.
Annotation: 4 Ann. Cas. 980.

[3] Rogers v. Marshall (United States use of Rogers v. Conklin) 1 Wall. (U. S.) 644, 17 L. ed. 714; Bickham v. Kosminsky, 74 Ark. 413, 86 S. W. 292, 4 Ann. Cas. 978; Lynch v. Com. 16 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 368, 16 Am. Dec. 582.
Annotation: 4 Ann. Cas. 980.

[4] Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185.
Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 929.

[5] Guilleaume v. Rowe, 94 N. Y. 268, 46 Am. Rep. 141.
Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 474.

[6] Welsh v. Cochran, 63 N. Y. 181, 20 Am. Rep. 519; Averill v. Williams, 4 Denio (N. Y.) 295, 47 Am. Dec. 252.
Annotation: 91 A.L.R. 929.

[7] Albertson v. Goldsby, 28 Ala. 711, 65 Am. Dec. 380.
Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 177.

[8] Annotation: 8 L. ed. 61; 132 Am. St. Rep. 177.
An attorney can postpone execution on a judgment against one joint defendant and issue it on the judgment against the other. Union Bank v. Geary, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 99, 8 L. ed. 60.

[9] Reynolds v. Ingersoll, 11 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 249, 49 Am. Dec. 57.

[10] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 177.

[11] Erwin v. Blake, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 18, 8 L. ed. 752; Union Bank v. Geary, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 99, 8 L. ed. 60.
Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60.

[12] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 178.

§ 112. —Payment and Satisfaction.—An attorney having caused execution to issue is also presumed to have authority to receive the money collected therein and to acknowledge satisfaction, and thus discharge the execution;[18] but he cannot discharge the execution without receiving payment[19] or bind his client by accepting less than the full amount unless so authorized.[20] Of course, the client may revoke the authority of his attorney to collect money upon an execution; and his authority will be revoked automatically by the death of the client.[1]

§ 113. —Discharge of Defendant Taken upon Body Execution.—Although there is some authority to the contrary,[2] the generally adopted view is that an attorney has no implied authority to bind his client by the discharge of a judgment debtor from arrest, except upon payment of the judgment in full;[3] the sheriff cannot justify or excuse his action in discharging the defendant from custody by reason of the fact the plaintiff's attorney consented to the discharge.[4]

§ 114. Purchase for Client at Judicial Sale.—It is a general rule that an attorney at law, in prosecuting a suit to judgment and execution, is not empowered merely by virtue of his character as such attorney to bid or to authorize anyone else to bid for his client at a sale under the client's execution[5] or in foreclosure of his client's mortgage.[6] In some jurisdictions, however, it is held that an attorney may purchase the property for his client.[7] It has been held, also, that he may, himself, in the absence of fraud, purchase property sold under a mortgage given by his client and hold the property for and in behalf of him.[8]

---

[13] Albertson v. Goldsby, 28 Ala. 711, 65 Am. Dec. 380; Lynch v. Com. 16 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 368, 16 Am. Dec. 582.

[14] Albertson v. Goldsby, 28 Ala. 711, 65 Am. Dec. 380.

[15] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 178.

[16] Averill v. Williams, 4 Denio (N. Y.) 295, 47 Am. Dec. 252.

[17] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 178.

[18] Erwin v. Blake, 8 Pet. (U. S.) 18, 8 L. ed. 852; Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179; Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185; Butler v. Jones, 7 How. (Miss.) 587, 40 Am. Dec. 82; Kellogg v. Gilbert, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 220, 6 Am. Dec. 335.

Annotation: 8 L. ed. 60.

Although money made on execution can be paid to an attorney of record of the execution creditor, such attorney has no authority as such to authorize the clerk of the court in his official capacity to accept money on a judgment. Hendry v. Benlisa, 37 Fla. 609, 20 So. 800, 34 L.R.A. 283.

A payment made by the sheriff to the attorney will discharge the sheriff, unless he has been notified by the plaintiff that he has changed his attorney or that the money is not to be paid to him. Butler v. Jones, 7 How. (Miss.) 587, 40 Am. Dec. 82.

[19] Union Bank v. Geary, 5 Pet. (U. S.) 99, 8 L. ed. 60.

[20] Vaughn v. Robbins, 254 Mass. 35, 149 N. E. 677, 41 A.L.R. 1488; Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185.

[1] Annotation: 76 Am. Dec. 263.

[2] Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 809.

[3] Rogers v. Marshall (United States use of Rogers v. Conklin) 1 Wall. (U. S.) 644, 17 L. ed. 714; Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179; Hahn v. Loker, 229 Mass. 363, 118 N. E. 661, L.R.A.1918D, 807; Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185; Kellogg v. Gilbert, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 220, 6 Am. Dec. 335; Gorham v. Gale, 7 Cow. (N. Y.) 739, 17 Am. Dec. 549; Treasurers v. M'Dowell, 19 S. C. L. (1 Hill) 184, 26 Am. Dec. 166.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 808.

[4] Treasurers v. M'Dowell, 19 S. C. L. (1 Hill) 184, 26 Am. Dec. 166.

The sheriff is liable for an escape if, knowing that the judgment is unsatisfied, he permits the defendant to go at large by the direction of the plaintiff's attorney acting merely under his general authority. Kellogg v. Gilbert, 10 Johns. (N. Y.) 220, 6 Am. Dec. 335.

[5] Foster v. Wiley, 27 Mich. 244, 15 Am. Rep. 185; Averill v. Williams, 4 Denio (N. Y.) 295, 47 Am. Dec. 252; Beardsley v. Root, 11 Johns. (N. Y.) 464, 6 Am. Dec. 386. And see Fisher v. McInerney, 137 Cal. 28, 69 P. 622, 907, 92 Am. St. Rep. 68.

Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 179, 180; 21 Ann. Cas. 277.

§ 115. Control over Supplementary Proceedings.—An attorney, by virtue of his general employment to collect a claim, has the authority after judgment to institute supplementary proceedings and to procure the appointment of a receiver; and when an attorney has an execution in his hands for collection, although he is not the attorney of record, he has prima facie authority to act for the judgment creditor and apply for a subpœna commanding the debtor to appear and disclose.[9]

VI. RIGHT OF CLIENT TO SETTLE OR DISMISS SUIT

§ 116. Settlement or Compromise out of Court.—An attorney, by virtue of his general authority as such, has the exclusive control of the litigation in which he represents his client;[10] his client, on the other hand, is generally conceded to have the exclusive control over the subject-matter of the litigation[11] and may, according to the great weight of authority, at any time before judgment, if acting in good faith, compromise, settle, or adjust his cause of action out of court without his attorney's intervention, knowledge, or consent,[12] and even though he has agreed with his attorney not to do so[13] and the defendant has knowledge of such agreement and of the attorney's claim.[14] The mere fact of an agreement to pay the attorney a contingent fee or a part of the subject-matter of litigation in case of success will not deprive the client of the power to make a settlement.[15]

---

[6] Savery v. Sypher, 6 Wall. (U. S.) 157, 18 L. ed. 822.

[7] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 180; 21 Ann. Cas. 277.

[8] Pacific R. Co. v. Ketchum, 101 U. S. 289, 25 L. ed. 932.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 277.

[9] Annotation: 132 Am. St. Rep. 177.

[10] See supra, § 86.

[11] Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245; Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441.

Annotation: 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101.

[12] Millsap v. Sparks, 21 Ariz. 317, 188 P. 135, citing R. C. L.; St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Blaylock, 117 Ark. 504, 175 S. W. 1170, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 563; Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Kansas City Elev. R. Co. v. Service, 77 Kan. 316, 94 P. 262, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1105; Rowe v. Fogle, 88 Ky. 105, 10 S. W. 426, 2 L.R.A. 708; Potter v. Mayo, 3 Me. 34, 14 Am. Dec. 211; Boyd v. Johnson, 145 Md. 385, 125 A. 697, citing R. C. L.; Desaman v. Butler Bros. 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642; Burho v. Carmichiel, 117 Minn. 211, 135 N. W. 386, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 305; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Weller v. Jersey City, H. & P. Street R. Co. 68 N. J. Eq. 659, 61 A. 459, 6 Ann. Cas. 442; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542; Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908; Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245; Davy v. Fidelity & C. Ins. Co. 78 Ohio St. 256, 85 N. E. 504, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443, 125 Am. St. Rep. 694; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795; Kean v. Southwest Nat. Bank (Tex. Civ. App.) 50 S. W. (2d) 839, citing R. C. L.; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267; Humptulips Driving Co. v. Cross, (Humptulips Driving Co. v. Burrows) 65 Wash. 636, 118 P. 827, 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 226; Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; 93 Am. St. Rep. 173; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 646; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 570.

Even pending an appeal the client has a right to settle. Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449.

[13] Kendall v. United States, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 113, 19 L. ed. 85; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Southworth v. Rosendahl, 133 Minn. 447, 158 N. W. 717, 3 A.L.R. 468; Weller v. Jersey City, H. & P. Street R. Co. 68 N. J. Eq. 659, 61 A. 459, 6 Ann. Cas. 442; Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441; Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115 N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 828; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Davy v. Fidelity & C. Ins. Co. 78 Ohio St. 256, 85 N.

§ 117. Effect of Existence of Attorney's Lien.—One's right to settle or compromise his own case without his attorney's consent is not affected by the fact that the attorney has a right to a lien [16] upon the cause of action, the property involved, or the money in the hands of the adverse party,[17] at least not where the attorney has failed to perfect his lien by compliance with the terms of the statute or where the lien for any other reason has not attached.[18] Before judgment has been obtained, in the absence of an assignment of the claim to him, the attorney cannot interfere.[19] Moreover, while, if a cause of action before judgment is in its nature assignable, the owner of it may assign and create equitable interests therein and an agreement of this nature, if made with an attorney, must be respected by those having notice,[20] yet if the cause of action is not assignable, the client cannot give his attorney any lien on it that will prevent a settlement or compromise by the parties before judgment, even if the amount is definitely fixed, an agreement is made that the same shall become a lien, and the adverse party is notified of the fact.[1] Actions for slander and libel, for assault and battery, and for personal injuries arising from the negligent conduct of others are within this rule.[2]

In some jurisdictions, however, a statute gives an attorney a lien on suits for money and denies to the parties the right to satisfy the suit until such lien is satisfied.[3]

§ 118. Dismissal of Suit.—In some jurisdictions an attempt has been made

---

E. 504, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443, 125 Am. St. Rep. 694; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.
Annotation: 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101; 13 Ann. Cas. 445.

[14] Winslow Bros. Co. v. Murphy, 139 Ga. 231, 77 S. E. 25, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246.

[15] Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 94 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833; Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.
Annotation: 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; 93 Am. St. Rep. 169.

[16] Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Winslow Bros. Co. v. Murphy, 139 Ga. 231, 77 S. E. 25, 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 750; Standidge v. Chicago, R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908.

[17] O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

[18] Burho v. Carmichiel, 117 Minn. 211, 135 N. W. 386, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 305; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390; Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 571.

[19] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1094.

[20] Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.
Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 169.

[1] Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246.
Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251.

[2] Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Weller v. Jersey City, H. & P. St. R. Co. 68 N. J. Eq. 659, 61 A. 459, 6 Ann. Cas. 442; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75.
Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; 6 Ann. Cas. 444.

[3] Bell v. Bell, 214 Ala. 573, 108 So. 375, 45 A.L.R. 935.

to distinguish between a stipulation by a party to the suit for its dismissal and the right of a party to compromise, on the ground that a stipulation for dismissal is an attempt by the party to control the course of the action in court.[4] In practical effect, however, there seems to be no difference between authorizing the dismissal of a cause by stipulation and settling or adjusting the controversy between the parties out of court.[5] The general rule, as evidenced by the majority of the decisions, is that the client has the right to dismiss his action without his attorney's consent, or even over his objection,[6] at least where such dismissal is in good faith and there is no recovery or consideration except an agreement that each party shall pay his own costs.[7] Sometimes, authority to dismiss is expressly given to the client by statute.[8] The right of a client to dismiss his suit exists notwithstanding his attorney is serving for a contingent fee[9] or a right to a lien exists, either by legislative enactment or because of contractual relations, which has not actually attached.[10]

§ 119. Effect of Client's Fraud or Collusion.—The general rule that a litigant has the power to dismiss the suit or compromise the matter in litigation without the consent or intervention of his attorney presupposes the honesty and good faith of such transaction. A settlement by a client will be upheld only if made in good faith.[11] Collusive and fraudulent settlements or dismissals effected for the purpose of defrauding the attorney are reprehensible, and if attempted, the court may, in the exercise of its inherent power to protect its officers, interfere to protect the attorney against collusion and fraud practiced by the parties to the cause.[12] The authority of courts in this respect has been exercised both under the common law and under the statutes designed to secure attorneys in the collection of their compensation for services rendered in a cause,[13] although there are decisions which seem to question the existence of such power save where the attorney has acquired a lien.[14]

---

[4] Toy v. Haskell, 128 Cal. 558, 61 P. 89. 79 Am. St. Rep. 70. And see Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245.

A statute allowing a dismissal of an action by either party on the written consent of the other has been construed to mean that where there is an attorney of record, such consent must come from, or be sanctioned by, him. Funded Debt Comrs. v. Younger, 29 Cal. 147, 87 Am. Dec. 164.

[5] Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 171.

[6] Bell v. Bell, 214 Ala. 573, 108 So. 375, 45 A.L.R. 935; St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Blaylock, 117 Ark. 504, 175 S. W. 1170, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 563; Keefer v. Keefer, 140 Ga. 18, 78 S. E. 462, 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527; Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Rowe v. Fogle, 88 Ky. 105, 10 S. W. 426, 2 L.R.A. 708; Gibson v. Nelson, 111 Minn. 183, 126 N. W. 731, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 523, 137 Am. St. Rep. 549; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Petersen v. Petersen, 76 Neb. 282, 107 N. W. 391, 124 Am. St. Rep. 812; Andrewes v. Haas, 214 N. Y. 255, 108 N. E. 423, 3 A.L.R. 458; Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. Y. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795; Hillman v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 595, 85 P. 61, 114 Am. St. Rep. 135; State ex rel. Ryan v. Miller, 82 W. Va. 490, 96 S. E. 791, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 171; 114 Am. St. Rep. 695; 137 Am. St. Rep. 556; 1 Ann. Cas. 247.

Such a stipulation will be enforced by the court, at least in the absence of fraud or collusion to injure the attorney. Paulson v. Lyson, 12 N. D. 354, 97 N. W. 533, 1 Ann. Cas. 245.

[7] Rowe v. Fogle, 88 Ky. 105, 10 S. W. 426, 2 L.R.A. 708.

[8] Johnson v. Gerald, 216 Ala. 581, 113 So. 447, 59 A.L.R. 348; Bell v. Bell, 214 Ala. 573, 108 So. 375, 45 A.L.R. 935.

[9] Andrewes v. Haas, 214 N. Y. 255, 108 N. E. 423, 3 A.L.R. 458.

[10] Platt v. Jerome, 19 How. (U. S.) 384, 15 L. ed. 623; Weller v. Jersey City, H. & P. Street R. Co. 68 N. J. Eq. 659, 61 A. 459, 6 Ann. Cas. 442; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 176, 177; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 571.

[11] Millsap v. Sparks, 21 Ariz. 317, 188 P. 135, citing R. C. L.; Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449.

[12] Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115 N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 828; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390.

Annotation: 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390; 93 Am. St. Rep. 174.

The courts will closely scrutinize settlements made without the knowledge or consent of the attorneys and set them aside when there is an appearance of fraud. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 571.

VII. LIABILITY OF ATTORNEY TO CLIENT

A. Existence, Nature, and Extent

§ 120. Generally.—An attorney, by virtue of his relationship to his client, is under certain obligations to the client which he is bound to perform with fidelity and with reasonable care and skill.[15] If he fails in the performance of these duties, he may become personally liable to the client for the loss ensuing from his action, whether the same consists of a violation of his contract with his client, the perpetration of a fraud upon the client, or a negligent performance or failure to perform the duties growing out of the relation. In all his professional relations with his client an attorney is held to a strict accountability.[16] He is presumed to know what his duties are, and he cannot plead ignorance or that in violating a plain duty he did not intend to commit a wrong.[17]

However, he is not liable to his client for the shortcomings of the officer who levies execution upon the client's judgment.[18]

§ 121. Liability on Contract.—In general, it may be said that if an attorney fails or neglects to perform services which he has agreed to perform or in other respects fails to carry out his contract with his client, the latter has a good cause of action ex contractu.[19] The contract must, of course, be founded upon some legally sufficient consideration. For example, an express promise made by the attorney to reimburse the plaintiff, should the latter be nonsuited or cast in the suit, for all the costs, is without consideration and unenforceable.[20] If, however, an attorney having a debt for collection promises his client to pay the debt himself if he fails to collect, and the client, upon the faith of such a promise, agrees not to withdraw the business from the attorney or consents to forbear taking proceedings which, but for the promise, would have secured the debt, there is a sufficient consideration to enable the client to maintain an action against the attorney on the promise.[1]

Another element that often enters into the question of the contractual liability of an attorney to his client is the illegality of the contract or the services contracted for.[2] It has been said that no reason can be given why a champertous contract or a contract against public policy which the attorney cannot enforce against his client may be enforced against him.[3] In this regard some courts have taken the position that a client cannot recover money placed in the hands of an attorney for use in the advancement of an illegal purpose,[4] as, for example, the compounding of a felony.[5] These courts take the position that when an attorney and his client enter into a contract that is contrary to public policy, they are in pari delicto and neither can recover against the other.[6] Other courts, however, take the position that because of the peculiar relation of trust and confidence between the attorney and his client, the strict duty of integrity and of regard for the client's interest which rests upon the attorney, and the fact that the client is naturally subject to the attorney's influence, the client should be relieved of the character of one in pari delicto and should be taken out of the operation of the general principle which denies relief to either party to an unlawful agreement or transaction if the parties are in pari delicto.[7]

---

[13] Annotation: 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 391; 93 Am. St. Rep. 174, 175.

[14] Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691.

[15] See supra, §§ 46, 47.

[16] Armstrong v. Morrow, 166 Wis. 1, 163 N. W. 179, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 1156.

[17] Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

[18] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

[19] Weekley v. Knight, 116 Fla. 721, 156 So. 625, citing R. C. L.

As to liability for negligence in performance, see infra, §§ 124 et seq.

[20] Mitchell v. Bell, 1 N. C. pt. 2, p. 157 (Conference, 17), 2 Am. Dec. 627.

[1] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 183.

[2] As to when contract between attorney and client is invalid, see supra, §§ 54 et seq.

[3] Adye v. Hanna, 47 Iowa, 264, 29 Am. Rep. 484.

[4] Jones v. Henderson, 189 Ky. 412, 225 S. W. 34, 20 A.L.R. 1471; Dixon v. Olmstead, 9 Vt. 310, 31 Am. Dec. 629.

Annotation: 20 A.L.R. 1476, s. 26 A.L.R. 98.

§ 122. Injury Resulting from Violation of Authority or Instructions.—An attorney who undertakes, without his client's consent, to step outside the bounds of his implied authority does so at his own risk and is responsible to the client for any injury sustained by reason of the unauthorized act.[8] He is, for example, liable for the damages which his client sustains as a result of an unauthorized compromise of the client's claim[9] or dismissal of his action,[10] an unauthorized confession of judgment or entry of a consent decree,[11] a wrongful submission of the cause to arbitration,[12] his releasing of an attachment without the client's consent,[13] or his allowing the vacation or opening of a judgment without authority.[14] He is liable, also, for any loss which ensues from a disobedience of his client's lawful instructions.[15]

If an attorney, without having authority to do so, enters an appearance for a party against whom suit is brought, the defendant has a remedy against such attorney,[16] even though the resultant damage is minimized by the right of the client to vacate the appearance and the proceedings thereon.[17] There is, however, no liability if the appearance proves beneficial to the party in whose behalf it was made.[18]

---

[5] Jones v. Henderson, 189 Ky. 412, 225 S. W. 34, 20 A.L.R. 1471.

[6] Holland v. Sheehan, 108 Minn. 362, 122 N. W. 1, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 510, 17 Ann. Cas. 687.

[7] Re Sylvester, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180 (contract to procure divorce); Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92; Irwin v. Curie, 171 N. Y. 409, 64 N. E. 161, 58 L.R.A. 830.

Annotation: 20 A.L.R. 1476, s. 26 A.L.R. 98.

One who, having been told by an attorney of a threatened criminal prosecution against him, retains the attorney to defend him and pays the attorney a large sum of money to suppress the prosecution, which the attorney retains in the execution of a conspiracy between the attorney and another to cheat the client, is entitled to equitable relief against the attorney. Berman v. Coakley, 243 Mass. 348, 137 N. E. 667, 26 A.L.R. 92.

[8] Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 13.

[9] Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86.

Annotation: 66 A.L.R. 133; 21 Ann. Cas. 588; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 14.

[10] Cornell v. Edsen, 78 Wash. 662, 139 P. 602, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915B, 833.

[11] Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 296, 5 Am. Dec. 237.

Annotation: 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 754; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 25.

[12] Bank of Glade Spring v. McEwen, 160 N. C. 414, 76 S. E. 222, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 542.

[13] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 27.

[14] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 29.

[15] Wilcox v. Plummer, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 172, 7 L. ed. 821; Caltrider v. Weant, 147 Md. 338, 128 A. 72, citing R. C. L.; Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Cox v. Livingston, 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 103, 37 Am. Dec. 486; McCoy v. Hydrick, 143 S. C. 135, 141 S. E. 174, 56 A.L.R. 953; Cornell v. Edsen, 78 Wash. 662, 139 P. 602, 51 L.R.A. (N.S.) 279.

Annotation: 56 A.L.R. 962; 22 L. ed. 482; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 13.

An attorney for a plaintiff in execution who purchases property sold under execution contrary to the plaintiff's orders is responsible for the amount of the judgment under which the property was sold. Fisher v. Knox, 13 Pa. 622, 53 Am. Dec. 503.

[16] Woodward v. Sonnesyn, 162 Minn. 397, 203 N. W. 221 (writ of certiorari denied in 269 U. S. 567, 70 L. ed. 415, 46 S. Ct. 25) citing R. C. L.; Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 298, 5 Am. Dec. 237.

[17] Robb v. Vos, 155 U. S. 13, 39 L. ed. 52, 15 S. Ct. 4; Shelton v. Tiffin, 6 How. (U. S.) 163, 12 L. ed. 387; Tally v. Reynolds, 1 Ark. 99, 31 Am. Dec. 737; Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520; Piggott v. Addicks, 3 G. Greene (Iowa) 427, 56 Am. Dec. 547; Marvel v. Manouvrier, 14

§ 123. Fraud, Unfair Dealing, or Unlawful Exactions.—An attorney is liable for any loss sustained by his client in consequence of such attorney's fraud or unfair dealing.[19] Thus, an attorney who makes fraudulent misstatements of fact or law to his client[20] or who fails to impart to his client information as to matters of fact[1] is liable for the resulting damages which his client sustains. If an attorney uses his position to exact from his client an exorbitant fee which is larger than the law allows in such a case, such sum may, if paid by the client, no matter how voluntarily, be recovered back as money received for his use.[2]

§ 124. Negligence in Performance of Duties.—An attorney must possess the skill and knowledge possessed by other members of the profession and must execute the business intrusted to his professional management with a reasonable degree of care, skill, and despatch.[3] If an attorney fails to possess such skill and knowledge or to exercise such care, skill, and despatch, and actual loss to his client results therefrom,[4] a cause of action arises in favor of the client against the attorney for the damages sustained.[5] It is, of course, essential that the relation of attorney and client exist between the attorney and the person seeking to hold him liable for such resultant loss.[6]

La. Ann. 3, 74 Am. Dec. 424; Fowler v. Lee, 10 Gill & J. (Md.) 358, 32 Am. Dec. 172; Bunton v. Lyford, 37 N. H. 512, 75 Am. Dec. 144; Ferguson v. Crawford, 70 N. Y. 253, 26 Am. Rep. 589; American Ins. Co. v. Oakley, 9 Paige (N. Y.) 496, 38 Am. Dec. 561; Denton v. Noyes, 6 Johns. (N. Y.) 296, 5 Am. Dec. 237; Abbott v. Dutton, 44 Vt. 546, 8 Am. Rep. 394.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 14.

[18] Marshall v. McDermitt, 79 W. Va. 245, 90 S. E. 830, L.R.A.1917C, 883.

[19] Robertson v. Chapman, 152 U. S. 673, 38 L. ed. 592, 14 S. Ct. 741.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 12.

[20] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 12.

[1] Baker v. Humphrey, 101 U. S. 494, 25 L. ed. 1065; L'Amoureux v. Vandenburgh, 7 Paige (N. Y.) 316, 32 Am. Dec. 635; Holland v. Brown (Tex. Civ. App.) 66 S. W. (2d) 1095, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 12.

[2] Smart v. White, 73 Me. 332, 40 Am. Rep. 356; Hall v. Kimmer, 61 Mich. 269, 28 N. W. 96, 1 Am. St. Rep. 575.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1918C, 868.

[3] See supra, § 47.

[4] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (C. C. A. 4th) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 482; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 55.

[5] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 178, 22 L. ed. 482; Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 69, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; Smallwood v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39; Caltrider v. Weant, 147 Md. 338, 128 A. 72, citing R. C. L.; McLellan v. Fuller, 220 Mass. 494, 108 N. E. 180, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1; Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; Re Miller, 55 Nev. 444, 38 P. (2d) 972, citing R. C. L.; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928; Mitchell v. Bell, 1 N. C. pt. 2, p. 157 (Conference, 17) 2 Am. Dec. 627; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662; Watson v. Muirhead, 57 Pa. 161, 98 Am. Dec. 213; Cox v. Livingston, 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 103, 37 Am. Dec. 486; Lynch v. Com. 16 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 368, 16 Am. Dec. 582; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883; Cotton v. Sharpstein, 14 Wis. 226, 80 Am. Dec. 774.

Purves v. Landell, 12 Clark & F. 91, 8 Eng. Reprint, 1332, 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 630; Godefroy v. Dalton, 6 Bing. 460, 130 Eng. Reprint, 1357, Eng. Rul. Cas. 656; Re Fitzpatrick, 54 Ont. L. Rep. 3, 13 B. R. C. 146, [1924] 1 D. L. R. 981.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 482; 52 L.R.A. 883; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 3; 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 643; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 663.

An attorney who undertakes the management of business committed to his charge thereby impliedly represents that he possesses the skill, and will exhibit the diligence, ordinarily possessed and employed by well-informed members of his profession in the conduct of business such as he has undertaken. Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320.

[6] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (C. C. A. 4th) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Buckley v. Gray, 110 Cal. 339, 42 P. 900, 31 L.R.A. 862, 52 Am. St. Rep. 88; Lawall v. Gorman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

The liability of the attorney is not affected, however, by the client's diligence or the want of it, unless stipulated for by special contract.[7]

The attorney may show as a defense a want of sufficient time to perform his duty, lack of proper information from the client, or authority in the matter given by the client.[8] Moreover, the client may release his attorney from all liability.[9] However, champerty will not be a defense to an action against an attorney for negligence or want of skill.[10] It has also been held that an attorney cannot escape the consequences of his negligence by showing that he consulted a distinguished attorney as to the course to pursue, and that in such person's opinion an arrangement thereafter made by him was the best thing he could do for his client.[11]

The liability of an attorney for the consequences of his want of reasonable care or skill extends to matters not in litigation,[12] such as the drafting of legal documents,[13] the investigation of titles,[14] etc. Thus, an attorney who agrees to invest funds for his client must use reasonable care, diligence, and skill in seeing that the investments are safely and prudently made and that the client is amply secured; he is responsible for any loss occasioned by his failure to do so.[15] So, it is generally held that an attorney is liable for any loss sustained by a minor where the loss is due to unskilfulness or negligence of the attorney in the management of the minor's affairs.[16]

§ 125. —What Amounts to Negligence.—The courts have encountered considerable difficulty in the determination of what amounts to such negligence as to render the attorney responsible to his client for resultant loss. As to this, no general rule can be laid down; each case must depend upon the particular facts thereof.[17] Generally speaking, however, attorneys are held to the same rule of liability for want of professional skill and diligence in practice and for erroneous or negligent advice to those who employ them as are physicians, surgeons, and others who hold themselves out to the world as possessing skill and qualifications in their respective trades and professions;[18] they are liable for the want of such skill, care, and diligence as men of the legal profession commonly possess and exercise in matters of professional employment.[19] There can be no doubt that for any misfeasance or unreasonable neglect of an attorney whereby his client suffers a loss, an action may be supported and damages recovered to the amount of such loss.[20]

---

[7] Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386.

[8] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 41.

[9] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 42.

[10] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 42.

[11] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

[12] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621.

[13] See infra, § 133.

[14] See infra, § 132.

[15] Hyman v. Parkerson, 140 La. 249, 72 So. 953, L.R.A.1917B, 694; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

Annotation: L.R.A. 1917B, 694; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 21.

[16] Wood v. Claiborne, 82 Ark. 514, 102 S. W. 219, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 913, 118 Am. St. Rep. 89; Re Woods, 158 Tenn. 383, 13 S. W. (2d) 800, 62 A.L.R. 904.

Annotation: 62 A.L.R. 910.

[17] Annotation: 34 Am. Dec. 89, 90.

[18] Slade v. Harris, 105 Conn. 436, 135 A. 570, citing R. C. L.; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 4.

[19] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Hampel-Lawson Mercantile Co. v. Poe, 169 Ark. 840, 277 S. W. 29, citing R. C. L.; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928; Re Woods, 158 Tenn. 383, 13 S. W. (2d) 800, 62 A.L.R. 904.

The attorney is liable for his failure to perform his professional duty, whether or not such failure was intentional or fraudulent. Cornell v. Edsen, 78 Wash. 662, 139 P. 602, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279.

[20] Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86.

An attorney is not, on the other hand, bound to exercise extraordinary diligence, but only a reasonable degree of care and skill, having reference to the character of the business he undertakes to do.[1] He is not answerable for every error or mistake,[2] and will be protected as long as he acts honestly and in good faith to the best of his skill and knowledge, or with at least reasonable skill and learning and an ordinary degree of attention or care.[3]

While some law writers and some adjudged cases state that an attorney is liable to his client for "gross negligence" or "gross ignorance" in the performance of his professional duties only,[4] yet it would appear that even when such term is used, it merely means the want or absence of reasonable care, skill, and knowledge.[5]

§ 126. —Errors of Judgment and Mistakes of Law.—It is well settled that an attorney who acts in good faith and in an honest belief that his advice and acts are well founded and in the just interests of his client is not answerable for a mere error of judgment[6] or for a mistake in a point of law which has not been settled by the court of last resort and on which reasonable doubt may be entertained by well-informed lawyers.[7] He is not, in the absence of an express agreement, an insurer or guarantor of the soundness of his opinions, of the successful outcome of the litigation which he is employed to conduct, or of the validity of an instrument that he is engaged to draft.[8] Under the rules stated, an attorney cannot be held liable for an error in judgment on points of new occurrence or of nice or doubtful construction,[9] and he clearly cannot be charged with negligence for accepting as a correct exposition of the law a decision of the highest court of the state.[10]

---

[1] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Hampel-Lawson Mercantile Co. v. Poe, 169 Ark. 840, 277 S. W. 29, citing R. C. L.; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386.

[2] See infra, § 126.

[3] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; Lynch v. Com. 16 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 368, 16 Am. Dec. 582; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 883; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 7.

[4] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585.

Godefroy v. Dalton, 6 Bing. 460, 130 Eng. Reprint, 1357, 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 656.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 4; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 663.

[5] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

Purves v. Landell, 12 Clark & F. 91, 8 Eng. Reprint, 1332, 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 630.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 5; 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 643.

[6] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Re Watts, 190 U. S. 1, 47 L. ed. 933, 23 S. Ct. 718; Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928; Watson v. Muirhead, 57 Pa. 161, 98 Am. Dec. 213; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 484; 52 L.R.A. 883.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 379, p. 840.

[7] Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; Watson v. Muirhead, 57 Pa. 161, 98 Am. Dec. 213; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 9.

[8] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928; Watson v. Muirhead, 57 Pa. 161, 98 Am. Dec. 213; Lynch v. Com. 16 Serg. & R. 368, 16 Am. Dec. 582.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 6.

[9] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86.

Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1—C. A.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 883.

In the case of construction of statutes, an error of the attorney will not render him liable where the act in question is difficult or doubtful. Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.

§ 127. —Ignorance of the Law.—The attorney undertakes, in the practice of his profession, that he is possessed of that knowledge and contracts to use that reasonable knowledge in the transaction of business for his client which lawyers of ordinary ability and skill possess and exercise, and for any loss resulting from the lack of this measure of professional attainment he is liable to his client.[11] He is usually held to be liable for the consequences of his ignorance or nonobservance of the rules of the courts in which he practices[12] or for his ignorance of the statutes and published decisions of his own state.[13] However, he is not liable for error due to his ignorance of the laws of a foreign jurisdiction.[14]

§ 128. Negligence in Preparing and Conducting Litigation.—An attorney who undertakes to conduct a litigation impliedly contracts to exercise due care, skill, and knowledge of the law in the conduct of such litigation, and renders himself liable for any loss or injury which his client suffers in consequence of his failure to do so.[15] He is liable for any loss or injury sustained in consequence of his failure to prepare, file, and serve pleadings essential for a proper presentation of his client's cause,[16] his negligence or want of skill in preparing a necessary affidavit,[17] his want of care in the preparation of the case for trial,[18] or his failure to conduct the trial with that reasonable degree of care, skill, diligence, and learning expected of the average lawyer.[19] He is liable also for mistakes in pleading which indicate a lack on his part of the attainments and diligence commonly possessed and exercised by legal practitioners of ordinary skill and capacity, although he does not guarantee the legal sufficiency of every pleading which he prepares,[20] nor is he answerable for a mistake or error of judgment in the conduct of a case.[1]

---

[10] Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 178, 22 L. ed. 482; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 10.

[11] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 145, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 19.

An attorney is liable to his client if the latter's interests suffer on account of the attorney's failure to understand and apply those rules and principles of law that are well established and clearly defined in the elementary books or which have been declared in adjudged cases that have been duly reported and published a sufficient length of time to have become known to those who exercise reasonable diligence in keeping pace with the literature of the profession. Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669.

[12] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; Hill v. Mynatt (Tenn.) 59 S. W. 163, 52 L.R.A. 883.
Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1—C. A.
Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 883.

[13] Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320.

[14] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 11.

[15] Wilcox v. Plummer, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 172, 7 L. ed. 821; Re Dahl, 159 Minn. 481, 199 N. W. 429, 43 A.L.R. 52.
Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1—C. A.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 24.

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 25.

[17] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

[18] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Citizens Loan, Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320.
Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1—C. A.

[19] McLellan v. Fuller, 220 Mass. 494, 108 N. E. 180, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1.
Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1—C. A.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 28.

[20] Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 885, 886; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 26.

[1] McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 28.

§ 129. Negligence in Enforcing Judgment.—An attorney may be held liable to his client for negligence in the performance of his duty of enforcing the judgment recovered for his client;[2] for example, he may be held liable for his failure to take the necessary steps for the due entry and enrolment of a judgment to which his client is entitled,[3] or for his failure to proceed for the enforcement of the judgment.[4] The attorney, however, will always be justified in ceasing to proceed with his client's cause, unless specially instructed to go on, whenever he is influenced to do this by a prudent regard for the interest of his client.[5] As a general rule he will not be held liable for failure to take proceedings for the review of a cause unless he has been directed, and has agreed, to do so;[6] he will not be held liable either for failure to take a bill of exceptions, or for committing an error of judgment in determining whether he should yield to, or appeal from, a decision of the court.[7]

§ 130. Negligence in Collection of Claims.—An attorney receiving a claim for collection must exercise the same degree of care and skill as is required of him in the performance of his other professional duties, and a want of such care, skill, and diligence will be deemed negligence and will render him liable to his client for loss or injury resulting therefrom.[8] Thus, he is liable to his client for loss consequent on his neglect or delay in the institution of suit for collection of a claim intrusted to him,[9] as where he fails or neglects to bring suit within the time limited by statute and thus the right of action is barred.[10] Again, if he is intrusted either to bring suit or to secure the debt immediately by attaching property of the debtor, but fails to do either, in consequence of which a loss ensues, the attorney is liable, though he acted under an honest belief that delay would best subserve the client's interest, or that a suit would be unavailing.[11] He does not, however, guarantee or insure the collection of claims placed in his hands, and if he acts in good faith, to the best of his skill, and with a reasonable degree of care and diligence, he is not responsible for failure to collect.[12] Nor is an attorney liable for failure to protest a promissory note, left with him for collection, without proof of special instructions so to do, or that such was the usual course of business, when both maker and indorser live at a distance from his place of business.[13]

---

[2] An attorney should defend against replevin process to recover goods seized on an attachment sued out by the attorney on judgment obtained by him; and where the plaintiff in replevin suffers a nonsuit, the attorney for the attachment creditor should move for judgment for a return of property replevied, and for failure to do so, in consequence of which the claim is lost, he is liable for negligence, and he cannot show by way of defense that the plaintiff in replevin was the real owner of the property. Smallwod v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39.

[3] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 29.

[4] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 30.

[5] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

[6] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 31.

[7] Annotation: 52 L.R.A. 886.

[8] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386; Smallwood v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39; Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86; Cox v. Livingston, 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 103, 37 Am. Dec. 486.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 32.

An attorney who accepts depreciated money is liable to his client for the loss sustained. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 33.

The receipt by the client of a part of the proceeds of collection when more was due is not a ratification of the attorney's acts in the collection, so as to become an accord and satisfaction, or an estoppel against the client to sue for the attorney's negligence in the matter. Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

[9] Fitch v. Scott, 3 How. (Miss.) 314, 34 Am. Dec. 86.

The reasonableness of the time within which to sue is a question for the jury. Annotation: 34 Am. Dec. 91.

The presentation of claims against the estate of deceased debtors must be made by an attorney with reasonable diligence, and if, on account of a want of prosecution or unreasonable delay, the time for distribution passes without the recognition of the claim, and it is thereby lost, the attorney will be liable. It is held, however, that the failure of the attorney to file a claim against the estate of an insolvent will not be negligence rendering him liable where it appears that the debtor was living when the claim was put into the attorney's hands, and he is not shown to have had knowledge of the debtor's subsequent death. Annotation: 34 Am. Dec. 92.

[10] Wilcox v. Plummer, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 172, 7 L. ed. 821.

Fletcher & Son v. Jubb [1920] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 275, 10 B. R. C. 1—C. A.

Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 398; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 24; 10 B. R. C. 9.

[11] Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Cox v. Livingston, 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 103, 37 Am. Dec. 486.

§ 131. Failure to Remit; Loss or Conversion of Money Collected.—An attorney impliedly agrees to pay over promptly money collected for a client,[14] and if he fails to turn over the same after a demand has been made for it or directions given for its remittance, he is liable to an action.[15]

In regard to money which an attorney collects for his client, the attorney, so long as he chooses to treat and preserve the fund as a trust fund, occupies the relation of a trustee, and the circumstances under which he will be liable for its loss are precisely those which govern in the case of any other trustee.[16] If it becomes necessary or proper to deposit money in a bank and he acts in this regard as a prudent man would act in regard to his own money, depositing the fund in such way as to indicate its character, he is excused if a loss occurs;[17] he should not, however, mingle his client's money with his own,[18] and if he deposits the money in his own name without any indication of the trust character, he becomes liable for any loss resulting to the client upon the subsequent failure of the bank.[19]

§ 132. Negligence or Mistake in Investigating, Abstracting, or Conveying Title.—An attorney employed to examine the title to real property must exercise reasonable care and skill in the matter, and his failure to do so is negligence for which he will be liable to his client in damages for the loss occasioned,[20] but he assumes no responsibility for losses of his client not occasioned by his negligence in performing his undertaking.[1] In this connection it should be noted that while the liability of an abstracter is generally limited to those who employ him,[2] if the attorney for a mortgagor who pays the fees undertakes, on behalf of the mortgagee, to see that the mortgage is a first lien on the property, he is bound to perform that duty with ordinary and reasonable skill and care in his profession, and is liable for negligence in that respect.[3] The attorney is not, however, a guarantor in examining titles; he merely undertakes to bring reasonable skill and diligence to the discharge of his duty, and he is not liable for errors of judgment or for mistakes on doubtful questions of law.[4]

---

[12] Marsh v. Whitmore, 21 Wall. (U. S.) 178, 22 L. ed. 482; Odlin v. Stetson, 17 Me. 244, 35 Am. Dec. 248.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 33.

[13] Odlin v. Stetson, 17 Me. 244, 35 Am. Dec. 248.

[14] Goodyear Metallic Rubber Co. v. Baker (Goodyear Metallic Rubber Shoe Co. v. Carpenter) 81 Vt. 39, 69 A. 160, 17 L.R.A. (N.S.) 667, 15 Ann. Cas. 1207.

[15] Re Dahl, 159 Minn. 481, 199 N. W. 429, 43 A.L.R. 52; State ex rel. Sorensen v. Goldman, 127 Neb. 340, 255 N. W. 32, citing R. C. L.; Cotton v. Sharpstein, 14 Wis. 226, 80 Am. Dec. 774.

Annotation: 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 36; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 36.

A claim against an attorney for money collected by him for a client is "a debt created while acting in a fiduciary character," within the meaning of the bankruptcy act, and is not barred by a discharge in bankruptcy. Heffren v. Jayne, 39 Ind. 463, 13 Am. Rep. 281; Flanagan v. Pearson, 42 Tex. 1, 19 Am. Rep. 40.

[16] Naltner v. Dolan, 108 Ind. 500, 8 N. E. 289, 58 Am. Rep. 61.

Annotation: 96 A.L.R. 801; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 34.

[17] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 35.

[18] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 35.

[19] Naltner v. Dolan, 108 Ind. 500, 8 N. E. 289, 58 Am. Rep. 61.

[20] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Wittenbrock v. Parker, 102 Cal. 93, 36 P. 374, 24 L.R.A. 197, 41 Am. St. Rep. 172; Trimboli v. Kinkel, 226 N. Y. 147, 123 N. E. 205, 5 A.L.R. 1385; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

Annotation: 5 A.L.R. 1389; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 20.

It is negligence on the part of an attorney, in preparing an abstract of title to real estate, to fail to apply the settled rules of law which should be known to all conveyancers. Trimboli v. Kinkel, 226 N. Y. 147, 123 N. E. 205, 5 A.L.R. 1385.

If an attorney for a mortgagee is guilty of negligence in examining the title to ascertain that the mortgage is a first lien on the property, as he has agreed to do, the mortgagee, without waiting for the mortgage to be foreclosed, is entitled to recover at once from such attorney the difference between the value of the security contracted for and that actually received. The cause of action is the breach of duty, and not the damages, which are only an incident. Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

Generally, as to liability of abstracter, see ABSTRACTS OF TITLE, Vol. 1, p. 165, § 17.

[1] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 22.

§ 133. Drafting, Preserving, and Recording Legal Documents.—An attorney employed to prepare a written instrument is responsible for any loss sustained by his client as the result of his negligence or carelessness or his failure to observe well-established principles of law,[5] although he is not liable for a mere error in judgment in drafting instruments.[6] The same rule exists as to negligence of the attorney in the keeping of papers with which he is intrusted,[7] and an attorney who agrees to have certain documents recorded is responsible for loss sustained by his client through his failure to do so.[8]

A client who relies upon his attorney to see that a document given to him by a third party contains all the stipulations of the agreement may recover from the attorney for the loss sustained by his negligence in receiving an instrument from which one of the stipulations has been omitted.[9]

§ 134. Liability for Acts of Partner, Assistant, Clerk, or Agent.—A law firm is responsible to a client who has retained it for the negligent or fraudulent acts of its individual members when acting within the scope of their authority.[10] Thus, each member of the firm, irrespective of his personal participation in the transaction,[11] as well as the law firm itself, is liable to a client for money collected in the course of the firm's business and misappropriated by a member of the firm. So, where a member of such a firm represents to a client that the money upon a claim intrusted to the firm for collection has been collected, though in fact it has not, it has been held that the firm will be liable in an action by the client to recover the money.[12] An attorney is also liable for the acts of his partner in excess of the authority given by the client.[13] However, a firm of lawyers is not liable for the acts of one of its members outside the ordinary course of its business.[14]

Attorneys are also liable for the negligence of assistant attorneys employed by them [15] and for the negligence or misconduct of those to whom claims for collection are given,[16] or of clerks or other persons in charge of their offices

---

[2] See ABSTRACTS OF TITLE, Vol. 1, p. 168, § 23.

[3] Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

[4] Citizens Loan Fund & Sav. Asso. v. Friedley, 123 Ind. 143, 23 N. E. 1075, 7 L.R.A. 669, 18 Am. St. Rep. 320; Watson v. Muirhead, 57 Pa. 161, 98 Am. Dec. 213.

[5] Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 932; 52 L.R.A. 891; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 22.

[6] McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928.

[7] Annotation: Ann Cas. 1917B, 24.

[8] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 23.

[9] Finkbeiner v. Yeo, 26 Manitoba L. R. 22, 9 B. R. C. 460, 25 D. L. R. 673.

[10] Annotation: 22 L. ed. 484; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 16; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 667.

[11] Smyth v. Harvie, 31 Ill. 62, 83 Am. Dec. 202.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 17.

[12] Annotation: 19 Eng. Rul. Cas. 459.

[13] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 16.

[14] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 17.

[15] Cummins v. Heald, 24 Kan. 600, 36 Am. Rep. 264.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 484.

[16] Cummins v. Heald, 24 Kan. 600, 36 Am. Rep. 264; Dickson v. Wright, 52 Miss. 585, 24 Am. Rep. 677; Krause v. Dorrance, 10 Pa. 462, 51 Am. Dec. 496; Cox v. Livingston, 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 103, 37 Am. Dec. 486.

Annotation: 61 A.L.R. 283; 22 L. ed. 484; 50 Am. St. Rep. 115.

Where a claim is intrusted to an attorney, a receipt by him "for collection" imports an undertaking by the attorney himor business, in so far as such persons act within the apparent scope of their authority.[17]

B. Enforcement by Action

§ 135. Form of Remedy.—In the case of negligence of an attorney resulting in loss or injury, the client may maintain an action of assumpsit for breach of the implied contract to use reasonable care and diligence,[18] or sue in case for such negligence,[19] or employ the Code substitutes for these remedies.[20] The client's cause of action is based on his attorney's breach of duty, and not on the consequential damages subsequently resulting.[21] A bill in equity cannot be based on the attorney's negligence in the performance of a professional duty, although it may lie in the case of a fraud perpetrated by means of the fiduciary relation.[1]

The duty of an attorney to pay over to his client money collected for such client rests in contract and is usually enforced by an action at law,[2] although it seems that a bill for an accounting may be maintained against an attorney who has collected money for his client which he refuses to account for.[3] If there has been a conversion of the money, he is liable to an action of tort and to all the consequences of such an action.[4]

§ 136. Necessity of Demand.—Although it is clearly an attorney's duty to pay over money collected for his client, yet it is usually held that a demand is a condition precedent to the maintenance of an action against him for the recovery of such money.[5] However circumstances may exist which will dispense with the necessity of a demand, as where the attorney has been guilty of fraud or malpractice, or of culpable negligence in not giving notice of the receipt of the money in a reasonable time, or when he puts in a sham plea for self to collect, and not merely that he receives it for transmission to another for collection, for whose negligence he is not to be responsible, and the attorney so receipting is liable by its very terms for the negligence of the distant attorney who is his agent, or for the embezzlement by the latter of the proceeds of the collection. Cummins v. Heald, 24 Kan. 600, 36 Am. Rep. 264.

---

[17] Annotation: 22 L. ed. 484; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 18.

Attorneys are liable for frauds perpetrated upon clients by their clerks apparently acting within the scope of their authority, even though such wrongs are committed for the benefit of the clerks rather than their employers. Lloyd v. Grace, S. & Co. [1912] A. C. (Eng.) 716, 5 B. R. C. 498, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 819—H. L.

[18] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 45.

[19] Odlin v. Stetson, 17 Me. 244, 35 Am. Dec. 248; Gilbert v. Williams, 8 Mass. 51, 5 Am. Dec. 77; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662; Watson v. Muirhead, 57 Pa. 161, 98 Am. Dec. 213.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 45.

[20] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 45.

[21] Cornell v. Edsen, 78 Wash. 662, 139 P. 602, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279.

Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 279; 126 Am. St. Rep. 950.

[1] Annotation: 5 A.L.R. 1395; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 46.

[2] Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Taylor v. Spears, 6 Ark. 381, 44 Am. Dec. 519; Krause v. Dorrance, 10 Pa. 462, 51 Am. Dec. 496; Fisher v. Knox, 13 Pa. 622, 53 Am. Dec. 503.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 47.

If the attorney has been permitted, because of his own false representations, to keep the money until the right to recover it has been extinguished by the statute of limitations, and then pleads the statute in an action on contract, it has been held that the complaint should be sustained for recovery of damages for the fraud, if it fairly appears that the damages were thus caused. Ott v. Hood, 152 Wis. 97, 139 N. W. 762, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524. Annotation: 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524.

[3] Williams v. Storrs, 6 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 353, 10 Am. Dec. 340.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 47.

[4] Flanagan v. Pearson, 42 Tex. 1, 19 Am. Rep. 40; Cotton v. Sharpstein, 14 Wis. 226, 80 Am. Dec. 774.

Annotation: 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 36; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 47.

[5] Black v. Hersch, 18 Ind. 342, 81 Am. Dec. 362; Naltner v. Dolan, 108 Ind. 500, 8 N. E. 289, 58 Am. Rep. 61; Roberts v. Armstrong, 1 Bush (Ky.) 263, 89 Am. Dec. 624; Jordan v. Westerman, 62 Mich. 170, 28 N. W. 826, 4 Am. St. Rep. 836; Douglas v. Corry, 46 Ohio St. 349, 21 N. E. 440, 15 Am. St. Rep. 604; Krause v. Dorrance, 10 Pa. 462, 51 Am. Dec. 496. And see Lillie v. Hoyt, 5 Hill (N. Y.) 395, 40 Am. Dec. 360.

delay, or when he exhibits a manifest desire to baffle the plaintiff and withhold from him his just demand.[6] Moreover, it seems that a previous demand is not necessary under a contract which is void as against public policy.[7]

In some jurisdictions, it is held that the commencement of the suit is a sufficient demand.[8]

§ 137. Applicability of Statute of Limitations.—An attorney may avail himself of the statute of limitations in an action brought against him by his client for negligence, disobedience of instructions, or failure to pay over money collected by him for the client, which accordingly will bar an action by the client to recover the money, not brought within the statutory period.[9] The relation between attorney and client does not belong to that class of express, continuing and subsisting trusts to which the statute is, in equity, held to be inapplicable.[10] The discussion of the question as to when the cause of action against an attorney accrues within the meaning of the statute of limitation will be found under another title.[11]

§ 138. Pleading.—In actions against attorneys for negligence or violation of duty, the usual rule prevails that the plaintiff must allege the facts essential to establish the breach of a duty by the defendant.[12] It is necessary to allege the existence of the relation of attorney and client,[13] but it is not generally necessary to aver the payment of a retaining fee, unless it is alleged that the attorney was retained in consideration of fees and rewards to be paid him, without stating that such payment was to be at a future time.[14] The plaintiff must allege that the attorney was negligent,[15] and show that he suffered damage by reason of the negligence alleged.[16] In jurisdictions where, in an action against an attorney for money collected by him and not paid over to his client, a demand is essential to the right of action, such demand, or circumstances that would dispense therewith, must be alleged.[17]

---

[6] Krause v. Dorrance, 10 Pa. 462, 51 Am. Dec. 496. And see Douglas v. Corry, 46 Ohio St. 349, 21 N. E. 440, 15 Am. St. Rep. 604.

Annotation: 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524.

The rule that no cause of action arises except on demand and refusal to pay presupposes that the collector has reasonably notified his principal of the collection, and only waits opportunity to pay over the money personally, or remit the same in such manner as the principal may direct. The client need not, in order to protect his interests, keep in touch with the attorney's office in order to demand the money. He may wait for notice, relying upon the duty to give such notice within a reasonable time, and in case of failure, he may sue without further ceremony. Ott v. Hood, 152 Wis. 97, 139 N. W. 762, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 636.

[7] Jordan v. Westerman, 62 Mich. 170, 28 N. W. 826, 4 Am. St. Rep. 836.

[8] Douglas v. Corry, 46 Ohio St. 349, 21 N. E. 440, 15 Am. St. Rep. 604 (stating this to be the rule in Iowa).

[9] Wilcox v. Plummer, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 172, 7 L. ed. 821; Schofield v. Woolley, 98 Ga. 548, 25 S. E. 769, 58 Am. St. Rep. 315; Orozem v. McNeill, 103 Kan. 429, 175 P. 633, 3 A.L.R. 1598; Cook v. Rives, 13 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 328, 53 Am. Dec. 88; Douglas v. Corry, 46 Ohio St. 349, 21 N. E. 440, 15 Am. St. Rep. 604; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662; Rhines v. Evans, 66 Pa. 195, 5 Am. Rep. 365; McDowell v. Potter, 8 Pa. 189, 49 Am. Dec. 503; Thomas v. Ervin, 25 S. C. L. (Cheves) 22, 34 Am. Dec. 586; Ott v. Hood, 152 Wis. 97, 139 N. W. 762, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 524, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 636.

Annotation: 15 Am. St. Rep. 608; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50.

[10] Schofield v. Woolley, 98 Ga. 548, 25 S. E. 769, 58 Am. St. Rep. 315 and note; Cook v. Rives, 13 Smedes & M. (Miss.) 329, 53 Am. Dec. 88; Douglas v. Corry, 46 Ohio St. 349, 21 N. E. 440, 15 Am. St. Rep. 604.

But in Browder v. Da Costa, 91 Fla. 1, 109 So. 448, citing R. C. L., it was held that the peculiar circumstances of the case lifted it out of the operation of this rule.

[11] See LIMITATION OF ACTIONS [Also 17 R. C. L. p. 766, §§ 132–134].

[12] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (D. C.) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340; Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

Annotation: 2 Ann. Cas. 603; 14 Ann. Cas. 342.

[13] Cavillaud v. Yale, 3 Cal. 108, 58 Am. Dec. 388; Buckley v. Gray, 110 Cal. 339, 42 P. 900, 31 L.R.A. 862, 52 Am. St. Rep. 88; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662. And see Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Smallwood v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39.

The fact of employment is sufficiently pleaded where it is averred that the attorneys were employed generally and directed to take certain action, although there is no averment of employment in the particular case. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (D. C.) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50.

[14] Cavillaud v. Yale, 3 Cal. 108, 58 Am. Dec. 388.

[15] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am.

Causes of action against an attorney for neglect of duty and for fraud may be joined in one suit.[18]

§ 139. Burden of Proof.—In actions against attorneys for negligence or violation of duty, the usual rule prevails that the plaintiff must prove the facts essential to establish the breach of a duty by the defendant.[19] The plaintiff must prove the existence of the relation of attorney and client between himself and the defendant,[20] and the facts constituting the alleged negligence;[1] he must show that that negligence was the proximate cause of the injury of which he complains;[2] and generally he must prove the fact and extent of the damage alleged.[3] Some decisions, however, take the view that when negligence has been proved in consequence of which a client has lost his case, it is not incumbent on the client to show that but for the negligence he would have succeeded in the action; it has been held in some instances that in case of negligence and violation of duty in the collection of claims, since the measure of damages is, prima facie, the amount of the claim, the attorney has the burden of proving that the client, in point of fact, sustained no loss.[4] In an action for money collected and not paid over to the client, in jurisdictions where a demand is essential to the right of action, such demand, or circumstances that would dispense therewith, must be proved.[5]

§ 140. Evidence.—In actions against attorneys for negligence, want of skill, or disobedience to instructions, the ordinary rules of evidence[6] are applicable,

---

Dec. 262; Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340.

Purves v. Landell, 12 Clark & F. 91, 8 Eng. Reprint, 1332, 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 630.

A declaration for negligence in failing to report existing encumbrances on property, the title to which the attorney was employed to examine, must state in particular what the encumbrances were. Annotation: 5 A.L.R. 1395.

[16] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (D. C.) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340; Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

[17] Black v. Hersch, 18 Ind. 342, 81 Am. Dec. 362.

[18] Annotation: 5 A.L.R. 1395.

[19] Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340; Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

Annotation: 2 Ann. Cas. 603; 14 Ann. Cas. 342.

In an action for negligence in the collection of a claim, it is necessary for the plaintiff to prove the delivery of the claim to the attorney, a failure to collect the same, due to the attorney's negligence, and the fact that the debt might have been collected but for such negligence. Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340; Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

When the amount of a note is alleged to have been lost by the attorney's negligence, it must be shown that the debt subsists against the maker, and also that he was solvent. Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340.

[20] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (D. C.) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Cavillaud v. Yale, 3 Cal. 108, 58 Am. Dec. 388; Buckley v. Gray, 110 Cal. 339, 42 P. 900, 31 L.R.A. 862, 52 Am. St. Rep. 88; Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662. And see Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Smallwood v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39.

[1] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (D. C.) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340.

Purves v. Landell, 12 Clark & F. 91, 8 Eng. Reprint, 1332, 18 Eng. Rul. Cas. 630.

Where a client defends an action by an attorney on a note given for legal services on the ground of the plaintiff's negligence in the management of the business intrusted to him, he has the burden of proving negligence. Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340; Plymouth County Bank v. Gilman, 9 S. D. 278, 68 N. W. 735, 62 Am. St. Rep. 868.

[2] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (D. C.) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50.

[3] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

[4] Annotation: 2 Ann. Cas. 603.

[5] Black v. Hersch, 18 Ind. 342, 81 Am. Dec. 362.

[6] See EVIDENCE [Also 10 R. C. L. 847].

as, for instance, the rule with regard to parol evidence to vary or contradict a written contract,[7] the admissibility of declarations, etc.[8] The receipt by an attorney of a note for collection is admissible in evidence to show the relation of attorney and client.[9] Whether an attorney has been negligent or has displayed such ignorance in the performance of his professional duties as to render him liable to his client for damage resulting therefrom is sometimes to be ascertained from the testimony of those who are conversant with, and skilled in, the same kind of business.[10] The record of a case conducted by one attorney in the name of another is admissible in evidence, in an action against the first, to show the final determination of the case.[11] Evidence of an attorney's negligence subsequent to the receipt of business transmitted to him for his professional attention is no evidence that before that time he was not a lawyer of reputed learning and ability.[12]

In an action against an attorney at law for negligence an averment that the defendant was employed and undertook to act as an attorney is sufficiently proved by his acting as such for the plaintiff and being recognized as acting in that capacity on the records of the court.[12a]

§ 141. Trial; Questions of Law and Fact.—Questions of trial practice arising in an action to enforce the liability of an attorney to his client are controlled by the principles which govern trial practice generally.[13] The question whether or not an attorney has been guilty of such negligence or ignorance in the performance of his professional duties as will render him liable to his client,[14] as, for example, the question whether or not the attorney exercised reasonable knowledge and skill in the preparation and drafting of an instrument for his client, is usually deemed to be a question of fact for the determination of the jury, and not one of law for the court.[15] But where the facts are ascertained, the attorney's negligence becomes a question for the court.[16]

§ 142. Measure and Mitigation of Damages.—The principles which govern the measure of damages recoverable for the breach of a contractual duty or a duty imposed by law[17] govern the question of the amount of damages recoverable by a client from his attorney. The fundamental principle is that the injured party shall have compensation for the injury sustained; accordingly, in an action based upon the attorney's negligence, want of skill, or breach of duty toward his client, the actual damage sustained by his client by reason of his negligence or violation of duty is the measure of recovery;[18] unless sub-

---

[7] Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386.

[8] Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

[9] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

[10] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

[11] Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134.

[12] Plymouth County Bank v. Gilman, 9 S. D. 278, 68 N. W. 735, 62 Am. St. Rep. 868.

[12a] Smallwood v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39.

[13] See Trial [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1008].

[14] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; McLellan v. Fuller, 220 Mass. 494, 108 N. E. 180, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 484; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 11.

What is a reasonable time within which to collect a debt is a question dependent on circumstances, and therefore one to be submitted to the jury. Rhines v. Evans, 66 Pa. 192, 5 Am. Rep. 364.

[15] McCullough v. Sullivan, 102 N. J. L. 381, 132 A. 102, 43 A.L.R. 928.

[16] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 11.

[17] See Damages [Also 8 R. C. L. p. 414].

[18] Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price (C. C. A. 4th) 231 F. 397, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 50; Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262; Cox v. Sullivan, 7 Ga. 144, 50 Am. Dec. 386; Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601; Cox v. Livingston, 2 Watts & S. (Pa.) 103, 37 Am. Dec. 486.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 39–55.

In an action for violation of duty in settling a claim without authority, if the plaintiff fails to prove that the claim was valid or worth more than the sum conceded to have been collected, he is not stantial injury is shown to have resulted therefrom, the recovery will be limited to a nominal sum.[19] The measure of damage is generally the same in the case of a wilful violation of duty by an attorney.[20] Some courts, however, allow punitive damages where the wrong shows malice, fraud, or such gross negligence or recklessness as to indicate a wilful or wanton disregard of the client's rights.[1]

An attorney has been held not to be chargeable for interest upon the principal of debts, intrusted to him for collection, which, through his negligence, have been lost to his client, nor is he generally liable for interest upon the money collected until there has been a demand, unless he has withheld it for an unreasonable time,[2] or unless he has made use of such moneys for his own profit.[3]

The attorney may show any facts which tend to mitigate the damages,[4] unless proof is barred by a previous judicial disposition of the matter.[5] An attorney who is liable for the loss to a client occasioned by his error will be credited with the amount of a reasonable fee and traveling expenses for the rendering of services urgently needed by the client.[6]

C. Enforcement by Summary Proceedings

§ 143. Generally.—Attorneys are answerable to the summary jurisdiction of the court for any dereliction of duty[7] except mere negligence or mismanagement.[8] A court may enforce honorable conduct on the part of its attorneys and compel them to act honestly toward their clients by means of fine, imprisonment, or disbarment.[9] The power is based upon the relationship of the attorney to the court and the authority which the court has over its own officers to prevent them from, or punish them for, committing acts of dishonesty or impropriety calculated to bring contempt upon the administration of justice.[10] A court may, in the exercise of its summary jurisdiction in this regard, compel an attorney to pay over or account for moneys or property belonging to his client which he has received in his official capacity and withholds from his client,[11] as, for instance, where the attorney retains money col-entitled to recover damages beyond such sum. Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

---

The measure of damages for negligence in passing as clear a title encumbered with lien is the amount necessary to pay off the liens. Lawall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

[19] Pennington v. Yell, 11 Ark. 212, 52 Am. Dec. 262.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 38.

[20] Vooth v. McEachen, 181 N. Y. 28, 73 N. E. 488, 2 Ann. Cas. 601.

[1] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 40.

[2] Annotation: 18 L.R.A 457.

In Gunn v. Howell, 35 Ala. 144, 73 Am. Dec. 484, it is held that a client has no right to interest on funds collected by his attorney, who was subsequently garnished, unless a previous demand was made upon him.

[3] Williams v. Storrs, 6 Johns. Ch. (N. Y.) 353, 10 Am. Dec. 340.

[4] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 41.

[5] Smallwood v. Norton, 20 Me. 83, 37 Am. Dec. 39.

[6] Re Woods, 158 Tenn. 383, 13 S. W. (2d) 800, 62 A.L.R. 904.

[7] Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

Where there appears to have been no dishonesty on the part of the attorney, the client will be left to his action. Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992.

[8] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 47.

[9] Re Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Roquemore v. Sovereign Camp, W. W. 226 Ala. 279, 146 So. 619, citing R. C. L.

[10] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Anderson v. Bosworth, 15 R. I. 443, 8 A. 339, 2 Am. St. Rep. 910.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1501; L.R.A. 1918D, 831.

[11] Haden v. Lovett, 133 Ga. 388, 65 S. E. 853, 18 Ann. Cas. 114; Hess v. Conway, 92 Kan. 787, 142 P. 253, 4 A.L.R. 1580, on rehearing in 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Re Niagara, L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234; Peirce v. Palmer, lected by him for his client,[12] after demand for the same has been duly made.[13] The exercise of this jurisdiction is not, however, confined to cases where the attorney has retained money collected for his client.[14] While it is usually invoked to compel attorneys to do justice toward their clients in matters connected with litigation, it is not confined to such matters, but extends to any case where the employment of the attorney or solicitor is so connected with his professional character as to afford a presumption that his character formed the ground of his employment by the client.[15] Nor will a court desist from requiring its own attorney to do his duty simply because the transaction in question arose in litigation in another court, or from requiring an attorney to perform his duty although he is the attorney of another court practicing in the court which exercises the summary jurisdiction.[16]

§ 144. As Affected by Right to Jury Trial.—A summary proceeding against an attorney charged with wrongfully withholding money or property belonging to his client does not necessarily infringe on any right of the attorney to a trial by jury,[17] and in the absence of statutory regulation, the question whether the court should proceed in a summary manner or should remit the client to a trial at law by a jury is not one governed by any rigid rule which can be abstractly and formally stated, but is a matter resting in the sound discretion of the court.[18]

Upon the question of the effect of good faith on the part of the attorney on his right to a jury trial, the courts are divided. Some hold that the attorney's good faith will not defeat the court's summary jurisdiction,[19] while many hold that it will,[20] even though summary proceedings are authorized by

---

31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Re Kennedy, 120 Pa. 497, 14 A. 397, 6 Am. St. Rep. 724; Burns v. Allen, 15 R. I. 32, 23 A. 35, 2 Am. St. Rep. 844; Windsor v. Brown, 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892; Anderson v. Bosworth, 15 R. I. 443, 8 A. 339, 2 Am. St. Rep. 910.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 830; 2 Am. St. Rep. 847; 18 Ann. Cas. 115.

It is not essential that the money should have been received in any suit or legal proceeding, or that the attorney should have been employed to commence legal proceedings. Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 830; 2 Am. St. Rep. 854.

[12] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; White v. Ward, 157 Ala. 345, 47 So. 166, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 568; Re Kennedy, 120 Pa. 497, 14 A. 397, 6 Am. St. Rep. 724; Windsor v. Brown, 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892; Burns v. Allen, 15 R. I. 32, 23 A. 35, 2 Am. St. Rep. 844.

[13] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 855.

[14] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

Where a judgment is entered by an attorney by confession against his client, partly for costs, the court may, on motion, order an inquiry as to the consideration, and stay the proceedings in the meantime. Starr v. Vanderheyden, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 253, 6 Am. Dec. 275.

The court may require an attorney to deliver to his client documents belonging to the latter and retained by the attorney, though it will not thus enforce ordinary contract obligations. Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Re Niagara, L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234; Windsor v. Brown, 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892. Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 849; Ann. Cas. 1913B, 236.

[15] Hess v. Conway, 92 Kan. 787, 142 P. 253, 4 A.L.R. 1580, on rehearing in 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Anderson v. Bosworth, 15 R. I. 443, 8 A. 339, 2 Am. St. Rep. 910.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 830; 18 Ann. Cas. 117.

[16] Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 847.

[17] Davies v. Patterson, 132 Ark. 484, 201 S. W. 504, L.R.A.1918D, 825; Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497; Burns v. Allen, 15 R. I. 32, 23 A. 35, 2 Am. St. Rep. 844.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1502; L.R.A. 1918D, 831.

[18] Charest v. Bishop, 137 Minn. 102, 162 N. W. 1063, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1504; L.R.A. 1918D, 832, 833.

[19] Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1509; L.R.A. 1918D, 835.

[20] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497; Re Kennedy, 120 Pa. 497, 14 A. 397, 6 Am. St. Rep. 724; Krickau v. Williams 36 R. I. 85, 89 A. 152, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 1145; Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Windsor v. Brown. 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892; Burns v.

statute.[1] Also, according to some decisions, if, on the application for a rule compelling the payment over of money, an issue of fact is raised as to the existence of the relation, the attorney is entitled to a trial by jury.[2]

§ 145. Necessity of Relation of Attorney and Client.—It is well established that a court has no jurisdiction to grant summary relief against an attorney at the instance of one who does not sustain towards him the relation of client,[3] or to compel an attorney to perform any act in matters unconnected with his professional character.[4] The reason for this rule seems to be based on the right of an attorney, except where the relation of attorney and client exists, to have his liabilities established in the ordinary channels of legal procedure.[5] It has even been held, though the view has been questioned, that the right will not pass to an assignee of the client.[6]

§ 146. Procedure.—The usual method of instituting summary proceedings against an attorney is by motion or petition addressed to the court and asking for a rule against the attorney to appear and show cause why the prayer of the complainant should not be granted.[7] However, the form of procedure is not material [8] so long as the essentials of fair notice and opportunity to be heard are observed.[9] The respondent is entitled to cross-examine the witness produced to testify against him in such proceedings.[10] It is a common practice for the court in such proceedings to direct a reference to aid it in determin-

---

Allen, 15 R. I. 32, 23 A. 35, 2 Am. St. Rep. 844.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1509; L.R.A.1918D, 835.

In this class of cases there is a preliminary inquiry by the court as to whether the dispute is in good faith and meritorious, and only if it is found to be such is the issue remitted to a jury to determine the amount due. If the court reaches the conclusion, on the preliminary inquiry, that there was bad faith, overreaching, fraud, or dishonesty on the attorney's part, it proceeds summarily to dispose of the matter by order. Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497.

[1] Davies v. Patterson, 132 Ark. 484, 201 S. W. 504, L.R.A.1918D, 825.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1512.

[2] Re Kennedy, 120 Pa. 497, 14 A. 397, 6 Am. St. Rep. 724.

[3] Haden v. Lovett, 133 Ga. 388, 65 S. E. 853, 18 Ann. Cas. 114; Hess v. Conway, 92 Kan. 787, 94 Kan. 246, 142 P. 253, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1580, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681; Re Niagara L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234; Re Kennedy, 120 Pa. 497, 14 A. 397, 6 Am. St. Rep. 724; Windsor v. Brown, 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1514; 18 Ann. Cas. 115; Ann. Cas. 1913B, 236; Ann. Cas. 1916C, 1147.

One who denies that an attorney ever acted for him cannot maintain a summary proceeding to compel delivery by the attorney of papers held under a claim of attorney's lien for services performed, even though the retention is improper, even by offering to pay what is due the attorney under an employment by another litigant. Re Niagara L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234.

[4] Krickau v. Williams, 36 R. I. 85, 89 A. 152, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 1145.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916C, 1147.

The attorney cannot, by consent, confer such jurisdiction on the court. Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 118.

[5] Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 115.

[6] Re Niagara, L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234.

[7] White v. Ward, 157 Ala. 345, 47 So. 166, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 568; Haden v. Lovett, 133 Ga. 388, 65 S. E. 853, 18 Ann. Cas. 114; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Starr v. Vanderheyden, 9 Johns. (N. Y.) 253, 6 Am. Dec. 275; Re Niagara, L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234; Re Kennedy, 120 Pa. 497, 14 A. 397, 6 Am. St. Rep. 724; Anderson v. Bosworth, 15 R. I. 443, 8 A. 339, 2 Am. St. Rep. 910; Windsor v. Brown, 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892.

[8] Hess v. Conway, 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affrmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681.

[9] White v. Ward, 157 Ala. 345, 47 So. 166, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 568; Hess v. Conway, 93 Kan. 246, 144 P. 205, 4 A.L.R. 1587, affirmed in 241 U. S. 624, 60 L. ed. 1211, 36 S. Ct. 681.

An attorney proceeded against summarily under a statute for failure to pay over money collected for his client is not deprived of the right to defend on the merits in case he fails to pay the money into court, by a provision of the statute that he may avoid interest and penalty by payment of the money into court to await judgment. White v. Ward, 157 Ala. 345, 47 So. 166, 18 L.R.A.(N.S.) 568.

[10] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A, 201, Ann. Cas. 1812B, 181.

ing disputed questions,[11] and it may create a committee to assist it in the investigation of the complaint, though it cannot delegate any of its own powers to such committee. It cannot empower such committee to compel the attendance before it of parties or witnesses, or to administer a binding oath to those who do appear before it.[12]

A summary proceeding against an attorney to compel him to pay over money collected for his client is not equivalent to an action of debt or assumpsit, or a substitute for the ordinary action of money had and received; it is quasi criminal or penal in character.[13]

The order in a summary proceeding against an attorney is a final determination of his rights and should be granted with great caution[14] and only where it cannot be reasonably disputed that there has been misconduct on his part,[15]—where the case is free of reasonable doubt.[16]

If an attorney has a lien upon funds in his hands for his disbursements and professional fees, the court will deny a motion that he pay the money into court,[17] but the attorney cannot defeat the summary jurisdiction of the court by a mere unsupported allegation that he retains the money for legal services and expenses.[18]

The court does not undertake primarily to settle the rights and credits of the parties, but only to require that its officers do not make illegal exactions or deny to clients their indisputable rights.[19] But while it is not the province of the court to adjust accounts between counsel and client or to collect disputed claims for clients against attorneys, it will, nevertheless, to enforce good faith and fair dealing, require the attorney to pay so much as is beyond dispute.[20]

VIII. LIABILITY OF ATTORNEY TO THIRD PERSONS

§ 147. Generally.—An attorney is not ordinarily liable to third persons for the acts of his client[1] or for his own acts, committed in the exercise of his proper functions as attorney, pertinent to the matter in question.[2] An attorney is liable only to his client for negligence in the conduct of his professional duties, arising only from ignorance or want of care. Exceptions to this general rule, if they may be in strictness deemed such, are made where the attorney has been guilty of fraud or collusion, or where he has been guilty of a malicious or tortious act. Where, however, neither of these elements enters into the transaction, the rule is universal that for an injury arising from mere negligence, however gross, there must exist, between the party inflicting the injury and the one injured, some privity, by contract or otherwise, by reason of which the former owes some legal duty to the latter,[3] unless the act is one imminently dangerous to the lives of others or one performed in the pursuance of some legal duty.[4] Ordinarily an action will not lie against an attorney to recover money collected by him on a judgment or court order, subsequently determined to be erroneous, and paid over to his client prior to the reversal, where no fraud or contempt is shown in the procurement of the erroneous judgment or order.[5] However, an action for money had and received may be sustained against him if he still retains the money in his possession, even though it is retained in payment of a debt due from the client to him.[6]

---

[11] Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1514; L.R.A. 1918D, 839.

[12] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.

[13] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Davies v. Patterson, 132 Ark. 484, 201 S. W. 504, L.R.A. 1918D, 825.

[14] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181.
Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 855.

[15] Peirce v. Palmer, 31 R. I. 432, 77 A. 201, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 181; Burns v. Allen, 15 R. I. 32, 23 A. 35, 2 Am. St. Rep. 844.

[16] Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1505; L.R.A. 1918D, 835.

[17] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992.
One cannot secure a summary order for the delivery, by an attorney not employed by him, of papers upon which the attorney claims a lien for services, by offering to pay what is due the attorney under an employment by another litigant. Re Niagara, L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234.

[18] Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 834.

[19] Burns v. Allen, 15 R. I. 32, 23 A. 35, 2 Am. St. Rep. 844.

[20] Windsor v. Brown, 15 R. I. 182, 9 A. 135, 2 Am. St. Rep. 892.
Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1508.

[1] Anderson v. Canaday, 37 Okla. 171, 131 P. 697, L.R.A.1915A, 1186, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 714.

[2] Waugh v. Dibbens, 61 Okla. 221, 160 P. 589, L.R.A.1917B, 360.

Of course, where an attorney is actuated by malicious motives or shares the illegal motives of his client, he is personally liable with the client for damage sustained by a third person,[7] and if he acts, without authority, to the injury of a third person, he is liable.[8]

The questions of the liability of an attorney, acting in behalf of his client, for procuring the arrest or detention of a third person,[9] and of his liability for malicious prosecution,[10] are discussed under other titles in this work. The question of his liability for the wrongful levy of an execution or attachment is discussed in the succeeding section.

§ 148. Wrongful Execution or Attachment.—An attorney is liable to third persons for damages for causing an execution or attachment to be issued only when he acts dishonestly or with some sinister view or improper purpose of his own which in law amounts to malice.[11] He does not, ordinarily, make himself liable as a trespasser by communicating to the sheriff, on behalf of his client, instructions to levy execution upon specified property afterwards proved not to be property of the execution debtor, or by executing, in his client's name and by his authority, a bond indemnity to the sheriff,[12] although he may become liable under certain circumstances.[13]

---

[3] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621; Buckley v. Gray, 110 Cal. 339, 42 P. 900, 31 L.R.A. 862, 52 Am. St. Rep. 88; Roddy v. Missouri P. R. Co. 104 Mo. 234, 15 S. W. 1112, 12 L.R.A. 746, 24 Am. St. Rep. 333; Lowall v. Groman, 180 Pa. 532, 37 A. 98, 57 Am. St. Rep. 662.

Re Fitzpatrick, 54 Ont. L. Rep. 3, 13 B. R. C. 145, [1924] 1 D. L. R. 981.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 45; 13 B. R. C. 152.

The fact that through ignorance an attorney gives his client bad advice, on which he acts to the hurt of another, will not make the attorney liable to that other. Anderson v. Canaday, 37 Okla. 171, 131 P. 697, L.R.A.1915A, 118, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 714.

An attorney is not liable to the son of a testatrix for gross negligence in so drawing the will as not to carry out her desires in the disposition of her property, even though the son suffers great pecuniary loss thereby. Buckley v. Gray, 110 Cal. 339, 42 P. 900, 31 L.R.A. 862.

[4] National Sav. Bank v. Ward, 100 U. S. 195, 25 L. ed. 621.

[5] Holland v. McGill, 107 Fla. 444, 145 So. 210, 87 A.L.R. 171.

Annotation: 87 A.L.R. 174.

[6] Annotation: 87 A.L.R. 175, 176.

[7] Anderson v. Canaday, 37 Okla. 171, 131 P. 697, L.R.A.1915A, 1186, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 714.

An attorney of one of the parties in an arbitration proceeding, who fraudulently conspires with the arbitrators to bring about an unjust award in favor of his client, is liable to the party injured although the judgment on the award remains unreversed. Hoosac Tunnel Dock & Elevator Co. v. O'Brien, 137 Mass. 424, 50 Am. Rep. 323.

[8] Harshey v. Blackmarr, 20 Iowa, 161, 89 Am. Dec. 520; Marvel v. Manouvrier, 14 La. Ann. 3, 74 Am. Dec. 424; McEachern v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 652, 36 P. 690, 40 Am. St. Rep. 922.

Annotation: 88 A.L.R. 34.

[9] See False Imprisonment [Also 11 R. C. L. p. 809, § 22].

[10] See Malicious Prosecution [Also 18 R. C. L. p. 63, § 44].

[11] Annotation: 87 A.L.R. 178.

If an attorney so fraudulently manipulates an execution, levy, and sale in the enforcement of a judgment procured for his client as to enable himself, as purchaser at the judicial sale, to procure in himself title to the property for a grossly inadequate consideration, he is liable to a suit by the judgment debtor to set the sale aside. Byers v. Surget, 19 How. (U. S.) 303, 15 L. ed. 670.

[12] Ford v. Williams, 13 N. Y. 577, 67 Am. Dec. 83.

[13] Vail v. Lewis, 4 Johns. (N. Y.) 450, 4 Am. Dec. 300.

§ 149. On Contracts Made in Interest of Client.—The general principle of agency, that a contract executed by an agent acting within the scope of his authority, on behalf of his principal, imposes no personal liability upon the agent unless credit is given expressly and exclusively to the agent, who intends to assume personal liability,[14] is, generally speaking, applicable to contracts executed by attorneys on behalf of their clients,[15] although there is authority holding the contrary view where the attorney gives no express notice of his agency.[16] Some authorities hold the attorney personally responsible on an implied contract for the fees of a sheriff, constable, bailiff, marshal, or clerk on writs delivered to such an officer for service, execution, or entry,[17] as well as for fees of examiners;[18] others deny all liability, in the absence of circumstances indicating a contrary intention[19] or of a custom making him liable,[20] even where the attorney indorses his name as such on the back of the writ.[1] It has been held that the attorney is not personally liable for the expenses and fees of witnesses,[2] referees, commissioners,[3] court stenographers,[4] and expert accountants,[5] or for the expense of taking photographs[6] or of printing briefs, abstracts, and cases and points on appeal,[7] in the absence of an express stipulation, custom, or conduct implying that the attorney will pay such expenses.[8]

Of course, the attorney is bound as any other agent if he expressly undertakes to be liable personally[9] for such incidental expenses of an action.[10] Also, under the general principles of agency,[11] he is personally liable upon contracts entered into without disclosure of the fact that he was acting for a client,[12] or where he contracts without authority to do so.[13]

An attorney who knows that the property against which the levy is directed is claimed by a third person, and who has received from his client a sum of money to reimburse the officer for any loss he might sustain from the attachment, is to be regarded as personally requesting the service and personally liable to reimburse the officer if the levy turns out to be wrongful. Higgins v. Russo, 72 Conn. 238, 43 A. 1050, 77 Am. St. Rep. 307.

[14] See AGENCY, Vol. 2, p. 247, § 315.

[15] Right Printing Co. v. Stevens, 107 Vt. 359, 179 A. 209, 100 A.L.R. 528; Wires v. Briggs, 5 Vt. 101, 26 Am. Dec. 284.
Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 534.

[16] Judd & Detweiler v. Gittings, 43 App. D. C. 304, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 518.
Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 537.

[17] Higgins v. Russo, 72 Conn. 238, 43 A. 1050, 77 Am. St. Rep. 307; Heath v. Bates, 49 Conn. 342, 44 Am. Rep. 234; Tilton v. Wright, 74 Me. 214, 43 Am. Rep. 578.
Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 539; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 521.

Accordingly, an attorney is responsible to the clerk of the court for the fees on writs handed by him to such clerk for entry. Writs are usually handed to the sheriff for service and to the clerks of courts for entry, by the attorney by whom they were made. The attorney has a lien on the judgment recovered, for his fees and disbursements included in the taxable bill of costs, which embraces both the service of the writ and the entry of the action. Neither the sheriff nor the clerk is obliged to perform the services required without a prepayment of his respective fees, and when the sheriff serves and the clerk enters the action without prepayment, a promise on the part of the attorney to pay each his respective dues may be reasonably inferred unless notice to the contrary be seasonably given. The same rule has been held to apply with regard to the fees of masters, registers, and other officers of courts of record. Tilton v. Wright, 74 Me. 214, 43 Am. Rep. 578.

[18] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 545; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 524.

[19] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 542; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 521.

[20] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 523.

[1] Wires v. Briggs, 5 Vt. 101, 26 Am. Dec. 284.

[2] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 544; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 523; 11 Eng. Rul. Cas. 175.

[3] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 545; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 524.

[4] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 546 (citing cases on each side of the question); Ann. Cas. 1917B, 525; 11 Eng. Rul. Cas. 175.

[5] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 546; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 525.

[6] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 526.

[7] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 547; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 526 (also citing contrary authority).

[8] Judd & Detweiler v. Gittings, 43 App. D. C. 304, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 518; Right Printing Co. v. Stevens, 107 Vt. 359, 179 A. 209, 100 A.L.R. 528.
Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 547; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 525.

[9] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 537.

[10] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917B, 520.

[11] See AGENCY, Vol. 2, p. 250, § 319, p. 316, § 404.

[12] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 538.

[13] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 539.

§ 150. Liability, as Purchaser or Assignee, to Equities against Client.—An attorney who takes money or property from his client in payment of his fees,[14] or a mortgage to secure his fees, knowing of the existence of a claim against such money or property, takes subject to such prior claim,[15] and if he purchases at a judicial sale under execution of his client's judgment, the law imputes to him knowledge of defects in the legal proceedings, and his title falls with the reversal of the judgment[16] or the invalidation of the proceedings.[17] An attorney who purchases property of his client pendente lite cannot be a bona fide purchaser as against the opposite party.[18]

§ 151. Liability to Assistant Counsel or Law Clerk for Compensation.—An attorney is responsible for the fees of associate or assistant counsel employed by him, especially when such counsel are employed without authority from his client,[19] and he is liable to an action to recover such fees or a just share of the compensation received from the client.[20] An associate or assistant counsel has a lien for his services upon the fund received by his employer as compensation from the client, under an agreement that he shall receive a percentage of the fee in payment for his assistance, and he may intervene in an action by the employer to recover such fee or to protect his interest therein.[1]

The rule that one not admitted to the practice of law cannot recover for legal services rendered by him to a client does not preclude a law clerk from recovering from his employer, or the latter's personal representative, compensation for work done at his employer's request, even though it was work which the clerk could not legally perform.[2]

§ 152. Liability to Layman for Procuring Employment.—A contract by an attorney to divide fees with a third person if the latter will procure or assist in procuring litigation or employment for him is contrary to public policy, and, as a general rule, no recovery can be had against the attorney for services rendered under any such contract.[3] However, some courts allow a recovery

---

[14] Puffer v. Hazzard, 240 Mass. 195, 133 N. E. 109, 19 A.L.R. 63.

[15] Senneff v. Brackey, 165 Iowa, 525, 146 N. W. 24, 1 A.L.R. 978.

[16] Galpin v. Page, 18 Wall. (U. S.) 350, 21 L. ed. 959; Johnson v. McKinnon, 54 Fla. 221, 45 So. 23, 13 L.R.A.(N.S.) 874, 127 Am. St. Rep. 135, 14 Ann. Cas. 180; Stroud v. Casey, 25 Tex. 740, 78 Am. Dec. 556; Singly v. Warren, 18 Wash. 434, 51 P. 1066, 63 Am. St. Rep. 896.

Annotation: 29 A.L.R. 1086; 14 Ann. Cas. 185.

An attorney who has prepared deeds of trust and has been consulted as to the purposes for which they were made cannot afterwards, on purchasing the land included therein on an execution sale, maintain a suit to set aside such deeds as fraudulent. Davis v. Kline, 96 Mo. 401, 9 S. W. 724, 2 L.R.A. 78.

[17] Schroeder v. Young, 161 U. S. 334, 40 L. ed. 721, 16 S. Ct. 512.

[18] Gay v. Parpart, 106 U. S. 679, 27 L. ed. 256, 1 S. Ct. 456.

[19] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 546.

[20] Robertson v. Gordon, 226 U. S. 311, 57 L. ed. 236, 33 S. Ct. 105; Owen v. Dudley, 217 U. S. 488, 54 L. ed. 851, 30 S. Ct. 602.

[1] Barnes v. Alexander, 232 U. S. 117, 58 L. ed. 530, 34 S. Ct. 276.

[2] Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 288.

[3] Meguire v. Corwine, 101 U. S. 108, 25 L. ed. 899; Alpers v. Hunt, 86 Cal. 78, 24 P. 846, 9 L.R.A. 483, 21 Am. St. Rep. 17; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Holland v. Sheehan, 108 Minn. 362, 122 N. W. 1, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 510, 17 Ann. Cas. 687; Langdon v. Conlin, 67 Neb. 243, 93 N. W. 389, 60 L.R.A. 429, 108 Am. St. Rep. 643, 2 Ann. Cas. 834; Waychoff v. Waychoff, 309 Pa. 300, 163 A. 670, 86 A.L.R. 190; Goodier v. Hamilton, 172 Wash. 60, 19 P. (2d) 392, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 86 A.L.R. 195; L.R.A.1917B, 1130; 2 Ann. Cas. 836; 17 Ann. Cas. 690.

Such an agreement with one who is not an attorney at law is especially void as against public policy where the statutes provide for disbarring attorneys who lend their names to be used in legal proceedings by persons who are not attorneys. Alpers v. Hunt, 86 Cal. 78, 24 P. 846, 9 L.R.A. 483, 21 Am. St. Rep. 17.

In some jurisdictions it is provided that before any allowance of attorneys' fees shall be made by the court, such court shall be fully satisfied by the affidavit of the attorney engaged in the cause that there has been, and is, no agreement, express or implied, between the attorney and any other thereon by the layman, holding that he is not in pari delicto with the attorney.[4]

IX. COMPENSATION OF ATTORNEYS

A. Right to Compensation

§ 153. Generally.—In England the profession of an advocate is regarded as merely honorary, and he cannot sustain a suit for his fee, which is considered as a gift or honorarium;[5] solicitors or attorneys are not, however, prohibited from recovering professional fees by suit,[6] and according to some decisions, the incapacity of the barrister to contract for fees is apparently confined to contracts concerning advocacy in litigation.[7] The English rule does not prevail in the United States, and it is almost universally conceded by the courts of the various states that all lawyers are entitled to compensation for services rendered to their clients and that in the absence of an express agreement as to the amount of compensation which they are to receive, they are entitled to a reasonable compensation for the services rendered.[8] Moreover, this right of an attorney to compensation for his services is not dependent upon whether such services have been beneficial to his client.[9] The employment of counsel is held not to differ in its incidents, or in the rules governing it, from the employment of an agent in any capacity or business.[10] Generally no distinction is made between solicitors or attorneys and counsel or barristers.[11] In New Jersey, however, an attorney is entitled to compensation person except a practising attorney engaged with him as attorney in the cause, for any division or sharing of the fee to be taxed; and no fee shall be taxed except in favor of a regular attorney and in compensation for services actually rendered in the cause. In such cases the filing of the required affidavit is a condition precedent to the allowance of an attorney's fee. Fletcher v. Kelly, 88 Iowa, 475, 55 N. W. 474, 21 L.R.A. 347.

---

As to the effect of such an agreement upon the attorney's right to compensation, see infra, § 218.

[4] Irwin v. Curie, 171 N. Y. 409, 64 N. E. 161, 58 L.R.A. 830.

Annotation: 86 A.L.R. 197; L.R.A.1917B, 1130; 2 Ann. Cas. 836; 17 Ann. Cas. 690.

[5] Kennedy v. Broun, 13 C. B. N. S. 677, 143 Eng. Reprint, 268, 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 789.

Annotation: 127 Am. St. Rep. 843; 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 801.

A similar rule prevailed under the Roman law in ancient times but later, while no promise to pay was implied from the fact of the rendition of the service, yet an express promise of the client to pay was enforceable. In modern times, however, the civil law permits an advocate to recover for his services. Annotation: 127 Am. St. Rep. 841, 842.

[6] Annotation: 127 Am. St. Rep. 844.

[7] Kennedy v. Broun, 13 C. B. N. S. 677, 143 Eng. Reprint, 268, 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 789.

Annotation: 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 801.

[8] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Re Cutler, 204 Iowa, 739, 212 N. W. 573, 217 N. W. 448, 54 A.L.R. 527; Reece v. Kyle, 49 Ohio St. 475, 31 N. E. 747, 16 L.R.A. 723; Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960; Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, 23 Am. Dec. 149; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829; Watson v. Johnson, 174 Wash. 12, 24 P. (2d) 592, 89 A.L.R. 1527.

Annotation: 127 Am. St. Rep. 844.

The English rule was formerly recognized in Pennsylvania, but it has long since been set aside by the courts of that state. Annotation: 127 Am. St. Rep. 852.

Statutes in some states have abrogated the common-law rule with respect to the right of attorneys to compensation for their services. State v. National Surety Co. 29 Idaho, 670, 161 P. 1026, 2 A.L.R. 251.

[9] Shouse v. Consolidated Flour Mills Co. 132 Kan. 108, 294 P. 657, citing R. C. L.; Re Freshour, 174 Mich. 114, 140 N. W. 517, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 67, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 726; Kanneberg v. Evangelical Creed Congregation, 146 Wis. 610, 131 N. W. 353, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 138, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 376.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912C, 380 (attorney employed by majority stockholders of corporation in suit resulting favorably to minority).

An attorney filing a chattel mortgage with an assignee for creditors of the mortgagor and proving up after filing the proper affidavit, is entitled to have attorneys' fees taxed as provided in the notes which the mortgage secures. Re Cutler, 204 Iowa, 739, 212 N. W. 573, 217 N. W. 448, 54 A.L.R. 527.

[10] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960; 127 Am. St. Rep. 846.

[11] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas.

for services as an advocate only when there is an express contract to pay therefor; in the absence of such a contract, his services are presumed to be gratuitous.[12] In New Jersey, however, a distinction is drawn between the services of a lawyer in the capacity of an attorney at law, and those rendered by him as an advocate, and it is held that he may recover for his services in the former capacity.[13]

Other titles discuss the right of an attorney to compensation for services rendered to persons under disability, such as infants or insane persons,[14] or for services rendered to persons acting in a representative or fiduciary capacity, such as executors and administrators, guardians, and trustees.[15]

§ 154. Necessity of Employment or Retainer.—The right of an attorney at law to demand payment for his services depends on the fact of employment. He cannot recover from one who did not employ him or authorize his employment by the person who did employ him, however valuable the result of his services may have been to such person.[16] Thus, the client is not liable for the fees of other counsel employed by his attorney unless he authorizes or ratifies such employment.[17] Acceptance of, or acquiescence in, the services rendered by an attorney may, however, raise an implied promise to pay therefor, which will supply the place of a contract of employment.[18] It has accordingly been held that if an attorney has rendered valuable services to one who has received the benefit thereof, a promise to pay their reasonable value is presumed, unless the circumstances show that such services were intended to be gratuitous.[19] However, the party sought to be charged must be free to take or reject the benefit of such services,[20] and the acquiescence must be such as presumed volition on his part; circumstances giving one no choice but to accept the benefits of the attorney's services are not sufficient.[1]

§ 155. —Liability of Third Person Benefited by Attorney's Services to Another.—The mere fact that the services which an attorney renders his client are beneficial to a third person, as where services rendered for a corporate

---

1917C, 867; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

[12] Schomp v. Schenck, 40 N. J. L. 195, 29 Am. Rep. 219; Bentley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 75 N. J. L. 828, 69 A. 202, 127 Am. St. Rep. 837, 15 Ann. Cas. 1178.

[13] Schomp v. Schenck, 40 N. J. L. 195, 29 Am. Rep. 219.

[14] See INFANTS [Also 14 R. C. L. p. 213]; INSANE AND OTHER INCOMPETENT PERSONS [Also 14 R. C. L. p. 546].

[15] See EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS [Also 11 R. C. L. p. 233, § 260]; GUARDIAN AND WARD [Also 12 R. C. L. p. 1135, § 32]; TRUSTS [Also 26 R. C. L. p. 1340, § 205].

[16] Orwig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 217 Iowa, 521, 250 N. W. 148, 90 A.L.R. 258; O'Doherty v. Bickel, 166 Ky. 708, 179 S. W. 848, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 419; Louisiana & N. W. R. Co. v. Athens Lumber Co. 134 La. 788, 64 So. 714, L.R.A.1915B, 856; Forman v. Sewerage & Water Bd. 119 La. 49, 43 So. 908, 12 Ann. Cas. 773; Roselius v. Delachaise, 5 La. Ann. 481, 52 Am. Dec. 597; Higginson v. Fall River, 226 Mass. 423, 115 N. E. 764, 2 A.L.R. 1209 (unauthorized employment by city officer); Re Baxter, 94 Mont. 257, 22 P. (2d) 182; Fields v. Fields, 139 Or. 41, 7 P. (2d) 975, citing R. C. L.; Re Gratton, 136 Or. 224, 298 P. 231, 79 A.L.R. 517; Re Failing, 113 Or. 6, 228 P. 821, 231 P. 148, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 773; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 423.

[17] Orwig v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 217 Iowa, 521, 250 N. W. 148, 90 A.L.R. 258; Bentley v. Fidelity & D. Co. 75 N. J. L. 828, 69 A. 202, 127 Am. St. Rep. 837, 15 Ann. Cas. 1178.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 268, 269.

[18] O'Doherty v. Bickel, 166 Ky. 708, 179 S. W. 848, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 419; Follmer v. State, 94 Neb. 217, 142 N. W. 908, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 151.

[19] Young v. Bruere, 78 Cal. App. 127, 248 P. 301, citing R. C. L.; Taussig v. St. Louis & K. R. Co. 166 Mo. 28, 65 S. W. 969, 89 Am. St. Rep. 674.

If a receiver permits without objection the continuation of a suit by an attorney employed by the debtor, such attorney is entitled to a just compensation. City Bank v. Bryan, 76 W. Va. 481, 86 S. E. 8, L.R.A. 1915F, 1219.

[20] Re Hamilton, 96 Mont. 551, 33 P. (2d) 258, citing R. C. L.; Parshley v. Third Methodist Church, 147 N. Y. 583, 42 N. E. 15, 30 L.R.A. 574.

[1] O'Doherty v. Bickel, 166 Ky. 708, 179 S. W. 848, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 419.

officer benefit the corporation[2] or those rendered for certain stockholders who have employed an attorney benefit other stockholders,[3] does not entitle the attorney to recover compensation from the person or persons thus benefited.[4] Even though, where an attorney represents a party to a suit, a presumption arises that the services are rendered with the consent of the party, if more than one party is interested in the suit, it does not follow from the fact that the attorney is employed by one of the parties and acts in the case with the knowledge of the other parties that the latter, in order to escape liability, should inform the attorney that they will not consider themselves liable.[5] Nor will a client who engages an attorney and pays his compensation be allowed to recover from the person benefited by the attorney's services a proportionate share of such compensation[6] in the absence of anything showing an express agreement to share the expenses of counsel, that the person benefited had knowledge of and accepted the services of the attorney so retained,[7] as in the case of a newly formed corporation which accepts the benefits of legal services performed by an attorney engaged by the promoters,[8] or that the attorney conducted the litigation for the benefit not only of the client who employed him, but of all claimants who should contribute to the expenses of the litigation, and with the understanding that he should receive fees from such persons.[9]

§ 156. Right of Unlicensed Attorney to Fees.—The great weight of authority is to the effect that compensation for strictly legal services cannot be recovered by one who has not been admitted to practice before the court or in the jurisdiction where the services were rendered.[10] Under this rule, a partnership consisting of a duly licensed attorney and an unlicensed attorney cannot maintain a joint action for legal services.[11] According to some decisions one not admitted or licensed to practice in the state where services are performed and recovery sought cannot, where he has held himself out as qualified to practice in that state, recover notwithstanding that he is a duly admitted attorney in another state.[12] In this connection, it is to be noted that the courts of one state generally permit attorneys of other states to appear on the trial or argument of cases.[13] Moreover, a statute which merely provides that a person not admitted to practice, who represents himself to be a licensed attorney shall be punished does not bar a recovery by a licensed attorney of a foreign state for legal services rendered in the domestic state where he first informed his client that he was not admitted in the local state and that it would also be necessary to have a local counsel to appear of record.[14] And, of course, where the services are not performed in a court of record and are of a character the performance of which would not constitute the practice of law, an unlicensed person may recover therefor.[15]

---

[2] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 423.

An attorney may not have an express contract with the promoters of a corporation that they, in consideration of his assisting to accomplish their scheme, will make him the permanent attorney of the company, and at the same time have an implied contract with the company for payment for the same services. Sullivan v. Detroit, Y. & A. A. R. Co. 135 Mich. 661, 98 N. W. 756, 64 L.R.A. 673, 106 Am. St. Rep. 403.

[3] O'Doherty v. Bickel, 166 Ky. 708, 179 S. W. 848, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 419.

[4] Ibid.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 423.

[5] Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 776.

[6] Louisiana & N. W. R. Co. v. Athens Lumber Co. 134 La. 788, 64 So. 714, L.R.A. 1915B, 856.

Where parties take upon themselves the defense of a suit, after notifying the real defendant of the pendency of the action, they must pay their attorneys' fees. Gaines v. Poor, 3 Met. (Ky.) 503, 79 Am. Dec. 559.

[7] Annotation: L.R.A.1915B, 856.

[8] Ramsey v. Brooke County Bldg. & L. Asso. 102 W. Va. 119, 135 S. E. 249, 49 A.L.R. 668.

[9] Central R. & Bkg. Co. v. Pettus, 113 U. S. 116, 28 L. ed. 915, 5 S. Ct. 387.

[10] Creditors Nat. Clearing House v. Bannwart, 227 Mass. 579, 116 N. E. 886, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 130 (corporation engaged in law practice); Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1088, s. 30 A.L.R. 851, and 42 A.L.R. 1228; 12 L.R.A.(N.S.) 614; 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 751.

A law clerk not admitted to practice cannot recover from his employer's estate for legal services rendered to such estate. Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

In the absence of a statutory provision or rule of court prohibiting it, however, a person properly qualified and practicing as an attorney may recover for legal services rendered, even though he may not have been formally admitted to practice in the court where the services were rendered. Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1087, s. 30 A.L.R. 851, and 42 A.L.R. 1228.

[11] Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1090, s. 30 A.L.R. 851, and 42 A.L.R. 1228; 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 394; 12 L.R.A. (N.S.) 614; 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 751.

[12] Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1088, s. 30 A.L.R. 851, and 42 A.L.R. 1228.

§ 157. Attorneys Appointed to Defend Indigents or Prosecute Disbarment Proceedings.—According to the great weight of authority, an attorney assigned or appointed by the court to defend or assist in the defense of an indigent accused[16] cannot recover compensation from the public for his services in the absence of a statute providing therefor.[17] An attorney, being an officer of the court, like other officers takes his office cum onere; one of the burdens of such office, which custom has recognized, is the gratuitous service rendered to a poor person at the suggestion of the court.[18] In such a requirement, according to the majority view, there is no violation of the constitutional prohibition against the taking of property without compensation or without due process of law; nor does the constitutional guaranty of the right of an accused to be heard by counsel impose any liability on the part of the national, state, or county government rendering it liable for the fees of counsel thus assigned.[19]

Some courts, however, take the position that an attorney is under no obligation to render gratuitous services for an indigent defendant in a criminal case[20] and cannot be required by statute to do so.[21] In these jurisdictions, where, in pursuance of statute, an attorney is appointed to defend an indigent person and has performed services in the defense of such person, the county must pay for such services.[22]

Whether or not an attorney for an indigent defendant is entitled to compensation for services rendered on an appeal from a conviction depends upon the provisions of the statute;[1] some statutes are held broad enough to include such services.[2]

---

[13] See supra, § 16.

[14] Brooks v. Volunteer Harbor, A. A. M. M. P. 233 Mass. 168, 123 N. E. 511, 4 A.L.R. 1086.

[15] Annotation: 4 A.L.R. 1087, s. 30 A.L.R. 851, and 42 A.L.R. 1228.

[16] See supra, § 33.

[17] Case v. Shawnee County, 4 Kan. 511, 96 Am. Dec. 190; Dismukes v. Noxubee County, 58 Miss. 612, 38 Am. Rep. 339; Wayne County v. Waller, 90 Pa. 99, 35 Am. Rep. 636; Pardee v. Salt Lake County, 39 Utah, 482, 118 P. 122, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 200.

Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377; 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 528; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 206.

Generally, as to attorneys' claims against the state for fees, see annotation: 42 L.R.A. 51.

The power to provide compensation under such circumstances rests with the legislatures, and not the courts. Pardee v. Salt Lake County, 39 Utah, 482, 118 P. 122, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 200.

[18] Wayne County v. Waller, 90 Pa. 99, 35 Am. Rep. 636.

Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 378.

[19] Pardee v. Salt Lake County, 39 Utah, 482, 118 P. 122, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 377, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 200.

Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 380; 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1196; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 206.

[20] Hyatt v. Hamilton County, 121 Iowa, 292, 96 N. W. 855, 63 L.R.A. 614, 100 Am. St. Rep. 354; Dane County v. Smith, 13 Wis. 585, 80 Am. Dec. 754.

Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 381; 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527; 17 Ann. Cas. 333; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 207.

[21] Clay County v. McGregor, 171 Ind. 634, 87 N. E. 1, 17 Ann. Cas. 333; Dane County v. Smith, 13 Wis. 585, 80 Am. Dec. 754.

An attorney cannot be compelled, under penalty of disbarment or of being in contempt, to render gratuitous services for a pauper defendant in a criminal case. Clay County v. McGregor, 171 Ind. 634, 87 N. E. 1, 17 Ann. Cas. 333.

[22] Hyatt v. Hamilton County, 121 Iowa, 292, 96 N. W. 855, 63 L.R.A. 614, 100 Am. St. Rep. 354; Dane County v. Smith, 13 Wis. 585, 80 Am. Dec. 754.

Annotation: 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 383; 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527.

An attorney appointed by the court to act for the public in the prosecution of disbarment proceedings is entitled to reasonable compensation, to be paid by the county in which his services are performed, where the statute requiring such service is silent upon the subject of compensation;[3] but he is not so entitled where the statute expressly prohibits the allowance of compensation for the services thus rendered, no constitutional right of an attorney being infringed by such a statute.[4]

§ 158. Right to Retaining Fee.—A "retainer" or "retaining fee" is a preliminary fee given to secure the services of the solicitor or attorney and to induce him to act for the client.[5] The proper scope and application of the right to charge retainers are to remunerate counsel for being deprived, by being retained for one party, of the opportunity of rendering services for, and receiving pay from, the other party to the action.[6]

The Canadian courts have held that a retaining fee from a client to his solicitor is a mere gratuity. Thus, a promise to pay such a fee is without consideration, and the solicitor has no right to deduct the amount from funds of the client that may come into his hands.[7] In this country, however, there is apparently no question as to the validity of a contract to pay a retaining fee; and if such an agreement is made, the attorney is entitled to the retainer in addition to compensation for the services rendered.[8] According to some decisions, he may recover the agreed retaining fee regardless of the rendition of the contemplated services.[9] Other courts hold, however, that he cannot recover it if he does not actually perform the services contemplated.[10]

With regard to whether an attorney, in the absence of an express agreement, on being employed generally or to prosecute or defend a suit, or a series of suits, has the right to charge a retaining fee, the decisions are in conflict. According to the view taken by some courts, no special contract is necessary to entitle an attorney actually retained in a suit to charge a reasonable retainer, but in proper cases such a contract may be implied[11] and the fee may be recovered under the common counts.[12] Other courts, however, take the view that an agreement to pay a retaining fee is not to be implied.[13]

A distinction between the implied right of the attorney to his retaining

---

[1] Annotation: 100 A.L.R. 331.

[2] State v. Hudson, — R. I. —, 179 A. 130, 100 A.L.R. 313.

[3] Hyatt v. Hamilton County, 121 Iowa, 292, 96 N. W. 855, 63 L.R.A. 614, 100 Am. St. Rep. 354.

[4] Brown v. Warren County, 156 Iowa, 20, 135 N. W. 4, 137 N. W. 474, 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 185.

Annotation: 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1196; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 187.

[5] Pickens Co. v. Thomas, 152 Ga. 648, 111 S. E. 27, 21 A.L.R. 1438.

Re Solicitor, 22 Ont. L. Rep. 30, 19 Ann. Cas. 488.

Annotation: 19 Ann. Cas. 489.

[6] Pickens Co. v. Thomas, 152 Ga. 648, 111 S. E. 27, 21 A.L.R. 1438; McLellan v. Hayford, 72 Me. 410, 39 Am. Rep. 343.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.

[7] Re Solicitor, 22 Ont. L. Rep. 30, 19 Ann. Cas. 488.

[8] Pickens Co. v. Thomas, 152 Ga. 648, 111 S. E. 27, 21 A.L.R. 1438.

[9] Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 1442; 19 Ann. Cas. 489.

An attorney who is retained to transact business for a client and who remains at his office at the client's request for several days to care for such business is entitled to a reasonable retainer fee and reasonable compensation for his time in waiting. Jones v. Brantley, 121 Miss. 721, 83 So. 802, 8 A.L.R. 1353.

[10] Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 1445.

[11] Jones v. Brantley, 121 Miss. 721, 83 So. 802, 8 A.L.R. 1353; Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 1446; 19 L.R.A. (N.S.) 960.

[12] Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 961.

[13] Windett v. Union Mut. L. Ins. Co. 144 U. S. 581, 36 L. ed. 551, 12 S. Ct. 751; Pickens Co. v. Thomas, 152 Ga. 648, 111 S. E. 27, 21 A.L.R. 1438; McLellan v. Hayford, 72 Me. 410, 39 Am. Rep. 343.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 1448; 19 L.R.A. (N.S.) 961; 19 Ann. Cas. 489.

An attorney employed as general counsel fee when not called on to render the services contemplated by his employment and his right to such fee over and above the value of the services which are actually rendered has been drawn by some courts, which have denied the right to the retainer in the latter case.[14] According to other decisions, where an attorney, under the terms of his general employment, debars himself from employment by others whose interests are antagonistic to those of his client so employing him, such service is a proper item of charge in a suit for services rendered under such general employment.[15]

B. Contracts for Compensation

§ 159. Generally.—Before an attorney undertakes the business of a client, he may contract with reference to compensation for his services; no confidential relation then exists and the parties deal with each other at arm's length.[16] Such contracts are not within the rule of presumption against the attorney which obtains in contracts between the attorney and client after the relation has been established.[17] A contract made under such circumstances is as valid and unobjectionable as if made between other persons not occupying fiduciary relations, and who are, in all respects, competent to contract with each other,[18] and it will be upheld and enforced if it is fair and reasonable,[19] is not champertous,[1] or does not for other reasons contravene public policy.[2] If, however, it appears that the contract was induced by fraud or misrepresentation, or that, in view of the nature of the claim, the compensation is so excessive as to evince a purpose on the part of the attorney to obtain an improper or undue advantage over the client, the contract will not be enforced.[3] A doubtful or ambiguous contract for professional services and for the compensation of an attorney who drew it should be construed in favor of the client.[4] for a specified time, without any agreement as to retaining fee, who is to be paid a separate fee for every specific legal service rendered is not entitled, as a matter of right, at the end of his employment to a retaining fee in addition to the fees paid him for the specific services rendered. Pickens Co. v. Thomas, 152 Ga. 648, 111 S. E. 27, 21 A.L.R. 1438;

---

[14] McLellan v. Hayford, 72 Me. 410, 39 Am. Rep. 343.
Annotation: 19 Ann. Cas. 489.

[15] Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.
Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960; 19 Ann. Cas. 489.

[16] Hughes v. Dundee Mortg. & T. Invest. Co. 140 U. S. 98, 35 L. ed. 354, 11 S. Ct. 727; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Roten v. Tesdell, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A.1917B, 378; White v. Burch (Tex. Civ. App.) 33 S. W. (2d) 512, citing R. C. L.; Hubbard v. George, 81 W. Va. 538, 94 S. E. 974, L.R.A.1918C, 835.
Annotation: 36 Am. St. Rep. 415.

[17] Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 412, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Re Howell, 215 N. Y. 466, 109 N. E. 572, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 527 (apparently recognizing the rule).
Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 844.

[18] Dickinson v. Bradford, 59 Ala. 581, 31 Am. Rep. 23; Shirk v. Neible, 156 Ind. 66, 59 N. E. 281, 83 Am. St. Rep. 150; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 412, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Oxborough v. St. Martin, 151 Minn. 514, 187 N. W. 707, 21 A.L.R. 350.
Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 159.
In some jurisdictions it is expressly provided by statute that the measure of the attorney's compensation shall be left to the agreement, express or implied, between him and his client. Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 163, 164.

[19] Baca v. Padilla, 26 N. M. 223, 190 P. 730, 11 A.L.R. 1188.

[1] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

[2] See infra, §§ 176, 177.

[3] Pindall v. Waterman, 84 Ark. 575, 106 S. W. 964, 120 Am. St. Rep. 87 (relief granted by court of equity on the grounds that the contract was unlawful and oppressive, and that an unconscientious advantage had been taken); Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Morehouse v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co. 185 N. Y. 520, 78 N. E. 179, 7 Ann. Cas. 377.

[4] Burho v. Carmichiel, 117 Minn. 211, 135 N. W. 386, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 305; Falloon v. Miles, 102 Neb. 843, 170 N. W. 191, 2 A.L.R. 840.

If an attorney and his client agree upon a conveyance of land involved in the litigation as part or all of the fees, such agreement must be in writing in order to be valid under the statute of frauds.[5]

§ 160. Contracts Made during Existence of Relation of Attorney and Client.—The law does not incapacitate an attorney from contracting with his client for compensation during the existence of the relation of attorney and client; such contracts are not void merely by reason of the existence of that relation, and will be enforced when they are fair and reasonable and are freely and voluntarily executed with full understanding by the client.[6] In a number of jurisdictions the right to enter into such contracts has been specifically recognized by statute.[7] Some courts, however, hold that while the relationship exists, an attorney cannot bind his client in any manner to make him greater compensation for his services than he would have the right to demand if no contract had been made during the existence of the relationship;[8] and all courts agree that if the contract is suspicious, oppressive, or fraudulent,[9] exacts an unreasonable or exorbitant fee,[10] or was made without a fair and full disclosure of the facts on which it is predicated,[11] it cannot be enforced against the client. It is well settled, also, that contracts between attorney and client made after the relation has been established are construed most strongly against the attorney[12] and are regarded with suspicion and jealousy and closely scrutinized by the courts.[13] In many instances they have been declared to be voidable, even though they would be deemed unobjectionable be-

---

[5] Oxborough v. St. Martin, 151 Minn. 514, 187 N. W. 707, 21 A.L.R. 350; Farrin v. Matthews, 62 Or. 517, 124 P. 675, 41 L.R.A. (N.S.) 184; Jackson v. Stearns, 58 Or. 57, 113 P. 30, 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 639, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 284; Lace v. Smith, 34 R. I. 1, 82 A. 268, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 945.

Annotation: 21 A.L.R. 352.

[6] Dickinson v. Bradford, 59 Ala. 581, 31 Am. Rep. 23; Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A. 1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 848; 83 Am. St. Rep. 162; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 531.

[7] Eriksson v. Boyum, 150 Minn. 192, 184 N. W. 961, citing R. C. L.; Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 847; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 531.

[8] Stern v. Hyman, 182 N. C. 422, 109 S. E. 79, 19 A.L.R. 844, holding that a contract between an attorney and his client for a percentage of the recovery in a matter for which the services of the attorney had been engaged was void.

[9] Ware v. Russell, 70 Ala. 174, 45 Am. Rep. 82; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Shirk v. Neible, 156 Ind. 66, 59 N. E. 281, 83 Am. St. Rep. 150; Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 L.R.A. 90.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 853.

An attorney cannot, after the commencement of the relation, lawfully stipulate with his client for excessive fees or take unreasonable securities from him. Shirk v. Neible, 156 Ind. 66, 59 N. E. 281, 83 Am. St. Rep. 150.

[10] Ritz v. Carpenter, 43 S. D. 236, 178 N. W. 877, 19 A.L.R. 840; Cooper v. Bell, 127 Tenn. 142, 153 S. W. 844, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 980.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914B, 983.

[11] Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 L.R.A. 90; Ritz v. Carpenter, 43 S. D. 236, 178 N. W. 877, 19 A.L.R. 840.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 854; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 536.

[12] Re Howell, 215 N. Y. 466, 109 N. E. 572, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 527.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 844.

[13] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Ware v. Russell, 70 Ala 174, 45 Am. Rep. 82; Dickinson v. Bradford, 59 Ala. 581, 31 Am. Rep. 23; Halstead v. Florence Citrus Growers' Asso. 104 Fla. 21, 139 So. 132, citing R. C. L.; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A. 1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197; Moore v. Rochester Weaver Min. Co. 42 Nev. 164, 174 P. 1017, 19 A.L.R. 830; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Re Howell, 215 N. Y. 466, 109 N. E. 572, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 527.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 851; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 533.

The rule restricting recovery under such circumstances is based on the confidential relations existing between attorney and client and is enforced, not on the ground that there has been fraud, but in order to prevent fraud and as a matter of sound tween other parties.[14] In fact, there is a presumption of unfairness and invalidity.[15]

§ 161. —Increasing Attorney's Compensation.—Ordinarily, an agreement made by a client with his counsel, after the latter has been employed, by which the original contract is varied and greater compensation is secured to the counsel is invalid,[16] especially if the additional fee is exorbitant.[17] The attorney cannot exact an increased compensation from his client through the use of information gained in the performance of his duties[18] or, except for the best of reasons, under a threat to withdraw from the case.[19] Moreover, the attorney does not have the legal option to require of the client, as a condition of his further service in a matter for which he was retained without a contract as to compensation, the making of an express contract.[20] When, however, additional services outside the scope of the original employment are contemplated, a contract for additional compensation for such services executed during the existence of the relation of attorney and client is valid and enforceable if it is fair and reasonable and free from fraud and duress,[1] although it has been sometimes held that such contracts should be closely scrutinized.[2] And, of course, the attorney's employment in one suit will not deprive him, while it is pending, of his right to make a contract for compensation for his services in another, or for any other professional business with the same client.[3] An attorney may contract with his client for a special fee in a special case where the client is a corporation which the attorney is serving at a salary which may be changed at the option of the corporation and when the period of the attorney's employment is subject to the same condition.[4]

§ 162. Contracts Made after Completion of Services or Termination of Relation.—A contract between attorney and client as to the compensation which the attorney is to receive for legal services, entered into after the complete performance of those services, is, assuming that the client was fully informed public policy. Stern v. Hyman, 182 N. C. 422, 109 S. E. 79, 19 A.L.R. 844.

---

[14] Ware v. Russell, 70 Ala. 174, 45 Am. Rep. 82; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

[15] See infra, § 189.

[16] Lecatt v. Sallee, 3 Port. (Ala.) 115, 29 Am. Dec. 249; Bailey v. Devine, 123 Ga. 653, 51 S. E. 603, 107 Am. St. Rep. 153; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Thurston v. Travelers Ins. Co. 128 Neb. 141, 258 N. W. 66, citing R. C. L.; Re Howell, 215 N. Y. 466, 109 N. E. 572, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 527; Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539; Colley v. Buie (Tex. Civ. App.) 284 S. W. 702 (reversed on other grounds in (Tex. Com. App.) 291 S. W. 876), citing R. C. L.; Laybourne v. Bray & Shifflett (Tex. Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1159, citing R. C. L.; Hubbard v. George, 81 W. Va. 538, 94 S. E. 974, L.R.A.1918C, 835; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 856; 83 Am. St. Rep. 160; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 549.

[17] Ritz v. Carpenter, 43 S. D. 236, 178 N. W. 877, 19 A.L.R. 840.

[18] Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Tyrrell v. Bank of London, 10 H. L. Cas. 26, 11 Eng. Reprint, 934, 2 Eng. Rul. Cas. 497.

Annotation: 2 Eng. Rul. Cas. 518.

[19] Moore v. Rochester Weaver Min. Co. 42 Nev. 164, 174 P. 1017, 19 A.L.R. 830.

[20] Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 549.

[1] Bartlett v. Odd Fellows' Sav. Bank, 79 Cal. 218, 21 P. 743, 12 Am. St. Rep. 139.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 858; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 538.

A contract for compensation for conducting a suit, made under the belief that no defense would be set up, will not prevent a later agreement for additional compensation after a defense has been made. Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 846.

[2] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 160, 161.

[3] Lecatt v. Sallee, 3 Port. (Ala.) 115, 29 Am. Dec. 249; Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 851; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 533.

[4] Bartlett v. Odd-Fellows' Sav. Bank, 79 Cal. 218, 21 P. 743, 12 Am. St. Rep. 139.

as to the business transacted, valid and enforceable; under such circumstances, the parties deal at arm's length, and they may fix the compensation at whatever figure they think proper.[5] It is not necessary that the client have independent advice if he is in a position to form an entirely free and unfettered judgment.[6]

A contract for a fixed fee may be changed after the death of the client, and a contract between the attorney and the representatives of the estate for a contingent fee may be substituted.[7]

§ 163. Contracts for Contingent Fees.—Contracts between attorney and client for a fee contingent on the success of the litigation [8] are generally recognized as valid and binding,[9] provided they are not obtained by fraud, mistake, undue influence, or suppression of facts on part of the attorney,[10] or there is nothing else in the contract which renders it contrary to public policy,[11] as in the case of contracts solicited by the attorney [12] or which prohibit the client from compromising or settling.[13] The contract is upheld even though made by a public body employing an attorney, provided the fee is reasonable,[14] or even though the fee is contingent upon the collection of claims against the United States[15] or the state,[16] unless prohibited by statute.[17]

---

[5] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Lecatt v. Sallee, 3 Port. (Ala.) 115, 29 Am. Dec. 249; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 850; 83 Am. St. Rep. 159, 160; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 533.

[6] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879.

[7] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 160, 161.

[8] A contingent fee is one which is made to depend upon success or failure in the effort to enforce a supposed right, whether doubtful or not. Miles v. Cheyenne County, 96 Neb. 703, 148 N. W. 959, L.R.A.1917D, 258.

[9] Jeffries v. Mutual L. Ins. Co. 110 U. S. 305, 28 L. ed. 156, 4 S. Ct. 8; McPherson v. Cox, 96 U. S. 404, 24 L. ed. 746; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Goldstone v. State Bar, 214 Cal. 490, 6 P. (2d) 513, 80 A.L.R. 701; Stanton v. Haskin, 1 MacArth. (D. C.) 558, 29 Am. Rep. 612; Sapp v. Davids, 176 Ga. 265, 168 S. E. 62, 85 A.L.R. 1361; Geer v. Frank, 179 Ill. 570, 53 N. E. 965, 45 L.R.A. 110; Re Sylvester, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180; Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729; Shouse v. Consolidated Flour Mills Co. 128 Kan. 174, 277 P. 54, 64 A.L.R. 606; Stevens v. Sheriff, 76 Kan. 124, 90 P. 799, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1153; Bell County Bd. of Edu. v. Lee, 239 Ky. 317, 39 S. W. (2d) 492, citing R. C. L.; Schmitz v. South Covington & C. Street R. Co. 131 Ky. 207, 114 S. W. 1197, 22 L.R.A.(N.S.) 776, 18 Ann. Cas. 1114; Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 411, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Scott v. Harmon, 109 Mass. 237, 12 Am. Rep. 685; Blaisdell v. Ahern, 144 Mass. 393, 11 N. E. 681, 59 Am. Rep. 99; Manning v. Sprague, 148 Mass. 18, 18 N. E. 673, 1 L.R.A. 516, 12 Am. St. Rep. 508; Kelley v. Judge of Recorder's Ct. (Kelley v. Boyne) 239 Mich. 204, 214 N. W. 316, 53 A.L.R. 273; Jones v. Jones, 333 Mo. 478, 63 S. W. (2d) 146, 90 A.L.R. 219; Lipscomb v. Adams, 193 Mo. 530, 91 S. W. 1046, 112 Am. St. Rep. 500; Duke v. Harper, 66 Mo. 51, 27 Am. Rep. 314; Miles v. Cheyenne County, 96 Neb. 703, 148 N. W. 959, L.R.A.1917D, 258; Stroemer v. Van Orsdel, 74 Neb. 132, 103 N. W. 1053, 107 N. W. 125, 4 L.R.A.(N.S.) 212, 121 Am. St. Rep. 713; Schomp v. Schenck, 40 N. J. L. 195, 29 Am. Rep. 219; Baca v. Padilla, 26 N. M. 223, 190 P. 730, 11 A.L.R. 1188; High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391; Rohan v. Johnson, 33 N. D. 179, 156 N. W. 936, L.R.A. 1916E, 64, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 794; Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908; Davy v. Fidelity & C. Ins. Co. 78 Ohio St. 256, 85 N. E. 504, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443, 125 Am. St. Rep. 694; Reece v. Kyle, 49 Ohio St. 475, 31 N. E. 747, 16 L.R.A. 723; Lashley v. Moore, 112 Okla. 198, 240 P. 704, citing R. C. L.; Weaver v. Drake, 79 Okla. 277, 193 P. 45, citing R. C. L.; Re Faling, 113 Or. 6, 228 P. 821, 231 P. 148, citing R. C. L.; Perry v. Dicken, 105 Pa. 83, 51 Am. Rep. 181; Henderson v. Knoxville, 157 Tenn. 477, 9 S. W. (2d) 697, 60 A.L.R. 652; Moyers v. Memphis, 135 Tenn. 263, 186 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 854; Croco v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. 18 Utah, 311, 54 P. 985, 44 L.R.A. 285; Smits v. Hogan, 35 Wash. 290, 77 P. 390, 1 Ann. Cas. 297; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Annotation: 1 L.R.A. 516; 65 L.R.A. 348; 74 Am. St. Rep. 90; 83 Am St. Rep. 170; 112 Am. St. Rep. 510; 1 Ann. Cas. 299.

Contracts for contingent fees are as much for the benefit of the client as of the attorney, especially in cases where the client has a meritorious cause of action, but no means with which to pay for legal services unless he can, with the sanction of law, make a contract for a contingent fee to be paid out of the proceeds of the litigation. Lipscomb v. Adams, 193 Mo. 530, 91 S. W. 1046, 112 Am. St. Rep. 500.

[10] See infra, § 164.

[11] See infra, §§ 164–166.

[12] Kelley v. Judge of Recorder's Ct. (Kelley v. Boyne) 239 Mich. 204, 214 N. W. 316, 53 A.L.R. 273; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A. (N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

[13] Davy v. Fidelity & C. Ins. Co. 78 Ohio St. 256, 85 N. E. 504, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443, 125 Am. St. Rep. 694.

In England, however, contracts for fees contingent upon success are invalid.[18]

§ 164. —Considerations Affecting Validity.—A contract for a contingent fee must be made in good faith, without suppression of facts or of apprehended difficulties, and without undue influence of any sort or degree; and the compensation bargained for must be just and fair, so that the transaction may be characterized throughout by good faith to the client. If the contract is shown to have been obtained by fraud, mistake, or undue influence, if it is so excessive in proportion to the services to be rendered as to be in fact oppressive or extortionate,[19] if the attorney suppresses the facts of the case, or if he uses any unfairness in securing it, the contract will be held invalid.[20] Such a contract cannot, however, be condemned solely because the proportion of the claim to be retained by the attorney is large[1] or because of the fact that the client was not skilled in estimating attorneys' services.[2] It is only when the attorney has taken advantage of the client by reason of his poverty or the surrounding circumstances to exact an unreasonable and unconscionable proportion of such claim that it is condemned.[3] The fact that the case involved less difficulty and work than was believed necessary at the time the fee was fixed will not render the fee unconscionable and unfair.[4] It has been held, however, that a contingent fee is only permitted to attorneys as a reward for skill and diligence exercised in the prosecution of doubtful and litigated claims, and is not allowed for the rendition of mere minor services which any layman or inexperienced attorney might perform, the true measure of which services can be ascertained on a quantum meruit.[5]

---

[14] Shouse v. Consolidated Flour Mills Co. 128 Kan. 174, 277 P. 54, 64 A.L.R. 606; Miles v. Cheyenne County, 96 Neb. 703, 148 N. W. 959, L.R.A.1917D, 258; Moyers v. Memphis, 135 Tenn. 263, 186 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 854.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917D, 263.

[15] Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216, affirming 83 Miss. 365, 35 So. 686, 102 Am. St. Rep. 452; Ball v. Halsell, 161 U. S. 72, 40 L. ed. 622, 16 S. Ct. 554; Taylor v. Bemiss, 110 U. S. 42, 28 L. ed. 64, 3 S. Ct. 441; Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548, 23 L. ed. 983; Wright v. Tebbits, 91 U. S. 252, 23 L. ed. 320; Ralston v. Dunaway, 123 Ark. 12, 184 S. W. 425, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 820; Newman v. Moyers, 47 App. D. C. 102, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 528, modified in 253 U. S. 182, 64 L. ed. 849, 40 S. Ct. 478; Manning v. Sprague, 148 Mass. 18, 18 N. E. 673, 1 L.R.A. 516, 12 Am. St. Rep. 508; Moyers v. Memphis, 135 Tenn. 263, 186 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 854.

Annotation: 1 L.R.A. 516; 13 Am. St. Rep. 299.

An attorney may receive compensation on a contingent basis for services performed before the Internal Revenue Commission in ascertaining his client's tax obligation. Shouse v. Consolidated Flour Mills Co. 128 Kan. 174, 277 P. 54, 64 A.L.R. 606.

There are some early decisions to the effect that such contracts for the collection of claims against the United States, whether the claims are to be prosecuted before the courts, before Congress or the legislature, or before any of the executive departments, are against public policy and therefore void. Jones v. Blacklidge, 9 Kan. 562, 12 Am. Rep. 503. Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 298.

[16] Manning v. Sprague, 148 Mass. 18, 18 N. E. 673, 1 L.R.A. 516, 12 Am. St. Rep. 508.

[17] Ball v. Halsell, 161 U. S. 72, 40 L. ed. 622, 16 S. Ct. 554; Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623.

[18] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 168; 1 Ann. Cas. 299.

[19] Taylor v. Bemiss, 110 U. S. 42, 28 L. ed. 64, 3 S. Ct. 441; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391.

[20] Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

[1] High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391; Moyers v. Memphis, 135 Tenn. 263, 186 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 854.

[2] Jones v. Jones, 333 Mo. 478, 63 S. W. (2d) 146, 90 A.L.R. 219.

[3] Morehouse v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co. 185 N. Y. 520, 78 N. E. 179, 7 Ann. Cas. 377.

[4] Jones v. Jones, 333 Mo. 478, 63 S. W. (2d) 146, 90 A.L.R. 219.

The word "unjust," or "unconscionable," as applied to attorneys' contracts for contingent fees, means nothing more than that the amount of the fee contracted for, standing alone and unexplained, would be sufficient to show that an unfair advantage had been taken of the client, or that a legal fraud had been perpetrated on him. High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391.

Whether an attorney is entitled to a contingent fee agreed to in a representative suit depends upon the circumstances of the particular case and the extent of the representative party's authority.[6]

A conditional obligation to pay an attorney an extra fee in case of success in an action in which the obligor is not a party is permitted upon a valid and sufficient consideration if such obligor is a party to other suits in which the same question is involved.[7]

§ 165. —Effect of Agreement to Pay Costs and Expenses.—Although a loan of money to the client by the attorney to enable him to carry on the suit and maintain himself during its pendency, which is to be repaid from the amount recovered, is not contrary to public policy,[8] many authorities regard an agreement by an attorney to undertake the conduct of a litigation on his own account, to pay the costs and expenses thereof, and to receive as his compensation a portion of the proceeds of the recovery, or of the thing in dispute, or to save his client harmless or indemnify him against all costs and expenses of the suit, as obnoxious to the law against champerty.[9] However, there is authority to the contrary,[10] particularly in jurisdictions where the statutes expressly leave the compensation of attorneys to the agreement of the parties,[11] although some courts take the view that such statutes do not affect the general rule stated.[12]

§ 166. —In Divorce and Alimony Proceedings.—A contract for the payment of a fee to an attorney contingent upon his procuring a divorce for his client or contingent in amount upon the amount of alimony to be obtained is void as against public policy.[13]

---

[5] Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

[6] Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729.

[7] Clay v. Ballard, 9 Rob. (La.) 308, 41 Am. Dec. 328.

[8] Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co. 128 Minn. 365, 151 N. W. 125, L.R.A.1917B, 1140.

In Reece v. Kyle, 49 Ohio St. 475, 31 N. E. 747, 16 L.R.A. 923, it was held that a promise by an attorney to render legal services in an effort to collect a judgment, for obtaining which the attorney has not been fully paid, and to advance costs and expenses in the first instance, one half to be repaid by the client in case of failure, will form, as between attorney and client, a valid consideration to support an assignment of a judgment the net proceeds of which are to be equally divided in case of success.

[9] Watkins v. Sedberry, 261 U. S. 571, 67 L. ed. 802, 43 S. Ct. 411; Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624, 42 L. ed. 302, 17 S. Ct. 927; United States ex rel. Payne v. Call (C. C. A. 5th) 287 F. 520, citing R. C. L.; Johnson v. Van Wyck, 4 App. D. C. 294, 41 L.R.A. 520; Sapp v. Davids, 176 Ga. 265, 168 S. E 62, 85 A.L.R. 1361; Geer v. Frank, 179 Ill. 570, 53 N. E. 965, 45 L.R.A. 110; Barngrover v. Pettigrew, 128 Iowa, 533, 104 N. W. 904, 2 L R.A.(N.S.) 260, 111 Am. St. Rep. 206; Adye v. Hanna, 47 Iowa, 264, 29 Am. Rep. 484; Scott v. Harmon, 109 Mass. 237, 12 Am. Rep. 685; Johnson v. Great Northern R Co. 128 Minn. 365, 151 N. W. 125, L.R.A. 1917B, 1140; Pennsylvania Co. v. Lombardo, 49 Ohio St. 1, 29 N. E. 573, 14 L.R.A. 785; Stark County v. Mischel, 42 N. D. 332, 173 N. W. 817, 6 A.L.R. 174; Martin v Clark, 8 R. I. 389, 5 Am. Rep. 586; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794, judgment vacated on rehearing in 42 Utah, 282, 130 P. 217; Roller v. Murray, 112 Va. 780, 72 S. E. 665, 38 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1202, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1088.

Annotation: 6 A.L.R. 184; 14 L.R.A 785; 83 Am. St. Rep. 173; 1 Ann. Cas. 299.

In Jones v. Jones, 333 Mo. 478, 63 S. W. (2d) 146, 90 A.L.R. 219, the facts were held insufficient to show such an agreement.

A deed of land to an attorney in trust, under which he is to prosecute a suit for the possession of the property, pay the costs and expenses of such suit, sell the property, and receive as compensation a portion of such amount as may be received from the sale is obnoxious to the law against champerty. Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624, 42 L. ed. 302, 17 S. Ct. 927.

[10] Annotation: 6 A.L.R. 185.

[11] Grand Rapids & I. R Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Smits v. Hogan, 35 Wash. 290, 77 P. 390, 1 Ann. Cas. 297.

Annotation: 6 A.L.R. 185

[12] Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794, judgment vacated on rehearing on other grounds in 42 Utah, 282, 130 P. 217; Croco v. Oregon Short Line R. Co. 18 Utah, 311, 54 P. 985, 44 L.R.A. 285.

Annotation: 6 A.L.R. 185.

§ 167. —Effect of Agreement as Equitable Assignment.—In a number of jurisdictions a contract for a contingent fee is deemed to amount to an equitable assignment of the judgment pro tanto[14] or to give the attorney an equitable interest[15] or a lien therein.[16] Other courts hold that such an agreement will not operate as an assignment[17] without an express stipulation to that effect.[18] It is clear that a contract that an attorney is to receive a certain percentage of the recovery is not such an assignment as will make it necessary to join him as a party plaintiff.[19]

C. Matters Affecting Attorney's Right

§ 168. Generally.—In actions by attorneys to recover compensation for professional services claimed to have been performed under a contract, express or implied, the usual rules as to defenses in actions ex contractu generally apply.[20] The defendant may set up by way of defense that the plaintiff was never employed by him or by his authority,[1] that the contract sued on was unfair or fraudulent[2] or was invalid as being champertous[3] or in contravention of public policy,[4] or that the attorney compromised the client's case against the express direction of the latter[5] or without his knowledge.[6]

---

[13] McConnell v. McConnell, 98 Ark. 193, 136 S. W. 931, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1074; Newman v. Freitas, 129 Cal. 283, 61 P 907, 50 L.R.A. 548; Re Sylvester, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180; Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Barngrover v. Pettigrew, 128 Iowa, 533, 104 N. W. 904, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 260, 111 Am. St. Rep. 206; Overstreet v. Barr, 255 Ky. 82, 72 S. W. (2d) 1014, citing R. C. L.; Jordan v. Westerman, 62 Mich. 170, 28 N. W. 826, 4 Am. St. Rep. 836; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Baca v. Padilla, 26 N. M. 223, 190 P. 730, 11 A.L.R. 1188.

Annotation: 30 A.L.R. 189; 33 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1074; 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 383; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 905; 13 Am. St. Rep. 299.

It is not to be supposed that a court would make an allowance to the wife of a gross sum for permanent alimony to be paid by the husband out of his estate if it had knowledge of the fact that the wife had contracted to pay any portion of what she should be awarded to her attorney. Such contracts are against public policy for the further reason that they tend to impair the family relation. Jordan v. Westerman, 62 Mich. 170, 28 N. W. 826, 4 Am. St. Rep. 836.

[14] Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Fairbanks v. Sargent, 104 N. Y. 108, 9 N. E. 870, 6 L.R.A. 475, 58 Am. Rep. 490; High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391; Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 455, s. 19 A.L.R. 399.

In order that an agreement for a contingent fee may operate as an equitable assignment, there must be, in effect, a constructive appropriation of so much of the amount to be recovered as will confer upon the attorney a complete and present right to receive the same without the further intervention of the client: whether in a given case the agreement does constitute an equitable assignment is dependent upon the intent of the parties, as evidenced by the terms of the agreement, in the light of all the surrounding circumstances. High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391.

[15] Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 455, s. 19 A.L.R. 399.

[16] See infra, § 221.

[17] Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216; Kendall v. United States, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 113, 19 L. ed. 85; Nichols v Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. W. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.

[18] Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 455, s. 19 A.L.R. 399.

[19] McDonald v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co. 26 Iowa, 124, 96 Am. Dec. 114.

[20] See generally Contracts [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 1034, § 391].

[1] See supra, § 154.

[2] See supra, §§ 159–162.

[3] See supra, § 165; infra, § 176.

[4] See supra, § 166; infra, § 176.

[5] Rogers v. Pettigrew, 138 Ga. 528, 75 S. E. 631, 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 852, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 409.

Annotation: 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 852; Ann. Cas. 1913D, 410.

[6] Duffy v Colonial Trust Co. 287 Pa. 348,

§ 169. Fraud, Bad Faith, Negligence.—If an attorney is guilty of actual fraud or bad faith toward his client in the matter of his employment or seeks to secure his personal advantage to the prejudice of his client, he is not entitled to any compensation for his services. The basis of this rule is good morals and a sound public policy, and it should be enforced in all cases where the fraud of the attorney is established by clear and satisfactory proof,[7] even though his conduct was not intentionally prejudicial to his client's interest.[8] The client may also show as a defense to a claim for compensation that the attorney's services were worthless because of his ignorance or negligence,[9] although in this regard it must be borne in mind that an attorney is not the insurer of the result in a case in which he is employed unless he makes a special contract to that effect and for that purpose.[10]

§ 170. Serving Adverse Interests.—An attorney is generally prohibited, except where his client, with full knowledge of the facts, consents or acquiesces, from representing adverse interests;[11] and if he does render such services, the parties having opposing or adverse interests growing out of the same transaction—as, for example, where services are rendered to both the plaintiff and the defendant in the same suit—no recovery can be had for the services rendered, in the absence of anything to show that he acted with the consent and acquiescence of the parties.[12]

§ 171. Failure of Performance, Withdrawal, or Abandonment of Case. — The right of an attorney who has withdrawn from a case or abandoned or terminated his employment to recover for services which he rendered before such withdrawal or abandonment depends principally upon whether or not such withdrawal was justifiable or was with the consent of the client. According to the weight of authority, an attorney who, without justifiable cause and without his client's consent, voluntarily abandons or withdraws from a case upon which he has entered before its termination and before he has fully performed the services required of him with respect thereto loses all right to compensation for services rendered,[13] although in some cases the attorney

---

135 A. 204, 49 A.L.R. 406, writ of certiorari denied in 273 U. S. 765, 71 L. ed. 880, 47 S. Ct. 570.

[7] Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Davis v. Swedish-American Nat. Bank, 78 Minn. 408, 80 N. W. 953, 81 N. W. 210, 79 Am. St. Rep. 400; Olson v. Lamb, 56 Neb. 104, 76 N. W. 433, 71 Am. St. Rep. 670; Duffy v. Colonial Trust Co. 287 Pa. 348, 135 A. 204, 49 A.L.R. 406, writ of certiorari denied in 273 U. S. 765, 71 L. ed. 880, 47 S. Ct. 570; Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 482.

A note obtained by threats or duress as compensation for an attorney's services in a criminal case is not enforceable against the client. Bailey v. Devine, 123 Ga. 653, 51 S. E. 603, 107 Am. St. Rep. 153.

An attorney who tries fraudulently to prevent the collection of the execution violates his duty, so as to deprive him of his claim for services in procuring such judgment and execution. Brackett v. Norton, 4 Conn. 517, 10 Am. Dec. 179.

[8] Duffy v. Colonial Trust Co. 287 Pa. 348, 135 A. 204, 49 A.L.R. 406, writ of certiorari denied in 273 U. S. 765, 71 L. ed. 880, 47 S. Ct. 570

Annotation: 49 A.L.R. 410.

[9] Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497.

Annotation: 22 L. ed. 482.

[10] Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585.

[11] See supra, § 64.

[12] People v. Gerold, 265 Ill. 448, 107 N. E. 165, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 636; Strong v. Brennan, 183 Ill. 97, 55 N. E. 675, 47 L.R.A. 792; Hosford v. Eno, 41 S. D. 65, 168 N. W. 764, L.R.A.1918F, 831.

An attorney employed by a corporation to procure the discharge of all the receivers appointed for it, but who is also employed and paid by one of the contesting sets of receivers, will be precluded by public policy from recovering from the association, even if the board of directors has by resolution approved what he has done with full knowledge of his inconsistent employments. Strong v. International Bldg. L. & Invest. Co. (Strong v. Breman) 183 Ill. 97, 55 N. E. 675, 47 L.R.A. 792.

[13] Justice v. Lairy, 19 Ind. App. 272, 49 N. E. 459, 65 Am. St. Rep. 405; Simon v. Brashear, 9 Rob. (La.) 59, 41 Am. Dec. 321; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263; Nickells v. Nickells, 5 N. D. 125, 64 N. W. 73, 33 L.R.A. 515, 57 Am. St. Rep. 540; Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, has been allowed to recover on a quantum meruit notwithstanding his abandonment of his employment.[14] If, on the other hand, the attorney has justifiable cause for withdrawing from a case before it is finished or for abandoning his employment with his client and he gives reasonable notice, he may recover compensation for services already rendered, even though his withdrawal or abandonment was without the consent of the client.[15] The attorney may also recover the reasonable value of services rendered notwithstanding his withdrawal from the case or abandonment of his services where he does so with the client's consent.[16] And the same is true where complete performance by the attorney becomes impossible without fault of either party.[17]

What amounts to a withdrawal, abandonment, or failure to perform depends upon the circumstances of each individual case.[18] There is, however, no abandonment or breach excusing the client from liability where the attorney withdraws after judgment without representing the client on appeal, unless the contract requires him to perform such service.[19]

§ 172. Discharge or Prevention of Performance by Client.—Although a client may at any time terminate the relationship between himself and his attorney,[20] an attorney who, without fault on his part, is discharged by the client, or is otherwise wrongfully prevented from performing the professional duties for which he was employed, is entitled to compensation,[1] even though it does not appear positively that he could have successfully terminated his employment,[2] or even though the agreement was for a contingent fee, provided the contingency has taken place.[3]

---

23 Am. Dec. 149; Davenport v. Waggoner, 49 S. D. 592, 207 N. W. 972, 45 A.L.R. 1126.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1137; 52 L.R.A. (N.S.) 381; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 540.

Upon abandonment of the services the attorney cannot recover either on the contract of employment or on notes given in place of the amount which he would otherwise have been entitled to charge for his services after they had been rendered. Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, 23 Am. Dec. 149.

If an attorney engaged on a contingent fee basis fails, after a reasonable length of time, to perform the contingency, he is entitled to no compensation, either on a quantum meruit or for expenses. Fletcher v. Kellogg, 55 App. D. C. 351, 6 F. (2d) 476, 40 A.L.R. 1525, writ of certiorari denied in 269 U. S. 555, 70 L. ed. 409, 46 S. Ct. 18.

[14] Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 381.

[15] Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258; Eliot v. Lawton, 7 Allen (Mass.) 274, 83 Am. Dec. 683; Genrow v. Flynn, 166 Mich. 564, 131 N. W. 1115, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 638; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1142; 35 L.R.A. (N.S.) 960; 83 Am. St. Rep. 159; Ann. Cas. 1912D, 640; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 540.

An attorney who withdraws on account of the employment of other counsel with whom he cannot cordially co-operate may recover for services already rendered. Tenney v. Berger, 93 N. Y. 524, 45 Am. Rep. 263.

[16] Justice v. Lairy, 19 Ind. App. 272, 49 N. E. 459, 65 Am. St. Rep. 405.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1149.

[17] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1150.

[18] See annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1153, for illustrations.

Where legal business has been intrusted to two attorneys associated for the practice of law, it may be attended to by either, and this will constitute a performance of the contract, and it will be no defense to an action by them for their fees that one of them never took part in the trial of the case. Simon v. Brashear, 9 Rob. (La.) 59, 41 Am. Dec. 321.

[19] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1151.

[20] See supra, § 34.

[1] McGowan v. Parish, 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. ed. 955, 35 S. Ct. 543; Brodie v. Watkins, 33 Ark. 545, 34 Am. Rep. 49; Bartlett v. Odd Fellows' Sav. Bank, 79 Cal. 218, 21 P. 743, 12 Am. St. Rep. 139; Louque v. Dejan, 129 La. 519, 56 So. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 389; Price v. Western Loan & Sav. Co. 35 Utah, 379, 100 P. 677, 19 Ann. Cas. 589.

Annotation: 53 L.R.A. 79; 83 Am. St. Rep. 166; 19 Ann. Cas. 592.

If a client, without due cause, takes out of his attorney's hands an account placed with him for collection under an agreement, by the terms of which the attorney is to receive as a compensation for his services a certain percentage of the amount collected, before the attorney has done anything towards the collection of the claim, the attorney is entitled to receive the value of his services as fixed by the contract. Scheinesohn v. Lemonek, 84 Ohio St. 424, 95 N. E. 913, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 737. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912C, 741.

[2] Hunt v. Test, 8 Ala. 713, 42 Am. Dec. 659. Annotation: 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 93.

[3] White v. American Law Book Co. 106 Okla. 166, 233 P. 426, citing R. C. L.; Dolph

§ 173. —Settlement, Compromise, or Dismissal of Suit.—The client cannot, by settling, compromising, or dismissing his suit or action during the pendency thereof, without the consent or over the objection of his attorney,[4] deprive the attorney of his compensation [5] for the agreed amount of which the client is still liable.[6] This rule applies even in the case of reconciliation in a divorce suit.[7] The contract between the attorney and client may fix the compensation of the attorney in the event of a settlement of the action. What amounts to a settlement within such a provision depends upon all the surrounding circumstances of the case; [8] a dismissal by stipulation of an action without consideration and without prejudice is within the operation of the provision entitling the attorney to a fee upon the date such action is settled.[9]

§ 174. Combined Act of Attorney and Client.—An attorney is entitled to compensation for past services in case of termination of the employment by the acts of both himself and his client,[10] as where both are at fault and equally responsible for a condition of affairs making it necessary for the client, in the interest of his business, to employ another attorney.[11] The client cannot treat a default by the attorney caused by himself as discharging him from liability.[12]

§ 175. Death, Incapacity, or Disbarment of Attorney.—If the attorney is afflicted with physical or mental incapacity before the termination of the litigation and unable to continue his services, he may recover the reasonable value of the services theretofore rendered; [13] and if he dies after part performance, but before final adjudication or settlement, of a case in which he has been employed, his estate is entitled to recover reasonable compensation for services rendered.[14] In the case of the death of a member of a firm of attorneys, where the client does not exercise his right to abrogate the employment,[15] the firm is entitled to compensation for services rendered during the continuance of the engagement.[16]

In the case of the disability or death of an attorney employed on a contingent basis before a final adjudication or settlement has been obtained, he or his estate, as the case may be, will be allowed to recover the reasonable value of the services rendered by him upon the subsequent successful termination of the litigation in the client's favor.[17] So, also, where the relation

---

v. Speckart, 94 Or. 550, 179 P. 657, 186 P. 32, citing R. C. L.

[4] See supra, §§ 116–118.

[5] Desaman v. Butler Bros. 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642; Snow v. Beard, 82 Or. 518, 162 P. 258, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 1115.

[6] Western States Oil & Land Co. v. Helms, 143 Okla. 206, 288 P. 964, 72 A.L.R. 357.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 449, p. 1058.

[7] Yoder v. Yoder, 105 Wash. 491, 178 P. 474, 3 A.L.R. 1104.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 1109.

See generally DIVORCE AND SEPARATION [Also ALIMONY, 1 R. C. L. p. 915, § 64].

[8] Setzer v. Moore, 202 Cal. 333, 260 P. 550, 55 A.L.R. 423.

Annotation: 55 A.L.R. 428.

[9] Setzer v. Moore, 202 Cal. 333, 260 P. 550, 55 A.L.R. 423.

[10] Justice v. Lairy, 19 Ind. App. 272, 49 N. E. 459, 65 Am. St. Rep. 405.

[11] Price v. Western Loan & Sav. Co. 35 Utah, 379, 100 P. 677, 19 Ann. Cas. 589.

[12] Ramsey v. Brooke County Bldg. & L. Asso. 102 W. Va. 119, 135 S. E. 249, 49 A.L.R. 668.

[13] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1162.

[14] Coe v. Smith, 4 Ind. 79, 58 Am. Dec. 618; Senneff v. Healy, 155 Iowa, 82, 135 N. W. 27, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 219; Clifton v. Clark, 83 Miss. 446, 36 So. 251, 66 L.R.A. 821, 102 Am. St. Rep. 458, 1 Ann. Cas. 396; Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197; Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A. (N.S.) 380; Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, 23 Am. Dec. 149.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1158; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 210.

[15] As to effect as terminating employment, see supra, § 38.

[16] Clifton v. Clark, 83 Miss. 446, 36 So. 251, 66 L.R.A. 821, 102 Am. St. Rep. 458, 1 Ann. Cas. 396.

[17] Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S.

of attorney and client is terminated by operation of law, as where he accepts the office of judge of a court, he may recover for services previously rendered by him.[18] But if an attorney is disbarred before the completion of the litigation, he is not entitled to recover compensation [19] for the value of his services, at least not where the litigation was undertaken for a fee contingent upon success, if there has been only partial, and not substantial, performance.[20]

§ 176. Illegality of Contract of Employment.—While incidental acts of illegality with respect to an otherwise lawful contract will not prevent a recovery of compensation by the attorney,[1] when the contract for legal services is void because illegal or contrary to public policy,[2] there can be no recovery by the attorney of his stipulated compensation, notwithstanding nothing illegal was done under the condemned contract.[3] Thus, if the contract between the attorney and his client violates the laws prohibiting champerty or maintenance,[4] calls for the performance of illegal lobbying services,[5] or services which prevent or obstruct the proper administration of justice,[6] even though legitimate services may have been rendered under the contract, no recovery may be had. Nor can recovery be had for legal services performed on Sunday in violation of the Sunday laws, although such fact will not prevent recovery for services performed under a divisible contract on secular days.[7] While an attorney may not enforce a promise founded upon his engagement to procure a pardon by obtaining signatures,[8] he may recover for services rendered in seeking a pardon through lawful means.[9]

Whether an attorney can recover compensation from a private employer for assisting in the prosecution of a criminal case depends upon whether or not the contract of employment is against public policy.[10]

§ 177. —Contracts Procured through Solicitation.—It is generally held that no recovery can be had by the attorney for services rendered under a contract of employment procured by solicitation by one employed by him to solicit claims.[11] Some courts, however, take the position that mere solicitation on the part of the attorney himself, unaccompanied by fraud, misrepresentation,

---

W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197; Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380.
Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 381.

[18] Justice v. Lairy, 19 Ind. App. 272, 49 N. E. 459, 65 Am. St. Rep. 405.
Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1163.

[19] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1156; 52 L.R.A. (N.S.) 381.

[20] Davenport v. Waggoner, 49 S. D. 592, 207 N. W. 972, 45 A.L.R. 1126, wherein it is said that an attorney who is disbarred is held to occupy the same position as one who voluntarily and wrongfully abandons a litigation.

[1] Old Dominion Transp. Co. v. Hamilton, 146 Va. 594, 131 S. E. 850, 46 A.L.R. 186.

[2] See supra, §§ 54 et seq.

[3] Flack v. Warner, 278 Ill. 368, 116 N. E. 202, L.R.A.1917F, 464; Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A. 1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Spaulding v. Maillet, 57 Mont. 318, 188 P. 377, citing R. C. L.; Ormerod v. Dearman, 100 Pa. 561, 45 Am. Rep. 391; Weber v. Shay, 56 Ohio St. 116, 46 N. E. 377, 37 L.R.A. 230, 60 Am. St. Rep. 743; Arlington Hotel Co. v. Ewing, 124 Tenn. 536, 138 S. W. 954, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 121.
Annotation: 20 A.L.R. 1477, s. 26 A.L.R. 98.

[4] Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co. 128 Minn. 365, 151 N. W. 125, L.R.A.1917B, 1140.

[5] Earle v. Myers, 207 U. S. 244, 52 L. ed. 191, 28 S. Ct. 86; Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216.

[6] Arlington Hotel Co. v. Ewing, 124 Tenn. 536, 138 S. W. 954, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 842, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 121.
Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 297.

[7] Jones v. Brantley, 121 Miss. 721, 83 So. 802, 8 A.L.R. 1353.
Annotation: 8 A.L.R. 1356.

[8] Hatzfield v. Gulden, 7 Watts (Pa.) 152, 32 Am. Dec. 750.

[9] Annotation: 13 Am. St. Rep. 298.

[10] Rock v. Ekern, 162 Wis. 291, 156 N. W. 197, L.R.A.1916D, 459.

[11] Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.
Annotation: 86 A.L.R. 517; L.R.A.1917B, 1129; Ann. Cas. 1917C, 872.

undue influence, imposition of some kind, or other circumstances sufficient to invalidate a contract, does not render the contract of employment void as contrary to public policy so as to preclude the attorney from collecting his compensation.[12] Others take the position that the conduct of an attorney in soliciting persons having rights of action, particularly those for personal injuries or death, to intrust him with the prosecution of their actions is so contrary to the character of the profession and so opposed to sound public policy and to a proper and decorous administration of the law as to bar his right to collect fees.[13] In some jurisdictions such contracts are expressly made void by statute, whether solicited directly or indirectly, individually or by agent.[14] Such statutes are designed to discourage the practice commonly known as "ambulance chasing" and are to be construed in the light of the evil which they are designed to cure.[15] In some cases the right to compensation has been sustained where the solicitation was by a person not employed by the attorney.[16]

§ 178. —Right to Compensation on a Quantum Meruit.—If the contract between an attorney and client does not violate public policy and is not in any way tainted with immorality or illegality, as where the services which form the subject-matter are not themselves illegal, either intrinsically or by reason of the circumstances under which they are rendered, but the contract is void because of some want of power in one or both of the parties to make it, because of some irregularity in its execution,[17] or is for some other reason illegal,[18] the attorney may recover upon a quantum meruit for the reasonable value of such services, notwithstanding the illegality of the contract. When, however, the illegality, either in whole or in part, is in the thing which the party seeking to recover was to do, there can be no recovery upon a quantum meruit.[19] In such cases every objection to permitting a recovery upon an express contract applies with equal force to a recovery upon a quantum meruit. And this is true in some cases when the services are not intrinsically illegal, but are improper and contrary to public policy because of the circumstances under which they are rendered.[1]

---

[12] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co. 128 Minn. 365, 151 N. W. 125, L.R.A. 1917B, 1140.

Annotation: 86 A.L.R. 519; L.R.A.1917B, 1129; Ann. Cas. 1917C, 872.

[13] Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

Annotation: 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, s. L.R.A. 1917B, 1128; 10 Ann. Cas. 842.

[14] Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509.

[15] Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509.

An attorney employed by a middleman cannot close his eyes to the implications of the transaction, claim ignorance of its real character, and demand that his actual knowledge of irregularities be proved. Nor can his character as agent of a middleman be changed to that of independent attorney to his client by the mere sound of words used by the middleman in engaging him, by a colorable consultation with the client, or by going through the ritual of establishing a legitimate connection. Ibid.

[16] Annotation: 86 A.L.R. 519; L.R.A.1917B, 1129.

[17] Bowman v. Phillips, 41 Kan. 364, 21 P. 230, 3 L.R.A. 631, 13 Am. St. Rep. 292; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Annotation: 3 L.R.A. 631; 13 Am. St. Rep. 297.

[18] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Rochester v. Campbell, 184 Ind. 421, 111 N. E. 420, citing R. C. L.; Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 412, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Oxborough v. St. Martin, 151 Minn. 514, 187 N. W. 707, 21 A.L.R. 350; Harwood v. Carter, 47 Nev. 334, 222 P. 280, citing R. C. L.; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Baca v. Padilla, 26 N. M. 223, 190 P. 730, 11 A.L.R. 1188; Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441; Stern v. Hyman Bros. 182 N. C. 422, 109 S. E. 79, 19 A.L.R. 844; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348; Polsley v. Anderson, 7 W. Va. 202, 23 Am. Rep. 613.

Annotation: 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 261, 83 Am. St. Rep. 173.

[19] Baca v. Padilla, 26 N. M. 223, 190 P. 730, 11 A.L.R. 1188.

With regard to services rendered under a contract held to be void for champerty, the authorities differ. Some maintain that recovery may be had on a quantum meruit for services rendered under such a contract.[2] Other authorities, however, deny any recovery on a champertous contract.[3]

It is generally held that an attorney undertaking to procure a divorce under an illegal contract, basing his right to recovery upon the contingency of obtaining the divorce, may recover the value of his services upon a quantum meruit,[4] although no recovery can be had on a quantum meruit for an attorney's services under a contract to obtain evidence and secure a divorce.[5]

§ 179. Statute of Limitations; Accrual of Action. — An attorney's right against his client for compensation may, of course, be barred by the statute of limitations, like any other civil right. The question as to when the attorney's right of action accrues and consequently, when the statute of limitations begins to run against his right, which depends in a great measure upon the agreement between the attorney and his client and the nature and scope of the attorney's employment, is discussed under another title in this work.[6]

D. Remedies to Obtain Payment

§ 180. Retention of Fees from Funds in Hand.—An attorney is often enabled to collect his fees through an agreement or writing by the client authorizing him to retain for his compensation a portion of the money collected or recovered by him.[7] An attorney also has a right, by virtue of his general lien, to retain for his fees money of his client obtained by him in the course of his professional employment.[8] Where a custom or usage exists by virtue of which all attorneys on a successful defense are allowed to retain the costs taxed in favor of their clients, less the witness fees and money advanced as part of their fees, such custom or usage may be held to be a part of the agreement between an attorney and his client and binding upon them, if it is so generally known and acted upon that the parties from that and other circumstances proved must be presumed to have had reference to it for the compensation to be paid.[9]

---

[1] Annotation: 67 L. ed. 803; 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 261; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1202.

[2] Watkins v. Sedberry, 261 U. S. 571, 67 L. ed. 802, 43 S. Ct. 411; Goodman v. Walker, 30 Ala. 482, 68 Am. Dec. 134; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Brush v. Carbondale, 229 Ill. 144, 82 N. E. 252, 11 Ann. Cas. 121; Barngrover v. Pettigrew, 128 Iowa, 533, 104 N. W. 904, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 260, 111 Am. St. Rep. 206; Rust v. Larue, 4 Litt. (Ky.) 412, 14 Am. Dec. 172; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692; Baca v. Padilla, 26 N. M. 223, 190 P. 730, 11 A.L.R. 1188; Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441; Reese v. Kyle, 49 Ohio St. 475, 31 N. E. 747, 16 L.R.A. 723; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 1365; 67 L. ed. 802; 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 261; 12 L.R.A.(N.S.) 606; 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 518; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1203; 83 Am. St. Rep. 173; Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1091; 6 Eng. Rul. Cas. 391.

In Ball v. Halsell, 161 U. S. 72, 40 L. ed. 622, 16 S. Ct. 554, recovery was denied because the contract was in violation of express contract.

[3] Sapp v. Davids, 176 Ga. 265, 168 S. E. 62, 85 A.L.R. 1361; Bowman v. Phillips, 41 Kan. 364, 21 P. 230, 3 L.R.A. 631, 13 Am. St. Rep. 292; Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509; Butler v. Legro, 62 N. H. 350, 13 Am. St. Rep. 573; Roller v. Murray, 112 Va. 780, 72 S. E. 665, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1202, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1088.

Annotation: 85 A.L.R. 1368; 67 L. ed. 804; 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 518; 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1203; Ann. Cas. 1913B, 1091.

[4] McConnell v. McConnell, 98 Ark. 193, 136 S. W. 931, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1074; Re Sylvester, 195 Iowa, 1329, 192 N. W. 442, 30 A.L.R. 180; Lynde v. Lynde, 64 N. J. Eq. 736, 52 A. 694, 58 L.R.A. 471, 97 Am. St. Rep. 692.

Annotation: 30 A.L.R. 191.

[5] Barngrover v. Pettigrew, 128 Iowa, 533, 104 N. W. 904, 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 260, 111 Am. St. Rep. 206.

[6] See Limitation of Actions [Also 17 R. C. L. p. 767, § 133].

[7] Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

[8] See infra, §§ 209 et seq.

§ 181. Remedy by Suit.—The charges of counsel, like charges for services in other departments of business, are capable of enforcement in the legal tribunals;[10] such fees constitute a legal demand for which an action will lie.[11] Accordingly, while, under the English practice, it is held that a barrister cannot maintain an action for his compensation,[12] in the various states of this country the right of an attorney to recover by suit the compensation to which he is entitled for his services, either under express contract or on a quantum meruit, is well established.[13] This remedy is available to an attorney seeking to recover a retaining fee in a suit for services rendered under a general employment.[14]

While the attorney's action is generally based upon the contract of employment, where such contract is invalid, his recovery, if permissible at all, must, as has already appeared, be based upon a quantum meruit.[15] Furthermore, an attorney's recovery should be on a quantum meruit, and not on the contract, whether oral or in writing, where it appears that the parties did not mutually understand its effect[16] or where there was no agreement as to fees. But where an attorney makes a charge for services and the same is accepted by the client, it beomes an account stated between them and may be sued upon as such by the attorney,[17] although this is not possible when there is a dispute as to the amount of compensation.[18]

If a contract for a contingent fee calls for the transfer to the attorney of a certain tract of land which constituted a part of the property involved in the litigation, the attorney may maintain a suit for specific performance.[19] But generally, in proceedings by attorneys to enforce the payment of compensation for professional services, the usual rule applies that a resort to equity is not permitted where there is an adequate remedy at law.[1] Generally, the remedy of the attorney in such a case would be an action for breach of contract.[2] So, it has been held that one of two lawyers, not general partners in the practice of law, who have undertaken to conduct litigation for a client, has a plain, adequate, and complete remedy at law in an action for money had and received to his use which will preclude a resort

[9] Bodfish v. Fox, 23 Me. 90, 39 Am. Dec. 611.

[10] Wright v. Ellison, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 16, 17 L. ed. 555; Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724.

An attorney will not be permitted to have the merits or amount of his claim against a county adjudicated in a mandamus proceeding. State ex rel. Sayre v. Moore, 40 Neb. 854, 59 N. W. 755, 25 L.R.A. 774.

[11] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Gosserand v. Monteleone, 159 La. 316, 105 So. 356, 42 A.L.R. 310; Kagey v. Fox West Coast Theatres Corp. 139 Kan. 301, 31 P. (2d) 67, 92 A.L.R. 286.

[12] Kennedy v. Broun, 13 C. B. N. S. 677, 143 Eng. Reprint, 268, 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 789.
Annotation: 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 801.

[13] Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Purser & Magruder v. Baientolila, 152 La. 716, 94 So. 366, 25 A.L.R. 348; Schomp v. Schenck, 40 N. J. L. 195, 29 Am. Rep. 219; Holie v. Forbes, 64 N. D. 696, 256 N. W. 157, citing R. C. L.; Scheinesohn v. Lemonek, 84 Ohio St. 424, 95 N. E. 913, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 737; Thomas v. Scougale, 90 Wash. 162, 155 P. 847, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 452.
Annotation: 1 Eng. Rul. Cas. 801.

[14] Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.

[15] See supra, § 178.

[16] Cooper v. Bell, 127 Tenn. 142, 153 S. W. 844, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 980.

[17] Lane & B. Co. v. Taylor, 80 Ark. 469, 97 S. W. 441, 7 L.R.A.(N.S.) 924.
Annotation: 49 A.L.R. 1485.

[18] Chinn v. Lewin, 57 App. D. C. 16, 16 F. (2d) 512, 49 A.L.R. 1480.

[19] Jones v. Jones, 333 Mo. 478, 63 S. W. (2d) 146, 90 A.L.R. 219.

[1] See EQUITY [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 273, § 17].

[2] Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833.

to equity in case the other receives and retains an undue proportion of the compensation paid for the services.[3]

§ 182. —For Wrongful Discharge.—It is well settled that if an attorney employed for a specified purpose is discharged before the purpose is accomplished, he is entitled to recover on a quantum meruit for services which have been rendered by him;[4] although he may, according to the majority view, maintain an action for damages for the breach of the contract.[5] Other courts, however, hold that, since in every contract between attorney and client there is an implied condition that the client may discharge the attorney at any time, there is no breach of contract when the attorney is discharged, and that therefore, the attorney cannot recover damages, but is limited to a recovery for the value of services rendered,[6] unless he has changed his position or incurred expense.[7] Some courts recognize the right of the attorney to wait until the end of the term of employment and sue for the agreed compensation.[8]

There seems to be no question that where an attorney is employed under a general retainer for a fixed period, the client cannot discharge him without cause without committing a breach of the contract for which the attorney can recover damages.[9]

§ 183. Recovery in Client's Action.—Some statutes authorize the court to decree the payment of compensation to counsel out of the amount recovered for his client,[10] but apart from such a statute, contracts between attorneys and clients, relative to professional services, should be settled and decided upon in like manner as all other contracts.[11] Thus, in the absence of statutory authority or consent of the attorney's client, the court cannot adjudge and decree the attorney a portion of the proceeds of a judgment at law recovered by the attorney in favor of his client.[12] It has, however, been held that intervention is a proper method for attorneys employed on a contingent fee to establish their rights to compensation in the judgment,[13] and in equity cases the decree sometimes provides that a payment of fees be made to a named attorney for a party.[14] Thus, it seems that where proceedings in partition are amicable and for the benefit of all parties in interest, it is proper to allow a reasonable attorney's fee and to require the payment of the same by the parties in proportion to their interest in the property involved.[15] In some jurisdictions, however, it has been held that an attorney employed by a part of the creditors of an insolvent estate, who in his professional capacity realizes a fund for distribution among all of them, cannot charge the fund with his fees. He may recover compensation only from those who employed him.[16] Accordingly, in such jurisdictions it is held that, the right to attorneys' fees in partition suits being a matter of contract, either express or implied, the court has no power to allow a fee to the plaintiff's attorney unless the amount has been agreed upon.[17]

---

[3] Willis v. Crawford, 38 Or. 522, 63 P. 985, 64 P. 866, 53 L.R.A. 904.

[4] Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402; Scheinesohn v. Lemonek, 84 Ohio St. 424, 95 N. E. 913, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 737; Clayton v. Martin, 108 W. Va. 571, 151 S. E. 855, citing R. C. L.; Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 406.

No express offer of his services to the client is necessary to enable him to maintain the action. McGowan v. Parish, 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. ed. 955, 35 S. Ct. 543.

[5] Brodie v. Watkins, 33 Ark. 545, 34 Am. Rep. 49; High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391; Scheinesohn v. Lemonek, 84 Ohio St. 424, 95 N. E. 913, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 737; Clayton v. Martin, 108 W. Va. 571, 151 S. E. 855, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 93; L.R.A. 1917F, 409; 12 Am. St. Rep. 142.

[6] Louque v. Dejan, 129 La. 519, 56 So. 427, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 389; Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402; Ritz v. Carpenter, 43 S. D. 236, 178 N. W. 877, 19 A.L.R. 840.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 412.

[7] Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402.

[8] Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 409.

[9] Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 413.

[10] United States v. Blackfeather, 155 U. S. 180, 39 L. ed. 114, 15 S. Ct. 64.

[11] St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Blaylock, 117 Ark. 504, 175 S. W. 1170, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 563.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 273.

[12] Wolfe v. Lewis, 19 How. (U. S.) 280, 15 L. ed. 643; Okfuskee County v. Hazelwood, 79 Okla. 185, 192 P. 217, 11 A.L.R. 709; Pingree's Estate, 82 Utah, 437, 25 P. (2d) 937, 90 A.L.R. 96.

Annotation: 11 A.L.R. 713.

After the proceeds of a sale on a mortgage foreclosure have been brought into court, it is irregular to make an order that the plaintiff's attorney have a general accounting of the balance due from the plaintiff to him for professional services, and to direct its payment out of the fund, since the attorney is not a party. Wolfe v. Lewis, 19 How. (U. S.) 280, 15 L. ed. 643.

[13] High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391.

If an order is made, in proceedings to compel the foreclosure of a railway trust deed or mortgage given to secure certain bonds, allowing fees to the counsel who represents the trustee named in such deed or mortgage, as well as the bondholders, for less than the amount claimed, and the amount allowed is directed to be paid over to such counsel, by order of the court, which then sets apart, out of trust funds in such proceedings, and directs to be paid to a trust company, money to meet the interest on bonds held by the parties whom the counsel has represented in the proceedings named, such money is a part of the trust funds, and the order allowing fees is a bar to an action by such counsel for the same services and to impress a lien therefor on the money in the custody of the trust company, notwithstanding a provision in such order that payment of the amount allowed should not preclude a recovery, by the counsel, of further compensation from the persons represented by him. A proceeding to reach funds, in the hands of the court, as part of the trust estate, is not an action against the parties or persons so represented, and does not come within the saving provision of the order.[18]

§ 184. Right of Attorney to Continue Action Which Client Has Settled or Compromised.—After a client has, in good faith, and without any intent of depriving the attorney of his fees, compromised or settled his cause of action before judgment, his attorney will not, as a general rule, be allowed to proceed with the action for the protection of his compensation or fees.[19] Many courts extend this rule to cases in which the attorney has a lien upon the cause of action,[20] permitting him to intervene to prosecute the original action only when it appears that the settlement was fraudulent,[1] or upon a showing that the client was irresponsible or that there was no other available means of paying the attorney.[2] Other courts hold, however, that if the attorney has a lien on his client's judgment, suit, or cause of action, he may intervene to prosecute the original action to final judgment.[3] According to the weight of authority, where the client makes a fraudulent or collusive settlement intended to deprive the attorney of his compensation or cost fees, the attorney will be permitted to proceed with the suit in the client's name for the purpose of protecting his interests.[4] It has been held that the attorney cannot maintain an independent suit to prevent the fraudulent dismissal of the action.[5] In some jurisdictions, this right of the attorney to proceed with the suit, even when conferred by statute, has been confined to suits for money or property, and held not to extend to contested actions sounding in tort, where the damages claimed are unliquidated.[6] Other courts have denied the right of an attorney having no lien upon, or interest in, the subject-matter of the suit to prosecute it in order to secure his compensation or fees,[7] requiring such right to be enforced in a separate suit.[8]

---

[14] Central R. & Bkg. Co. v. Pettus, 113 U. S. 116, 28 L. ed. 915, 5 S. Ct. 387; Campbell v. Provident Sav. & L. Soc. (Tenn.) 61 S. W. 1090, 54 L.R.A. 817.

Annotation: 11 A.L.R. 713.

[15] Smith v. Smith, 132 Iowa, 700, 109 N. W. 194, 119 Am. St. Rep. 581; Johnson v. Emerick, 74 Neb. 303, 104 N. W. 169, 12 Ann. Cas. 851.

Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 854.

[16] Herndon v. Sheats, 176 Ga. 199, 167 S. E. 506, citing R. C. L.; Rives v. Patty, 74 Miss. 381, 20 So. 862, 60 Am. St. Rep. 510.

[17] Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 856.

[18] Truesdale v. Farmers' Loan & T. Co. 67 Minn. 454, 70 N. W. 568, 64 Am. St. Rep. 430.

[19] Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 443; 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 750.

If the cause of action is one that is not assignable, the client cannot give his attorney such an interest therein by agreement as will enable him to continue the suit after the settlement. Winslow Bros. Co. v. Murphy, 139 Ga. 231, 77 S. E. 25, 45 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 473; 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 750.

[20] St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Blaylock, 117 Ark. 504, 175 S. W. 1170, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 563; Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115

Where the attorney proceeds in the original cause to enforce his rights under a lien created by agreement with his client, he should present to the court, by petition or otherwise, the alleged agreement and his claim thereunder.[9] He must prove the material allegations of the original declaration

---

N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 828; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 452, 458, 461.

[1] Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390.

[2] Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 452, 467.

[3] Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 449, 455, 457, 461.

[4] Harris v. Tison, 63 Ga. 629, 36 Am. Rep. 126; Jones v. Morgan, 39 Ga. 310, 99 Am. Dec. 458; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632; Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115 N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 828; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A. (N.S.) 390; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390; Falconio v. Larsen, 31 Or. 137, 48 P. 703, 37 L.R.A. 254.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 462; 5 L.R.A. (N.S.) 390; 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1098; 51 Am. St. Rep. 263; 93 Am. St. Rep. 174, 175; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 919.

This right to prosecute the suit in the name of the client is apparently confined to the attorney for the plaintiff, and in the case of a dismissal or settlement before judgment, the case will not be retained in court to allow the defendant's attorney an opportunity to establish a lien. Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 174, 179.

When, however, it is manifest to the court, from the facts of the case, that the form and effect of the anticipated judgment will be such that by the exercise of its usual and ordinary powers over the judgment, the court cannot aid the attorney in the collection of his fee, it will not compel the further prosecution of the case against the wish of the parties. Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.

[5] Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115 N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 828; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A. (N.S.) 390.

[6] Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 466; 5 L.R.A. (N.S.) 391.

In Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268, the court, in reviewing one of the few cases which seem to hold that in an action for unliquidated damages the suit may be allowed to proceed for the benefit of the attorney, said: "This is to be remarked about that case, and about others that seem to countenance the proposition that the court will allow a case to proceed for the benefit of the attorneys, viz., that that has never been done except to allow the attorney to secure his legal fees and costs, never to enable him to secure the compensation which his client may have agreed to pay him as counsel."

[7] Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691.

Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 465.

[8] Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.

[9] Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495.

and establish a liability on the part of the defendant to his client, with the same certainty as though the injured party were still prosecuting.[10]

§ 185. —Divorce or Other Marital Action. — There is some conflict of authority as to whether an attorney may continue to prosecute or defend a divorce or separation suit which has been abandoned by the parties, for the purpose of fixing attorneys' fees. The rule supported by the majority of the decisions is to the effect that where the parties have abandoned the suit, condoned their offenses, and resumed their marital relations, such action operates to end the litigation, and it cannot be continued by counsel for the complaining spouse, at least where no counter cause of action is set up in a cross complaint or counterclaim.[11] This is true even though an attorney is, by statute, given a lien on suits for money and the parties are denied the right to satisfy their suits until the lien is satisfied.[12] The reason for this rule is that to permit an attorney to continue such an action after the parties thereto have become reconciled and resumed cohabitation would be in violation of public policy, as continuing litigation after the parties have put an end to it, thereby having a tendency to break up the reconciliation.[13] The same rule applies in other actions involving marital relations.[14] So, since an action for breach of promise of marriage abates by the marriage of the parties,[15] the counsel for the plaintiff cannot prosecute it under a statute giving him a lien for fees.[16] It is the rule in some jurisdictions that while the action for a decree of divorce, after condonation by the injured spouse, may not be resumed, it may be continued for the purpose of requiring the husband to pay such sum as will enable the wife to pay her attorneys for services rendered and expenses incurred, although the parties may have become reconciled and asked for a dismissal of the action.[17]

§ 186. Recourse against Adverse Party Where Suit Is Compromised or Settled.—If the defendant is instrumental in bringing about the settlement of the plaintiff's action, the attorney may, where he was not notified, sue not only the client, but the adverse party, for his compensation.[18] This rule,

---

[10] Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 178, 179.

[11] Johnson v. Gerald, 216 Ala. 581, 113 So. 447, 59 A.L.R. 348; Bell v. Bell, 214 Ala. 573, 108 So. 375, 45 A.L.R. 935; Keefer v. Keefer, 140 Ga. 18, 78 S. E. 462, 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527; Gordon v. Brackey, 143 Iowa, 102, 120 N. W. 83, 136 Am. St. Rep. 751; Petersen v. Petersen, 76 Neb. 282, 107 N. W. 391, 124 Am. St. Rep. 812; Hillman v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 595, 85 P. 61, 114 Am. St. Rep. 135.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 941, s. 59 A.L.R. 355.

[12] Bell v. Bell, 214 Ala. 573, 108 So. 375, 45 A.L.R. 935; Keefer v. Keefer, 140 Ga. 18, 78 S. E. 462, 46 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527.

[13] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 941, s. 59 A.L.R. 355.

[14] Annotation: 67 A.L.R. 471.

[15] See ABATEMENT, SURVIVAL, AND REVIVAL, Vol. 1, p. 23, § 7.

[16] Harris v. Tison, 63 Ga. 629, 36 Am. Rep. 126.

[17] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 944, s. 59 A.L.R. 355.

In Yoder v. Yoder, 105 Wash. 491, 178 P. 475, 3 A.L.R. 1104, the attorneys representing the wife in a divorce action were held entitled to resist a motion by the husband to vacate, set aside, and annul an order of the trial court, allowing the wife suit money and attorneys' fees, made after the reconciliation of the parties to the suit for divorce and resumption by them of cohabitation. To somewhat the same effect was Kiddle v. Kiddle, 90 Neb. 248, 133 N. W. 181, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1001, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 796, holding that the court could, after the reconciliation, and as a part of the final order of dismissal, make an allowance of attorneys' fees for services theretofore rendered in the case.

[18] Western States Oil & Land Co. v. Helms, 143 Okla. 206, 288 P. 964, 72 A.L.R. 357.

A judgment debtor who settles with the judgment creditor, in the absence of the creditor's attorney, does so at his peril and cannot thereby deprive the attorney of any portion of the fee to which he is entitled under and by virtue of his contract of employment. Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

An attorney whose contract provided that he was to compromise the claim or enforce it by suit, and was to have 50 per cent of all moneys received, is not entitled, by reason of a compromise settlement of the however, has been held not to apply as against the government which compromises an unliquidated demand against it.[19]

A defendant who settles an action before judgment is liable, not for the amount of a prescribed contingent fee, but for the reasonable value of the attorney's services;[20] after verdict or judgment, however, he is answerable to the attorney for the prescribed percentage of the recovery rather than of the amount paid under the compromise.[1]

In most jurisdictions the defendant in an action, who has been instrumental in effecting a compromise, may, when sued by the plaintiff's attorney for compensation, question the legality of the contract between the plaintiff and his attorney,[2] although a contrary view is taken by some courts.[3]

§ 187. Pleading.—The general principles of pleading applicable in civil actions based upon express or implied contracts[4] apply in an action by an attorney for compensation. A declaration or complaint will be sufficient which alleges that the defendant is under obligation to pay the plaintiff a certain sum of money and interest, that he has refused to comply with such obligation, and that therefore a certain sum of money and interest is due, for which judgment is prayed. By alleging facts to exist which, if proved, would entitle him to recover the amount he demands from the defendant, the plaintiff has shown, so far as the recitals of the declaration or complaint can show, that he has sustained damages.[5] Where fraud or collusion for the purpose of depriving the attorney of his fee is alleged, it is incumbent on the plaintiff to state facts sufficient to support the charge.[6] In a suit on account for services rendered, where there is more or less uncertainty as to the grounds of recovery, there may be properly joined in the petition a count upon express contract and a count upon quantum meruit; the question of granting or overruling a motion to require the plaintiff to elect upon which he will stand is addressed to the sound legal discretion of the court.[7]

An attorney may join a claim against his client for attorneys' fees with an action against the adverse party with whom the client compromised without the attorney's knowledge.[8]

§ 188. Burden of Proof.—The usual rules that the burden of proof rests upon the plaintiff to establish his case by a fair preponderance of the eviclaim which the client effected, to recover any compensation from the defendant, upon whom he had served notice of his contract in accordance with a lien statute provision, and against whom he had started suit. Wabash R. Co. v. Elliott, 261 U. S. 457, 67 L. ed. 743, 43 S. Ct. 406.

---

Parties defendant who are not primarily liable on the claim sued upon are liable jointly with the primary debtor for the fees of which the plaintiffs' attorneys are thereby deprived. Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A (N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

[19] Kendall v. United States, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 113, 19 L. ed. 85.

[20] Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380.

[1] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Desaman v. Butler Bros. 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E. 642.

[2] Davy v. Fidelity & C. Ins. Co. 78 Ohio St. 256, 85 N. E. 504, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 443, 125 Am. St. Rep. 694; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

Annotation: 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 518.

[3] Annotation: 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 518.

[4] See PLEADING [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 431].

[5] Bartlett v. Odd-Fellows' Sav. Bank, 79 Cal. 218, 21 P. 743, 12 Am. St. Rep. 139.

[6] Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246.

[7] Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960.

Each separate item of an account upon which a suit is brought by an attorney for services rendered may be composed of several elements, if, taken together, they constitute but a single item of charge upon the same subject-matter. Powers v. Manning, 154 Mass. 370, 28 N. E. 290, 13 L.R.A. 258.

[8] Western States Oil & Land Co. v. Helms, 143 Okla. 206, 288 P. 964, 72 A.L.R. 357.

dence, but that matters relied upon by the defendant by way of defense must be established by him,[9] apply in actions by attorneys against clients to recover compensation. The attorney has the burden of proving his right to fees for the services rendered by him.[10] He must show that a contract, express or implied, was entered into;[11] performance thereof on his part,[12] or sufficient reason for nonperformance, as, for instance, prevention of performance by the client;[13] and that he has not been paid.[14] The burden of proving that the attorney abandoned the prosecution or withdrew from the case, when set up as a defense, is on the client,[15] who also has the burden of sustaining a plea that the plaintiff negligently and carelessly managed the business intrusted to him.[16]

§ 189. —As to Fairness of Contract; Presumptions.—With respect to a contract for compensation, entered into in the establishment of the relation of attorney and client, the attorney, as a condition of enforcing it, is not bound to show that it was just, fair, and reasonable,[17] although a presumption of unfairness or invalidity attaches to a contract for compensation executed by an attorney and his client after the establishment of the fiduciary relation.[18] Hence, according to the majority rule, the burden of proof is on the attorney to show the fairness of such a transaction, that the compensation provided for does not exceed a fair and reasonable remuneration for the services which have been rendered or which it is his duty to render, and that the contract is free from all fraud, undue influence,[19] and exorbitancy of demand,[20] and was entered into by the client freely and with a full understanding as to his rights and as to the effect of the instrument.[1] The presumption of invalidity can be overcome only by the clearest and most satisfactory evidence.[2] In some states, however, by virtue of a statutory provision allowing the making of such agreements, the burden of establishing the defense of unfairness, fraud, undue influence, unreasonableness, or mistake in the contract is upon the party invoking it.[3] The rule casting on the attorney the burden of showing that a contract between himself and his client was a fair and reasonable one applies only in the enforcement of such contracts, and not in their interpretation.[4]

---

[9] See EVIDENCE [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 900, § 50].

[10] Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509.

The burden is upon one suing for compensation as a law clerk to segregate the services which he could legally perform from those that he could not because he was not a licensed member of the bar. Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

[11] Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

[12] Ibid.

[13] See supra, § 172.

[14] Ferris v. Snively, 172 Wash. 167, 19 P. (2d) 942, 90 A.L.R. 278.

[15] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1155.

[16] Priest v. Dodsworth, 235 Ill. 613, 85 N. E. 940, 14 Ann. Cas. 340.

Annotation: 14 Ann. Cas. 342.

[17] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 159.

[18] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Shirk v. Neible, 156 Ind. 66, 59 N. E. 281, 83 Am. St. Rep. 150; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 A.L.R. 90; Moore v. Rochester Weaver Min. Co. 42 Nev. 164, 174 P. 1017, 19 A.L.R. 830; Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 855; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 535.

[19] Kidd v. Williams, 132 Ala. 140, 31 So. 458, 56 L.R.A. 879; Dickinson v. Bradford, 59 Ala. 581, 31 Am. Rep. 23; Lecatt v. Sallee, 3 Port. (Ala.) 115, 29 Am. Dec. 249; Halstead v. Florence Citrus Growers' Asso. 104 Fla. 21, 139 So. 132, citing R. C. L.; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Shirk v. Neible, 156 Ind. 66, 59 N. E. 281, 83 Am. St. Rep. 150; Donaldson v. Eaton, 136 Iowa, 650, 114 N. W. 19, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1168, 125 Am. St. Rep. 275; Burnham v. Heselton, 82 Me. 495, 20 A. 80, 9 L.R.A. 90; Merryman v. Euler, 59 Md. 588, 43 Am. Rep. 564; Boyle v. Waters, 206 Mich. 515, 173 N. W. 519, citing R. C. L.; Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197; Re Howell, 215 N. Y. 466, 109 N. E. 572, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 527; Stern v. Hyman, 182 N. C. 422, 109 S. E. 79, 19 A.L.R. 844; Roseboom v. Baughman, 169 Okla. 442, 37 P. (2d) 616, citing R. C. L.; Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539; Laybourne v. Bray & Shifflett (Tex. Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1159, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 19 A.L.R. 855; 83 Am. St. Rep. 161; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 536.

The rule is founded in public policy and operates independently of any element of actual fraud, being intended as a protection to the client against the strong influence to which the confidential relation naturally gives rise. Moore v. Rochester Weaver Min. Co. 42 Nev. 164, 174 P. 1017, 19 A.L.R. 830.

[20] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 161.

Where the parties enter into a new contract for increased compensation for additional legal services, the attorney must show that the client fully understood its meaning and effect, particularly where it rests in parol.[5]

§ 190. Proof of Value of Services.—In the case of an action by an attorney for compensation under an express valid contract of employment specifying the amount of the compensation to be received by the attorney for his services, as in cases of contracts generally, the contract, when established, is admissible as evidence of the amount to which the attorney is entitled, and its terms cannot be varied by parol evidence.[6] In cases, however, where it is sought to recover the reasonable value of the services renderd under an implied contract, or where, by reason of the invalidity of the original contract, the recovery must be on a quantum meruit, evidence may be introduced of the prices usually charged for similar services,[7] by other attorneys in the same neighborhood, practicing in the same court.[8] But it has been held that testimony showing that less was charged by opposing attorneys in the cases in which the plaintiff rendered the services for which he sues, and that the services rendered by them were as important as, and of as much or even greater value than, those of the plaintiff, is properly excluded.[9] The services of an attorney, when rendered in litigation before the same court which is passing upon the value of such services, may, of themselves, constitute evidence from which the court alone, unaided by opinion of others as to value, or even in defiance of opinion evidence, may reach a conclusion.[10] Moreover, the attorney suing for compensation may testify as to the value of his services, and may show, by his own testimony, his experience and knowledge, and give his judgment as to such value; he may also testify as to his knowledge of the charges of other attorneys for like services in similar cases.[11]

---

[1] Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539.

[2] Moore v. Rochester Weaver Min. Co. 42 Nev. 164, 174 P. 1017, 19 A.L.R. 830; Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539.

[3] Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197.

[4] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 162.

[5] Cooper v. Bell, 127 Tenn. 142, 153 S. W. 844, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 980.

[6] See Evidence [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 1138, § 345, p. 1021, § 214].

[7] Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548, 23 L. ed. 983; Louisville, N. A. & C. R. Co. v. Wallace, 136 Ill. 87, 26 N. E. 493, 11 L.R.A. 787; Bodfish v. Fox, 23 Me. 90, 39 Am. Dec. 611; Compton v. Barnes, 4 Gill (Md.) 55, 45 Am. Dec. 115; Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, 23 Am. Dec. 149.

[8] Stafford v. Bishop, 98 W. Va. 625, 127 S. E. 501, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 16 Am. St. Rep. 593.

In an action by an attorney for fees in defending a title under a lease, evidence is admissible of the amount which third persons received out of a sale of the lease under the client's title, as bearing upon what the client received for his interest therein. Cornelius v. Smith, 73 Okla. 217, 175 P. 754, 9 A.L.R. 233.

[9] Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585.

[10] Larsheid v. Kittell, 142 Wis. 172, 125 N. W. 442, 20 Ann. Cas. 576.

Upon the question of the character of services rendered, in an action by an attorney for fees, evidence is admissible that he prepared and presented a petition for revivor upon the death of a party to the action, although he did not represent such person. Cornelius v. Smith, 73 Okla. 217, 175 P. 754, 9 A.L.R. 233.

§ 191. —Admissibility of Expert Testimony.—It seems to be well established that the testimony of duly qualified witnesses, given as expert opinion evidence, is admissible on the issue of the value of the services of an attorney.[12] It is not, however, generally necessary that the evidence of expert witnesses should be given,[13] although in many cases a fair and reasonable compensation for the professional services of a lawyer can only be ascertained by the opinion of members of the bar, who have become familiar by experience and practice with the character of such services. Practicing lawyers have been held to occupy the position of experts as to questions of this nature.[14] The attorney, as a witness, may give his opinion of the value of the services rendered, either from his own knowledge or from the nature and extent of the services as testified to by other witnesses or by the plaintiff himself,[15] but in order to render a hypothetical question competent as to the value of an attorney's services, it is necessary that the services performed and the circumstances attending such performance be shown,[16] and that the matters appearing in the evidence be restated in the question.[17]

§ 192. —Conclusiveness of Expert Evidence.—The opinion evidence of expert witnesses, as to the value of an attorney's services, is not conclusive or binding either on the court or on the jury.[18] Such evidence is to be taken into consideration, with all the other evidence in the case, in arriving at a conclusion as to the just value of the services performed. It is the province of the jury, or the court, in cases tried without a jury, to weigh the testimony of attorneys as to the value of the services, by reference to their nature, the time occupied in their performance, and other attending circumstances, and by applying to it their own experience and knowledge of the character of such services.[19] A finding as to what would be reasonable compensation for the services rendered will not be disturbed when founded on the decided weight of expert testimony,[20] even though the proof is entirely opinion evidence.[1]

---

[11] Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585.

[12] Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548, 23 L. ed. 983; Spencer v. Collins, 156 Cal. 298, 104 P. 320, 20 Ann. Cas. 49; Louisville, N. A. & C. R. Co. v. Wallace, 136 Ill. 87, 26 N. E. 493, 11 L.R.A. 787; Maynard v. Maynard, 251 Ky. 246, 64 S. W. (2d) 567, 91 A.L.R. 697. And see New Orleans, J. & G. N. R. Co. v. Allbritton, 38 Miss. 242, 75 Am. Dec. 98.

Annotation: 16 Am. St. Rep. 593; 20 Ann. Cas. 53; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 369.

[13] Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 55; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 370.

[14] Louisville, N. A. & C. R. Co. v. Wallace, 136 Ill. 87, 26 N. E. 493, 11 L.R.A. 787; Maynard v. Maynard, 251 Ky. 246, 64 S. W. (2d) 567, 91 A.L.R. 697; Bodfish v. Fox, 23 Me. 90, 39 Am. Dec. 611.

To qualify as an expert, the witness must be in a position to state what is a reasonable fee, and should, therefore, have knowledge of the value of such legal services in the place where they were rendered. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 370.

[15] Annotation: 11 L.R.A. 787.

[16] Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 56.

[17] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 370.

[18] Head v. Hargrave, 105 U. S. 45, 26 L. ed. 1028; St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Green, 181 Ark. 1096, 29 S. W. (2d) 304, citing R. C. L.; Zimmer v. Kilborn, 165 Cal. 523, 132 P. 1026, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 368; Spencer v. Collins, 156 Cal. 298, 104 P. 320, 20 Ann. Cas. 56; Burns v. McCain, 107 Cal. App. 291, 290 P. 623, citing R. C. L.; Shouse v. Consolidated Flour Mills Co. 128 Kan. 174, 277 P. 54, 64 A.L.R. 606; Maynard v. Maynard, 251 Ky. 246, 64 S. W. (2d) 567, 91 A.L.R. 697; McCreary v. Stevens, 156 Miss. 330, 126 So. 4, citing R. C. L.; Humphreys County v. Cashin, 128 Miss. 236, 90 So. 888, citing R. C. L.; Crutcher v. Sims, 184 Mo. App. 488, 170 S. W. 430, citing R. C. L.; Re Rhea, 126 Neb. 571, 253 N. W. 876, citing R. C. L.; Jamison v. Shelton, 35 N. M. 34, 289 P. 593, citing R. C. L.; Officer v. Cummings, 127 Or. 320, 272 P. 273, citing R. C. L.; Maupin v. Maupin, 158 Va. 663, 164 S. E. 557, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 42 L.R.A. 768, s. 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 181; 16 Am. St. Rep. 593; 20 Ann. Cas. 56; Ann. Cas. 1914D, 371.

Allowance of attorneys' fees will not be reversible error for lack of evidence to support it, merely because the only evidence thereon was an opinion fixing a larger sum. Tillamook County v. Johnson, 96 Or. 623, 190 P. 159, 10 A.L.R. 448.

If the court is present at the time of the rendition of the services, he is presumed to know their character, extent, and value, and while he may not arbitrarily disregard the opinion of the testifying lawyers, yet he may determine for himself what, in the light of all the evidence, is a reasonable fee. Maynard v. Maynard, 251 Ky. 246, 64 S. W. (2d) 567, 91 A.L.R. 697.

§ 193. Variance.—In actions by attorneys to recover compensation, the usual rule as to correspondence of allegata and probata applies.[2] Thus, where the petition is a statement of a demand for services rendered, testimony tending to support a declaration for a breach of contract by which the plaintiff was prevented from rendering service is a manifest variance from the petition and clearly incompetent.[3]

§ 194. Trial; Questions for Court and Jury.—An action by an attorney to recover his fee is an action at law triable to a jury.[4] In such cases the fundamental principle that it is the province of the court to determine questions of law and of the jury to determine questions of fact[5] applies. The question of what constitutes an abandonment of the attorney's contract is one of law for the court,[6] but whether the attorney performed according to its terms is a question for the jury.[7] However, the courts are not in harmony on the matter of whether the determination of the justification of the attorney's withdrawal is a question of law for the court or one of fact for the jury.[8] If there is any competent evidence on the question, it is a matter for the jury whether or not there was a settlement or compromise of the cause of action without the attorney's knowledge.[9]

E. Measure of Compensation or Recovery

§ 195. Under Express Contract.—Where the employment of an attorney is under an express valid contract stipulating for the compensation which the attorney is to receive for his services, such contract is, generally speaking, conclusive as to the amount of such compensation.[10] This is true whether the contract specifies a definite amount, or provides that the attorney shall receive a certain proportion of the amount recovered in the suit for which he is employed.[11] Moreover, a client cannot avoid a contract with his attorney for fees for the reason simply that in the end it did not bring to him the results which he had anticipated thereunder.[12] Such contract is also binding on the attorney, even though the amount stipulated is inadequate,[13] unless the agreement is made under a mistake of fact which the law recognizes.[14] However, an attorney may be estopped from claiming his stipulated fee by bringing the action in a jurisdiction where the statutes provide for the awarding of attorneys' fees by arbitration, and seeking and accepting the benefit of such provision.[15]

---

[19] Spencer v. Collins, 156 Cal. 298, 104 P. 320, 20 Ann. Cas. 49.
Annotation: 16 Am. St. Rep. 593.

[20] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567.

[1] Tillamook County v. Johnson, 96 Or. 623, 190 P. 159, 10 A.L.R. 448.

[2] See generally Pleading [Also 21 R. C. L. p. 608, § 152].

[3] Scheinesohn v. Lemonek, 84 Ohio St. 424, 95 N. E. 913, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 737.

[4] Western States Oil & Land Co. v. Helms, 143 Okla. 206, 288 P. 964, 72 A.L.R. 357.

[5] See Trial.

[6] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1155.

[7] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1155.

[8] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1156.

[9] Western States Oil & Land Co. v. Helms, 143 Okla. 206, 288 P. 964, 72 A.L.R. 357.

[10] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Bodfish v. Fox, 23 Me. 90, 39 Am. Dec. 611; Nichols v. Melton, 141 Okla. 210, 284 P. 642, citing R. C. L.; Dolph v. Speckart, 94 Or. 550, 179 P. 657, 186 P. 32, citing R. C. L.; White v. Burch (Tex. Civ. App.) 33 S. W. (2d) 512, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 166.

[11] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729; Stevens v. Sheriff, 76 Kan. 124, 90 P. 799, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1153.
Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729.
A contract to pay an attorney a percentage of any sum obtained by execution, settlement, compromise, or agreement in an action for breach of promise of marriage does not entitle him to any share in property secured by the plaintiff through marriage with the defendant, or to any part of the value of the marriage. Crow v. Mitchell, 269 Mo. 697, 192 S. W. 417, L.R.A.1917D, 912.

[12] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 122, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81.

§ 196. —When Contract Is Invalid.—Where the contract is illegal because of some consideration not affecting the validity of the employment itself, the attorney is limited, in his right to recover compensation, to an action on a quantum meruit.[16] In such cases the contract cannot be taken as the criterion of value for such services,[17] although it may be looked to for the purpose of ascertaining what the parties themselves thought the services were reasonably worth, and, in connection with the other evidence, to determine what was the reasonable value of the service actually rendered.[18]

§ 197. —For Additional Services.—The fact that there is a contract between an attorney and client as to the performance of certain services does not necessarily repel the presumption that the client has promised to pay the attorney for other services rendered at the client's request, though an express promise to pay therefor does not exist,[19] although it has been said that an attorney ought not to do work he considers beyond the contract, with the intent of charging the client therefor, without consulting the client and enlarging the contract.[20] Generally the compensation fixed for conducting or defending the interests of the client in certain litigation, in the absence of express stipulations to the contrary, covers all the necessary steps in advancing the suit or the defense,[1] including motions for new trials,[2] and even general services rendered in collateral suits necessary to effectuate the purposes of the original litigation.[3] However, the ordinary contract to conduct or defend a suit does not contemplate services rendered after judgment or settlement,[4] either on appeal, unless such services are expressly covered by the terms of the contract or by necessary implication,[5] or in other suits.[6] Moreover, the attorney may be employed to perform only a particular limited legal service, and thus may be entitled to compensation for additional services not contemplated as probable or necessary at the time of making the agreement.[7]

§ 198. Under Implied Contract.—In the absence of an express contract of employment between an attorney and his client fixing the amount of the attorney's compensation, it is generally held that the attorney is entitled to what his services are reasonably worth, or what has usually been paid to others for similar services.[8] The determination of this depends largely upon the circumstances of the particular case.[9] Among other things to be considered are the importance and results of the case,[10] the difficulties thereof, the degree of professional skill and ability required and exercised,[11] the skill, experience, and professional standing of the attorney,[12] and the prominence or character of the parties, where it affects the importance of the litigation,[13] as well as the amount or values involved or recovered.[14] The value of the services of an attorney is necessarily to be determined by many considerations besides the mere time visibly employed in the conduct of a suit,[15] although in the absence of other evidence, the court must be guided in estimating the value of attorney's services by the time or amount of labor performed as indicated by the record.[16]

---

[13] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 166.

[14] Thurston v. Travelers' Ins. Co. 128 Neb. 141, 258 N. W. 66, citing R. C. L.

[15] Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.

[16] See supra, § 178.

[17] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

[18] McGowan v. Parish, 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. ed. 955, 35 S. Ct. 543; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Bryant v. Browning (Tex. Civ. App.) 48 S. W. (2d) 798, citing R. C. L.; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

[19] Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 167.

[20] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 845.

[1] Falloon v. Miles, 102 Neb. 843, 170 N. W. 191, 2 A.L.R. 840.
Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 847.

[2] Falloon v. Miles, 102 Neb. 843, 170 N. W. 191, 2 A.L.R. 840.

[3] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 848.

[4] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 848.

[5] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 849.
Where the contract in express terms covers all the work in all the courts, the attorney is not entitled to further compensation for litigating the matter in the Supreme Court. Annotation: 83 Am. St. Rep. 167.

[6] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 851.

[7] Duniway v. Hadley, 91 Or. 343, 178 P. 942, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 852–854.

---

[8] Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548, 23 L. ed. 983; Kline v. Blackwell (C. C. A. 5th) 63 F. (2d) 897 (writ of certiorari denied in 290 U. S. 636, 78 L. ed. 553, 54 S. Ct. 54) citing R. C. L.; Lecatt v. Sallee, 3 Port. (Ala.) 115, 29 Am. Dec. 249; Ætna L. Ins. Co. v. Heiden, 184 Ark. 291, 42 S. W. (2d) 392, citing R. C. L.; Shackleford v. Arkansas Baptist College, 181 Ark. 363, 26 S. W. (2d) 124, citing R. C. L.; Ætna L. Ins. Co. v. Taylor, 128 Ark. 155, 193 S. W. 540, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 1122; Elmore v. Johnson, 143 Ill. 513, 32 N. E. 413, 21 L.R.A. 366, 36 Am. St. Rep. 401; Pons's Succession, 142 La. 721, 77 So. 515, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 939; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; Mellon v. Fulton, 22 Okla. 636, 98 P. 911, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960; Watson v. Johnson, 174 Wash. 12, 24 P. (2d) 592, 89 A.L.R. 1527; Whitham v. Hilton, 78 Wash. 446, 139 P. 209, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 260; Ramsey v. Brooke County Bldg. & L. Asso. 102 W. Va. 119, 135 S. E. 249, 49 A.L.R. 668; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, 46 S. E. 1014, 65 L.R.A. 348.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 960; 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; 20 Ann. Cas. 55; Ann. Cas. 1918D, 945.

A contract between a wife and an attorney for the institution of proceedings for a divorce is based upon the reasonable value of the services and her ability to respond in a court of law therefor. Johnson v. Gerald, 216 Ala. 581, 113 So. 447, 59 A.L.R. 348.

[9] Franklin Lumber Co. v. Harold Anderson, 105 N. J. Eq. 542, 148 A. 792, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 237; Ann. Cas. 1916B, 263.

The circumstances to be taken into consideration do not essentially differ from those which pertain to and regulate contracts of other professional services, and in fact any kind of service in which the amount of the compensation necessarily depends largely upon the circumstances under which the service is rendered, its nature, and the charges that are usual and customary for like services. McLellan v. Hayford, 72 Me. 410, 39 Am. Rep. 343.

[10] Federal Oil Marketing Corp. v. Cravens (C. C. A. 8th) 46 F. (2d) 938, citing R. C. L.; Bayou Meto Drainage Dist. v. Chapline, 143 Ark. 446, 220 S. W. 807, citing R. C. L.; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; F. L. Stitt & Co. v. Powell, 94 Fla. 550, 114 So. 375, citing R. C. L.; Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729; Pons's Succession, 142 La. 721, 77 So. 515, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 939; Babbitt v. Bumpus, 73 Mich. 331, 41 N. W. 417, 16 Am. St. Rep. 585; Selover v. Bryant, 54 Minn. 434, 56 N. W. 58, 21 L.R.A. 418, 40 Am. St. Rep. 349; Egan v. Burnight, 34 S. D. 473, 149 N. W. 176, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 539; Watson v. Johnson, 174 Wash. 12, 24 P. (2d) 592, 89 A.L.R. 1527.

Annotation: 16 Am. St. Rep. 592; 74 Am. St. Rep. 91; 20 Ann. Cas. 55.

[11] Stanton v. Embrey, 93 U. S. 548, 23 L. ed. 983; Deberry v. Cavalier, 113 Cal. App. 30, 297 P. 611, citing R. C. L.; Greyling Realty Corp. v. Lawson, 179 Ga. 188, 175 S. E. 453, citing R. C. L.

[12] Federal Oil Marketing Corp. v. Cravens (C. C. A. 8th) 46 F. (2d) 938, citing R. C. L.; Bayou Meto Drainage Dist. v. Chapline, 143 Ark. 446, 220 S. W. 807, citing R. C. L.; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729; Pons's Succession, 142 La. 721, 77 So. 515, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 939; Stafford v. Bishop, 98 W. Va. 625, 127 S. E. 501, citing R. C. L

Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 56.

[13] Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729.

[14] Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729; Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197; Burdick v. Mann, 60 N. D. 710, 236 N. W. 340, 82 A.L.R. 1443 (verdict for $9,000 for legal services securing over $165,000 for the client).

Eight thousand dollars has been held not excessive to allow attorneys, consisting of three firms and two individuals, for securing an estate for an infant through a will contest which required three trials and two arguments on appeal, where the amount recovered for him was between $17,000 and $19,000, and their recovery depended upon the success of the litigation. Roberts v. Vaughn, 142 Tenn. 361, 219 S. W. 1034, 9 A.L.R. 1528.

The value of the services to the client, measured by his necessities, are not necessarily the measure of the value of the services in themselves which the attorney may recover. Old Dominion Transp. Co. v. Hamilton, 146 Va. 594, 131 S. E. 850, 46 A.L.R. 186.

Where the fee is to be contingent upon success, the magnitude of the result achieved or the doubtfulness of the case when instituted should be considered in estimating the value of the services rendered,[17] and not the number of pleadings filed, or their length, or the number of times counsel appeared in court, or the number of hours consumed in oral argument.[18]

§ 199. Interest on Fees.—In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary,[19] it may be laid down as a general rule that interest on attorneys' fees is recoverable from the time they become due and payable,[20] which is usually, unless the time is determined by the provisions of the contract,[1] when demand for payment is made,[2] or the date of the termination of the employment, when the attorney is discharged by the client.[3] If, however, the demand is unliquidated, no interest should be allowed on attorneys' fees.[4]

§ 200. Statutory Limitation on Amount of Fees.—In certain instances attorneys may be limited by statute in the amounts which they may charge clients for services,[5] in which case an agreement for a larger fee than that allowed by the statute is illegal.[6] A general statute limiting the amount which a lawyer may charge for his services is doubtless unconstitutional, but statutes limiting the amount of fees chargeable by attorneys for certain services may be upheld as a valid exercise of the police power.[7] Thus, Congress has the power to regulate and limit the amount of an attorney's fee for [15] Selover v. Bryant, 54 Minn. 434, 56 N. W. 58, 21 L.R.A. 418, 40 Am. St. Rep. 349.

Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 55.

[16] Federal Oil Marketing Corp. v. Cravens (C. C. A. 8th) 46 F. (2d) 938, citing R. C. L.; Bayo Meto Drainage Dist. v. Chapline, 143 Ark. 446, 220 S. W. 807, citing R. C. L.; Greyling Realty Corp. v. Lawson, 179 Ga. 188, 175 S. E. 453, citing R. C. L.; Graham v. Dubuque Specialty Mach. Works, 138 Iowa, 456, 114 N. W. 619, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 729; Farley v. Geisheker, 78 Iowa, 453, 43 N. W. 279, 6 L.R.A. 533; Pons's Succession, 142 La. 721, 77 So. 515, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 939; Watson v. Johnson, 174 Wash. 12, 24 P. (2d) 592, 89 A.L.R. 1527; Stafford v. Bishop, 98 W. Va. 625, 127 S. E. 501, citing R. C. L.

[17] Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Cornelius v. Smith, 73 Okla. 217, 175 P. 754, 9 A.L.R. 233.
Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 238.

[18] Cornelius v. Smith, 73 Okla. 217, 175 P. 754, 9 A.L.R. 233.

[19] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 200; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 250.

[20] Myers v. Bender, 46 Mont. 497, 129 P. 330, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 245; Prager v. New Jersey Fidelity & P. G. Ins. Co. 245 N. Y. 1, 156 N. E. 76, 52 A.L.R. 193; Mygatt v. Wilcox, 45 N. Y. 306, 6 Am. Rep. 90.
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 197; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 249.
A judgment for attorneys' fees, properly provides for interest from its date. Hoyt v. Beach, 104 Iowa, 257, 73 N. W. 492, 65 Am. St. Rep. 461.

[1] Myers v. Bender, 46 Mont. 497, 129 P. 330, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 245.
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 198.

[2] Trimble v. Kansas City, P. & G. R. Co. 180 Mo. 574, 79 S. W. 678, 1 Ann. Cas. 363; Prager v. New Jersey Fidelity & P. G. Ins. Co. 245 N. Y. 1, 156 N. E. 76, 52 A.L.R. 193; Mygatt v. Wilcox, 45 N. Y. 306, 6 Am. Rep. 90.
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 198; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 249.

[3] Mygatt v. Wilcox, 45 N. Y. 306, 6 Am. Rep. 90.
Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 198; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 249.

[4] Annotation: 52 A.L.R. 199; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 250.

[5] Blair v. Coleraine, 180 Minn. 388, 231 N. W. 193, 69 A.L.R. 1317, 72 A.L.R. 108.
The fees which may be paid to an attorney by an executor or administrator are sometimes limited by statute. Reed v. Taliaferro, 37 Wyo. 107, 259 P. 815, 55 A.L.R. 941.
As to limitations on fees charged workmen's compensation claimants, see Workmen's Compensation Acts.

[6] Hall v. Kimmer, 61 Mich. 269, 28 N. W. 96, 1 Am. St. Rep. 575.

[7] Yeiser v. Dysart, 267 U. S. 540, 69 L. ed. 775, 45 S. Ct. 399.
Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 1319; 69 L. ed. 776.

prosecuting a claim for a pension,[8] for prosecuting Civil War damage claims,[9] or for prosecuting a claim under the Indian Depredation Claims Act.[10]

§ 201. On Death of Attorney.—Where the contract between an attorney and his client is terminated by the death of the attorney, the extent of the recovery permitted his representative is the full reasonable value of the services rendered prior to the death, not exceeding, however, the sum or rate fixed by the contract.[11] The contract may be of value in determining the reasonable value of the services,[12] and the compensation may be apportioned in such proportion as the services actually rendered bear to those contracted for,[13] with an allowance to the client of direct and consequential damages occasioned by the stopping of performance, including additional money expended for attorneys' fees.[14]

If the client permits a surviving partner to complete the contract, he will be liable for the full amount of the compensation originally agreed upon.[15]

§ 202. On Discharge by Client.—In a suit on a quantum meruit for the recovery of compensation where the attorney employed for a specific purpose or for a definite time was discharged without cause, the measure of recovery is not the benefit received by the client, but what the services were reasonably worth.[16] If, however, the action is for damages for breach of the contract in which a definite compensation is fixed, the measure of recovery is in some cases held to be the full contract price agreed upon,[17] with interest from the time it became due,[18] provided, in the case of an employment for a fixed time, that the attorney remained ready and willing to perform, and capable of doing so, during the period of the contract.[19] In some decisions, however, a different measure of recovery is adopted.[20] Moreover, it would seem that the attorney ought not to recover more than he would have made if he had gone on with the case; in other words, his right to claim the whole compensation is subject to such abatement as would in the natural course of things have been incurred if the services had been continued.[1] It is to be noted also that some courts take the position that no action for damages lies in favor of an attorney who is discharged before he completes his contract of service.[2] If, however, the compensation agreed upon is contingent on the successful result of a suit, it has been held that the measure of damages is not the contingent fee, but the reasonable value of the services rendered,[3] plus any injury or loss sustained by reason of the breach,[4] not to exceed the amount contracted for.[5]

---

[8] Ballew v. United States, 160 U. S. 187, 40 L. ed. 388, 16 S. Ct. 263; Frisbie v. United States, 157 U. S. 160, 39 L. ed. 657, 15 S. Ct. 586; Wolcott v. Frissell, 134 Mass. 1, 45 Am. Rep. 272; Hall v. Kimmer, 61 Mich. 269, 28 N. W. 96, 1 Am. St. Rep. 575.

Annotation: 69 L. ed. 780; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 863, 866.

[9] Newman v. Moyers, 253 U. S. 182, 64 L. ed. 849, 40 S. Ct. 478; Calhoun v. Massie, 253 U. S. 170, 64 L. ed. 843, 40 S. Ct. 474; Capital Trust Co. v. Calhoun, 250 U. S. 208, 63 L. ed. 942, 39 S. Ct. 486; Ralston v. Dunaway, 123 Ark. 12, 184 S. W. 425, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 870.

Annotation: 69 L. ed. 779; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 869, 872; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 538.

Such provisions do not affect contracts made prior to the enactment of the statute. Newman v. Moyers, 47 App. D. C. 102, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 528; Moyer v. Memphis, 135 Tenn. 263, 186 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 854.

[10] Ball v. Halsell, 161 U. S. 72, 40 L. ed. 622, 16 S. Ct. 554.

Annotation: 69 L. ed. 779; Ann. Cas. 1918C, 869.

[11] Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380 (employment on contingent basis); Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, 23 Am. Dec. 149.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 210.

[12] Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197.

Annotation: 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 383.

[13] Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197; Clendinen v. Black, 18 S. C. L. (2 Bail.) 488, 23 Am. Dec. 149.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914D, 211.

[14] Morton v. Forsee, 249 Mo. 409, 155 S. W. 765, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 197.

[15] Clifton v. Clark, 83 Miss. 446, 36 So. 251, 66 L.R.A. 821, 102 Am. St. Rep. 458, 1 Ann. Cas. 396.

Annotation: 1 Ann. Cas. 401.

[16] Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402; Price v. Western Loan & Sav. Co. 35 Utah, 379, 100 P. 677, 19 Ann. Cas. 589.

Annotation: 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 93; L.R.A. 1917F, 413; 12 Am. St. Rep. 142.

[17] McGowan v. Parish, 237 U. S. 285, 59 L. ed. 955, 35 S. Ct. 543; Bartlett v. Odd Fellows' Sav. Bank, 79 Cal. 218, 21 P. 743, 12 Am. St. Rep. 139; Scheinesohn v. Lemonek, 84 Ohio St. 424, 95 N. E. 913, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 737.

Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 410.

[18] Brodie v. Watkins, 33 Ark. 545, 34 Am. Rep. 49; Bartlett v. Odd Fellows' Sav. Bank, 79 Cal. 218, 21 P. 743, 12 Am. St. Rep. 139; Dolph v. Speckart, 94 Or. 550, 186 P. 32, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 92; 83 Am. St. Rep. 166.

If there is no mode of ascertaining the damage sustained except by adopting the agreed price as the measure of damages, the price agreed must, from necessity, be accepted. Annotation: 53 L.R.A. 80; 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 92; L.R.A.1917F, 410.

[19] Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 414.

[20] Annotation: L.R.A.1917F, 410, 411.

§ 203. On Dismissal or Discontinuance of Action by Client.—As a general rule, an attorney employed on a percentage contract is entitled to recover the reasonable value of his services, where the action is voluntarily discontinued or dismissed by the client without his consent.[6] Thus, attorneys whose connection with their client is severed by the latter after the dismissal, on the client's motion, of an action which they were employed to bring by a contract providing for a contingent fee payable out of the land or money recovered may sue for the reasonable value of the services performed.[7] In some jurisdictions, however, the attorney's compensation is apparently measured by the amount which would have been recovered.[8]

§ 204. On Settlement or Compromise by Client. — With regard to the measure of compensation to which an attorney employed under a contingent fee is entitled where the action or suit is compromised by the client without the attorney's consent, the authorities are not uniform. By the weight of authority, where an attorney is employed on a contingent fee consisting of a percentage of the amount recovered, the amount for which the case is settled is the basis on which the attorney's percentage is to be computed,[9] unless there is fraud or collusion in the settlement, in which case the rule is otherwise.[10] The attorney should receive the same proportion of such amount as was called for in the contract. Thus, for instance, where the contract called for a fee of 50 per cent of any sum collected, the attorney would be entitled to one half of the sum paid in settlement.[11] The attorney is not limited to the reasonable value of his services if such value is less than the specified percentage of the amount of the settlement, or entitled to recover such reasonable value if it is greater than such specified percentage.[12] The same rule applies to property received in settlement.[13] There are, however, decisions to the effect that when an attorney contracts for a contingent fee to depend upon the result of the suit, and the client compromises such suit without the consent of the attorney, the latter will be entitled to recover the whole amount of the fee in like manner as if the contingency had transpired upon which the payment of the fee was made to depend.[14] This rule has, however, been sometimes limited to cases where the evidence fails to show what would have been the result of the litigation had the compromise not been made, it being deemed unreasonable to hold that an attorney should receive compensation on the basis of a successful termination of the suit, where the evidence affirmatively shows that such would not have been the result.[15] Where the clause in a contract between attorney and client prohibiting a settlement without the consent of the attorney is void as against public policy so that it may be repudiated by the client,[16] and is so connected with the clause prescribing the percentage of the recovery which the attorney is to receive as compensation that the latter clause falls with it, the attorney is usually held to be entitled to recover the value of the services rendered by him upon the basis of actual worth.[17] In some jurisdictions, the matter is regulated by statute.[18]

---

[1] Brodie v. Watkins, 33 Ark. 545, 34 Am. Rep. 49.
Annotation: 53 L.R.A. 80; 6 L.R.A. (N.S.) 92.

[2] Martin v. Camp, 219 N. Y. 170, 114 N. E. 46, L.R.A.1917F, 402.

[3] Polsley v. Anderson, 7 W. Va. 202, 23 Am. Rep. 613.
Annotation: 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 93.

[4] Annotation: 53 L.R.A. 80; 6 L.R.A. (N.S.) 93.

[5] Smith v. Thompson (Tex. Civ. App.) 233 S. W. 876, reversed apparently on other grounds in (Tex.) 248 S. W. 1070, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 53 L.R.A. 80; 6 L.R.A.(N.S.) 93.

[6] Andrews v. Haas, 214 N. Y. 255, 108 N. E. 423, 3 A.L.R. 458.
Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 489, s. 40 A.L.R. 1538.

[7] Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.

[8] Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 490, s. 40 A.L.R. 1538.

[9] Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449; Procter v. Louisville & N. R. Co. 156 Ky. 465, 161 S. W. 518, 3 A.L.R. 461; Schmitz v. South Covington & C. Street R. Co. 131 Ky. 207, 114 S. W. 1197, 22 L.R.A.(N.S.) 776, 18 Ann. Cas. 1114; Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Southworth v. Rosendahl, 133 Minn. 447, 158 N. W. 717, 3 A.L.R. 468; Myers v. Bender, 46 Mont. 497, 129 P. 330, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 245.
Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 473, s. 40 A.L.R. 1530.

[10] Southworth v. Rosendahl, 133 Minn. 447, 156 N. W. 717, 3 A.L.R. 468; Desaman v. Butler Bros. 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642.
Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 480, s. 40 A.L.R. 1533.

[11] Schmitz v. South Covington & C.

Where the contract is not for a percentage of the recovery, but for a specified fee contingent upon success, there is a conflict of opinion as to the proper measure of recovery. One class of cases holds that the attorney is entitled to recover only the reasonable value of his services,[19] but some cases apparently take the view that the whole fee may be recovered.[20]

Where the settlement is made after judgment, the cases are not entirely harmonious, but they support the rule that if the judgment is final, the amount of the judgment, and not the amount of the settlement, controls, at least where the defendant is solvent.[1] But where the judgment has not be-

---

Street R. Co. 131 Ky. 207, 114 S. W. 1197, 22 L.R.A.(N.S.) 776, 18 Ann. Cas. 1114.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 475, s. 40 A.L.R. 1531.

[12] Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 474, s. 40 A.L.R. 1531.

[13] Myers v. Bender, 46 Mont. 497, 129 P. 330, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 245.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 477, s. 40 A.L.R. 1532.

An attorney employed on a contingent fee to bring an action for breach of promise of marriage is not entitled to any share of property received by the client by operation of law as a result of her subsequent marriage to the defendant, or to any part of the value of such marriage. Crow v. Mitchell, 269 Mo. 697, 192 S. W. 417, L.R.A. 1917D, 912.

[14] Western States Oil & Land Co. v. Helms, 143 Okla. 206, 288 P. 964, 72 A.L.R. 357; Polsley v. Anderson, 7 W. Va. 202, 23 Am. Rep. 613 (stating this to be the holding of a Texas case, but disapproving thereof).

[15] Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 1115, 1116.

[16] See supra, § 116.

[17] Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441.

[18] Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 474, s. 40 A.L.R. 1536.

[19] Southworth v. Rosendahl, 133 Minn. 447, 158 N. W. 717, 3 A.L.R. 468; Polsley v. Anderson, 7 W. Va. 202, 23 Am. Rep. 613.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 491, s. 40 A.L.R. 1539.

[20] Ingersoll v. Coram, 211 U. S. 335, 53 L. ed. 208, 29 S. Ct. 92; Hunt v. Test, 8 Ala. 713, 42 Am. Dec. 659.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 492, s. 40 A.L.R. 1539.

[1] Chreste v. Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 484, s. 40 A.L.R. 1535.

It was held in Desaman v. Butler Bros. 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642, that where a verdict had fixed the amount of the plaintiff's cause of action, a secret and collusive compromise between the parties, the facts of which showed fraud as against the plaintiff's attorney, did not affect the amount of the attorney's lien. Accordingly, as the attorney had a contract with the plaintiff for one half of the amount that might be obtained, and after the recovery of a verdict for $3,000, the client settled for $700, it was held that the attorney could recover $1,500 from the defendant.

come final, as where an appeal or a motion for a new trial is pending, the amount of the settlement, and not the amount of the judgment, controls as a general rule.[2] This is clearly true when there has been a reversal.[3]

§ 205. When Adversary Agrees to Pay Fee.—Whether the fact that the adverse party has agreed to pay or has paid to the client the latter's attorneys' fees will affect the measure of compensation to which the attorney is entitled depends upon whether, in the particular jurisdiction, the client's recovery upon stipulations for attorneys' fees is allowed as liquidated damages or only as an indemnity. If payment of such fees is considered purely as liquidated damages, such a stipulation between the client and his debtor does not concern the former's relation with his attorney or fix the measure of such attorney's compensation.[4] If, on the other hand, the theory of indemnity applies, the amount of fees collected by the creditor and the compensation due his attorney are directly interrelated; the client can only collect from the debtor reasonable fees or those fixed by agreement with his attorney, and he is estopped to deny that the attorney's services are worth the amount collected, which is accordingly deemed the measure of the attorney's compensation, in the absence of a contract, express or implied, fixing such compensation.[5] There is authority to the contrary, however, holding that the stipulated amount in the note or other contract between the debtor and the client is inserted solely for the client's benefit, and that as between him and his attorney, the latter is not limited to that amount, and his compensation is not measured by it, but is limited to the reasonable value of his services,[6] although that sum will be presumed to be the reasonable value of his services until the contrary is shown.[7]

The authorities are also in conflict as to the measure of an attorney's compensation where he has undertaken a case for a certain percentage of the recovery, and during the pendency of the suit the client settles directly with his adversary, the latter agreeing to pay the attorney's fee stipulated for. Thus, in some jurisdictions it has been held that where a case in which the plaintiff has agreed to pay his attorney a fee equal to a specified per cent of any sum collected or recovered is compromised by the defendant's paying the plaintiff a certain sum and agreeing to pay the fee agreed upon between the plaintiff and his attorney, the attorney is not entitled to an amount which would be equal to the specified per cent of the total of the sums paid to himself and to the plaintiff, but only to the specified per cent of that amount which the plaintiff received under the settlement.[8] In brief, if the attorney was to receive 50 per cent of the recovery as his fee, he could recover from the defendant only half the amount paid the plaintiff under the settlement.[9] The view prevailing in other jurisdictions is that the agreement to pay the attorney is a part of the settlement, that the amount paid the client is not the whole of the settlement, but only the client's share thereof, and that the whole amount of the settlement on which the attorney's percentage is to be computed is an amount bearing such a proportion to the amount paid to the client as the whole bears to the fraction representing the client's share.[10] In other words, if the client had agreed to pay the attorney 50 per cent of the amount recovered, then the defendant would be obligated to pay the attorney the same amount that he had agreed to pay the plaintiff in the settlement.[11]

---

[2] Nichols v. Orr, 63 Colo. 333, 166 P. 561, 2 A.L.R. 449.
Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 485, s. 40 A.L.R. 1535.

[3] Procter v. Louisville & N. R. Co. 156 Ky. 465, 161 S. W. 518, 3 A.L.R. 461.

[4] Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 594.

[5] Porter v. Title Guaranty & S. Co. 17 Idaho, 364, 106 P. 299, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 111.
Annotation: 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 595.

[6] Rogers v. Kemp Lumber Co. 18 N. M. 300, 137 P. 586, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 594.

[7] Exchange Bank v. Tuttle, 5 N. M. 427, 23 P. 241, 7 L.R.A. 445.

[8] Procter v. Louisville & N. R. Co. 156 Ky. 465, 161 S. W. 518, 3 A.L.R. 461; Schmitz v. South Covington & C. Street R. Co. 131 Ky. 207, 114 S. W. 1197, 22 L.R.A. (N.S.) 776, 18 Ann. Cas. 1114.
Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 481, s. 40 A.L.R. 1533; 22 L.R.A.(N.S.) 776.

[9] Schmitz v. South Covington & C. Street R. Co. 131 Ky. 207, 114 S. W. 1197, 22 L.R.A. (N.S.) 776, 18 Ann. Cas. 1114.

§ 206. Right to Taxable Costs, Statutory Fees, and Expenses.—In many jurisdictions it is laid down as a general rule that in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the costs and other disbursements allowed in an action belong to the party, and not to his attorney,[12] even though the attorney has a lien on the judgment for costs and disbursements and for his services.[13] In some jurisdictions, however, the rule has been altered by statute.[14] When a statute authorizes an attorney's fee to be taxed, it depends upon the provisions of the statute whether this should go to the attorney or to the client; but when an allowance on account of the attorney's fees is made because due by the terms of the contract sued on, it seems clear that the attorney is entitled to receive it.[15] Moreover, an allowance to a party for his attorney's fees and expenses is for the use and benefit of the attorney, with the party standing in the position of dry trustee without power to satisfy the judgment until the fees and expenses of the attorney have been paid.[16]

An attorney, by virtue of his employment as such, has authority to incur such reasonable expenses as the case may require;[17] and if he has advanced money for proper and necessary expenses, he may recover the amount thereof from his client,[18] although a client is not liable for costs incurred by an attorney employed by his attorney without authority to do so.[1]

§ 207. Division of Compensation between Attorneys Contributing Services.—Lawyers jointly undertaking to represent a client without a contract as to the division of the fees share equally.[2] The same rule applies where one attorney engages another attorney to assist in the prosecution of litigation for a contingent fee under an agreement to share the fee if successful.[3] But where the client's employment of several attorneys is separate and not joint, or where separate attorneys have rendered services although not all of them were employed throughout the litigation, each is entitled to what his services are reasonably worth.[4]

---

[10] Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co. 128 Minn. 365, 151 N. W. 125, L.R.A.1917B, 1140.

Annotation: 3 A.L.R. 481, s. 40 A.L.R. 1534; 22 L.R.A.(N.S.) 777.

Where the statute provides that an attorney's fee shall be paid by an insurance company which fails to pay the loss, the fee is a part of the recovery, within the meaning of a contract between attorney and client entitling the attorney to a percentage of the recovery in a suit upon the policy. Vaughan v. Humphreys, 153 Ark. 140, 239 S. W. 730, 22 A.L.R. 1201.

[11] Annotation: 22 L.R.A.(N.S.) 776.

Under an agreement in a personal injury case by which the defendant settled with the plaintiff, agreeing to pay him $4,500 and to reimburse him for any sum he should be compelled to pay his attorneys, the defendant is liable for $2,250 to the attorneys, where their contract with the injured person provided for the payment to them of one third of any amount received in settlement. Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co. 128 Minn. 365, 151 N. W. 125, L.R.A. 1917B, 1140.

[12] Vaughan v. Humphreys, 153 Ark. 140, 239 S. W. 730, 22 A.L.R. 1201; Dwyer v. Ellis, 208 Mass. 195, 94 N. E. 286, 21 Ann. Cas. 1042; Davis v. Swedish-American Nat. Bank, 78 Minn. 408, 80 N. W. 953, 81 N. W. 210, 79 Am. St. Rep. 400; Re Howell, 215 N. Y. 466, 109 N. E. 572, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 527.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1203.

[13] See infra, §§ 219 et seq.

[14] The Baltimore, 8 Wall. (U. S.) 377, 19 L. ed. 463; Com. v. McCoy, 8 Watts (Pa.) 153, 34 Am. Dec. 445.

Annotation: 22 A.L.R. 1208.

[15] Schmidt v. Oregon Gold Min. Co. 28 Or. 9, 40 P. 406, 1014, 52 Am. St. Rep. 759.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 1042.

[16] Yoder v. Yoder, 105 Wash. 491, 178 P. 474, 3 A.L.R. 1104.

[17] See supra, § 95.

[18] Forbes v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 150 Iowa, 177, 129 N. W. 810, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 311.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912D, 313.

[1] Antrobus v. Sherman, 65 Iowa, 230, 21 N. W. 579, 54 Am. Rep. 7.

[2] Underwood v. Overstreet, 188 Ky. 562, 223 S. W. 152, 10 A.L.R. 1352.

Annotation: 10 A.L.R. 1357.

[3] Langdon v. Kennedy, 118 Neb. 290, 224 N. W. 292, 63 A.L.R. 896; Davenport v. Waggoner, 49 S. D. 592, 207 N. W. 972, 45 A.L.R. 1126.

Annotation: 63 A.L.R. 919.

Upon the dissolution of a law firm, there must be an accounting made of fees earned by the combined services of the partners in suits or other unfinished business pending at the time of dissolution;[5] and if a member of a law firm becomes a judge of a court, he may, under a contract of employment in pending business, recover for services of which the client has already had the benefit, but he has no interest in any fees for services rendered by the remaining member of the firm in concluding that particular business.[6] Commissions received by one member of a law firm while acting as an executor or administrator for the estate of a third person without objection or with the assent of the other members of the partnership are not firm profits or earnings for which he must account to the partnership on a dissolution thereof.[7]

A member of the firm who withdraws from the case and refuses to perform any services under the contract is not entitled to share in the compensation received by the other partners who prosecute the case to a conclusion, although mere neglect of duty alone probably would not extinguish his right.[8] Nor should a deduction be made because one partner has not been as active as the other.[9]

X. ATTORNEYS' LIENS

A. In General

§ 208. Generally.—Attorneys' liens are divided, according to their nature, into two classes: (1) General, possessory, or retaining liens; and (2) charging or special liens.[10] The general or retaining lien attaches to all property, papers, books, documents, securities, and moneys of the client coming into the hands of the attorney in the course of his professional employment[11] and gives him the right to retain possession thereof as security for costs, disbursements, and charges not only in the particular cause in which they come into his possession, but for all costs, disbursements, and charges due him for other professional employment and business.[12] This lien is, however, generally speaking, a passive one, and cannot ordinarily be actively enforced either at law or in equity.[13] The special or charging lien is one given to the attorney for his services rendered in procuring a judgment, decree, or award for his client.[14] At common law such lien attaches to the judgment, and not to the cause of action, although in a number of states statutory provisions have extended the charging lien to the client's cause of action. This lien may be actively enforced in appropriate proceedings therefor.[15] Thus, it will be seen that there is a clear distinction between a retaining lien and a charging lien, and the failure to distinguish between them has in many cases led to conflict and confusion in the decisions on the subject.[16]

---

[4] Annotation: 10 A.L.R. 1358.

[5] Osment v. McElrath, 68 Cal. 466, 9 P. 731, 58 Am. Rep. 17.
Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 34.

[6] Justice v. Lairy, 19 Ind. App. 272, 49 N. E. 459, 65 Am. St. Rep. 405.

[7] Metcalfe v. Bradshaw, 145 Ill. 124, 33 N. E. 1116, 36 Am. St. Rep. 478.

[8] Denver v. Roane, 99 U. S. 355, 25 L. ed. 476.
Annotation: L.R.A.1918B, 679.
As to right of estate of deceased partner in profits from unfinished business, see Partnership.

[9] Consaul v. Cummings, 222 U. S. 262, 56 L. ed. 192, 32 S. Ct. 83.

[10] Hale v. Tyson, 202 Ala. 107, 79 So. 499, citing R. C. L.; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.
Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251.

[11] See infra, §§ 210 et seq.

[12] See infra, § 213.

[13] See infra, § 218.

[14] See infra, §§ 219 et seq.

[15] See infra, §§ 242 et seq.

B. General or Retaining Lien

§ 209. Generally.—The general or retaining lien of an attorney is the lien which attaches to papers, documents, moneys, etc., of his client, connected with the litigation, coming into the attorney's hands in the course of his employment,[17] and gives the attorney the right to retain such papers, property, or money until all his costs and charges against his client are paid.[18] This lien is said to have had its origin partly in custom and partly to prevent circuity of action.[19] It is a common-law lien founded and depending upon possession;[20] no such lien can be asserted on funds in the hands of the defendant [1] or, except as to costs, on the damages recovered in a cause before they come to his hands, even if he has a demand against his client equal to the amount of the recovery.[2] In some states there is an express statutory provision for a general or retaining lien which supersedes the common-law one.[3]

§ 210. Property to Which Lien Attaches.—The general, possessory, or retaining lien of an attorney attaches to all property, papers, books, documents, or securities of the client that come to the attorney professionally or in the course of his professional employment,[4] such as a bond,[5] a municipal warrant,[6] a promissory note or other negotiable paper,[7] an account,[8] a voucher,[9] a bank book,[10] a letter or writing,[11] a contract, insurance policy, or lease,[12] a deed,[13] or a mortgage.[14] The lien extends to an execution or copy of the judgment in the attorney's hands[15] and to articles delivered to the attorney to be exhibited to witnesses, and has been enforced in the case of copies of expensive books used in evidence. While the lien must arise from professional employment, yet if the attorney receives papers in his professional capacity, it does not, it seems, matter that he also sustains some other business relation to his client.[16]

---

[16] Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

[17] See infra, § 210.

[18] See infra, § 213.

When the attorney has possession of such papers, moneys, etc., he has the right to retain them against his client as assignments or attachments until the general balance due him for legal services is paid. The client cannot discharge him and withdraw such papers or money from his hands without first paying the general balance due him for legal services, whether growing out of the special matters then in his hands, or other legal matters. Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

[19] Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

The Federal courts, it seems, recognize no lien at common law in behalf of an attorney beyond that given by the local law. Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 256.

[20] Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128; Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; American Nat. Bank v. Funk, 68 Okla. 169, 172 P. 1078, L.R.A. 1918F, 1137; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251, 252.

[1] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[2] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[3] Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430, holding that no legal lien is fastened upon either a cause of action for the cancelation of a deed and for reconveyance and possession of the land it covers, or the subject-matter thereof, by service of notice of the lien by counsel upon the defendants prior to the dismissal of the action thereon instituted by them, under a statute giving an attorney a lien for a general balance, there being no money judgment claimed or any fund in the hands of counsel which he could retain.

[4] McPherson v. Cox, 96 U. S. 404, 24 L. ed. 746; Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Gray v. Hopkins-Carter Hardware Co. (C. C. A. 5th) 32 F. (2d) 876, citing R. C. L.; Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134; McCracken v. Joliet, 271 Ill. 270, 111 N. E. 131, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 144; Forsythe v. Beveridge, 52 Ill. 268, 4 Am. Rep. 612; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632; Northrop v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128; Van Etten v. State, 24 Neb. 734, 40 N. W. 289, 1 L.R.A. 669; Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536; State ex rel. Mothersead v. Dyer, 126 Okla. 260, 259 P. 212, citing R. C. L.; American Nat. Bank v. Funk, 68 Okla. 169, 172 P. 1078, L.R.A. 1918F, 1137; Dubois's Appeal, 38 Pa. 231, 80 Am. Dec. 478; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267; Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953.

§ 211. —Money Collected by Attorney.—The general or retaining lien of an attorney is usually held to extend to moneys collected by him for his client in the course of his employment, whether or not upon a judgment or award.[17] If the client sues to recover the money, the attorney may retain the whole amount if the value of his services is equal to or exceeds the sum collected; he will not, however, be allowed to hold the entire amount collected merely because a small part is due to him as fees. With regard to the basis of the attorney's claim upon moneys collected for his client for the payment of such client's indebtedness to him, the authorities are not uniform, some holding that the right rests upon the law of lien,[18] others that it is a right to defalcate, rather than a right of lien,[19] and still others that it results from the right to set off.[20]

§ 212. —Property Not Affected.—Papers may come into the possession of an attorney under such circumstances as are inconsistent with the enforcement of a lien for services.[1] For example, a general or retaining lien does

---

Re Morris [1908] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 473, 2 B. R. C. 46; Stevenson v. Blakelock, 1 Maule & S. 535, 105 Eng. Reprint, 200, 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 694.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 992; 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; 95 Am. St. Rep. 137; Ann. Cas. 1913E, 540; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 147; 16 Eng. Rul. Cas. 125, 126; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 703.

An original attorney is not bound to consent to a substitution or to deliver papers upon which he has a lien until the amount of his just demands is ascertained by a court or referee and paid or secured. Curtis v. Richards, 4 Idaho, 434, 40 P. 57, 95 Am. St. Rep. 134.

Where the court reporter refused to surrender the certificate of evidence in an action until payment of his fees, but loaned it to the plaintiff's attorneys for preparation of their abstracts and briefs for appeal, they are entitled to a lien on the certificate for their compensation. McCracken v. Joliet, 271 Ill. 270, 111 N. E. 131, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 144.

[5] McPherson v. Cox, 96 U. S. 404, 24 L. ed. 746.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[6] Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.

[7] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[8] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[9] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 150.

[10] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[11] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[12] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[13] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149, 150.

[14] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149, 150.

[15] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 149.

[16] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[17] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Van Etten v. State, 24 Neb. 734, 40 N. W. 289, 1 L.R.A. 669; Burleigh v. Palmer, 74 Neb. 122, 103 N. W. 1068, 12 Ann. Cas. 777; Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Dubois's Appeal, 38 Pa. 231, 80 Am. Dec. 478; Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 253; 12 Ann. Cas. 778.

[18] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 253, 254, 255.

[19] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Dubois's Appeal, 38 Pa. 231, 80 Am. Dec. 478.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 253.

[20] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 255.

[1] Re Niagara, L. & O. Power Co. 203 N. Y. 493, 97 N. E. 33, 38 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207, Ann. Cas. 1913B, 234.

not attach to papers and documents which have come into the hands of an attorney otherwise than in the course of his employment as such[2]—as, for instance, where papers are received by him as prochein ami of an infant,[3] as mortgagee, or as trustee.[4] No such lien attaches to money or property which a client has left with his attorney for a special purpose,[5] unless the property is allowed to remain in the attorney's hands after the specific purpose is fulfilled.[6] Nor will an attorney be permitted to hold under a retaining lien papers which are essential to the preservation of the client's rights in future litigation.[7] The retaining lien of an attorney does not attach to funds in court or property in dispute, except, perhaps, in bankruptcy or lunacy cases, when, it seems, a general lien for the management of the property may attach on the fund or body of the estate.[8] Such a lien cannot be successfully asserted against money appropriated to such client by an act of the legislature while such money is in the custody or under the control of the State Treasurer.[9]

§ 213. Services and Compensation Covered by Lien.—The general or retaining lien of the attorney exists not only for all costs, charges, and disbursements due him in the particular cause in which they come into his possession, but also for the costs and the amount due him for other professional business and employment in other causes.[10] In other words, the lien extends to the general balance due for professional services rendered to the client.[11] It has been held that an attorney will also be protected in making payment, out of the funds collected by him, of reasonable fees to associate counsel in the cause employed by the client.[12]

§ 214. Notice of Lien.—No notice is required to be given before an attorney's common-law retaining lien upon papers in his possession becomes operative.[13] Thus, it is usually held that notice is not required to protect such lien against assignment by the client or attachment by trustee process by his creditors.[14] In some decisions, however, statutes giving attorneys the lien for a general balance of compensation from the time of giving notice of the lien have been held applicable to liens claimed against money or property in the possession of the attorney against which, in the absence of the statute, the attorney would have had a general common-law retaining lien.[15] However, the real intent of these statutes seems to be to require notice only in the case of money or property in the hands of the adverse party.[16]

---

[2] Thomson v. Findlater Hardware Co. 109 Tex. 235, 205 S. W. 831, 2 A.L.R. 1486; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

Stevenson v. Blakelock, 1 Maule & S. 535, 105 Eng. Reprint, 200, 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 694.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 1488; 19 L. ed. 993; 51 Am. St. Rep. 252; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 150.

[3] Annotation: 31 Am. Dec. 759.

[4] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[5] Lindsley v. Caldwell, 234 Mo. 498, 137 S. W. 983, 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 161; Anderson v. Bosworth, 15 R. I. 443, 8 A. 339, 2 Am. St. Rep. 910.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 151, 152.

Money specially deposited with an attorney to be used as cash bail for a client, to be returned as soon as that purpose shall have been accomplished is not subject to such a lien. Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 255.

[6] Annotation: 31 Am. Dec. 759.

[7] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 152.

[8] Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707.

An attorney cannot maintain a claim on a fund in court against a mortgagee or judgment creditor, even though such mortgagee or creditor is his own client. Dubois's Appeal, 38 Pa. 231, 80 Am. Dec. 478.

[9] State v. Moore, 40 Neb. 854, 59 N. W. 755, 25 L.R.A. 774.

[10] Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267.

Stevenson v. Blakelock, 1 Maule & S. 535, 105 Eng. Reprint, 200, 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 694.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 701.

[11] Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Newcomb v. Krueger, 36 Ohio App. 469, 173 N. E. 246, citing R. C. L.; American Nat. Bank v. Funk, 68 Okla. 169, 172 P. 1078, L.R.A.1918F, 1137; Hudson v. Brown, 179 Wash. 32, 35 P. (2d) 756, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 993.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1090.

As to right to lien against funds of a decedent's estate, see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

[12] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 254.

[13] McCarty v. Goodsman, 39 N. D. 389, 167 N. W. 503, L.R.A.1918F, 160.

[14] Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

§ 215. Priorities.—The attorney's lien on his client's papers for costs and disbursements will not be protected against the pre-existing rights of third persons; it does, however, prevail against one to whom the client has assigned the cause of action before judgment, for a pre-existing debt, in a jurisdiction where such consideration is not regarded as a valuable consideration, and against the client's assignment for the benefit of his creditors.[17]

§ 216. Waiver or Loss of Lien.—An attorney's general or retaining lien is liable to be defeated or lost in a number of different ways.[18] It may be lost by an assignment of the funds against which the lien is asserted or by the fact of the attorney's voluntary withdrawal from,[19] or unjustifiable refusal to proceed with, the prosecution of the case.[20] But such lien is not affected by the client's assignment in bankruptcy or insolvency or for the benefit of creditors.[1] Nor is it extinguished by a transfer subject to the lien.[2]

It has also been held that the lien is superseded by taking security for the debt which is the subject of the lien,[3] or that at least it has been suspended,[4] although it has been held that whether such security is due or not, where securities are given to secure the payment of particular costs, the general lien is unaffected.[5] The solution of this question whether the taking of security constitutes a waiver is generally held to depend upon the intention of the parties to the transaction.[6]

§ 217. —Loss of Possession.—Being founded on possession, the attorney's retaining lien may be lost by the act of the attorney in voluntarily parting with the possession of the papers, etc., to which it may have attached,[7] even though by mistake.[8] The fact, however, that the property is placed in the control of the attorney's agent does not affect the lien.[9] Nor is it lost by reason of the fact that the papers are improperly taken from the attorney.[10]

Where the retention by an attorney of his client's papers serves to embarrass the client, the attorney may be required to deliver them up, upon receiving proper security for his compensation.[11] An attorney from whom papers, which he has a right to hold to secure payment for his services, have been taken by an order and decree of court, thereby swelling the funds for the payment of creditors of the client, is entitled to be paid, out of the funds realized from the sale of the client's property, the debts for which the papers were held.[12]

---

[15] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 277.

[16] See infra, § 225.

[17] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 253, 254.

[18] Annotation: 31 Am. Dec. 759.

[19] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252, 256.

[20] Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913E, 540.

[1] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[2] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[3] Annotation: 31 Am. Dec. 759; 2 B. R. C. 58.

[4] Annotation: 19 L. ed. 994.

[5] Re Morris, [1908] 1 K. B. (Eng.) 473, 2 B. R. C. 46—C. A.
Annotation: 2 B. R. C. 58.

[6] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252; 2 B. R. C. 58.

[7] Lamont v. Washington & Georgetown R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; American Nat. Bank v. Funk, 68 Okla. 169, 172 P. 1078, L.R.A.1918F, 1137; Dubois's Appeal, 38 Pa. 231, 80 Am. Dec. 478; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684; Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953.
Annotation: 19 L. ed. 994; 51 Am. St. Rep. 251, 256.
Where the attorney files papers in his possession in court for the purpose of procuring a judgment, he surrenders his right to a possessory lien. Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128.

[8] Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953.
Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 256.

[9] American Nat. Bank v. Funk, 68 Okla. 169, 172 P. 1078, L.R.A.1918F, 1137.
Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 252.

[10] Annotation: 31 Am. Dec. 759.

[11] Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.
Annotation: 33 A.L.R. 1296.

§ 218. Enforcement of Lien.—The general lien of an attorney upon his client's papers is a passive one, and cannot ordinarily be actively enforced, either at law or in equity. It amounts to a mere right to retain the papers as against the client until the attorney is fully paid.[13] Clearly, in the case of a promissory note in the attorney's hands for collection, the lien does not give him any right to a judgment against the client for the amount of his fees after the defendant has paid the note to the attorney's client.[14] If the lien is questioned, it must be determined by the court or a referee on a proper investigation. Such lien may, however, be indirectly enforced, under some circumstances, by order and execution; and it is sometimes proper for the court to determine the existence and amount of the lien and to establish the condition upon which the attorney shall deliver up the property.[15] Even when enforceable under an attorney's lien law, such a retaining lien cannot be foreclosed by advertisement and sale under a statute providing for the foreclosure of liens on personal property.[16]

C. Special or Charging Lien

§ 219. Generally.—In addition to the retaining lien, an attorney has what is generally known as a particular, special, or charging lien for his services rendered in procuring a judgment, decree, or award for his client,[17] which attaches to the fruits of his skill and labor.[18] This lien is not dependent [19] or does not rest upon possession, as in the case of general or retaining liens, but upon the equity of an attorney to be paid his fees and disbursements out of the judgment which he has obtained.[1] Such lien, as recognized by the common law, is the right of an attorney or solicitor to recover his taxable costs, or his fees and money expended on behalf of his client, from a fund recovered by his aid, and the right to have the court interfere to prevent payment by the judgment debtor to the creditor in fraud of his right to the same and to prevent or set aside assignments or settlements made in fraud of his right.[2] It entitles the attorney to apply to the court for a disbursement of the proceeds realized by the enforcement of the judgment.[3] It is necessary, however, to the existence of the lien that there be a valid contract for fees, either express or implied, entered into between the attorney and his client.[4]

---

[12] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 256.

[13] Modern Woodmen v. Cummins, 216 Mo. App. 404, 268 S. W. 383, citing R. C. L.

[14] Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128.

[15] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 254, 255.

[16] McCarty v. Goodsman, 39 N. D. 389, 167 N. W. 503, L.R.A.1918F, 160.

[17] Hale v. Tyson, 202 Ala. 107, 79 So. 499, citing R. C. L.; Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; State v. National Surety Co. 29 Idaho, 670, 161 P. 1026, 2 A.L.R. 251; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271; Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; Potter v. Mayo, 3 Me. 34, 14 Am. Dec. 211; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128; Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Culver, 54 N. H. 327, 20 Am. Rep. 134; Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Marshall v. Meech, 51 N. Y. 140, 10 Am. Rep. 572; Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722; Loofbourow v. Hicks, 24 Utah, 49, 66 P. 602, 55 L.R.A. 874; Victor Gold & Silver Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953; Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 992; 51 Am. St. Rep. 251, 254.

[18] Wylie v. Coxe, 15 How. (U. S.) 415, 14 L. ed. 753.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 992.

Courts have and will exercise authority to allow an attorney a lien for his fees upon a fund which his labors have created or assisted to bring into existence, unless some consideration of public policy or other special reasons stand in the way. Costigan v. Stewart, 76 Kan. 353, 91 P. 83, 11 L.R.A. (N.S.) 630.

[19] Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384.

[1] Collins v. Thuringer, 92 Colo. 433, 21 P. (2d) 709, citing R. C. L.; Forsythe v. Beveridge, 52 Ill. 268, 4 Am. Rep. 612; Cohen v. Goldberger, 109 Ohio St. 22, 141 N. E. 656, citing R. C. L.; Tyler v. Superior Court, 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045;

§ 220. Purpose and Basis of Lien.—The charging lien of an attorney was recognized by early English decisions.[5] It generally exists in this country and is based, in some states, upon the common law,[6] though in many states, entirely on statutes[7] the constitutionality of which have been upheld.[8] Even where the attorney's lien as enforced at common law is recognized, it is frequently the subject of express statutory regulation, which must, of course, be complied with. The scope of such lien has been greatly enlarged by statute in many states.[9] Wherever the legislature has enlarged and defined a common-law lien, its definition supersedes that of the courts.[10] In a few states it seems that in the absence of an express contract, out of which an equitable assignment arises, an attorney at law has no such lien.[11] Such charging lien was created to protect the rights of an attorney unable to get possession

---

Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722; Loofbourow v. Hicks, 24 Utah, 49, 66 P. 602, 55 L.R.A. 874; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 257; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 717.

[2] Hale v. Tyson, 202 Ala. 107, 79 So. 499, citing R. C. L.; Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Costigan v. Stewart, 76 Kan. 353, 91 P. 83, 11 L.R.A. (N.S.) 630; Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115 N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 828; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1096; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

[3] Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216; Webster v. Sweat (C. C. A. 5th) 65 F. (2d) 109, citing R. C. L.; Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v. South Florida Farms Co. 91 Fla. 593, 109 So. 212, 48 A.L.R. 957; Tulka v. Chicago City R. Co. 259 Ill. App. 234, citing R. C. L.; Griggs v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 104 Neb. 301, 177 N. W. 185, citing R. C. L.

The lien creates a right to have the judgment enforced for the attorney's benefit, but not a right to transfer the judgment. Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1087.

The cause of action does not, however, become in part the property of the attorney. Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533, 13 Ann. Cas. 441.

[4] Wright v. Ellison, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 16, 17 L. ed. 555; Midland Valley R. Co. v. Johnson, 140 Ark. 174, 215 S. W. 665, 7 A.L.R. 1007; State v. National Surety Co. 29 Idaho, 670, 161 P. 1026, 2 A.L.R. 251; People ex rel. Stephens v. Holten, 304 Ill. 394, 136 N. E. 738, 24 A.L.R. 929.

An associate or assistant counsel engaged by an attorney cannot, without authority to do so, assert a lien, unless the client ratifies the employment. Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 278.

If compensation is claimed under an illegal contract, there is no right to a lien on the judgment. Hightower v. Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich. 1, 247 N. W. 97, 86 A.L.R. 509.

[5] Annotation: 31 Am. Dec. 755, 756; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 716.

[6] Royal Ins. Co. v. Simon, 20 Del. Ch. 297, 174 A. 444, citing R. C. L.; Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045.

[7] Rowe v. Fogle, 88 Ky. 105, 10 S. W. 426, 2 L.R.A. 708; Potter v. Mayo, 3 Me. 34, 14 Am. Dec. 211; Elliott v. Orton, 69 Okla. 233, 171 P. 1110, L.R.A.1918E, 103; Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722; Humptulips Driving Co. v. Cross, 65 Wash. 636, 118 P. 827, 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 226.

Federal courts recognize no common-law lien, but give effect to the laws of the state in which they are held. Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 687.

[8] Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703.

Annotation: 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529.

[9] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567.

[10] Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.

[11] Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Forsythe v. Beveridge, 52 Ill. 268, 4 Am. Rep. 612; Humphrey v. Browning, 46 Ill. 476, 95 Am. Dec. 446.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 266.

against a client who seeks to avoid payment for services.[12] It is upheld on the theory that his service and skill produced the judgment,[13] in accordance with the principle which gives a mechanic a lien upon a valuable thing which, by his skill and labor, he has produced.[14] Such a lien cannot be asserted by an attorney who is himself guilty of collusion against his client.[15]

§ 221. Agreement Creating Lien.—A lien may be created by an express agreement on the part of the client that the attorney shall have a lien for his compensation on the amount recovered.[16] Moreover, it has been held in some jurisdictions that where the parties have contracted that the attorney shall receive a specified amount of the recovery, such agreement will create an equitable lien in favor of the attorney to the extent of the amount stipulated.[17] A writing from a client authorizing an attorney to retain as compensation a part of any recovery of money had by judgment amounts to an assignment and does not destroy, but confirms, the attorney's common-law lien upon the judgment for his compensation.[18] Other courts, however, have taken a contrary view.[19] In some decisions a distinction is sought to be made to the effect that if the agreement is for a certain fee or percentage to be paid out of the fund recovered, a lien is created, while if it is merely for a sum equal to a certain percentage of the fund recovered or for a certain amount in case of recovery, the contract is merely personal between the attorney and client and no lien on the fund recovered is created.[20] That is, it is indispensable to the lien that there should be a distinct appropriation of the fund by the client and an agreement that the attorney should be paid out of it.[1] When, however, the cause of action is by its nature not assignable, some courts hold that the client cannot by any agreement give his attorney any interest or lien therein;[2] others take the position that an agreement to divide the recovery in a nonassignable cause of action may attach itself to the judgment when recovered and give the attorney an equitable interest therein.[3]

---

[12] Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.

[13] Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 257.

[14] Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Cohen v. Goldberger, 109 Ohio St. 22, 141 N. E. 656, citing R. C. L.; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

[15] Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1088.

[16] Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495.

[17] Ingersoll v. Coram, 211 U. S. 335, 53 L. ed. 208, 29 S. Ct. 92; Peugh v. Porter, 112 U. S. 737, 28 L. ed. 859, 5 S. Ct. 361; Forsythe v. Beveridge, 52 Ill. 268, 4 Am. Rep. 612; Costigan v. Stewart, 76 Kan. 353, 91 P. 83, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 630; Svea Assur. Co. v. Packham, 92 Md. 464, 48 A. 359, 52 L.R.A. 95; Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Stansell v. Roach, 147 Tenn. 183, 246 S. W. 520, 29 A.L.R. 143; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

Annotation: 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 634; 51 Am. St. Rep. 265; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 387, 390.

An agreement by a lawyer who was prosecuting a case for a contingent fee to give certain other lawyers one third of such fee, if and when he should receive it, if they would do certain work for him creates a lien upon the fund as soon as it is received by him in favor of such attorneys where they have performed the agreed services. Barnes v. Alexander, 232 U. S. 117, 58 L. ed. 530, 34 S. Ct. 276.

[18] Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

[19] Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216; Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165; Enos v. Keating, 39 Wyo. 217, 271 P. 6, 275 P. 131, 67 A.L.R. 430.

[20] Trist v. Child (Burke v. Child) 21 Wall. (U. S.) 441, 22 L. ed. 623; De Winter v. Thomas, 34 App. D. C. 80, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 634, writ of certiorari denied in 215 U. S. 609, 54 L. ed. 347, 30 S. Ct. 411.

Annotation: 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 634.

[1] Porter v. White, 127 U. S. 235, 32 L. ed. 112, 8 S. Ct. 1217; Wright v. Ellison, 1 Wall. (U. S.) 16, 17 L. ed. 555.

[2] Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045.

§ 222. Extent of Lien; Taxable Costs.—The decisions are not uniform as to the extent of an attorney's charging lien. Clearly it includes all the fees and expenses of the attorney embraced in the assessed costs,[4] and as a general rule, it has been extended so as to cover not merely disbursements made on behalf of the client included in the taxable costs, but also compensation for the services of the attorney.[5] If the amount of compensation was agreed upon, the attorney has a lien to the extent of that amount.[6] If there was no specific agreement for compensation, he has a lien to the extent to which he is entitled to recover of the client on a quantum meruit a reasonable compensation for the services rendered.[7]

In England and in Canada the particular or charging lien of the attorney is confined to his taxable costs and disbursements in the suit,[8] and some of the United States courts take this view.[9]

§ 223. Limitation of Lien to Services in Suit Wherein Judgment Is Had.—In the absence of statute, the particular or charging lien does not extend beyond the charges and fees in the suit in which the judgment was recovered; it does not cover any general balance which may be due the attorney from the client for professional services rendered in other causes or transactions,[10] or any claim for unpaid salary under a general retainer.[11] Even the statutory lien of an attorney on the fruits of the suit has been held to be limited to the services rendered therein, and not to extend to prospective services in the hearing of an appeal.[12] Generally, however, the charging lien has been held to extend to charges for fees or disbursements of suits incident to, or growing out of, the principal object of the employment.[13] Moreover, under some statutes the lien is held not to be limited to compensation for services rendered by the attorney in procuring the judgment upon which he relies, but to cover a balance due him for any and all professional services theretofore rendered his client,[14] and it may be sustained for services rendered in other matters, where there is a special contract with regard thereto.[15]

---

[3] Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 265.

[4] Loofbourow v. Hicks, 24 Utah, 49, 66 P. 602, 55 L.R.A. 874; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767; McClure v. Little, 15 Utah, 379, 49 P. 298, 62 Am. St. Rep. 938.

If the expenses of an attorney are a part of the fee for which he contracts, they are within the purview of a statute giving a lien for his fees. Midland Valley R. Co. v. Johnson, 140 Ark. 174, 215 S. W. 665, 7 A.L.R. 1007.

[5] Central R. & Bkg. Co. v. Pettus, 113 U. S. 116, 28 L. ed. 915, 5 S. Ct. 387; Internal Improv. Fund v. Greenough, 105 U. S. 527, 26 L. ed. 1157; Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Baker v. Baker, 258 Ill. 418, 101 N. E. 587 (based upon statute and overruling by implication a prior decision to the contrary under the common law in Forsythe v. Beveridge, 52 Ill. 268, 4 Am. Rep. 612); Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Burleigh v. Palmer, 74 Neb. 122, 103 N. W. 1068, 12 Ann. Cas. 777; Citizens Nat. Bank v. Culver, 54 N. H. 327, 20 Am. Rep. 134 (decided under a Vermont statute; the New Hampshire rule is to the contrary; see annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916E, 391); Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Marshall v. Meech, 51 N. Y. 140, 10 Am. Rep. 572; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 993; 51 Am. St. Rep. 260, 275; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 387; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 716.

[6] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 260; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 387.

[7] Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916E, 387; 51 Am. St. Rep. 260.

[8] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 258; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 390.

[9] Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045; Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 993; 51 Am. St. Rep. 259; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 391; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 716.

Under a statute giving an attorney a lien for so much of the execution as is due him for fees and disbursements, his lien has been held to extend only to such fees and disbursements as are taxed and included in the execution. Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612.

Where the attorney by statute is given a lien for his unpaid fees and disbursements on any execution lawfully within his hands, the lien is limited to taxable costs only, and does not extend to counsel fees. Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 275.

[10] Central R. & Bkg. Co. v. Pettus, 113 U. S. 116, 28 L. ed. 915, 5 S. Ct. 387; Internal Improv. Fund v. Greenough, 105 U. S. 527, 26 L. ed. 1157; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513 7 Am. Rep. 707; Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128;

§ 224. Lien for Successful Defense of Suit or Right.—The attorney for the plaintiff is not necessarily the only attorney entitled to a lien; there may be instances where the attorney for the defendant also has such right.[16] If, for example, the defense attorney succeeds in obtaining an affirmative judgment in favor of his client, as, for instance, in the case of a demand for a set-off or counterclaim, he may claim a lien for such services.[17] However, in a majority of jurisdictions in which an attorney has a lien on specific property recovered, he has no lien on property for his services in successfully defending or protecting the title thereto.[18] In some jurisdictions, however, an attorney is given a statutory lien on land for services in successfully defending the title thereto in an action brought against his client to recover it.[19] Moreover, the agree-

---

Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 680; 97 A.L.R. 1134; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 392.

Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1093.

The value of services rendered in one suit cannot be included in a judgment establishing the lien of an attorney for his fees on property received by his client in compromise of a judgment in a different suit. Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 49 S. W. 822, 45 L.R.A. 196, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81.

[11] Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384.

[12] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 275.

[13] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992.

Annotation: 97 A.L.R. 1135, 1137; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 393.

When a judgment has been obtained, an execution issued, and the attorney's lien has attached thereto, it has been held to extend to suits arising from and incidental to the enforcement of the judgment. Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612.

[14] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271.

[15] Annotation: 97 A.L.R. 1139.

[16] Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360.

[17] Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703; Elliott v. Orton, 69 Okla. 233, 171 P. 1110, L.R.A.1918E, 103.

When, in a suit by partners to settle the partnership and enforce their liens upon the assets, the defendant partner obtains an affirmative judgment for a definite sum then under the control of the court, the title to which, up to the time of the judgment, was in the firm and not in himself alone, this is a recovery of property which entitles his attorney to a lien for his fee. Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360.

[18] Gray v. Hopkins-Carter Hardware Co. (C. C. A. 5th) 32 F. (2d) 876, citing R. C. L.; Owens v. Gunther, 75 Ark. 37, 86 S. W. 851, 5 Ann. Cas. 130; Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; Forrester v. Howard, 124 Ky. 215, 98 S. W. 984, 124 Am. St. Rep. 394; Elliott v. Orton, 69 Okla. 233, 171 P. 1110, L.R.A. 1918E, 103; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095; Stansell v. Roach, 147 Tenn. 183, 246 S. W. 520, 29 A.L.R. 143.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 689; 9 Ann. Cas. 626.

In Mackall v. Willoughby, 167 U. S. 681, 42 L. ed. 323, 17 S. Ct. 954, such a lien was allowed where an agreement provided for a lien on any judgment or property recovered in the pending suits, one of which successfully defended a possession obtained in one of the other two suits.

In jurisdictions in which an attorney is entitled to a lien on specific property recovered for his client, a lien clearly does not arise where property does not become vested in his client as a result of his services. Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 687.

[19] Strohecker v. Irvine, 76 Ga. 639, 2 Am. St. Rep. 62.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 693; 9 Ann. Cas. 627.

ment between the attorney and client may be such as to give the attorney a lien upon property, the title to which he successfully defends against the claim of third persons.[20]

§ 225. Notice of Lien.—As between attorney and client, the filing and recording of a notice of lien is not essential to the validity of the lien,[1] nor is notice necessary to protect the attorney against an execution creditor of the client who levies on the judgment,[2] or against an assignee of the judgment.[3] However, notice has been held necessary to render an attorney's lien on property recovered binding on a bona fide purchaser of the property not otherwise chargeable with notice.[4] Some courts have held that it is not necessary that notice of the lien be given to the opposite party or his attorney,[5] although ordinarily, even after final judgment has been rendered, notice to the judgment debtor of the attorney's lien is necessary in order to protect it against a bona fide settlement and payment of the debt by the debtor, made in ignorance of the existence of such lien;[6] such notice is expressly required by statute in some states,[7] especially where it is sought to have the lien extend to the amount of compensation fixed by special agreement.[8] In other jurisdictions the attorney is not required to give notice of his intention to rely on his lien where the judgment is for costs alone.[9] Some statutes provide that an attorney shall have a lien in a case of a special agreement, to the extent of the compensation definitely agreed on, from the giving of a prescribed notice thereof to the party against whom the judgment or decree is given. In such a case the right to the lien depends upon giving the notice as required by the statute.[10]

§ 226. —Sufficiency of Notice.—Where notice of an attorney's lien is necessary, no special form of notice is as a rule required. Actual notice of the claim, whether verbal or in writing, answers every purpose of the requirement and is sufficient to protect the rights of the attorney.[11] It has been held that where the judgment debtor has actual notice of the lien or claim of the attorney, and, in some states, where he has notice of facts such as to put a prudent person upon inquiry, it is sufficient to protect the rights of the attorney.[12] A service of a written notice of an attorney's lien upon the attorney of record for the adverse party has been held sufficient to satisfy the statutory requirement.[13] Where the attorney is, by statute, given a lien on the cause of action, the pendency of the action is, in some jurisdictions, deemed sufficient notice of such lien.[14] In other jurisdictions, statutes giving an attorney a lien upon money in the hands of the adverse party provide that notice of a claim to such money shall be given by the memorandum note on the judgment or combination docket, and that the filing of this notice is sufficient to protect the attorney against payment of the judgment by the pary against whom it is rendered.[15]

---

[20] In Mackall v. Willoughby, 167 U. S. 681, 42 L. ed. 323, 17 S. Ct. 954, where the attorney was to represent the client in several pending cases and it was agreed that he should have a lien for his compensation on any judgment and property recovered, the attorney was held entitled to a lien on property involved in the suits where the client was left in undisturbed possession because of a recovery in one of them.

[1] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 695.

[2] Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707.

[3] Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

[4] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 695.

[5] Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707.

[6] Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 270, 66 Am. Dec. 541; People v. New York Common Pleas, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 649, 28 Am. Dec. 495; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267; Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

Annotation: 72 Am. St. Rep. 817.

In Am. Law Inst. Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1093, it is stated that notice must be given either to the judgment debtor or to the court.

[7] Haj v. American Bottle Co. 261 Ill. 362, 103 N. E. 1000, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 220; Townsend v. Chamberlain, 81 Or. 163, 158 P. 664, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 330; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.

[8] Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.

[9] Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632. And see Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 694.

[10] Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.

[11] Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341.

Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 343.

The manner of service of notice is not important, the chief consideration being the fact of service and the bringing home of notice to the party adjudged to pay. Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006.

A service by mail has been held, however, to be ineffective where the statute was silent as to the manner thereof. Haj v.

Where the right to the lien is, by statute, made to depend upon notice given in a prescribed manner, all the conditions imposed by the statute must be complied with.[16] The notice need not, however, state the amount of the attorney's claim[17] or the terms of his agreement with his client.[18]

§ 227. Priorities.—The lien of an attorney for services rendered in an action relates back to, and takes effect from, the time of the commencement of the services;[1] when it attaches to a judgment, it is superior to the claim of a creditor in whose favor execution has been levied,[2] or to a subsequent attachment, garnishment, or trustee process,[3] or other liens on the money or property involved, subsequent in point of time.[4] Such a lien may be asserted against a subsequent receiver or trustee in insolvency,[5] and where an assignee in bankruptcy assumes control of the action, the court will protect the right of the original attorney to compensation out of the fund. One who purchases a fund in court during the pendency of the suit purchases with notice of the attorney's lien upon the fund for his fee for services rendered with respect to it.[6] Such lien is, however, subject to any rights in the property which are valid against the client at the time the lien attaches.[7]

American Bottle Co. 261 Ill. 362, 103 N. E. 1000, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 220.

[12] Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267.

[13] Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006.

[14] Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 343.

Under the North Dakota statute, the entering of the lien in the judgment docket, opposite the entry of the judgment, makes the lien effective as against the judgment debtor, and as to him constitutes sufficient notice. Jacobsen v. Miller, 50 N. D. 828, 198 N. W. 349, 34 A.L.R. 317.

[15] Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271.

[16] Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006; Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1095.

Annotation: 12 Ann. Cas. 343.

[17] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 919.

[18] Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495.

[1] Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360.

[2] Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 269.

[3] Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Chattanooga Sewer Pipe Works v. Dumler, 153 Miss. 276, 120 So. 450, 62 A.L.R. 999; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821.

[4] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 686; 41 L.R.A. (N.S.) 700, 710.

[5] Annotation: 2 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1037, 1051; 51 Am. St. Rep. 269, 270.

An attorney's lien on the proceeds of a judgment in foreclosure on behalf of a bank, obtained before the insolvency of such bank, is prior to the lien of depositors or other creditors of the bank. Fralick v. Coeur D'Alene Bank & T. Co. 35 Idaho, 749, 208 P. 835, 27 A.L.R. 110.

As to priority of claim for attorney's services in the bankruptcy proceedings, see Bankruptcy [Also 3 R. C. L. p. 256, § 84]; as to priority of attorneys' fees in receivership proceedings, see Receivers [Also 23 R. C. L. p. 109, § 119].

[6] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 269, 270.

[7] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 685.

Where, upon securing for a client an

§ 228. —As between Lien and Set-off.—Upon the question of whether an attorney's charging lien upon a judgment which has resulted from his services is superior to the right of the adverse party to assert a set-off against his client, there is much conflict of opinion.[8] This conflict existed under the English common law until the adoption of the Hilary Term Rule, under which priority was given to the attorney's lien as against the set-off of another judgment or claim against the judgment procured by the attorney for his client, but not as against cross judgments in the same suit. This distinction has been followed in practice under the English Judicature Act and in the Canadian decisions.[9]

The American decisions have likewise been in conflict on this question, some denying the priority of the lien, whether a common-law [10] or statutory one,[11] and others upholding its superiority, both apart from,[12] and under, lien statutes.[13] Often the matter of priority has been regarded as one within the court's discretion.[14]

A distinction is sometimes made between set-offs acquired prior to, and those acquired after, the rendition of the judgment on which the attorney claims a lien. Thus, the attorney's lien is deemed superior to a set-off acquired after the rendition of the judgment,[15] especially if the cause of action out of which the judgment sought to be set off resulted arose out of a separate and distinct transaction from that out of which arose the cause of action resulting in the judgment to which the attorney's lien is affixed,[16] but inferior to a set-off acquired prior to such judgment [17] or prior to receipt of notice of the attorney's lien,[18] or to one that was properly pleaded and proved in the action.[19] According to some authorities, the attorney is regarded as an assignee of the judgment, at least at the date of its rendition, to the extent of his fees, and, accordingly, has an older equity than that acquired by a set-off of later acquisition, so that the maxim, "qui prior est tempore, potior est jure," applies in his favor.[20] equity of redemption in property, it becomes necessary to borrow money to satisfy the prior lien, the court may compel the attorney to execute an agreement, upon proper terms that will protect his lien upon the equity of redemption, to subordinate his lien to the rights of the one advancing the money. Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.

---

[8] Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 323, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268; 51 Am. St. Rep. 268.

[9] Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 324, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[10] Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752.

Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 331, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[11] Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006; Bruegge v. State Bank, — Mo. —, 74 S. W. (2d) 835, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 332, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[12] Collins v. Campbell, 97 Me. 23, 53 A. 837, 94 Am. St. Rep. 458; Simmons v. Reid, 31 S. C. 389, 9 S. E. 1058, 17 Am. St. Rep. 36; Roberts v. Mitchell, 94 Tenn. 277, 29 S. W. 5, 29 L.R.A. 705; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767.

Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 333, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268; L.R.A.1917F, 1012.

The view now upheld in New York is to sustain the attorney's lien as paramount to the set-off. Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 329, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[13] Puett v. Beard, 86 Ind. 172, 44 Am. Rep. 280; Johnson v. Johnston, 123 Okla. 203, 254 P. 494, 51 A.L.R. 1265.

Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 335, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268; L.R.A.1917F, 1012.

[14] Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 333, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[15] Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Puett v. Beard, 86 Ind. 172, 44 Am. Rep. 280; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767.

[16] Johnson v. Johnston, 123 Okla. 203, 254 P. 494, 51 A.L.R. 1265.

[17] Alexander v. Clarkson, 100 Kan. 294, 164 P. 294, L.R.A.1917F, 1006.

Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 331, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[18] Annotation: 34 A.L.R. 333, s. 51 A.L.R. 1268.

[19] Johnson v. Johnston, 123 Okla. 203, 254 P. 494, 51 A.L.R. 1265.

[20] Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Collins v. Campbell, 97 Me. 23, 53 A. 837, 94 Am. St. Rep. 458; Jacobsen v. Miller, 50 N. D. 828, 198 N. W. 349, 34 A.L.R. 317; Roberts v. Mitchell, 94 Tenn. 277, 29 S. W. 5, 29 L.R.A. 705.

§ 229. —When Judgment or Verdict Is Assigned to Attorney.—Where the judgment has been expressly assigned to the attorney to secure payment for his services, his right has generally been sustained as superior to the adverse party's right to set off another judgment, wherever it has been possible to do so without violating a clear equity or express statutory right to a set-off.[1] His right is, however, held inferior where he had notice of the prior judgment against his client, or where such judgment was rendered in the same action.[2] Some courts hold a prior judgment against the client superior to the attorney's right in any event,[3] even though the attorney took the assignment without knowledge that the prior judgment, of which he had knowledge, was unpaid.[4]

§ 230. Waiver or Loss of Lien.—An attorney may waive or be estopped to assert his right to a charging lien on the judgment recovered for his client. A waiver may be implied from various acts of the attorney, or from his failure to enforce his lien.[5] Such a lien is deemed to be waived if the attorney neglects to proceed to the enforcement of it until the debtor has in good faith discharged the liability under the judgment or a third person has, in good faith, for a valuable consideration, purchased the fruits thereof;[6] if he agrees that the proceeds of judgment shall be remitted as collected, and that he shall receive payments of salary at stated intervals;[7] when he agrees to hold the property involved as trustee; where he allows the client to convey the property or permits it to be taken on execution by the client's creditors; where he consents to a delivery or conveyance to his client or to a trustee for him;[8] or where he takes or agrees to take other security, as, for instance, where he contracts to take a conveyance of land for his fee, and gives no notice of intention to claim a lien under the statute.[9] But where the legislature provides a lien for compensation of an attorney upon the proceeds of the cause of action, the court cannot substitute a bond or other form of protection for the lien.[10]

§ 231. —Death or Withdrawal from Case.—An attorney's lien is not entirely extinguished by his death before the termination of the litigation, but may be asserted to the extent of the reasonable value of the services rendered by him, even though his employment was on a contingent fee.[11] The effect of an attorney's withdrawal from a case upon his right to assert a lien depends upon whether his withdrawal was with or without cause; if such withdrawal was without just cause, he can have no lien on the judgment obtained in the suit,[12] but if he was justified in withdrawing, he may assert a lien for services theretofore performed.[13]

---

[1] Adair v. First Nat. Bank, 139 S. C. 1, 137 S. E. 192, 51 A.L.R. 1269; Simmons v. Reid, 31 S. C. 389, 9 S. E. 1058, 17 Am. St. Rep. 36.
Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1279, 1282; 23 L.R.A. 339; L.R.A.1917F, 1012.

[2] Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1281, 1285; 23 L.R.A. 337.

[3] Utica Ins. Co. v. Power, 3 Paige (N. Y.) 365.
Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1285; 23 L.R.A. 335; L.R.A.1917F, 1013.

[4] Benson v. Haywood, 86 Iowa, 107, 53 N. W. 85, 23 L.R.A. 335.

[5] When the attorney, without objection, permits his client to purchase the property ordered sold by the court in satisfaction of his lien, permits the court to confirm the sale, and approves the deed of the property to the client, he waives his lien. Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474.

[6] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Charles v. Whitt, 187 Ky. 77, 218 S. W. 994, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 700.

[7] Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384.

[8] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 700.

[9] Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.
Annotation: 2 B. R. C. 58.

[10] Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291.
Annotation: 33 A.L.R. 1296.

[11] Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380.

§ 232. —Compromise or Settlement by Client.—The client, in the exercise of his conceded right to dismiss, compromise, or settle his cause of action [14] may defeat his attorney's right to a lien which he would otherwise have had,[15] even though the client agreed to pay the attorney a percentage of the proceeds of the judgment,[16] and notwithstanding an express agreement on the part of the client not to dismiss, settle, or compromise without the consent of the attorney.[17] If, however, the attorney's lien has already attached either by the recovery of a judgment or by a compliance with the provisions of the statute providing for such a lien, the act of his client in settling, compromising, or dismissing the suit without his consent will not defeat or prejudice the lien.[18] Thus, where judgment has been obtained for his client, and notice of the attorney's lien thereon has been given, where required, such lien cannot be affected by a payment or settlement of such judgment as between the parties.[19] Nor will a secret or collusive settlement between the parties litigant, made after verdict, affect the lien of the attorney for the successful party.[20] The usual method of protecting the attorney is to allow him to proceed with the suit to recover the amount of his fee.[1]

---

[12] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913E, 540.

[13] Re Dunn, 205 N. Y. 398, 98 N. E. 914, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 536.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913E, 540.

[14] See supra, § 116.

[15] Midland Valley R. Co. v. Johnson, 140 Ark. 174, 215 S. W. 665, 7 A.L.R. 1007 (by minor after reaching maturity); Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390.
Annotation: 1 Ann. Cas. 247.

[16] Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833; Kusterer v, Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.
Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 262.

[17] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 262.

[18] Midland Valley R. Co. v. Johnson, 140 Ark. 174, 215 S. W. 665, 7 A.L.R. 1007 (by minor after reaching maturity); St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Blaylock, 117 Ark. 504, 175 S. W. 1170, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 563; Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Desaman v. Butler, 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642; Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684; O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703; Griggs v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. 104 Neb. 301, 177 N. W. 185, citing R. C. L.; Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380; Re Snyder, 190 N. Y. 66, 82 N. E. 742, 13 Ann. Cas. 441, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1101, 123 Am. St. Rep. 533; Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795. And see Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.
Annotation: 93 Am. St. Rep. 175; 1 Ann. Cas. 248; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 572.

[19] Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612; Desaman v. Butler, 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 268.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913E, 646.

The payment by the judgment debtor to the judgment creditor of a judgment upon which the attorney has such a lien, with actual notice of the attorney's claim, is void as to the attorney to the extent of his lien. Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341.

An application for alimony is not, however, a suit for money or an amount due a client within the meaning of a statute protecting an attorney's lien against satisfaction of the suit or judgment before the lien is satisfied. Keefer v. Keefer, 140 Ga. 18, 78 S. E. 462, 47 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527.

[20] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Desaman v. Butler Bros. 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73, 34 N. W. 72, 3 Am. St. Rep. 258; People ex rel. Manning v. New York Common Pleas, 13 Wend. (N. Y.) 649, 28 Am. Dec. 495; Alexander v. Munroe, 54 Or. 500, 101 P. 903, 135 Am. St. Rep. 840, modified on rehearing in 54 Or. 512, 103 P. 514, 135 Am. St. Rep. 849; Miller v. Newell, 20 S. C. 123, 47 Am. Rep. 833; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913E, 646.

[1] See supra, § 184.

§ 233. —Assignment of Cause of Action or Judgment.—An attorney's lien on the cause of action, given by statute,[2] cannot be defeated by an assignment of such cause of action. In those jurisdictions, however, where the lien does not exist until judgment, if the plaintiff assigns his interest in the judgment before it is entered, the assignee holds free from the attorney's lien,[3] but the assignment of a judgment will not defeat an attorney's lien which has once attached,[4] even though the assignee was without notice of the lien,[5] except in cases where the statute gives an attorney a lien on the judgment only from the time of filing notice thereof, and an assignment of the judgment in good faith and without collusion is made before the lien is filed.[6]

Where the attorney himself takes an assignment of the whole judgment, by so doing he merges his lien for costs or fees and waives his equities.[7]

D. To What Charging Lien Attaches

§ 234. Cause of Action.—An attorney's charging lien, in the absence of statutory provision,[8] or of a contract between the parties, operating as an equitable assignment of, or lien upon, the cause of action,[9] does not attach until after judgment. Such lien does not, at common law, attach to the client's claim or cause of action against a third person, whether the cause of action is in tort or contract,[10] apart from the tangible vouchers of the claim which may be in the attorney's possession.[11] In a number of states, however, the charging lien of the attorney is, by express statutory provision, extended to the client's cause of action,[12] or counterclaim.[13] Such statutes usually provide that such lien in the case of the plaintiff's attorney shall attach from the date of the filing of the suit,[14] the commencement of the action,[15] or the service of the summons,[16] or in the case of the attorney for the defense, from the service of an answer containing a counterclaim.[17]

---

[2] See infra, § 234.

[3] Potter v. Mayo, 3 Me. 34, 14 Am. Dec. 211.

[4] Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

[5] Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.
Annotation: 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 227.

[6] Humptulips Driving Co. v. Cross, 65 Wash. 636, 118 P. 827, 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 226.
Annotation: 37 L.R.A.(N.S.) 226; 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 718.

[7] Dodd v. Brott, 1 Minn. 271, 66 Am. Dec. 541; Jernigan Bros. v. Hart, 139 Tenn. 515, 202 S. W. 68, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 23 L.R.A. 339; 37 L.R.A. (N.S.) 228; 2 B. R. C. 60.

[8] Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045.
Annotation: 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 717.

[9] Stearns v. Wollenberg, 51 Or. 88, 92 P. 1079, 14 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1095.

[10] Jennings v. Canady (C. C. A. 8th) 13 F. (2d) 356 (writ of certiorari denied in 273 U. S. 728, 71 L. ed. 862, 47 S. Ct. 239) citing R. C. L.; Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268; North Chicago Street R. Co. v. Ackley, 171 Ill. 100, 49 N. E. 222, 44 L.R.A. 177; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Cheboygan Circuit Judge, 161 Mich. 181, 126 N. W. 56, 137 Am. St. Rep. 495; Desaman v. Butler, 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 643; Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691; Randall v. Van Wagenen, 115 N. Y. 527, 22 N. E. 361, 12 Am. St. Rep. 838; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Elliott v. Orton, 69 Okla. 233, 171 P. 1110, L.R.A.1918E, 103; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045; Kusterer v. Beaver Dam, 56 Wis. 471, 14 N. W. 617, 43 Am. Rep. 725.
Annotation: 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379.

[11] Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268.
Annotation: 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 717.

[12] Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271; Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Desaman v. Butler, 118 Minn. 198, 136 N. W. 747, Ann. Cas. 1913E, 642; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703; Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Elliott v. Orton, 69 Okla. 233, 171 P. 1110, L.R.A.1918E, 103; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

The fact that a cause of action arose in another state does not prevent the attachment thereto of an attorney's lien given by the statute of the state in which the action is brought, at least not as between such attorney and the parties to the action. Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684.

A nonresident attorney may assert such lien for such services as he may legally perform within the state. Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707.

[13] O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198

§ 235. —Construction and Validity of Statutes Creating Lien on Cause of Action.—In most jurisdictions statutes which in general terms give attorneys a lien on the cause of action, without anything to indicate an intention to confine the lien to actions on contract, or which in general terms give the attorney a lien upon "money due his client in the hands of an adverse party," without expressly limiting it to actions upon contract, are construed to give a lien upon a cause of action in tort,[18] as well as upon a cause of action in contract; there are, however, expressions in some decisions to the effect that no such lien can be created against a cause of action in tort,[19] especially where the cause of action is not assignable, as was the rule at common law.[20] Moreover, the statute may be so drawn as to limit the lien to causes of action arising on contract.[1]

Statutes giving attorneys a lien upon the cause of action, in the absence of some legislative expression to the contrary, are construed prospectively only.[2] Their validity has been uniformly upheld as against objections that they are class or special legislation; that they deprive the opposite party to the client's action of his rights without due process of law; that they restrict or destroy the right of the parties to contract and to effect a settlement of the action; or that they tend to the commission of unprofessional acts on the part of attorneys.[3]

§ 236. Judgments, Decrees, or Awards.—The right of an attorney to a charging lien upon the judgment, decree, or award for his expenses or compensation for the services in procuring the same has been recognized from an early period and exists in almost every jurisdiction at the present time, either under the common-law rule or by virtue of statute,[4] even though the action

---

Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703; Elliott v. Orton, 69 Okla. 233, 171 P. 1110, L.R.A.1918E, 103.

[14] Midland Valley R. Co. v. Johnson, 140 Ark. 174, 215 S. W. 665, 7 A.L.R. 1007; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

[15] O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703.

[16] Barnes v. Verry, 154 Minn. 252, 191 N. W. 589, 31 A.L.R. 707; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341.

[17] O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703.

[18] Dickinson v. Stiles, 246 U. S. 631, 62 L. ed. 908, 38 S. Ct. 415, Ann. Cas. 1918E; 501 (cause of action under the Federal Employers' Liability Act for an injury received in interstate commerce); Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; Greenleaf v Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908; Tompkins v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. 110 Tenn. 157, 72 S. W. 116, 61 L.R.A. 340, 100 Am. St. Rep. 795.

Annotation: 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 918; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 502.

[19] See discussion in Boogren v. St. Paul City R. Co. 97 Minn. 51, 106 N. W. 104, 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 379, 114 Am. St. Rep. 691.

[20] See Assignments, Vol. 4, p. 251, § 27.

[1] Annotation: 3 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380.

[2] Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341.

[3] Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703.

Annotation: 8 Ann. Cas. 709; Ann. Cas. 1913C, 69.

[4] Central R. & Bkg. Co. v. Pettus, 113 U. S. 116, 28 L. ed. 915, 5 S. Ct. 387; Internal Improv. Fund v. Greenough, 105 U. S. 527, 26 L. ed. 1157; Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992; United States ex rel. Payne v. Call (C. C. A. 5th) 287 F. 520, citing R. C. L.; Hale v. Tyson, 202 Ala. 107, 79 So. 499, citing R. C. L.; Warfield v. Campbell, 38 Ala. 527, 82 Am. Dec. 724; Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Andrews v. Morse, 12 Conn. 444, 31 Am. Dec. 752; Lamont v. Washington & G. R. Co. 2 Mackey (D. C.) 502, 47 Am. Rep. 268;

is in tort.[5] Where a lien is given on the cause of action itself, that lien attaches to the judgment.[6] As stated by the American Law Institute, an attorney of record who has sustained a judgment has an interest therein as security for his fees in the case and for proper payments made, and liabilities incurred, during the course of the proceedings.[7] Some courts have held that the lien of an attorney on his client's judgment is an interest to the same extent as if the creditor had assigned it to him as collateral security for his fees and disbursements.[8]

§ 237. —Divorce and Alimony Proceedings.—An exception to the general rule that the attorney has a charging lien upon the judgment, decree, or award obtained by him is usually held to exist in the case of an award of alimony[9] or an allowance for support and maintenance[10] in a divorce action. Such a lien will attach, however, where the decree of the court makes a final division of property, awarding to the party obtaining the divorce specific property or in lieu thereof a money judgment representing such party's interest in the property of the adverse party.[11]

§ 238. Property Recovered in Litigation.—There is a difference of opinion as to whether an attorney, in the absence of statute or of a contract providing therefor, has a charging lien on specific property recovered for clients by litigation.[12] The weight of authority is to the effect that in the absence of a

---

State v. National Surety Co. 29 Idaho, 670, 161 P. 1026, 2 A.L.R. 251; Hanna v. Island Coal Co. 5 Ind. App. 163, 31 N. E. 846, 51 Am. St. Rep. 246; Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271; Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632; Potter v. Mayo, 3 Me. 34, 14 Am. Dec. 211; Minor v. Fick, 225 Mich. 325, 196 N. W. 194, citing R. C. L.; Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707; Reynolds v. Warner, 128 Neb. 304, 258 N. W. 462, 97 A.L.R. 1128; Burleigh v. Palmer, 74 Neb. 122, 103 N. W. 1068, 12 Ann. Cas. 777; Citizens Nat. Bank v. Culver, 54 N. H. 327, 20 Am. Rep. 134; Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474; Re Heinsheimer, 214 N. Y. 361, 108 N. E. 636, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 384; Coughlin v. New York C. & H. R. R. Co. 71 N. Y. 443, 27 Am. Rep. 75; Marshall v. Meech, 51 N. Y. 140, 10 Am. Rep. 572; Tyler v. Superior Ct. 30 R. I. 107, 73 A. 467, 23 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1045; Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722; Loofbourow v. Hicks, 24 Utah, 49, 66 P. 602, 55 L.R.A. 874; Victor Gold & S. Min. Co. v. National Bank, 18 Utah, 87, 55 P. 72, 72 Am. St. Rep. 767; McClure v. Little, 15 Utah, 379, 49 P. 298, 62 Am. St. Rep. 938; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684; Weed Sewing Mach. Co. v. Boutelle, 56 Vt. 570, 48 Am. Rep. 821; Hooper v. Welch, 43 Vt. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 267; Hazeltine v. Keenan, 54 W. Va. 600, 46 S. E. 609, 102 Am. St. Rep. 953; Bent v. Lipscomb, 45 W. Va. 183, 31 S. E. 907, 72 Am. St. Rep. 815.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 992; 51 Am. St. Rep. 251; Ann. Cas. 1916E, 387.

The lien of an attorney employed to bring an action in one state attaches, though based on a statute of that state, to a judgment recovered in an action brought through the agency of another attorney in another state on the same cause of action. Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684.

[5] Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908.

[6] Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684.

[7] Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1086.

[8] Hale v. Tyson, 202 Ala. 107, 79 So. 499, citing R. C. L.; Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632.

The lien on the judgment is held to extend to a bond given by the unsuccessful opponent of his client, such, for instance, as a replevin bond given by the plaintiff (Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612), or a bond given under statute for the release of a judgment debtor from arrest (Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632).

[9] Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271.

Annotation: 55 A.L.R. 365.

[10] Johnson v. Gerald, 216 Ala. 581, 113 So. 447, 59 A.L.R. 348.

[11] Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271.

[12] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 667.

In England the right to a charge on property "recovered or preserved" for his costs, under the 28th section of the Solicitors' Act of 1860, exists in every case in which a solicitor is employed, and authorizes a charge not on the mere interest of the plaintiff, but on all property recovered in the action whatever for the plaintiff only or for him in connection with others. Baile v. Baile, L. R. 13 Eq. 507, 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 705. Annotation: 24 Eng. Rul. Cas. 715.

statute or a contract providing therefor, no such lien attaches to land involved in litigation which the attorney has recovered for his client or the title to which he has successfully defended against attack.[13] A like rule has been applied with reference to personal property recovered by the attorney for the client.[14] Some courts, however, have adopted the view that an attorney may assert a lien against property which he has recovered for his client;[15] and in many jurisdictions there are statutory provisions which expressly or by necessary implication extend the attorney's charging lien to such property.[16] Such statutes have a prospective operation only; they are inapplicable to services rendered under contracts of employment entered into before the statute took effect.[17]

In the absence of a statutory or common-law lien upon property recovered for the client, his attorney may be entitled to a lien thereon by virtue of his agreement with his client.[18] Some courts take the view that such a lien, at least one of an equitable nature, arises from an agreement that the attorney shall have a certain portion of the recovery for his compensation,[19] although other courts take the contrary view.[20] The authorities also conflict on the question whether a lien against property recovered for the client arises under an agreement that the attorney shall have a reasonable fee out of the property.[1] Under such an agreement, it has been held that an equitable lien attaches to land recovered.[2]

Generally, the lien of an attorney on property recovered for his client is limited to services rendered in the action in which the property was recovered[3] and to the property involved in the litigation.[4]

§ 239. Money and Funds.—In addition to the common law retaining lien on moneys in the attorney's hands belonging to his client,[5] an attorney is, by [13] Webster v. Sweat (C. C. A. 5th) 65 F. (2d) 109, citing R. C. L.; Humphrey v. Browning, 46 Ill. 476, 95 Am. Dec. 446; Holmes v. Waymire, 73 Kan. 104, 84 P. 558, 9 Ann. Cas. 624; Stewart v. Flowers, 44 Miss. 513, 7 Am. Rep. 707.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 670; 9 Ann. Cas. 625.
This rule applies in cases where the attorney has successfully prosecuted a suit in equity to establish title to land, where he has recovered land in an action of ejectment, and where he has successfully defended the right and title to land against an unjust claim or an unwarranted attempt to subject it to an alleged lien or liability. Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 671; 9 Ann. Cas. 625.

[14] Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 669.

[15] Scott v. Kirtley, 113 Fla. 637, 152 So. 721, 93 A.L.R. 661; Grant v. Lookout Mountain Co. 93 Tenn. 691, 28 S. W. 90, 27 L.R.A. 98.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 669, 673.

[16] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Strohecker v. Irvine, 76 Ga. 639, 2 Am. St. Rep. 62; Harlan & Co. v. Bennett, Robbins & Thomas, 127 Ky. 572, 106 S. W. 287, 128 Am. St. Rep. 360; Rowe v. Fogle, 88 Ky. 105, 10 S. W. 426, 2 L.R.A. 708; Hobson v. Watson, 34 Me. 20, 56 Am. Dec. 632; Roberts v. Vaughn, 142 Tenn. 361, 219 S. W. 1034, 9 A.L.R. 1528; Grant v. Lookout Mountain Co. 93 Tenn. 691, 28 S. W. 90, 27 L.R.A. 98.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 673, 676.
There is a conflict of authority as to the effect of such statutes as giving an attorney a lien on land for his services in procuring a partition of such land. Annotation: 9 Ann. Cas. 627.

[17] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 673.

[18] Mackall v. Willoughby, 167 U. S. 681, 42 L. ed. 323, 17 S. Ct. 954.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 681.

[19] Ingersoll v. Coram, 211 U. S. 335, 53 L. ed. 208, 29 S. Ct. 92; Patrick v. Morrow, 33 Colo. 509, 81 P. 242, 108 Am. St. Rep. 107; De Winter v. Thomas, 34 App. D. C. 80, 27 L.R.A.(N.S.) 634, writ of certiorari denied in 215 U. S. 609, 54 L. ed. 347, 30 S. Ct. 411; Farrell v. Records, 187 Ky. 468, 219 S. W. 792, 12 A.L.R. 541; Fairbanks v. Sargent, 104 N. Y. 108, 9 N. E. 870, 58 Am. Rep. 490; High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 670, 682.

[20] Cameron v. Boeger, 200 Ill. 84, 65 N. E. 690, 93 Am. St. Rep. 165.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 684.

[1] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 673, 685.

[2] Scott v. Kirtley, 113 Fla. 637, 152 So. 721, 93 A.L.R. 661.

[3] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 680.

[4] Re Cutler, 204 Iowa, 739, 212 N. W. 573, 217 N. W. 448, 54 A.L.R. 527.

[5] See supra, §§ 209 et seq.

statutory provisions in a number of states, given a lien upon money due to his client and in the hands of the adverse party from the time of giving notice of the lien to such party,[6] even before judgment is rendered;[7] but it has been held that such provision applies only to proceedings in the local courts,[8] and in the absence of a statute, there is no right to a lien on moneys owing to an attorney's client not in the hands of a third person or upon funds in court.[9]

The lien attaches to the proceeds of a judgment or settlement[10] or to any funds recovered by an attorney for his client.[11] It does not matter for what the money is due, and the lien is not limited to any particular class of liability or form of action, extending as well to tort, as to contract, actions.[12] Thus, it is held that the statutory provision applies to the proceeds of a judgment in foreclosure of a chattel mortgage,[13] to a fund recovered by an attorney employed by the mother of an illegitimate child to assist in the prosecution of bastardy proceedings, under a contract by which he is to be paid an attorney's fee out of the fund,[14] and to unliquidated claims for personal injuries.[15]

§ 240. —Public Funds.—While there is authority to the contrary,[16] it is generally held, as a rule of public policy, that in the absence of constitutional or statutory authority to bind such funds, an attorney has no charging lien on public funds.[17]

---

[6] Wylie v. Coxe, 15 How. (U. S.) 415, 14 L. ed. 753; Holmes v. Waymire, 73 Kan. 104, 84 P. 558, 9 Ann. Cas. 624; Van Etten v. State, 24 Neb. 734, 40 N. W. 289, 1 L.R.A. 669; Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908; Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 992.

As to lien upon funds of a decedent's estate, see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

[7] Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908.

[8] Plummer v. Great Northern R. Co. 60 Wash. 214, 110 P. 989, 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.

Annotation: 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1215.

[9] Dubois's Appeal, 38 Pa. 231, 80 Am. Dec. 478.

An attorney at law who has rendered valuable services to his client is not entitled to have a lien declared for compensation for such services where there is no fund under the control of the court upon which it could fix a lien. New Memphis Gaslight Co. Cases, 105 Tenn. 268, 60 S. W. 206, 80 Am. St. Rep. 880.

[10] Robinson v. Rogers, 237 N. Y. 467, 143 N. E. 647, 33 A.L.R. 1291; Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380; Re Woods, 158 Tenn. 383, 13 S. W. (2d) 800, 62 A.L.R. 904.

[11] Grant v. Lookout Mountain Co. 93 Tenn. 691, 28 S. W. 90, 27 L.R.A. 98.

Money paid to a litigant in settlement of a claim is held to be "recovered" within the meaning of that word as used in an attorney's lien law. Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65.

[12] Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908.

Attorneys recovering money for a client under the disability provision of an insurance policy, pursuant to a contract for contingent fee, have a lien on the amount recovered to the extent of their fee. Chattanooga Sewer Pipe Works v. Dumler, 153 Miss. 276, 120 So. 450, 62 A.L.R. 999.

[13] Fralick v. Coeur D'Alene Bank & T. Co. 35 Idaho, 749, 208 P. 835, 27 A.L.R. 110.

[14] Costigan v. Stewart, 76 Kan. 353, 91 P. 83, 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 630.

Annotation: 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 630.

[15] Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908, holding that after notice, the lien exists in an inchoate form until a condition arises connecting the unliquidated liability into an amount certain.

[16] Re Paschal (Texas v. White) 10 Wall. (U. S.) 483, 19 L. ed. 992.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 275, s. 24 A.L.R. 934.

[17] State v. National Surety Co. 29 Idaho, 670, 161 P. 1026, 2 A.L.R. 251; People ex rel. Stephens v. Holten, 304 Ill. 394, 136 N. E. 738, 24 A.L.R. 929.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 274, s. 24 A.L.R. 933.

Thus, a statute giving attorneys a lien on claims placed in their hands for collection does not apply in suits by taxpayers to recover public funds misappropriated by public officials. People ex rel. Stephens v. Holten, 304 Ill. 394, 136 N. E. 738, 24 A.L.R. 929.

A statute which provides for an attorney's lien upon his client's cause of action or upon the judgment or fund realized for the client does not grant a lien on the proceeds of a judgment in favor of the state where the sovereign power is not expressly included in the statutory provision. State v. National Surety Co. 29 Idaho, 670, 161 P. 1026, 2 A.L.R. 251.

The right of an attorney to assert a lien upon a recovery on a claim against the United States under an agreement for a conditional fee is inconsistent with the provision of a Federal statute that all transfers and assignments of any claim upon the United States or of any interest therein shall be absolutely null and void unless made with certain formalities and after the allowance of the claim and the issuing of a warrant therefor.[18]

§ 241. Property Received by Client in Satisfaction of Judgment.—In some jurisdictions it has been held that where land is taken or condemned to be sold in satisfaction of a judgment, an attorney's lien on the judgment is transferred to the land.[19] However, as a general rule, the attorney's lien does not exist after the client has accepted satisfaction of his judgment or attach to property received in satisfaction of it.[20]

E. ENFORCEMENT OF CHARGING LIEN

§ 242. Generally.—An attorney's lien is enforceable through the control the courts have of their judgments and records and by means of their own process. If an attorney applies to the court to protect his lien, the court will prevent money from being paid over until his demand is satisfied.[1] Such a proceeding may not constitute an action, within the literal operation of the statute of limitations, but in enforcing the lien, the court will, it seems, be governed by the analogy of the statute.[2] There is no right to jury trial in such a proceeding.[3] The lien of an attorney upon a judgment recovered by him is governed by the law of the state where the judgment was recovered and the lien attached, and not by the law of the state where the judgment is sought to be collected or the lien enforced.[4]

§ 243. Enforcement in Original Action.—It is held, in some jurisdictions, that an attorney's lien on property recovered may be enforced upon an application to the court made in the original action in which the services were rendered.[5] In such cases the court may declare a lien by order in that cause, and the proceeding to enforce the lien is by reference or by bill, to which the client is made a defendant, stating the nature and particulars of the attor-

---

It seems doubtful if in any case an attorney's lien can be successfully asserted against money appropriated by a legislature to any person or corporation, public or private, while in the hands or under the control of an officer of the state. State v. Moore, 40 Neb. 854, 59 N. W. 755, 25 L.R.A. 774.

[18] Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684.

An agreement by the client making the payment of the attorney's compensation a lien upon the claim asserted against the government and any money or evidence of indebtedness issued thereon, before the allowance of the claim and the rendition of any services by the attorney, is invalid as an assignment of an interest in the claim. Nutt v. Knut, 200 U. S. 12, 50 L. ed. 348, 26 S. Ct. 216.

[19] Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 673.

A lien for attorneys' fees allowed by a judgment foreclosing a real estate mortgage attaches to the land and may be enforced against it after it has been bid in by the mortgagee or his assignee with notice for an amount less than that due on the mortgage, which has been credited on the judgment, especially when the sale is brought about without payment of the fees through the connivance or fraud of the purchaser or those acting in his behalf. Loofbourow v. Hicks, 24 Utah, 49, 66 P. 602, 55 L.R.A. 874.

[20] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 483.

[1] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 271.

[2] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 273.

[3] McCracken v. Joliet, 271 Ill. 270, 111 N. E. 131, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 144; Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65.

[4] Central R. & Bkg. Co. v. Pettus, 113 U. S. 116, 28 L. ed. 915, 5 S. Ct. 387; Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Culver, 54 N. H. 327, 20 Am. Rep. 134.

Annotation: 31 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1216; 51 Am. St. Rep. 273.

[5] Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684; High Point Casket Co. v. Wheeler, 182 N. C. 459, 109 S. E. 378, 19 A.L.R. 391; Roberts v. Vaughn, 142 Tenn. 361, 219 S. W. 1034, 9 A.L.R. 1528; Manning v. Leighton, 65 Vt. 84, 26 A. 258, 24 L.R.A. 684.

Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 698.

ney's services and the compensation claimed.[6] Statutory provision has been made, also, for the enforcement of the lien on petition and due notice to the adverse party. Such a provision is not unconstitutional as depriving the defendant of a right to a jury trial.[7]

§ 244. Equitable Remedy.—In the absence of statutes giving jurisdiction to courts of law, the proper method—or, at least, one method—for enforcing an attorney's charging lien is by a resort to equity;[8] such a lien is equitable in its nature.[9] Courts of law may recognize it when the res is in possession of the lienor and the owner is seeking to deprive him of such possession. But where the thing is not in possession and some affirmative action is required by the attorney, he, like other lien claimants, must seek relief in equity. In some instances, a formal suit should be instituted; in others, an application to the court rendering the judgment for the proper order is sufficient.[10]

§ 245. Independent Action at Law.—While, in the absence of statutory provisions, a court of equity alone has jurisdiction to enforce an attorney's charging lien,[11] in a number of jurisdictions, by virtue of statutory provisions, the attorney's charging lien may be enforced by an independent action at law.[12] As a general rule, under statutes giving the attorney a lien for his services on the client's cause of action or money in the hands of the adverse party, the action is brought against the opposing party who has failed to recognize such lien;[13] but to establish an attorney's lien against a judgment for alimony paid to the clerk of the court, the defendant in the divorce proceedings is not a necessary party.[14]

§ 246. Liability of Adverse Party for Destroying Lien.—After an attorney's lien has attached, the party adverse to his client cannot, if he has notice thereof,[15] destroy it by a voluntary settlement made without the consent or knowledge of the attorney without rendering himself liable for the value of such lien.[16] The defendant is not, however, under any affirmative duty to protect the lien, as by a suit to litigate its existence and validity, where, before paying the amount agreed to in the settlement, he informs the attorney of the fact of the settlement and judgment thereon and notifies him to take steps to protect his lien.[17] Moreover, while there is some authority to the contrary,[18] according to the weight of authority, the rights of the attorney against the adverse party, where a compromise has been made without his knowledge or consent, depend entirely upon the merits of his client's case.[19] It is held, also, that the adverse party may set up the defense that the contract for the attorney's compensation is unconscionable, illegal, and void.[20] Moreover, the attorney cannot go against the defendant to enforce his lien in an action dismissed in good faith by his client without receiving anything,[1] and the mere fact of entering into a compromise agreement without payment of the amount agreed upon does not render the defendant personally liable to the attorney.[2]

---

[6] Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 273.

[7] Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913C, 69.

[8] Ingersoll v. Coram, 211 U. S. 335, 53 L. ed. 208, 29 S. Ct. 92; Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567; Hammond, W. & E. C. R. Co. v. Kaput, 61 Ind. App. 543, 110 N. E. 109, citing R. C. L.; Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684; Alexander v. Munroe, 54 Or. 500, 101 P. 903, 103 P. 514, 135 Am. St. Rep. 840; Anderson v. Star-Bair Oil Co. 34 Wyo. 332, 243 P. 394, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 93 A.L.R. 696.

[9] Scott v. Kirtley, 113 Fla. 637, 152 So. 721, 93 A.L.R. 661.

[10] Fillmore v. Wells, 10 Colo. 228, 15 P. 343, 3 Am. St. Rep. 567.

[11] Prichard v. Fulmer, 22 N. M. 134, 159 P. 39, 2 A.L.R. 474.

[12] Standidge v. Chicago R. Co. 254 Ill. 524, 98 N. E. 963, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 529, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 65; O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703; Roberts v. Vaughn, 142 Tenn. 361, 219 S. W. 1034, 9 A.L.R. 1528.

Where a statutory liability of a legal character is created and no particular or exclusive remedy is provided for its enforcement, it has been held that the attorney's lien may be enforced by an action at law corresponding to trespass on the case, and that the action may be brought before a justice of the peace where the amount in controversy is within the justice's jurisdiction. O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703.

[13] O'Connor v. St. Louis Transit Co. 198 Mo. 622, 97 S. W. 150, 115 Am. St. Rep. 495, 8 Ann. Cas. 703.

[14] Hubbard v. Ellithorpe, 135 Iowa, 259, 112 N. W. 796, 124 Am. St. Rep. 271.

[15] Payment by the judgment debtor to the creditor after such notification is invalid, according to the American Law Institute Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1094.

Where the judgment debtor in good faith pays or satisfies the judgment before notice of the lien of the judgment creditor's attorney, the latter cannot enforce the judgment as against him. Townsend v. Chamberlain, 81 Or. 163, 158 P. 664, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 330.

[16] Union P. R. Co. v. Laughlin, 247 U. S. 204, 62 L. ed. 1073, 38 S. Ct. 436; Merrick v. Giddings (Morris v. Giddings) 115 U. S. 300, 29 L. ed. 403, 6 S. Ct. 65; Chreste v.

§ 247. Vacation of Settlement, Dismissal, or Satisfaction.—In a number of states it has been held, either by virtue of express statutory authority or in the exercise of the inherent power of courts to protect their officers, that an attorney whose lien has attached may apply to the court for relief against any disposition of the litigation or judgment thereon by the parties which may affect his rights. Thus, he may move to set aside a fraudulent or collusive settlement or dismissal of a suit consummated for the purpose of defrauding him out of his compensation,[3] and notice to the original plaintiff of the pendency of such motion has been held to be unnecessary.[4] Moreover, according to the weight of authority, where the client makes a fraudulent or collusive settlement intended to deprive the attorney of his compensation, the attorney is permitted to proceed with the suit in the client's name for the purpose of protecting his interest; in fact, some cases permit the attorney to intervene to prosecute the original action to final judgment where the attorney has a lien, even though no element of fraud or collusion is present, although as a general rule, the mere fact of the existence of a lien in favor of the attorney

---

Louisville R. Co. 167 Ky. 75, 180 S. W. 49, L.R.A.1917B, 1123, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 867; Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684; Greenleaf v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 30 N. D. 112, 151 N. W. 879, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 908; Crump v. Guyer, 60 Okla. 222, 157 P. 321, 2 A.L.R. 331.

Annotation: 51 Am. St. Rep. 271; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 919.

A party paying a judgment or the amount of a settlement, knowing it to be charged with an attorney's lien, is bound to retain, and the law conclusively assumes he has retained, a sufficient amount to pay the lien. Sargent v. McLeod, 209 N. Y. 360, 103 N. E. 164, 52 L.R.A.(N.S.) 380.

In Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684, it was held that the attorney could recover the value of such lien in an independent action at law. In Sterling Milk Products Co. v. Brown, 146 Okla. 302, 294 P. 117, citing R. C. L., however, it was held that such an action was an equity suit.

If the contract of employment has been previously terminated by the client, the attorney can have no recourse against the opposite party because of the settlement. Plummer v. Northern P. R. Co. 98 Wash. 67, 167 P. 73, 7 A.L.R. 104 (contract repudiated by infant client).

[17] Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684.

[18] Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 340.

[19] Jones v. Morgan, 39 Ga. 310, 99 Am. Dec. 458; Crump v. Guyer, 60 Okla. 222, 157 P. 321, 2 A.L.R. 331.

Annotation: 2 A.L.R. 337.

An action against the defendant to recover on an attorney's lien will not lie where a suit to set aside a deed and recover the property on the ground that the plaintiff was a minor, which was settled without the consent of the plaintiff's attorney, could not have been sustained because a statute empowered the plaintiff to make such conveyances. Crump v. Guyer, 60 Okla. 222, 157 P. 321, 2 A.L.R. 331.

[20] Morehouse v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co. 185 N. Y. 520, 78 N. E. 179, 7 Ann. Cas. 377.

[1] Rowe v. Fogle, 88 Ky. 105, 10 S. W. 426, 2 L.R.A. 708.

[2] Noell v. Missouri P. R. Co. 335 Mo. 687, 74 S. W. (2d) 7, 94 A.L.R. 684.

[3] Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73, 34 N. W. 72, 3 Am. St. Rep. 258; Jackson v. Stearns, 48 Or. 25, 84 P. 798, 5 L.R.A.(N.S.) 390.

[4] Aspinwall v. Sabin, 22 Neb. 73, 34 N. W. 72, 3 Am. St. Rep. 258.

does not enable him to proceed with the action after the parties have in good faith compromised or settled it.[5] Where the parties have settled a judgment without the knowledge of the attorney and the plaintiff has executed a satisfaction of such judgment, the attorney, if he has a lien upon the judgment for his services, may apply to the court to have the satisfaction set aside and the judgment reinstated to the extent of the amount due him for his services and execution issued therefor.[6]

§ 248. Enforcement against Judgment.—The authorities are not entirely in harmony as to the right of the attorney to sue on the judgment by virtue of his lien against it. While such right is asserted in some decisions, in others it is held that the lien does not authorize the attorney to bring suit thereon in his client's name without authority.[7] According to the American Law Institute, the attorney is entitled to have the judgment enforced and to receive from the proceeds thereof compensation for his services and indemnity for expenses incurred by him in the case. But the right is one of priority only in the sums realized from the execution of the judgment; it does not include a right to maintain an action against the debtor as an assignee of the judgment.[8]

When judgment has been obtained, an execution issued, and the attorney's lien has attached thereto, such lien extends to suits arising from, and incidental to, the enforcement of the judgment. Thus, where judgment in a replevin suit is rendered for the defendant, the attorney, as equitable assignee, has the right to enforce the replevin bond to the extent of his lien, and he may hold the officer liable for taking a replevin bond with insufficient sureties where the execution issued against them cannot be satisfied by reason of their insolvency.[9]

XI. PUNISHMENT, SUSPENSION, AND DISBARMENT OF ATTORNEYS

A. In General

§ 249. Generally.—The court, independently of statute,[10] by reason of the necessary and inherent power vested in it to control the conduct of its own affairs and to maintain its own dignity, has a summary jurisdiction to deal with the alleged misconduct of an attorney and inflict appropriate punishment therefor[11] by suspending or disbarring him.[12] This power of the court

---

[5] See supra, § 184.

[6] Northrup v. Hayward, 102 Minn. 307, 113 N. W. 701, 12 Ann. Cas. 341.

[7] Horton v. Champlin, 12 R. I. 550, 34 Am. Rep. 722.

[8] Restatement, Agency, § 464, p. 1093.

[9] Newbert v. Cunningham, 50 Me. 231, 79 Am. Dec. 612.

[10] Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413.

[11] Ex parte Bradley, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 364, 19 L. ed. 214; Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Re Clifton, 115 Fla. 168, 155 So. 324, citing R. C. L.; West v. Field, 181 Ga. 152, 181 S. E. 661, 101 A.L.R. 465; Bar Asso. v. Casey, 211 Mass. 187, 97 N. E. 751, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1226; Manning v. French, 149 Mass. 391, 21 N. E. 945, 4 L.R.A. 339; Grant v. State, 67 Tex. Crim. Rep. 155, 148 S. W. 760, 42 L.R.A. (N.S.) 428; Norfolk & P. Bar Asso. v. Drewry, 161 Va. 833, 172 S. E. 282, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 847.

The court may tax costs against an attorney as a punishment for filing an unnecessarily gross and indelicate pleading. Brown v. Brown, 4 Ind. 627, 58 Am. Dec. 641.

The court cannot, by ex parte order, require the publisher of a newspaper, although he is also an attorney at law, to justify in open court an article in which he raises a suspicion that the jury was bribed in an action tried before the court where the information may necessitate the naming of persons in good standing before the community and subject the publisher to libel suits. Warren v. Connolly, 165 Mich. 274, 130 N. W. 637, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 314.

A court's jurisdiction is to be exercised according to a standard of conscience, and not according to technical rules. Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

As to summary jurisdiction in compelling to discipline its officers is a dual one; the court prefers the charges and determines them.[13] The purpose of suspending or disbarring an attorney is to remove from the profession a person whose misconduct has proved him unfit to be intrusted with the duties and responsibilities belonging to the office of an attorney, and thus to protect the public and those charged with the administration of justice, rather than to punish the attorney.[14] The idea of punishment is usually held to have no appropriate place,[15] and no punitive sentence can be imposed.[16]

§ 250. Preliminary Inquest.—The courts have inherent jurisdiction or power to conduct, antecedent to the institution of disbarment proceedings, a general investigation into the conduct and practices of attorneys whenever it has probable cause to believe that professional misconduct has occurred. This is a quasi administrative remedy, without adverse parties plaintiff or defendant, the purpose of which is to collect and assemble facts and information which will enable the court to take such action as it may deem expedient for the public welfare.[17] To this end the court may compel an attorney to testify to his professional acts, provided the inquiry is secret in its preliminary stages and is subject to the attorney's privilege against self-incrimination.[18]

§ 251. Power of Courts to Suspend or Disbar.—In the absence of constitutional or statutory restrictions, a court of superior or general jurisdiction has inherent power and authority to suspend an attorney from practice as such, or to disbar or strike from the rolls an attorney of such court found guilty of conduct in any respect unbecoming the standard of propriety which should be maintained by members of the legal profession.[19] This power to adherence by an attorney of his duties to his client, see supra, § 143.

---

As to power to punish as for contempt, see CONTEMPT [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 493, § 7].

[12] See infra, § 251.

[13] People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851.

[14] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Re Vaughan, 189 Cal. 491, 209 P. 353, 24 A.L.R. 858; Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; Re Kerl, 32 Idaho, 737, 188 P. 40, 8 A.L.R. 1259; Re Craven, 178 La. 372, 151 So. 625, 90 A.L.R. 973; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[15] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; State v. McRae, 49 Fla. 389, 38 So. 605, 6 Ann. Cas. 580; Bar Asso. v. Casey, 211 Mass. 187, 97 N. E. 751, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1226; Re Delano, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555; Re Lentz, 65 N. J. L. 134, 46 A. 761, 50 L.R.A. 415; Re Thatcher, 83 Ohio St. 246, 93 N. E. 895, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 810; Ex parte Finn, 32 Or. 519, 52 P. 756, 67 Am. St. Rep. 550; Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 525; 2 Am. St. Rep. 848, 860; 45 Am. St. Rep. 73.

[16] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

In Beckner v. Com. 126 Ky. 318, 103 S. W. 378, 128 Am. St. Rep. 287, however, the court refused to disbar an attorney for making a false affidavit in an action wherein he was not acting as attorney, holding that like other witnesses giving false testimony, he was subject to punishment for the crime of perjury only.

[17] Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679; People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851.

Annotation: 60 A.L.R. 860.

After the inquiry is ended, it remains for the court to determine whether notice should issue to the particular attorney to show cause why he should not be disbarred. Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

The requirements of the law as to the formulation of a charge are not applicable. People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851.

[18] People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851.

[19] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Re Secombe, 19 How. (U. S.) 9, 15 L. ed. 565; Ex parte Burr, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 529, 6 L. ed. 152; Goldstone v. State Bar, 214 Cal. 490, 6 P. (2d) 513, 80 A.L.R. 701; Re Clifton, 115 Fla. 168, 155 So. 324, citing R. C. L.; Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314; State v. Finley, 30 Fla. 325, 11 So. 674, 18 L.R.A. 401; People v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Re Hanson, 99 Kan. 23, 160 P. 1141, citing R. C. L.; Chreste v. Com. 171

remove attorneys from the bar is possessed by all courts which have authority to admit attorneys to practice.[20] In some states, however, while the power to suspend in a proper case is held to be possessed by all courts of record, yet the power to disbar is vested in a particular court.[1] Courts of special or limited jurisdiction have no power to disbar an attorney unless such power has been expressly conferred upon them,[2] and the legislature may limit the power of courts of superior or general jurisdiction to disbar; that power is not inherent in the sense that these courts cannot exist in the absence of such power.[3] However, the power to determine whether an attorney has committed acts or been guilty of conduct which, either at common law or by provision of statute, constitutes a cause for disbarment is a judicial power that can be exercised by the court only.[4]

The right to practice before the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States cannot be taken away except by the action of such court.[5]

§ 252. Liability of Attorney to Disbarment or Suspension.— The fact that one has been admitted to the bar and licensed to practice the profession of law does not confer upon him any vested right to continue in the practice of such profession.[6] That right may be revoked by a proceeding to disbar him, based upon conduct rendering him unfit to hold a license to practice or to exercise the duties and responsibilities belonging to the office of an attorney,[7] without violating any constitutional privilege or right.[8] An attorney who has been legally called upon to give testimony or produce evidence tend-

---

Ky. 77, 186 S. W. 919, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 122; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413; Nelson v. Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272; Re Cohen, 261 Mass. 484, 159 N. E. 495, 55 A.L.R. 1309; Re Whitcomb, 120 Mass. 118, 21 Am. Rep. 502; Fitchette v. Taylor, 191 Minn. 582, 254 N. W. 910, 94 A.L.R. 356; Re Richards, 333 Mo. 907, 63 S. W. (2d) 672, citing R. C. L.; Re Delano, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555; State ex rel. Wood v. Raynolds, 22 N. M. 1, 158 P. 413, citing R. C. L.; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380; Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666; Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729; Re Austin, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657; Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829; Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271; Re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153, 92 P. 929, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 525, 15 Ann. Cas. 415; Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355; State Law Examiners v. Phelan, 43 Wyo. 481, 5 P. (2d) 263, 78 A.L.R. 1317.

Annotation: 13 L.R.A. 767; 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 525; 45 Am. St. Rep. 72; 138 Am. St. Rep. 243; 5 Ann. Cas. 990; 15 Ann. Cas. 419.

It is both a right and a duty of the court to purge its officers of an unworthy member. Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

The status of an attorney as an officer of a court is a matter of which such court only has jurisdiction. Re Craven, 178 La. 372, 151 So. 625, 90 A.L.R. 973.

[20] Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 513, 22 L. ed. 205; Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218; Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

[1] Fairfield County Bar v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767.

Annotation: 5 Ann. Cas. 991; 15 Ann. Cas. 419.

[2] State v. Crosby, 24 Nev. 115, 50 P. 127, 77 Am. St. Rep. 786; Re Hahn, 85 N. J. Eq. 510, 96 A. 589, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 830.

Annotation: 5 Ann. Cas. 991.

[3] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

Annotation: 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195; 45 Am. St. Rep. 73.

[4] Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

[5] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569.

[6] Annotation: 8 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1274.

[7] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737; Simmons v. State, 12 Mo. 268, 49 Am. Dec. 131; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Breckenridge, 126 Okla. 86, 258 P. 744, 53 A.L.R. 1239.

[8] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679; Ex parte Cashin, 128 Miss. 224, 90 So. 850, citing R. C. L.; Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A. (N.S.) 572.

Annotation: 20 Am. St. Rep. 556.

ing to establish that he received a bribe is not immune from disbarment therefor, under a constitutional guaranty of immunity from prosecution.[9] His right to practice is not, however, a mere matter of grace or favor revocable at the pleasure of the court or the command of the legislature;[10] he can be deprived of it only for good cause shown in a judicial proceeding conducted in the manner pointed out by law.[11] He is entitled to hold his office during good behavior.[12]

The fact that the attorney is a judge or holds some other office, eligibility for which may be affected by his disbarment, does not affect the duty or power of the court. Nor is the resignation of an attorney without the consent or permission of the court effectual to preclude his disbarment, when proceedings therefor were pending at the time of his resignation.[13]

§ 253. Discretion of Court in Suspending or Disbarring.—The power to disbar is not an arbitrary and despotic one, to be exercised at the pleasure of the court or from passion, prejudice, or personal hostility; it is the duty of the court to exercise and regulate it by a sound and just judicial discretion, whereby the rights and independence of the bar may be as scrupulously guarded and maintained by the court as the rights and dignity of the court itself.[14] It should disbar or suspend an attorney only where the continuance of the attorney in practice would be subversive to the proper administration of justice or incompatible with a proper respect of the court for itself or a proper regard for the integrity of the profession.[15] The court should also exercise a sound discretion in determining whether the attorney should be disbarred or merely suspended for a period.[16] The consequences of disbarment are so severe, both in degrading him in the eyes of the community and in depriving him of his means of livelihood that courts generally take that step only when the misconduct of the attorney may properly be characterized as gross, and in cases of lighter offenses or of a first delinquency, the minor punishment of suspension is usually inflicted.[17] In some instances, the courts have forborne even to suspend the attorney from the practice of his profession for past misconduct where, since such offense, he has conducted himself with such integrity that the court would not be justified in considering him unworthy of the confidence of clients.[18]

---

[9] Re Biggers, 24 Okla. 842, 104 P. 1083, 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 622; Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355.

[10] Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366.

[11] Randall v. Brigham, 7 Wall. 523, (U. S.) 19 L. ed. 285; Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737; People v. Kavanagh, 220 Ill. 49, 77 N. E. 107, 110 Am. St. Rep. 223; Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; Hanson v. Grattan, 84 Kan. 843, 115 P. 646, 34 L.R.A.(N.S.) 240.

[12] Re Day, 181 Ill. 73, 54 N. E. 646, 50 L.R.A. 519; Re Austin, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657.

[13] Ex parte Thompson, 32 Or. 499, 52 P. 570, 40 L.R.A. 194.

[14] Ex parte Bradley, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 364, 19 L. ed. 214; Ex parte Secombe, 19 How. (U. S.) 9, 15 L. ed. 565; Ex parte Burr, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 529, 6 L. ed. 152; State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Re Wourms, 31 Idaho, 291, 170 P. 919, citing R. C. L.; People v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239; State Law Examiners v. Hart, 104 Minn. 88, 116 N. W. 212, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 585, 15 Ann. Cas. 197; Re Delano, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Breckenridge, 126 Okla. 86, 258 P. 744, 53 A.L.R. 1239; State v. Winton, 11 Or. 456, 5 P. 337, 50 Am. Rep. 486; Re Austin, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657.

Annotation: 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 525; 2 Am. St. Rep. 848, 860; 45 Am. St. Rep. 73.

[15] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413.

The interests of the attorney must in every case be weighed in the balance against the rights of the public, and the court should endeavor to guard and protect both with fairness and impartiality. People v. MacCabe, 18 Colo. 186, 32 P. 280, 19 L.R.A. 231, 36 Am. St. Rep. 270.

[16] Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.

The fact that a disciplinary proceeding against a lawyer is the first of the kind to be brought is properly to be taken into consideration in fixing the penalty to be imposed. Smith v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 249, 294 P. 1057, 73 A.L.R. 393.

[17] People ex rel. Maupin v. MacCabe, 18 Colo. 186, 32 P. 280, 19 L.R.A. 231, 36 Am. St. Rep. 270; Re Dampier, 46 Idaho, 195, 267 P. 452, citing R. C. L.; Re Lentz, 65 N. J.

After disbarring an attorney, the court may, on his petition for reinstatement, modify the judgment to suspension.[19]

§ 254. Effect of Suspension or Disbarment.—A disbarred attorney can appear in court only in circumstances entitling any layman to appear. His status is the same as of one who has never been admitted to practice;[1] a like rule applies, during the period of his suspension, to one who has been suspended.[2]

Where eligibility to public office is restricted to those who have been admitted to practice, it is generally held that disbarment or suspension operates as a disqualification for such public office,[3] although it has been held that a prosecuting attorney may continue to appear in court as such until removed from office according to law, despite a temporary suspension for misconduct.[4] Disbarment or suspension cannot, of course, have any effect upon the official status of one whose public office does not require membership of the bar as a qualification.[5] Nor does disbarment or suspension deprive one of his right to appear in an action in his own behalf; thus he may become the assignee of a chose in action and may prosecute an action thereon, provided the transfer is genuine and not simulated for the purpose of evading the judgment of disbarment or suspension.[6]

§ 255. —Right to Practice in Other Courts of Same Jurisdiction.—With regard to the effect of the disbarment or suspension of an attorney by one court of a state upon his status as an attorney in other courts of the same state, the authorities are not uniform.[7] In most jurisdictions disbarment by

---

L. 134, 46 A. 761, 50 L.R.A. 415; Re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153, 92 P. 929, 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 525, 15 Ann. Cas. 415. See also Re Schnitzer, 33 Nev. 581, 112 P. 848, 33 L.R.A. (N.S.) 941; Re Crum, 55 N. D. 876, 215 N. W. 682, 55 A.L.R. 220; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Breckenridge, 126 Okla. 86, 258 P. 744, 53 A.L.R. 1239; State ex rel. McLaughlin v. Graves, 73 Or. 331, 144 P. 484, L.R.A. 1915C, 259; Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

Annotation: 13 L.R.A. 768; 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 525; 2 Am. St. Rep. 848, 850.

An attorney at law may be suspended for a definite time and until a designated judgment against him shall be fully satisfied, under a statute authorizing the court to deprive him of the right to practice, either permanently or for a limited period. Re Tyler, 78 Cal. 307, 20 P. 674, 12 Am. St. Rep. 55.

[18] Re Lentz, 65 N. J. L. 134, 46 A. 761, 50 L.R.A. 415.

[19] Annotation: 48 A.L.R. 1243.

[1] Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657; Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418, Cravens v. McBrayer (Tex. Civ. App.) 255 S. W. 994 (modified in (Tex. Com. App.) 265 S. W. 694) citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 754; 18 Ann. Cas. 658.

[2] Re Lizotte, 32 R. I. 386, 79 A. 960, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 794, holding a suspended attorney guilty of contempt of court if he retains upon his office door and stationery the statement that he is an attorney, and consults with clients, makes collections, and does other legal work the same as before his suspension, except so far as it requires his appearance in court proceedings.

[3] Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418; State ex rel. Willis v. Monfort, 93 Wash. 4, 159 P. 889, L.R.A.1917B, 801.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 756; L.R.A. 1917B, 803; 20 Ann. Cas. 422.

[4] Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

[5] State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A. 1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 756.

[6] Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 754.

[7] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 572.

In England it is provided by statute that any attorney struck from the roll by order of one court is to be struck from the rolls of other courts (Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 861, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 573). Where, however, an attorney has been suspended for a term of years by one court for contempt, it is not compulsory on other courts of co-ordinate jurisdiction, as in the case of striking from the rolls, to suspend him, but they will look into the affidavits, and one court deprives the person thus disbarred of the right to appear as attorney in all other courts of the state;[8] in others, disbarment or suspension in one court does not affect his right to practice in other courts of co-ordinate or superior jurisdiction in the same jurisdiction.[9] Disbarment by the highest court of the state precludes the right to appear as attorney in any other court of that state.[10]

Where a court of inferior and co-ordinate jurisdiction merely suspends an attorney from practice, this does not have the effect of suspending him from practice in other inferior courts, or in the court of last resort.[11] And under a statute providing that any judge of a designated court shall have power to suspend any attorney from practice in the court over which he presides, the power is limited to the particular court in which the judge is presiding at the time he makes the order of suspension.[12]

§ 256. —Right to Practice in Another Jurisdiction.—An attorney's privilege to appear in courts of sister states is granted to him as a matter rather of comity than of right,[13] and will be denied to one who has been disbarred in his own state.[14] Ordinarily the courts of one state will not admit to practice an attorney who has been disbarred by another state, especially where admission is sought on the basis of admission to practice in such other state.[15] However, disbarment of an attorney in one state does not, of itself, affect his status as an attorney in another state. Moreover, disbarment by a state court does not necessarily affect the status of an attorney before the Federal court, nor is it binding upon the latter court in a technical sense.[16] The fact that an attorney who was a practitioner in the highest courts of a state has been struck from the roll of the District Court of the United States in that state, for contempt, is no ground for refusal to admit him to practice in the United States Supreme Court.[17]

B. Grounds for Suspension or Disbarment

§ 257. Generally.—Disbarment of an attorney may be based upon acts done exercise their own discretion (Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 344).

---

[8] State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794, judgment vacated on rehearing in 42 Utah, 282, 130 P. 217.

Annotation: 5 Ann. Cas. 992; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 572.

An order suspending an attorney from practice in "all of the courts of this state" prohibits him from practicing in the probate or other inferior courts during the term of such suspension. State ex rel. Patton v. Marron, 22 N. M. 632, 167 P. 9, L.R.A.1918B, 217.

[9] State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314.

Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 757; 2 Am. St. Rep. 861; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 572.

In jurisdictions where the position of an attorney at law is independent of his position as a solicitor in chancery, a proceeding to disbar him from practice in the chancery court does not affect his connection with the law courts of the state. Annotation: 15 Ann. Cas. 419; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 572.

Where an attorney was disbarred in the criminal court of the District of Columbia, it was held that he was not thereby disbarred from the bar of the Supreme Court of that district, since the criminal court was then an independent and separate court. Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646.

[10] Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 757.

[11] Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 344.

[12] Annotation: 5 Ann. Cas. 991, 992.

[13] See supra, § 16.

[14] Danforth v. Egan, 23 S. D. 43, 119 N. W. 1021, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1030, 20 Ann. Cas. 418.

[15] Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 757; Ann. Cas. 1917D, 572.

[16] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569; Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; Manning v. French, 149 Mass. 391, 21 N. E. 945, 4 L.R.A. 339, writ of error dismissed in 133 U. S. 186, 33 L. ed. 582, 10 S. Ct. 258.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917D, 573.

[17] Ex parte Tillinghast, 4 Pet. (U. S.) 108, 7 L. ed. 798.

in or out of court,[18] or upon facts that would preclude his admission.[19] An attorney may be disbarred or suspended for any violations of the oath taken by him, his duties as attorney and counselor,[20] or the rule of conduct prescribed by the legislature,[1] but not for prosecuting cases on contingent fees, even though the court considers such practice unethical.[2] In many jurisdictions, the acts for which an attorney may be suspended or disbarred are enumerated by statute, although the absence of a statute describing the causes for which an attorney may be disbarred does not prevent attorneys from being disbarred when they have been guilty of any misconduct that shows them to be lacking in honesty, probity, and good demeanor, or unworthy to continue as officers of the court.[3] Some statutes require the disbarment or suspension of attorneys for certain acts or under certain circumstances, as, for example, when an attorney has been convicted of a crime.[4] Usually it is held that statutes providing for suspension or disbarment on certain specified grounds do not limit the common-law power of the court, and that an attorney may be suspended or removed for other causes than those mentioned in the statute,[5] which are merely cumulative.[6] In some jurisdictions, however, it is held that where a statute prescribes the causes for disbarment, a court cannot summarily disbar for causes not therein specified.[7] It is held to be within the legislative power thus to limit the power of the court to disbar, at least in so far as nonprofessional misconduct is concerned,[8] or even to the extent of compelling courts to permit persons to act as attorneys who have confessedly been false to their obligations as such.[9]

§ 258. Misconduct before Admission.—An attorney may be disbarred for misconduct committed before his admission to the bar, and this notwithstanding that his certificate to practice was issued after a board of law examiners, as required by law, passed its judgment upon his moral character and standing.[10] In order, however, to justify disbarment for a breach of good faith committed before admission, the transaction must be so corrupt and false as to constitute a criminal act or so unprincipled and disgraceful as to be reprehensible to a high degree.[11]

§ 259. Fraud in Procuring Admission.—An attorney may be disbarred for fraud in procuring his admission to the bar; in some jurisdictions this is a statutory ground for disbarment.[12] Thus, one who procures his admission to the bar by falsely swearing that he had previously been admitted to the bar in another state, or upon false affidavits as to his period of clerkship,[13] who fraudulently conceals the fact that he has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, especially if, since the issuance of his license, he has been guilty of professional misconduct,[14] or who conceals the fact that he had just previously been disbarred in another state,[15] may be disbarred, although concealment of the fact that disbarment proceedings were had, which did not result in disbarment, is not sufficient.[16]

---

[18] Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666; Norfolk & P. Bar Asso. v. Drewry, 161 Va. 833, 172 S. E. 282, citing R. C. L.

[19] Chreste v. Com. 178 Ky. 311, 198 S. W. 929, citing R. C. L.

[20] Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

[1] Henderson v. Knoxville, 157 Tenn. 477, 9 S. W. (2d) 697, 60 A.L.R. 652.

[2] Ibid.

[3] Re Secombe, 19 How. (U. S.) 9, 15 L. ed. 565; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.

[4] See infra, § 279.

[5] State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413; Re Delano, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413; 42 Am. St. Rep. 849; 5 Ann. Cas. 991.

[6] State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218.

[7] Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 2 Am. St. Rep. 849; 5 Ann. Cas. 991.

[8] Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

[9] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 72.

[10] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

A statute disqualifying an attorney from practicing on account of past acts is not unconstitutional as an ex post facto law. Re Craven, 178 La. 372, 151 So. 625, 90 A.L.R. 973.

[11] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

§ 260. Moral Turpitude; Want or Loss of Moral Character.—An attorney may be disbarred for moral turpitude.[17] The statutes generally make a good moral character a condition precedent to admission to the bar.[18] The continued possession of a fair private and professional character,[19] or of a good moral character, is a requisite condition for the rightful continuance in the practice of the law for one who has been admitted, and its loss requires suspension or disbarment,[1] even though the statutes do not specify that as a ground of disbarment.[2] The moral turpitude for which an attorney may be disbarred may consist of misconduct in either his professional[3] or his nonprofessional activities.[4]

§ 261. Professional Misconduct Generally.—Generally speaking, an attorney may be suspended or disbarred for misconduct which shows him to be an unfit or unsafe person to enjoy the privileges and to manage the business of others in the capacity of attorney,[5] or which tends to bring reproach upon the legal profession or injure it in the favorable opinion of the public.[6] He cannot justify his wilful misconduct in his profession on the ground that his conduct was usual in the practice of the law,[7] nor does youth or inexperience extenuate an offense that is inconsistent with the common honesty.[8] There must, however, be a clear case of misconduct which affects the standing and character of the lawyer as an attorney,[9] and it has been said that disbarment should be meted out only for misconduct that may properly be characterized as gross.[10]

---

[12] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.
Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 212.

[13] Annotation: 20 Ann. Cas. 213, 214.

[14] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; People v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737, 69 L.R.A. 701.

[15] Re Mosher, 24 Okla. 61, 102 P. 705, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 530, 20 Ann. Cas. 209.
Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 531; 20 Ann. Cas. 212.

[16] Annotation: 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 531.

[17] Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

[18] Ibid.

[19] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569.

[1] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Wheeler, 259 Ill. 99, 102 N. E. 188, 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1202, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 286; People ex rel. Deneen v. Smith, 200 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 27, 93 Am. St. Rep. 206; Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355; Re Richter, 187 Wis. 490, 204 N. W. 492, 41 A.L.R. 485.
Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214.

[2] State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.

[3] See infra, §§ 268 et seq.

[4] See infra, §§ 276 et seq.

[5] Re Robinson, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 505, 22 L. ed. 205; Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Nelson v. Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A. (N.S.) 272.
Annotation: 13 L.R.A. 767.

[6] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; State v. Fisher, 103 Neb. 736, 174 N. W. 320, citing R. C. L.

[7] Ex parte Finn, 32 Or. 519, 52 P. 756, 67 Am. St. Rep. 550.

[8] People v. Macauley, 230 Ill. 208, 82 N. E. 612, 120 Am. St. Rep. 287.

[9] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569.
The law does not demand that every technical infraction of its provisions by an attorney shall require his disbarment, although he should endeavor to observe it literally; it is those infractions of duty that involve moral turpitude and evince a depraved character, which demand his disbarment. Re Reily, 75 Okla. 192, 183 P. 728, 7 A.L.R. 89.

It is not necessary that the misconduct should be such as would render the attorney liable to criminal prosecution; misconduct which shows that he is unfit to discharge the duties of his office, or is unworthy of confidence, even though the conduct is outside of his professional dealings, is sufficient.[11] It is usually held that any fault which would have been sufficient to prevent the admission of one as an attorney will justify his removal.[12]

While some decisions hold that a bad or fraudulent motive must be shown to require the disbarment of an attorney, although the acts charged against him are proved to have been committed,[13] yet they should be construed with reference to the charges made in those cases, since there are also cases in which disbarment has been ordered without particular reference to the motive which inspired the reprehensible conduct complained of.[14]

§ 262. Perverting or Obstructing Justice.—The courts have inherent power to suspend or remove any practitioner whose conduct tends to impede, obstruct, or prevent the administration of the law, or destroy the confidence of the people in such administration.[15] Thus, an attorney may be suspended or disbarred for preparing and having, or permitting his client to verify, pleadings which he knows or has reason to believe are false;[16] presenting false or unfounded affidavits for the purpose of deceiving or misleading the court;[17] commencing fictitious or unfounded litigation;[18] colluding with a debtor to enable him, under color of law, to defraud his creditors;[19] bringing a suit for divorce upon the identical pleadings upon which, after full hearing, another court of concurrent jurisdiction has dismissed the suit for want of equity, without disclosing that fact;[20] appearing in court to conduct litigation while in such a state of intoxication that the court is unable to proceed;[1] conspiring to get the opposing attorney drunk in order to gain an advantage in a cause;[2] corrupting a juror;[3] obtaining information from the grand jury on official matters before it;[4] presenting mutilated copies of papers to a court for the purpose of deceiving and misleading it; inducing a United States commissioner to believe that he had authority to issue a writ of habeas corpus, admit a prisoner to bail, and thus bring about his escape; causing the wife of a client to visit a judge and seek to commit him to the cause of the client in advance of trial;[5] or making public addresses which tend to prejudice the consideration of pending litigation.[6] Such conduct must, however, have been prompted by base or unworthy motives; an attorney cannot be disbarred because he made a motion which was not supported by the facts, or corrected a decree, after it had been signed, by inserting immaterial words omitted therefrom through clerical oversight.[7]

---

[10] Re Lentz, 65 N. J. L. 134, 46 A. 761, 50 L.R.A. 415.

[11] Hertz v. United States (C. C. A. 8th) 18 F. (2d) 52, citing R. C. L.; People v. Keegan, 18 Colo. 237, 32 P. 424, 36 Am. St. Rep. 274; People v. Macauley, 230 Ill. 208, 82 N. E. 612, 120 Am. St. Rep. 287; People v. Smith, 200 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 27, 93 Am. St. Rep. 206; Nelson v. Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272.

Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 74.

[12] Delano's Case, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 415, 416.

[13] State v. Finley, 30 Fla. 325, 11 So. 674, 18 L.R.A. 401.

[14] Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 401.

[15] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; State v. Mannix, 133 Or. 329, 288 P. 507, citing R. C. L.; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

Resort to any form of device for the purpose of preventing the decision of a cause upon the merits may constitute ground for suspension or disbarment, whether such fraud or deceit is practiced upon the court, the adverse party, or the latter's counsel. Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 82.

Some statutes expressly provide that an attorney who is guilty of deceit or collusion, or consents thereto, with intent to deceive a court or judge or party to an action or proceedings, may be disbarred. Re Mosher, 24 Okla. 61, 102 P. 705, 24 L.R.A. (N.S.) 530, 20 Ann. Cas. 209.

[16] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Martin, 288 Ill. 615, 124 N. E. 340, 14 A.L.R. 854.

Annotation: 14 A.L.R. 869.

[17] Re Vaughan, 189 Cal. 491, 209 P. 353, 24 A.L.R. 858 (false affidavit to secure an extension of time for filing a supersedeas bond); Re Wharton, 114 Cal. 367, 46 P. 172, 55 Am. St. Rep. 72 (false and fraudulent affidavits of service of summons); People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Martin, 288 Ill. 615, 124 N. E. 340, 14 A.L.R. 854 (false affidavit of lack of notice to secure an injunction against a sale of property under execution).

Annotation: 14 A.L.R. 869; 2 Am. St. Rep. 851; 45 Am. St. Rep. 82.

It is professional misconduct to prepare and forward to a client for verification an affidavit showing the disqualification of the judge. Re Carleton, 33 Mont. 431, 88 P. 788, 114 Am. St. Rep. 826.

[18] Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848.

[19] People v. Keegan, 18 Colo. 237, 32 P. 424, 36 Am. St. Rep. 274.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 851.

[20] People v. Case, 241 Ill. 279, 89 N. E. 638, 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 578.

§ 263. —Fabricating or Suppressing Papers or Evidence and Tampering with Witnesses.—An attorney may be suspended or disbarred for concealing, suppressing, or failing to produce a paper or document material to the issues,[8] for offering in evidence as valid an instrument which he knows is not valid and lawful,[9] for using as evidence documents known by him to be fabricated[10] or testimony known to him to be false and perjured,[11] for tampering with witnesses,[12] for paying or offering to pay a nonexpert witness money in addition to the usual witness fees, though with the honest intention of procuring only truthful testimony,[13] for inducing witnesses subpœnaed by the other side to absent themselves,[14] or for colluding in the manufacture of deceptive evidence.[15] But it has been held that an attorney cannot be disbarred for making a false affidavit for use in a pending cause wherein he is not acting as attorney.[16]

§ 264. Misconduct toward Court or Judge.—Generally an attorney may not be disbarred as a punishment for contempt of court.[17] As a general rule, in so far as acts done or words spoken may merit punishment, a court should punish the same in the exercise of its inherent power to deal with persons found guilty of contempt.[18] However, there are instances where aggravated and base contempts may be punished by disbarment or suspension.[19]

---

[1] Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848.

[2] Dickens's Case, 67 Pa. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 420.
Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 852.

[3] Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[4] Re Hittson, 20 N. M. 319, 150 P. 733, L.R.A.1916A, 1171.

[5] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 82.

[6] Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

[7] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 83.

[8] Annotation: L.R.A.1917B, 384.
An attorney who, when called upon by opposing counsel to produce a copy or duplicate of an original contract in his possession, stated that it was not in his possession or custody or under his control, when as a matter of fact it had been concealed by him, is guilty of unprofessional conduct subjecting him to a reprimand, even though such contract was not material to the determination of the issues in the case on trial. Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A.1917B, 378.

[9] Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A.1917B, 378.

[10] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[11] People v. Beattie, 137 Ill. 553, 27 N. E. 1096, 31 Am. St. Rep. 384.
Annotation: 14 A.L.R. 868.

[12] Re Eldridge, 82 N. Y. 161, 37 Am. Rep. 558.
Annotation: 14 A.L.R. 871.

[13] Re O'Keefe, 49 Mont. 369, 142 P. 638, L.R.A.1915A, 514.
Annotation: L.R.A.1915A, 514.

[14] Taylor v. Com. 192 Ky. 410, 233 S. W. 895, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 851; 45 Am. St. Rep. 82.

[15] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 82.

[16] Beckner v. Com. 126 Ky. 318, 103 S. W. 378, 128 Am. St. Rep. 287.

[17] People ex rel. Mulford v. Turner, 1 Cal. 143, 52 Am. Dec. 295; State ex rel. Huffaker v. Crosby, 24 Nev. 115, 50 P. 127, 77 Am. St. Rep. 786.
Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 83.

Clearly, the court has no power to disbar for a contempt committed before another court.[20]

§ 265. —Abusive Conduct.—An attorney may be suspended or disbarred for violation of his duty to pay that courtesy and respect due to courts of justice and judicial officers which he is required to observe at all times.[1] An attorney who endeavors to coerce a judge in the decision of a cause by personal attack, threats, or other means of intimidation,[2] or who indulges in invective or in scandalous innuendo that tends to degrade the court or to impair its respectability and usefulness,[3] may be disbarred or suspended. It is not necessary that the threat, indignity, or insult to the judge should occur in open court or should constitute a statutory contempt of court.[4] The fact, however, that an attorney, in the course of legal proceedings, imputes prejudice to the court or judge under circumstances which create a privilege,[5] or that he addresses a letter to a judge, expressed in respectful language, stating that he has lost the confidence of the public, and suggesting the propriety of his resigning from office,[6] does not call for disbarment, nor are political speeches reflecting upon the integrity of the court such misconduct as calls for permanent disbarment.[7]

§ 266. —Criticism of Judicial Acts.—There can be no question as to the right of a court to suspend or disbar an attorney for comment upon and criticism of the judicial acts of a court or its members, when couched in such language as to establish clearly the bad character of the offender and his unfitness to remain a member of the legal profession.[8] Suspension or disbarment may be based upon abusive and defamatory criticisms of judicial acts, when immaterial and irrelevant, incorporated in a pleading, argument, or brief,[9] or upon the fact that the attorney writes abusive letters or addresses opprobrious language to a judge in reference to his decisions or official acts, or publishes, in reference thereto, statements containing such language.[10] It is evident, however, that not all criticism is a ground for disbarment. Bona fide criticism of a court which does not pass the limits of decency and propriety under the circumstances or tend to bring the court into disrepute or lessen the respect due it is not a ground for disbarment.[11] Moreover, since the purpose of the rule against harsh and unjust criticism of judicial acts is to prevent the impairment of the administration of justice, such rule is usually applied with less strictness to past than to pending causes,[12] and has even been held inapplicable to past decisions.[13] Considerable latitude is allowed in the criticism of the decisions of judges running for re-election,[14] although that fact does not give to an attorney the right to misrepresent wilfully the judge's decisions or to make false charges of corruption or incompetence against him.[15] Criticism not written or spoken in the capacity of attorney will not afford ground for disbarment unless it is so vile and opprobrious as to manifest moral delinquency.[16]

---

[18] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 83; 57 Am. St. Rep. 583.

[19] State Law Examiners v. Hart, 104 Minn. 88, 116 N. W. 212, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 585, 15 Ann. Cas. 197.

An attorney who fails to return, as directed by the court, fees paid him as referee in a litigated case will be suspended from his rights and privileges as a member of the bar for his failure to respect the decision of the court. Re Gilbert, 276 U. S. 294, 72 L. ed. 580, 48 S. Ct. 309.

[20] Re Bradley, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 364, 19 L. ed. 214.

[1] Re Secombe, 19 How. (U. S.) 9, 15 L. ed. 565; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 85.

[2] Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; People v. Green, 7 Colo. 237, 244, 3 P. 65, 374, 49 Am. Rep. 351; Wilhelm's Case, 269 Pa. 416, 112 A. 560, citing R. C. L. (indicating popular feeling pending litigation); Re Austin, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 2 Am. St. Rep. 852; 45 Am. St. Rep. 84.

An attorney who states in a petition for a rehearing that it is commonly reported that the court was controlled by political motives in its decision in the case, and suggests that in order to relieve itself from such slanderous rumors it should entertain the petition and that the petition need not become public property, violates his statutory duty to maintain due respect to the court and to abstain from offensive personality, and is guilty of an attempt to intimidate the court into a favorable decision, although he himself disavows his belief in the truth of the scandalous statements and of any intention to reflect on the court. Re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153, 92 P. 929, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 525, 15 Ann. Cas. 415.

[3] Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Muncie & P. Traction Co. 166 Ind. 466, 77 N. E. 941, 9 Ann. Cas. 165.

Annotation: 9 Ann. Cas. 166, 168.

[4] Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; People v. Green, 7 Colo. 237, 244, 3 P. 65, 374, 49 Am. Rep. 351; Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1918A, 284.

A mere libel upon a judge is not, however, a cause of disbarment unless its object is shown to have been "the acquirement of an influence over a judge in the exercise of his judicial functions, by the instrumentality of popular prejudices." Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637.

[5] Re Sherwood, 259 Pa. 254, 103 A. 42, L.R.A.1918D, 447.

Annotation: L.R.A.1918D, 450.

An attorney who has removed a cause from a state to a Federal court on the ground of local prejudice is privileged in stating to the Federal court that the state judges are so prejudiced that his client cannot get a fair trial in the state courts. Re Sherwood, 259 Pa. 254, 103 A. 42, L.R.A. 1918D, 447.

[6] Re Austin, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657.

[7] Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

§ 267. —Effect of Retraction, Disavowal, or Apology.—A disavowal by the attorney of any intentional disrespect in making improper or defamatory criticisms of the court, or a proper retraction and apology for his misconduct, will be considered in mitigation of his offense, and the court will refrain from disbarring him,[17] although such a disavowal, retraction, or apology does not purge the words of their contemptuous character, for everyone is presumed to intend the natural and probable consequences of his acts.[18]

---

[8] Neel v. State, 9 Ark. 259, 50 Am. Dec. 209; State Law Examiners v. Hart, 104 Minn. 88, 116 N. W. 212, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 585, 15 Ann. Cas. 197; State v. Root, 5 N. D. 487, 67 N. W. 590, 57 Am. St. Rep. 568; Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

Annotation: 15 Ann. Cas. 205.

[9] Re Philbrook, 105 Cal. 471, 38 P. 511, 884, 45 Am. St. Rep. 59; Atty. Gen. v. Nelson, 263 Mich. 686, 249 N. W. 439, citing R. C. L.; Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 572; Re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153, 92 P. 929, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 525, 15 Ann. Cas. 415.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1245; 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 525; 9 Ann. Cas. 168; 15 Ann. Cas. 205; Ann. Cas. 1918A, 283.

[10] Re Humphrey, 174 Cal. 290, 163 P. 60, citing R. C. L.; People v. Green, 7 Colo. 237, 244, 3 P. 65, 374, 49 Am. Rep. 351; State Law Examiners v. Hart, 104 Minn. 88, 116 N. W. 212, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 585, 15 Ann. Cas. 197; State v. Root, 5 N. D. 487, 67 N. W. 590, 57 Am. St. Rep. 568; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Breckenridge, 126 Okla. 86, 258 P. 744, 53 A.L.R. 1239; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218; Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1247; 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 526; 15 Ann. Cas. 205; Ann. Cas. 1918A, 283.

An attorney may be disbarred for printing and publishing a pamphlet falsely, purposely, and maliciously attacking the integrity of the courts and the judges thereof, designed to misrepresent the courts and the judges thereof wilfully, purposely, and maliciously bring them into disrepute, and lessen the respect due them. State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[11] People ex rel. Elliott v. Green, 7 Colo. 237, 244, 3 P. 65, 374, 49 Am. Rep. 351; State Law Examiners v. Hart, 104 Minn. 88, 116 N. W. 212, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 585, 15 Ann. Cas. 197; Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 572; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218; Austin's Case, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 191, 28 Am. Dec. 657; Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1244; 17 L.R.A. (N.S.) 572; 15 Ann. Cas. 205.

[12] State Law Examiners v. Hart, 104 Minn. 88, 116 N. W. 212, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 585, 15 Ann. Cas. 197.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1245; 15 Ann. Cas. 205.

[13] Re Pryor, 18 Kan. 72, 26 Am. Rep. 747.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1245; 15 Ann. Cas. 205.

[14] State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Circuit Ct. 97 Wis. 1, 72 N. W. 193, 38 L.R.A. 554, 65 Am. St. Rep. 90.

[15] Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1251; Ann. Cas. 1918D, 287.

[16] Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1253.

[17] Re Philbrook, 105 Cal. 471, 38 P. 511, 884, 45 Am. St. Rep. 59; People v. Green, 7

§ 268. Breach of Duties Owing to Client or Former Client.—For an attorney to act toward a client otherwise than with the utmost good faith is unprofessional; therefore, any advice given by an attorney which he does not believe to be correct, and any action whatever taken by him with a view of affecting his client injuriously, or of obtaining some advantage for himself, to the prejudice of his client, justifies a disbarment.[19] The charging of an attorney's fee grossly disproportionate to the services performed is such misconduct as to merit disciplinary action,[20] and may justify the attorney's disbarment, in the absence of contingencies justifying a large fee.[1] It also is a ground for suspension or disbarment for an attorney to undertake, without the knowledge or consent of the parties, to represent adverse parties to the same litigation, or to represent parties having conflicting or adverse interests,[2] especially where, as city or public prosecuting attorney, he acts as counsel for persons whom it is his duty to prosecute.[3] An attorney may be suspended or disbarred also when he represents one whose interest is adverse to that of a former client,[4] where he uses in behalf of his second client and against a former client information acquired in the employment of the latter,[5] or where he uses such information to secure his employment in the prosecution of an adverse claim.[6] Gross malpractice[7] and the giving of improper advice

---

Colo. 237, 244, 3 P. 65, 374, 49 Am. Rep. 351; Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A. (N.S.) 572; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Breckenridge, 126 Okla. 86, 258 P. 744, 53 A.L.R. 1239; Dickens' Case, 67 Pa. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 420; Re Austin, 5 Rawle (Pa.) 206, 28 Am. Dec. 657; Re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153, 92 P. 929, 15 L.R.A.(N.S.) 525, 15 Ann. Cas. 415.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1254; 15 L.R.A. (N.S.) 525; 45 Am. St. Rep. 71; 15 Ann. Cas. 206; Ann. Cas. 1918A, 286.

[18] People ex rel. Elliott v. Green, 7 Colo. 237, 244, 3 P. 65, 374, 49 Am. Rep. 351; Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 572.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 1254; 15 Ann. Cas. 206.

[19] Fairfield County Bar v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767; People v. Beattie, 137 Ill. 553, 27 N. E. 1096, 31 Am. St. Rep. 384; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; State ex rel. Dale v. Vernor, 79 Okla. 124, 191 P. 729, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 81; Ann. Cas. 1912B, 214.

An attorney who abandons his client and sacrifices his interests by surrendering to the adverse party the notes on which his client's claim is based, without consideration being received for the client, may be disbarred. People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Sullivan, 279 Ill. 634, 117 N. E. 134, L.R.A. 1918A, 1136.

Similarly, an attorney who, after receiving the money to satisfy a trust deed, is retained by the grantor to defend a suit for its foreclosure and permits judgment to go against his client without setting up the fact of payment will be disbarred. People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Martin, 288 Ill. 615, 124 N. E. 340, 14 A.L.R. 854.

[20] Goldstone v. State Bar, 214 Cal. 490, 6 P. (2d) 513, 80 A.L.R. 701.

[1] Goldstone v. State Bar, 214 Cal. 490, 6 P. (2d) 513, 80 A.L.R. 701; Re Cary, 146 Minn. 80, 177 N. W. 801, 9 A.L.R. 1272.

Annotation: 80 A.L.R. 706.

[2] Re Carleton, 33 Mont. 431, 84 P. 788, 114 Am. St. Rep. 826.

The absolute disbarment of an attorney is justified where, upon receiving an unenforceable claim against his own client, he caused a complaint to be served in the name of another attorney, and then advised his client to settle, falsely telling him, with full knowledge of the facts, that the claim was good and could be collected out of his property. Fairfield County Bar ex rel. Fessenden v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767.

[3] Annotation: L.R.A.1918F, 833.

An attorney may be disbarred for taking a retainer not to appear on behalf of a municipality in certain pending suits commenced by him in his name while he was the official attorney of such city, though such retainer was taken after he went out of office, and he never had any personal knowledge of the suits. Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545.

[4] Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545; Fairfield County Bar v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767; Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A. 1917B, 378.

Annotation: 51 A.L.R. 1315; Ann. Cas. 1912B, 214.

[5] Murphy v. Riggs, 238 Mich. 151, 213 N. W. 110, 51 A.L.R. 1303.

[6] Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A.1917B, 378.

[7] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569.

to a client to resort to illegal acts to right a supposed wrong[8] have been held to be grounds for disbarment. However, disobedience of the client's instructions, or mere breach of promise, or giving information which may be used against a former client, are not considered grounds for disbarment or suspension unless there are some circumstances of fraud or corruption.[9] Nor is disbarment required by the failure of the attorney to observe statutes affecting the rights of his client,[10] by mere negligence in the performance of his duty, by misrepresentation of facts to his clients because of his failure to know the truth,[11] or by mere laziness or inattention to duty, in the absence of any moral delinquency or dishonorable or corrupt motive.[12] Moreover, gross ignorance of the law is not, apparently, a ground for disbarment, where a knowledge of the law is not, by statute, made a prerequisite to admission to the bar.[13]

§ 269. Conversion or Misappropriation of Client's Property.—One of the most frequent grounds of disbarment or suspension of attorneys is the conversion or wrongful retention, misappropriation, or misapplication of moneys or property received by them in their professional character.[14] In some states this is a statutory ground for disbarment; no statute is necessary, however, to warrant disbarment where there has been any actual appropriation to his own use of moneys collected by an attorney.[15]

It has been held, however, that to constitute a wrongful retention of money sufficient to warrant disbarment, some element of fraud or dishonesty must appear. In other words, mere nonpayment or use of the client's money by an attorney, in the absence of intent to defraud or of dishonesty, is no ground for disbarring him,[16] even though his action is in disregard of an order and rule of court and without special circumstances justifying it.[17] Mere retention is no ground for disbarment where the client is indebted to the attorney in an amount equal to or in excess of the sum withheld,[18] or where the balance owed to the client is the subject of a bona fide dispute involving no fraud or deception,[19] or where such retention is due to an attachment while the property was in the attorney's hands.[20]

§ 270. —When Done by One Member of Law Firm.—If moneys are collected by a member of a firm of attorneys and misappropriated by one of their number without the knowledge of his partners, only the member making the misappropriation can be disbarred; the innocent members cannot be disbarred even though they have not satisfied their civil liability by paying over the moneys.[1] If, however, the other members of the firm have knowledge of the misappropriation and permit denials that the money was collected to be made in the firm name, all may be disbarred.[2]

---

[8] Re Hittson, 20 N. M. 319, 150 P. 733, L.R.A.1916A, 1171.
Annotation: L.R.A.1916A, 1175.

[9] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 857.

[10] Re O'Keefe, 49 Mont. 369, 142 P. 638, L.R.A.1915A, 514.

[11] Re Miller, 55 Nev. 444, 38 P. (2d) 972, citing R. C. L.; Re Robertson, 28 S. D. 70, 132 N. W. 684, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 442.

[12] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; Re Robertson, 28 S. D. 70, 132 N. W. 684, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 442.
Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 705.

[13] Annotation: 69 A.L.R. 705; 2 Am. St. Rep. 857.

[14] People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183; Re Wilson, 79 Kan. 674, 100 P. 635, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 517, 17 Ann. Cas. 690; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413; Re Cherry, 166 Minn. 448, 208 N. W. 197, 45 A.L.R. 1108; Re Dahl, 159 Minn. 481, 199 N. W. 429, 43 A.L.R. 52; Re Thresher, 33 Mont. 441, 84 P. 876, 114 Am. St. Rep. 834, 8 Ann. Cas. 845; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729.
Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 54; 19 L.R.A. (N.S.) 414; 45 Am. St. Rep. 78.
It is a breach of integrity and a manifestation of a lack of probity for an attorney wrongfully to withhold the money of his client. Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413.

[15] Re Tyler, 78 Cal. 307, 20 P. 674, 12 Am. St. Rep. 55.
Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 78.

[16] Duffin v. Com. 208 Ky. 452, 271 S. W. 555, citing R. C. L.; Bonner v. Goodloe, 205 Ky. 555, 266 S. W. 62, citing R. C. L.; Re Lentz, 65 N. J. L. 134, 46 A. 761, 50 L.R.A. 415.
Mere carelessness and delay in reporting collections is insufficient. Re Robertson, 28 S. D. 70, 132 N. W. 684, 36 L.R.A.(N.S.) 442.

[17] Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 58; 17 Ann. Cas. 692.

[18] Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 69.

[19] Re Marron, 22 N. M. 252, 160 P. 391, L.R.A.1917B, 378.
Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 69.

[20] Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 69.

§ 271. —Matters in Defense or Mitigation.—No circumstances will justify an attorney in appropriating his client's funds to his personal use. Intention to repay at the time of the conversion is no defense to the disbarment proceedings.[3] Moreover, where it is shown that the attorney acted in bad faith toward his client in detaining or misappropriating funds of the client, or that the wrong was committed or aided by means of false representations, fraud, or deceit, the fact that the attorney has made restitution or settlement with the client does not prevent disbarment,[4] especially where restitution is not made until after the commencement of the disbarment proceedings.[5] Such settlement or restitution releases the attorney from civil liability, but does not purge him of his offense, nor does it prove that he has become a fit person to remain on the rolls.[6] A different rule applies, however, where the appropriation is without intent to defraud and is followed by repayment before the institution of disbarment proceedings and by exemplary conduct in both public and private life.[7]

Such matters as the youth, inexperience, old age, poverty, previous good character, intoxication, insanity, absence of fraudulent intent, and the smallness of the amount involved, while not, strictly speaking, defenses, have been held in some, but not all, cases to be mitigating circumstances justifying a lightening of the punishment to mere temporary suspension or severe reprimand.[8]

§ 272. Contracts Contrary to Public Policy.—An attorney who, in the pursuit of his profession, makes an agreement against public policy, such as a champertous contract, is guilty of a gross breach of professional duty which may justify his disbarment.[9]

§ 273. Unethical Conduct.—An attorney may, in some cases, be suspended or disbarred for conduct which, while not criminal in its character or calculated to obstruct justice, is, nevertheless, in contravention of the ethics of the profession.[10] An instance of this is the act of an attorney in slandering another attorney and thereby depriving him of clients,[11] by a wanton or malicious accusation of a serious nature, made falsely and without reasonable cause,[12] whether such aspersion is made in a pleading in an action,[13] in the course of a disbarment proceeding, in an attempt to intermeddle between the attorney and his client, or otherwise.[14] Similarly, an attorney may be disbarred as morally unfitted for his office for aspersing the character or reputation of a litigant when such aspersion is irrelevant.[15] It is also misconduct sufficient to disbar or suspend an attorney for him to mislead or intimidate debtors through the use of letters or notices simulating legal process,[16] to make unwarranted use of legal process, or to allow his name to be used by others.[17] However, it would be going too far to hold that an attorney may be disbarred solely because he has failed to live up to the ideals which the canons of ethics of a bar association set for its members as attorneys and citizens.[18] There must be an element of immorality or dishonesty, or some violation of private interests or the public good.[19] It is not unprofessional conduct meriting disbarment for a member of the bar to conduct quiz classes to prepare law students, who have completed the required course of study, for their bar examinations.[20]

---

[1] State v. Breslin, 67 Okla. 125, 169 P. 897, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 76; 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 418; 2 Am. St. Rep. 857; 45 Am. St. Rep. 78; 17 Ann. Cas. 694.

[2] Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 419.

[3] Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 65, 66.

[4] Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729. Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 66.

The bringing of a civil suit to enforce payment of money unlawfully withheld by an attorney from his client, and the recovery of a judgment for the amount so withheld, do not bar proceedings to have the attorney disbarred. Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 71; 17 Ann. Cas. 695.

[5] Com. v. Hinton, 254 Ky. 798, 72 S. W. (2d) 481, citing R. C. L.; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413; Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729.

Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 68; 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 414.

[6] Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 416; 2 Am. St. Rep. 860; 45 Am. St. Rep. 78.

[7] Re Lentz, 65 N. J. L. 134, 46 A. 761, 50 L.R.A. 415.

[8] Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 72–75.

[9] Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794, judgment vacated on rehearing in 42 Utah, 282, 130 P 217.

If an attorney representing a woman suing for divorce, and having an agreement with her to divide with him any alimony which may be awarded her, obtains an allowance for attorneys' fees and an award for alimony without disclosing such agreement, he is guilty of professional misconduct. Re Carleton, 33 Mont. 431, 84 P. 788, 114 Am. St. Rep. 826.

§ 274. —Solicitation of Business.—An attorney may be suspended or disbarred for the solicitation of employment, either personally or through others,[1] particularly when employment is solicited in personal injury cases.[2] Stat-

---

[10] Re Hilton, 48 Utah, 172, 158 P. 691, Ann. Cas. 1918A, 271.
Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 45 Am. St. Rep. 81.

[11] Annotation: L.R.A. 1916F, 396; 45 Am. St. Rep. 81.

[12] Re Reid, 45 App. D. C. 240, L.R.A. 1916F, 394.

[13] Re Reid, 45 App. D. C. 240, L.R.A.1916F, 394; Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848.
Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 396.

An attorney at law who files a pleading charging an opposing attorney with misconduct which would subject him to criminal prosecution and ouster from an office held by him is guilty of such misconduct as shows him to be unfit to practice law, if he knew or should have known that the charge was false. Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848.

An attorney will be disbarred who, by irrelevant affidavit, falsely and without reasonable cause charges his opponent with causing the transfer of the cause from one justice of the court to another for hearing, thereby gaining an unfair advantage and being guilty of unfair practice, and with having colluded with a justice of the court to establish a basis for a claim that there had been a legal adjudication of the question involved therein, when the court was without jurisdiction. Re Reid, 45 App. D. C. 240, L.R.A.1916F, 394.

[14] Annotation: L.R.A.1916F, 398, 399.

[15] Re Macy, 109 Kan. 1, 196 P. 1095, 14 A.L.R. 848; Re Richter, 187 Wis. 490, 204 N. W. 492, 41 A.L.R. 485.
Annotation: 41 A.L.R. 494.

[16] Re Dows, 168 Minn. 6, 209 N. W. 627, 47 A.L.R. 265.
Annotation: 47 A.L.R. 268.

[17] Annotation: 47 A.L.R. 269.

[18] Re Clifton, 33 Idaho, 614, 196 P. 670, 19 A.L.R. 931.

[19] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737.

Where the court has found that an attorney caused suit to be brought on notes which he knew had been paid, procuring a reputable attorney who did not know of the payment to bring the action and verify the petition, such finding establishes the charge that he was guilty of unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude. Re Thatcher, 83 Ohio St. 246, 93 N. E. 895, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 810.

[20] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737.
Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 748.

[1] Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Re Cohen, 261 Mass. 484, 159 N. E. 495, 55 A.L.R. 1309; State ex rel. Mackintosh v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 821, 17 Ann. Cas. 625.
Annotation: 55 A.L.R. 1313; L.R.A.1917B, 1131; 17 Ann. Cas. 628; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 133.

An attorney who, knowing of testimony material to a litigant, discloses the same to counsel for such litigant only upon condition that he be employed as associate counsel is guilty of misconduct calling for his disbarment or suspension. Chreste v. Com. 171 Ky. 77, 186 S. W. 99, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 122.

[2] Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 401.

An attorney may be suspended for securing business by calling upon an injured infant, and, upon refusal of its parents to bring action for the injury, asking permission to take it to have the wound examined, and, while having it in his possession, se-utes have been held valid which declare that an attorney who seeks or obtains employment in any action, suit, or case by means of solicitation either personally or through others shall be disbarred, even though such statutes are limited in their application to personal injury cases.[3] Some courts recognize a distinction between personal solicitation and the employment of agents and runners to solicit business and stir up litigation, holding the latter act much more reprehensible and calling for disbarment even though the first may not justify such punishment.[4] The fact that an attorney guilty of such improper practice was ignorant of the impropriety of his acts, and ceases therefrom, will usually be held to be ground for leniency on the part of the court in fixing the penalty for his misconduct.[5]

§ 275. —Advertising.—An attorney cannot, without a flagrant violation of the ethics of his profession, advertise his talents or skill as a merchant advertises his wares, and for such practice he may properly be suspended or disbarred.[6] Such disciplinary measures have frequently been taken against attorneys who advertise for divorce litigation, particularly those who advertise their special ability and facilities in the procuring of divorces speedily and without publicity.[7] In many states such practices are expressly prohibited by statute.[8]

§ 276. Misconduct outside Scope of Professional Relation.—The misconduct for which an attorney may be disbarred is not limited to what occurs in the course of his work as a member of the bar.[9] Misconduct outside of his professional dealings may be sufficient to justify his disbarment,[10] when indica-curing the appointment of a stranger as guardian, after informing it that neither of its parents could act as such. Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.

---

[3] McCloskey v. Tobin, 252 U. S. 107, 64 L. ed. 481, 40 S. Ct. 306; Kelley v. Judge of Recorder's Ct. (Kelley v. Boyne) 239 Mich. 204, 214 N. W. 316, 53 A.L.R. 273; State v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A. (N.S.) 821, 17 Ann. Cas. 625.

Annotation: 53 A.L.R. 279; 44 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1196.

Such acts are made criminal offenses in some states. People v. Smith, 200 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 27, 93 Am. St. Rep. 206.

[4] Chreste v. Com. 171 Ky. 77, 186 S. W. 919, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 122.

[5] Smith v. State Bar, 211 Cal. 249, 294 P. 1057, 73 A.L.R. 393; People v. McCabe, 18 Colo. 186, 32 P. 280, 19 L.R.A. 231, 36 Am. St. Rep. 270; Re Schnitzer, 33 Nev. 581, 112 P. 848, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 941; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829.

Annotation: 18 L.R.A. 401.

[6] People v. McCabe, 18 Colo. 186, 32 P. 280, 19 L.R.A. 231, 36 Am. St. Rep. 270; People v. Smith, 200 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 27, 93 Am. St. Rep. 206; Re Cohen, 261 Mass. 484, 159 N. E. 495, 55 A.L.R. 1309.

Annotation: 55 A.L.R. 1314; 9 L.R.A. (N.S.) 282; 17 Ann. Cas. 628.

[7] People v. McCabe, 18 Colo. 186, 32 P. 280, 19 L.R.A. 231, 36 Am. St. Rep. 270; People v. Smith, 200 Ill. 442, 66 N. E. 27, 93 Am. St. Rep. 206; Re Cohen, 261 Mass. 484, 159 N. E. 495, 55 A.L.R. 1309; Re Schnitzer, 33 Nev. 581, 112 P. 848, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 941; Re Donovan, 43 S. D. 98, 178 N. W. 143, 9 A.L.R. 1497; Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. 117 Tenn. 263, 98 S. W. 178, 9 L.R.A.(N.S.) 282, 119 Am. St. Rep. 1003, 10 Ann. Cas. 829; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 1500; 55 A.L.R. 1318; 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 941; Ann. Cas. 1918E, 133.

An attorney guilty of advertising for divorce business will be suspended from practice even though, because of his general character and the difficulty of taking up other business, disbarment would be inadvisable. Re Donovan, 43 S. D. 98, 178 N. W. 143, 9 A.L.R. 1497.

For an attorney to send news items to the public press concerning divorce cases in which he is mentioned as attorney and referred to by name as an expert on marriage, which are subsequently compiled in a booklet for distribution, is clearly unprofessional and dishonorable conduct. Ibid.

Publishing advertisements in other states, for the purpose of attracting their citizens to the state for the purpose of instituting divorce proceedings in its courts and giving employment to the attorney will furnish grounds for suspension or disbarment. Re Schnitzer, 33 Nev. 581, 112 P. 848, 33 L.R.A. (N.S.) 941.

[8] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1916A, 904.

[9] Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380.

[10] Bartos v. United States Dist. Ct. (C. C. A. 8th) 19 F. (2d) 722, citing R. C. L.; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413; People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Meyerovitz, 278 Ill. 356, 116 N. E. 189, citing R. C. L.; Nelson v.

tive of moral unfitness for the profession.[11] It is not necessary that the wrongful acts for which an attorney may be disbarred shall be indictable.[12] Accordingly, an attorney may be disbarred or suspended for moral delinquency while fulfilling a position of trust,[13] as where he converts or otherwise misappropriates money intrusted to him otherwise than in his professional capacity as attorney.[14] Deceit practiced to procure the passage of legislation in which the attorney is interested[15] and various other acts[16] are held sufficient to justify disbarment or suspension from office.

§ 277. —Personal Vices Not Affecting Integrity.—Indulgence of vices affecting to some extent the moral character, but not personal or professional integrity, has usually been held not a sufficient ground for disbarment.[17] Thus, personal vices, such as bad manners, bad language,[18] and sexual immorality,[19] especially if several years have elapsed since the offense occurred during which the attorney has lived an exemplary life,[20] and other acts of a more or less reprehensible nature which do not amount to a crime have generally been held insufficient as a ground for suspension or disbarment.[1] In other words, merely discreditable conduct as an individual, outside of his profession, will not furnish ground for the exercise of the summary jurisdiction of the court.[2] Nor will an attorney be disbarred because he lent money at a usurious rate of interest, there being no circumstances of hardship or oppression,[3] or because he, being also the editor of a newspaper, published in

---

Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A. (N.S.) 272; Dickens' Case, 67 Pa. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 420; Re Burton, 67 Utah, 118, 246 P. 188, citing R. C. L.; Norfolk & P. Bar Asso. v. Drewry, 161 Va. 833, 172 S. E. 282, citing R. C. L.; Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355.
Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 74.

[11] State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; People v. Appleton, 105 Ill. 474, 44 Am. Rep. 812; Re Cary, 146 Minn. 80, 177 N. W. 801, 9 A.L.R. 1272; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190; 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 19 Ann. Cas. 592; Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637; Krickau v. Williams, 36 R. I. 85, 89 A. 152, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 1145.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 190, s. 43 A.L.R. 108, and 55 A.L.R. 1374; 2 Am. St. Rep. 850.

Fraudulent conduct or unfair dealing by an attorney, in a transaction not directly connected with any professional employment and not operating to defraud a client or to deceive the court, is nevertheless ground for suspension or disbarment where it involves such moral delinquency as to show the attorney to be wanting in integrity. People ex rel. Healy v. Macauley, 230 Ill. 208, 82 N. E. 612, 120 Am. St. Rep. 287.

[12] Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380.

[13] Delano's Case, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 193, s. 43 A.L.R. 108, and 55 A.L.R. 1374; 17 Ann. Cas. 692; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 236.

A contrary view was formerly taken in People ex rel. Hughes v. Appleton, 105 Ill. 474, 44 Am. Rep. 812, but this case has since been overruled. See annotation: 9 A.L.R. 194.

[14] Re Wilson, 79 Kan. 674, 100 P. 635, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 517, 17 Ann. Cas. 690.
Annotation: 43 A.L.R. 77.

[15] Marshall v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. 16 How. (U. S.) 314, 14 L. ed. 953; Re Cary, 146 Minn. 80, 177 N. W. 801, 9 A.L.R. 1272.
Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 1277.

[16] Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 204, s. 43 A.L.R. 112, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

[17] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 850–857; 40 Am. Rep. 642.

[18] Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 203, s. 43 A.L.R. 111, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

[19] People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183.
Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 202, s. 43 A.L.R. 111, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

Such evidence, however, may be considered in connection with other evidence in the case in determining whether the attorney is a fit and proper person to hold a license to practice law. People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183.

[20] Re Sherin, 27 S. D. 232, 130 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 801, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 446, modified on rehearing in 28 S. D. 420, 133 N. W. 701, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 812.

[1] Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 205, s. 43 A.L.R. 114, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

[2] Annotation: 42 Am. Rep. 557.

Participation in making pretended gifts as a means of giving notoriety to an exhibition innocent in itself is not a ground for disbarment. Dickens's Case, 67 Pa. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 420.

[3] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Wheeler, 259 Ill. 99, 102 N. E. 188, 45 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1202, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 286.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914C, 287.

it a libelous article charging a judge with prostituting the machinery of justice to serve party purposes in a certain case.[4]

§ 278. —Misconduct in Official Capacity.—It is a generally recognized rule that an attorney may be suspended or disbarred for misconduct unconnected with his professional duties while acting in an official capacity.[5] Thus, conduct of an attorney in the exercise of a judicial office clearly revealing moral delinquency,[6] such as an unwarranted criticism by a trial judge of the action of the reviewing court in reversing a decision of the trial judge,[7] or other conduct by a judge of an illegal or unconstitutional nature;[8] the making of a false jurat or acknowledgment while acting as notary public or commissioner of deeds;[9] wilful disregard of his duties or gross negligence in their performance as a justice of the peace;[10] the misappropriation of funds held as tax collector;[11] the failure to prosecute criminal offenses, giving active encouragement of violations of the law;[12] acting as counsel for persons whom he is required to prosecute, using his office to further his private practice,[13] and other acts against good morals and in violation of his oath of office while serving as prosecuting attorney are sufficient to justify disbarment or suspension from practice.[14] The acceptance as a campaign contribution of money by an attorney acting as a prosecuting officer, knowing that such money was intended to influence him in the performance of his public duties, is a wilful violation of his duties as an attorney at law and a ground for disbarment.[15]

§ 279. Commission or Conviction of Crime.—The commission of an intentional and wilful criminal act indicates an unfitness to be intrusted with the administration of the law, although not every criminal act will justify a disbarment,[16] especially where the act is one that may be committed without involving bad moral character with respect to the duties of the attorney's profession, or where he commits some discreditable act,[17] or where, notwithstanding the commission of some discreditable act, it may be fairly inferred that the attorney's moral character is not such as will lead him to an abuse of the privileges of his profession or a disregard of his duties either to the court or his client.[18] Generally speaking, however, the conviction of any offense which the law characterizes as infamous establishes prima facie the unfitness of the attorney to be continued on the rolls and must be accepted as sufficient cause of disbarment.[19] So also, an attorney convicted of a misdemeanor which imports fraud or dishonesty will be struck off the rolls.[20] It is within the power of the legislature to require the disbarment of an attorney who is convicted of a felony or misdemeanor which involves moral turpitude, and in many states there are statutes of this kind.[1] The moral turpitude referred to in such statutes consists of an act of baseness, vileness, or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men, or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man.[2] The commission of perjury,[3] forgery,[4] extortion,[5] bribery,[6] violations of the liquor law,[7] especially if the offense is repeated,[8] larceny, even petit larceny,[9] and acceptance of stolen property are all held to be offenses involving moral turpitude, within the meaning of such statutes,[10] or at least they constitute such evidence of moral delinquency as to justify the disbarment or suspension of an attorney guilty thereof. Nor is such a statute repealed by a subsequent one authorizing an attorney's disbarment for cause shown, although one section of the latter statute provides that when he is charged with embezzlement or other professional misconduct, he shall be ordered to show cause why he shall not be disbarred and the matter shall be referred to a committee for hearing.[11]

---

[4] Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637.

[5] Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545; State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A. (N.S.) 572; Delano's Case, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555.

Annotation: L.R.A.1915A, 663; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 232.

[6] State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Re Rempfer, 51 S. D. 393, 216 N. W. 355, 55 A.L.R. 1346; Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 195, s. 43 A.L.R. 108, and 55 A.L.R. 1374; L.R.A.1915A, 664; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 232.

The charging by a probate judge of a fee for pretended services as an attorney to an estate before him for settlement and his enforcing payment through deception, threat, and the exercise of his authority as presiding judge are sufficient to warrant his disbarment as an attorney at law. State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A. 1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

An attorney who, while county judge, uses his office to exact an illegal fee from one brought before him for violation of the liquor laws, secures an exorbitant fee for another attorney from a person brought before him, appears as attorney for one accused of an offense which may be brought before him as judge, and fails as state's attorney to collect a fine imposed by him as judge, will be disbarred. Re Rempfer, 51 S. D. 393, 216 N. W. 355, 55 A.L.R. 1346.

The obtaining by a judge of a court of record having jurisdiction of liquor cases of a loan from a bootlegger betrays a lack of moral character unfitting him to hold the office of attorney at law, and he may be punished by disbarment as a matter of discipline and for its restraining influence upon others. Re Stolen, 193 Wis. 602, 214 N. W. 379, 216 N. W. 127, 55 A.L.R. 1355.

[7] Re Breen, 30 Nev. 164, 93 P. 997, 17 L.R.A.(N.S.) 572.

[8] Annotation: L.R.A.1915A, 664.

[9] Ex parte Finn, 32 Or. 519, 52 P. 756, 67 Am. St. Rep. 550.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 196, s. 43 A.L.R. 108, and 55 A.L.R. 1375; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 236.

[10] Annotation: L.R.A.(N.S.) 1915A, 663.

[11] Re Delano's Case, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555.

[12] Annotation: L.R.A.1918A, 1192; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 234.

[13] Annotation: L.R.A.1918F, 833.

In Re Cowdery, 69 Cal. 32, 10 P. 47, 58 Am. Rep. 545, the court held that the fidelity which a city attorney owed to the city and county existed after the expiration of his term of office, so that his acceptance of money from persons interested in consideration of his agreement not to represent the city in pending appeals inaugurated during his term of office was misconduct warranting his suspension for six months.

[14] Re Crum, 55 N. D. 876, 215 N. W. 682, 55 A.L.R. 220.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 197, s. 43 A.L.R. 109, and 55 A.L.R. 1375; L.R.A.1915A, 665; L.R.A.1918A, 1192; Ann. Cas. 1917B, 234.

[15] Re Crum, 55 N. D. 876, 215 N. W. 682, 55 A.L.R. 220.

Annotation: 55 A.L.R. 230.

§ 280. —Sabotage, Rioting, Treason, and Disloyalty.—Public advocacy of sabotage and criminal syndicalism as a means of accomplishing social and industrial reform,[12] active participation in unlawful assemblages,[13] lynching or mob violence,[14] and acts of treason, sedition, or disloyalty on the part of an attorney, particularly if they violate a criminal statute, are sufficient grounds for disbarment or suspension,[15] although mere anarchistic beliefs and opinions, unless expressions thereof are uttered under circumstances and in a manner calculated to lead others to violate and disregard existing laws,[16] or unpatriotic conduct and utterances not amounting to treason or to the violation of any statute or of the oaths and duties of an attorney, do not subject him to disbarment.[17]

---

[16] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 77.

[17] Dickens's Case, 67 Pa. 169, 5 Am. Rep. 420.

[18] Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 77.

[19] State ex rel. McLean v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847, L.R.A.1918A, 1189; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Ex parte Mason, 29 Or. 18, 43 P. 651, 54 Am. St. Rep. 772; Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, on rehearing in 10 S. D 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.
Annotation: 45 Am. St. Rep. 77.

[20] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569.

[1] Re Collins, 188 Cal. 701, 206 P. 990, 32 A.L.R. 1062; Re Kerl, 32 Idaho, 737, 188 P. 40, 8 A.L.R. 1259; Re Henry, 15 Idaho, 755, 99 P. 1054, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.
Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1069; L.R.A. 1915C, 565.

[2] Re Henry, 15 Idaho, 755, 99 P. 1054, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207.

[3] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.
Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 200, s. 43 A.L.R. 110, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

[4] Re Sutton, 50 Mont. 88, 145 P. 6, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1223.

[5] Re Sherin, 27 S. D. 232, 130 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 801, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 446, modified on rehearing in 28 S. D. 420, 133 N. W. 701, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 812.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1914C, 288.

[6] Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 1277.

[7] State v. Bieber, 121 Kan. 536, 247 P. 875, 48 A.L.R. 252; State ex rel. McLean v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847, L.R.A. 1918A, 1189.
Annotation: 40 A.L.R. 1049, s. 71 A.L.R. 218; L.R.A.1918A, 1192.

[8] State ex rel. McLean v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847, L.R.A.1918A, 1189.

[9] Re Henry, 15 Idaho, 755, 99 P. 1054, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 207.

[10] Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, on rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.

[11] Ibid.

§ 281. —Necessity of Prior Conviction or Prosecution.—Conviction of an attorney for a crime committed by him is not necessary as a basis for disbarment for committing the acts constituting the crime.[18] In the absence of statutes which are deemed conclusive on the question, the authorities are agreed that where the conduct charged as a ground for disbarring an attorney falls within the sphere of his official duty, the court may proceed summarily against him without awaiting the result of the criminal prosecution,[19] although it may in its discretion do so.[20]

On the other hand, the courts will not, as a general rule, proceed with disbarment proceedings based upon alleged criminal conduct of an attorney not connected with his status as an attorney until a conviction has been had in a criminal proceeding.[1] This rule, however, is not an inflexible one; and where the crime charged affects the moral character of the attorney or indicates a lack of honesty, integrity, and fidelity, the court may proceed with disbarment proceedings before conviction. In other words, the rule is one of propriety and not of power,[2] and its application is determined by the circumstances of the case. If the evidence is conflicting and any doubt of the attorney's guilt exists, no court would assume to proceed summarily, but would leave the case to be determined by a jury. But where the case is clear and the denial is evasive, there is no fixed rule of law to prevent the court from exercising its authority.[3] Again, if the charges involve both official and nonofficial conduct, the court will proceed without awaiting the outcome of the criminal prosecution, at least as to the alleged official conduct.[4]

---

[12] Re Smith, 133 Wash. 145, 233 P. 288, 43 A.L.R. 102.

[13] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; State ex rel. McLaughlin v. Graves, 73 Or. 331, 144 P. 484, L.R.A. 1915C, 259.

Annotation: 9 A.L.R. 201, s. 43 A.L.R. 110, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

[14] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; State ex rel. McLaughlin v. Graves, 73 Or. 331, 144 P. 484, L.R.A. 1915C, 259.

Annotation: L.R.A.1915C, 259.

[15] Re Kerl, 32 Idaho, 737, 188 P. 40, 8 A.L.R. 1259; Margolis's Case, 269 Pa. 206, 112 A. 478, 12 A.L.R. 1186.

Annotation: 8 A.L.R. 1262, s. 12 A.L.R. 1189, and 19 A.L.R. 936; 9 A.L.R. 201, s. 43 A.L.R. 110, and 55 A.L.R. 1375.

An attorney should be disbarred who, by his addresses, advises people to prepare and equip themselves to own the industries of the state, aids in circulating publications which have been barred from the mails because of seditious utterances, and attempts to interfere with the working of the conscription law for the raising of an army. Margolis's Case, 269 Pa. 206, 112 A. 478, 12 A.L.R. 1186.

[16] Margolis's Case, 269 Pa. 206, 112 A. 478, 12 A.L.R. 1186.

[17] Re Clifton, 33 Idaho, 614, 196 P. 670, 19 A.L.R. 931.

[18] People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183; State v. Fisher, 103 Neb. 736, 174 N. W. 320, citing R. C. L.; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[19] Re Wharton, 114 Cal. 367, 46 P. 172, 55 Am. St. Rep. 72; People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183; Re Thresher, 33 Mont. 441, 84 P. 876, 114 Am. St. Rep. 834, 8 Ann. Cas. 845; State ex rel. McCormick v. Winton, 11 Or. 456, 5 P. 337, 50 Am. Rep. 486; Stone v. Board of Governance, 312 Pa. 576, 168 A. 473, 90 A.L.R. 1109; Re Sherin, 27 S. D. 232, 130 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 801, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 446, modified on rehearing in 28 S. D. 420, 133 N. W. 701, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 812.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1111, 1116; 8 Ann. Cas. 847.

[20] Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1112.

[1] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666; Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637; Re Sherin, 27 S. D. 232, 130 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A. (N.S.) 801, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 446, modified on rehearing in 28 S. D. 420, 133 N. W. 701, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 812.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1112, 1119; 2 Am. St. Rep. 852; 45 Am. St. Rep. 79, 80; 8 Ann. Cas. 847, 848, 849.

[2] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Meyerovitz, 278 Ill. 356, 116 N. E. 189, citing R. C. L.; People v. Appleton, 105 Ill. 474, 44 Am. Rep. 812; Re Thresher, 33 Mont. 441, 84 P. 876, 114 Am. St. Rep. 834, 8 Ann. Cas. 845; Delano's Case, 58 N. H. 5, 42 Am. Rep. 555; State ex rel. Joseph v. Mannix, 133 Or. 329, 288 P. 507, 290 P. 745, citing R. C. L.; State v. Winton, 11 Or. 456, 5 P. 337, 50 Am. Rep. 486; Stone v. Board of Governance, 312 Pa. 576, 168 A. 473, 90 A.L.R. 1109; Re Sherin, 27 S. D. 232, 130 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 801, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 446, modified on rehearing in 28 S.

In some jurisdictions the question has been settled by statutes expressly requiring a confession of crime in open court or a prior conviction upon an indictment and verdict before an attorney can be disbarred for an offense disconnected with the professional or official duties of an attorney.[5] Such statutes are constitutional.[6] However, a statute providing for the disbarment of an attorney by means of a civil suit for acts for which, when committed, he could have been disbarred only after trial and conviction in a criminal court violates the inhibition in the Federal Constitution against the passage of bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.[7]

§ 282. —Effect of Pending Prosecution.—In determining the effect of a pending criminal charge upon proceedings for disbarment based upon the same offense, the cases usually distinguish between offenses committed by the attorney as an individual and those committed by him as an attorney; the general rule is that when the offense for which a criminal charge is pending was committed by the attorney in his private character, disbarment proceedings for the same misconduct should await termination of the criminal charges,[8] whereas if the criminal charge falls within the sphere of his official duty, the pendency thereof is no objection to disbarment proceedings.[9] Clearly, proceedings to disbar an attorney for use of false evidence in a case should not be stayed to await the result of a criminal proceeding for perjury in connection with testimony given by him in another proceeding.[10]

The effect of a conviction of felony as a ground for disbarring an attorney is not annulled by the pendency of proceedings to review the conviction.[11] Even if the statute requires a conviction, it is held that there may be a disbarment, though an appeal from the judgment of conviction is pending, where the statute provides for reinstatement in case of a reversal.[12]

§ 283. —Effect of Failure to Indict, Nol. Pros., or Acquittal. — In the absence of a statutory provision requiring a conviction of a crime as a con-

---

D. 420, 133 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 812; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1113, 1119; 2 Am. St. Rep. 853; 45 Am. St. Rep. 80.

[3] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 853.

[4] Stone v. Board of Governance, 312 Pa. 576, 168 A. 473, 90 A.L.R. 1109.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1123.

[5] Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1115; 19 L.R.A. (N.S.) 418; 2 Am. St. Rep. 849; 8 Ann. Cas. 848.

[6] Re Saddler, 35 Okla. 510, 130 P. 906, 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

Annotation: 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1195.

[7] Annotation: 32 A.L.R. 1069; 44 L.R.A. (N.S.) 1196.

[8] Annotation: 76 A.L.R. 674.

While criminal proceedings instituted against an attorney are not a bar to disbarment proceedings based on the same charges, the latter should not be forced to a conclusion while the criminal proceedings are pending. Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

[9] State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218.

Annotation: 76 A.L.R. 675.

[10] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[11] Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, on rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.

[12] Re Minner, 133 Kan. 789, 3 P. (2d) 473, 79 A.L.R. 35.

dition precedent to disbarment therefor, the refusal of a grand jury to find an indictment for the same criminal misconduct charged in disbarment proceedings,[13] the dismissal or a nol. pros. of the prosecution based upon an indictment found for such misconduct,[14] or even the acquittal of an attorney of the criminal charge upon which disbarment proceedings are based,[15] constitutes no defense to the disbarment proceedings where the misconduct charged falls within the sphere of the attorney's official duties, and shows his unfitness to be intrusted with the powers and obligations of his profession.[16]

§ 284. —Effect of Pardon.—With regard to the effect of a pardon on the right of a court to disbar an attorney for conviction of a crime, the authorities are not in harmony,[17] although to some extent this difference of opinion arises from the nature of the charges on which the proceedings to disbar are based. It is the generally accepted view that a pardon will not operate as a bar to disbarment proceedings based upon the criminal misconduct for which the attorney was convicted, where that misconduct was connected with the attorney's professional capacity or employment, evidences moral turpitude, or indicates lack of good moral character and unfitness for the profession,[18] at least where evidence of good moral character is held necessary to an attorney's license.[19] This is clearly the rule where the pardon is a conditional one.[20] A pardon granted in one state to an attorney for a conviction therein for an infamous crime involving moral turpitude and lack of professional integrity is not a defense to a proceeding to disbar him in another state.[1] Some courts take the ground that an attorney may be disbarred if his acts subsequent to the pardon show that he has not reformed and is morally unfit to be an officer of the court;[2] other courts, however, hold a pardon to be a good defense to disbarment proceedings,[3] particularly where the proceedings are founded on, and depend alone on, a statute making the fact of conviction a ground for disbarment.[4] Even where a pardon is not available to prevent a disbarment, if the attorney denies the allegations that he has been guilty of gross or other professional misconduct, admits that he was tried and convicted as charged, and avers that he was not guilty, that he did not receive a fair trial, and that because of his innocence and improper conviction, he was granted a full and free pardon, he will be allowed to offer proof in his defense.[5]

---

[13] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[14] State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218; Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

Where criminal proceedings are taken by a client against his attorney for embezzlement of the client's funds, and upon his complaint proceedings are also taken to disbar the attorney, the fact that a settlement is made, and the client consents to the entry of a nol. pros., does not prevent the disbarring of the attorney. Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729.

[15] People v. Thomas, 36 Colo. 126, 91 P. 36, 10 Ann. Cas. 886; Barach's Case, 279 Pa. 89, 123 A. 727, citing R. C. L.; Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 1112; 10 Ann. Cas. 887.

[16] Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380.

[17] Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 384; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1226.

[18] People ex rel. Bar Asso. v. Burton, 39 Colo. 164, 88 P. 1063, 121 Am. St. Rep. 165; People ex rel. Deneen v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737, 69 L.R.A. 701; Nelson v. Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A. (N.S.) 272; Wolfe's Disbarment, 288 Pa. 331, 135 A. 732, 50 A.L.R. 380; Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729.

Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 385; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1226.

[19] Nelson v. Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272.

[20] Re Sutton, 50 Mont. 88, 145 P. 6, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1223; State ex rel. McLean v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 345, 93 S. E. 847, L.R.A. 1918A, 1189.

[1] People ex rel. Bar Asso. v. Burton, 39 Colo. 164, 88 P. 1063, 121 Am. St. Rep. 165; People ex rel. Deneen v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737, 69 L.R.A. 701.

[2] Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 385; 16 L.R.A. (N.S.) 272, 273.

[3] Annotation: 50 A.L.R. 384; 16 L.R.A. (N.S.) 272; Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1226.

In Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366, the petitioner, who had been a member of the so-called Confederate Congress during the secession of the South, but had been pardoned by the President of the United States, applied for a license to practice law in the United States courts without first taking an oath to the effect that he had never voluntarily given aid to any government hostile to the United States, etc., as required by statute. It was held, by a divided court, that to exclude petitioner from the practice of law for that offense would be to enforce a punishment for the offense, notwithstanding the pardon.

§ 285. Acts or Convictions in Other Jurisdictions.—An attorney may be disbarred for acts committed in another jurisdiction.[6] A state court may disbar an attorney for an act committed with respect to proceedings in a Federal court,[7] and conversely a Federal court may disbar an attorney for offenses against a state court, as, for instance, where an attorney participated with a mob in taking a prisoner from the custody of state officers and lynching him.[8] It is, moreover, the generally accepted rule that statutes providing for the disbarment of attorneys on conviction of a felony include convictions had in courts of other states or of the United States.[9] Some statutes, however, requiring disbarment of an attorney who is convicted of a crime have been construed not to require disbarment because of a crime in another state.[10]

C. PROCEDURE

§ 286. Generally.—The manner in which disbarment proceedings shall be conducted is matter of judicial regulation.[11] The character and scope of the investigation to be made must depend upon the character of the acts of misconduct and wrong relied upon, of the place of their commission, and the nature of the proof relied upon to establish their existence.[12] The charge must generally be made to the court in which the attorney practices, although in some states it may be exhibited to a judge out of court, if the attorney has notice and is properly cited to appear.[13] A judge should decline to sit in a case involving personal animosity between himself and the attorney,[14] and it has been held that a change of venue, or a trial before a judge pro tem., will be granted an attorney in proceedings to disbar him, where it is shown that the regular judge entertains a prejudice against him.[15] But the mere fact that a judge is a member of a bar association does not disqualify him to sit in disbarment proceedings instituted by such association.[16]

---

[4] Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1226.

The rule that an attorney cannot be disbarred for an offense for which he has been pardoned, is confined to those cases where disbarment is a part of the penalty for the offense, and the courts have no inherent power to disbar except for a conviction of the offense. Nelson v. Com. 128 Ky. 779, 109 S. W. 337, 16 L.R.A.(N.S.) 272.

[5] People ex rel. Bar Asso. v. Burton, 39 Colo. 164, 88 P. 1063, 121 Am. St. Rep. 165.

[6] People ex rel. Healy v. Macauley, 230 Ill. 208, 82 N. E. 612, 120 Am. St. Rep. 287; People ex rel. Deneen v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737, 69 L.R.A. 701.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892; 17 Ann. Cas. 599.

The power to disbar on such grounds has been held to have been properly exercised in the case of an attorney guilty of offenses committed in other states in pursuance of a scheme to defraud a person wrongfully held as a prisoner under state laws for fighting a duel in another state, for acting in concert with negroes in a foreign country in an attack upon white people, etc. Annotation: 17 Ann. Cas. 599.

[7] Annotation: 17 Ann. Cas. 600.

[8] Annotation: 17 Ann. Cas. 601.

[9] Re Kerl, 32 Idaho, 737, 188 P. 40, 8 A.L.R. 1259; Re Minner, 133 Kan. 789, 3 P. (2d) 473, 79 A.L.R. 35; Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.

Annotation: 79 A.L.R. 38.

The legislature may provide that the conviction of an attorney in any jurisdiction of a felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, whether his acts are so designated by local laws or not, shall be sufficient cause for revoking his license. Re Kerl, 32 Idaho, 737, 188 P. 40, 8 A.L.R. 1259.

[10] Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592.

[11] Randall v. Brigham, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 523, 19 L. ed. 285.

[12] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569.

[13] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 860; 5 Ann. Cas. 992.

[14] Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

[15] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 860; 95 Am. Dec. 343.

§ 287. Nature of Proceeding.—The action of a court in exercising its power to declare a forfeiture of the privilege or franchise of an attorney is judicial in character, but the inquiry made is in the nature of an investigation by the court into the conduct of one of its own officers, and is not the trial of an action or suit, the order entered being but an exercise of the disciplinary jurisdiction which a court has over its officers.[17] It is quite generally held that the proceeding is not a criminal proceeding, but is a proceeding civil in its nature,[18] and is governed by the rules applicable to all civil actions.[19] Some courts, however, regard disbarment proceedings as being criminal or at least quasi criminal,[20] and hold that provisions of statutes for disbarment of attorneys are penal in their nature and to be strictly construed.[21] Still others hold that the proceeding is neither a civil action nor a criminal proceeding, but rather, is a proceeding sui generis.[1]

§ 288. Time within Which Proceedings Must Be Instituted.—The ordinary statutes of limitation have no application to disbarment proceedings,[2] nor does the circumstance that the facts set up as a ground for disbarment constitute a crime, prosecution for which in a criminal proceeding is barred by limitations, affect the disbarment proceeding,[3] except where conviction of the crime for which the revocation of the attorney's license is asked is a necessary prerequisite.[4] However, proceedings instituted after a great lapse of time from the commission of the act complained of are regarded with disfavor,[5] and the court may refuse to hear an application to disbar that has been unreasonably delayed.[6] In some jurisdictions express statutory provision is made as to the time within which disbarment or suspension proceedings must be instituted.[7] Such a limitation may be made even though the inherent power of the court to disbar cannot be defeated by legislative action.[8] Such statutes are usually given a prospective construction and take effect and become operative on the date of their passage.[9] Such a statute does not, however, bar a proceeding based upon an act of misconduct which set into operation a force which was still continuing at the time the proceeding was brought.[10]

---

[16] Ex parte State Bar Asso. 92 Ala. 113, 8 So. 768, 12 L.R.A. 134; Bar Asso. v. Casey, 211 Mass. 187, 97 N. E. 751, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1226.

Annotation: 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116; Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1229.

[17] Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539.

A disbarment proceeding is in the interest of the public, and not primarily in the interest of the legal profession. Hyatt v. Hamilton County, 121 Iowa, 292, 96 N. W. 855, 63 L.R.A. 614, 100 Am. St. Rep. 354.

Such proceedings involve no private interest save that of the attorney and afford no redress for private grievance, but are undertaken and prosecuted solely for the public welfare. Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[18] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Randall v. Brigham, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 523, 19 L. ed. 285 (Massachusetts rule); Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; State v. McRae, 49 Fla. 389, 38 So. 605, 6 Ann. Cas. 580; Keithley v. Stevens, 238 Ill. 199, 87 N. E. 375, 128 Am. St. Rep. 120; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Re Craven, 178 La. 372, 151 So. 625, 90 A.L.R. 973; Re Thresher, 33 Mont. 441, 84 P. 876, 114 Am. St. Rep. 834, 8 Ann. Cas. 845; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218; Re Biggers, 24 Okla. 842, 104 P. 1083, 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 622; Re Morrison, 43 S. D. 185, 178 N. W. 732, citing R. C. L.; Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794, 53 L.R.A. 952; State v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 821, 17 Ann. Cas. 625; Hall v. Eary, 114 W. Va. 82, 170 S. E. 904, citing R. C. L.

[19] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156.

[20] Middlebrook v. State, 43 Conn. 257, 21 Am. Rep. 650; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 2 Am. St. Rep. 848.

[21] Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 335.

[1] State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

A proceeding before a state bar board, under a statute providing that the highest court, after charges are brought to its attention, may, in its discretion, refer them to the board for investigation and, after the board reports back, direct proceedings in disbarment to be instituted, is not public in its nature. McCurdy v. Hughes, 63 N. D. 435, 248 N. W. 512, 87 A.L.R. 683.

[2] State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218; Re Egan, 36 S. D. 228, 154 N. W. 521, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1111; 11 L.R.A. (N.S.) 557, s. L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[3] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1111; 11 L.R.A. (N.S.) 557, s. L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[4] Annotation: 11 L.R.A.(N.S.) 558, s. L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

§ 289. Notice and Opportunity to Be Heard.—Except where the matters constituting the ground of its action occur in open court in the presence of its judges, the power of the court to disbar or suspend an attorney should not be exercised without notice to the offending party of the grounds of complaint against him and without a hearing affording him ample opportunity of explanation and defense.[11] Some courts hold that the attorney should be heard even where the offense was committed in open court.[12] Thus, it has been held that when an attorney at law, charged with a criminal contempt of court, is tried upon such charge and found guilty, the court has no authority to suspend or disbar him from practice as a punishment for the contempt, as the accused must first be accorded a trial under the safeguards governing disbarment proceedings.[13] On the other hand, it is held that an attorney is not unconstitutionally deprived of his rights by striking his name from the roll, without further hearing, upon his conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, since he had his day in court when he was put on trial for the crime;[14] particularly is the attorney not entitled to notice by citation or other process when the record of conviction is, by statute, made conclusive evidence against him.[15]

Usually when a proper case is presented by charges made against the attorney,[16] the court will grant a rule to show cause why the attorney's name should not be struck from the roll, which rule is served and returned,[17] and the case heard and determined.[18] In some instances a rule to show cause or a summons to answer may be a sufficient commencement of the proceeding.[19] It is not ordinarily regular to grant a rule to show cause why an attorney should not be stricken from the roll without an affidavit charging the facts against him, and proper service thereof; if, however, the alleged wrongful act is done in the actual presence and knowledge of the judge, he may proceed of his own motion to grant a rule to show cause.[20] Where personal service cannot be had, as in the case of an attorney residing outside the state, jurisdiction in disbarment proceedings may be obtained by substituted or constructive service.[1]

---

[5] Annotation: L.R.A.1915D, 1218; 2 Am. St. Rep. 860.

[6] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1111; 2 Am. St. Rep. 860.

[7] Re Cherry, 166 Minn. 448, 208 N. W. 197, 45 A.L.R. 1108.

Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1111.

[8] Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1112.

The suggestion in State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218, that a limitation upon the time for instituting suit would infringe the inherent power of the court to disbar has been repudiated by a later decision. Annotation: 45 A.L.R. 1112.

[9] Re Mosher, 24 Okla. 61, 102 P. 705, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 530, 20 Ann. Cas. 209 (one year after commission of act charged).

Annotation: L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[10] Re Cherry, 166 Minn. 448, 208 N. W. 197, 45 A.L.R. 1108.

[11] Ex parte Robinson, 19 Wall. (U. S.) 513, note, 22 L. ed. 205; Bradley v. Fisher, 13 Wall. (U. S.) 335, 20 L. ed. 646; Randall v. Brigham, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 523, 19 L. ed. 285; Ex parte Bradley, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 364, 19 L. ed. 214; Ex parte Garland, 4 Wall. (U. S.) 333, 18 L. ed. 366; People v. Turner, 1 Cal. 143, 52 Am. Dec. 295; State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679; Warren v. Connolly, 165 Mich. 274, 130 N. W. 637, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 314; Re Hahn, 85 N. J. Eq. 510, 96 A. 589, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 830; People ex rel. Karlin v. Culkin, 248 N. Y. 465, 162 N. E. 487, 60 A.L.R. 851; Re Eldridge, 82 N. Y. 161, 37 Am. Rep. 558; State v. Root, 5 N. D. 487, 67 N. W. 590, 57 Am. St. Rep. 568; Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637; Re Davies, 93 Pa. 121, 39 Am. Rep. 729; State ex rel. Lewis County Bar Asso. v. Willis, 95 Wash. 251, 163 P. 737, citing R. C. L.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214, 2 Am. St. Rep. 859.

Special notice to an attorney is not necessary before the rendition of a judgment disbarring him. Star Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[12] Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214.

[13] People ex rel. Beattie v. Kavanagh, 220 Ill. 49, 77 N. E. 107, 110 Am. St. Rep. 223; State v. Root, 5 N. D. 487, 67 N. W. 590, 57 Am. St. Rep. 568.

[14] Re Collins, 188 Cal. 701, 206 P. 990, 32 A.L.R. 1062.

[15] Re Sutton, 50 Mont. 88, 145 P. 6, Ann Cas. 1917A, 1223.

§ 290. In Whose Name and by Whom Proceeding Instituted.—Generally speaking, disbarment proceedings may be instituted by any person or persons interested—as, for instance, by a client injured by the attorney's act,[2] by the commonwealth's attorney,[3] by a bar association or its committee,[4] or by attorneys not constituting such committee.[5] It also is the right and duty of the court, upon its own initiative, to institute proceedings for the suspension or disbarment of an attorney when it appears that the attorney is unworthy to continue as an officer of the court,[6] or the court may direct some member of the bar to present and prosecute the charges.[7] Disbarment is not an adversary proceeding in the strict sense; there is no party plaintiff with a private interest.[8] The person who has called the court's attention to alleged misconduct is in no sense a party[9] or a moral sponsor of the same who is responsible for costs if any are cast.[10]

---

[16] See infra, § 291.

[17] State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314; Bar Asso. v. Casey, 211 Mass. 187, 97 N. E. 751, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1226; Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 2 Am. St. Rep. 858.

[18] State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314.

[19] Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[20] Bar Asso. v. Casey, 211 Mass. 187, 97 N. E. 751, 39 L.R.A.(N.S.) 116, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 1226; Ex parte Steinman, 95 Pa. 220, 40 Am. Rep. 637. And see State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984; Warren v. Connolly, 165 Mich. 274, 130 N. W. 637, 33 L.R.A.(N.S.) 314.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 859.

[1] Re Craven, 178 La. 372, 151 So. 625, 90 A.L.R. 973.

Annotation: 90 A.L.R. 979.

[2] Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413.

Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 414.

A statute providing for the appointment of a grievance committee, among whose duties is the presentation to the court of charges against attorneys, does not preclude provision by the court for presentment of such charges by other persons. State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

Failure of the court to order the filing of charges for disbarment is not available to the accused after the court has taken jurisdiction and tried the case. Star Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[3] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413.

Animosity on the part of a state's attorney toward another attorney does not render him incompetent to present charges against him for his disbarment. State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

A proceeding to disbar an attorney because he has collected money for clients which he has refused, upon demand, to pay over may be instituted by the commonwealth's attorney in the name of the commonwealth, although a statute permits him to be disbarred for the cause specified upon application of the person whose money is withheld. Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413. Annotation: 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 414.

If the state's attorney acts, he does not appear as a prosecuting officer, his duty being only to do what others might do in calling the attention of the court to the alleged misconduct, thereafter conforming to the behests of the court. State v. Peck. 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

The Attorney General may properly appear in a proceeding to test the right of a corporation to engage in the practice of law. Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 N. Y. 479, 92 N. E. 15, 32 L.R.A.(N.S.) 55, 139 Am. St. Rep. 839, 19 Ann. Cas. 879.

[4] Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.

Annotation: 73 A.L.R. 1336; 19 L.R.A. (N.S.) 419.

[5] Fairfield County Bar v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767.

Annotation: 17 Ann. Cas. 697.

Attorneys preferring charges against another attorney for the purpose of having him disbarred need not show that they constitute a committee appointed by the bar association of the county for that purpose, either to establish their right to institute the proceeding or to give the court jurisdiction. Fairfield County Bar v. Taylor, 60 Conn. 11, 22 A. 441, 13 L.R.A. 767.

Disbarment proceedings may be entitled in the name of the state, the people, or the commonwealth;[11] but it has been held that an order for an attorney at law to show cause why he should not be disbarred is not a process within the meaning of a constitutional provision requiring process to be in the name of the state.[12]

§ 291. Charges.—The usual practice in proceedings in state courts to disbar an attorney is to make written charges or allegations of misconduct,[13] verified by affidavit,[14] although verification is not always required[15] or may be waived.[16] No indictment or information[17] or formal or technical allegations or descriptions of the alleged offense are necessary.[18] The charges made should, however, be clear, specific and circumstantial.[19] The specific offense charged, the insulting words used, or the disrespectful acts done should be set out so that the attorney may be aware of the precise nature of the accusation he is to meet and may know how to defend.[20] In the Federal courts it is not even necessary that the charges against the attorney be written. All that is requisite is that when proceedings are not taken for matters occurring in open court in the presence of the judges, notice should be given to the attorney of the charges made and opportunity afforded him for explanation and defense.[1]

---

[6] State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.
Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214.

[7] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.
In such case, the order directing the drawing up of the accusation need not recite the facts upon which the accusation is founded, and the prosecution, in preparing the accusation, may include any matter deemed appropriate; it is not limited to what the court may have in mind in directing that proceedings be commenced. Brown v. Warren County, 156 Iowa, 20, 135 N. W. 4, 42 L.R.A.(N.S.) 527, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 185; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.

[8] Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[9] State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

[10] State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.
Persons who institute proceedings to disbar an attorney are entitled to their costs as against him in case the proceeding is successful. Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.

[11] Com. v. Roe, 129 Ky. 650, 112 S. W. 683, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 413.
Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 859.

[12] Re Kirby, 10 S. D. 322, 73 N. W. 92, 39 L.R.A. 856, rehearing in 10 S. D. 414, 73 N. W. 907, 39 L.R.A. 859.
Disbarment proceedings are not formal, and the prosecution may be conducted in the name of the state by its prosecuting officer, or the court may require a member of the bar to present and prosecute the charges. Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156.

[13] State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679; Re Davies, 93 Pa. 116, 39 Am. Rep. 729.

[14] Ex parte Burr, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 529, 6 L. ed. 152; State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314.
Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 858.
The sufficiency of the verification must be determined by an inspection of it, and evidence cannot be taken for the purpose of showing that the affiant had no personal knowledge as to the charges. State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[15] In disbarment proceedings instituted by the state bar commission by the order and direction of the Supreme Court, no verification of the specification of charges is necessary under § 267, Comp. Laws 1909 of Oklahoma. State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[16] This requirement is waived by the attorney where the proceedings are instituted at his request. Ex parte Burr, 9 Wheat. (U. S.) 529, 6 L. ed. 152.

[17] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; Snyder's Case, 301 Pa. 276, 152 A. 33, 76 A.L.R. 666.

[18] Randall v. Brigham, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 523, 19 L. ed. 285; State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[19] Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; State ex rel. Fowler v. Finley, 30 Fla. 325, 11 So. 674, 18 L.R.A. 401.
The sufficiency of the complaint must be determined upon examination of the complaint as a whole. State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

§ 292. Demurrer or Answer and Subsequent Pleadings. — The attorney against whom disbarment proceedings are instituted may test the sufficiency of the accusation against him by motion or demurrer and may thereafter answer,[2] but there are no subsequent pleadings. A reply or replication to the answer to the rule to show cause is unknown to such proceeding. Upon the coming in of such answer, the motion of the movant is to make the rule absolute, that of the respondent to discharge the rule, and the introduction of testimony is proper without a replication.[3] The fact that the accused in disbarment proceedings makes a sworn denial of the accusation does not entitle him to have the proceedings dismissed, leaving him to meet a prosecution for perjury; it merely raises an issue for the determination of the court.[4]

§ 293. Evidence — Presumptions. — Generally, the ordinary rules of evidence[5] apply in disbarment proceedings; the accused is entitled to a trial upon evidence taken according to the established rules of law.[6]

In a proceeding for the disbarment or suspension of an attorney, under the general rule, the attorney is presumed to be innocent[7] and to have performed his duty as an officer of the court in accordance with his oath,[8] although there is some authority to the contrary.[9]

§ 294. —Admissibility of Evidence.—The general rules which govern the admissibility of evidence in other judicial proceedings[10] control in the determination of the admissibility of evidence offered in support of disputed questons in disbarment proceedings.[11] The attorney may give evidence which

---

[20] Ex parte Bradley, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 364, 19 L. ed. 214; State v. Finley, 30 Fla. 325, 11 So. 674, 18 L.R.A. 401; State v. Kirke, 12 Fla. 278, 95 Am. Dec. 314; People v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 859; 138 Am. St. Rep. 243.

A complaint is sufficient if it is intelligible and informing enough to advise the court of the matters complained of, so that it can determine whether or not to institute an inquiry, and to inform the attorney of the accusations so as to enable him to prepare a defense. State v. Peck, 88 Conn. 447, 91 A. 274, L.R.A.1915A, 663, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 227.

[1] Randall v. Brigham, 7 Wall. (U. S.) 523, 19 L. ed. 285.

[2] State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.

[3] Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 342.

[4] State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.

[5] See Evidence [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 847].

[6] People v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239.

Where the evidence in disbarment proceedings is taken down in shorthand, certified by the judge and the reporter, filed with the clerk, and transcribed pursuant to an order duly entered, and the transcript is also filed with the clerk, there is a sufficient compliance with a statute requiring all the evidence to be reduced to writing, filed and preserved. State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.

[7] Re Reily, 75 Okla. 192, 183 P. 728, 7 A.L.R. 89.

Annotation: 7 A.L.R. 93.

[8] Re Reily, 75 Okla. 192, 183 P. 728, 7 A.L.R. 89.

[9] Annotation: 7 A.L.R. 95.

[10] See Evidence [Also 10 R. C. L. p. 847].

[11] People v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239; Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679 (holding that a statute forbidding the exclusion as hearsay evidence of declarations made by a deceased person of his own personal knowledge and in good faith before the commencement of the action applies to a disbarment proceeding); Re Eldridge, 82 N. Y. 161, 37 Am. Rep. 558; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 138 Am. St. Rep. 243.

On the question whether or not an attorney attempted to mislead the court in making an affidavit that his client was under quarantine for the purpose of securing an extension of time to file a supersedeas bond, evidence that the house was tends to show his previous good reputation, not in order to justify or excuse the offense, but to support his evidence in denial of the charge and to mitigate the gravity and consequences of the offense.[12] It has been held, however, that the judgment of acquittal in a prosecution for perjury in giving false testimony in a specified case is not admissible in a proceeding to disbar an attorney for the same act.[13]

§ 295. —Weight and Sufficiency.—There is some difference of opinion as to the amount of proof necessary to sustain the charges in disbarment proceedings. The rule, as stated in some jurisdictions, is that a clear preponderance of the evidence is necessary.[14] Other courts require that the guilt of the attorney be clearly and satisfactorily established,[15] or that the evidence in support of the charges satisfy the court to a reasonable certainty that the charges are true and warrant a judgment of disbarment.[16] But proof beyond a reasonable doubt, as in criminal cases, is not required.[17] In some jurisdictions the record of an attorney's conviction of a crime, at least where the offense involves moral turpitude, is made conclusive evidence thereof, so that the production of such record establishes his guilt in the disbarment proceedings and his unfitness to continue the practice of law,[18] even though such conviction is not made an independent ground for disbarment,[19] although the court may go behind the record for the purpose of determining the extent or severity of the punishment to be administered.[20] In other jurisdictions it is held that where conviction of a crime is not made by statute an independent ground for disbarment, a showing of an unreversed conviction of a crime in a disbarment proceeding only prima facie establishes the guilt of the convicted attorney and his unfitness to continue in the legal profession.[1] The United States Supreme Court has regarded the findings of a state court in disbarment proceedings establishing the want of professional character as conclusive, unless, from an intrinsic consideration of the state record, it appears, that the state procedure, from want of notice or opportunity to be heard, was wanting in due process, that there was such an infirmity of proof as to facts as to give rise to a clear conviction that the conclusion of the state court cannot be accepted as final, or that some other grave reason exists leading to the conclusion that to follow the decision of watched is immaterial if the client was at large and in communication with his attorney. Re Vaughan, 189 Cal. 491, 209 P. 353, 24 A.L.R. 858.

---

[12] Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132.

[13] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[14] Re Reily, 75 Okla. 192, 183 P. 728, 7 A.L.R. 89; Re Sherin, 27 S. D. 232, 130 N. W. 761, 40 L.R.A.(N.S.) 801, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 446.

Not only the act charged, but the bad or fraudulent motive, must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699.

[15] People v. Baker, 311 Ill. 66, 142 N. E. 554, 31 A.L.R. 737; Re Evans, 22 Utah, 366, 62 P. 913, 53 L.R.A. 952, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

[16] Re Reily, 75 Okla. 192, 183 P. 728, 7 A.L.R. 89.

[17] Star Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A. 1915D, 1218.

[18] Re Collins, 188 Cal. 701, 206 P. 990, 32 A.L.R. 1062; Re Kerl, 32 Idaho, 737, 188 P. 40, 8 A.L.R. 1259; Re Ebbs, 150 N. C. 44, 63 S. E. 190, 19 L.R.A.(N.S.) 892, 17 Ann. Cas. 592; Ex parte Mason, 29 Or. 18, 43 P. 651, 54 Am. St. Rep. 772.

Annotation: 21 Ann. Cas. 1190.

[19] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; People ex rel. Deneen v. Gilmore, 214 Ill. 569, 73 N. E. 737, 69 L.R.A. 701; Re Sutton, 50 Mont. 88, 145 P. 6, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1223.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 1198.

[20] Ex parte Mason, 29 Or. 18, 43 P. 651, 54 Am. St. Rep. 772.

[1] People ex rel. Bar. Asso. v. Burton, 39 Colo. 164, 88 P. 1063, 121 Am. St. Rep. 165 (so holding, in effect, although expressly reserving decision on the particular point); State v. O'Leary, 207 Wis. 297, 241 N. W. 621, 81 A.L.R. 1193.

Annotation: 81 A.L.R. 1196.

the state court would conflict with the duty not to disbar unless necessary under the principles of right and justice.[2]

§ 296. Trial or Hearing.—In many jurisdictions there are special statutory provisions regulating the trial in disbarment proceedings which, of course, must be observed. In general, however, the hearing of an application for the disbarment of an attorney, being judicial, must be governed by the same rules as those which govern other trials of questions of fact.[3] Formal proceedings may, however, be waived by the attorney;[4] and where he has had due notice of the proceedings for his disbarment, appears therein, and neither makes any objection to the mode of procedure nor asks for any other, he cannot object on appeal that it was not the one he had a right to demand.[5]

It has been held that he is not to be tried upon affidavits, but is entitled to confront the witnesses and subject them to cross-examination and to invoke the other well-settled rules of evidence.[6] In some jurisdictions, however, where disbarment proceedings are deemed to be civil, and not criminal, in their nature, it is held that the accused does not have a constitutional right to be confronted by the witnesses against him and that depositions against him may therefore be read in evidence.[7]

It has been held that a proceeding to disbar an attorney is not criminal within the contemplation of the constitutional provision that one shall not be required to give evidence against himself; the attorney may be called and examined for the information of the court so long as his right to refuse to answer questions tending to incriminate him is not infringed.[8] For this reason an attorney at law who has been legally called upon to give testimony or produce evidence tending to establish that he received a bribe is not granted immunity from disbarment therefor by a constitutional provision that "no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may so testify, or produce evidence."[9]

In the trial of a proceeding for disbarment by the court, the judge, being the arbiter of both the law and the facts, should not delegate the taking of evidence therein to a master, commissioner, or anyone else, but should personally hear the evidence of the witnesses for and against the accused, so that in lending or withholding credence to it, he may be governed by the same rules and reasons that influence juries when sitting as triers of facts, such as an observance of the manners and deportment of the witnesses.[10] In some jurisdictions, however, the court has authority to appoint a referee or committee to take the evidence for and against the attorney and make recommendations to the court as to the appropriate action to be taken.[11]

[2] Selling v. Radford, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. ed. 585, 37 S. Ct. 377, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 569.

[3] People ex rel. Chicago Bar Asso. v. Amos, 246 Ill. 299, 92 N. E. 857, 138 Am. St. Rep. 239; Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.
Annotation: 138 Am. St. Rep. 243.

[4] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 859.

[5] Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 342.

[6] Lenihan v. Com. 165 Ky. 93, 176 S. W. 948, L.R.A.1917B, 1132; Re Eldridge, 82 N. Y. 161, 37 Am. Rep. 558. And see Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539.
Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 13 L.R.A. 767.

[7] State v. McRae, 49 Fla. 389, 38 So. 605, 6 Ann. Cas. 580; State v. Mosher, 128 Iowa, 82, 103 N. W. 105, 5 Ann. Cas. 984.
Annotation: 6 Ann. Cas. 582.

[8] Re Vaughan, 189 Cal. 491, 209 P. 353, 24 A.L.R. 858.
Annotation: 24 A.L.R. 863.

[9] Re Biggers, 24 Okla. 842, 104 P. 1083, 25 L.R.A.(N.S.) 622.

[10] State v. Finley, 30 Fla. 325, 11 So. 674, 18 L.R.A. 401.

[11] A commissioner appointed to take and report proofs in a proceeding to disbar an attorney has no authority to permit the filing of amended counts in the information to make them correspond with the proof.

§ 297. —Right to Jury Trial.—In the absence of statutory provision, it is the usual practice for the judge or judges of a court to dispose of disbarment or suspension proceedings against an attorney, and it seems well settled that the attorney is not entitled to a jury trial.[12] Sometimes, the right to jury trial is precluded by express statutory provisions for the trial of all questions of fact by the court,[13] the constitutionality of which is beyond question.[14] In some jurisdictions it has been held that an attorney against whom disbarment proceedings have been instituted may demand that the issues raised be tried by a jury,[15] and express provisions to this effect are sometimes made by statute,[16] the constitutionality of which has been upheld.[17] Under such a statute, the jury's verdict is not merely advisory, but has the same effect in settling issues of fact as a verdict in a civil action at law.[18] Under such statutes, however, where the evidence adduced is uncontroverted, an accused attorney is deprived of no right of which he can complain where the case is tried by the court without a jury.[19]

In those jurisdictions where disbarment proceedings are considered as civil in their nature, the court has the power to direct the return of a specific verdict, even if a jury has been impaneled to try the charge made against the attorney, in the event the evidence adduced upon such trial is uncontroverted.[20]

§ 298. —Continuance.—The granting of a continuance in a disbarment proceeding is governed by the general rules governing applications for continuances in other judicial proceedings.[1] An attorney is entitled to an adjournment or continuance to obtain an affidavit out of the county or the testimony of a material and necessary witness out of the county.[2] Such a proceeding will not be continued, however, because of the possibility of material witnesses, who are charged with a criminal offense, claiming their

---

People ex rel. Black v. Smith, 290 Ill. 241, 124 N. E. 807, 9 A.L.R. 183.

In some jurisdictions the board of bar governors or examiners has the power, after careful and thorough examination of the facts, to recommend disbarment or suspension, which action may then be taken only by the highest court in the state. Goldstone v. State Bar, 214 Cal. 490, 6 P. (2d) 513, 80 A.L.R. 701.

A referee in a disbarment proceeding is an officer of the court, and the court has full authority to supervise and control his report by setting it aside or confirming or modifying it as the facts and the law require. Re Reily, 75 Okla. 192, 183 P. 728, 7 A.L.R. 89.

[12] Ex parte Wall, 107 U. S. 265, 27 L. ed. 552, 2 S. Ct. 569; Re Wharton, 114 Cal. 367, 46 P. 172, 55 Am. St. Rep. 72; Gould v. State, 99 Fla. 662, 127 So. 309, 69 A.L.R. 699; State v. McRae, 49 Fla. 389, 38 So. 605, 6 Ann. Cas. 580; Ex parte Cashin, 128 Miss. 224, 90 So. 850, citing R. C. L.; Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497; State v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 821, 17 Ann. Cas. 625; State Law Examiners v. Phelan, 43 Wyo. 481, 5 P. (2d) 263, 78 A.L.R. 1317.

Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1162.

In Balogh v. Jackson, 272 Pa. 482, 116 A. 377, 22 A.L.R. 1497, it was held that an attorney accused of withholding money from his client was not entitled to a jury trial in a proceeding to disbar him for withholding it, unless there was an honest dispute between the attorney and his client as to the amount due for fees.

[13] State Bar Commission ex rel. Williams v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

[14] Re Wharton, 114 Cal. 367, 46 P. 172, 55 Am. St. Rep. 72; State Bar Commission v. Sullivan, 35 Okla. 745, 131 P. 703, L.R.A.1915D, 1218.

Annotation: 44 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1196.

[15] Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 342. See also 78 A.L.R. 1324.

[16] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156; State Law Examiners v. Phelan, 43 Wyo. 481, 5 P. (2d) 263, 78 A.L.R. 1317.

[17] State ex rel. Mackintosh v. Rossman, 53 Wash. 1, 101 P. 357, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 821; State Law Examiners v. Phelan, 43 Wyo. 481, 5 P. (2d) 263, 78 A.L.R. 1317.

Annotation: 78 A.L.R. 1323.

[18] State Law Examiners v. Phelan, 43 Wyo. 481, 5 P. (2d) 263, 78 A.L.R. 1317.

[19] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156. And see Neel v. State, 9 Ark. 259, 50 Am. Dec. 209.

[20] Wernimont v. State, 101 Ark. 210, 142 S. W. 194, Ann. Cas. 1913D, 1156.

[1] See CONTINUANCES [Also 6 R. C. L. p. 542].

[2] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 860; 95 Am. Dec. 342.

privilege and refusing to testify,[3] or because of the inability of the accused to participate in it on account of illness, without proof of that fact to the full satisfaction of the court.[4]

§ 299. Judgment and Enforcement Thereof.—Where the charges preferred against an attorney in disbarment proceedings are sustained, a judgment of disbarment or suspension must be entered specifying the particular charges upon which the attorney's guilt was pronounced;[5] and if this is not done, another court will not disbar an attorney upon an affidavit merely stating that he was disbarred in the original court, without stating the cause thereof.[6] If an order of disbarment is made, it is a final judgment, subject to all statutes and rules touching that subject.[7] Such a judgment is an adjudication that material charges in the information against him were established by truthful evidence, and so long as it stands he cannot recover for an alleged conspiracy to bring about the entry of the judgment.[8] Nor can a judgment striking an attorney from the rolls be impeached in a collateral proceeding.[9]

Members of the bar who are under suspension will be required to comply with the terms of the decree suspending them in such a manner that there may be no ground for suspicion on the part of other members of the bar or of the public that the decrees of the court are not being exactly observed in their letter and their spirit. A failure so to act will be a cause for further punishment.[10] For disobedience to a judgment of suspension or disbarment by holding himself out as entitled to or continuing to practice law—as, for instance, by any advice given to clients or action taken for them in matters connected with the law—an attorney may be punished as for contempt of court,[11] but in such case the court, in fixing his punishment, will consider his disclaimer of any intended disobedience of the order of disbarment.[12]

§ 300. Review.—In most jurisdictions an appeal is now allowed from a judgment disbarring or suspending an attorney.[13] Such an appeal is governed by the general rules of appellate practice discussed elsewhere in this work.[14] If, for example, the evidence lends support to the findings of the court, such findings will not be disturbed upon appeal, even though that evidence is conflicting.[15] Moreover, it has been said that the character and purpose of the inquiry are such that unless it clearly appears that the attorney's rights have in some substantial way been denied him, the reviewing court will not set aside the action of the disbarring court.[16]

In some jurisdictions a writ of review will lie to review an order suspending an attorney from practice where it appears that the order was made without notice to the attorney and where he had no opportunity to make a defense.

---

[3] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[4] Ibid.

[5] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 860; 95 Am. Dec. 342.

[6] Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 342.

[7] Re Keenan, 287 Mass. 577, 192 N. E. 65, 96 A.L.R. 679.

[8] Keithley v. Stevens, 238 Ill. 199, 87 N. E. 375, 128 Am. St. Rep. 120.

[9] Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 860.

[10] Re Lizotte, 32 R. I. 386, 79 A. 960, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 794.

[11] State v. Marron, 22 N. M. 632, 167 P. 9, L.R.A.1918B, 217; Re Lizotte, 32 R. I. 386, 79 A. 960, 35 L.R.A.(N.S.) 794; Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 658.

[12] State v. Marron, 22 N. M. 632, 167 P. 9, L.R.A.1918B, 217; Re Duncan, 83 S. C. 186, 65 S. E. 210, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 750, 18 Ann. Cas. 657.

Annotation: 18 Ann. Cas. 658.

[13] See Appeal and Error, Vol. 2, p. 917.

[14] See Appeal and Error, Vols. 2, 3.

[15] Re Wharton, 114 Cal. 367, 46 P. 172, 55 Am. St. Rep. 72; Re Wilson, 79 Kan. 674, 100 P. 635, 21 L.R.A.(N.S.) 517, 17 Ann. Cas. 690.

[16] Re Durant, 80 Conn. 140, 67 A. 497, 10 Ann. Cas. 539.

In others it has been held that a writ of prohibition may issue to prevent an order being entered in a lower court disbarring an attorney where it appears that such court has no power so to disbar him.[17]

Under proper circumstances mandamus may be an appropriate remedy to restore a disbarred attorney who has been wrongfully removed.[18] No action lies against the judge for damages, however, unless he had no jurisdiction in the matter.[19]

D. REINSTATEMENT OF ATTORNEY

§ 301. Generally.—The disbarment of an attorney is not necessarily a permanent disability; he may afterwards be reinstated on proper application or petition for that purpose,[20] addressed to the court by which he was disbarred,[1] usually by motion and on a proper showing.[2] Whether or not the applicant shall be reinstated rests to a great extent in the sound discretion of the court.[3] The court action will depend, generally speaking, on whether or not it decides that the public interest in the orderly and impartial administration of justice will be conserved by the applicant's participation therein in the capacity of an attorney and counselor at law.[4] The applicant must, like a candidate for admission to the bar, satisfy the court that he is a person of good moral character—a fit and proper person to practice law.[5] The court will take into consideration the applicant's character and standing prior to the disbarment, the nature and character of the charge for which he was disbarred, his conduct subsequent to the disbarment, and the time that has elapsed between the disbarment and the application for reinstatement.[6] The mere discovery of new evidence in a disbarment proceeding is no ground for granting a petition for reinstatement of a disbarred attorney.[7]

A disbarred attorney cannot be reinstated by special act of the legislature;[8] nor will a pardon of itself restore the right to practice to an attorney who has been disbarred by reason of a conviction.[9]

---

[17] Annotation: 10 Ann. Cas. 546.

[18] See MANDAMUS.

[19] See JUDGES.

[20] Re Davies, 93 Pa. 122, 39 Am. Rep. 729.
Annotation: 19 L. ed. 214; 2 Am. St. Rep. 861.

[1] Annotation: 48 A.L.R. 1243; Ann. Cas. 1912A, 813.

[2] Re Thatcher, 83 Ohio St. 246, 93 N. E. 895, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 810.
Annotation: 2 Am. St. Rep. 861.

[3] Re Daugherty, 103 W. Va. 7, 136 S. E. 402, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 95 Am. Dec. 344.

[4] Re Mills, 23 Haw. 224, citing R. C. L.; Re Thatcher, 83 Ohio St. 246, 93 N. E. 895, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 810.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 813.

[5] Re O'Connell, 199 Cal. 538, 250 P. 390. 48 A.L.R. 1232; Re Thatcher, 83 Ohio St. 246, 93 N. E. 895, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 810; Re Bruener, 178 Wash. 165, 34 P. (2d) 437, citing R. C. L.; Re Daugherty, 103 W. Va. 7, 136 S. E. 402, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: 48 A.L.R. 1239, 1243.

[6] Re Bruener, 178 Wash. 165, 34 P. (2d) 437, citing R. C. L.
Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1912A, 814.

A disbarred attorney will not be reinstated upon testimony of himself and others that he now possesses good moral character, where he continues to hold the same views upon the subject of his disbarment that he did when disbarred. Re O'Connell, 199 Cal. 538, 250 P. 390, 48 A.L.R. 1232.

[7] Re O'Brien, 95 Vt. 167, 113 A. 527, 14 A.L.R. 859.

[8] Annotation: 48 A.L.R. 1243.

[9] Annotation: 47 A.L.R. 543; 48 A.L.R. 1243.

ATTORNMENT

See Landlord and Tenant.

ATTRACTIVE NUISANCES

See Negligence.

AUCTIONS

I. INTRODUCTORY.
II. LICENSING AND REGULATION OF AUCTIONEERS.
III. AUTHORITY AND AGENCY OF AUCTIONEER.
IV. CONDUCT AND VALIDITY OF SALE.
V. STATUTE OF FRAUDS.
VI. EFFECT, OPERATION, AND ENFORCEMENT OF SALE.
VII. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF AUCTIONEER.

I. INTRODUCTORY.
§ 1. Scope of Article.
§ 2. Definition of Terms and Historical Summary.

II. LICENSING AND REGULATION OF AUCTIONEERS.
§ 3. Generally.
§ 4. Limitations upon Power to License and Regulate.
§ 5. —Amount of License Fee.
§ 6. Effect of Failure to Obtain License.
§ 7. Regulation Other than Requirement of License.

III. AUTHORITY AND AGENCY OF AUCTIONEER.
§ 8. Generally.
§ 9. Scope and Extent of Authority.
§ 10. —Power to Warrant.
§ 11. Duration of Agency; Right to Terminate.
§ 12. Delegation of Authority.
§ 13. Interest of Auctioneer in Purchase.

IV. CONDUCT AND VALIDITY OF SALE.
§ 14. The Advertisement.
§ 15. Terms and Conditions of Sale.
§ 16. —Conflict between Printed and Oral Conditions.
§ 17. The Bidding; Offer and Acceptance; Withdrawal of Property from Sale.
§ 18. Mode of Making Bids.
§ 19. Mode of Accepting Bids.
§ 20. Discretion of Auctioneer as to Acceptance of Bids.
§ 21. Who May Bid.
§ 22. By-bidding or Puffing—In General.
§ 23. —Legal Effect of Puffing; Majority Rule.
§ 24. —When Rule Inapplicable.
§ 25. —Minority Rule.
§ 26. Stifling of Competition.
§ 27. —Agreements Not to Bid.

V. STATUTE OF FRAUDS.
§ 28. Generally.
§ 29. Entire and Divisible Contracts.
§ 30. Authority of Auctioneer to Make Memorandum—In General.
§ 31. —When Memorandum Must Be Made; Termination of Auctioneer's Authority to Sign.
§ 32. —Qualifications of Rule as to Authority of Auctioneer.
§ 33. —Necessity that Auctioneer Have Written Authority to Sign Contract.
§ 34. Authority of Auctioneer's Clerk to Sign Memorandum.

V.—continued.
§ 35. Form and Contents of Memorandum.
§ 36. —Inclusion, by Reference, of Terms in Separate Writings.
§ 37. Evidence; Proof of Memorandum.

VI. EFFECT, OPERATION, AND ENFORCEMENT OF SALE.
§ 38. Deposit or Earnest Money.
§ 39. —Disposition upon Failure to Consummate Sale.
§ 40. Payment of Purchase Price; Vendor's Lien; Sale on Credit.
§ 41. Passing of Title.
§ 42. Delivery.
§ 43. Enforcing the Sale Generally.
§ 44. Suit by Auctioneer in Own Name.
§ 45. Resale of Property on Default of Buyer.
§ 46. Warranties; Claims Based on Defects in Property Sold.
§ 47. Rescission of Contract—By Vendor.
§ 48. —By Vendee.
§ 49. —Time within Which to Rescind; Return or Tender of Property.
§ 50. Damages.

VII. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF AUCTIONEER.
§ 51. Generally.
§ 52. Right to Compensation.
§ 53. Right to a Lien; Recovery of Compensation from Purchaser.
§ 54. Liability of Auctioneer Generally.
§ 55. Liability for Custody and Disbursement of Deposit Money.
§ 56. Liability to Seller.
§ 57. Liability to Buyer.
§ 58. —Effect of Failure to Disclose Principal.
§ 59. —Effect of Manner in Which Contract Is Signed.
§ 60. Liability to True Owner.

I. INTRODUCTORY

§ 1. Scope of Article.—This article deals with the conduct and validity of sales at auction, their effect, operation, and enforcement; the licensing and regulation of auctioneers; the auctioneer's authority, and his rights and liabilities. Other and related branches of the law, such as sales,[1] agency,[2] the statute of frauds,[3] the rights and liabilities of vendor and purchaser,[4] and the subject of liens,[5] are touched upon in so far as they bear directly upon auctions or auctioneers. While judicial sales are usually made at auction, the principles applicable to that subject have very little in common with those applicable to other sales at auction and are therefore treated elsewhere.[6]

§ 2. Definition of Terms and Historical Summary.—An auction, as usually defined, is a public sale of property to the highest bidder,[7] although there is a form of auction commonly known as a "Dutch auction" where the property is put up at a price greater than its value and the price is then gradually lowered until someone closes the sale by accepting the offer and thus becoming the purchaser.[8] The custom of selling goods at auction is as old as the law of sale.[9]

---

[1] See Sales [Also 24 R. C. L. p. 1].

[2] See Agency, Vol. 2, p. 1.

[3] See Statute of Frauds [Also 25 R. C. L. p. 422].

[4] See Vendor and Purchaser [Also 27 R. C. L. p. 297].

[5] See Liens [Also 17 R. C. L. p. 594].

[6] See Judicial Sales [Also 16 R. C. L. p. 1].

[7] Goshen v. Kern, 63 Ind. 468, 30 Am. Rep. 234; D'Arcy v. Rowley, 184 Mass. 550, 69 N. E. 325, 64 L.R.A. 190.

Annotation: 131 Am. St. Rep. 479.

Property may be sold at public auction to the highest bidder and for the maximum possible amount, although a like public auction under other conditions and at other times might bring a larger price. Pike v. State Bd. of Land Comrs. 19 Idaho, 268, 113 P. 447, Ann. Cas. 1912B, 1344.

The term "auction" ordinarily implies a sale made on the acceptance of an oral bid; the mere fact that the successful bid was submitted in writing, however, does not prevent the transaction from constituting an auction.[10] One who conducts an auction for another on commission or for recompense is termed an auctioneer [11] and is deemed primarily the agent of the seller of the goods, although for some purposes he is also deemed the agent of the purchaser.[12] One may act as auctioneer even though the goods disposed of are his own goods.[13]

II. LICENSING AND REGULATION OF AUCTIONEERS

§ 3. Generally.—The selling of property by auction is a lawful business,[14] and, in the absence of a statutory limitation, anyone may be an auctioneer, since an auctioneer's authority to conduct a particular sale is dependent solely on the nature and extent of the agency existing between him and the person for whom he purports to act.[15] However, the business is one that requires public supervision so that purchasers will not be imposed on or the owners of property sold at auction defrauded, and the state, in the exercise of its police power, may limit or qualify this right [16] by imposing reasonable regulations thereon.[17] Pursuant to this power, most states have enacted statutes requiring persons who exercise the business of auctioneer to have a license.[18] In many instances this power to regulate and license auctioneers has been delegated to municipalities, although in the absence of such a delegation of power municipalities do not ordinarily possess it.[19] A power given a municipality to license auctioneers includes the power to require the payment of a license fee from one who sells his own goods at auction.[20]

---

[8] Anderson v. Wisconsin C. R. Co. 107 Minn. 296, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1133, 120 N. W. 39, 131 Am. St. Rep. 462, 16 Ann. Cas. 379; Gulick v. Ward, 10 N. J. L. 87, 18 Am. Dec. 389.

Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 301; 131 Am. St. Rep. 480.

[9] Balesh v. Hot Springs, 173 Ark. 661, 293 S. W. 14, citing R. C. L.; Anderson v. Wisconsin C. R. Co., 107 Minn. 296, 120 N. W. 39, 20 L.R.A.(N.S.) 1133, 131 Am. St. Rep. 462, 16 Ann. Cas. 379.

[10] Tyree v. Williams, 3 Bibb. (Ky.) 365, 6 Am. Dec. 663.

[11] Thomas v. Kerr, 3 Bush (Ky.) 619, 96 Am. Dec. 262.

Annotation: 131 Am. St. Rep. 480.

[12] See infra, §§ 8 and 9.

[13] Chicago v. Ornstein, 323 Ill. 258, 154 N. E. 100, 52 A.L.R. 489; Goshen v. Kern, 63 Ind. 468, 30 Am. Rep. 234. The fact that an auctioneer who sells land belonging to a corporation is a stockholder and officer of the company does not invalidate the sale. Annotation: 131 Am. St. Rep. 483.

[14] Dornberg v. Spokane, 125 Wash. 72, 215 P. 518, 31 A.L.R. 295.

[15] Kennell v. Boyer, 144 Iowa, 303, 122 N. W. 941, 24 L.R.A.(N.S.) 488, Ann. Cas. 1912A, 1127.

The business of an auctioneer is one of common right. Miller v. Greenville, 134 S. C. 314, 132 S. E. 591, 46 A.L.R. 155.

[16] Chicago v. Ornstein, 323 Ill. 258, 154 N. E. 100, 52 A.L.R. 489; Minnesota v. Martin, 124 Minn. 498, 145 N. W. 383, 51 L.R.A.(N.S.) 40, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 812.

Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 299, s. 39 A.L.R. 773, 46 A.L.R. 157, and 52 A.L.R. 491; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 815.

The selling of property by auction is a business affected with a public interest and is subject to legislative restriction. Biddles v. Enright, 239 N. Y. 354, 146 N. E. 625, 39 A.L.R. 766.

[17] Biddles v. Enright, 239 N. Y. 354, 146 N. E. 625, 39 A.L.R. 766.

[18] Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 299, s. 39 A.L.R. 773, 46 A.L.R. 157, and 52 A.L.R. 491; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 815.

Statutes and ordinances of this character are designed not only for the purpose of raising revenue, but also to prevent the mischief arising from unlicensed auctioneers who facilitate the disposal of stolen goods. Girard v. Taggart, 5 Serg. & R. (Pa.) 19, 9 Am. Dec. 327.

Under an authority to license any "person," a corporation may be licensed as auctioneer. Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 305.

[19] Fowle v. Alexandria, 3 Pet. (U. S.) 398, 7 L. ed. 719; Miller v. Greenville, 134 S. C. 314, 132 S. E. 591, 46 A.L.R. 155.

Annotation: 31 A.L.R. 300, s. 39 A.L.R. 774, 46 A.L.R. 157, and 52 A.L.R. 491; Ann. Cas. 1915B, 815.

A statute authorizing a municipality to require a license for auctioneers selling goods, wares, merchandise, or effects does not authorize the requirement of a license from one selling lands at auction. Annotation: Ann. Cas. 1915B, 816.

§ 4. Limitations upon Power to License and Regulate.—Neither the state[1] nor a municipality under a delegated power from the state[2] can impose upon auctioneers regulations or license fees so unreasonable as actually to be prohibitive, or even oppressive and highly injurious to the business, although the fact that the state has issued a license to one as an auctioneer does not exempt such licensee from municipal taxation.[3]

A license regulation must not be discriminatory without reasonable ground.[4] Fees may be graduated according to the population of the places where the auctioneers do business,[5] and in some instances statutes providing that only voters resident in the county are eligible to be licensed as auctioneers have been sustained.[6] In other instances, however, discriminations in favor of residents as against nonresidents have been held unconstitutional and void.[7] Similarly, an ordinance which discriminates in favor of goods, wares, and merchandise in the city as against such as may be imported from other cities or places has been held invalid.[8]

A certain discretion may be conferred upon administrative officers in the granting of licenses to auctioneers,[9] and it is competent to confer authority upon the mayor or other officer to revoke a license for a violation of its terms[10] or upon the complaint under oath of any person defrauded after a hearing duly had, on notice to the licensee, in which the charge is fairly sustained.[11]

